FARMERS' WEEK TO BEGIN HERE ON JANUARY 29

Marketing, Breeding, and Advertising on the Program

Marketing specialists, advertising experts, prominent clergymen, livestock breeders, and home economics specialists from all parts of the country will come to Madison during Farmer's week, January 29 to February 3, to discuss what has been done to help the farmer out of the present economic depression, according to announcements issued by the agricultural extension department.

Prof. W. T. Macklin of the agricultural economics department, will address the farmers on "What Co-operative Sales Organizations Contribute to the merchandising of Farm Products."

Professor Macklin has just returned from a tour of the western states where he has been collecting first hand information about the farmer's cooperative organizations of the Pacific coast.

Former Editor to Speak

Charles Pugsley, former editor of The Nebraska Farmer, and now assistant secretary of agriculture will head the list of prominent advertising experts. Other prominent advertisers are: F. W. Lovejoy, formerly with the Curtis Publishing company, A. W. Hopkins, of the agricultural journalism department, and many other prominent publicity specialists.

Representatives of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeder's association, the Wisconsin Dairy council, the Wisconsin Dairyman's association, and numerous live stock breeders will discuss animal husbandry problems at the conference.

Rural Life Section

Representatives from numerous religious denominations will attend the rural life sections of the conference. The Rev. Edwin O'Hara, director of the rural life bureau of his denomination will address the farmers and rural pastors on the subject, "What the Church Can do to Help the Business of Farming."

Programs for women include a large part of the time to be devoted to the solution of farm problems. Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones, in charge of Home Economics extension work in Wisconsin, Vangel Russell, Home Demonstration agent for Marathon county, and other household specialists will appear on the program for women.

Student night will be devoted largely to an entertainment of the farmers by agricultural students. Short plays, musical numbers and mixing stunts are included as entertainment for farmers.

Badger Subscriptions

Draw Near 4,000 Mark

A total number of 3,653 Badgers have been sold up to date, according to the most recent tabulation. Lists have been posted in Bascom hall, Physics building, Agricultural hall and Biology building, where all students who still desire to sign up for personal or friends' copies may do so within the next few weeks, before final orders are placed with the printer.

Willard Kirchner '24, circulation manager, feels certain that the total subscription list this year will equal or rise above the usual 4,000 mark, the standard in previous years.

"A large number of students and alumni are purchasers every year, and feel the need of the Badger as the very best outline of college actors and activities. It is a text book of college life, filled with information on the very subjects the student is making inquiry about," said Kirchner.

McConnell to Give Talk Monday; Not Wednesday

FACULTY TEAMS TO RACE IN ICE CARNIVAL RELAY

Following the example set by the College of Engineering, a relay team composed of instructors in the athletic department yesterday challenged other faculty teams to take part in the faculty relay race during the ice carnival on February 10.

The athletic department has not been successful in faculty bowling and other contests this year and hopes to make up for the deficiency when the relay is run off. Meade Burke, captain of the team, is getting his men into shape, in order that there will be no doubt as to the outcome of the race.

Several departments of the university have material for ice competitions and are expected to accept the challenge.

BADGERS ADMINISTER CRUSHING DEFEAT TO CHICAGO; SCORE 24-11

FOUNDATION DAY TO BE OBSERVED

The University of Wisconsin club of Chicago will celebrate Foundation day on February 5, so commemorate the meeting of the first class of the university held by Prof. John Sterline in a room loaned by the city of Madison.

Federal Judge Evan. A. Evans will speak on the increase of wealth in the state compared with the increase in appropriations to the university. He was formerly a law partner of H. H. Thomas '98, in Baraboo.

The observance of Foundation day has brought a hearty response from the old graduates each year since it was started by the Alumni association six years ago.

Last year 350 former Wisconsin students gathered together at a banquet in the Tiger room of the Sherman hotel in Chicago for the occasion. The late Bishop Fallows '59, led the invocation and Mr. A. J. McCartney acted as toastmaster. Mr. E. S. Jordan of the Jordan Motor company was one of the speakers.

Women's Debate Tryouts to Be Held After Exams

Tryouts for the annual Castalia-Hesperia debate will be held at the first meeting of each society next semester. The question submitted by Castalia has been referred to Prof. G. H. Stuart to adjust a technicality in the wording, after which sides will be chosen by Pythia.

Wisconsin experienced a sweet revenge when its basketball team rode roughshod over Chicago, 24 to 11, in the Badgers' third consecutive Big Ten victory last night.

