NEGATIVE TEAM WINS ITS DEBATE FROM MICHIGAN

Second Victory at Ann Arbor Since 1902; Season a Success

Debating before an audience of 2,000 persons at Ann Arbor, Wisconsin's negative team tore down one argument after another presented by the affirmative team and won the decision over Michigan Friday night, the first time in eight years. The question was, Resolved: that the proposed child labor amendment should be ratified by the several states.

The judge of the debate was Prof. H. L. Ewbank, head of the public speaking department of Albion college, Michigan.

Had Successful Season

The triangular debate with Illinois and Michigan Friday night closed a successful debating season for Wisconsin, only one out of four debates having been lost.

The negative team debating at Michigan Friday consisted of Virginia North L1, Robert Sher L1, and George Fiedler L2. The affirmative team, which defeated Illinois here Friday, consisted of Carol Hubbard '25, Melvin Thomson '26, and Herbert Morse L3.

Wisconsin's negative team, Isadore Alk L1, George Mitchell '25 and Harold Sporer L1, defeated Minnesota, while the affirmative team, Eileen Blackey '25, John Sumner L1 and Glen Bell L1, lost to Northwestern in a very close decision.

Won in 1902

Only twice before, since 1900, has Wisconsin been able to defeat Michigan. In 1902, the team on which M. A. Olbrich, recently appointed to the board of regents, debated, defeated the Michigan team. In 1917 Wisconsin won again after 15 years of defeat.

Theoretically Speaking, Fraternity Pins Belong on the He-Man's Vest

By FLORENCE SCHAUER

Fraternity pins must stay where they belong, on the men's vests, unless the golden wedding band is looming up in the future, insist many of Wisconsin fraternity men.

The worst of the bargain is often allotted to the poor male. Thinking he is giving over his pin in a sort of sacred understanding, he wakes up to realize that he has been "worked." For undoubtedly, scores of co-eds have not one thought of marriage on accepting a fraternity pin. A few minutes after the adoring male goes out of the parlor thinking how surprised she was when he very tenderly and seriously pinned his emblem above her heart, she is saying, "Gee, I thought I'd never get it."

When questioned about the subject, Otis Wiese '26, editor of the 1926 Badger, said, "There are, of course, many circumstances which would affect a decision that one might make in this respect—the weather, the place, and most important of all the girl."

COMMERCE MAGAZINE APPEARS WEDNESDAY

The next issue of the Commerce Magazine will appear Wednesday, according to Harry Alinder, editor in chief.

Two other articles in this number are one on "The Legal Councilor in Business," by Maurice E. Field, instructor in commerce law, and another on "Our Business Interest in Latin America" by John W. Fry, instructor in geology.

The address will begin at 7:30 o'clock, after which Judge Stevens will lead discussion. Any may attend, according to Francis Wendt L1, chairman of the meeting.

BROADCAST MUSIC OF MILITARY BALL

Studio Makes Arrangements to Send Annual Dance Strains Through Air

Arrangements are well under way to broadcast the music of the thirteenth annual Military ball from the capitol, April 3, according to an announcement made yesterday by George Walsted '25, personnel officer.

This is the first time in the history of the ball or prom that attempts have been made to broadcast the music from the capitol. Music will be relayed to the Studio and broadcast from the Studio station.

"This innovation should prove a popular one," said Walsted. "It is entirely a new feature which has never been tried out before, and will enable many to hear the music who would otherwise miss it."

Walsted has charge of the tickets, music, program, and box committees.

THREE NUMBERS ON SENIOR STAG PROGRAM TUESDAY

Banquet and Specialty Acts to Precede Speeches of Diebold and Little

A program of three numbers, in addition to the three speeches, is being arranged for the senior stag banquet on Tuesday evening by Robert Nethercut '25, chairman of the senior class social committee.

Roy "Chubby" Goodlad '26 and Burney "Bush" Solbraa '27 will give a specialty act. A quartet composed of several members of the former varsity quartet and men from the class will sing a few songs. Before the banquet and between courses an orchestra will play. John L. Bergstresser '25, president of the class, will act as toastmaster.

