Pi Lambda Phi Discounts Expulsion

Omega Chapter Retains Status, Director Wires

Interfraternity Body's Action on National Has No Effect on Local

By SAMUEL STEINMAN

That Omega, newly-installed Wisconsin chapter of Pi Lambda Phi, Jewish social fraternity, will continue in good standing, despite the expulsion of the national organization Friday by the Interfraternity conference, was asserted by the national office in a telegram to the local late yesterday.

The message to Omega chapter from Jay B. VanVeen, a director of the New York office, reads in part: "Have been advised by conference that our recognition as members of Pi Lambda Phi of the men initiated Nov. 30 makes us ineligible to membership in conference . . . Your chapter will absolutely be continued in good standing in the fraternity."

Old Chapter Dropped

Organization of the new chapter was announced at the beginning of the university year, after Tau chapter had been dropped from the fraternity at the instigation of the Interfraternity conference last June. This action followed the protest of Phi Beta Delta which claimed that it had been robbed of its Wisconsin chapter when a majority of the members were initiated into Pi Lambda Phi on Nov. 30, 1928.

A telegram from New York City to Joseph H. C. Springberg, Med 4, a member of Phi Beta Delta, who did not transfer his affiliation to Pi Lambda Phi last year, gives the provisions of the expulsion procedure by the Interfraternity conference. It is signed by Charles Gernstenberg, secretary.

The message follows:

Winspear Talks to Test School

Experimental College Freshmen Hear of Herodotus and Thucydides

A. D. Winspear, assistant professor of classics, will address the freshmen of the Experimental college Saturday morning. The lecture, which will be given in the Soils buildings, will deal with a study of early Greek social conditions, and in particular with Herodotus and Thucydides.

Prof. Winspear will advance some ideas about the world in which Herodotus lived, and will outline in a general way the two great stages in the history of society. The first stage, which is a polity, is developed and makes it possible for society to survive; the patterns of social order are laid down. In the second stage, society can afford to allow very much more liberty, variety, and toleration.

Greece Affected By Change

"Greece," said Prof. Winspear when questioned about the subject, "had just come through a great change. From a simple agricultural state it had become an important commercial unit."

Herodotus was one of the greatest travelers of his time. He showed at all times a childish and naive interest in everything he saw. He had a manifold interest in the variety of customs.

Herodotus Conservative

The religious outlook of Herodotus suggests conservatism in an age of transition, and liberalism among conservatives. There is something of the skeptic about him, not to overlook a strain of cynicism.

Finally, Prof. Winspear will discuss Herodotus as a critical historian through his treatment of the campaign of Marathon.

Clever-Frosh New Students Shed Traditional Green Caps for Subdued Headgear

The interfraternity ultimatum of green caps for freshmen has not made a rush on the said green caps, according to the Co-op, where the headpieces are supposed to be purchased. About 100 green caps have been sold this year, all of them from last year's stock. The Co-op carried over approximately 200 caps, but they do not intend to order more this year because of the little demand for them. Last year the number of caps sold was nearly a thousand.

Band to Make Chicago Trip Next Saturday

That the trip to Chicago for the Notre Dame football game Saturday, Oct. 19, would constitute the annual trip for the band was decided at the weekly meeting of the special events committee in Music hall Friday afternoon.

The money for the trip is to be borrowed from the athletic department and will be repaid from the sum that will be taken up by collection at the Purdue game. The entire staff of six cheerleaders will accompany the 100 piece band.

Question was raised at the committee meeting as to whether the conference athletic committee would ever include the university bands in their budgets, since they are an essential part of the football games. But such a move was not deemed advisable by George Little, director of athletics, because the bands are still a distinct unit in themselves. It was pointed out that in such a case all bands must have a uniform number of members, which would necessitate much trouble.

Each member of the band is to be allowed $2 for his meals while he is in Chicago. They will start for the Windy City Saturday morning on the day of the game.

Filipino Orchestra of Northwestern to Entertain Here

Northwestern university's Filipino orchestra will entertain the Wayland club at its social tonight. Francisco G. Tonoghanua, Philippino government scholar, has arranged for its appearance. He and Arsenio Bayala grad, will act as hosts to the musicians and their friends, who are here for the football game today.

The members of the orchestra are: Jose Aguilera, Totoy Museo, Roque T. Olivera, Nemesio M. Salazar, Angel de la Paz, and Baldomero T. Olivera. Other Northwestern Filipinos, coming with them are: Pablo S. Katigbak, Diosado M. Yap, Dr. I. L. P. de Vera, A. E. Herrera, and Severino de la Paz.

The Wayland club social, given for its members and friends, will start at 7:45 p. m. at the home of the Rev. George L. Collins, Baptist student pastor. Miss Janet P. Botts '32, chairman of the social committee, will conduct the party.

Ceremonies for M. B. Olbrich to Be Held at Randall Field

As a requiem to the late regent, M. B. Olbrich, the flag will be lowered to half-mast and taps will be sounded at the flag raising ceremonies at Randall field this afternoon. Members of the R. O. T. C. staff and the university band are co-operating in honoring the former regent. The ceremony will take place just prior to the opening of the football game at 1:45 p. m. Spectators are asked to remain silent during the ceremony.

Four Candidates Are Selected for Rhodes Prize

Duffield, Meiklejohn, Wegner and Hough Chosen by Committee

Eugene Duffield, Grad, Donald Meiklejohn '30, Kenneth Wegner, Grad, and Graydon Hough M. A. '29, have been nominated by the University of Wisconsin committee as candidates from this university to receive the Rhodes scholarship for this state, according to announcement received from Dean Goodnight's office Friday.

