FAVORED PFEFFER WHEN ASSURED OF UNION AGREEMENT

Regent Hirschman Says She Would Have Approved Open
Shop Contract

Miss Ieola Hirschman, a member of the board of regents, yesterday told the senate committee which is investigating the Memorial Union strike that in view of her knowledge of contractor Jacob Pfeffer's past experience with laborers, she would not have voted to award him the contract if she had not been assured by Madison unionists that the regents could award the bid to him with a clear conscience.

The union leaders still maintained that they had a gentleman's agreement with Mr. Pfeffer before the contract was voted on.

Quizzes 15 Officers

While the senate committee pursued its investigation, Dist. Atty. Glenn D. Roberts was quizzing 15 Madison police officers on their roles in the riot at the Memorial Union Friday evening. Roberts is endeavoring to establish the guilt for the destruction of property which occurred in the melee, but he has published no statement of his direct purpose in questioning the officers.

Labor union heads yesterday advanced the theory that Madison policemen had but limited authority on state ground such as the Memorial Union site.

The senate committee examined Miss Hirschman, Pfeffer, and John P. Butler of the Madison trade unions at its meeting yesterday.

Denies Bad Record

Miss Hirschman insisted that she had heard Pfeffer had a bad record with union labor in spite of the latter's denial before the committee that he had had any difficulties in specific contracts which were suggested to the committee.

Senator Cashman was the only regent to vote against awarding the contract after Miss Hirschman had been assured of Pfeffer's agreement. In answer to questioning, she admitted that only such assurance could have inclined her to vote for the contract.

Her answer was not taken up in the light of the state law which requires state contract to be given the lowest bidder.

MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETING TODAY

Lecture, Two Student Demonstrations, and Ball Game
Features of Program

The fifth annual program of the University Medical Society under the auspices of Sigma Sigma, honorary medical society, will be held today, according to C. L. Leake, secretary of the society.

The opening meeting of the day's program will be at nine o'clock in room 119, Science hall, when several students of the medical school will read papers dealing with research and allied original subjects. At seven o'clock the various demonstrations of the student research will be performed in the physiological laboratory in Science hall.

The principal meeting of the day's program will be the lecture in the afternoon at one thirty o'clock in room 165, Bascom hall. This lecture is open to the public and is on the subject, "Fads and Quackery in Medicine," to be delivered by Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Society, and author of the book entitled, "Medical Follies." Dr. Fishbein is prominent in medical circles of the country and deals with a subject which should prove interesting to the general public.

At three o'clock, the faculty-student baseball game will be played at Camp Randall among with other athletic contest. No classes are being held to-day in the medical school because of the annual student's day program.

Prof. F. A. Ogg in Cleveland; Attends Meeting of Editors

Prof. Frederick A. Ogg, chairman of the department of political science, is now attending a conference in Cleveland, Ohio, the purpose of which is the establishment of a new co-operative magazine in learned scientific periodicals.

The conference is composed of interested editors of various scientific journals. Professor Ogg is himself editor of the American Political Science Review.

A plan has been formulated for the proposed new publication by a special committee of which he is a member.

Elaborate Services Are Planned for May 30

The university, the city and the state, are cooperating in the Memorial Day services Monday. All day tributes will be paid in many ways to the memory of the soldiers who died or participated in the World War, the Spanish-American War, the Civil War, the War of 1812, and in all foreign wars.

The Citizen's committee appointed by Mayor A. G. Schmedeman at the request of the local Grand Army of the Republic post No. 11, met last night in the capitol to complete the arrangements for the observation of the day.

Prof. George A. Chandler, assistant secretary of the faculty, is a member of the committee, and as chairman of the sub-committee on programs, made a report at the meeting last night.

The university R. O. T. C. will take a prominent part in the parade, which will culminate in memorial services on Lincoln Terrace and the upper campus. Over 200 girls will carry the wreaths bearing memorial plates later to be placed in the cornerstone of the Memorial Union building after the hill ceremonies.

CONCERT BAND PLAYS FOR MOTHERS SUNDAY

A band concert complimentary to the visiting mothers, will be played by the University Concert Band at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The concert although it has been arranged primarily for visiting mothers, is open to the general public.

The program will include music played in earlier concerts of the year. St. Clair's "Templar, Triumphal March," introducing "Onward Christian Soldiers," will be heard this year for the first time. The Ballet music from the Gounod opera, "Faust," and the Tchaikovsky, "Andante Cantabile," that proved so popular at the spring concert, will also be played.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL HAS APPROVED CREW RACE

The university athletic council yesterday approved the proposed race between the University of Washington and Wisconsin crews. The council recommended June 15 as the best date for the event.

In the past Washington's crews have divided a major share of the honors at the Poughkeepsie regatta with Annapolis, the lead alternating between these two crews for the last three years. The Washington eight, however, has been beaten by California this year and is not expected to figure so strongly in the regatta.

Washington has already agreed to race here if a suitable date can be arranged so that there will be no interference with the trip east. Since Wisconsin will not go to Poughkeepsie this year, the race with Washington will be the only competition for the Badger eight.

TRAIN CHANGES MADE FOR TRACK MEET SAT.

Because of the Big Ten Inter-collegiate Track and Field Meet being held here Friday and Saturday, the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company will operate a special train out of Madison for Chicago.