Banquet for Seniors

The stag banquet, which is for all men in the senior class, will be held from 6:15 to 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening at the Luther Memorial church. A canvass of the university district is being made by the organization committee to distribute the tickets which sell at 75 cents.

According to the tentative schedule arranged last night, "On Wisconsin" will be the toast. The orchestra will play between courses.

Quartet to Sing

The first number will be that of the quartet, to be followed by Goodlad and Solbraa in a comedy act. Max Mason, professor of physics, Marshall Diebold '25, captain of the basketball team, and George E. Little, director of athletics, will speak after the program is given.

"Our program has been arranged to fit in with the purpose of the banquet which is to get the men of the class together, promote class and university spirit, and to start the senior class program," said Nethercut yesterday.

CONVO WORKERS TO HEAR FOSDICK

Speaker Will Address Students at Noon Luncheon Next Saturday

One hundred and fifty religious workers of the campus will meet at a luncheon that will be given at noon Saturday in the parlors of the Y. M. C. A. to listen to Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, speaker for the annual all-university religious conference.

"Because of the demand for these tickets, it has been necessary to limit the attendance to members of church cabinets, the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A.," said Dorrit Astrom '27, chairman of the luncheon for the conference.

This is the only other engagement that has been made for Dr. Fosdick except the four regular addresses of the conference. He feels that he will be better able to divide his time after he arrives on the campus than to have all his engagements made before hand.

Two College Glee Clubs Will Sing in Madison Next Week

Presbyterian Church to Bring Carroll Society Here March 31

Presenting a varied program of chorus, quartet and solo music and a comedy drama, the Carroll College glee club of Waukesha, Wis., will appear at the Christ Presbyterian church Tuesday night, March 31.

One of the chief attractions of the concert tour of the club this season is its direction by Alexius Baas, well known to Madison music lovers. Mr. Baas in 1903, 1904, and 1905 was director of the University Glee club, and for a time was director of the Mozart club of Madison.

The club is being brought here under the auspices of the university Presbyterian church. Tickets are now on sale at Hook Brothers' music store and may be obtained from members of the church at 50 and 75 cents. All seats are reserved.

RELAY CARNIVAL SORORITY EVENT IS NOT DECIDED

Error in Counting Laps Results in Postponement; Run Race Tomorrow

After sitting through two and a half hours of various track events of the sorority relay last night, the fair sorors waited with bated breath for the announcement of the winner, only to find that something had gone wrong.

When the timers checked up on the final heat of the relay they found that the winner had broken the old record by nearly a minute and that the men running the half and mile had turned in times that would do credit to Nurmi himself. A brief survey of the subject disclosed the fact that the men running these two distances had each run a lap short.

Find Discrepancy

As a result of this discrepancy the teams in the last heat will run their heat over again at 5:30 o'clock tomorrow. In the first two heats Phi Mu is leading with a time of 8:19 4-5 which is just 1-5 of a second lower than the record set up last year. Delta Gamma and Alpha Xi Delta also turned in close times.

Elleson, running for Alpha Xi Delta, ran a beautiful race in the mile. Taking the baton in fifth place the frosh ace slowly cut down the lead of his competitors and finished with a burst of speed a good 20 yards out in front. Had he had a fast set of team mates his quartet would have broken the old mark by several seconds.

Fraternity Relay Exciting

Full of spills and upsets the fraternity relay was the most exciting event of the evening. In the last heat Delta Upsilon, Theta Xi and Phi Kappa Psi, the three fastest teams, according to the time trials, were all grouped together with the

"CLEAN LIVING" TO BE LITTLE'S TOPIC AT "Y"

Athletic Director George Little will speak at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. parlors on "The Effect of Athletics on Clean Living." The talk this afternoon will be the third of a series initiated two weeks ago by the Y. M. C. A. as a preparation for the all university religious conference which is to be held here March 27, 28 and 29. The purpose of the meetings has been to present to the student body aspects of religion as seen from different angles. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, who is to be the principal speaker for the religious conference, will be present at the meeting next Sunday afternoon and will lead the meeting at that time. George Walsted '25 is to be in charge of the singing this afternoon.

