PLAN CARNIVAL EVENTS TO BE BADGERS' BEST

To Hold Sailboat Races In Water Tourney For First Time

TWO CREWS WILL RACE

A complete program of water events, consisting of crew, sailing, canoe, and motor boat races will be given on the morning of the 28th Annual Interscholastic Track and Field meet which will be held here on May 27.

The water carnival will be greater in scope this year than it ever has before, including for the first time sailing and motor boat races.

Sailing Vet to Judge

Motor canoe races will be held along with the canoe events. Races for single, double, and mixed parties are included in the schedule. Entries are being made with Merritt Giles '22, chairman of the event.

Yachts of every class will be given an opportunity to compete. Class A and B boats will be grouped together with handicaps given the B boats. Two cups will be awarded, one to the A class winner and one to the C boat that is victorious. The motor boat entries will be bunched, but a handicap will be worked out for each competitor.

C. B. Chapman, sailing veteran who conducted Madison's water fete last summer, has been secured as chief starter. Entries may be made by calling Elliot Sharp, B. 2985.

Plan 2 Crew Races

Weather permitting the Varsity crew meet with the University of Winnipeg will be held about 11:30, according to Gordon Wanzer '23, chairman of the committee in charge of the water events. The second Varsity crew will meet St. John's Military academy. If the weather is unfavorable in the morning the event will be held about 6 o'clock that evening.

"Special arrangements will be made so that the crowd will be constantly informed about the race," Enos Jones '24, assistant chairman in charge of the event said. "We will have a man on the Cardinal lunch which will follow the shells. He will wig wag his messages to the boat house tower and in that way we will keep everybody informed concerning the progress of the crews."

High school athletes who attend the track meet will watch the races from boats. Precautions necessary to keep canoeists out of the path of the shells will also be made.

CLEF CLUB MUSICIANS TO ENTERTAIN TONIGHT

Clef club will give a varied and novel musical program tonight at 8 o'clock in the Presbyterian church.

In addition to a program of violin, piano and vocal selections, the six piece orchestra of the club will furnish entertainment. Tickets may be obtained at the door or from members for 25 cents.

ORR ENTERS RACE FOR A. C. F. BOARD POSITION

Ray E. Orr '24 announces his candidacy as one of the student members of the A. C. F. board to be elected at the Agricultural College Federation election, today. Orr is president elect of the Badger club, a member of the Agricultural Literary society, and is prominent in inter-college athletics.

SOPH DANCE IS GIVEN FOR ALL, SAYS CHAIRMAN

Class Plans to Make Event
Largest of Spring Social Season

That the annual Sophomore Spring party to be given Saturday evening at the Candy shop is given by the sophomore class for all the students of the university was emphasized yesterday by Gordon Wanzer, '24, chairman of the dance.

"An impression seems to be held by the students on the campus," said Wanzer, "that the sophomore dance is only for second year students. In reality, we are trying to make this dance an all-university affair by the sophomores just as Prom is given for the entire school by the junior class."

Efforts are being made according to the committee in charge of the party to make the affair the largest spring social event of the year. Professional entertainers have been secured to put on special features during the intermissions, and there will be refreshments to intersperse the evening's events.

Jesse Cohen's nine-piece orchestra has been secured to furnish the music for the party, and the spring title of the affair will be carried out by special decorations which are being planned by the decorating committee. The party will be informal.

Campus Curs Clash For Cunning Cups In Canine Contest

"Every dog will have his day" on Saturday when the Madison Public Welfare association holds its annual dog show in the university Stock pavilion. Arrangements are being made to have Boseoe, Wisconsin's campus fixture, to cut his Saturday classes and appear in the show.

A silver cup is to be awarded to the best fraternity dog shown. Chief contenders for the prize will be Bosecoe, Sigma Chi wolf hound; Prince Jean and Prince Jean II, A. T. O. English bull dogs; and Wolf, Chi Psi police dog. Others entered are Chuck, Gamma Tau Beta; Pat, Delta Chi; Jack, Acacia; Tat, Phi Gamma Delta; Tex, Theta Xi; and Bubbles, Pi Epsilon.

Dogs from all over the country will be on display. Champion Seedy Sultan, imported Scotch collie owned by G. A. Landsee, Milwaukee, will attract a great deal of attention. Wawasee Jack Bawe, champion airedale, owned by M. A. Steele of Freeport, is another remarkable dog entered.

Admission to the show is 50 cents for adults, and 25 cents for children. It opens at 8 o'clock Saturday morning. Sandwiches and coffee will be on sale in the pavilion.