NEW EXECUTIVES ARE INSTALLED BY ARDEN CLUB

Lathrop, Roe, Speak at Third Anniversary of Founding

In celebration of the third anniversary of "its struggle on the intellectual gridiron of the university" the Arden Club held its annual banquet last night in the Pompeian room of the Hotel Loraine.

Prof. H. B. Lathrop and Dean F. W. Roe of the department of English stressed in the two main speeches of the evening the growth and accomplishments of the club, as well as outlining the potential influence of the organization in the literary life of the campus. Miss Carrie Rasmussen, '25 the founder of the club, spoke of the increased range of activity of the club since its inception three years ago. Rena Grubb, grad. was toastmistress.

Evelyn Olson '29, newly-elected president sketched the prospective program for the next year, naming the committee chairmen who were to assist in the administration. Other officers—elect who were installed were Hamilton Beatty '28 vice president; Alice Fox '29 secretary, and Charles Murphy '29, treasurer. The retiring officers who introduced their successors were Madge Collar, '27, president; Viola Wendt, '28, secretary and Carl Nelson '28 treasurer.

Chairmen appointed for 1927-28 are:

Make-up Man Gives Opinion of Heaven

"No Student Paper to Mar Ethereal Bliss"

In a lengthy and turbulent interview, granted exclusively to a Daily Cardinal reporter late last evening, George Timmerick, for years the autocrat of the composing table of the official student publication of the university stated, "I am willing to be quoted in the press as being of the opinion that in heaven there shall be, of course, no student newspapers to mar the ethereal bliss of the glorious hereafter. Furthermore, I emphatically state without fear of divine consequences that, should I be informed of the presence of a university in the celestial sphere, I shall immediately go elsewhere. I have lived a life of unmitigated Hell on earth whilst pursuing my chosen profession in the composing room of the Daily Cardinal, and Hell without a student newspaper is preferable to Heaven with one. That's my story and I'll stick to it."

NEW $500 FELLOWSHIP ACCEPTED BY REGENTS

A $500 fellowship, to be awarded to a graduate student, preparing for the teaching of German has been accepted from the Seminary Endowment Association of New York City by the Board of Regents. The fellowship will be known as the Paul M. Warburg Fellowship. It is the third to be given to the University by the Association, and will like the other two, pay the railway fare of the receiver to and from his home, plus $500.

C. E. Ragsdale is Recovering From Recent Operation

The condition of C. E. Ragsdale, instructor in psychology, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Wisconsin General hospital on May 18, is very favorable today. He was able to sit in a wheel chair Tuesday and Wednesday.

The classes conducted by Mr. Ragsdale will be discontinued during the rest of the semester.

Mr. Ragsdale was taken ill while delivering a lecture in an Extension department psychology course at Beloit, on May 17. He was brought to the General hospital immediately and was operated the following morning.

Burrus is Awarded Conference Medal

Jefferson D. Burrus '27, Rhodes Scholar-elect from the state of Wisconsin and member of two varsity athletic teams, received one more honor yesterday when the athletic council awarded him the Conference medal for excellence in athletics and scholarship.

Lloyd G. Larson '27 was voted a special medal by the council for the work he has done along the same lines. It was reported that his scholastic average ranged only a fraction of a point below Burrus' which was 92. This was the first time such a secondary award was ever made at the university.

During his four years here, Burrus has won five major letters in football and rowing. He captains and strokes this year's crew.

Larson has played on the baseball team for three years, holding the captaincy as a junior. During his sophomore and junior years he held a place on the football team, but was prevented from competing in his last year by a wrenched knee.

Because of the similarity of the two men's records, much doubt had existed as to which would receive the award.

MISS POWER DONATES SCIENTIFIC LIBRARY

The scientific library of the late Dr. Frederick Belding Power, first head of the Course in Pharmacy, has been accepted by the Board of Regents from Dr. Power's daughter, Mrs. Louise Power Heimke, and will be added to the pharmacy library on the third floor of the Chemistry building. Dr. Edward Kremers, director of the Course in Pharmacy, commented that the gift will aid in bringing the pharmacy library to the point he wishes it to attain—a duplication of all the pharmacy books in the general library (one of the most complete pharmacy collections in the United States) and, in addition, a good supply of reference work in fields related to pharmacy.

ALUMNI TO HAVE PICK OF FOOTBALL SEATS

Alumni association members get preference of football tickets this year, according to George Levis, manager of athletics and director of ticket sales. Those who have not paid their dues should send $4 now to the Wisconsin Alumni association, 821 State street. These dues include a subscription to the wonderfully improved Alumni Magazine.

GLEE CLUB WILL GIVE ANNUAL SERENADE SAT.

The annual varsity serenade will be given on Saturday night as an other feature of Mothers' Week-end. The varsity glee club will start out about 11 o'clock, serenading various houses on the campus. According to Richard Fischer the program this year will consist of all the old favorites with several new selections added to the program.

GOODNIGHT TURNS DOWN REFERENDUM ASKED BY VOTERS

W. S. G. A. Board Fails to Discuss Matter, Bergstresser Suggests Plan

Developments yesterday regarding the proposed referendum on the suggested reorganization of the Daily Cardinal Board of Control were:

1. The petition requesting the student vote, which was signed by more than 400 voters, was presented to the W. S. G. A. council at noon after having been previously approved by the Student senate. Esther Hawley '27, explained the facts to the council members.