Their names will be submitted to the state committee along with six or eight others from some of the smaller state colleges, and the 1930 Rhodes scholar will be picked from the entire list of nominations. The final selection will be made public Dec. 7.

Duffield Former Editor

Eugene Duffield, Denver, Colo., was graduated from the university last June with a degree of B. A. in journalism. Besides occupying the position of executive editor of The Daily Cardinal he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi.

Has Won Letter

Donald Meiklejohn '30, the son of Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, has won varsity letters in both tennis and hockey. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in his junior year. He is a philosophy major at the university (Continued on Page 2)

British Laborite to Speak Here

Rev. A. H. Gray of London to Be Guest of Y.M.C.A.

The Rev. A. Herbert Gray, known as a "founder" of the British Labor party, and pastor of the Crouch Hill Presbyterian church in London, will be here on the campus from Oct. 23 to 27 as a guest of the Y. M. C. A.

He will speak before various university groups and will make several public talks, the dates for which have not yet been announced.

Worked In Manchester

Dr. Gray is the author of "Men, Women, and God," which was written just before he visited the United States in 1925, of "Christian Adventure," and "As Tommy Sees Us." The latter was written during the war.

On his completion of his education at Edinburg university and New College, Edinburg, Dr. Gray took up a charge among a congregation of working-class people in Manchester.

Active In Labor Party

During the war, Dr. Gray worked among soldiers in the army camps and later took an active interest in the advancement of the Labor party.

Even old man Pluvius, scowling down on Camp Randall, will not be able to hold in leash the volume of fireworks slated to greet the Wisconsin and Northwestern football teams this afternoon, as they draw the curtains on the 1929 Western Conference stage, beginning at 2 p. m.

Thousands of followers of the Purple gave the Wildcat squad a huge and elaborate sendoff from Evanston Thursday night, and 10,000 fans followed the invaders here for this afternoon's fray. These 10,000 Northwestern fans will be augmented by approximately 30,000 Wisconsin enthusiasts, to nearly fill the stadium.

After watching his men in heated practice session Friday night, Coach Thistleton announced that he had never before seen a team in such good condition early in the season.

Protests Force Reinstatement of Flag Ceremony at Games

Protesting against the abolishing of the flag-raising ceremony that had been held during the course of the football games, a committee composed of Alvin Reis, representatives of two political parties, an American Legion representative, and a member of the R. O. T. C. staff appeared Friday afternoon before Pres. Frank in his office and demanded that the ceremony be reinstated.

The traditional ceremony which usually marked the fall football games, was discarded by the special events committee last week for the sake of expediency. It was claimed that the time taken by the event hindered the game and the psychological effect of the wait of the players was injurious to their playing.

Action on the matter was referred at once to the committee, which at the time of the coming of the protesting delegation, was in session. The special events committee, at the suggestion of the president, then decided to reinstate the ceremony, placing it at a time when it would not interfere with the progress of the game.

"It is not that we are a pacifist group," said George Little, director of athletics, one of the members of the special events committee, "because our patriotism is in our hearts and not on our arms. But we did away with the flag-raising because of the time it took."

Services Begin Sunday

Engineering Projects Depicted by Movies at Student A.I.E.E. Meeting

The first meeting of the university branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers for the ensuing school year was held Thursday evening in the auditorium of the engineering building.

After a short business meeting, three interesting moving picture films, "Building New York's Newest Subway," "Driving the Longest Railroad Tunnel in the Western Hemisphere," and "From Mine to Customer" were shown.

The first film showed the line of construction of the Eighth avenue system in New York City, which will be completed in 1931. It shows how the life of the metropolis was undisturbed by the construction work, how various engineering problems were solved and how the correct use of explosives aided the builders.

In the film "Driving the Longest Railroad Tunnel in the Western Hemisphere," animated drawings as well as real pictures showed how four working faces were developed, how water problems were taken care of, and how the mucking, hauling and drilling operations were carried on.

The world's record for tunnel driving was broken several times in constructing the Cascade Tunnel, which was opened recently.

Select Alferd C. Callen as Successor to Goodenough

Prof. Alferd Copeland Callen, head of the department of mining engineering at the University of Illinois, has been selected to succeed Prof. George Goodenough, who died last week, on the Big Ten faculty committee. Prof. Callen has been a close follower of sports, but he has had no experience in dealing with intercollegiate athletics. He has been head of the engineering department at Illinois since 1924, coming from the University of West Virginia. At Lehigh University Prof. Callen received the degree of mechanical engineering in 1909 and master of science in 1911. He is 41 years old.

Beta Delta at the University of Wisconsin, while still members of Phi Beta Delta, were initiated on or about November 30, 1928, into Pi Lambda Phi at the same institution, in violation of accepted interfraternity relations, and are recognized by Pi Lambda Phi fraternity as members thereof, and whereas, it appears from a letter of an officer of Pi Lambda Phi to an officer of Phi Beta Delta, dated September 5, 1929, and from a letter from an officer of Pi Lambda Phi to the Interfraternity conference, dated Oct. 2, 1929, and from representations made to the dean of men of the University of Wisconsin, dated September 27, 1929, Pi Lambda Phi maintains that it has no constitutional power to remove the aforesaid initiates from membership.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that in the opinion of the executive committee of the Interfraternity conference, these acts, claims and representations on the part of Pi Lambda Phi constitute a declaration of policy in violation of section two, paragraph (D) of the by-laws of the Interfraternity conference requiring members to be mutually exclusive of and in competition with other general college fraternities, which policy renders Pi Lambda Phi ineligible for membership in the Interfraternity conference; and

"Further resolved, that Pi Lambda Phi be, and it hereby is, dropped from membership in the Interfraternity conference."

