Besides doing critical writing for the World and for Vanity Fair, he has covered the last four fights of Jack Dempsey for the World, and while waiting for the Dempsey-Gibbons fight in Montana last summer he discovered Patricia Salmon. Through his telegraph story she was given a part in the "Ziegfeld Follies."

Broun was with the American forces in France during the World war and was with Gen. J. J. Pershing at his visit to LaFayette's tomb. He is the author of several books, and his reviews are syndicated throughout the country.

CONCERT BAND GETS UNUSUAL INSTRUMENTS

Unusual instruments of types seldom used outside of the greatest concert bands of America and Europe are being constantly added to the university concert band by Major E. W. Morphy, conductor of the organization.

Recently three gluegel horns have been added to the brass section of the band. Those instruments are well-known and extensively used in Europe, but are rather rare in this country.

Alto and bass clarinets, which look like saxophones but have nothing of the quality of those instruments have been added to the reed section.

EDDY HITS LOW MORAL STANDARD IN UNIVERSITIES

Dishonesty Since War Has Caused Abandonment of Honor System

"Real character can not be built on shifting quicksands of dishonesty," Dr. G. Sherwood Eddy declared in speaking on 'The Place of the University,' in the Lathrop gymnasium Sunday afternoon in his fourth lecture of the all-university religious conference.

"Since the war many universities have had to abandon the honor system because there has been so much dishonesty in examinations. Gambling, cribbing, and cheating are learned in college, and it is a known fact that only one boy out of a hundred ever changes his moral life after college.

Plaids for High Morals

"Petting parties should be abolished. It is the girls on the campus who keep standards of the university high. The standards of your mother are not out of date. Every girl and every man has his place in keeping morals up.

"Sometimes it is the man who pays, but more often it is the woman and society that pay a high price for one man's folly.

Dr. Eddy declared that our own problems must be solved before we even can attempt to tackle the world's problems. A joke, a quiet game, a drink and a little fun often result in suicide he said.

Love Is Solution

"The great offensive of love is the only one which will solve the race problem, the industrial problem, and the war problem," Dr. Eddy said at the last meeting Sunday evening, speaking on the "Final Solution of Our Social Problems."

His call, Dr. Eddy declared, is a social challenge, a campus challenge, and a personal challenge. It is a personal challenge in that each one who goes out will make his own individual sacrifice, and do his own work toward solving the great problems which face the world.

Groups Organized

Opportunities for further discussions of the social and personal problems taken up by Dr. Eddy will be given through groups organized by the various religious organizations on the campus.

Group Discussion On Socialism Held By Y. M. C. A. Men

The first of a number of discussions on world problems as presented by Dr. Sherwood Eddy in his addresses here during the past week end will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. Fellowship room.

"Dr. Eddy's Socialism" is the specific topic that has been assigned for tonight's meeting. Arno Haack '25, will act as chairman of the meeting, and after introducing the subject he will open the discussion to all those present.

These Tuesday evening meetings are informal and are attended regularly by about 30 students, among them several foreign students.

Foreign Flashes

WASHINGTON—Sensational developments are expected when the special senate committee, appointed to investigate the activities of the department of justice and Attorney General Daugherty, begins to hold hearings the end of this week.

LONDON—Informal letters exchanged between Prime Minister MacDonald of England and Premier Poincare of France indicate that the two nations are trying to iron out their difficulties and present a united front toward Germany.

MEXICO CITY—President Obregon's troops are scouring some of the more remote portions of the republic in an effort to crush the last remnants of Huerta's rebel forces.

BADGERS CLIMB INTO SECOND PLACE BY VICTORY OVER OHIO

INDIANA AND IOWA WIN HARD GAMES

(Special to The Cardinal)

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 3—Indiana won her final basketball game of the year here tonight, defeating Michigan 31 to 20. The Crimson led throughout the forty minutes, with the exception of a five all tie in the first five minutes of play.

Logan, star forward, led Indiana's offensive with six goals. Spectacular playing by Michigan's guards, Kipke and Deng, often stopped Indiana's attack. Kipke played a stellar guarding game for the Wolverines with an injured leg.

The game was played before the largest crowd of the season, estimated at 5000.

(Special to The Cardinal)

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 3—For the second time this season, Iowa proved a stumbling block for the Purdue basketball five. Taking a 40 to 31 victory here tonight, Iowa led at the half 21 to 15.

In the second half the visitors continued to hold on to their margin and gradually increased their advantage until, with six minutes left of play, Iowa was ahead 38 to 21. Here the Boilermakers attempted to close the gap but could not get beyond 31, the Hawkeyes adding one more goal to their total making the final score 40 to 31.