Refuses Referendum

2. The council then voted to bring the matter before the W. S. G. A. board, which consists of representatives of women's houses on the campus, provided that Dean S. H. Goodnight would approve the proposed referendum.

3. Dean Goodnight refused his permission.

4. The matter was not discussed in the meeting of the W. S. G. A. board last night.

Readers Disappointed

Leaders of the movement to reorganize the Board of Council so as to institute closer cooperation and understanding between the Cardinal staff and the board expressed keen disappointment at Goodnight's refusal, stating that the referendum should be held at once while the campus is well informed on the question. The dean could not be reached last night, to obtain his reasons for his action. Signers of the petition stated that the referendum would not interfere with campus affairs.

In order to effect a reorganization of the Board of Control without a student vote, John Bergstresser, former president of the board, last night suggested that staff members and board members meet to agree on a new arrangement. He stated that the new plan, which provides that the editor and business manager shall be ex-officio members of the board, is desirable and would be welcomed by all concerned and should be agreed on without the referendum process.

Leaders of the reorganization movement have stated that they might consider such a means of attaining their ends since Goodnight has refused to allow a referendum.

FRANK SUGGESTED FOR PRESIDENCY

Mencken Believes Frank to be a Potential National Executive

Although classifying Pres. Glenn Frank as one of the men who are "everything that Dr. Coolidge is not" H. L. Mencken, editor of the American Mercury, says that in the exact ratio that he differs from him he is hopeless as a candidate for the presidency.

Along with Dr. Frank Mencken suggests as presidential possibilities, Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad; James Branch Cabell, author; Capt. William G. Stayton, founder and president of the Association against the Prohibition amendment; Justice Louis D. Brandeis, of the U. S. supreme court; and J. McKeen Cattell, editor of Science.

"Here are six highly intelligent and industrious men, each of them adept at some difficult art, science or craft, and all of them beyond the slightest whisper of corruption," Mr. Mencken declares. "They have dignity, sense, information, courage. They are all what, for want of a better word, is called gentlemen."

It is in the June issue of his publication that editor Mencken lists his presidential possibilities, stating that they would make intelligent, conscientious, and even brilliant executives, but that political specifications make sins of their virtues.

TROUTMAN WANTS MEN ACTORS TODAY

Wisconsin Players Director Announces Tryouts for "Dulcy," Senior Cass Play

Eight senior men are wanted immediately for the senior play, "Dulcy," was the announcement made yesterday by Prof. W. C. Troutman who is conducting tryouts this afternoon in Room 2 of the Law building.

Although tryouts have been carried on, few men have tried out, while a large number of girls have tried out for the three feminine leads. The Senior play which will be given June 16 and 17, offers the last opportunity for University men and women to play in university productions.

The eight male parts are fairly 'straight', because character work is not needed. Gordon, a young business man who is the husband of Dulcy, a vivacious and superficial young married woman in her happy-go-lucky actions; Vincent, an aesthetic movie director; Van Dyke, a temperamental musician (pianist, who really plays the piano); Forbes, a typical big butter-and-egg man; Willie, a wise-cracking younger brother; Starrett, a typical high pressure salesman, and Leach, a somewhat silly scenario writer.

The remaining three parts are Patterson, a young man, Mrs. Forbes, a middle aged woman, and Angela, an attractive ingenue who 'delights' to 'become' acquainted with the men.

The entire play is a hilarious

Senate Orders Speed Bill to be Advanced

40-Mile-An-Hour Measure
Sent To Third
Reading

Ten appropriation bills for state departments, nine of which carried increased appropriations, were ordered engrossed by the state senate Tuesday night, but only after several senators had voiced their opposition to "increasing appropriations at every session of the legislature," Senators Severson, Titus and Goodland led the opposition to an increase in appropriations.

The senate refused to advance to engrossment the appropriation bill for the state treasury agent by a vote of 20 to 1. This measure provided for a decrease of $5,000, and at the same time repealed the statute relating to fraudulent advertising. The opposition expressed the measure came as a result of the provision in the bill repealing this statute.

The appropriation bills engrossed by the state senate providing for comedy, well suited to the spirits of Seniors graduating from Wisconsin. That the tryouts at 4:30 p. m. today in the Law building will produce many men suitable to the parts is the belief of Mr. Troutman. Mail order sale of tickets will start within a few days.

the annual appropriations are as follows:

Appropriations for the free library commission, increased from $45,500 to $52,500, $12,500 being for the library school. This measure was engrossed by a vote of 22 to 7.

An increase in the appropriation for the general administration of the industrial commission from $285,000 to $300,000.

The appropriation for the railroad commission, increased from $180,000 to $185,000.

An appropriation of $24,000 for the civil service commission, which is an increase of $2,000.

An appropriation of $38,000 to the state board of vocational education for the rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry. This is an increase of $10,000.

The appropriations for the general administration and the bureau of child welfare and public health nursing of the state board of health, which are increased from $51,000 to $54,000.

An appropriation of $9,500 for the commissioners of public lands. This is an increase of $3,500.

The appropriation for the Wisconsin mining school at Platteville, amounting to $11,170 for 1927-28, and $7,485 for 1928-29.

An appropriation for the state treasurer's department of $38,000, which is an increase of $3,000. The salary of the assistant state treasurer is increased from $3,600 to $4,000.