Members of the local chapter of Pi Lambda Phi, however, were insistent that the ruling would not affect on the standing either the local chapter or any chapter at other universities. They maintained that the national organization would continue to function as before, pointing out that Pi Lambda Phi is the oldest Jewish social college fraternity in America, having been organized in 1895 at Yale university.

Decision

BULLETIN

A few minutes before the team left Madison last night, Coach Thistlethwaite announced that Milton "Mickey" Bach, 164-pound blocking halfback had been made eligible and would probably play in today's fray.

Since Bach transferred to Wisconsin from Gustavus Adolphus, there has been some technical question concerning his standing. Thursday a telephone call was received here from Prof. French, of Ohio State university, acting chairman of the Western conference eligibility committee, since the death of C. A. Goodenough, stating that Bach had been declared eligible, and that the decision was being set in writing at that time.

Although no letter had been received here Friday, Prof. G. F. A. Pyre announced that Bach would be eligible to play, on the basis of the telephone call.

keep the string of victories unbroken," he said.

Rain Forecasted

Rain has been forecast for tomorrow afternoon, but Coach Thistlethwaite says that he does not believe that a muddy field will have much effect in the final result.

A number of factors have been involved in today's fray and the result will be a battle that may make or break titular hopes for the elevens.

Both Teams Powerful

Never has Northwestern been able to defeat the Badgers on the gridiron. But neither has a Hanley coached team ever come into hostile contact with an eleven coached by Thistlethwaite. This factor alone makes the final decision of today's game a matter of speculation.

At the start of the conference season, Northwestern and its team of Wildcats is being rated as a dark horse, with the Badgers running among the favorites. The Purple eleven defeated Cornell college and Bradley last week, and the Badgers have defeated South Dakota State, Ripon, and Colgate. The result of these victories is that both outfits look powerful.

Former Purple Coach

An interesting factor in the game today is that Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite will be leading his men against a school at which he once coached. In 1925 the present Badger coach boosted the oft defeated Purple to titular heights for the first time.

During the period from 1899 to 1921, when Wisconsin and Northwestern engaged in 16 games, the two schools were almost traditional rivals. Today's contest will again bring forth the rivalry.

Lineup Unknown

Just who will begin play in the game today, especially on the Wisconsin side of the affair, is unknown, as Coach Thistlethwaite has been training all of his men during the week to be able to step into the game.

The defeat of the highly-rated Colgate eleven last Saturday, at the hands of the Badgers, was attributed by Thistlethwaite to the fact that the Maroons were hampered by a lack of reserves, both in plays and in men.

Purple Men Strong

This week the condition will be entirely different. Coach Dick Hanley has brought along with him a long list of stars, each equipped with an elaborate outline of plays.

The cyclonic coup d'état staged by Colgate in the first three minutes of the game last week will probably not be repeated today, and the game will develop into a determined, driving fight back and forth across the field.

Coach Shifts Lineup

During the past week of heavy drilling on the Badger training field, Coach Thistlethwaite has constantly

Intramurals Sent Through Stiff Practice

Coach Little's entire intramural squad got its first taste of scrimmage Friday night when the squad was divided into four teams, Yale, Harvard, Cornell, and Penn.

Harvard and Yale were matched in the first scrimmage of which head coach Little took direct charge. He put his men through a stiff work-out, giving them the high spots in tackling, blocking, and carrying the ball. He also handed out several new plays and formations.

Bob Kasiska took charge of the Cornell, Penn teams, and gave them a light drill for the night's scrimmage. It was the first appearance for several of the men on the Cornell and Penn teams and most of these men have to be taught the fundamentals and finer points of the game.

Tobin Looks Good

There were no outstanding men in Friday night's workout, although several men showed promise of developing into first class material. Bill Tobin, quarterback, on Harvard squad, showed up well in running his team, and with some more practice, should develop into a dependable back. Other men that showed signs of developing are, Greenstein end, Eigen end, Cohen tackle, and Marty, halfback.

Practice for intramural athletes will be held every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, with games every Friday, Tuesday and Thursday will be devoted to special practice, for anyone that desires it. Within the next week the squad will be divided into lightweight and heavyweight teams, with these teams competing against each other.

Lineups

The following men were used in the first scrimmage:

Yale: RE Cable; RT Tummerson; RG Chapman; C Tarrson; LG Johnson; LT Berg; LE Hogie; QB Berg-

Badger Team Has First Chance to Show Real Worth

Whether the Wisconsin "B" team schedule is or isn't a suicide affair will be determined today when they meet the strong Michigan "B" squad at Ann Arbor.

Coach Uteritz has no real knowledge of the power of his squad, as Stevens Point, whom the Bees whipped 33-0 last Saturday, did not provide strong enough competition to reveal the defects in the play of his squad.

Met Teachers' College

The University of Michigan "B" squad is also an untried quantity. However, they have met higher class competition so far this season than has Wisconsin. Last Saturday they played a scoreless tie with the strong Michigan Teachers' college.

Shows Power

The "B" squad has shown potential powers in the scrimmages with the Badger varsity during the past week. In these scrimmages Catlin and Mirko Lubravitch have shown up well on the offense as well as the defense. The team is well balanced, the line is strong, and the backfield although devoid of stars is fast, versatile, and dangerous.