Jensen and Janse displayed some uncanny shooting. These two men making seven and six baskets respectively. Gullion was high for Purdue with nine points.

By HARRY FAVILLE

Defeating Ohio's cagers 30 to 20 last night, Wisconsin's climbing quintet jumped to second place in the conference standing, with a single game separating it from the leaders, and sent the Buckeyes home from a disastrous road trip, beaten in their last game of the season.

The two teams waged a battle royal from start to finish, with the first surging from one end of the floor to the other, but Wisconsin's five men played rings around the Ohio two man team, composed of Cunningham and Miner, outfought, outplayed, and outshot them, and showed Coach Meanwell's game at its best.

Badgers Take Lead
The Badgers jumped into the lead almost with the start of the game, when Capt. Gibson and Farwell, who looked like a big leaguer throughout the battle, dropped in field goals in rapid succession. Both teams were speeded up to top pitch, anxious to secure a lead early in the game, but Wisconsin's floor work was fast and accurate, and her shooting deadly.

Miner counted on a free throw, followed in kind by "Kady" Farwell. Then Cunningham got loose under the basket and tipped in a field goal, making the count 5 to 3. Shaw knotted the count a moment

The others were placed on disciplinary probation, barring them from outside activities for varying periods and were required to earn from one to five extra credits for graduation.

Six were letters and science students; two were pharmacy students; one was a journalism student; and one was chemical engineering student. Three were freshmen; five were sophomores; two were juniors; and two were seniors. Six cribbing in exams; three plagiarized; one falsified data in an engineering report; one returned a dishonest reading report; and one forged a clinical excuse.

BADGER STAFF IS GIVEN BANQUET

Representative Men Will Address Gathering Tonight
Woman's Building

Pausing after eight months of work, and getting ready for the most strenuous month of all, the editorial and business staffs of the 1925 Badger will be entertained at a banquet to be given tonight by the Badger board at the Woman's building. The banquet will be at 6 o'clock.

A number of representative men have been secured to give short talks following the banquet. Each speaker will tell briefly how the 1925 Badger looks to the group he represents. Prof. E. Marion Johnson of the course in journalism and a faculty advisor of the Badger will act as toast master.

The following men have accepted invitations to speak: Frank Kuehl, executive secretary to Governor Blaine and business editor of the 1921 Badger will tell how the Badger looks to a former manager.

Herbert Knight, sales manager of the J. M. Bundcho Company, advertising typographers, Robert R. Maplesden of the Stafford engraving company, A. A. Lubersky of the D. J. Malloy company, who are making the Badger covers, Grant M. Hyde, professor in the course in journalism and faculty advisor to the Badger, and D. B. Cantwell of the Cantwell Printing company who are printing the book will tell how the 1925 Badger looks to their various groups.

Eight oil paintings, done as section heads for the Badger, will be on exhibition to the staff. A big surprise has been planned by Ellis Fulton '25, editor, and Willis Sullivan '25, business manager. It will be a Badger souvenir.

MINNESOTA Y. M. C. A. TEAMS IN WISCONSIN

For the purpose of "instilling ideals of right living in boys of high school age," the Minnesota Y. M. C. A. is undertaking to send gospel teams to a number of Wisconsin cities. The teams, which will be composed of Minnesota University men, are planning to visit Eau Claire and Durand, in Wisconsin, and Randolph and Howard Lake in Minnesota.

Science Hall is Home For Animals Used in Research

The labyrinthian white passages on the fourth floor of Science hall lead to many mysterious rooms, the most interesting of all being in the south east corner of the building. Here is found a large, straw-strewn room filled with squeaking, scuttling, hopping creatures. Cages, containing rabbits lazily nibbling at cabbage leaves and wriggling their noses in their own inimitable way, fill most of the room.

In several bins near the windows are tiny guinea pigs, eating, drinking or lying in the sun. A white mother rabbit in one bin looks on a little bewilderedly as her black children hop lightly about.

Huge Scrapbook To Be Compiled By Women Athletes

The Woman's Athletic association is making a huge scrapbook in which it will compile snapshots, newspaper clippings and all material of interest about its members since the beginning of the organization in 1906. It will be kept up-to-date each year.

The chairmen of the various committees who have charge of the scrapbook are Rena Grubb '26, Mabel Rugen '25, Jane Waltz '26, Elizabeth Gissel '24, Lucile Uhl '24, and Beatrice Marks '26.

The book will be divided into sections by years beginning with 1906. It will contain pictures of the teams as well as snapshots of individuals, press notices about the organization and its members and news of the activities of former members.

