Grace Episcopal to Build $70,000 Student Church

Will Spend $150,000 of Campaign Funds on University Work

An open dinner in Guild hall of Grace Episcopal church of Madison Friday evening inaugurated the local campaign of the Milwaukee diocese to raise $250,000. Of the sum sought, $150,000 will be expended at the University of Wisconsin student church.

The division of funds apportioned to the university will be used for expansion of present activities. A new chapel building will cost $70,000, while $50,000 will be used in an endowment to enlarge student work. Another $27,000 is needed to pay off the indebtedness on the present student property at Brooks street and University avenue.

The drive opens Monday, Nov. 19, and closes Nov. 26 at 6:15 p. m.

For some years the most successful work of the church has been at the university, but unless the equipment is bettered the present work here cannot be maintained.

Religious work here was begun in 1915, and was carried on until the end of the school year of 1917 when it was discontinued during the war.

In 1916 the University Commission of the Church was organized. The sum of $10,000 was raised, and the property at 1015 University avenue was purchased.

The purpose of the present campaign is to raise enough money for

Djemil Outlines Needs of Turkey

Y. M. C. A. Freshmen Hear American Specialized Training Wanted

"The greatest thing in American life at the present time, which can be effectively introduced into Turkey, is specialized training and education," declared Azmi Djemil, a graduate student in the College of Engineering at the university, in a talk before a group of freshmen at the university Y. M. C. A. Friday night. He was a former student at Robert College in Constantinople.

Mr. Djemil said that too much stress was being placed on missionary work in the Far East, and that it would be far more profitable and helpful to transform the energy expended in missionary work, to giving the people better educational facilities. Such a change would be far more beneficial than the present system.

"The missionary workers endeavor to persuade the more ignorant people of Turkey that Christianity is the only worthy religion. These persuasive methods are bound to have ill effects."

"Religion has, since the World War, lost much of its strength in Europe, especially in Turkey; and Mohammedanism at the present time means nothing."

Mr. Djemil concluded his talk by stating that there is a large field in Turkey for well-educated Americans to instruct and teach the Turkish people.

Players to Repeat 'Disciple' Tonight

"The Devil's Disciple," which was staged at Bascom theater last night by Wisconsin University Players will be repeated tonight at 8:15 p. m.

In order to give visiting fathers an opportunity to see the splendid work of the players, the show will be presented Nov. 23 and 24 in conjunction with the Father's Day activities.

Reservations for the remaining performances may be made by calling Badger 1717.

Gridgraph and Radio to Bring Game Reports

Radio reports of the Wisconsin-Iowa game will be offered at the Memorial Union today for those who have remained in Madison, while the gridgraph will be in operation at the gymnasium annex this afternoon beginning at 1:45 p. m. Thorough preparations have been made at both points to care for local fans who wish news of the title game.

Three floors of the Union will be utilized in spreading the news as it comes from the lips of Graham McNamee through the ether. The power amplifier usually used in the Men's lounge will be transferred to the Rathskeller, while other radio implements will be used in the Great hall and the Men's lounge for those who prefer the more elaborate surroundings of the two latter rooms.

Gridgraph in Annex
The gridgraph has been installed in the annex of the university gymnasium, where a thirty-five cent admission will be charged. Direct wire connections will carry play-by-play details to spectators. The game will begin at 1:45 p. m.

Graham McNamee flew from Chicago to Iowa City last night to broadcast the game over a nationwide network of the National Broadcasting company. This was necessitated by a sudden change in plans by officials of the company. The famous announcer originally came west with the intention of radioing the Chicago-Illinois game, but the outstanding interest that has been manifested in the Wisconsin-Iowa battle brought on the shift in the schedule.

Use National Hookup
Together with Sen Kaney, of the middle western NBC studios, McNamee will give a running account of events at the Iowa stadium over seven, and possibly more, stations. The

Final Registration Figures Compiled, Kirsch Announces

Final and corrected registration figures for the first semester of 1928-29 will be announced Tuesday, Miss Anna B. Kirsch, university statistician, said yesterday. Advance figures showed more than 9,000 students, but the first figure is always reduced when duplications and persons dropping school are omitted.

The tabulation of students by home communities, and tabulation of Wisconsin students by counties, is the next step after the final registration figures are made available.

Following this tabulation, Miss Kirsch declared, the religious preference cards will be analyzed for the first time in several years.

Engage Orchestra for Harvest Ball

Jesse Cohen's orchestra has been engaged to play at the Harvest Ball to be held in the Memorial Union Nov. 23, it was announced yesterday by Mary Lou Gissal '29, assistant general chairman of the dance, in the absence of Harold H. Cate '29, general chairman, who is at Kansas City with the stock judging team.

The Harvest Ball, a one o'clock informal party, is being sponsored by the Wisconsin Country Magazine with the aid of other student organizations on the agricultural campus.

Tickets are selling for $1.50, and arrangements are being made to have them on sale Monday at several places on State street, according to Jerome J. Henry '29, director of ticket sales.

New Directories Issued Next Week

Student directories will be issued next week, the registrar's office announced Friday. According to the description previously issued the books will be bound in stiff red covers, like the bulletins, in place of the blue thin paper covers of other years. It will contain names and addresses of the faculty and students, and the office hours and phone numbers of the former.

Birge to Attend T. Chamberlain Rites at Beloit

President Emeritus Will Represent University at Services Today

By JULIA CARR

The only living ex-president of the University of Wisconsin will represent that university today in the rites of Thomas Chrowder Chamberlain, another ex-president, who died suddenly Thursday in Chicago.

President Emeritus E. A. Birge, who was a dean when Prof. Chamberlain, one of America's most famous geologists, was president, was chosen Friday to go to Beloit for the service and interment there after the body arrives from Chicago where short services were held Friday.

Frank in New York City

Pres. Glenn Frank was unable to attend as he is in New York city attending the annual meeting of the National Association of State Universities and a meeting of the Carnegie Foundation.

Dr. Chamberlain's memory is preserved in the Chamberlain Rock, dedicated to him by the American Society of Geologists, at their meeting in Madison nearly two years ago. The Rock is a huge glacial boulder naturally located on the crest of Observatory Hill, west of Washburn Observatory.

At the time of his death, Dr. Chamberlain was professor emeritus of

Military Initiates Will Celebrate at All-Night Spree

The flickering lights of a camp fire, and strange moving silhouettes will be seen tonight on Picnic point when Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, initiates 14 men.