The appropriation bill for the state athletic commission provides for a decrease in appropriations from $11,000 to $10,000, and was the only appropriation bill engrossed by the senate which does not provide for an increase

Athletic Council Approves Frosh Trip to Poughkeepsie Regatta on June 29; Badgers in Lane 7

Discussion to send Wisconsin's freshman crew to the Poughkeepsie regatta on the Hudson river, June 19, was confirmed by the university athletic council last night.

The news that the yearlings crew will go to the regatta closely follows the announcement that the Varsity crew was not in condition for the stiff competition in the East, and would not be present among those on the Hudson.

Have Best Lane

A record number of freshman crews have been entered in this annual regatta, and it is expected that a great fight will be put up by the seven entrants for honors.

The Wisconsin yearling eight has just received advice that they have been given the seventh lane for the race. Should the race be run off according to schedule the Badger crew will have the advantage of the ebb tide which occurs at that time.

The Badger yearlings are accorded great strength and have the additional advantage of weight. This eight has an average weight over 175 pounds. With Joe Lucas, in the stroke position and Carl Miller, as No. 2 the first year crew is expected to make a great bid. The remainder of the eight are: Albert Warren, No. 3; Pat Shagnon, No. 4; Walter Peters, No. 5; Eugene Goodman, No. 6; and John Parks, No. 7.

Seven Entered

Oscar Teckmeyer, Freshman crew coach, has been working consistently with his men and hopes to have them in good condition for the contest. Two other substitutes will be taken along, besides a coxswain and a commodore.

Other crews entered in the Yearlings race at Poughkeepsie are California, Syracuse, Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania, and the U. S. Naval Academy. This is the first regatta in which the Naval Academy freshmen have competed.

The regatta will extend over a two mile course and will be raced on June 29. Wisconsin's varsity and Junior varsity are not entered in the classic.

The Badger yearlings will have an opportunity to test their ability against St. John's, Culver, and the junior varsity, in the first junior Midwest regatta to be held at Wisconsin Saturday morning.

Three Men Reach Semi-Finals in University Golf

Bad weather has hampered the play-off of the all-university golf tournament this year, but the entrants have made the best of their opportunities and three men have already attained the semi-finals rounds. These men are Wayne Holmes '28, Robert Stewart '30, and George Dunlap '30.

In showings made thus far, Wayne Holmes stands out as the probable winner of the title, but the two freshman entrants have displayed enough form and skill to date, to insure plenty of the fifth in the closing rounds of the tourney with no sureness of victory on the part of any man. The fourth semi-finalist will be determined this week.

SELECT CO-ED TRACK TEAMS FOR FIELD DAY

The women's class track team's which are to compete on Women's Field day for the class championship have been selected. The senior team is composed of: Dorothy Dodge, Lorraine Fritz, Evelyn Hamer, and Muriel Markham. The junior team consist of: Mary Caldwell, May Ekdah, Genevieve Hughes, Alice Marsh, and Verna Rex. The sophomore team is: Constance Blegan, Sylvia Meyer, Irma Ringe, Madeline Rouesche, and the Freshman team: Gladys Bower, Elfreda Kastner, Sally Owen, Florence Pease, Mary Parkhurst, Helen Schneider, Blanche Schaferman and T. Weisner. The track events are scheduled for 2:30.

TRAINING TABLE TIPS

RIGHT THIS WAY

PRELIMINARIES

MR. RUE

The big show starts tomorrow. The side shows start today. Western conference athletic directors will be One of the most interesting sessions "considering" general problems; and when those boys start "considering" something usually happens.

One of the most interesting sessions to be held this weekend will be that for the organization of next years basketball schedule. General lines of the schedule are already laid down by the round-robin conference arrangement, but there remains the necessity of agreeing on dates, a necessity which almost always leads to the generation of static before the agreement is reached.

By increasing the number of events for which the field of contestants will be narrowed down by preliminaries, directors of the Big Ten meet have practically assured a snappy running off of the events. Unwieldy entry list nearly always slow up a meet, and the fact that there will be just six finalists in all the faster races means speed, and nothing else except.

On the other hand, however, some fans get a little huffed when their favorite happens to be in a fast section of the preliminaries. Invariably it happens that one race is faster than the next, and then all the losers raise the alibi that they might have placed if they hadn't had to run against Bigfoot or Crumbkin or whomever. Then too, the number of men qualified by each team usually makes it distressingly apparent where the points are going to fall in the finals.

Wisconsin's baseball team punctured the Minnesota championship bubble Tuesday in one of the most pleasing little frays of the season. Minnesota comes right back for another shot here Friday afternoon, and that game may even up the series, then again it may not. Capt. Stoll will probably be in form to hurl this contest, which means that the Gophers are in for some eye-strain.

While nobody gives them more than a look-in on fourth place or something like that in the Big Ten meet, Wisconsin's track men continue their modest work-outs, confident in the knowledge that they at least will do their best when the starter's gun or the cry of the field official calls them into action. The great and remarkable thing about the Badgers is that they never mark time, they are always putting one foot ahead of the other and trying to get there a little faster.

Early in the season, we listened meekly while Coach T. E. Jones and Director George Little commented on the showings made by many of the stars in the indoor meet. The great and the near-great passed in review, each with his little characteristic weakness or strength. Some of those little points about such men as Northrup, Michigan, Burg, Chicago, and Lewis, Northwestern, may mean a lot to the final standings in this meet.

