ST. PAT'S PARADE GIVES ANNUAL BURLESQUE SHOW

18 Prizes Are Awarded to Organizations, Houses, Individuals

St. Pat's parade, the annual burlesque of the engineers held yesterday afternoon took to ridicule its usual campus subjects. The brunt of the engineer's humor was born by the lawyers, as usual and the library. The Madison fire department, music hall, and the English department were the subjects of the most successful floats.

One of the most novel stunts of the parade was the fife and drum corps. The individual stunts added much to the comedy of the parade.

Pat Makes Speech

After the parade St. Pat made his annual address from the steps of the library, following which the Blarney stone was kissed by all the engineers.

The prizes were awarded as follows:

Student organizations, first, box of cigars from Morgans, A. I. Ch. E., second, carton of cigarettes from Campus restaurant, A. S. C. E., third, box of candy from Chocolate shop, A. I. E. E., fourth, merchandise at Karstens, A. S. M. E., fifth, socks from the Toggery shop, The Wisconsin Engineers.

The frosh float was awarded a box of candy from the Teckmeyer Candy company, and the fife and drum corps a box of cigars from Tiedemann's pharmacy. A gold Eversharp pencil for the best freshman individual stunt went to Zabrowsky.

"It will be the first meeting of the class this year and we want as many as possible of the seniors to attend," Frautschi said yesterday. "Plans are under way which will make the commencement next June better and more impressive than ever before."

P. A. D.'s Celebrate; Capture Banner of St. Pat Parade

The Phi Alpha Delta's were jubilant last night.

The plumbers returning from the Square yesterday halted in front of the P. A. D. house and proceeded to play their professional anthem. The P. A. D.'s rushed forth indignant at the insult.

A fierce melee ensued. Snowballs flew thick and fast and there could be seen the explosion of over-ripe eggs. When the smoke cleared, the lawyers returned victorious to their house bearing aloft the banner "The Oily Law Catches the Worm."

The banner has been placed aloft over the scene of the battle so that all, say the P. A. D.'s, may know that "None Are Above the Law."

OFFICERS ARREST 12 IN VICE RAIDS

Confiscated Three Gallons of Illicit Liquor in Five Hauls Last Night

In five vice raids last night, Madison police officers and Sheriff Julius Krug and deputies, arrested 12 women and 2 men and confiscated three gallons of illicit moonshine.

The police raided 788 W. Washington avenue late last night and arrested three women and two white men. Officers found a pint of moonshine, but they believed that more liquor had been destroyed before they could confiscate it. The arrested persons were taken to the Dane county jail. They will appear before Judge O. A. Stolen of the junior superior court Monday morning.

Mrs. Peterson, who kept the resort at 788 W. Washington avenue was arrested. A search of police records last night failed to reveal that she had been booked at the police station before.

Sheriff Krug and his deputies raided four houses totalling seven women and three gallons of illicit liquor. The places were 749 W. Washington avenue, Blue Bell park near West Point, and two places near the Black Bridge and Pink Pajamas, east of Madison on the Lake Monona road near the fair grounds.

Raids were conducted between 7 and 11 o'clock. The seven women were taken to the Dane county jail and will be arraigned in Judge Stolen's superior court Monday morning.

TOURNAMENT WILL STAY IN MADISON

Ninth Annual Meet Proves Marked Success; Board Satisfied

Passing the hopes of the most optimistic basketball fans, the ninth annual state basketball tournament came to a close last night having resulted in a pronounced financial success that will quell all rumors of transferring the event to another university, according to V. G. Barnes, chairman of the state interscholastic board of control.

"The board is highly pleased with the results of the tournament and since we were to judge the ability of Madison to support the affair in the future from the outcome of this series, we feel satisfied for a while, at least," was the statement made by chairman Barnes last night.

Directors of the tournament have interpreted the reaction of the students and Madison basketball fans as an indication that university and city will not permit the tournament to be taken away, as long as sufficient support is the only excuse offered by the state board. General chairman Clarke last night expressed his appreciation of students and Madison people in helping to make the event a success.

"If the city and the university could not support the tournament the state board would be perfectly justified in placing the event with a city and a college that could, and I am glad that Madison has proved definitely that it can give sufficient support if it wants to," declared Dr. Walter E. Meanwell, director of the championship series.

Team Play, Precise Shooting and Fighting Spirit Bring Fondy Victory

Fond du Lac swept Superior off the boards, 32 to 21, by almost insurmountable team play, precise shooting, and a fighting spirit that could not be denied, and took first place in the championship state basketball tourney last night.

The Fondy boys were in the game every minute and smothered the supposedly stronger Superior team with the fastest playing that has been shown on the floor during the tournament.

Superior entered the game a big favorite and counted at the start on a goal by Dorf. Two goals by Adams and a free throw by Johnson put the Fondy quintet into a lead which it never lost, but which was tied when Wicklund, Superior forward, was fouled under the basket as he was sinking a goal and made one of the two free throws.

Dew Outplays Gerneau

Wagner, aided by some pretty team play, tossed in a field goal. Gerneau, Superior center, was not up to his usual form and missed two free throws. The big boy could not get going and was smothered by Fond du Lac's close guarding.

Dew was playing rings around Gerneau and gave a pretty exhibition of what a center should do. He led his team with a coolness and headiness that could not fail to bring results, and was fast as lightning on the offense.

Dew dropped in a long shot from the center of the floor and was followed by two from Gerneau in short order from under the basket, which threw the score into a 9 to 9 tie. Johnson counted for Fondy, Adams tossed in another, Moser dribbled down the floor and unaided shot another goal, and Johnson rolled in a goal from the center of the floor, all in the space of two or three minutes.