The initiates have been wearing their uniform since last Monday, and are to be on guard up and down Langdon street this evening before repairing to Picnic point at 6 p. m. for an all-night initiation to last till the wee hours of Sunday morning.

A short preliminary initiation took place last Thursday. A requirement is the writing of a thesis of about 1,500 words on some topic of military interest. The two or three best are submitted and printed in the Scabbard and Blade, a quarterly magazine.

A banquet to be held Sunday evening at 6 p. m. in the Memorial Union will climax the activities. A formal dance will be given Nov. 30 by the organization for its members.

TWO DONS SHINE BRIGHTLY IN PLAYERS' SHAW OFFERING

By BOB GODLEY

There are thrills, heart throbs, hangings, deaths, half wits, laughs and tears at Bascom theater.

All this occurs in "The Devil's Disciple" which was presented for the first time last night. The play was written by George Bernard Shaw. . . . and we need say no more about that.

Don Ameche cast as Dick Dudgeon, the Devil's Disciple, is a newcomer in Player's productions. With one performance he placed himself in a class with Herman Wirka, Troutman's tragedian, and Whiff Roberts, famed juvenile.

Ameche Comes to Fame

Ameche has stage presence, looks and ability. He is not used to Bascom theater, for he thundered in the heavy scenes with a voice which would have shaken the walls of the stock pavilion. He will correct this with time . . . if he is the excellent actor we, and most of the crowd, think him.

Ramona Dahlenburg and Gibbs Allen handle difficult roles with ease. These people are experienced, and as usual turned in strong performances.

The story tells of Dick Dudgeon, considered a scapegrace by all the pious souls of the Maine coast in 1777,

Cardinal Team Backed By 3,000 Roaring Fans At Iowa Title Battle

Capt. Rube Wagner Pledges Team to Win Before Shouting Students

By R. R. R.

One thousand cheer-mad students, both men and women, followed the little red wagon and its precious burden of the Wisconsin football team Thursday noon from the gym to the St. Paul station in a drizzle of rain.

One thousand cheer-mad students bade that team farewell in one of the biggest send-offs ever to be given a Wisconsin team.

One thousand cheer-mad students held up a train while they shouted, begged and pleaded for their favorites on the football team to speak to them.

And one thousand students can't be wrong!

It all started at the gym when at 12:45 p. m., the band came marching down Langdon street led by the strutting Tod Williston.

Frost Leads Cheering

Ted Frost, '29, was there to lead the cheering and direct the course of the little red wagon from the lower campus to the street in front of the gym.

No sooner had the wagon been placed there, than a great cry arose from the crowd—for the team had come out. Led by Captain Rube Wagner, they helped on the wagon one by one, until the entire squad was seated.

Then the long pull down to the station started. Shouting, singing, cheering, they followed the human-drawn vehicle down to the St. Paul depot and there saw their warriors embark.

"We Want Wagner"

Immediately after the team got on the train, the cry went up, "We want Wagner." They got him.

Rube came out on the platform, smiled a little bit, and said, "It's a gang like this that makes ball-playing a pleasure. You may be assured that we will fight to win that game."

Next came "Bo" Cuisnier who made a short speech to the effect that they would try their best to win. He was followed by Ernie Lusby who was visibly nervous and told the crowd so. He expressed the desire of the team to have everyone there when they came back from Iowa on Sunday.

Cheer Thistlethwaite

There were shouts for Glenn Thistlethwaite and Sammy Behr to speak, but apparently they were too nervous to do so.

Then, as the train whistle blew and slowly pulled out of the station, Ted Frost led the students through a loud and meaningful locomotive the last to be given a departing football team this year.

Badgers Prepared to Fight to Last Ditch in Title Struggle

By AARON GOTTLIEB

Wisconsin versus Iowa, the Badgers against the Hawks, a small group of cardinal-clad fighters against a husky array of line smashers, Thistlethwaite against Ingwerson, and the Big Ten football title against gridiron obscurity, these are the elements involved when two primed elevens meet this afternoon at Carter field, Iowa City.

Classed as underdogs against a highly-touted enemy, the plucky Cardinal machine, dwarfed by comparison with their opponents, will endeavor to climb the greatest obstacle in their path toward the first gridiron championship since 1912, and to leave behind them, a crimson-streaked impression of Wisconsin spirit and power.

Prevalent weather conditions Friday evening pointed to continued rain with a slight change in temperature for Saturday in Iowa City, according to Eric Miller, Madison United States meteorologist. Mr. Miller made this prediction for both Madison and Iowa City, stating there is little difference in the climate of the two cities.

deavor to climb the greatest obstacle in their path toward the first gridiron championship since 1912, and to leave behind them, a crimson-streaked impression of Wisconsin spirit and power.

3,000 Will Cheer Badgers

It is an enormous task that the 35 men from Madison face in the greatest football attraction in the middle west, but behind them and cheering at every play, will be 3,000 Badger fans, "following through" with the team that they admire and whose ability they have complete faith in.

Driven and pointed all week for this crucial game, the Wisconsin eleven is ready to put forth everything

Police Supervise Russ Celebration

Threat of Law Causes Much Excitement at Woodman Hall

Threat of a police raid caused intense excitement at Woodman hall last night at a gathering present to celebrate the 11th anniversary of the Russian revolution. Two policemen stepped in the door while speeches were in progress and after calmly surveying the crowd, smiled knowingly and walked out.

The crowd was varied, including Italian laborers and several Chinese women, students of sociology.

After the speakers had finished, an east side merchant asked if he might tell of his experiences while fighting for the Czar. He tried, in his broken English, to explain the difference between the old and new regimes in Russia.

The main content of the speeches was that the working class is the only useful class, and until they are in power the common people will never be truly represented.

David Gordon, Zona Gale scholar, and publicity chairman of the Junior Woodman league, and Morris Shulimson read poems they had written especially for the occasion. The poems described the way in which the workmen were downtrodden by the capitalists.

Gordon, in his poem, described workers as fragments who, when united, would create a giant force which would overthrow capitalism.

At 11:00 p. m. the meeting was still in session, under the surveillance of Madison police. Kopple Kopplewitz, chairman, predicted that the one and only hope of the American youth to be saved from destruction by war, was to join the Young Workers' league or the Communist party.