Prizes of silver cups and ribbons will be awarded. The judges are M. A. Steele, Freeport; T. J. Baum, Wauwatosa; and Irvin Bell, Red Granite.

A. C. F. Elections on Agric Campus Today

Election of student representatives to the A. C. F. board will be held in Agricultural hall from 8 o'clock until 5 o'clock today, according to announcements posted by the elections committee of the Agricultural College Federation.

Five Agrics and two Home-ecs have entered the race thus far. Home-Economics students will vote for Home-Economics representatives, and Agricultural students will vote for agric representatives on the board, instead of both schools voting for the same candidates, as was the case last year. Two representatives from each school will be elected to the library board today also.

Boost Union With Badger Life Play In Chicago Drive

The campus in Civil War times, when there were no women at Wisconsin; in the time of John Bascom when the co-eds first invaded the Badger halls of learning; in the late 90's during the athletic period when "Ikey" Karel made the famed touchdown for Wisconsin; and lastly in 1922, the period of flappers and tea hounds, were the four scenes of the play "On Wisconsin" given by the Chicago alumni at the Ayrton Grotto theatre to open the Memorial Union drive in Chicago Wednesday.

President E. A. Birge, Dean Scott H. Goodnight, Prof. J. F. A. Rye, and Prof. E. H. Gardner sat in the right box with Bishop Samuel B. Fallows, Israel Shrimsky '88, and R. Schuchardt '97, the author of the play. More than 500 Wisconsin alumni sat in the audience and watched the scenes of Wisconsin life as it existed in their time.

Shouts from the audience brought President Birge to his feet. He emphasized the fact that Wisconsin's growth had reached a point where either the attendance must be restricted or the accommodations must be increased. For this reason as well as others, President Birge urged the support of the Chicago alumni for the Memorial Union proposition.

"The Story of the Memorial Union," a booklet containing the complete history of the Union, is now being circulated to every subscriber. Sixteen thousand were mailed to the alumni to prepare them for the campaign, and the distribution to the students will take place next week, according to Loyal S. Baker, secretary of the Memorial Union drive.

Economics to Hold Artus Convo Here

Artus, national honorary economics fraternity, will hold its first annual convention at Wisconsin this week end. The meetings of the convention will be held in Sterling hall, and the convention banquet, which will close the affair, will be held Saturday evening at the University club.

Artus was founded at Wisconsin in 1912 and the Alpha chapter is assuming all the entertaining duties for the first convention. In university circles Artus has the reputation of being the Phi Beta Kappa of economics.

Declares Wisconsin Leads in Husbandry

"The University of Wisconsin is one of the leading institutions in Animal Husbandry in the United States," said A. J. Glover, editor of Hoard's Dairyman, in a speech before the third annual banquet of the Saddle and Siroin club held in the Wesleyan chapel last night.

Discussing the opportunities of the live stock industry, Glover said, "The boy that goes into his community and establishes the best herd or flock in the community need not worry about money."

Ogg Leaves Today For Chicago Meet

Prof. Frederick A. Ogg of the political science department leaves for Chicago at noon today to attend a meeting of the Political Science society of middle-western universities.

The awards committee of which Professor Ogg is chairman will select the best essay on political science written during the past year by an undergraduate in a university in eight middle western states.

GOPHERS AND PURPLE TAKE BOTH DEBATES

One Man Decisions Go to Badger Opponents In Conference Tilts

ARGUE COURT QUESTION

"I vote for the negative," said Prof. G. N. Merry, University of Iowa, casting the oral ballot that proclaimed Minnesota the victor over the Badger team in the Kansas Industrial Court plan debate in Bascom hall last night.

The Wisconsin team also lost to the Northwestern debaters on the same question, according to a report received from Evanston late last night. Melbourne Bergerman '22, Arthur Inman '23, and Leo H. Koh '22 composed the team that met the Purple. Prof. Ray K. Imuel, University of Michigan, was the judge at Evanston.

The Minnesota team, composed of Joseph Schneider, Leroy E. Matson, and Gerhard N. Sonnesyn, closer, based its argument on the contention that the Kansas Industrial court cannot give justice to capital and labor, and that the court cannot enforce the decisions it makes. They laid special stress in maintaining that the body is more of a commission that is politically controlled than a court of justice.

One of their most telling arguments was that a court that is constructed to meet the industrial strife between labor and capital in an agricultural state like Kansas, where only 7% of the population is industrial, cannot cope with the conditions in a state like New York or Massachusetts where 70% of the population is industrial.