Coach Hanley Had Checkered Career in Realm of Pigskin

Coach Dick Hanley the Wildcat football mentor has been actively connected with the grid sport ever since he first donned the moleskins at the University of Washington. He soon developed into one of the greatest quarterbacks in the country.

Although the war interrupted his scholastic career, it did not interfere with his gridiron activities. He entered the Marines and was the captain and star of the outfit that annexed the Pacific coast service football title. He resumed his studies as well as his quarterback duties at Washington state. Following his graduation in 1920 he assumed charge of the grid sport at Pendleton, Ore., high school, and piloted his squad to two successive state championships.

The next five years he was athletic director and football coach at Haskell Indian institute. In 1926 he was chosen to succeed Glenn Thistlethwaite who resigned his coaching duties at the Evanston institute to assume charge of Badger football.

Cuyler's Hit Gives Cubs
3-1 Win in Third Game

(Special to the Daily Cardinal)

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Chicago Cubs defeated the Philadelphia Athletics 3 to 1 in the third game of the world series at Shibe Park this afternoon. The attendance was estimated at 30,000. The game started as a pitching duel between Guy Bush of the Cubs and George Ernshaw of the Athletics who started his second game in three. The Cubs coupled a base on balls, an error, and singles by Hornsby and Cuyler to score three runs in their half of the sixth. The Athletics threatened constantly but were able to tally in only one stanza, the fifth, when two singles and a sacrifice produced a tally.

Eight Schools Begin Big Ten Schedule Today

Wisconsin Rated Over Northwestern; Michigan, Iowa, Indiana Also Favorites

By SAMUEL STEINMAN

Wisconsin will nose out NW. Michigan will beat Purdue. Indiana will beat Chicago. Iowa will trim Ohio State. Minnesota will beat Vanderbilt. Illinois will crush Bradley.

Eight members of the Western conference will begin their Big Ten schedule when they meet on four fields this afternoon. The remaining two have listed an intersectional affair and an easy mark.

Purdue versus Michigan and Wisconsin versus Northwestern constitute the cream of the crop. Both promise to be hair-raisers with the Wolves and the Badgers holding a slight edge. Opinion is divided in the former contest. The Michigan eleven has shown power in a double-header victory in the season's opener and a successful engagement with Michigan State last week.

Book 'Borrowing'

Volume Lifting Sneaks Should Think of Others

OUTSIDE reading assignments are frequently a problem to students. Sometimes there are an insufficient number of volumes on hand at the library. The library officials, limited in their expenditures by the provisions of the budget, may not be able to supply a large number of copies of an assigned volume. The only remedy for this condition is patience and cooperation among the students.

Fortunately, most students are willing to comply with the rules. There is, however, an individual, who disregarding the rights of others, sneaks a volume from the reserved section, hauls it to his room, and for several days deprives his classmates of their necessary reading. The best that can be said for this type of individual is that he is a petty, selfish, unsocial vandal, who is unfit to be let loose in an institution lacking a dozen gun-shoes.

The excuse generally offered for this brand of thievery, is that the small-minded individual resorting to petty pilfering only intends to use the volume and not to steal it. The degree of guilt is a matter for hair-splitting moralists. This fact stands out, a person who temporarily steals a volume from the library is appropriating to himself something which belongs to many others.

Teaching First?

Max McConn Discusses the Problems of Research

REPORTS FROM the diagnosticians who have been examining our sickly educational system continue to appear in the serious magazines. Most of the doctors agree that the patient is in rather decrepit condition. Occasionally a voice arises with a more comforting report; this optimist is, however, usually drowned by the chorus of specialists, who have sharpened their surgical instruments and are anxious to operate.

In an article in The North American Review, Dean Max McConn discusses the necessity of amputating the fungus growth of research from the business of teaching. As a university administrative official, he recognizes the difficulties that beset the instructor who wishes to perfect his teaching powers. In institutions which enroll thousands of students yearly, ostensibly to instruct them in the various arts and sciences, efficient teaching is held to be a secondary matter. The golden road to academic success lies not in perfecting an efficient teaching technique, but in research and publication. Under this sort of regime, the teacher naturally considers his classes secondary. The values transmitted to the students are too intangible and unsensational to attract attention to the man, or to advertise the university; yet the degree in which a teacher is capable of inspiring his students with the love of learning is the real gauge of his teaching success.

In a measure the persons in charge of education, it seems to us are guilty of the widely-diffused notion, that teaching is a job which can be practiced by anyone with the required number of degrees. Once a person has obtained the magical sheepskin, he becomes everlasting capable of drumming hard dry facts into the craniums of his students. Slight examination of conditions on any campus would relieve them of their erroneous notions. The experiences of every student are a crying refutation of this belief. The man who has mastered the technique of teaching is far more effective in arousing the student's interest. He is the one whom the student is the most eager to follow into unexplored realms of learning.

To the undergraduate, a man's standing in the academic world is unimportant. Teaching, as Dean McConn points out, is a highly specialized calling. It requires continual study, endless resource and constant adjustment. The emphasis in an educational institution should be primarily on the business of teaching. Those who feel that they have been intended for research workers will ultimately find their calling, and will not be burdened by what they feel is a dull job.

Darrow's Morons

Senator Roberts and Clarence May as Well Quit

THE VIEWS of State Senator Roberts and of Clarence Darrow on the ever-present question of sterilizing the feeble-minded are now receiving the attention of the local press. Mr. Darrow believes that morons are useful in the social scheme; Mr. Roberts does not, and is one of the chief sponsors of Wisconsin's sterilization law.