This is the only other engagement that has been made for Dr. Fosdick except the four regular addresses of the conference. He feels that he will be better able to divide his time after he arrives on the campus than to have all his engagements made before hand.

Swimmers Down M. A. C., 42-26

Two Ex-Badger Stars Fail to Bring Victory For Opponents

Two former Badger swimming captains took to the tank yesterday afternoon for the Milwaukee Athletic club in the return meet with the Wisconsin tankmen but their efforts were of little avail against the superior work of the Badgers and Steinauer's men won the meet featured by several close finishes. The final score was 42 to 26.

Herschberger and Thompson tied for individual honors, with a first and a second place each. Herschberger slowed up in the 220-yard swim, however, after Holmes had swum a great race for second, and let Holmes come in first.

40 Yard Close

The 40-yard dash, the 100-yard swim, and the 150-yard backstroke were the closest contests of the meet. Herschberger won the 40 by inches, and Thompson, M. A. C. free style ace, was just able to nose out Hippie. Herschberger was kept out of the 100-yard swim, and Radcliffe, who took his place, placed second.

Wisconsin had the relay from the first lap and finished three-quarters of a length ahead of the M. A. C. natadors.

Cap and Sweater For Sale as Meanwell Luck Changes

Sentiment Connected With Coaching Apparel Disappears After This Year

By BOB LEWIN

FOR SALE—EXCHANGE FREE—One baseball cap, used only during basketball coaching, and one gray sweater. Will explain reasons for sale, gift or exchange upon request.

Dr. Walter E. Meanwell,
University of Wisconsin
Basketball Coach.

This is the want-ad which Coach Walter E. Meanwell, of the University of Wisconsin basketball squad, recognized as a leading authority of the court game, has displayed for several weeks. The famous mentor has almost given up hopes of ridding himself of these two articles.

Busy Coaching

But Coach Meanwell undoubtedly has devoted more time to the development of his basketball team, in spite of the 1925 losing streak, than he has to the economic process of placing two pieces of wearing apparel on the market.

Afternoon after afternoon, and night after night, Dr. Meanwell works on the basketball floor of the gymnasium with his group of 20 athletes. In a khaki flannel shirt, topped with a heavy gray wool sweater, whose numerous holes give it the appearance of a sponge, and wearing a small baseball cap, which scarcely covers the top of his head, Coach Meanwell drills the short pass, the five man defense, and an unlimited amount of fight into his varsity candidates.

Once Baseball Player

This story, however, is supposed to deal only with the cap and sweater. But way back when Walter E. Meanwell was slightly more than a youth, he was a professional baseball player, basketball star, gymnast, and wrestler in Rochester, N. Y.

About this time, he acquired a perfectly handsome new uniform in which to play baseball for the Rochester Y. M. C. A. "In ye auld tymes," when he turned back his suit to begin a career as a medical student at Baltimore Medical college, Coach Meanwell managed to keep the cap as a remembrance of many a skinned thigh from sliding into third base, a deep hit to center field, or a short bunt along the first base line.

SENIORS, JUNIORS WIN CAGE TILTS ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Fourth Year Women Run Up Heavy Score, 41 to 12 Against Frosh

After an easy victory which the senior women's basketball outfit took from the freshman squad to the tune of 41-12, the junior team wrested a 32-12 game from the scrappy sophomores on Friday night in Lathrop gymnasium.

The senior scoring machine continued to run up heavy scores against its opponents. Although Simpson was shooting in hard luck from the first, the senior forward combination rolled up 25 scores to 6 for the freshmen by the end of the first half. Rogen, senior forward, tossed in basket after basket from all angles of the floor.

Play Fast Game

The second half started with a pass from Strong to Rogen for a basket. Schweers, freshman forward, made a long shot for the basket and was successful. One of the prettiest plays in the game was the pass from Smith to Simpson who pitched the ball from out of bounds in to Rogen for a basket. Nauts and Fraser played a consistent game as guards for the freshman team. Score was 41-12 for the seniors.

The junior-sophomore game was fast from the start. Hamer, sophomore jumping center, got the tip-off, sent the ball to Schwarz, who missed the basket. Juniors scored the first basket when Graham sent the ball to Drews who passed to Maytum, then to Bigelow for a basket. The sophomore scoring outfit suffered a severe blow when Butler was removed from the game on personal fouls.