Members of the committee expect to have the book completed by the first week in April. It will be kept in the W. A. A. office in Lathrop hall.

The animals are fed well, kept in warm rooms, and live very contentedly. Some of the most interesting experiments have been made by Dr. Wells of Chicago on white rats. It has been found that rats have all the cancers human beings have. These rats are raised carefully, even more carefully than human beings, and die of old age. An autopsy is performed, and it is ascertained just what the cause of the death was.

Rabbits have the hereditary diseases which human beings are subject to. They are treated in much the same fashion. Great care is taken that no pain is inflicted upon the rabbit during an operation, and he receives the best of care afterward. They are shipped from St. Louis, and other parts of the country.

The noise of student activities on State street and Langdon does not reach up into that warm room. Soft thuds, little squeaks, faint sniffings, quivery sighs are the only sounds which tell of the tiny animals content with the creature comforts of warm beds and delicious foods.

later at 5 all, and the crowd went wild.

Playing like a demon, Farwell shot a beauty from the floor, and Wackman edged in another, throwing Wisconsin into a temporary four point lead. Miner was shooting from the middle of the floor at every chance and sank a long one. He was the fastest man on the court and dribbled around the Badger defense repeatedly, only to lose the ball or miss his shot.

Ohio Takes Lead

"Cooky" Cunningham, until recently conference scoring leader, added another field goal from the basket, again tying the score at 9 apiece. The crowd went into a frenzy when Shaw dropped in a free throw a minute later, putting Ohio into the lead for the first time, but Farwell sank two beauties from the floor, Diebold got another, and the Badgers weathered the storm in good shape.

"Doc" Meanwell yanked Diebold for instructions, but sent him back before play was resumed. Ken Elsom made a free throw, Miner made another of his sensational shots, and the half ended with Wisconsin leading 16 to 12.

Throughout the half Miner had been shooting at every opportunity, often from the center of the floor, but hard luck robbed him of possible counters, while Wisconsin's shots, especially Farwell's, went into the hoop as though they had eyes.

Badgers Increase Lead

At the start of the second half both teams tightened up considerably, but Wackman, playing by far the best game of his career, dropped in a difficult shot from the floor, closely followed by Ken Elsom.

The visitors tried their best to even the score, but the best they could do was a brace of free throws by Shaw and another by Cunningham. Wisconsin seemed at last to have found some basket shooters, for Farwell, Elsom and Wackman found the basket for field goals in short order.

Ken Elsom came close to one of his scoring sprees, for he made a number of good tries for counters, one of which counted. Cunningham added two field goals, but the margin was too great to be overcome.

Ohio Rally Fails

Thereafter the tide of battle ebbed and sank. Ohio tried a desperate rally, but was overcome and turned back short, while Wisconsin stalled enough to draw up the Buckeye defense and then dashed down the floor for tries at the basket.

There was no outstanding star on the Badger team, for each man played a bang up game and gave everything he had. Ohio relied on Cunningham and Miner to score and these two men were responsible for 15 of the Buckeyes' 20 points.

Wisconsin is now in a position to jump into a tie for first place. Chi-

Hitting the High
Spots with Ken

Last Saturday was a bad day for Wisconsin in the athletic world. But how about Monday?

It seems that the possibility of the crew going to Poughkeepsie this spring has added enthusiasm to rowing. The machines in the annex are kept squeaking all day.

Do you remember way back when the Wisconsin track team took the conference championship two years in succession, 1915 and 1916? Meade Burke and Arlie Mucks were stars in those days.

O. V. A.

Carleton Meyers, erstwhile Phi Beta, has joined the swimming squad. He took third place in the 220 yard swim at Indiana with less than a week's practice.

Passing Music hall the other night on the way to the basketball game just as the clock struck seven. Ahead a small pair of boys was hurrying in the same direction. Noting the striking of the clock one of them remarked, "Gee, just a half hour to sneak in before the game starts."

Signs of spring. One perfectly good postponed ski meet. Babe Ruth sick with the flu again just as the big league teams start for the south.

The Wisconsin baseball squad will journey through the sunny south during the spring vacation, to meet the Alabama and Mississippi college teams.

Considering that Ohio has been playing on such an enormous floor at home one would think that they would be apt to overshoot the basket here. The direct opposite was true.

Chicago leads with a percentage of .700, while the Badgers stand second with .666. If Wisconsin can win its remaining three games it will tie for first, while if Chicago loses a game Wisconsin will stand in undisputed possession of the title.