D'Herelle Hopes to Find Life Unit

Famous Biologist Speaks on Bacteriophage Before Large Audience

The unit of living matter is not the cell, but the micell, Prof. F. D'Herelle of Yale told a capacity audience in the auditorium of the Biology building Friday evening. "The end of biology, the discovery of ultimate constituents of life is not yet solved, but we can say with assurance that it will be some day."

The enthusiastic lecturer and discoverer of one of the lowest forms of life, proved to his listeners that the bacteriophage, an invisible matter so minute that it cannot be seen with the most powerful microscope, is an automatic form of life that lives upon, and therefore destroys bacteria.

Pricks Arguments
In rapid succession he pricked the arguments of the scientists who maintain that the bacteriophage is a chemical matter secreted by bacteria, and not a parasite of bacteria. The doubters argue, he said, that the bacteriophage is not a living organism, because it is so minute. But, the lecturer refuted, life does not depend on geometric properties.

They argue that because the bacteriophages are highly resistant to antiseptics they are not alive. He pointed out what spores, among other forms of life, withstand unfavorable cultures. To the contention that the lytic principle regenerates at the expense of bacteria during division and are therefore derived from the metabolism of the bacteria he presented proof drawn from extensive experiments that bacteriophages are independent forms of life.

Worked in Paris
Dr. D'Herelle discovered the bacteria destroyer while in charge of the vaccine department of the Pasteur Institute at Paris, which prepared the majority of the vaccine for use in the Allied armies. He did research work for the governments of Guatemala, Yucatan, and his native Canada. Cholera and methods of its prevention came to his notice when he was appointed director of the bacteriological service of the sanitary, maritime, and quarantine council of Egypt.

Besides hold the Leeuwenhoek medal, Dr. D'Herelle is the only living man to hold the degree of "Doctor of Medicine Honoris Causa," awarded him by the University of Leiden, Holland, in 1923.

Hold Rites Today for Ex-President

geology and paleontology at the university of Chicago.

Was Here Five Years
Dr. Chamberlain gave to the University of Wisconsin five years from the center of his life. He became its president in 1887, when he was 44 years old, and in 1892 he resigned to become professor of geology in the recreated University of Chicago.

In President Chamberlain's leadership there were present the courage to initiate this forward movement of the university, the skill to guide it, and the vigor to accomplish it.

He secured from the legislature an act organizing the university in the form which it still retains. He increased the income of the university, enlarged the faculty, and remodeled the curriculum.

Established Graduate Scholarships
Under his leadership the first graduate scholarships were established, regular graduate instruction began, and courses leading to the doctor's degrees were announced. The first doctorate in the course was conferred by President Chamberlain in 1892 on Professor Van Hise, later president of the university.

Undoubtedly, the most important single event in this series was the calling to the faculty of Dr. Ely as professor of Economics.

Professor Chamberlain was an important constructive force in all that concerns the inner life and development of the university. No university at a critical period in its development was ever more wisely led, or more permanently advanced than was the University of Wisconsin during the five years of President Chamberlain's administration.

Since 1892 he has given his attention exclusively to geology. Just off the press is a book entitled, "The Two Solar Systems: The Sun's Children," which together with his "Origin of the Earth" presents in semi-popular form his principal ideas.

Boulder Commemorates Service
When Dr. Chamberlain was president of the University he lectured in the Geological department. Two years ago a tablet was placed on a large glacial boulder, standing on Observatory Hill to commemorate his services to geology in Wisconsin.

T. C. Chamberlain was regarded in the profession the ranking geologist of America and probably of the world, according to Prof. C. K. Leith, chairman of the Department of Geology.

Beginning his activities in local studies around Beloit and Whitewater, he organized the first geological survey of Wisconsin, and wrote four volumes of valuable scientific content. He carried on glacial studies in all parts of North America, Greenland, and Europe, and his conclusions as to the causes of glaciation are now generally accepted.

Expert on Earth's Origin
In studying these causes he became interested in the origin of the earth, to which subject he gave the last 30 years of his life. He is the author of the planetesimal hypothesis of the earth's origin, the accepted theory among scientists.

"Evolution in its deeper significance offers a religion more severe in its moral aspects than Mosaic laws," was the belief of Dr. Chamberlain. "The old doctrine of geology was that the earth was on its way toward freezing up. We think the system will run on. The good, the thing in accord with the nature of things, will last."

Professor Chamberlain's son, Rollin, now professor of geology at the University of Chicago, is likewise a widely known geologist. He worked closely with his father for many years, and will ably carry forward some of his unfinished investigations.

Olson Pays Tribute
"Before Dr. Chamberlain came to the university, Wisconsin was just a college," Prof. Julius E. Olson, head of the Scandinavian department and oldest active professor here, said today. "Professor Chamberlain made a university of Wisconsin. He wanted to make it chiefly a graduate school. His views saw their fruition in the University of Chicago."

"A very kind, gentlemanly, and courtly man—that was President Chamberlain."

Horticulturists in the Netherlands and Southern France ship their products to florists in Switzerland almost exclusively by airplane.

soldiers who are grouped around the door don't turn a hair, but last night's audience gasped.

The male members of the audience were soulfully touched by the wistful waif "Essie," played by Cornelia Flieth. Really it's a shame to hurt that little girl like that. Nobody in the cast cares much for her except the hero and even he forgets to sympathize when she goes to the town pump in her bare feet. . . . after everyone has talked about the cold.

Don Varian Splendid
Don Varian as General Burgoyne (famed character of history) depicts the favorite Shavian character . . . the gentleman with the dry and sharp tongue. He is splendid in spite of a loose pair of breeches.

And they tell me that there are still good seats left for the three remaining shows. You may take our word for it, this is great entertainment, well written by the greatest dramatist of the age, and well presented by a strong dramatic organization.

Coach Niels Thorpe, of the University of Minnesota, had a plunge into the Armory pool, clothes and all, when Neal Crocker, captain of the swimming team, followed the tradition established by Minnesota swimming teams of the past and tossed the coach into the pool.

in an effort to drop Ingwerson's aggregation from the title race, and to uplift the crafty Badger into the vacancy defeat will bring to the Hawks.

It will be topsy-turvy football this afternoon as the Hawks will take to the ground, and the Badger takes to the air, the one employing the line driving attack against the speedy open running and aerial game of the other,
but both obsessed with one purpose, to gain the yardage that means points.