Doran T. "Spike" Rue captain of the Illinois team comes to Madison with a real background. He recently won the conference medal for combined excellence in scholarship and athletics, he runs anchor on the Illinois four-mile relay team, conceded to be the greatest in the country and he stands as the leading competitor for the mile-run championship. John Petaja. Wisconsin has our vote for the hall of heroes or anything else he happens to want.

PHI KAPPAS SINK PHI DELTA PHI IN INTRAMURAL RACE

Delta Sigma Tau, Kappa Sigma and Triangle Also Win Out

Phi Kappa loomed up as one of the possible winners of the Greek baseball title by putting an end to the aspirations of the Phi Delta Phis to annex their third straight diamond tilt by a 3-1 score yesterday. The Phi Kaps put the game on ice in the first inning by combining two hits with two errors to mark up three runs. Hen Healey, Phi Kap pitcher, was backed up by errorless support, while Phi Delta Phi made two crucial errors in the first inning. Healey and Monte, Phi Delta Phi pitcher, allowed only three hits each.

Wisconsin Tennis Team Points for Conference Meet

With playing conditions made impossible by the heavy rainfall Monday morning, Wisconsin's tennis team was forced to postpone its scheduled meet with Iowa.

This makes the second conference meet that the Badger net men have been forced to postpone. The first was with Northwestern where the meet was scheduled twice, but was prevented from being played off each time by rain.

Two meets now remain on the schedule for the netmen. These are the conference meet at Chicago the end of this week and a meet with Minnesota here the following week end. This will close the competitive season for the tennis team.

Among the Best

NORTHUP-MICHIGAN

Mention field events to anyone and it won't be long until Phil Northrup, Michigan's great all-around star, will be the subject of conversation. His records for the season include 194 feet 6 inches in the javelin throw, 12 feet 6 inches in the pole vault, and 23 feet 5 inches in the broad jump.

Fresh Paint, Band to Greet Crowd at Great Track Meet

Elaborate plans are being made by Wisconsin's athletic staff to make the 27th annual big ten track meet a record breaker in every respect. A small army of workmen are toiling overtime, dressing up Camp Randall Stadium in her classiest regalia.

All of the track equipment and the stadium trimmings will bear a fresh coat of paint. Mayor Al Schmedeman has issued a proclamation, calling upon the merchants and citizens of Madison to decorate their establishments in honor of the event and visitors.

Director Little, Manager of the meet, announced yesterday that the Saturday's championships would be preceded by a flag raising ceremony, patterned after that well-known institution of the Olympic Games. Col. Barnes, commandant of the University Military Dept., will order the President's Guard out for this special detail. The University Band will supply the music.

WOMEN PREPARE FOR FIELD DAY

Food Booth, Girl Buglers and Parade Are Among Attractions

Chief among the various attractions at the Women's Field Day, other than the athletic events, is the food booth which has been arranged for by Evelyn Ekhdahl '27. According to Miss Ekhdahl, Eskimo Pies, chocolate and vanilla ice cream cones, pop corn balls, all kinds of pop and sandwiches will be sold to guests and participants in the events. The booth will be decorated in Wisconsin's colors—red and white.

Added features to the events are two girl buglers who will announce with calls the beginning of each event and two other women students in costume who will announce the winners of the events as they are played off.

A parade of contestants led by the women's drill team of the University Hunt club will open the activities of the afternoon and will be immediately followed by the schedule of athletic events. Music will be furnished by a local high school band.

The official mothers' weekend program was put on sale on the campus and in Greek houses yesterday and it contains detailed schedule of the Women's Field Day events with all participants. The program is 25 cents.

BADGERS TO FIGHT FOR BIG TEN TRACK HONORS THIS WEEK

McGinnis Leads Wisconsin Contenders for Conference Title

One of the best fields of athletes that has ever assembled in Madison will be here Friday and Saturday for the Western conference track and field championships to be held at Camp Randall stadium.

Each of the teams is strong and it is a problem of extreme difficulty to predict a definite winner. The teams that are expected to divide the first five places are Michigan, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Ohio State.

Many Stars

Practically every event will have a number of stars competing. Wisconsin has strength in the high jump, pole vault, high hurdles, two mile, half mile, quarter mile, javelin and the mile relay.

Capt. "Chuck" McGinnis, high point winner in the indoor conference championships this year, is regarded as certain to place in the high jump, pole vault, and high hurdles. In the high jump he will have to fight against Burg, Chicago star, Rettig, Northwestern; and Thomas, Iowa. In the pole vault his competition will be equally great. Among those who are bidding for honors with McGinnis in the pole vault are Droegemeuller, Northwestern; Boyles, Iowa; White, Illinois; Otterness and Crowley, Minnesota; and Northrup, and Prout, Michigan.

Erickson Favored

In the 120 yard high hurdles McGinnis will have as rivals Cuhel, and Allison, Iowa; Royer, Illinois; Irwin, Ohio State; and Cooper, Michigan. The fact that McGinnis is entered in three events explains why he might not be able to win all of his events as he did in the indoor championships.

Erickson, Wisconsin's star half miler, is regarded as a favorite in that distance. His past performances this year have not been the best in the conference but he has readily won his races during the outdoor season.