Fondy Stops Rallies

Wicklund got loose and counted with a goal, and the half ended with Fond du Lac leading 17 to 11. Throughout the period Superior had been on the defensive. Fondy took 32 shots to 14 by Superior, and its team work was baffling the northerners.

At the start of the second half Wicklund dropped in a goal for Superior, followed by Johnson. Wicklund counted on a free throw, and Dew dribbled and pivoted his way around the entire Superior team for a goal.

From then on the battle raged back and forth, but Fondy stopped every rally short and started its own offensive drives with so much vigor that they netted points galore. Fond du Lac's play improved as the game progressed and at the gun they were going wild and running up the score on the bewildered Superior aggregation.

Adams' Plays Great

The playing of Dew, Fondy center, was one of the surprises of the evening. He had been rated second to Gerneau, but he outplayed the dusky boy in every department of

JUNIOR AND FROSH CO-EDS WIN TILTS

Third Year Basketeers Rally After First Half; Year- lings Best Seniors

Despite their desperate struggle for victory, sophomore hopes for a basketball championship were crushed when they were defeated by the juniors Friday night, 21 to 30. The frosh won from the seniors 46 to 18.

Both sides appeared to be equally matched; the heaviness and physical strength of the juniors could be offset by the lightness and swiftness of the frosh. A forward from each team, Simpson '25, captain, and Maytum '26, manager, were both off the floor because of injuries.

In the first half, the sophomores completely outplayed the juniors, who, dazed by the sudden burst of speed, were unable to find themselves. Neither side scored, however, until well into the middle of the first quarter. The score was at a tie at the quarter.

Graham '26 got the tip-off nearly every time. Ellis and Waltz '26, broke up the short interchange of passes between the forwards, Rugen and Williamson '25. By close guarding Waltz kept Williamson from making her spectacular one-arm shot, successful only on the run. The junior forwards overthrew while the sophomore forwards shot short. The half ended 11 to 12 for the frosh.

The juniors came back with a do-or-die spirit. Williamson made a free throw, tying the score. The quarter ended 16 to 24 in favor of the juniors.

The fourth quarter was characterized by lack of team work and consistent fouling. Competition was at its highest pitch. Final score, 30 to 21.

Line-up for '25: Williamson, Rugen, f. Troemel, c. Smith, s.c., Lallier, Robertson, g.

Line-up for '26: Bigelow, Jorris, f. Graham, c. Drews, s. c. Waltz, Ellis, g.

Schwarz, freshman, wrenched her knee in the first few minutes of play in the frosh-senior game. Winter, forward, who replaced her, did well in consistently feeding Butler who was high-scorer, making 18 field goals and two free throws, a total of 40 points.

Bilstad, senior jumping center, got the tip-off most of the time; but the bounced pass which she used to her forwards was broken up constantly by the freshmen guards, Hughes, Mead and Long.

Line-up for '24: Snow, Henry, Mortimer, f. Bilstad, c. Watson s.c. Marquis s.c. Mathis, Callsen, Hellbrandt, g.

Line-up for '27: Schwarz, Winter, Butler, f. Kruse, c. Sinclair s.c. Mead, Hughes, Long, g.

Splees Throws Shawler in Ex- citing Bout in 158 Pound Class

Some fast and interesting bouts featured the All-university wrestling tournament in the gym yesterday. A large crowd watched and the high school athletes were guests of the athletic department. The bouts decided the championships in the various classes. Gregor, varsity wrestler refereed the bouts.

One of the fastest bouts was in the 158 pound class when Splees threw Shawler in seven minutes. Splees is a freshman and will be a good addition to next years varsity. The 115 pounders also put up a good fight and Saunders got the decision because of a time advantage.

These bouts practically closed the season for the wrestlers, although the interclass meet is still to be held. The summaries of the bouts were as follows:

115 pound class—Saunders '27, decision over Elmer '27.

125 pound class—Haddorf '24, threw Bundy '27, with a body scissors in 1 minute and 15 seconds.

135 pound class—Duhr '27, decision over O'Laughlin '27.

145 pound class—Harrison '25, decision over Posephy '25.

158 pound class—Splees '27, threw Shawler '25, with a barlock and half-nelson in 7:20.

Soccer has become an inter-collegiate sport and plans are underway for the awarding of numerals and minor sport letters to members of the team.

Next fall a return game is scheduled with Minnesota and a game is also booked with the Milwaukee Athletic Association. Other games will be arranged later.

FREE THROW CONTESTS STARTING NEXT WEEK

Adams and Moser also played a great game for Fond du Lac and sank shots from every corner of the court, while Wagner and Johnson clung to the Superior forwards like leeches and stopped every rally short.

PLAYERS BANQUET, PICK STATE TEAM

Fond du Lac Gets Travelling
Trophy; Cups to Superior and Wauwatosa

The ninth annual high school basketball tournament came to an end last night with a banquet for players, officials and coaches at the Capitol cafe, at which time team awards were made, two all-state teams picked, and individual medals given to the men on the winning teams.

The first place cup and the Milwaukee Journal travelling trophy went to Fond du Lac, the second place cup to Superior, and the consolation to Wauwatosa.

Each of the men on these three teams received basketball watch charms of gold, silver and bronze, respectively, while the men on the first all-state team received gold medals.

The honorary selections made by the members of the varsity basketball squad are as follows:

FIRST TEAM

Miller, La Crosse, forward.
Dorf, Superior, forward.
Dew, Fond du Lac, center.
Wagner, Fond du Lac, guard.