BADGERS PLACE
HIGH AT ILLINOIS
RELAY CARNIVAL

Hamann is Second in All Events; Wisconsin Third in 1 and 4 Mile Relays

With Bill Hamann taking second in the all events, and the one mile and four mile relay teams winning third places, Wisconsin's track team showed its strength at the Illinois relay carnival against competitors who broke one world's record and several carnival records.

In the pole vault Dean Bownell, Illinois, smashed the world record, made in 1922 by Dale Merrick, Wisconsin, with a jump of 12 feet 10 5/8 inches. Merrick's record was 12 feet 9 1/4 inches.

In the 75 yard dash Daniel Kinsey, Illinois, set a new carnival mark of 9 2-5 seconds, which ties the world's record made last year by Earl Thompson, Dartmouth.

In placing third in the one and four mile relays Wisconsin showed a well balanced team, and under more favorable circumstances perhaps could have edged up a little nearer the top. Coach Jones is not at all convinced that Wisconsin did not have as a good a four mile relay team as any at the meet.

In the 300 yard dash McAndrews showed his heels to most of the field but was nosed out at the tape by Evans, Illinois. The Badger dash had been counted on to win a place in the 75 yard dash but was disqualified after jumping the gun three times.

Muzzy, Wisconsin, took fourth in the broad jump, while Hubbard, Michigan, was breaking his last year's carnival record of 23 feet 11 3/4 inches with a jump of 24 feet 7 inches.

Both fast and poor fights made up yesterday's boxing program at the gym in which five more men skidded from the undefeated list. E. S. Church '27 and L. E. Bauer '27 won their second bouts. J. C. Springberg '27 won a well-fought contest from F. C. Quilty '25.

A four round slam bang bout between F. J. Emig '27, and S. R. Hendrickson '26, was won by the latter. Most of the hitting was done at long range with almost no infighting.

H. M. Aitken '26 and Voiker went four rounds to a draw. This is Aitken's second draw decision, his first coming after a fast battle with Derzavitz Thursday. Aitken started out strong. In the third round Voiker slowed him up with a crashing punch to the face. Voiker then opened up and finished in good style. Coach Ray Moore will match them for another fight.

Springberg outpointed Quilty in a fine exhibition of boxing. Both men are fast and have a good defense. Springberg seemed in better shape than his opponent.

Church gave R. H. Todd '27 a three round boxing lesson. Church's footwork and generalship was good. In another fight J. D. Walsh '26, stopped P. D. Rendig '27 in the first round of a one-sided affair. L. E. Bauer eliminated Ivan Branham in a slow bout.

"Hereafter the contests will start at 3:30 o'clock. Every man who has signed up must report ready for action," Moore said yesterday.

Last year's champions are working themselves into shape for the all-university fights to be held starting March 22. Landon Chapman, sturdy middleweight star, went through light exercises yesterday. Albert Martin '24 and Johnny Gillen '26 step a few rounds with the gloves every afternoon.

Tomorrow's contests are: Springberg and Purves, Minkow and Vogel, Walsh and Bauer, Engle and Stork, Vandenburg and Larson, Ledecker and Wetzel.

What is your Verdict?

When you have tried Williams Shaving Cream your verdict will be as favorable as is your verdict about the new Hinge-Cap. The heavier, faster-working Williams lather, the fact that Williams lubricates the skin, the fine condition of your face after the shave, these qualities make men stick to Williams as faithfully as the Hinge-Cap sticks to the tube. As regards the Hinge-Cap, here is an offer we make:

$250 in Prizes

For the best sentence of ten words or less on the value of the new Hinge-Cap, we offer the following prizes: 1st prize $100; 2nd prize $50; two 3rd prizes, $25 each; two 4th prizes, $10 each; six 5th prizes, $5 each. Any undergraduate or graduate student is eligible. If two or more persons submit identical slogans deemed worthy of prizes, the full amount of the prize will be awarded to each. Contest closes at midnight March 14, 1924. Winners will be announced as soon thereafter as possible. Submit any number of slogans but write on one side of paper only, putting name, address, college and class at top of each sheet. Address letters to Contest Editor, The J. B. DORMITORIES

The Board of Regents will meet today to discuss the possibility of men's dormitories. Let us hope that they will do more than just discuss the matter as a mere possibility. The university needs many things but few more than dormitories for men. Discussion of the matter has come up many times before but each time hopes for the needed buildings have fallen flat as the question was decided in the same old unprogressive way by putting it off until the next year.

It is a question that must be met; there is no possibility of forever evading it, for the need of dormitories is increasing every year. Hence the sooner the question is met, the better. The state of Wisconsin is not so utterly impoverished that it cannot afford to construct them nor are they too costly inasmuch as they will constitute a source of revenue to the state when once built. At the very worst, the proposition is only a sound business matter. Let us hope that some constructive action is taken at the meeting today in regard to this question.