Sophomore Defense Good

The sophomore defense tightened up in the second half. No scores were made until Marion, sophomore forward, sank a pretty shot from the side. A basket for the juniors brought the score up to 20-12 at the end of the third quarter.

SHATTUCK WINS RELAY FROM CULVER, MADISON CENTRAL IS VICTORIOUS

Delta Upsilon Takes Fraternity
Relay; Schwartze Cops
Shot Put Event

Theta Xi team having a slight edge, McGiveran, varsity dash star, gave the Phi Psi's a good lead while Kananz handicapped the Thetas by falling on the first lap, leaving them out of the race apparently. Meanwhile the Delta Upsilon team clattered along at a fast pace and finally were running neck and neck with the Phi Psi's and stepped into the lead when the fourth man for Phi Psi fell on the dangerous annex curves.

In the second heat Muzzy put on a sprint in the last lap to break the tape and finish in a tie for second in the final count with the Theta Xis who made up for lost ground after the unfortunate spill of Kananz on the first lap. The first heat saw the Betas take the lead and hold it all the way to take a third place in the finals. Delta Sigma Phi tied for fourth with the unlucky Phi Psi's.

Y. M. C. A. Repeats

Easily the class of the field, the Y. M. C. A. sextette repeated their performance of last year in the intramural relay and tied their old mark of 1:44 3-5.

Although failing to equal the mark made last year by their former team mates, the Madison Central high relay team won the prep school relay with Janesville a close second. East Side high and Waukesha engaged in a merry battle for a tie for third place.

Shattuck and Culver, the two entries in the military academy class shared honors about evenly, each school winning a fair portion of points. Shattuck won the relay for the third time in succession giving them permanent possession of the traveling trophy.

Shattuck High

The two Shattuck speedsters also showed themselves to be the class of the field by taking first and second in the 40 yard dash. In the shot put, broad jump and high jump Culver took all three places which makes up for the honors won by their rivals in the other events.

All of the varsity entered in the special events lived up to expectations. McAndrews was easily the winner in the dash but failed to touch his old mark of last year. In the hurdles McGiveran ran the best race in his career and tied the old mark of Al Knollin in the highs which has withstood all attacks since 1922.

Schwarze tossed the shot with his usual proficiency but could not touch the mark of Arlie Mucks. Chuck McGinnis was at top form in the high jump and came within 3-8 of an inch of the mark made by Pete Platten, with a pretty jump of 6 feet, 4 inches. Schmidt took the pole vault at 11 feet 6 inches.

Fourth Places Are Taken By Badgers Matmen in Finals

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Mar. 22.—(Special)—Fourth places were the best that the Badger wrestlers could secure in the matches of the Western Intercollegiate association, Friday and Saturday.

Capt. Lisle Zodtnar, Harvey Chada and Raymond Stipek, were given the fourth places in their divisions. Michael O'Laughlin and Quentin Meeuwsen were eliminated from the finals.

Losing to Reed of Indiana and Woodhull of Ames in hard fought matches, Capt. Zodtnar could not become 145-pound champion this year. In the heavyweight division, Chada had the same misfortune after Childs of Indiana and Lattimer of Purdue had been given the decisions. O'Laughlin had the Chicago captain, Graham, as his opponent and could not overcome his experienced grappling.

William Splees, Wisconsin's favorite in the 158-pound class, dislocated his elbow wrestling with Prunty of Iowa and could not continue.

Hurt

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 22—(Special)—The Badger gymnastic team placed fourth in the conference meet last night with nine universities competing, and Capt. Herbert Schmidt won the all-around championship.

Badger fencers May and Hollister placed fourth, Walter Parsons was third in the sabre competition, and Capt. Elmer Freytag took fifth in the dueling sword exhibition.

Kress Fourth

George Kress was awarded fourth in the side horse exhibition. Walter Huxley was hurt during the meet and this handicapped the gymnastic team considerably.

Placing first in the flying rings, second in the horizontal bar work, and third on the parallel bars, Capt. Schmidt was high man and became the conference champion for the second time, repeating his work of last year.