SECOND TEAM

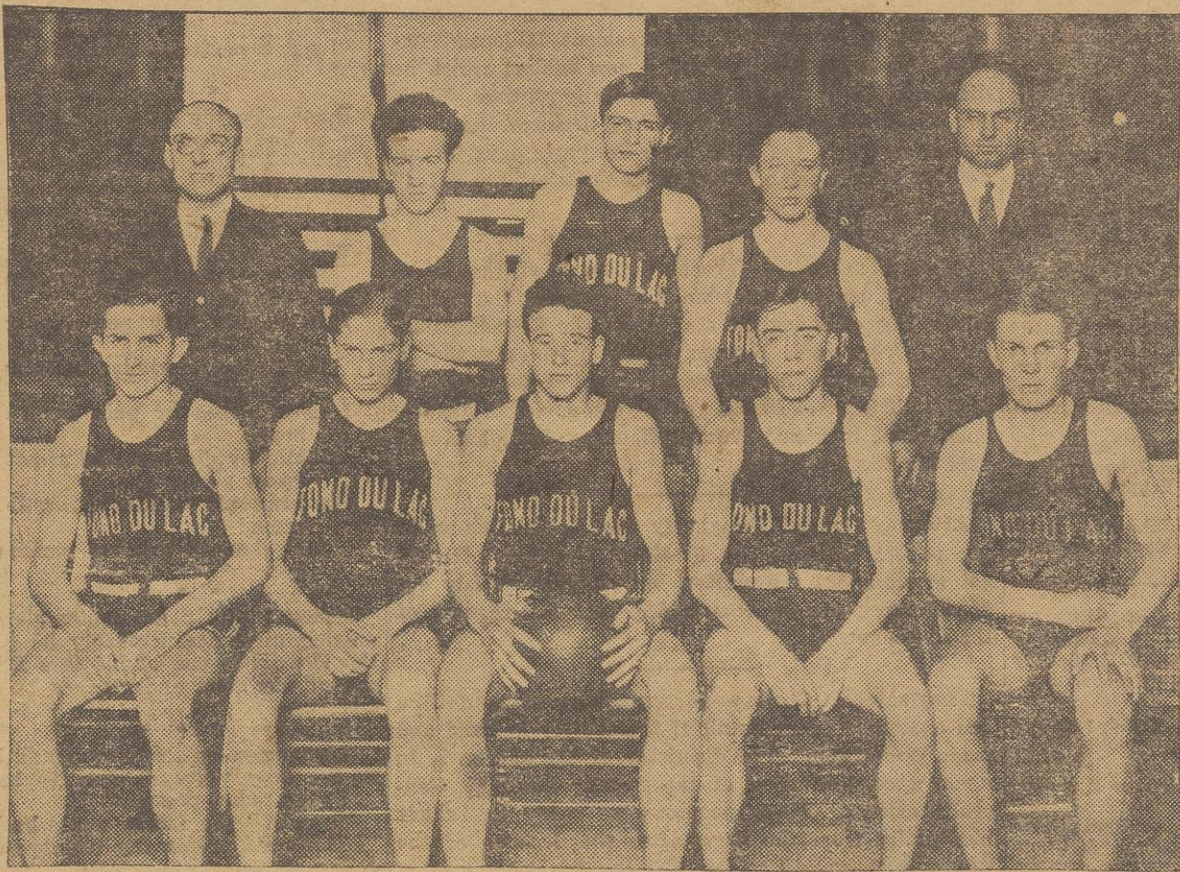

Courtney, Appleton, guard.
Adams, Fond du Lac, forward.
Folsam, Janesville, forward.
Gerneau, Superior, center.
Johnson, Fond du Lac, guard.
Dohls, Superior, guard.

Coach Meanwell was strongly opposed to giving a cup to the team exhibiting the best spirit of sportsmanship. He held that it would be almost impossible to make a fair selection from among the sixteen teams entered in the tournament.

Other speakers of the evening were Prof. C. D. Cool, Norman Clark, chairman of the basketball tournament committee, Prof. V. G. Barnes, chairman of the board of control of the tournament, Marshall Diebold, captain-elect of the 1925 varsity team, Fred Young, referee, T. E. Jones, director of athletics, Barney Trainor, assistant football coach, Coach T. Fruth, of the Fond du Lac team, and Billy Dew, captain of the Fond du Lac team.

PUTS WISCONSIN RAPIDS AT LOW END 22-3 SCORE

Short Pass Attack Bewildering; Losers Fail to Make Field Goal

Wauwatosa defeated Wisconsin Rapids 22 to 3 and won the final game of the consolation series in the state high school basketball tourney at the armory here last night.

Wauwatosa's short pass attack could not be checked by the Wisconsin Rapids quintet and Curtiss and Wigdale were able to work the ball under the net for short tries time and again.

The strong defense of the victors held Wisconsin Rapids without a field goal during the entire game.

Wauwatosa Uses Subs

Shortly after the game began Kleberg, Wisconsin Rapids right forward, fouled and Wigdale, Wauwatosa's right forward counted two points on free throws. Knaack, Wauwatosa's center, and Curtiss made baskets in quick succession, giving Wauwatosa a total of 13 points at the end of the first half, while Laramie, Wisconsin Rapids left guard, made the only point for Wisconsin Rapids on his free throw.

With victory almost assured Wauwatosa sent in substitutes for the regulars. Baskets by Millard, Eggert, and a basket and a free throw by Curtiss totalled 22 points for Wauwatosa.

Curtiss, left forward, and Wigdale, right forward, played a brilliant game for the winners. Their fast floor work and accurate basket shooting aided the Milwaukee county team in decisively defeating the northern quintet.