In the manner of legislators and of great men generally, both are wrong. We cannot claim to settle the question with a sweep and a condescending bow; but we do know that neither of them knows the answer to the problem, for no one does. Research has brought out the fact that feeble-mindedness is heritable; but it has also indicated that feeble-minded parents sometimes produce extremely useful offspring. Feeble-mindedness is not a simple dominant, like the red eye of a fruit-fly; it is controlled by a multitude of genes and in the course of producing a family of four children can make so infinitely large a combination of characteristics that prediction is impossible except in a very general way. The whole problem waits for further research, and we suggest that Mr. Darrow and Mr. Roberts have spoken out of turn.

We have lived along with feeble-minded individuals for a good many centuries, and we could easily hobble along for another year or so. There is no hurry about settling the problem. While we are waiting, Mr. Darrow's morons are generally doing much to keep us in school. As he has suggested, few of us would be in college if this unpleasant but necessary work was not being done. The morons do the bulk of it. This does not, however, indicate that we could not do without them. The machine age has reduced the demand for them considerably; it will be further reduced as more and more machines are made.

As for Mr. Roberts, he at least has mathematics on his side. As a matter of pure mathematical probability, it is obvious that an individual with many weak genes will have a smaller chance of producing strong progeny than another with many strong genes. It has also been conclusively shown that a very large percentage of criminals, prostitutes, and paupers are feeble-minded. Thus the matter works itself around to the old deadlock: it is worthwhile sacrificing a class of individuals who are still useful, and who may produce useful offspring, in order to rid ourselves of some of the paupers, criminals and prostitutes, and to relieve ourselves of the burden of providing homes for those who are definitely unable to support themselves?

A few years of research and the development of machines, we believe, will extend to settle the whole dilemma automatically. We suggest that Mr. Roberts and Mr. Darrow suspend hostilities until that time.

with High School Editors

Our football team must be extremely vacillating and vindictive, if one may judge by the battered conditions of many of the respective members of the squad. Some have "charley-horses," wrecked tendons, internal injuries, and—flat feet. If this is the way they come out of practice, many of them are not able to play in the games. They must settle all their personal grievances on the field.

By now, we sincerely hope that Owen has recuperated, or, at least, are on the road to recovery, after that wholesale slaughter Saturday. Many "damoiselles" on the sidelines shed secret and pitying tears for the battered Owen hopes. Let's hope during the next few weeks that our fellows don't wreck each other any more than they are now. We must save some of them for the Prom.—Editorial in Eau Claire (Wis.) High School News.

A RTHUR GUITERMAN, whose poems have appeared in the N. Y. Times, N. Y. World, N. Y. Herald Tribune, etc., is responsible for this Xotic bit of verse. It appears in his volume of poems, "Song and Laughter." There is no more reason for reprinting it than for telling about that giant magnet which is propelled about the runway of the El Paso air field to pick up particles of wire and nails. Other items of total irrelevancy appearing in the day's news are as follows:

According to the Geneva press, last summer was unprecedented in the number of fatalities among Alpine climbers. The list of deaths is said to be considerably over 100, and most of them are ascribed to "Alpine Lunacy"—the yearning of inexperienced persons to attempt ascents without guides. Two members of Billy Sunday's family have encountered marital difficulties of late; Mrs. Harriet Sunday, wife of George Sunday, has brought suit for separate maintenance, while Mrs. Mae Sunday has filed suit for divorce from Billy Sunday jr. Two candidates for the office of governor of Virginia are college professors: Dr. William Moseley Brown, Washington-Lee university, is running on Bishop Cannon's coalition ticket; Dr. J. G. Pollard, William and Mary college, is the regular Democratic candidate.

HARRY ELMER BARNES has joined the staff of the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain for which he will write a series of articles on subjects of sociology and economics. Prof. Robert E. Rogers, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who last June gained nation-wide notoriety by advising a graduating class to be snobs, to marry the boss' daughter, will return to his claim to fame Oct. 14 when he speaks before the Association of National Advertisers on "Snob Advertising." Columbia's Prof. W. H. Blake, exponent of the theory that posture is an almost infallible guide to character, prescribes "open yawns openly arrived at. Such yawning, combined with a certain amount of judicious moaning when the spirit moves, will be conducive to that looseness of the jaws and openness of the throat which mark the polished conversationalist." The American people, "now suffering from high nervous tension, must drop their convenient attitude toward yawning, moaning and shrieking, and give expression to other thwarted emotions." Yale's philosopher Charles A. Bennett, in a plea for more thinking on the part of the college professor, says that "our democratic clamor for education forces us to teach young in droves, and so the impression remains of an audience willing and receptive enough, but on the whole uncritical. One is tempted to pass off inferior stuff because it seems in the long run to prove as palatable as one's better work."

ALTHOUGH A DOWNTOWN paper sheds a crocodile tears about Madison losing its "college color", I am not over-joyed and set palpitating by the sight of green caps, senior canes, and whitewash signs on the sidewalks. No doubt the State Journal will be interested in the following news item relating to the student governing body of Dartmouth:

The governing body also ratified the Freshmen rules which had been recommended by the Sophomore vigilance committee. The only difference between the rules this year and those of the past is a modification of the full suit rule to allow any kind of long trousers to be worn, including flannels and corduroys. The rules are as follows:

1. Rise when the president enters chapel and remain standing until he is seated.
2. Remain seated after chapel until the seniors have passed out.
3. Salute a professor by touching your hat; the president by removing it.
4. Seniors only are allowed to sit on the Senior Fence.
5. Freshmen are not allowed to smoke on the streets or in any public place.
6. Freshmen are required to wear the regulation caps from the opening of college until wet-down in June, except as excused in the cold months by Palaeopitus.
7. Freshmen must wear coats when outside their rooms.
8. Freshmen must not wear knickers or golf hose.
9. Freshmen must keep to the paths on campus and around College buildings, unless walking with an upper classman.
10. No preparatory or high school pins are to be worn while at College.
11. Freshmen must remove their caps in all restaurants and public places.
12. Reasonable deference in every way must be shown to an upper-classman.
13. Freshmen will not be allowed to go to Lebanon or White River Junction for pleasure or amusement.
14. Freshmen will not be allowed to wear fur coats (excepting sheepskin) while in Hanover.