Intramural Church League

The Church league opens basketball play on Tuesday evening. The Congregationalists will meet the Lutherans, the Baptists will meet the University Methodists, and the Presbyterians will play the St. Paul's chapel five. All these games are at 6:30 o'clock.

Local police have been asked to watch for Charles Peterson, 30, Chicago, who escaped from the U. S. Veterans' bureau office on Monroe ave. Friday. The man is said by bureau officials to be insane.

THE GOAL

Picture to yourself a southern negro, black as the proverbial ace of spades, clad in ragged overalls and mud-caked shoes, himself showing every appearance of being entirely unfamiliar with water, perched on a rickety chair propped up against the wall of some building. There he basks under the torrid sun, sleeping when he will, or waking to gaze languidly about him, or listening to the gossip of the passers-by. How he lives, no one knows. He is never seen working—more important, he is never seen thinking.

At his feet perhaps there lies a mongrel cur, almost the negro's counterpart. Like the negro he sleeps, or wakes to bite at a flea, and sleeps again.

Consider the philosopher, amateur or professional, who labors in some clean garret, who struggles with a bit of writing, who thinks and argues and thinks some more, only to find out that he has gotten nowhere, and not very sure of that either. Perhaps, after years and years of toil and struggle, after passing through many phases of intellectual worry, he commits suicide. A few of his works live after him, but they are of doubtful value.

Consider the co-ed who is beautiful but dumb, and the ed who is the same. They dance, they eat, they drink—and play and play and play. Consider then the co-ed who goes to the library with a serious purpose and the ed who wonders what it is all about; thinks he has at last discovered, tells a friend, and then decides that he is on the wrong track entirely.

What is living but finding happiness? Which of these various sets are the real philosophers?

Again the Daily Cardinal talks immorally, virtually advocates selfishness! But do you know that it does?

"SISTER RUTH WAS BLOWN AWAY"

The nation mourns, and with it the whole world mourns, as it did a year ago last summer when another nation suffered such a catastrophe as the United States met with last week.

The nation mourns, and sets out once more to rebuild its devastated regions with that same undying spirit which kept the frontier ever moving westward.

Perhaps there is no other country on the face of the globe which is subject to such varied weather and storm conditions as is North America, especially the United States. Storm and wind and cold and heat are continually working havoc with its inhabitants. In the summer months thousands in the slums are prostrated by the heat, in the winter months nearly as many are frozen to death. At any time of the year people may be turned into airplanes, to fly through the air, accompanied by all kinds of wreckage and land, dead or alive, against a stone wall. And at any time, winter may become suddenly summer, the change bringing deadly influenza.

Yet we go on, fighting against the odds of nature. No one knows why. It is an indomitable spirit which says "fight!" And fight we do, just as the philosopher fights.

At least, it is a glorious thing to fight in such a manner, and that is excuse enough, and reason enough for being admired.

THE LAST OF AN OLD ORDER

If not actually the last of an old order, Lord Curzon, who died Friday, was the most typical member of that order. An aristocrat, he was perhaps the last great leader in England of that class. It has been pointed out that had he been born a generation earlier, he might well have become prime minister of England. As it was, however, he came into the height of his prominence when England decided that it would take its prime ministers from the Commons and no longer from the House of Lords.

Although there have been few men who have been hated as much as Lord Curzon has been, he was a tremendous character worthy of admiration for his qualities of force and power. Because a man is hated is no reason that he should not be admired, and Lord Curzon will be looked upon as such a one so long as English history is remembered.

The Student Friendship drive for funds is completed at Wisconsin. The Student Friendship drive, however, is never completed.