FOUR BOXING CHAMPS RETAIN CROWNS IN TOURNAMENT BOUTS

Chapman, Martin, Gillen Keep Records Clean; 800 Persons Watch Contest

Eight crowns rest securely on eight heads today as a result of the outcome of the all-university boxing tourney held yesterday afternoon, in which four champs from last year held their titles after fierce battling, and four others fought their way to belts not previously held by anyone now in the university.

Champion Ted Chapman kept his crown after three rounds of the most vicious fighting of the bouts, literally putting Albrecht out on his feet. Referee Joe Steinauer stopped the affair in the third round and saved Albrecht from being knocked cold.

The welterweight title remained with Champion Al Martin, who put on the most finished fight of the day with Lidicker. Martin had a decided edge for the first two rounds and had Lidicker groggy in the second round, but the boy came back in the third with everything he had and carried off the honors of the last round.

Herb Aitken put up a hard fight in the lightweight division but lost the decision by a slight shade to Champion Johnny Gillen. The bout looked like a draw but Gillen was a trifle more finished and the judges gave it to him on his ring generalship.

Muegga, after winning a wrestling match earlier in the day, came back and gave Bull Stipek a real battle in the heavyweight class. Neither one was in first class condition and both were groggy at the bell, but Stipek's heavy body punches and fast counters earlier in the fight gave him the decision.

The junior welterweights, Bower and Wetzel, fought to a three round draw, and it was only after another round that Bower earned a decision.

TO BANQUET CO-ED BASEBALL PLAYERS

April 2 a spread will be held for women indoor baseball players. At this time varsity baseball will be announced, and a game will be played between the varsity and the faculty.

Derzavitz won a decision from Springberg after they had fought a three round draw and had gone an extra round. The boys were as evenly matched as it was possible for them to be, and staged a desperate scrap for the title.

In the bantam class Emig scraped through with a decision over Church. Both were fast, clever fighters, but Emig's superior reach and height gave him a slight advantage.

Minkow earned a decision over Vogel in the featherweight class in the poorest bout of the day. The affair was slow and listless and neither had any great knowledge of boxing.

More than 800 spectators jammed into the gym to watch the bouts and cheer their favorites. Sportsmanship was much in evidence and the losers shared the cheering with the winners.

Summary:

Bantamweight—Emig won from Church, decision.

Featherweight—Minkow won from Vogel, decision.

Junior lightweight—Derzavitz won from Springberg, four rounds, decision.

Lightweight—Gillen won from Aitken, decision.

Junior welterweight—Bower won from Wetzel, four rounds, decision.

Welterweight—Martin won from Lidicker, decision.

Middleweight—Chapman won from Albrecht, knockout.

Heavyweight—Stipek won from Muegga, decision.

NO BREAK WITH CHICAGO--JONES

Future Engagements Assured
Between Badger and Maroon Football Men

Flat denial of a report recently published that Chicago and Wisconsin may break off athletic relations if the Maroons are not willing to make a home and home agreement on football games in the near future, was made by T. E. Jones, athletic director, to Coach A. A. Stagg of Chicago, made public here today.

There is absolutely no excuse for such a report," Director Jones said. "It not only is misleading but is not founded on facts. For nearly a quarter of a century Chicago and Wisconsin have met annually in every branch of athletics in which both institutions participate, and have always enjoyed the most friendly relations."

A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

The state high school basketball tournament has closed. Sixteen confident prep teams, covetous of a championship title, have met on the armory floor with inevitable results, disastrous for a few and encouraging for others, while one team has come through victorious.

From the standpoint of basketball the ninth annual series far outdid those of former years because the rivalry was keener, the interest was more wide-spread, the playing was cleaner and the general spirit was more sportsmanlike. But from the standpoint of the promoters of the tournament, both state athletic board and university officials, the success of the event was even more gratifying, for interest in the games boosted the ticket sales far above even the most optimistic estimate.

There is one conclusion that may be drawn from these results. Students of the university and the Madison high schools do not want the tournament to be taken away from Wisconsin, where it logically belongs, and they showed their interest by their support this week, making the event a financial success, since the future was dependent upon it.

It is to be hoped that the state board of control which, through its chairman, Volney G. Barnes, already has expressed gratification over the tourney's success, will look upon the action of university and city as a vote of confidence, so to speak, indicating the ability of Madison to support future championship games.

THE ENGINEERS' PARADE

The Engineers are to be congratulated upon their parade. The take-offs were many and clever. The only thing bad about it was the weather and even that did not prevent the fullest enjoyment of the humor expressed. It was far superior to the parades of former years and well worth the while of everybody who witnessed it.

I HATE CRABS

"I hate crabs," said the girl and she went on to explain herself. Sitting in front of the fireplace she told how a youth had taken her to a movie the night before and how much she had wanted to see that particular movie. She told how well it had lived up to her expectations, how she had "just loved it" from beginning to end. Then she went on to repeat her hate and say that the man had done nothing but "crab" her pet movie from beginning to end, how he had slammed the acting, lambasted the directing, slurred the photograph, criticized the sets. "He just naturally lit all over the picture. Crab! Great cats but he could crab. I was going to talk the thing up big to the girls at the house, but that gent just naturally took all the enthusiasm for the picture right out of me.

"Say, for the love of Pete, why doesn't some one put some wood on this fire? Br-r-r, this house is like a barn. I never saw such a bunch of lazy, good-for-nothings. In such low-down weather as this you'd think some one . . .," etc.