They stated further that the strikes that really endanger the country are national strikes, and that individual state courts prove ineffective and powerless in such cases.

Wisconsin's affirmative team, Wayne Morse '23, Clyde W. Gleason '23, and Halsey Kraege '22, closer, built their case about a frame work which held that the Kansas Industrial Court assures capital benefits, that it benefits labor, and that it has succeeded in Kansas.

They asserted that the essentials of the plan embodied a court of adjudication with the power to enforce a decision, the outlawing of strikes and lockouts, and the assurance to the public of a reasonable continuity of the production and transportation of food, fuel, and clothing.

In giving the decision, Professor Merry said, "This debate has been (Continued on page 8)

CLEAR $100 AT ANNUAL MORTAR BOARD SUPPER

More than $100 was cleared at the annual Mortar Board supper given at Barnard hall last night for the scholarship which is maintained by the organization.

About 500 students attended the party which lasted from 5:30 to 8 o'clock. Dinner was served in informal cafeteria style. Music for dancing was furnished by Cecil Brodt '22, William Engelhart '22, Walter Kidder '23, Graham Battles '22 and Walter Pfister '23. Porter Butts '24, accompanied by Henry Rubel '23 sang after supper and Rubel entertained with stories.

FLAGS FLY SUNDAY TO HONOR MOTHERS

Mother's Day this year will be celebrated nation wide by the erection of an American flag on every public building in the United States, according to W. A. Devine, Madison postmaster.

We poked our heads in among the 400 at the Mortar Board extravaganza last night long enough to hear this: "Certainly a lot of these Board girls here tonight, ain't there."

Well anyway, the Mortar board girls are certainly bricks.

With the approach of Madison's luxite dog-show, the col. must burst forth with a little publicity in the form of doggerel:

Boscoe is a studious hound,
Old Jean has bloody eyes,
But in my own dog show,—
A Hinkson's takes the prize.

Now with that jinglie tinkling in your ears, listent o this,—our girl told us the other eve that the reason she was so sharp was because she lived on the edge of town.

If she hadn't been in a canoe I would have tipped her over after that.

* * *

Sammy Becker, all-university Phi Beta Caliope, has taken up his post on the University pharmacy steps where he is waiting for his car. Link Ringstorff, soda vendor, is paging a certain w. k. red Stutz, in order to get rid of him.

* * *

If Bryan had been in town Wednesday he would have found the missing link in Heinie Hall, Hares-footer on parade, and would have become a rank prohibitionist.

The only misleading thing about Jacko Hall is the species of mammalian tribble to which he belongs.

From his name we used to think he was a dachshund.

THE BALLAD OF LAKE STREET

We found the poor man dying,
His breath was coming hard,
But as we gently picked him up,
He breathed and whispered, "Pard,

"I've lived in Honolulu,
I've struggled in Siam,
I've worked for board in Chile,
And bummed it in Japan.

"I've seen ba dthings in may time,
I've killed in many ways,
But I bought a home in Lake street,
boys,
To linger out my days.

"Oh Lord, have mercy on their souls,
The boys who live down there,
Don't pledge on Lake street, sonny,
dear,—
Oh, freshman, do beware.

"For the S. A. E.'s and the Kappa Sigs
Are a noisy bunch of brutes,
And the Phi Delt's too,
"Til one or two, keep up the shouts
and hoots,

The Alpha Sigs and Phi D. Phis,
They bootleg and they yell,
And the Sigma Chis,
Gosh darn their eyes,
I wish they'd whoop in Hell.

"For they've done me in, as you can see,
Those 'jolly' Lake street boys,
I lasted through an awful lot,
But couldn't stand their noise."

THE EDUCATIONAL SALESMAN

CONSIDER the university professor. He is a salesman.

His stock in trade is the knowledge that he dispenses in his particular course. The student body is his active field. His potential field is the world at large in which those who have acquired a part of his stock are disseminating it, and in which lies the student bodies of the future.

The University of Wisconsin has some good salesmen. There are others who are not so good.

It must be recognized that salesmanship is a function of the professor. He has a product to put on the market. He must convince his customers that that product is of the best. He must sell his course just as truly as the commercial salesman sells his commodity.

In employing professors and instructors, the state should lay emphasis, not only upon knowledge of the subject which is to be taught, but upon the ability to pass that knowledge on to others. A professor who knows his subject but who cannot give to his students all of that knowledge is a poor salesman.