Hawks Won Last Year

Not since 1925 when the two opponents met in a biting snow storm, has Wisconsin invaded the lair of Iowa, while in their last meeting a year ago in Madison, the nonchalant visitors ruined the Cardinal's Homecoming with a 19-0 upset, after having been defeated in every previous game of the season.

The purpose of the Badgers, led by Capt. Rube Wagner, is thus twofoldrevenge for last year's defeat, and the right to carry the cardinal colors to the topmost rung of the conference football ladder.

Outweighed 10 pounds on an average, the Wisconsin team will strive to offset this disadvantage by sending against Iowa, an open attack, full of speed and deception that has reached the height of its seasonal form in the final drive for honors.

Out to Stop Hawks

On such stars as Capt. Wagner, Kresky, Conry, Parks, Binish, Gantenbein and Lew Smith, will fall the task of stopping the line attack of the Hawks as well as making holes through which yardage for their own team may be gained.

And upon little "Bo" Cuisinier, crafty general of the Cardinals, Bill Lusby, the half with the educated toe and passing hand, Sammy Behr,
the long striding off-tackle star,
Harold Smith, a line bucking demon, and Harry Rebholz, a defensive fullback par excellence, will Wisconsin depend for their scoring punch.

Teams Evenly Matched

But Iowa, in addition to its cornstalks and cow bells, feels its personnel is equal to that of the Badgers.
With big McLain leading the forward wall slamming, Glasgow, the fast open running game, Armil, the craftmanship, and Farroh, providing the blocking, confidence reigns supreme in the Iowa City camp.

In their forward wall, the Hawks have the giant Schleusner, an offense-breaking tackle, Jensen, his running mate, Westra and Roberts, two stocky guards, Moore and Reedquist ready to snag passes, and Capt. Brown directing the line play.

Both Solidly Backed

Iowans regard their present eleven as the best to represent them since their championship teams performed back in 1921 and 1922, but Wisconsin rooters are just as proud of a team they feel is equal to any turned out in the past decade.

A record crowd of 38,000 will be present this afternoon as the two teams meet upon a field that has been covered with hay for several days to insure its fastness, and with WGN broadcasting the struggle, it will be Wisconsin against Iowa today

Stage Contests For Volley Ball Title Monday

The final eliminating rounds of the women's intramural volleyball tournament, played Friday afternoon and evening, resulted in wins for Chad,
French House, Kappa Delta, Delta
Gamma, Tri Delta, and Schneiders.
The finals will begin Monday.

Tri Delta, dropped their first game of this round in a closely fought match with Chadbourne, by a score of 23-24.

Delta Gamma lost to the French house, 18-11, but staged a sensational comeback to win from Gamma Phi, 23-20. Kappa Delta had an easy time with the Beta Sig's, winning 58-16. Chad defaulted their second game to St. Francis, and Schneiders defaulted to 430 Sterling.

The Tri Deltas swept their way into the finals by defeating the Anderson's, with a score of 45 to 26, Sally Owen

in the second half.

The Schneiders took the A. O. Pi's into camp Friday with a show of teamwork that left the latter on the low end of the score.

ried attack and a stiff defense, the sophomore field hockey team managed to eke out a victory over the favored junior team, 6-5, Thursday. The game was fast and thrilling, especially in the last half. Play started with both teams showing good hockey, but lacking the scoring punch. The juniors managed to gain a two-point lead before the half. The sophomores came back on the field to score two goals in the first few minutes of play. The scored see-sawed back and forth until the end of the game, but the juniors were not able to stop the rejuvenated sophomores who played inspired hockey to win. The upset was unexpected as the sophomores had been defeated twice, while the juniors were rated as championship contenders. The latter, however, were using a revamped lineup. Morgan was the high scorer of the day with four goals to her credit.
The other counters were: Merton 2, Flint 2, Kastner 1, Schroeder 1, Hans-mann 1.

Merton and Flint played well for the juniors while Morgan, Ravn, and Powers did nice work for the sophomores.

The lineups were:

Morgan	RI. Flint
Hansmann	CF. Merton
Schroeder	LI. Kastner

GOOD TEAMWORK AND WIND REQUIRED FOR WATER POLO

By Carlos Quirino

Have you ever handled a soccer football with one hand? Perhaps you have and said, "Nothing much to it."

But have you ever received a slippery leather sphere, taken hold of it, quickly passed it with one hand before a splashing foe took it away from you, and at the same time kept on swimming?

That's what makes water polo one of the most strenuous games in the Big Ten, rivalling even football. For water polo requires a large amount of swimming endurance, with speed and fast, accurate handling of the pigskin.

Requires Good Teamwork

The seven minutes that comprise the first half is one continuous movement—back and forth across the tank to tire one's opponent, keeping an eye on the moving ball and the brains working to pass the ball correctly, for team work is as essential as in other games, such as basketball and football.
Being held under water and other such gentle means of disabling a player was a part of water basketball,

Freshman Grid Stars Will Be Feted on Dec. 5

Those men who have day after day gone through long and stiff workouts, and helped to bring the varsity into fighting condition, will receive their share of the spotlight of publicity when all freshman winning football numerals are feted Dec. 5 at a banquet to be held at the Park hotel.

Although definite announcement concerning numeral winners has not been made, approximately 60 men appear to have won the coveted award and will be present at this recognition of their services and gridiron ability.

After the hearty repast, scheduled to start at 6:30, several speakers, including George Little, director of athletics, Glenn Thistlewaite, head football coach, and a member of the faculty will speak.

During the evening, one of the main items on hand will be the election of a captain, by the yearling gridgers.
So many stars are to be found upon the squad, that favoritism for a certain player has not been developed, and the election may be difficult.

LaFollette House Wins Again, 39-0

Bad Weather Results in Three Forfeits in Dorm League

By Robert Meyer

Bad weather and classes allowed but three out of eight dormitory touch football games to be played in the Wednesday-Thursday round. LaFollette house continued its string of one sided victories by winning its game from Spooner by an impressive score.

Spooner house had no show with LaFollette house, which scored as it pleased, winning 39-2. Davies was high man, with three touchdowns, two resulting from kicks, and one from a pass. Butts scored on a shoestring play, and Schaffer added one more touchdown after receiving a pass.
Ninow of Spooner scored when he blocked a punt and fell on the ball for a safety, the two points being the first scored against LaFollette house this season.