AROUND THE WORLD

A Digest of the Week's News

By WILLETT MAIN KEMPTON

Cabinet reorganization seems to be quite a popular sport. M. Poincare, premier of France, received a vote of "no confidence" from the French parliament and was forced to resign. President Millerand immediately asked him to form a new cabinet which he did as though it were a matter of daily routine. When completed Friday the new cabinet declared itself for the retention of the Ruhr until Germany pays in full and the fulfillment of Premier Poincare's "iron fisted" foreign policy.

Louis Loucheur, a fervent exponent of the inter-allied debt cancellation plan, and probably the richest of the French industrialists is now the French Minister of Commerce. Newspapers in Paris say that a strong cabinet is necessary if France is to reject the finding of General Dawes and his committee of experts upon which it is said Premier Ramsay MacDonald will base his foreign policy.

Attorney General Daugherty was handed his walking papers Thursday by President Coolidge. He did not argue about the matter, but resigned "solely out of deference and in compliance with the request of the President."

They say that Coolidge never makes a move until he has examined every detail of the matter in hand and made a decision. The dismissal of Daugherty is in itself a condemnation of the former Attorney General's actions. Many people were ready to believe him guilty from the first; after the decision of the President there will be few who can doubt his guilt.

China and Russia are having a dispute about their border lines. Unofficial reports from Japan state that the Russian army is mobilizing. Reports from Moscow say that the Red army has been reduced to the small figure of 1,400,000 men under arms which would mean that a body of men twice the size of the standing army of the United States had been laid off. It's hard to know what to believe these days.

Four American army planes left Santa Monica, California, Monday on a trip around the world. When the N. C. 4, American naval plane, started on its trans-Atlantic flight a plucky Englishman named Harry Hawker hopped off from Nova Scotia in an attempt to beat them across. History repeats itself; two days after the American army planes started on their trip, a lone Englishman left the shores of merrie England to try and win the honor for his country of being the first aviator to circle the globe. The next day an official British army plane left London for the same purpose. It promises to be more exciting than even Barney Google and Spark Plug's race.

Kaiser Wilhelm has opened suit against the Prussian government for the recovery of sixty estates, thirteen castles, and eleven forests, worth together some $100,000,000. He says he needs these to replenish his private fortunes and to maintain him in the style to which he has been accustomed to living. He is willing to give up the possession of thirty eight castles, opera houses, theaters and other crown possessions if he can obtain the former. What we say is, "Try and get 'em"

Two Americans were ordained with elaborate ceremonies in the Vatican at Rome as the first Cardinals of America this week. America is coming up in the world.

Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin and D. W. Griffith have signed an agreement uniting their activities for the next three years in an organization called the United Artists Corporation. They ought to produce some good films—we need them.

Dean Kent of Northwestern University notified David Wolin, who it is whispered was one of the thirty six who signed a paper notifying the world of their refusal to take up arms under any pretext whatever, of his failure to make satisfactory grades in two studies, and his subsequent dismissal from the University. Incidentally there is a moral to the story, as Wolin was neither a conservative or a "pink" but issued a manifesto stating that he would have been one of the original thirty-six had he been invited. Being neither fish, flesh, nor good red herring, he got it in the neck.

The Frosh get the worst of it in all the publicity on the dumb, so we have collected a few bright sayings of the upperclassmen for the edification and delectation of all.
"Throw me my law book from the porch down."

"When Henry VIII married Catherine he got a compensation from the Pope."
"Don't be foolish, I get easy mad."
"I got a perfect maniac for candy."

Dumb—Do you think he heard me say he had a face like jelly?
Belle—I think so. It seemed to set at once."

SPRING, MEBBE

Wus, ever wus, I swear by hoot,
My most exciting hopes are dashed.
I never wore my new spring suit
But madly, wildly, it was splashed.
I never roved by pale moon's beam
While my girl breathed a soft sweet sigh
But some old wandering beetle came
And charged into my pensive eye.

Henry Ford now contemplates making airplanes. Probably he got the idea when one of his cars flew out of his hand and perched on a tree.

A young co-ed wrote to her father for twenty-five dollars "to buy you a birthday present."
"Thanks," the father wrote back.
"I think I'd prefer the twenty-five dollars."

Biol—Have you read the new book "Half Hours With Insects?"
Ogee—No, but in the case of the mosquito, I am certain it is twenty-nine minutes too long.

IT HAPPENS

A pretty girl sat in a history class,
As tired as she could be
And she wished to herself with a little sigh,
"If he'd make a date with me."

The young man sat just across the aisle
From the girl with the pretty stare,
And he said to himself, "If I ask for a date,
I wonder if she would care."

And so it went throughout the term
And n'ther one of them knew

Just what the other was thinking of.
Did it ever happen to you?

Cloe—Do you care for Thackary?
Slow—Don't let Jack hear you. He's so jealous.

SODA SPEAK

According to the law of averages if you don't go up the hill your marks will come down.
The man who has the cleanest record in the school is the janitor. Yelling may be defined as the noise heard around Music hall accompanied by music.

One young man calls his sweetie Crystal because she is always on the watch.

Since we have been writing these Skyrockets, we have been wondering just what humor was, and now we have found out. It's "the eudemological pessimism which includes within itself a teleological evolutionary optimism, which may cause a realistic, radical and universal reconciliation to appear as possible." What oft was thought but ne'er so well expressed, but we ain't it.

AGAIN, THE WEATHER

I remember, I remember,
Ere my childhood flitted by,
It was cold then in December,
And was warmer in July.
In the winter there were freeze-ings—
In the summer there were thaws
But the weather isn't now at all
Like what it used to was.

Coo—I got a 90 in that exam.
Coo—Honestly?
1st Coo—Well, not entirely.

Femme Unc—What do you think of the Ouija board?
Femme Deux—I never ate there.