IT IS HARVEST TIME, HAY! HAY!

Due to the shocking influence of corn at this time of year, we have the fall-owing tale to unfold (Yes, our tales unfold, like day-beds).

"Fodder, dear fodder, come home wid me now," screamed little Humbert piteously, for he had adenoids. "The stock has all gotten into the cellar!"

"Be still, Humbert," commanded Humbert's father between hiccoughs. But with a sheepishly cowed expression on his dog-like visage, Humbert's daddy lurched out of the Kappa house and proceeded to plough his way across the fields towards his home. (Note to Agrics: This is Fall ploughing).

Nearing the house, Humbert Senior tried his best to establish very personal relations with a barbed-wire fence.

"Fodder," remonstrated Humbert Junior adenoidally, "Wouldn't you rather climb over a gate?"

"No offence," insisted Humbert Senior.

"Why not a gate?" sez Humbert Junior.

"Neigh, neigh," cried papa horsely, "Gates are not in style!"

And once over the barb-wire fence, he viewed himself with pride, even though he realized that he would have to visit the barber on the morrow.

Father and son were a pretty sight as, hand in hand they entered the cellar through the alcove-hall, and truly the stock had gotten into the basement. There they all were, the barleycorn, the rye, and even the brandy!

So let us leave Humbert's Junior and Senior in distill and peaceful scene, and depart for the kingdom of generalizations.

No kidding, it is Fall, and Autumn, and Harvest time too. As Gordy said, there is the melee of activities, studies, duties, always crushing—crushing.

But the Drive is as friendly as ever; the stars shine just as brightly, and the Autumn moon is a ball of fire. Golden are the hill-tops, and the ghosts of Indian Summer walk abroad at night. All of which reminds us that Youth is ours, and that these October nights are ours, and that we may use them together to laugh, and live, and maybe even love a little bit. Be that as it may:

REJOICE! REJOICE!

These sedimental mouthings announce the return of BACCHUS AND MORPHEUS.

BEEP! BEEP!

We were strolling about the campus a couple of nights and came to the conclusion that we couldn't blame some of the leaves for turning red.

First Restaurant-Keeper: "Do you rob your public?"

Second Greek: "No, does your pi-rate?"

Speaking of pirates, we wonder what a shoemaker does with his booty.

And again we are wearing our patent leather shoes. Leather on top; feet pattin' the ground.

That last bit of railly should be spoken in order to be effective.

How about this?
She was only a boxer's daughter, but she surely got a-round.

REJOICE! REJOICE!

Now comes a one-act play entitled: "The Sailor's Sourheart." 1, 2, 3, go. All the rest of you, too.

Mrs. Oyster—Come on, you old tightwad, shell out.

Mr. Oyster—Clam yourself, my dear. The shell game isn't what it used to be. I'm broke.

Mrs. O.—Then hunt up a blacksmith and get mended. Listen, you big crab, what a whale of a difference just a few cents would make. Come on, you've got some sense.

Mr. O.—You wouldn't say such things, my dear, if you knew how I lay awake nights and grieved. The trouble is, these land sharks are getting all my rocks.

Mrs. O.—Don't try to get funny with me. Sounds too fishy. If you had enough sand, you'd get out and be worth your salt.

Mr. O.—But I can't pull the scales over the eyes of a shark; he hasn't any. Now not another word, or I won't give you a new pearl for Xmas. Sea?

ED NOTE—MAYBE YOU ARE!

I wish I was a Moron,
He doesn't give a dam;

I wish I was a Moron—

Dear me, perhaps I am!

BACCHUS AND MORPHEUS.

Mary Ann Young '26 Is to Wed Robert Nelson Today at Edgerton, Wis.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock in Edgerton takes place the wedding of Mary Ann Young '26, daughter of Fred A. Young, Edgerton, to Robert Nelson '25, son of Mrs. M. A. Nelson.

The bride will be attired in a gown of egg-shell satin, fashioned in princess style. She will carry a bouquet of cream roses and lilies of the valley. She will have as her only attendant her sister, Ruth Young '30, who will wear a pale green gown fashioned in the same style. She will carry pink roses.

Mr. Nelson is having as his attendant his brother, Fred Nelson. The house will be decorated for the ceremony in chrysanthemums and autumn leaves.

Both young people attended the university. Miss Young is affiliated with Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

The telephone grows air-minded

THE BELL SYSTEM has made many successful experiments in two-way plane to ground telephone communication. This new development illustrates how it marches a pace ahead of the new civilization. It is now growing faster than ever before.

New telephone buildings are going up this year in 200 cities. Many central offices are changing from manual to dial telephones. A vast program of cable construction is going on.

This is the period of growth, improvement and adventure in the telephone industry. Expenditures this year for new plant and service improvements will total more than five hundred and fifty million dollars—one and one half times the entire cost of the Panama Canal.