Wisconsin Should Know

THE CAMPUS—CHANGING AND UNCHANGING

The campus is quiet this week, quiet while students are steadily at their desks studying for examinations or out on the lake with skates or iceboats getting the sporting thrill that means recreation. And in its quietness the campus looks as it looked a year ago, and as it looked ten years ago. The alumnus of '15 or '16, returning this week to visit the hill and to see a junior prom in the state capitol, would find the same buildings, the same laboratories, and the same walks that he knew when he was in school, and no more. The only newcomer to him would be the Wisconsin General hospital, an imposing million dollar state building on University avenue which opened its doors last fall. If he left the campus, however, he would not feel so much at home. Strange changes have taken place on State street, where the University club now shows a new broad front to the world, and where a dozen new stores have grouped themselves near Lake street; on the lake shore and Langdon street where the older fraternities and sororities are building fine new homes and where 26 younger ones, organized since 1920, are pressing in for locations; on the square where two new hotels, the Lorraine and the Belmont, give promise of a way at last to accommodate homecoming and reunion crowds. Every part of the university section seems to be growing up except the university itself.

The students haven't changed much, but there are more of them. In 1900 there were 1,800; now, that many take freshman English, requiring 71 classes for instruction where a half dozen was ample before. In 1910 there were 3,600; now, that figure scarcely measures the enrollment in economics courses. This year's registration shows a falling off in the Colleges of Agriculture and Engineering and an increase in the College of Letters and Science.

Next month, when blue books and prom dates are matters only for enthusiastic or sad recollection, the campus will lose its quietness and its similarity to the campus of 1915 and become again a lively, crowded city of 8,000. Students will climb the hill in never-ending streams, engineers will shout their taunts across to the "shysters," the Music hall gong will sound, and the wheels of instruction will move on slowly, bearing their loads as best they can. Classes over, activity will shift to the vicinity of the little old red Union building. There 200 staff workers are publishing a larger, more complete Daily Cardinal than ever before, working hard to earn the money for their own press—which may come next fall. There 200 more workers are compiling a new Badger, one aiming to represent Wisconsin "truly," so they say, and one devoting much space to the Memorial Union and to alumni. There the Octopus is making more money than it ever has before, and there the Lit is making less. There, on the top floor, Haresfoot is widening its activities to include more men and more territory, looking forward to using its earnings to further dramatics with a theatrical workshop and to establish even wider contacts with the alumni body, feeling that it is the one agent that can bring much of the university into the home town of the alumnus.

ALUMNI HANDBOOK.

Whee! the Octy had its big costume brawl Friday night, and the humor of the evening reflected the make-ups of the participants. Me-thuselab cracked one of the worst ones. He said:

"This chair reminds me of hammers, nails, saws and stoves."

"Why?" (We've seen that word somewhere else).

"Because it's hardware I'm sitting."

After that one the whole crowd decided that they needed a change of atmosphere, so they moved over to the Apache party at the Tee house. After fifteen minutes one of the Tees went hysterical, because he had been through three rooms and couldn't find a brother.

One of the home boys was heard to say,

"I guess that there must have been some kind of a mistake here. The interfraternity council meeting was held at the Sigma Nu house last night."

The boys had a dummy fixed up as though it had passed out, and when Gordy Lewis' girl saw it, she asked,

"Why I thought that we had left Powell over at the Badger Room?"

Then Gordy saw the knife in the dummy's back.

"I don't think that that's Powell," sez ee, "because he never wears a hat, but it sure looks like Hard Hearted Hannah has made a killing in one fraternity house at last."

TRY THIS ON

We were back stage at the Majestic the other day, and Hesselberg sat in a chair and broke it.

Somebody whispered, "A chair for Hesselberg," and we gave him three chairs.

Gordy Roberts was talking to Miss Homer about Duane Longaker, and she said that Duane talked like a waterfall.

"What do you mean?" asked Gordy, "gushes?"

"No," came the answer. "Splashes."

Gordy had her out one night, and she looked around for a while, and asked to sit out a dance.

"What's the matter?" Gordy asked. "Are you tired?"

Then she said, "No. If a girl tells anyone after a party that she danced every dance, it's a sign that she wasn't popular."

F.L.L. I can't go. I'm being initiated.

CIRCE'S PIGGIE

Methinks that the girls have gone halfway already.

We were in a good poker game the other night. Apha Delta ace to himself as a last card, and said, "Psi U hounds." Phi Delta good hand, everybody dropped out. They rooked us plenty.

We hear that one pledge had to go out to MacFarland to get the signature of the town mayor. When he got there he asked one of the town slickers (all wet) where the mayor was, and the fellow told him to look in one of the stalls at the livery stable. Oi. Oi.