John Zola is Wisconsin's strongest bidder for a first place. He races the two mile, and has done better this year than any other conference runner. He has turned in a time of :938 for this long race, and with competition will probably better his mark by a good margin.

Wisconsin will be weak in the weight events, and the mile run.

Freshman Tennis Tournament Goes Into Third Round

The freshman tennis tournament is progressing in fine style, and some classy playing is being shown by contestants. Thus far, all seeded players have won their matches and the first meeting of seeded men will occur this week, when the third round of the tournament will be played off.

Two men have thus far reached the quarter-finals. They are Donald Meiklejohn, number 2 seeded player, and James Watrous who has succeeded in reaching his position by virtue of one victory and two defaults. He is a fair court man, and will give good opposition to his next opponent.

Other men who are showing up well outside of the seeded players, are Merrill Thompson, and Sam Morrell. Both of these men are now fighting opponents for an opportunity to reach the third round of the tourney.

Bobby Jones, golfer, has won 120 cups, but the one he prizes most is his first only three inches high, won when he was six years old.

COUNCIL FAVORS HUSKY RACE

The athletic council yesterday approved the proposed race between University of Washington and Wisconsin crews. The council recommended June 15 as the best date for the event.

Wanted—College Men

In spite of the fact that college is supposed to be a place where one can acquire a broad, cultural training which will fit one to enjoy life rather than to make a living, there is a large percentage of students who regard their college career in a more "practical" light. Consequently, they are interested in what their university training will do for them in the industrial world. Even in a general university like Harvard, one fifth of the students express the intention of entering business upon graduation.

In order to give college men a more definite idea of what big business looks for, the Industrial Digest conducted an investigation among 150 industrial concerns. The results, as published in the May issue of this publication, may be briefly summarized as follows:

More than half the businesses expressed a preference for college graduates. This is encouraging in view of the fact that college men have so often been led to believe that their presence in business was more of a liability than an asset.

Concerning the sort of work for which these industries want college men, replies to a questionnaire show that 69 per cent are wanted for technical work; 31 per cent for non-technical. This looks like encouragement for those who are struggling through four years of engineering.

Investigation of the special qualities which college men bring to industry brought out the fact that 71 per cent show adaptability; 69 per cent have address; 62.5 per cent have scientific approach; 59 per cent display facility in solving problems; initiative is shown by 54 per cent; while 40 per cent have economic vision. Other miscellaneous qualities listed are intelligence, idealism, logic, personality, and character.

Assuming that these qualities are essentials of a good employee, the investigation discloses a much more favorable state of affairs than does the statement of Prof. N. L. Hoopingartner, of New York university. He has stated that colleges train for only 15 per cent of the essentials of a job.

The heavy preference for technical training should not discourage those who are studying more general subjects and aiming at a broader education even though they plan to enter business; for other tests have shown that more practical training often leads to failure. In fact, the current opinion brought out by comments in connection with the Digest questionnaire is that the most valuable thing a man gets from college is the fact that he learns to study. For this reason he is preferred for those jobs which lead to executive duties.

The whole investigation seems to lead to the conclusions that college men planning to enter business should learn how to study; they should cultivate a willingness to start at the bottom; they should develop adaptability, scientific approach, address, facility in solving problems, initiative, and economic vision, as well as a certain amount of intelligence, idealism, logic, personality, and character.

This is a big bill to fill, and some of its requirements are rather vague generalities; but it does, nevertheless, provide something of a definite list of qualities which our thousands of sheepskin seekers will do well to acquire, especially those who definitely plan to enter business.

A Crying Shame

Recently a negress, inspired by an unreasoning faith in certain parts of the Bible, attempted to walk upon water buoyed up by her faith alone. It wasn't long before police were dragging the river for her body.

Soon many students, inspired by an unreasoning faith in their past efforts, will attempt to weather the storm of blue books which is gathering rapidly. Buoyed up by their faith alone, they will attempt to pass examinations covering a whole semester's work. It won't be long before the deans will be advising other climes.

The most regrettable part of the whole exam situation, however, is not the fact that certain students will inevitably fail because of lax work throughout the semester, but many of them will be able to weather the storm by clinging to someone else's life belt. And those who own the life belts dare not always shove the parasites off; for they are usually close friends, and friendships must be preserved.

But it will do no good to sermonize on cheating. It is an accepted, if not wholly approved, policy. From the standpoint of the loafer, the parasite, it is a blessing. From the standpoint of others, it is a necessary evil. From the standpoint of those who are old fashioned enough—or brave enough—to cling to ideals of honesty, it is a crying shame.

Incurring Indignation

Recent mention was made in these columns, of the damage done by strikers to the new Union as well as to workers. The subject will bear further discussion. It is certainly obvious that the student body, whatever its feelings may be on the subject of unionism and the open shop, objects to seeing the building defaced which has long been Wisconsin's dream. The Daily Cardinal feels that the belligerent strikers and the muscle bound Madison police should be made to realize the unpopularity of their actions or lack of action, as the case may be.

A summary of the havoc so far resulting from the activities of the union men and the inactivity of the police force is worth considering. It follows:

1. One worker will have to undergo an operation to remove his eye.
2. A timekeeper is in the hospital with a broken jaw.
3. One hundred and twenty-three unused building stones have been ruined. They are valued from $20 to $80 each.
4. Ink stained stones already set will have to be replaced. This means the removal of all stones above them.