Purple Rooters Pour Into Madison on Special Train

Evidence that interest in the Northwestern game is running high in Evanston, Chicago, and Milwaukee, was shown when it was announced that 16 special trains carrying more than 7,000 Northwestern rooters and Wisconsin alumni would arrive over the Northwestern railroad Friday and Saturday.

The advance guard of the influx was the Northwestern squad which arrived last night.

Start Coming Saturday

The first of the 10 special student sections will arrive Saturday at 10 a.m. and will bring the Northwestern 120 piece band with it. On this section there will be a special baggage car for the huge bass drum, which compares in size with the one brought up by the Chicago band last year.

Each of these sections, coming from Evanston, will have both a dining car and a lunch counter. The latter accommodation is an innovation in the way of travel-lunch service, for this lunch counter will be equipped for all manner of short order service.

Dance on Train

On two of the student sections there will be a baggage car that has been cleaned, polished, and designed to be used as a dance floor. The university band is to supply the dance music. Besides the student sections there will be two sections of Northwestern alumnae and two sections of Wisconsin alumnae coming in from Chicago in solid pullman trains. Milwaukee will contribute two sections of Wisconsin alumnae to the scene of the battle.

Wisch '30 Chosen to Head Campus Agricultural Group

Herbert Wisch '30 was elected president of the student branch of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers at its meeting Oct. 8. Roy Templin '30 is vice president and William Abrams '30, secretary and treasurer.

The society, founded in 1907, was organized for the purpose of standardizing the manufacturing of farm machinery, promoting the extension of engineering projects and creating an interest in modern development and methods. The sectional convention will be held in Chicago Dec. 4 and 5.

Howard Inman '30 and Robert Henderson '30 were appointed as committee to inspect and present the by-laws at the next meeting Oct. 15. Officers of the organizations urge all agricultural engineer majors to attend.

Sorority Council Elects Officers Thursday Noon

Marian Steingoetter '30, Kappa Epsilon, was elected vice president of the Professional Pan-Hellenic Sorority council, and Catherine Pegg '31, Coranto, was elected corresponding secretary at a meeting Thursday noon in the Round Table dining room of the Memorial Union.

Other officers are: president, Elizabeth Goudie '30, Coranto; recording secretary, Ernestine Wittwer '30, Sigma Lambda; and treasurer, Eleanor Cross '31, Sigma Alpha Iota.

Luncheon meetings will be continued throughout the year, with speakers representing the various professions for women.

Campus
Coverage"

We offer the full details and history of Pi Iota Nu ("Pin" fraternity, called the "pie-eyes," for short). This organization has existed for more than a year and has had no previous publicity. It is an organization within an organization (Wisconsin Players). Their pledge pin is a gold safety pin (You know, the kind mother used to use).

At present the brethren and sisters are rather riled up over the absence of Dan Young '30, who left school with the charter in his possession. This document, it appears, is written on a paper towel and is signed by Glenn Frank (the president of this university).

The last meeting of Wisconsin players found them sitting in a block and they elected Gil Williams '30, their president, the proxy of players. Another of their officers, Dorothy Holt '30 was elected. Van Johnson '30, a non-member, was named vice president and immediately pledged.

When they have occasion to call a meeting, someone like Marcus Ford '30 cups his hands around his mouth and yells, "Meeting, meeting." Immediately everyone goes into a huddle and they consider themselves meetinged.

Incidentally the only reason why Emily Ann Albrecht '30 was not pledged at the last get-together was because the organization ran out of safety pins.

Prof. William Troutman is a member, although it is doubtful whether he knows anything about it. He was unconscious at the time he was pledged, we are informed. Another faculty member is Lawrence Mendenhall.

When someone is to be rushed, the victim is merely chased until caught and pledged. Mercedes Jelsma '30, one of the pledges, is very impatient about her initiation for fear that her pledge will run out. The reason is that the "pie-eyes" are still seeking a good initiation ceremony.

Bob Hurd '30 was appointed to find a design for a pin exactly one year and three weeks ago. He has a lot of catalogs but is still in doubt about a pin.

Bernadine Flynn '29 and Joe Richter '29 were among the charter members. Connie Fleith '29 petitioned for membership weekly while she was in school. She was blackballed just as frequently.

We came by the Kappa house in the wee hours of the mawnin Friday and saw two white lanterns on the porch. One was on the lite in front of the door and the other on the stone balustrade that leads up to it.

A ill gal was seen hurrying up the steps of the chemistry building with books and all. She must have been a stude. Anyway, she was weeping.

The Northwestern drum came down in a special freight train from Evanston.

Since the Tri-Delts raised the dues for town girls, the three Owen sisters (Sally, Merle, Betsy) have been taking their meals there once a week.

Ed Fronk '30, president of the Y. M. C. A., has taken it upon himself to call upon freshmen to interest them in "Y" work. At one house the lady inquired, "Are you one of those frat boys who takes my roomers away?" When he assured her that he was not, he was admitted.

In describing a certain spot where a book in the library might be found, Prof. W. G. Rice pointed to the east and said to one of his law classes, "That is east. Now can you find the other FOUR directions?"

There is a class in astronomy that meets at the observatory once a week (on a clear night). Every so often, a car comes along and parks nearby with the headlights turned on full force, something which is very disturbing to the students of the stars. And every time a student asks Prof. Joel Stebbins: "Shall I ask them to turn them out?" And every time Prof. Stebbins answers: "Never mind, they will in time."