This week's Gold Bricks include the following:
The "life-of-the-party" who blows the foam off the soda.
The little self-advertiser who sends her own personals into the Proletarian.

She was a very erratic driver. He was nervous.
Said She—You didn't know I could drive a car, did you?
Said He—N-N-No, can you?

Cellar—I know you think I'm a perfect fool.
Light—Oh, not perfect.

The Reader's Say-So

ACCURACY AND FAIR PLAY
Editor, The Cardinal:

In the interest of accuracy and fair play allow me to both commend and correct the editorial on "Churches Fear Education." That title should be "Some Ministers and Some Congregations Fear Education." Not all ministers and not all of the congregations in any one communion fear education. It is to be regretted that the organized church has always appealed to youth as too conservative. It is perhaps to be regretted, also, that to all mature minds the rising generation has seemed radical. If our humanity itself has this ill-adjustment can we expect anything different on the part of institutions—even religious institutions?

Again, to say that the "Churches Fear Education" is to ignore the entire educational history of America. Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Chicago, Williams, Wesleyan, Syracuse, Boston, Oberlin, Clarke, Brown, Amherst and the rest of the older colleges and universities are all church schools. Furthermore the churches have initiated practically all of the popular educational movements excepting those of the past five decades including the Chautauqua Movement, the Freedman's Aid (negro education), Foreign Missions and the Vacation Day-School. In the case of Professor Ross and the Fundamentalists, it must be recalled that while 23 ministers in the Twin Cities opposed that appearance there were some 200 others who did not join them in that opposition.

Where are the great gifts for education coming from? Do they come from men who are out of the church or in the church? Notice a few of them: Pearson, Rockefeller, Causey, Mrs. Marshall Field, etc. During the past year Mr. Causey in Denver gave one and a half million to a Church College and Mrs. Field $3,000,000 to a Church University. It would seem fair therefore to state that the churches are not afraid of education but rather—some narrow churchmen entertain that fear.

Edward W. Blakeman

To The Editor:

I would like to commend The Cardinal on its editorial "Meeting War With War," which appeared in Tuesday's issue. It is at least encouraging to know that here and there a protest against the old philosophy breaks through. The editorial strikes at the fundamental problem. When we teach the school children that there always has been war and there always will be war, we may expect them to live up to the tradition. It is time we adopted a new philosophy and a broader type of patriotism. Teaching the youth of the nation that there is an enemy ever ready and waiting for an opportune moment in which to attack is a certain way to insure future wars.

RAINBOW TO BE FEATURE AT BALL

Spectra Effort Will Be Tested
By Electric Committee
Thursday Night

The shadow and light effect in which more than 1,000 rainbows or spectra will be formed in the center of the capitol's rotunda will be tried out by members of the electrical committee of the Military ball Thursday night under the direction of Horace I. Trenary '24, chairman of the committee.

Final adjustment of the effects of the new scheme which was originated by Sidney Thorson '24, assistant general chairman, will be made in an effort to depict the scene of the twelfth annual Military ball to be held on next Friday night.

This novel lighting system works in very well with the idea of committee chairmen to cut down the expenses of the ball to the lowest possible mark, Trenary pointed out. Flood lights and spot lights will be placed in the corridors on all the floors. Wherever these beams of light cross in the dark rotunda, small rainbows will be formed which will give the capitol an atmosphere of fairyland, according to Trenary.

COOLIDGE DELEGATES MAY BE BALLOTTED ON

"There are no Coolidge delegates for this district up for Tuesday's election but there are four Coolidge delegates-at-large for whom you may vote."

"These delegates are former Lieutenant Governor E. F. Dithmar, Baraboo; W. S. Goodland, Racine; H. L. Hoard, Ft. Atkinson, and former Governor E. L. Phillips, Milwaukee," William J. Anderson, Madison correspondent, pointed out last night.

"I merely wish to call the attention of voters to their opportunity of voting for Coolidge delegates," he said.

Make Your Dress

For the Ball

This would be a very simple matter if you would choose as the material the soft, sheer georgette imported from France, which Mr. O'Connell purchased in New York during the past week. There are 28 different shades including all the delicate pastel shades. You are sure to find the colors you are looking for. $2.50.

Ostrich trimming or maribou lends an irresistible charm to a dainty evening dress. Ask to see this pretty trimming.

"Breath of the Avenue," says "The newest note in nude shades is a tendency toward the florid, sunset tones. New stockings that are shown now in New York stores are much more intense in color than they were a little while ago. They are orange, pink or rose-orange, bright tones that are practically without the brownish cast that was typical of the sunburnt nudes of winter fashions."

New arrived Kayser silk hose comes in lovely new shades—ashes of roses, Nutone, peach, sunset, peau of exceptionally good quality—$1.75.

The vogue for feather trimming which was prophesied at Paris opening keeps sweeping ahead in N. Y. Marabou so fashionable now is used on fluffy evening frocks and very often on airy evening scarfs of chiffon, georgette or flat crepe. Ostrich fringe appears just as often as Marabou.

Kessenich's

New Shades Appear in Sweaters

You'll play a fast game if you go out on the green wearing one of these jaunty new coat cut or clip-overs. It's needless to say that you'll stand high in Fashion's game too. Among the new shades are Mexico, lanvin green, poudre blue, and gypsy red.

One of the newest coat sweaters is of love apple red. It has a long roll collar and a general effect of the tailored suit jacket. There are hip bands in gay colors.

The flannel jackets are being favored this Spring also. They come in tan, grey, wood brown, lanvin green, and flame. Braid is used as trimming and Mah Jong figures on the pockets add a bit of attractiveness.