SPECIALIZATION

A constantly growing characteristic of present day education is its specialization. In place of the institutions of broad, thorough education that existed in former times, there are now a dozen or a score of minor educational units grouped about a common center. The colleges and universities of today are rapidly becoming more and more institutions at which large numbers of exceedingly narrow, limited courses of instruction are offered to the individual. The students following these courses are gradually coming to have little or no conception of anything outside of their own narrow field. No attempt is made to give them a breadth of thought, a wide background of knowledge and a comprehensive perspective of life. The true purpose of an education is not being accomplished, for the student is not developed into a well-rounded individual, but is kept, instead, in a narrow groove with only a pin-point of a goal.

Instead of having a variety of interests, all energies are centered on one little thing. Thus the engineering students graduate from college without ever having studied a single thing outside of his own limited course save a few hours of freshman English. The medical student graduates and establishes himself as such and such a specialist without having had a bit of general practice.

Letters and Science students have no conception of who Steinmetz was; chemists think that the Divine Comedy is a movie; zoologists regard the Malthusian Law as one written on the statute books; and physicians have never heard of the Mendelian ratio. Such a system of education would be all right if the individual were nothing more than a single cog in the wheels of life, but since the individual is the unit of his own life, something more is necessary if he is to have a full appreciation of the values of life.

The benefits of an education are not to be had by knowing one little thing, be it known ever so well, but by having a comprehension of a variety of ideas. The mere fact that the development of civilization is synonymous with a constantly increasing physical interdependence does not necessitate that the individual's intellectual life be likewise hampered and narrowed. Likewise, the knowing of one thing well does not preclude the possibility of knowing many other things. Physical specialization may be more or less necessary but intellectual specialization is not by any means.

Shelley must have turned over in his grave when A. S. M. Hutchison decided to call his book "If Winter Comes" if the poet knew how that title was to desecrate the last verse of his ode. Modern manners are doing little to help appreciation of ancient art.

Alumni Get Impression of Birthday Celebration

EDITOR'S NOTE:

A letter including notes on the doings at Wisconsin is sent out to the alumni "now and then" by the Wisconsin Union. The following is an excerpt from the latest letter.

The brightest spot in the blaze of the success of Founders' Day was the monster student celebration at the stock pavilion. It was a thrilling, bewildering triumph which dazed those who had labored for it. Six thousand came, though there were seats for only five thousand. And at least three thousand were turned away. Ushered in by the roar of seventy-five guns, the blowing of whistles and the ringing of bells and concluding with the passing of a piece of birthday cake to the members of the great throng, enlivened by story and song and pageant, and the wit and humor of toastmaster Prexy which played like a kindly light around every feature of the program, welding and uniting the symbolism of each event into the Spirit of the Evening—this superlative birthday party was declared by all and sundry "The finest thing that ever happened at Wisconsin."

In estimating the importance of this success, bear in mind that there have been no all-university events for a long time, save athletic events. Students leaders and faculty declared that no occasion could fill the stock pavilion. Skepticism had been expressed even as to the possibility of getting five hundred students to a dinner.

But behold, we could have filled a ten thousand auditorium with students, faculty, alumni and friends could we have provided the space. This resulted from the work of a devoted committee of thirty students, working with the Union Board, all in one week's time, stirring the student body as it had not been stirred for perhaps two decades.

Do you see what we mean by the Union at Wisconsin? Do you see how a group of men can rouse a common spirit of devotion and enthusiasm, and can organize great events which will be a stimulus in the lives of ten thousand students in a year? Do you realize that every person in that huge gathering, and every one who heard of it, felt a fresh thrill and a realization that spirit at Wisconsin is not dead, but can be revived to animate every feature of class room and campus life?

Suppose we were a united army marching forward to the great things the speakers at this meeting forecast at Wisconsin in the next seventy-five years. What could we not accomplish? What can rally that army but student leaders working with a united student body inspiring the faint-hearted among the faculty with their young ardor?

The cause that holds these young leaders together today is the hope of the Union Building. Their service in organizing the program and collecting the crowd for Founders' Day was looked on by them as one step toward stirring the university community anew to a sense of the need for the Union building and to readiness to occupy and use that building, when erected, in the fullness of its function as the home of Wisconsin spirit.

Bear in mind that there is no direct connection between Founders' Day activities and the Memorial Union campaign. Both are parts of the university program to emphasize human relations; but Founders' Day meetings were organized by the university, and speakers were sent, SOLELY to help alumni have a glorious good time together. We do not want any general public campaign for the Union at this time, lest someone think that Founders' Day enthusiasm was generated to produce Memorial Union subscriptions. The contrary is the case; Memorial Union labors have paved the way for Founders' Day enthusiasm.