Annual Plays Are to Be Given For Scholarship Fund

The annual plays for the scholarship fund, and a special meeting called for Saturday, March 28, will occupy the attention of A. A. U. W. and College club members the coming week.

The special meeting, which will be held Saturday at 3 o'clock at the clubhouse, is for the purpose of discussing the business of the organization for the next year.

A change has been made in the plays which will be given Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Lathrop hall. The University Players, instead of giving "Crimson Cocoanuts," as planned, will present "The Brink of Silence," under the direction of Mrs. C. E. Roach.

The cast includes Lowell Frautschi as "Cole," James McGuire as "Masready," Richard Church as "Darton," and Vaughan Winchell as "Johnson". Harold Beeman is probably woven about the Enoch Arden situation. An explorer, lost for many years, returns just as his wife is about to remarry. He returns north without revealing himself.

"Columbine," sketch of a bad girl and a good girl, will be presented by Mrs. Karl V. Hohlfeld as "Sallie" and Mrs. J. V. Fuller as "Minnie".

The third play, "Hyacinth Halvey," is the story of an Irish youth in a new town. His testimonials give him a higher station than he deserves, much to his embarrassment. He attempts to ruin his reputation, but everything he does turns to his favor.

Like An Oasis
In The Desert--

The co-ed who told us that has thought of college life in terms of delightful shops; quaint bookstores; intimate, charming places to eat; as well as the bustling life of the hill.

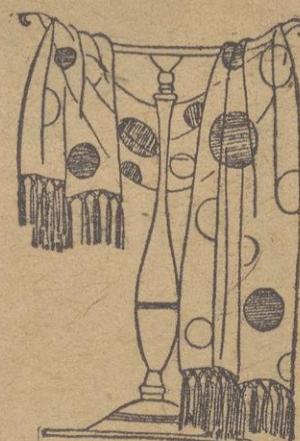

State Street has almost disillusioned her.

But now—food with a subtle tooth-someness bespeaking a mother's interest and a dietician's skill; unobtrusive service; dainty china; a certain saucy cheerfulness in ivory-and-old-blue chairs—she's found one of her ideals here, and we're as glad as she is!

FASHION PROBLEMS

—De Longe's Studio

I'm in the worse fix ever, and my mind's all in a whirl just when I should be at my best breaking into the columns of the Daily Elrb for the first time, but you see it's this way—a certain prominent Beta asked me to go to Military ball and wouldn't you know that I would have a date with the dumbest man in the world, and he isn't even a fraternity brother of my three letter hero. But you know they say "clothes make the woman" and believe me I'm going to have them all guessing at the ball for I have just parted with a few of papa's hard earned schekles and spent my allowance for June and all for the most perfect dress you ever saw!

I happened into Simpson's store yesterday and that's as far as I got for they have a perfect line of new gowns and seem to be specializing in evening dresses for the co-ed just now. Because I take a perfectly terrible picture and because she is so very re-presentative of Wisconsin women we all got Virginia Sinclair '27 to pose in my new Military ball gown and now I ask you, could anything be any more perfect?

I had a hard time choosing from the splendid stock, and what's more Dad didn't even have to mortgage the car to buy it for me for Simpson's garments are smart but very reasonable.

My dears, you can't half appreciate the dress from the cut, so let me tell you about it and just think what the Beta party is missing. They tell me that the robin's egg blue over the shell pink slip is very becoming to my brunette complexion. Although I know a wee bit about what's right I wouldn't take it until Miss Manning of the home economics department said that it was O. K. The conventionalized flower design is hand painted and my dears, it's precious. The material is chiffon, which is very good this year. Sprinkled narrow-ed disks and the large folded rosette of shell pink complete the garment.

Formals are either very long or very short this season. The formals which they were wearing in Paris before I came back were featuring the uneven skirt line. The basque type of garment is very good, and this is being worn very long almost to the ankles.

The very petite girl looks well in the basque gown and she can wear the tafettas which are always good, according to Miss Manning. The new Gros de Londres looks well on the slender girl. The straight dress is being worn again this season and is very good in the light colored satins.