$3.50

There are Many Styles in Skirts

The best skirts for the two piece costumes are the flannels in high colors and the wool crepes. As for style, pleats and plain surfaces are shown in equal numbers. Solid colors are predominate with stripes and overplaids next.

We have just received a shipment of plaited wool crepe skirts in all the lovely shades of tan, grey, and green, and Mexico.

$11.75

The two piece dress persists as one of the strongest fashions of the season. There's economy mixed in this—for a blouse and a skirt bought separately costs less than the regular two-piece dress. From our wide selections there are dozens of combinations of skirts and blouses of matching fabrics and colors.

Analysis of Concert Numbers Aids in a Greater Appreciation

There are presented below explanatory statements on all the numbers to be played by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra at its afternoon concert Tuesday, April 1.

There are so many marches and they are so much alike that it is not easy to identify even the most famous ones of which this selection, National Emblem March, by E. E. Bagley, is an excellent example. At the beginning two melodies are announced together, the first one in the heavy brasses, especially the trombones, consisting of the first two phrases of The Star Spangled Banner.

After the music is repeated from the beginning the second theme appears. This is a peculiar sweeping melody that starts with a loud, flaunting tune which quickly subsides into a quiet little melody.

Weber was preeminently a dramatic composer. Not only is much of his best work in his operas, but there is a dramatic quality in almost everything that he wrote, a superb dash and vigor that sets the blood to coursing faster and the eyes to flashing.

Suddenly the dance is on, employing no less than five separate themes: First, a stormy, impetuous strain, as of dancers rushing on to the floor; next, a light, graceful air, as of tripping feet; third, a swaying, voluptuous melody over a staccato accompaniment; the fourth is a dashing fortissimo, and the fifth is marked by rushing upward passages for piano and strings.

Minuet by von Gluck

This minuet is played in the opera during the scene in which the audience is permitted to glimpse into the life of the realm of departed happy spirits. In the midst of beautiful flowers suffused with soft light, these graceful Grecian figures move in slow rhythm while the music is being played.

Unfinished Symphony

The Symphony in B minor, known as the Unfinished Symphony because it consists of only two movements instead of the usual four, is one of the works of Schubert which the master never heard performed. The new and delicate effects and orchestral combinations with which it is crowded were the result of his imagination alone.

The charm of the B minor symphony is two-fold. For one thing, it is filled with themes and passages of melodic and harmonic beauty, scattered with the lavish hand of a composer who knew none save beautiful ideas.

Dagger Dance

"The Dagger Dance, from Natoma" occurs at the end of the second act of Herbert's opera, "Natoma." The scene is laid in Santa Barbara, California, during the early days when that section of our country was under Spanish rule. The square before the mission church is full of people who have gathered to take part in a fiesta. Castro, the half-breed Indian, challenges any one to dance with him

Charming Companion Is Revealed in Floyd Dell

"Looking at Life" by Floyd Dell, Published by Alfred A. Knopf, New York, 1924.

By H. D. S.

On the last page of his book Floyd Dell quotes a poem, and under that he writes "Does that mean anything to you? I am happy to say that it does to me." It is a rather fit closing for his book of essays, in which he talks about practically every aspect of life from being in love to being persecuted as a traitor of his country; and he tells it all in such a frank and pleasant manner that it makes the book more interesting than most books composed of such a variety of themes.

Dell puts his whole individuality in his essays, they are living words of a modern living man and of a decidedly interesting man.

The essays were written between the years 1914 and 1923. One can't even call them essays; they are short and informal discussions of the thoughts and the ideas that were in Dell's mind during those most important years. He treats prohibition and war, sweethearts and wives, books and poets all with the same pleasing informality and about each topic he has something interesting to say.

The most interesting and best told bit in our estimation is the sketch "My Political Ideas" in which he summarizes the growth of political thought in him from his earliest childhood, when he revolted against set principles for the first time by releasing his little sister from the "dark room" in which she had been locked by the irate father up to the time when he was being tried by a federal court for conspiracy against the welfare of the nation.

He tells us quite frankly that he is a socialist, that he does not at all conform with the present state of affairs, but he does not try to preach socialism to us.

the Dagger Dance, Natoma, an Indian girl, accepts the challenge and the two begin the dance.

Ferber Writes of the Vitality, Love of Life

So Big, by Edna Ferber, Doubleday Page and Co. $2.

By H. D.

In these days of the temperamental artistic nature every one must write the tale of a starved superior being lost in an "ununderstanding" and unsympathetic environment. Sinclair Lewis took this idea, played with it, travestied it a little, and produced his masterpiece, "Main Street." He did not take his "starved" heroine too seriously; he liked her; he made a charming enough little woman of her—but he left her a very usual, a not at all extraordinary human being.

The difference between her and "Main Street" was that she had been born and brought up in a slightly higher stage of social development, and naturally found it difficult to adapt herself to a lower; though by natural aptitude she would hardly have stood out from her surroundings. One sympathizes, one likes her, but one also appreciates her mistakes, her foolishness, and, let it be said also, her occasional pettiness.

Zona Gale, on the same theme, writes "Faint Perfume." But Zona Gale takes her "artistic temperament" seriously. Her hero and heroine are literally starved and goaded to death because their associates have never read Byron and Shelley.

To have real artistic freedom of expression one must live in Greenwich Village, where human nature is miraculously different, and where every third person is the most profound thinker and philosopher; and every second the most "souful" of artists. Is it necessary to add that a more maudlin or sentimental tale than "Faint Perfume" could hardly be found?