Major Friedman who is a guest of Prof. Ray S. Owen at present, was a code expert at the front during the World war. After trying devious methods of fooling the Germans by the use of codes over the telephone, he finally hit upon the idea of using American Indians. The Indians used their own language and the Germans were nonplussed, not having any Indians in their land, and the language being different from any code.

When Prof. J. M. Gaus announced that a political science written test had been postponed, he received an almost automatic skyrocket. The "S-S-S" started before his announcement was finished.

Eddie the elevator boy of the Memunion plays a trombone in a local orchestra at night. . . . the sawdust is still in most of the rathskeller (our mistake).

Hugh Hemmingway Chosen
President of Botkin House

The election of officers in Botkin house Thursday night at 10:15 p.m. concluded the elections for Tripp hall this term.

Hugh Hemmingway, who had been acting chairman, was permanently elected to this position at the Thursday night meeting. These Botkinmen were also chosen: Charles Furst, vice president; John Siegel, secretary; George Hampel, treasurer; Robert Babington, sergeant-at-arms. George Hampel was also elected athletic manager.

There was a meeting of the upper-classmen of the house immediately following the election.

First Baptist Church Gives Joint Concert October 24

Edward Otis '24, baritone, and Grant Otis, medic student, cellist will be presented in joint concert on Oct. 24 by the First Baptist church. Since he has been graduated Edward Otis has been studying in Chicago under Arthur Middleton, who was credited with having one of the great voices in the country. Grant Otis has played in concert orchestras and is an instructor in the Wheeler School of Music.

Announce Rules for Student Life

Dean Goodnight Makes Notice Regarding Undergraduate Social Functions

A special notice, authorized by the regents and the faculty, announced yesterday that regulations regarding student social life have been in force from the opening of the fall semester and will continue until the end of the summer session including all vacation periods.

The final week-ends for social functions during the first semester are Jan. 10, 11, and for the second semester May 23 and 24. The periods from Jan. 12, to the end of the final examination period, Feb. 5, and from May 25 to the end of the final examination period, June 17, are closed periods during which student activities are not authorized.

Approved Dances

The commercial dances held exclusively for students which have the approval of the committee on student life and interests are as follows:

Union board dances held in the Memorial Union.

Close at 12 P. M.

Cameo Room dances, in the Beaver building.

These dances are held Friday and Saturday nights and on nights before legal holidays. Dances are not approved at any other time. No roadhouse dances and no other commercial dances than the two mentioned above are approved. All dances close at or before 12 p. m.

The notice is signed by Dean Scott Goodnight, chairman of the committee on student life and interests.

Wisconsin Ready for Wildcat Game

Capt. John Parks, "Whitey" Ketelaar, and Milo Lubratovich were several times shifted from one team to another, to make room for other men who figured in the coach's switching program.

In today's starting line-ups, three positions are more in doubt than the rest. At right halfback, Lusby and Russ Rebholz have equal chances of starting. Russ, younger brother of Hal, the fullback, has looked especially well in practice all week, and Lusby has to his credit the showing made all last season and so far this year.

Has Good Fullbacks

At fullback, Gnabah and Hal Rebholz are two possibilities. The elder Reb distinguished himself last week against Colgate by a series of plunges and drives that several times swept the Maroons off their feet. Gnabah, a sophomore, is another fullback of great potentialities, as has been shown in his work at practice and in the games played this year.

Memorial Union Will Open Doors to Visiting Fans

Following the practice established last year, the Union will hold open house to visitors on the week-end of the Northwestern game, and will be open to guests on the week-ends of the rest of the important home games.

Tripp Commons will be opened for regular meal service on Saturday noon and night and Sunday noon and night. This will accommodate the overflow from the cafeteria and the demand for table-d'hote service by the visitors. The cafeteria will also have extended hours for all meals.

Headquarters for both the Northwestern rooters and the band have been established at the Union. They will be quartered at the student center for the entire week-end.

Dances have been arranged by the Union board for Friday and Saturday nights.

Porter Butts, house director, extends an invitation to all out-of-town visitors to visit the Union while they are in Madison. All rooms in the Union will be open to them.

Program Outlined at First Meeting of Forensic Board

The year's speech program was outlined by the Forensic board at its first meeting Friday noon, in the Round Table lounge of the Memorial Union.

Tentative plans for the Forensic banquet to be held one week before the first men's forensic debate were formulated. A special invitation is being extended to all freshmen interested in debate work to the banquet which will be held in the latter part of November or the early part of December.

It was decided to begin the Frankenburger award contest within a month. The award is given to the student who presents the best original essay. The winner of the contest represents Wisconsin in the Northern Oratorical league.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

By authorization of the Regents and the Faculty, the regulations regarding social life (see Timetable, page 10) are in force from the opening of the fall semester to the end of the succeeding summer session, including all vacation periods.

Literature Group Outlines Program for Coming Year

Plans for the year's program were outlined by the members of the Modern Literature group of the A. A. U. W., at the first meeting of the season, held Thursday at 2:30 p. m. in College Hall.

Mrs. A. S. Barr, chairman of the group, was in charge, and Miss Charlotte Wood, hostess at the Arden club, and a member of the university English department, assumed her role as group leader for the year. Among those who attended were several wives of university professors.

Meetings will be held regularly, the second and fourth Thursdays of each month. Contemporary books and plays will be discussed, and 13 of the books to be read this year were named. On Oct. 24, discussions will be held about "The King Who Was a King," by H. G. Wells, and "Kristin Lavransdatter," by Sigrid Unset.

ALPHA PHI

The members of Alpha Phi will entertain at an informal reception Sunday afternoon from 3 until 6 o'clock. Mrs. Winnie is to chaperon.