LaFollette — Netterstrom, Davie,
Butts, Boessel, Moore, Meiklejohn, Schaeffer.

Spooner—Frey, Gruhn, Pemberton,
Freed, Klann, Chen, Erikson, Ninow.

Cards in First Dual Meet Loss to Iowa Sophs

Team Strength Fails to Win for Wisconsin Hill- and-Dalers

(The Chicago Tribune Press Service)

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 16.—The Cardinal harriers suffered their first defeat in a dual meet in four years, at the hands of the Hawkeye sophomore harriers here today, 27 to 30.

Badger team strength showed up to advantage, resulting in a close score, but the Iowans took the honors by winning the first two and the last two places.

The race was run over a muddy course in a steady rain. The victory gave the Hawkeyes an unmarred record for their three dual meets this season. Arm in arm, Captain Brady Kelly, and Erbringham crossed the finish line in a tie for first place, in 22:04 for the four mile course.

The Badgers took the next six places and were followed by two Iowa men.

Varsity Oarsmen Put Shells Away for Winter's Rest

By G. K.

Over 100 men who have signed up for freshman crew are now working out three times a week under the supervision of Coach Kingsbury, and are frequently sent out to row on Lake Mendota.

The men are divided up into classes of about 20 men each and are sent out on the cold waters of Mendota to learn the rudiments of rowing. Most of them have never been in a shell before, but their ability to learn rapidly has been astounding, and many prospective varsity oarsmen have been uncovered.

The tiny coxswains are also being instructed in the arts of crew direction, and many are the "boners" they pull when first assuming charge of a shell. But the boys all take it good-naturedly.

Varsity Lays Oars Aside

The varsity crew members have laid aside their oars, and except for a little coaching of the youngsters, no longer appear around the boathouse. But next spring when the ice begins to break up, they will once again assume their work on the machines, in order to get on the lake as early as possible. Their rest this winter is enforced because it is feared they would get stale if made to labor
the year round.

To Get New Coach

Great things can be awaited when the shells once more appear upon the lake. A new crew coach will probably be here to take charge of the men.

Races for the varsity, the jayvees, and perhaps even the freshmen are planned, and Wisconsin will once more prepare to assume its customary position of leadership among the universities of the Middle West by sending a crew to Poughkeepsie.

touchdowns for a 13-0 win.

Seibecker—Beck, Relihan, Frank, D.
Meiklejohn, R. Galfineau, H. Galineau.

Frankenger—Barret, Callahan,
Stott, Reussy, Hasslinger, Brown, Kreuger.

Vilas Loses

Richardson house came through to a narrow 2-0 win over Vilas house. A blocked kick by Richardson led to a safety which won the game.

Richardson—Rose, Luecker, Roethe, Raettig, Younker, Milbee, Kojis, Brou-tigan, Glasgow.

Vilas—Sullivan, Justil, Stark, Slit-
on, Peters.

Games postponed were Bashford—Ochsner; Faville—Fallows. Gregory house forfeited to Tarrant; High house forfeited to Van Hise; and Gregory forfeited its Thursday game to Noyes house.

Three games were played in the mud at the dormitory intramural fields Friday afternoon, and one game was forfeited.

1. Raise fraternity initiation standards and requirements relating to probation.
2. Establish a point system regulating participation in student activities.
3. Place Madison traffic ordinances on a metropolitan basis.
4. Remedy the profiteering evil of football ticket scalping.

It Failed—Why?

Let the Interfraternity Council Study the Big Rushing Deficiencies

THE Interfraternity council, in its endeavor to solve the rushing problem at the university, know for more about their business than they pertaining to rushing, consider them carefully, and then draw conclusions as to the best means of correcting the present evils. This, in brief, was the recommendation made Thursday morning by The Daily Cardinal in the first of a number of the interfraternity organization must get? For, if editorials to the council.

What are some of these substantial facts which the fraternity men of the campus are to devise a more suitable system than the one which proved so hopeless in its trial this fall, they will need to know far more about their business than they knew last spring.

First of all, before any new rushing regulations are planned, the council should understand just why and how the recent system failed. Lack of enforcement power on the part of the court, some will immediately say. Lack of cooperation among men in reporting violations, others will reply. Probably so. Both of the above are undoubtedly reasons that will prove, upon examinations, to have weight.

But these are only surface causes. There are numerous other reasons for the downfall of deferred rushing this fall, and many of them have probably never occurred even to the most observant critic. Consequently, The Daily Cardinal advises a thorough study on the part of a selected committee of the council.

Some fraternity men will immediately laugh. They think they know what's wrong, and that the council can plug up the weak spots of the system right off the jump. Yet, we'll warrant that if this is done, the organization will start to head into the same futile kind of experiment it just finished.

The whys and wherefores of the failure of deferred rushing are intangible. That's the reason facts will be hard to get. We think we see them floating over the surface, but what we see are not facts; they are empty rumors and allegations based on generalities.

Since facts are so intangible, how is the council to get the information we advise? It may have methods of its own, but The Daily Cardinal advocates the use of a system of interviews similar to those used by the United States Senate in carrying on an investigation.

Many persons on this campus profess to know all about violations. These are among the people whom the council should endeavor to see. Many have been active in broadcasting rumors. Others have been interested parties in the deferred rushing movement and seem to understand its difficulties. Still others have been active on the council and the Interfraternity court.

All these people are probable sources of information. Each one is entitled to give his version of the question, and all together ought to strike near to the principal causes of deferred rushing failure.

The starting point from which to rebuild the system that failed is to discover what was wrong in the first place. The council may think it knows now. If it does, it is sadly deceived. And so the soundest policy its first committee can pursue is to conduct a detailed survey such as mentioned above.

The results, after careful examination, may prove that the whole present theory is wrong, or they may prove that only a few minor faults exist. The big thing, however, is that such a research committee, we may call it, be immediately organized and set out to work at once. Once started, let it carry out its policy swiftly and coherently.

Subject for Thought

We Have Received It from Professor Kahlenberg's Address Thursday

PROF. LOUIS KAHLENBERG, speaking before 200 members of the freshman class in the Union building, said:

Let your inner self talk to you. That's inspiration. Let it be your guidance.