But with unobtrusive determination the remaining individuals in your town can not be approached successfully because of the reawakening of interest in the university caused by Founders' Day. We owe this to the university we love.

Communication

TO THE LITERARY SOCIETIES

Editor, The Cardinal:

It is my sincere desire to thank you for the splendid talks you gave on behalf of my country last Friday, February 29. It pleases me, not only because I understood how much you have done in research in the Czechoslovak history and present, but also because in your joint action I perceive the step of the American best students toward a sincere effort to become more acquainted with other countries and peoples. I extend my special thanks especially to Messrs. Frank Grover '25, Otto E. Messner '26 and William Olson '25, the speakers and to Mr. Katowitz, the chairman of Hesperia who, by his introduction, brought up the significance of the step taken by the literary societies on the Campus.

Yours friendly,
VACLAV STRELA '25
Hesperian.

ARE FORENSICS DOOMED?

Editor, The Cardinal:

Friday evening I attended what was advertised in the Cardinal as a joint meeting of the men's literary societies, held in Room 165 Bascom hall. Exactly 41 people attended including one rather elderly woman and myself.

Time was when a joint meeting of this kind would have been called treason by each of the societies. Today, the societies are unable to get enough men out to have debates in their separate meetings. They once had attendances of 40 or 45 men in each society. Today, for a joint program in which each society should have striven to have a good representation, a program, by the way, in which the major part of the time was taken up with a showing of slides rather than in a display of forensic ability, a bare forty men turned out.

The Memorial Union Building Committee has, I understand given a room each to the debating societies in the new "Home for Wisconsin Spirit". Organizations whose average attendance is less than twenty men, except perhaps at a time when the Badger picture is to be taken, organizations which have so few sophomores that in one society election of the Sophomore Semi-public debate team was unnecessary in that every sophomore has to debate in order to make up the six necessary men, organizations which have degenerated from the greatest power on the campus to mere membership clubs, in which, if one stays in long enough, he becomes an officer and gets a little publicity; such organizations are dead. They deserve places in a cemetery, not three rooms in a home for live spirit.

As a one-time member of one of these societies, I feel that this situation should be called to the attention of the University. Comment is, I suppose, unnecessary.

AN OLD SOCIETY MAN.

RECOIL, EXPLAIN

Editor, The Cardinal:

Recoil's The Greek Talks Turkey, has aroused my curiosity. In it he makes this statement: "Who are fighting all the time... to keep the very heart, the great hidden soul of the university, alive and active... it's the fraternity men every time," etc. Now I should like to know what the "heart" and "great hidden soul" of the university are, and just how the fraternity men keep it alive and active. Perhaps an explanation will teach the non-fraternity men how they, too, may help in keeping the "heart" and "soul" of the university alive, conceding that Recoil's charge against the non-frat men is true.

CURIOUS.

'MADE IN AMERICA' IS EDUCATION PLAN

20,000 Young People Organized Into Clubs By Extension Division

A new phase of university extension activity is found in the fostering of boys' and girls' clubs by the agricultural department.

"During the past ten or fifteen years, this work has spread over the entire country," Prof. T. L. Bewick, of the agricultural extension division, who is state leader of boys' and girls' clubs, who spoke before the Optimist club yesterday said.

"In Wisconsin alone there are more than 20,000 young people organized into clubs under the direction of the extension division. The purpose is to interest them in agriculture before they leave the country.

The work is known as the "Made in America," form of education. The boys and girl learn by doing actual work that brings them in real money.

"There are four points that must be observed," Professor Bewick said. "The work they do must deal with some real business operation that is carried on by the boys and girls. It must be educational. They believe in a good time while they are working and their final aim is to serve the community, either through the farm or the home," he said.

WOMEN MUST PASS
SWIMMING TESTS

Failure to Swim Pool's Length
Results in Incomplete,
Says Ruling

Failure on the part of sophomore women to swim once around the pool with any stroke in good form will result in an incomplete in gymnasium for the semester, according to a new ruling, which will go into effect after a meeting of the department of physical education.

If steps are not taken to pass off this incomplete in the first semester of the junior year, it will be changed to a failure.

"The requirement for all university women is two years of gymnasium and the passing of a swimming test," Mary Brownell, instructor in swimming said. "Sophomore women are sent no personal notices concerning this final requirement; they are expected to shoulder this responsibility themselves. Any class period is open to them for passing this test."

By J. E. W.