Besides, the city of Madison may be held responsible for damages estimated at $30,000. And civil suit has been started against the local carpenters' union.

It is very doubtful if the student body believes that the end justifies the means in this case. In the first place, few students are sure of just what the end is, what the union men are trying to accomplish. On the face of it, they seem to desire only to destroy that which many classes have labored to build up. But of course that isn't why they walked out. It is true that they are fighting for certain principles. However, they are using the wrong methods to establish those principles.

The unions say that Pfeffer agreed to one thing. Their opponents say he agreed to another. The Daily Cardinal does not presume to judge the validity of claims made regarding the open shop understanding; but the fact remains that regardless of the difficulties involved, the union men are incurring the indignation of 8,000 students when they cause $30,000 worth of damages, injure workers, and delay the construction of the Memorial Union building.

The student senate has approved the new form of bag rush advocated by the Athletic board. In the future it will consist of 15 tugs of war with the bags fastened at the center of each rope. Many doubt if this will be a satisfactory solution to the problem; but it is well worth a trial. It will be an interesting experiment next fall.

Are American young men becoming effeminate and sissified?

Listen to this dispatch from Peoria, Ill.;
"Two senior students at Peoria high school consented to be swatted with a stout paddle for 5 cents a swat to raise money for the flood relief fund. They made more than $4 and are still able to sit and walk in a normal manner."

Effeminate? Those lads rank with the hardy mountaineers of legend.

Our suggestion is to leave the ink spots there to lend a scholastic atmosphere.

Readers' Say So

COMMERCIALIZATION OF THE SKY ROCKET COLUMN

The "Christian Science Monitor" is a newspaper of repute; its policy in the past has been to avoid the taint of commercialism, to publish nothing in its columns which savors of greed. The same is true of other papers, such as church publications. But what if these papers were to be subjected to the policy of commercialism? "Why," we would remark, "there is another news establishment that esteems money more precious than its own character."

We may expect such an event, but it, marking that paper as one that had fallen prey to that insatiable monster—commercialism. We may expect such an event, but we have just witnessed a far more dire calamity in the newspaper realm. A person, an editor, in fact, entrusted with those sacred duties and privileges, has violated his duty in falling prey to the policy of commercialism, forgetting that responsibility which rests upon his shoulders.

With one sweep of his pen on May 19, 1927, A. D., he has torn down the past glorious traditions and high ideals of a most noble column.

The responsibility rests upon Papa, who forgot his pre-elected purpose and subjected his eloquent pen to the gaining of money. That line,

"Lend me $5 Harold," . . . penned that venerable, yet duty forgetting editor has done more in committing the newspapers to the pursuit of money than can be done by a century of conscientious and thoughtful pursuit of the time ideal of a newspaper.

Take care, Herb, lest your finger, for the touch of the penny, your pen in the writing of any more of such money-charming phrases.

Take heed, we are entrusting in your hands the welfare of the truth publishing instruments.

Honor Students Successful in Life, He Says

U. W. Professor Points Records Of High College Students

The present belief that success in college work does not presage success in life dates from at least a century ago, and now is as mistaken as ever it was in other generations. Prof. Hugh Allison Smith of the University of Wisconsin maintains in the leading article of the May number of the magazine, "Education".

Prof. Smith rejoins to doubters of the value of scholarship in college with a statement of results of an investigation which he undertook a decade ago comparing college and after-college records of all graduates of the bachelor's course, over a period of 45 years, in a large university.

In general, the investigation disclosed that fourteen of each fifteen honor graduates attained success measurable by two standards—estimates of acquaintances and intimates, and appearance of names in "Who's Who". On the other hand, but one of 46 non-honor graduates was successful in as great a degree as the fourteen of each fifteen honor graduates.

Prof. Smith argues that the findings of a decade ago still hold good today. He quotes Phi Beta Kappa orations from 1837 to 1909 to show that eminent men of other days were just as alarmed as scholars are today over the apparent popular apathy toward scholarship.

To Hear Bill Intended To End Superior School Row

The committee on education and public welfare of the state senate will have before it tomorrow a bill intended to assist in settlement of the Superior school strike and subsequent troubles.

The bill provides that "whenever any city of the second class shall have by referendum as provided for in this chapter, voted to adopt the elective system of selecting and appointing members of the board of education, a special election for members of such board shall be held within thirty days at a date to be determined by the city council. It then provides for the qualification of the board members elected at such elections.

The bill was introduced through the joint committee on finance, after the deadline for introduction of bills by individual members. After its hearing in the education and public welfare committee late tomorrow it will be reported to the senate, where after several routine steps have been carried through the measure will be up for passage or rejection. The assembly must then act upon it.

It is reckoned as especially applicable to the city of Superior because that municipality's referendum Tuesday determined whether the city should take up the election of the school board instead of having it appointed by the mayor.

Hoppmann Tells Lawyers How They Can Aid Courts

Five ways in which Madison attorneys might assist the judges of the local courts in preparing to rule on evidence in law cases, were given by Judge A. C. Hoppmann, of the Dane county circuit court, to members of the Dane County Bar association, meeting informally at the city Y. M. C. A. this noon.

Judge Hoppmann's suggestions follow:

1. Attorneys could file their trial briefs with the judge giving him an idea of the principles of law concerned in the case and citing any previous cases for authority.