The large single flower of harmonizing colors is the chief accessory this spring. It is being placed on the shoulder, at the hip or almost at the hem line. Jewelry? Yes, but very little and if worn on the arm it must not be placed above the elbow. Pearls are exquisite for the evening gown as are the colored fans and scarfs.

The tendency is to wear hosiery to match the slipper again but of course this is a personal matter. But I must go now as I am wanted on the wire and who knows maybe it will be an invitation to something or other?

TITUS' POTTERY PUT ON EXHIBITION

Ancient Cliff Dweller Specimens Now Being Displayed in Historical Museum

The W. A. Titus collection of cliff-dweller pottery is now on exhibition in the State Historical museum in the third floor of the Library building. The collection includes specimens from cliff dwellings at Hunters Point, Navajo Springs, Marsh Pass, Shaves Pass, Biddahoochee, St. John, and Adam-ana, Ariz.; others from Magdalena and Tularosa, N. M.; Grand Gulch, and Montezuma Canon, Utah.

These specimens of pottery are extremely old, the cliff-dwellers having lived there some thousand years ago. Several pieces are covered over by a coating of lime which completely obliterates the design.

Gray and black are the predominant tones. A few pieces, however, have been made from the red clay found in some parts of Arizona and New Mexico. The designs on these have been made in a brown stain which the Indians probably obtained from the juices of certain herbs.

In the collection there is some coiled ware. This is dull gray in color and was made by binding wet group of interested students and townspeople in the museum yesterday about points of art appreciation in Ufer's work. He said, "Do not look for something pretty in a picture, but think it out carefully."

ARRANGE SPANISH STUDENTS' TOUR

Romance Department Plans South American Summer Trip Under Lefort

A Wisconsin student tour of South America has been arranged and is being conducted by the romance language department. Mr. Emilio LeFort, Spanish instructor and a native of Argentine, will personally supervise the tour. Mr. LeFort will teach three hours of Spanish daily while on board ship. The romance language department may give three credits to students doing that work.

Wisconsin will be the second state to make such a tour. The University of Michigan conducted the first last summer. Public authorities throughout the countries toured entertained the students. The president of Peru gave a private party in their honor.

It is the opinion of Prof. E. A. Ross of the sociology department that "nothing better can be done by a student or faculty member of this university than such a trip."

The trip starts at New York June 25 and covers 20,000 miles in 69 days. The trip will end in New York August 31.

A chaperon approved by the university authorities will be selected to make the trip with the students.

When the tourists arrive in South America it will be winter, as the seasons there are the opposite of ours. A variety of clothes is necessary due to the extremes of climate.

Initiation ceremonies will be performed as the equator is passed.

PRINT FOSDICK SERMON IN CONGREGATIONALIST

A copy of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's farewell sermon, preached in the First Presbyterian church of New York city March 1, is reprinted in the March 12 issue of the Congregationalist. Dr. Fosdick will be the principal speaker at the annual all-university religious conference which will be held this week end.

602,000 STUDENTS IN U. S. COLLEGES IN 1925

Approximately 602,000 students are enrolled in universities and colleges in the United States this year. American colleges and universities have graduated approximately 825,000 men and women, and in addition have elected 2,400,000 without degrees. The number enrolled this year is 73 per cent as many men as have been graduated in the past 300 years from American colleges.

Do Not Learn Golf From Friends, Says Local Professional

"Never take advice except from a golf professional."

The statement applies only to students of the game, however. Mr. John C. Hackbarth, professional coach at the Blackhawk Country club, who is giving university women a 24 lesson course for physical education credit, says, "Golf is the science of a life-time. You can exhaust yourself but never your subject."

Every winter the course is given in the Co-op basement where 60 to 80 women practice hitting a ball's eye a few yards away in order to learn the mechanical side of the game. After watching them, Mr. Hackbarth has decided golf is a test of temper. Some stamp their feet and some swear. Some do both. The most difficult operation, according to students, is to maintain the correct swing after it is acquired. The only way to keep it is to remember the course, just as it is given, as though an examination were to be taken in it. Mr. Hackbarth hopes to establish the precedent of a final exam in golf.