Certainly it's a period play (you can't escape 'em these days)—of that remote era when ladies blushed at stories a little off color. At any rate, that's what Marion Davies does in this picture of New York at the time when the Vanderbilts and the Brevoorts and the Astors were laying the foundations for their financial colossi, and a certain young gentleman known to his compeers as Robert Fulton was dickering around with a boat, a steam engine and a clumsy side-wheel.

It must have been a pleasant dose of local history to the denizens of fair Gotham when the picture had its premiere there. How they must have chuckled at the reproduction of the first fire-fighting apparatus, especially if the twentieth century's contribution to the genus were just dashing by amidst the clang of bells and the shriek of sirens!

But that is neither here nor there especially within the limits of this meagre review. The story isn't so important; it deals chiefly with a certain $1,000,000 inheritance, a missing heir, a pseudo-heir if the other one stays missing long enough and a right pretty girl does some masquerading in masculine clothes.

The charm of the play lies largely in that much abused attribute of the modern movie—atmosphere. In this particular case there is remarkable unity and evenness of tone, especially in so far as settings and costumes are concerned. The men are a little frilly and long-haired; the women dainty, paraded, bonneted and hoop-skirted. They ride about in picturesque but obviously uncomfortable carriages, drawn by prancing steeds.

California Co-eds Stage Annual Play

The co-eds at the University of California have an annual spring production in which some 250 girls take part and which is practically the entire work of the students. It resembles slightly our May festival except that it is on a more natural level. Parthenenia is the name of the organization of girl players and it was founded in 1912.

Each year a masque is written by some girl student and put on in Faculty glade before an audience of several thousand. The theme of the masque varies from year to year, but always treats of some aspect of the transition from girlhood into womanhood. Greek, Italian, Elizabethan, Oriental and early Californian backgrounds have been employed.

This year's Parthenenia "The Merry Masque of May", which is to be given April 16 and 17, will differ from the former masques in that it will employ pantomime to convey the action of the plot rather than relying on spoken parts.

"NO MORE WOMEN"
Presented at the Majestic
Featuring Matt Moore and Madge Bellamy.

An Elmer Harris Production
Directed by Lloyd Ingraham.

By MAC

"What chanst has a guy got when a woman goes after him?" queries one of the interested bystanders whereupon the picture goes on to show that he hasn't a chance on earth! We are far from being convinced as to the veracity of the statement—but we digress.

The picture is a comedy drama with the stress on comedy, and it is good. The plot is one of the man-who-hates-women (having been jilted by one, as is usually the case) and girl-who-convincing-him-there-are-exceptions types with a little melodrama thrown in in the form of two thugs who are after the lady's purse. Despite complications, they all live happily ever after as you've known they were going to from the beginning.

The photography is good; the cast well chosen; and no more than the usual number of inconsistencies in the action. Matt Moore is likeable as always, and Madge Bellamy plays her part prettily. Don, the dog takes the honors as far as acting goes; he registers intelligence from start to finish.

This must be added—we had to overcome a strong prejudice for our hero because he was a geologist (we are probably prejudiced thusly because of our unappreciated efforts for that department last year); but as he did not go about saying "what formation is this?" we managed to enjoy the picture, and predict that you will.

AUTHOR VISITS MONASTERY
His wife and daughter on the Riviera, Channing Pollock has gone to a monastery at Krems, Austria, for a complete rest, after a most strenuous year for "The Fool" where he will remain until April. After leaving the monastery, Mr. Pollock will go to Vienna, then to Buda Pest, Berlin, again to Paris and London and then sail for home, arriving in New York the early part of May. He writes he is getting a great rest.

HISTORIC MOVIE MISREPRESENTS SCOTT'S STORY

"RICHARD THE LION HEARTED"

By SEED

Produced by Associated Authors.
Presented at the Madison.
Featuring Wallace Beery.

"Richard the Lion Hearted" is another of the historic plays which are being produced in such abundance now-a-days, and while it was a good production, it missed the mark set by "Scaramouche" and a good production, it missed the "Orphans of the Storm."

Wallace Beery played the same role of Richard that he created in "Robin Hood" with Douglas Fairbanks, and played it in the same mixture of crude humor and genial good naturedness. It is hard to give the man credit for a fine high nature when a majority of his scenes deal with crude shaving wit, and gluttonous eating. The cane sugar episode with his angry queen was especially poor.

The plot, which is derived from "The Talisman" of Sir Walter Scott, is developed in a confusing way. There is an over abundance of whacking fighting, in which it is hard to tell who, where and why.