The organization of a course is the greatest asset that it has, and that asset can depreciate or appreciate at the will of the professor engaged in teaching it. By means of carefully prepared, coherent lectures, syllabuses, and text-books the salient points of a course of study are indelibly printed on the mind of the student. Professors who drone through their lectures, who have made no conscious effort to organize their material by means of syllabuses, outlines, or other plans, who have not mastered even the elementary principles of public speaking, and who assume that it is the duty of the student to assimilate the facts as they are given, regardless of the method of presentation, are not fulfilling the full obligations and responsibilities of an efficient instructor.

Take for example two professors. One lacks the ability to express his idea in coherent form; his course is poorly organized; he does not comprehend student human nature; and, although he knows his subject, he cannot put his ideas over in a forceful, interesting way. His class is inattentive. Interruptions are frequent. The results that he obtains are few. On the other hand, is the professor who can express his ideas clearly and concisely. His lectures are a supplement to the textbook. The time is more advantageously spent in listening to his exposition of the facts than it would be in reading those facts from a text. He wastes neither his own or his students' time. He is selling his product.

The university wants good salesmen and it must have them. It can better afford to have professors who have seventy-five per cent of the facts of their subjects and can produce one hundred per cent of those facts than it can to employ professors who are one hundred per cent perfect but who can disseminate but fifty per cent of their knowledge.

This does not mean, however, that the student is justified for inattention and discourtesy. It is a natural assumption that a university student is here for work. There are certain elements in any subject or discussion that are outstanding and essential, and if he fails to comprehend these principles he is the loser. He must learn to see and to act for himself.

THE NATIONAL EMBLEM

IS WISCONSIN spirit a single entity or does it fuse with national enthusiasm and loyalty?

It would seem that, to a part of the student body at least, national spirit is something to be displayed only on holidays and state occasions. To them the appearance of the national emblem is an unusual event, but it calls for no display of respect and courtesy.

The cadet corps is drilling for its annual inspection and the impressive ceremony of regimental review is held each week on the lower campus. The colors are always in evidence. They pass the crowds that line the sidewalks and go by the reviewing stand. But seldom along that line of march is a hat lifted or a conversation curtailed. It is an interesting spectacle, but the general attitude seems to be that respect for the colors on practice review is not necessary.

The smallest detachment of a command is brought to attention for the flag. The guard is turned out for the national emblem. Everyone from the commandant to the humblest private stands at attention when it passes. The student owes as much respect to it as anyone.

It might be, though, that lack of respect for the flag is a reaction from the intense patriotism of the war; but if such were the case, there would be but one class of citizens who would be inclined to neglect their duty—the ex-service men. They are not the offenders, however. They have learned the meaning of the flag and they will not forget. It is but a few of the thoughtless who disregard the colors as they pass and those few should be reminded that attention and respect is due when the flag passes by.

VERSATILITY

Ridicule is often directed toward the college student for his many activities. "What good are these going to do him?" is the query of old-timers on the side-line.

The average student in activities goes through a variety of duties that would put the average day of the businessman to shame. Up in the early hours of the morning, he intermixes his regular school work with numerous meetings, calls, campaigns, and social functions that keep him on the go until the late hours of night.

Are these activities of any real worth? We believe that they are. Their true value lies in the word "versatility."—Ohio State Lantern,

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

BADGER FROSH HUMBLE IOWA IN FAST MEET

Hawkeye Radio Fails; Results of Wednesday Meet Late

The Badger frosh track team defeated their brethren in Iowa on Wednesday afternoon in the first out-of-door track meet of the season. The radio outfit at the Hawkeye school failed to function on the afternoon of the meet, and the results were not known until the Iowa score reached here by mail yesterday. The score was 74½ to 60½.

Coulter Wins 3 Points

Each team contained some expert performers who bid fair to bolster up the Varsity in another season. Prominent among these was Coulter of Iowa. He was the high individual scorer of the meet, placing first in the 220, the 440, and tying with Joys, of Wisconsin for first in the 100.

Although the Badgers did not make clean sweeps in any of the events, nine firsts were taken, and plenty of points were picked up on seconds and thirds.

Van Ellis, Smothers Hancock Star

Van Ellis, Wisconsin, looked good when he won first place in the shot put by sending the weight 40½ feet. Harris, who starred on the freshman football and basketball teams this year, threw the javelin 139 feet for first place, in that event. The distance is considered good for a first year man.