"The greatest happiness comes from helping others. Your spirit lives on all the time.

Don't you think the spirit of a man like John Bascom is continually hovering over this university? The manifestations of that are in the graduates of this institution throughout the world.

Don't let the lessons swamp you. Get them done because that's what you are here for. But the feeling to get something above which is not new is the greatest the world has known."

We cannot interpret these quotations of Prof. Kahlenberg for freshmen, or for upperclassmen, too, for that matter. They have a different meaning for each of us. And each of us can take them and interpret them as he will.

But the main thing is that these words of advice embody some of the thoughts of a man who has gained both popularity and prestige at Wisconsin. They are the words of a man who understands the university and its students. And as such they deserve consideration and thought.

Inspiration, the spirit of John Bascom, and the advice that we get something above that which is not new—in all of these there is value that needs deeper thought than the mere passing glance of a student perusing a newspaper.

Time to Clean House

Let's Enforce Rules and Pull Down Stale Advertising Signs

ADVERTISEMENT of various university activities is turning a beautiful district into the resemblance of a bargain basement. Paint is splashed on brick walls with whitewash brushes. Sidewalks are marked with slogans, and placards are nailed to trees and telephone poles.

No attempt is made to remove the signs after the events they advertised are over. Three-year-old slogans may still be read along Langdon street, and posters remain up for months until another underclassman hustles along ballyhooing a new attraction.

All of this disfiguring could be avoided without damaging attendance at mass meetings, concerts, or games. Proper places are provided for posting notices. Use of other places by publicity underlings, anxious to make a big splash, and provided with a bucket of paint with which to do so, should be followed by swift and certain action by both city and university officials. Plenty of rules exist forbidding these practices, and The Daily Cardinal will encourage and back their application.

We recommend that every activity head be held personally responsible for any disfiguring notices that advertise his activity; that the activity head be compelled to remove obnoxious signs and pay any damages that accrue from them. And let repetition of the offense carry with it expulsion from the activity. Further, we recommend that any failure to remove signs after the occasion advertised is over shall be punished in a similar manner. Let's have action be started by city and university officials right away.

SKYROCKETS BY UNCLE WALT

Tell me if you've heard this before: Frank Trostle promises to arrest scalpers next time.

Ain't it good? At the beginning of the Badger Board mixer invitation it says, "You are invited—and at the end it says, "You are required to attend."

"Octy crashes through with clever stuff." That sounds encouraging, of course, but I'd laugh if it really did.

H. E. SAYS "WAIT TILL I AM AN ALUMNUS"
Editor, The Daily Cardinal:

As I was glancing over the Readers' Say-So column in the Wednesday edition of The Daily Cardinal, I found that I had "given an alumnus a chance to grin." Of course I am glad of that, but he isn't the first one and probably not the last one to get a grin from my foolish ideas. I realize now that I was just having another day dream when I kicked about the tickets I received.

When I reached the stadium I was besieged by an army of Madisonians, grads, and some students all of whom were shouting, "Got ten on the fifty yard line"—(or name your own number.) Mr. Hickox neglected to mention these in his article.

I might add that from my advantageous position I was able to see a man make a ten yard gain—parallel to the line of scrimmage. When we went home I was glad to learn that Wisconsin had won.

But never mind Mr. Hickox. I'm squelched, but wait 'till I am an alumnus!

ALUMNUS IMPRESSED BY UNION

To The Wisconsin Union: (Released to The Daily Cardinal)

I went through the Union building several times this past weekend, and am certainly impressed and pleased with it. I am confident it will fill a well defined need of bringing the students as well as the alumni closer together. The Rathskeller is a wonderful place and should help one to really know more men at the university. I am know I have done my share. Thanks for keeping pleased to finally get my pledge paid up and to after me.

Writing

JOURNALISTS who have made their way to the top of the profession in which writing and the development of style are of major, if not sole, importance gave some advice to students during their stay on the campus last week-end. Carl Magee was especially urgent in his wish that young people begin to write sooner and do more of it.

"To write is to learn to write well," the eminent editor pointed out.

Many of us who are students spend a great many years in preparing ourselves to write but seldom take advantage of the learning early enough to be highly successful with the pen. To read, to see, to hear, to speak are to make worth while contributions toward the art of writing, but to do those things without setting down their results early is to lose their chief value.

Writing is the greatest training in authorship.

Don't Send My Boy to—

Mr. Smith: I have sent my boy to a small, exclusive college. There he will receive individual attention in his scholastic work, and in his outside activities as well.

Mr. Jones: I have sent my son to a state university. There he will be fitted for life.

Mr. Smith: Then you think that there is something besides a well-rounded education that comes first in the fitting of a boy for life?

Mr. Jones: I do. I see a university as a sample universe. Therein the youth of our nation takes part in a dress rehearsal for the play called "life."

Mr. Smith: But his associates are not always the best. He may rub elbows with men below his level.

Mr. Jones: When your son graduates from his small, exclusive college he finds himself in a large, unexclusive world. The aspect will frighten him.

Mr. Smith: He will be well-educated.

Mr. Jones: My son will be well-educated. But not alone in the arts and sciences. He will be educated in the ways of his fellow men. His range of acquaintances will be wide. He will be a graduate, not only of a college, but of a preparatory course in life. Life as it is lived—not as it should be lived.

—Daily Nebraskan

All the arts, and the enjoyment of life of which they are the expression, are related to leisure. It has often been said that they depend upon economic surplus, but that is closely equivalent to leisure. No doubt, for a generation or more, some very sad uses will be made of leisure, but here is an opportunity for education and example to point on rich and fruitful uses of spare time.—Provident Journal.

will be made for today's football games. In this one case the writer deems himself very very lucky indeed to escape that task, what with such games as Iowa-Wisconsin, Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech scheduled.

The Send-Off

Rain and miserable weather kept the send-off from coming up to expectations. But the enthusiasm of the those hardy people who attended was enough to send any team to victory.

They Speak

Lusby, Cuisinier, and Capt. Rube Wagner tried to speak. But Sammy Behr, the bashful sophomore star, steadfastly refused. He probably feels that he can do his stuff better on a football field.

Anyway

The Daily Cardinal sports staff will be well represented at Iowa. Weiss, Kroncke, and Dahlgren braved the elements to see the game.