The improbabilities were pronounced, but they were of the dramatic type which appealed to the youngsters who clapped and whistled vigorously when the luck went as it should, and as it would in broad every day daylight.

It represented the period well, and kept us interested throughout.

"PIPER MALONE" HAS GOOD SEA PICTURES

"PIED PIPER MALONE"

Written by Booth Tarkington.
Featuring Thomas Meighan.
Produced by Paramount
Presented at The Parkway.

By J. and M.

This is a different picture. Thomas Meighan as the Pied Piper appears in somewhat of a combination of "The Bachelor Daddy" and "Homeward Bound". Lois Wilson plays admirably well opposite him.

Jack Malone, played by Thomas Meighan, born and raised in a typical New England shipping town, is the only one of many sons to break away from the family bonds and follow the sea. His return after a long voyage is one that will impress everybody. He remains only to sail again, and on his next return after the loss of his ship, finds himself the victim of many false accusations from which it seems that he will be unable to extricate himself. Of course, a girl is implicated in the affair and Malone's successful redemption in her eyes is very interesting.

There is plenty of excitement mingled with a certain type of humor which comes only from the staid old type of New England townsfolk. If you like thrilling sea episodes, you should not miss the scenes of a ship in a typhoon off the Chinese coast. The photography and direction are both of the highest order.

Upstage Bits

By TORMENTOR

Well, folks, this column is just so much bunk anyway, so with this number of the Cardinal, Tormentor takes a two weeks vacation and leaves everything in the capable hands of Poo Bunk.

Certain university friends of the drama will be glad not to be tormented anymore, and certain others will be glad for the change in style.

But Tormentor and Zenobia, yes she's going along, will be back after two weeks with all the complete information on Chicago shows and university theatrical news in such places as Indianapolis, Peoria, Sheboygan and maybe Kenosha.

By the way, for approachability and general "niceness" the cast of the Ed Wynn show at the Parkway last week end was the best that's been here in a long while.

Frank Stone, the electrician, besides being good looking was much easier to talk to than most show men, and he carefully explained all his equipment and showed how he makes his effects.

Even Ed Wynn limbered up and jovially greeted Tormentor and the rest as they peered through the wings. And, of course, the girls were all chummy and gay.

Bill Purnell never looked better than when he was dolled up in his overalls ready to work "lights".

PARTNERS QUIT

Famous as those two characters in humorous fiction have become namely Abe and Mawruss, in the last six years or so, equally famous too, have become Barney Bernard and Alexander Carr for being the exponents of the humor of those now celebrated Yiddish personages. "Partners Again" may not be the last play that will illustrate the vicissitudes in the careers of the popular wholesalers in women's apparel and more recently their adventures while partners in the automobile business, but by the end of this season, at any rate, Messrs. Bernard and Carr will have ended exploiting the difficulties of partnership as made known in this comedy.

KRONOS HEADS MEDIOCRE BILL AT ORPHEUM

By ONE ON THE AISLE

Kronos, with his exhibition of strength, heads and makes good an otherwise mediocre bill at the Orpheum. Joe Christie comes second on the bill with his likeable nonsense.

Paul Patching

He plays on everything imaginable in his musical flower garden. A novelty act.

Christie and McDonald

He plays the piano well, recites nonsensical poetry, and otherwise makes the audience laugh. He made the act.

Fred C. Hagen and Co.

The time-worn plot of the mother-in-law with a somewhat new solution. Hagen was good.

Fairman and Fuhrman

They attempt some songs. The worst act on the bill.

Bobby Randall

Bobby has a clever line which, though bordering on the risque at times, wins him a lot of applause.

Kronos

He bends steel bars with very little effort. His strength and resistance against weight and pressure astounds the most skeptical. He is truly an iron master.

JACKSON OPENS WOMEN'S CONVENTION

National Conference Speaker Discusses Factors in Earning Power of Co-eds

"There are three factors in the power to earn," Miss Florence Jackson, director of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, Boston, said at the opening meeting of the all university women's vocational conference held yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Lathrop parlors.

"Knowing the job is essential," Miss Jackson said, "The second factor is skill and the last the gift of the people, which is knowing how to understand our associates."

Miss Jackson named among the qualities for leadership those of knowledge of the job, courage to take a chance, which she said predominated in men, action, and the ability to see the other side.

Miss Jackson met the women of Chadbourne and Barnard halls last night after dinner and discussed with them the opportunities in vocational fields for women.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in Lathrop parlors, Miss Eliza Butler, personnel director of the national board of Y. W. C. A. will speak on "Personnel Work." Miss Bascom will present the program which the advisory board of Y. W. C. A. has advised for girls who wish to fit themselves for personnel work.