2. Attorneys should not forget to file their papers in the clerk's office.

3. All attorneys should be present when the calendar is called at the beginning of the week.

4. Lawyers should have no excuse for entering court late.

5. Attorneys should always be present for the hearing of their case.

Tells Gardeners How To Fight Plant Insects

Suiting the remedy to the disease—even if the invalid is a peony—a gladiolus—was the subject of Prof. R. E. Vaughan, professor of plant pathology, as the University of Wisconsin, who gave an illustrated lecture at the meeting of the Garden club in the city library Tuesday night.

He divided all insects that make plants "ill" into two varieties: the type which fed on plant leaves and whose depredations were ended leaves were coated with arsenate lead; and the plant lice which suck the juices of the plants and which are killed by nicotine compounds.

Say Sommers to Again Head County Board

Supervisors Will Elect Officers Next Week

Election of officers, relocation of state trunk highway No. 31, straightening of the line between properties owned by the county and the Madison Garage Co., and action on petitions of villages and townships for county aid in road and bridge work, are the important items to be taken up by the Dane county board of supervisors when it meets at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the courthouse for a five-day session.

W. H. Sommers, Blue Mounds, present chairman, is expected to be reelected to that position. Reelection of Michael Thinner, Berry, as vice chairman also is anticipated. Standing committees of the board will be named.

The state highway commission has voiced a desire to consult the county board before taking definite action as to whether Belleville should be eliminated from highway No. 31 by relocating the road straight north to Verona from the Green County line, and it is expected that that matter will occupy the entire part of one of the night sessions.

In an unofficial ballot taken last month, a majority of the supervisors expressed themselves as in favor of straightening the line between county property and property of the Madison Garage Co. in the block occupied by the courthouse and county jail. The garage company is to erect a garage in that block. This measure is expected to be passed with little discussion.

SCHOOL RECORD SUCCESS INDEX

Prof. Smith Shows Connection of College Scholarship to Life Work

MADISON, May 25—The present belief that success in college work does not presage success in life dates from at least a century ago, and now is as mistaken as ever it was in other generation, Prof. Hugh Allison Smith of the University of Wisconsin maintains in the leading article of the May number of the magazine "Education," published in Boston.

Prof. Smith rejoins to doubters of the value of scholarship in college with a statement of results of an investigation which he undertook a decade ago comparing college and after-college records of all graduates of the bachelor's course, over a period of 45 years, in a large university.

In general the investigation disclosed that 14 of each 15 honor graduates attained success measurable by two standards—estimates of acquaintances and intimates, and appearance of names in Who's Who. On the other hand, only one of 46 non-honor graduates was successful in as great a degree as the 14 out of each 15 honor graduates.

Prof. Smith argues that the findings of a decade ago still hold good today. He quotes Phi Beta Kappa orations from 1827 to 1909 to show that eminent men of other days were just as alarmed as scholars are today over the apparent popular apathy toward scholarship. He thus makes the point that the modern tendency to define success in terms of money and luxury, rather than of intellectual and moral worth and distinction is no new phenomenon.

In another argument of the educational pessimists, Prof. Smith finds a paradox: "that our education is out of step with present-day life and should be equipped with more modern methods and content, and that it has kept step only too well and should return to the proved and saner disciplines and subjects of the past."

Again the Badger educator points out that such complaints arise inevitably in each succeeding generation. He concludes:

"If a student belongs to the highest tenth of his class, in general to the group marked excellent, his chances of achieving a career in life distinguished by the approval of his fellow men are 40 times as great

Winnie '27, appeared in the performance at the dedication of the theatre on May 18 will again be used in this presentation of the play.

HOPWOOD DEFENDS ATHEIST CIRCLE

Compliments Powers '30, Credicott '29 for Voicing Religious Beliefs

"It takes courage to be a Pilgrim Father, whether it is in Wisconsin or at Plymouth Rock," the World's Work for June quotes Freeman Hopwood, secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, in an article which briefly deals with the "Circle of the Godless" announced at the university last March.

Hopwood explains the brief existence of the Atheistic society at Wisconsin which was founded here the last of March by Richard J. Credicott '29, and John Powers '30, both residents of Adams Hall. Following the announcement and the nation-wide publicity which accompanied it, the society never held a meeting.

"I wish you would tell the difficulties under which our boys have to organize," the magazine quotes as they are on the average, if he belongs to the lower nine-tenths; and further the probabilities of his name being found in lists like Who's Who will be 50 times as great.

"Is there another test in a young man's life that affords as certain a prophecy of his future as his four years' college course?"

Hopwood as saying. "They are rounded and persecuted beyond belief for doing the very thing that brought the Pilgrim Fathers to this country—freedom of religious belief. Only in this case they believe there is no God and religion is the bunk."

As an example, the boys at the University of Wisconsin organized themselves under our direction into "The Circle of the Godless," the article continues. Hopwood's quotation. "John Powers was chairman and Richard Credicott was second in command. The moment it became known that they had voiced what they actually believed, oppression came upon them. The parents of Credicott came down upon him and he was forced to resign. The boys get their money from home, and the hand goes around their windpipe. It takes courage to be a Pilgrim Father, whether it is in Wisconsin or at Plymouth Rock."

The roller skating epidemic seems to be spreading. About seven hundred pairs of skates were sold to students at the Oregon State Agricultural College recently.