Now, midway between these two extremes, comes Edna Ferber. She too, wishes to write her "Main Street," and like Zona Gale she takes her "artistic" point of view seriously. To mark her heroine as distinctive she has her compare cabbage fields to "chrysoprane and porphyry"; and ask an ancient inhabitant of the village where he left Rip (meaning Rip Van Winkle!) Of course this is the normal sort of conversation one runs across among cultured people.

For Lothario

By Carl Rakosi

Lothario, I've ordered a winding sheet
Of butterflies for my arcane repose.

Think how my fiery limbs, sprung
into pines,
Shall grieve this void storm of our land of fleas

Lothario, this is no comic role
To blunder through a vegetative fog,

And slave in deep crafts for some tedious weed.
Think of the leprous anguish in the hand

That wrote the metaphysics of the thrush,
And taints men with the holy vagueness of
The moon's phrase. Yes, the pantomime is off.
The chime of pallors from narcotic alps
Descends like satire on my dusty ears.

1200 Frogs Used Each Semester in Zoology Courses

Approximately 12000 frogs are used each year in the laboratory work of the second semester of elementary zoology.

The department averages about three frogs to each person and the enrollment of the class is about 400 students. The frogs are ordered through biological firms who supply every form of biological life to the department.

The study of the frogs is the main work of the second semester of zoology, including the study of the living animal, his response to stimuli, dissections of the frog to study internal structure, and finally cross section studies of prepared slides.

To Look Upon Beauty Should Be Purpose of Good Modern Drama

"To look out through a spiritual window upon beauty, truth, imagination and spiritual uplift should be the effect of good dramas. In the past we have been too content to have the realism of three stage walls with no uplifting influence."

This was the reply of Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth author of several successful dramatic productions of Broadway, when she was asked for her opinion of modern dramatic tendencies. Mrs. Wentworth read one of her three-act plays, "The Singing Globe," Thursday evening under the auspices of the Wisconsin Players.

"Outward Bound"

When asked what modern play best exemplified the play with the outlook upon beauty, truth, and spiritual uplift, Mrs. Wentworth said that "Outward Bound," a play now running in New York, was a contemporary example of this type of play.

"This play is the story of a young soldier with other people on a ship. They have strange experiences on ship board.

"Community dramas are becoming ever more popular with the people throughout the entire country. In Boston, a school has been established for those interested in production of this sort.

The writer told of one production in California in which she was interested in which the leading lady was a milliner, the leading man had been an English butler and one of the other characters was a wealthy merchant.

Community Dramas

"The Community dramas breed a democracy that is in itself a worthwhile end. Beside this, the persons learn something of dramatic productions and of the art of the drama itself," said the author.

Speaking of her own one-act play "What If They Could," Mrs. Wentworth said that she spent only two or three days in writing the entire play. She spoke of it as a work of inspiration rather than of growth. She characterized her play "The Singing Globe," as a gradual development.

45,000 words to the barrel

Did you ever hear of measuring words by the barrel? No? Nevertheless, you do it every day. Every time you say, "My pen's gone dry," you have measured off a certain number of words with a barrelful of ink.

How many words to the barrel? That depends on the barrel. If it is a RIDER MASTERPEN barrel, it will hold 45,000 words. This is an absolutely unique record. The average pen holds only one-tenth as much as RIDER'S MASTERPEN.

So remember! If you want a pen that will write all your examinations, or all of your lectures for two weeks with a single filling of ink, the only pen for you is RIDER'S MASTERPEN. Its oversize barrel holds 45,000 words.

NEAR EAST WANTS YANKEE TEACHERS

Birge Gets Letter Asking For American Instructors For Turkish Colleges

A demand for teachers exists not only in the Philippines, but in the East and Near East. President Birge recently received a letter from L. S. Moore, acting American director of the Near East colleges. He says that this year they are in need of college graduates to go out to the American University of Beirut and to Robert college under contract for a three year period. There are vacancies at both institutions in the department of English.

"The salary is $600 and living expenses and transportation both ways. We shall be glad to furnish other details with regard to these conditions on inquiry," states Mr. Moore.

"May I ask if your institution can put me in touch with young men who are desirous of going abroad to teach and who can fulfill qualifications for the above mentioned positions. I assure you that there is no more interesting place in the world to teach than at the American College of Beirut or Robert college, both on account of their traditions and their international student body."

T. L. Jones, 120 Bascom hall, can furnish any further information that may be desired.

Change in Age-old Wedding Vow Must Come, Prof Asserts

"Until death do us part" is not sufficient as a marriage vow, according to Prof. S. S. Huebner, head of the commerce and insurance department of the University of Pennsylvania.

"While and after both do live" should take the place of the age-old phrase in the marriage ceremony, Huebner insists.

"In the good old days it was believed a man's duty to care for his wife and children ended with his life, but the onward march of progress has swept past even this barrier. Life insurance is being recognized as a means to carry out this doctrine."

Huebner does not say whether a life insurance clause should be inserted in the nuptial rites.

HADASSAH WILL HOLD A COMMUNITY SEDER

A community seder will be held April 13 under the auspices of the junior Hadassah in the Beaver lodge rooms. Proceeds of the affair will go toward the support of an orphan in Palestine. The seder is the dinner festival commemorating the exodus from Egypt, which is held the first two evenings of pass-over.

COLUMBUS, Ohio—Ohio State university is making an effort to have polo installed as a major sport. Sixteen ponies have been purchased by the university.

A stunning ornament, a sympathetic companion, a courageous guardian. Big and powerful, but quick and graceful; gentle, but unafraid; brave, but not ugly. Unusual intelligence. Hardy as an Eskimo. The sparkling dark eyes and long glistening white coat make a strikingly beautiful picture as a companion in an auto, on the campus, in the field, at the chapter house or in the home.