The Badger high jumpers were particularly good, winning first and second places and tying for third. Smothers, Donohue, and Tuhtar were the Wisconsin men who placed first in the order named. Smothers

Bennett Captures Tennis Tournament

Playing almost unbelievable consistent tennis, George V. Bennett '23 captured the annual inter-collegiate tournament yesterday from Charles L. Campbell, freshman flash from Argentina.

At no time during the match was the victor certain. Both men are evenly matched, and played to the grueling scores of 9-7, 8-6. Bennett has displayed an exceptionally high brand of tennis throughout the tournament, eliminating such men as, Henika, Deutsch, and Stebbins.

JUNIORS TAKE GAME FROM SENIORS, 16-14

The juniors were victorious over the senior baseball team in a close game, 16 to 14, held between the two classes yesterday. The seniors held the lead until the fourth inning when the juniors staged a comeback. The batteries for the juniors were—Johnson, pitch, and Humes and Hazen, catch; for the seniors—Williams, pitch, and Hance, catch.

The largest number of freshman candidates in the history of Wisconsin athletics reported to Coach George E. Linden, Tuesday, for the initial tennis practice yesterday. Close to 25 men are exhibiting their ability to the coach each night.

ers placed first by virtue of a 6 foot 1¼ inches jump.

Hancock, a former Superior high school athlete who has participated in several meets and tournaments at Madison, easily took first place in his event by hurling the discus 141 feet and 11 inches, a remarkable record for a first year man.

The Iowans won the first telegraphic meet from Wisconsin last year, but the Badgers have copped the last two, iving themselves a two to one lead.

Wisconsin Meets Gophers in Second Big 10 Tennis Game

The Wisconsin tennis team will play its second conference tournament of the season tomorrow afternoon when it stacks up against the strong University of Minnesota squad. This is the second attempt against the Gophers this season, the first having been postponed on account of rain.

The Gophers play the University of Chicago in the Windy city this afternoon and will arrive in Madison to-morrow morning. Although the meet with the Maroons is the first Conference match this season for the northerners, they are reported to be in excellent condition.

The Badger team broke even with the Gophers last Saturday, each grabbing two matches up to the time rain commenced falling. Norton, the Minnesota ace, is reported to be one of the fastest men seen on conference courts in many a day, and bids fair to give Gotfredson a speedy match.

Pidgeon, Norton's partner in the doubles, is also reported to be a racquet wielder of no mean ability. With the courts in good condition and the Badger stars playing whirlwind tennis, the play tomorrow should be faster than that seen a week ago against the University of Southern California.

The tournament will start at 2:30 sharp, two doubles and four singles to be played. Benches will be placed around the courts.

BOARD FORCES PHI KAP FORFEIT TO LAMBDA CHI

The Lambda Chi Alpha baseball team won its protest over a game recently lost to Phi Kappa when the Phi Kappas played two Varsity baseball men. The interfraternity board yesterday decided the case in favor of Lambda Chi Alpha. The game was forfeited to the Lambda Chis.

BALL TOSSERS TO HIT ILLINI IN HARD GAME

Game Will Decide Badger Championship Chance

Coach Lowman and his crew of ball tossers will leave Madison today for Urbana to meet the Illini tomorrow in a baseball game which will be as hard as any that still remains on the schedule.

Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin are on a par as far as strength is concerned, and the game tomorrow will tell whether or not the Badgers are going to get the chance to beat Michigan out for the championship.

The lineup against Illinois will undoubtedly be the same as the one which faced them last week. The combination has worked well in the past few games, and every player appears to have his batting eye.

The fact that Hoffman pitched against Minnesota on Tuesday would indicate that the captain will be sent on the mound today, although it is possible that Mills, the only Southpaw in the Wisconsin pitching squad, will be carried along and used if "Lefty" Barnes does the hurling for Illinois. Hoffman is in good shape, however, and is apt to be used for a portion of the time. The Suckers may have profited by their failure to solve the Badger captain's offerings a week ago, and they may land on "Paddy" after a few innings.

The coach was undecided yesterday afternoon as to just what men would compose the squad which would be carried along.

a little different to me from others I have been listening to recently. I feel, however, that there was no mutual feeling between the opposing sides; each failed to get over into the others territory.

"In delivery, I feel that Minnesota surpassed Wisconsin. However, I was really stirred only by the last speaker on the negative side." The speaker referred to was Mr. Schneider, of Minnesota.

I. Arnold Perstein, former Wisconsin debator, who is now an instructor in public speaking at the University of California, acted as chairman of the debate.