The cross country meet with Iowa today will be just as close an affair as the football game. Iowa in this sport also is the favorite to win. But the Badger balance might more than make up for the outstanding ability of two of the Iowa men.

Junior and Frosh A's Win Opening Volleyball Games

The junior and the frosh "A" teams were visitors in the first women's volleyball games of the season, played Thursday night in Lathrop gym. The Juniors beat the Sophomore team 31 to 23 in a game marked by many rallies. The score was almost even at the half, but the superior team work of the juniors enabled them to forge ahead in the second period.

The frosh "A" team experienced little difficulty in winning over the Frosh "B" team by a score of 50-22.

The lineups were:

Frosh A: Kunz, Ernst, Hanas, Kuchne, Thompson, Reinhart, Croner, Gilbel.

Frosh B: Mintz, Lubman, Bernhard, Bart, Wenzloff, Garrigus, Blizit, Soebel.

Mrs. Chauncey Judeay is in charge of the decorations; yellow chrysanthemums will be used.

Miss Lois Freye and William Schutt Married Wednesday

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Lois Freye, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley E. Freye, of 133 Jackson street, to John W. Schutt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schutt, of 545 Kedzie street. The ceremony took place at 10 o'clock last Wednesday morning at the Holy Redeemer parsonage. Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home.

The bride wore a gown of beige chiffon with a lace yoke and draped skirt, falling in points. Miss Dorothy Schutt, her attendant, wore a dress of brown satin. Both the bride and bridesmaid carried bouquets of roses and sweet peas. Oscar Freye was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Schutt are at home at 545 Kedzie street. Mr.

Mary Louise Devine '25, Edwin J. Sorenson '26 Wed Thursday Morning

A recent wedding of great social interest and of interest in university circles was that of Miss Mary Louise Devine '25, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Devine, 1015 Lincoln street, to Edwin James Sorenson '26, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Sorenson, Milwaukee. The ceremony took place Thursday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Raphael's church. A wedding breakfast was served at the Madison club.

The bride was gowned in ivory transparent velvet fashioned with a tight fitting bodice, lace yoke, and long, tightly fitting sleeves. The skirt was long and fell in graceful sweeping lines. Her veil of Chantilly lace fell from a cap of lace. She carried a bouquet of roses.

Miss Kathryn Devine, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Her gown was of salmon pink transparent velvet; and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bride was attended by four bridesmaids who were dressed in varied shades of velvet. The frocks were fashioned on simple lines with a drape at the side, a soft bow, and long sleeves. They carried bouquets of chrysanthemums. Miss Rosanna Kindschi wore a burnt orange gown; Miss Vida Shepard, jade green; Miss Anna Fox, deep orchid; and Miss Florence Pierce, poudre blue. Jane Noel, the flower girl, wore a charming ruffled frock of pink taffeta.

Stanley Sorenson attended his brother as best man. William O'Malley, Charles Kellogg '28, both of Madison, Walter Schwarm, Milwaukee, and John Moylan '29, Chicago were the ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Sorenson are taking their wedding trip by motor and will later be at home at Kendall avenue, Madison. Mrs. Sorenson is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi. Mr. Sorenson was active on the campus during his university years, serving as a prom chairman of the 1925 prom, on Badger staff, and Homecoming committees; he was a member of the varsity wrestling team, Haresfoot, Skull and Crescent, and Tumas. He is affiliated with Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Schutt, who was formerly a student at the University, will continue his studies here next semester.

Marguerite Haines, Herbert Lappley Married Recently

Miss Marguerite Haines, of 418 North Randall avenue, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haines of Arcadia, was married to Herbert L. Lappley on Thursday morning, Nov. 15. The ceremony was performed at 8 a. m. at St. Paul's university rectory by the Rev. H. C. Hengell.

The bride wore a gown of Alice blue georgette, with a hat to match, and carried a corsage. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Barnes, of Janesville. Mrs. Barnes was formerly Miss Marguerite Gautsch.

After the wedding, a breakfast was served to immediate relatives and intimate friends at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Lappley, of 1303 West Johnson street. After the breakfast the couple left on a trip. After Dec. 1 they will be at home at 106 South Hancock street.

Mrs. Lappley is a graduate of the training school for nurses, St. Francis hospital, La Crosse, in the class of 1924. The groom is a former University student, and is now president of the Central Garage company.

Saturday Parties

Among the parties listed for this week-end are formal dances for Rho Epsilon Delta and Alpha Tau Omega; and informal parties at Beta Phi Alpha, Phi Upsilon Omicron, Charter House, and Fallows House. The Graduate Club is also entertaining with an informal dance.

Wisconsin Student Writes Biography

Elsie Gluck, graduate student in the university, has a biography of John Mitchell billed for spring publication by Knopf.

Mitchell was a leader of the United Mine Workers some years ago, in this country.

Miss Gluck received her B. A. degree from the university in 1920 and expects to take her Ph. D. in economics this summer.

Triad Officially Becomes Paper

Faculty Action Organizes Publication Expanded This Year

Formal organization for the Triad, men's dormitory organ, was given by action of the Faculty Committee on Student Publications, said Chairman Willard G. Bleyer, Friday.

In former years the Triad has been an insignificant factor in the field of student publications, being put out in handbill form. This year, however, it has expanded to tabloid size and is printed by the Cardinal Publishing company. Two student editors, a fellow adviser and a Board of Control comprise the heads of the Triad organization.

The increased size of the paper and the number of staff members demanded some formal organization. This was given by the action of the committee, a branch of the Committee on Student Life and Interests.

The Wisconsin Student Independent, renegade weekly newsmagazine, whose editors are not registered in the university, was also discussed. Action regarding this new publication was not taken in as much as it does not come under the jurisdiction of the committee. It is not an official university publication and the university assumes no responsibility for its actions.

New Shows at Capitol and Strand Both Good; Also a Few Comments on Players

By BOB GODLEY

"THE DEVIL'S DISCIPLE" brings out many new faces in Prof. Bill Troutman's organization. Better than that it shows the possibilities of many of the more experienced actors.

We think that this Cornelia Flieth is one of the most appealing girls ever to sob on the edge of a sofa at the end of an act. We think that Don Varian (if properly handled) will be a strong asset to the theater.

Gibbs Allen is a reliable and versatile character man. His vocal antics have improved greatly since his debut last February.

Don Ameche is the superlative find of the season. There has always been a shortage of "straight" actors. We remember but two last year... Art Adams and Wiff Roberts. Ameche has a bit more fire than Roberts, is an experienced actor, and can handle many types of role.

Cradle Song

Troutman will start try-outs for "The Cradle Song" today at 10 o'clock. There will be only two men in the cast but there is a great opportunity for women.

Try Outs

Try outs are open to all eligible people and are held in Bascom theater. We urge... and Bill Troutman urges... that as many as possible try out.

Strand

"Lilac Time" with its theme song, "Jeannine, I Dream of Lilac Time," is now at the Strand.

It is a war picture starring Colleen Moore and Gary Cooper.

Colleen Moore as "Jeannine" is a native French girl. Gary Cooper, a member of the aviation corps, falls in love with her. Gary's old man, a general, doesn't like the idea and brings the hero's fiancée down from England. But it's no soap for Gary... he wants his women French and fast... so he sticks to Jeannine.

Comes the time when our hero gets Dawn Patrol duty. He is shot down by a bad, bad man and confined to a hospital in a far corner of the land. Jeannine starts looking for her boy friend, but he doesn't seem to show up. She thinks he's kicked the bucket. At last, she finds the hospital where he is and she sends up some lilacs, thinking they would be put on the dead body. Gary, who is not dead after all, sits up and takes notice when the lilacs come.

They finally get together and... live happily ever after.

(Reviewed by Ray Rothman).

Capitol

The third of a series of "R" pictures starring Dolores Del Rio is "Revenge." The other two were "Resurrection" and "Ramona," all by United Artists.

Dolores is the daughter of a bear tamer in the Carpathian mountains. The bear tamer trains and sells bears to those fierce looking gentlemen who chaperon bears around the streets and play flutes.

Dolores helped her father tame bears. In fact the impression one gets of the first part of the picture is mostly "beary." There are two small and amusing bear cubs who fight for food under the supper table.

After a little a gang of gypsies appears. Dolores dances and makes a pass at one of the gypsies. He is hooked.

He is an accordion player. She bosses him and decides she doesn't love him. Then along comes a bandit who is mad at her father because he killed his father.

He bobs her hair with a hunting knife. This causes no end of trouble. He finally kidnaps Dolores so the bandits will have a cook. She... well, see it yourself... it's really a good picture... mainly because it is land in an interesting setting.

Home Made

Costumes for "Lysistrata" are procured by members of the cast. They will be quite original.

Oh, Yes

In producing "Cradle Song" Players will be following their policy of producing bigger and better plays.

Parkway

When "Singing Fool" quits running at the Parkway, "Beggars of Life," a hobo story by Jim Tully will open.

Wallace Beery plays the lead and Louise Brooks is the only woman in the cast. She appears in men's clothes most of the time.

Turn

The opening act on the Orph bill now running is merely an acrobatic turn but it is different and blessedly short.

Latest Sorority Robbery Nets $10

Extra vigilance on the part of fraternity and sorority members in the care of articles of value is urged, as a result of the series of campus burglaries that have taken place since the beginning of the semester. The latest of these occurred at the Beta Sigma Omicron sorority house, 150 Langdon street, Friday evening. While the girls were at dinner the purse of one of the members was robbed of $10. Conclusive evidence of robbery was offered by the girl whose purse was ransacked inasmuch as she had taken a comb from the bag shortly before putting it down, noting the presence of the money at the time.

Kochanski Wins Violin New Place

Composers Revise Famous Classics for Genius Who Plays Here

The genius of Paul Kochanski, Russian violinist who opens the Wisconsin Union concerts at the Stock pavilion Tuesday evening, Nov. 20, has inspired a number of the foremost composers of the day to write new works for the violin.

Stravinsky, Prokofieff, Szymanowski, de Falla, Nin and others have honored him by dedicating compositions to him. The violin repertoire, which unfortunately has always been small and neglected by great composers, has been considerably enriched by the impetus given to the outstanding modernists by the brilliancy of the Russian violinist's playing.

Stravinsky made a special arrangement of portions of his "Fire Bird" for Kochanski which were given their first American performances. Szymanowski has written three important works for him, "Concerto," "The Myth," and "Romance." Prokofieff's "Melodie for Violin and Piano" was also inspired by Kochanski and dedicated to him.

At least one of these compositions is expected to be included in Kochanski's Madison concert. Tickets for the recital are on sale in the lobby of the Memorial Union at $1, $1.50, and $2. Season tickets for concerts by Kochanski, Schipa, Onegin, and the Chicago Little symphony are also on sale at $4, $5, and $6.

University Offers Vocational Talks to Kiwanis Clubs

An increasing interest in vocational guidance and education among Kiwanis clubs is being supplemented by speakers from the University Bureau of Vocational Records and Guidance, of which Registrar F. O. Holt is chairman.

During the coming week, Mr. Holt will address Kiwanis clubs in Wausau, Lancaster, and Janesville. In each case the program will deal with some aspect of vocational guidance and education. In Lancaster, Mr. Holt will also speak to a meeting of teachers in the evening.

At each place, Mr. Holt confers with students who are interested in institutions of higher learning, and by a co-operative committee, he represents not only the university, but also the privately endowed colleges and state teachers colleges of Wisconsin.

Prof. A. H. Edgerton and V. A. C. Henmon, other men in the Bureau of Vocational Records and Guidance, are also working under the reciprocal agreement with other Wisconsin institutions of higher education.

Landman Praises Discussion Leader

Rabbi Freehof of the K. A. M. temple, Chicago, who will lead the discussion, "Can Religion Ever Be Liberal," at the all university convocation in Music hall at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, is "the most scholarly rabbi on the pulpit" is the opinion of Rabbi Landman of the Hillel foundation. During the war he served as chaplain at the headquarters of the first army of occupation. Since then he has been a member of the faculty of Hebrew Union college, Cincinnati.

Students are urged to attend this second convocation; Rabbi Freehof's speech will begin a series of religious discussions sponsored during the year by the Uni-Service committee.

David McNary '30, chairman, who will preside at the convocation, Helen Bernarr '31, secretary, and Chester Jorgenson '30, treasurer, are members of the committee.

Inspires Composers

Paul Kochanski, Russian violinist, opens the Wisconsin Union concerts here Tuesday night, Nov. 20, at the Stock pavilion. Kochanski's genius has increased the world's violin repertoire.