In what might have been a continuation of the famous 0 to 0 football game—but wasn't—the Meanwell quintet administered a crushing defeat to the Maroons, holding them to two solitary baskets, both of which came in the second half. Wisconsin led at the end of the first period, 13 to 4.

Williams is Injured

Rough playing, which characterized the contest, culminated in the last period when Barnes, Chicago forward and a football end, shoved Rollie Williams into the end bleachers. Williams was out for several minutes, but gamely returned to the battle and received a tremendous ovation from the crowd which packed the gym. Still suffering from the injury, Rollie was replaced by Barwig after a minute of play. He supplanted Barwig late in the half after Chicago had counted both of its baskets.

A varied style of attack dazzled the Chicago basketeers. The Wisconsin offensive was looser than it has been in previous games and passes were longer. The men took more chances with distance shots. To climax the long throws, Capt. Gus Tebell heaved the sphere from a point under the Chicago basket to Les Gage at the other end of the court. Gage slipped away from a Chicago guard, and tossed in a pretty basket, Wisconsin's last.

Maroons Play Defensive

The defense was working perfectly throughout. Tebell and Williams permitted Chicago not more than three or four shots at the basket in the first half. The two successful tries in the last period were the result of long heaves by Dickson, who relieved Maroons missed a few shots in

Colored Student Barred From Harvard Dormitory

Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard university, has excluded a colored student from the freshman college dormitory. It has been the cause of considerable comment on the Harvard campus and in many other colleges and universities throughout the country.

Dr. Lowell explained his action by stating that he feared if white men were forced to live with colored students, the issue might reach such a stage that it would have a national effect in agitating the race question and that the colored person himself would be the greatest sufferer. He also pointed out that the other dormitories and dining halls were open to colored students.

British Debates Date To 1066 In Document Files

If you enter the document room on the first floor of the library and make a request for the Congregational records, or the statutes of the state you will not be considered an unusually peculiar person. For, according to the attendants in charge of that room, many students make such errors each year.

The word document is a rather flimsy term, but it might be defined by the general statement that a document is any publication printed at government expense, either federal, state, city, county or town.

School Material Extensive
The files in the library contain series, many of which are complete, of federal state and English reports, periodicals, indexes, proceedings and patents. Systematic collection has been confined to documents of English-speaking countries, but the library has obtained a large number of Mexican and South American public documents.

As for state documents, the library's collection of public school material is one of the most extensive and important of its kind in the country. This material represents the documents of every state in the Union.

While it deals with a period more recent than that dealt with by the school documents, the society's labor collection is nearly equal in value to the other. The railroad and finance material is also of unusual order.

English Debates of 1066
In the British files one may find the debates in parliament as far back as 1066 as compiled by William Cobbett in the early part of the nineteenth century. The library also has some rare old volumes of proceedings and debates many of which were the source of Cobbett's compilation.

The society issued a Checklist of Wisconsin public documents as they are published each month. This list is distributed throughout the state and country and may serve as a catalogue to the libraries and individuals that wish to obtain the state documents therein listed.

EPWORTH LEAGUE PARTY
Epworth League of the First Methodist church will give a sleigh-ride party next Friday evening. Sleighs will leave the church at 7:30 o'clock for a two-hour drive, after which the group will have an oyster supper. Charges will be 50 cents.

Richard Magoon, Pioneer, First To Suggest Society

The advisability of establishing a territorial historical society in the State of Wisconsin was first suggested in 1845 by Richard H. Magoon, a pioneer of what is now Lafayette County.

The purpose of such an organization was to collect from the pioneers then alive, such facts in regard to the early history of Wisconsin as they might possess, as well as to treasure up those concerning the future.

In October of 1846 the members of the first State Constitutional convention organized a historical society; but beyond the holding of a meeting two years later, nothing was done. Although the society was reorganized in 1849 and several meetings were held, nothing more of importance was achieved except the acquisition of the 50 volumes made by Dr. Lyman Copeland Draper, who was brought here from Philadelphia.

Made Rapid Strides
Under the vigorous management of this enthusiast, who had been elected the society's secretary and executive officer, the organization began to make rapid strides.

For want of library space, the greater part of the acquisitions were stored in Draper's residence until, in 1855, a small room in the local Baptist church was pressed into use. About 11 years later the entire institution—library, portrait gallery and museum—was moved by authority of the legislature to quarters especially prepared for it in the then new south wing of the capitol.

When Dr. Draper resigned from his position in the society at the close of 1886, the library had become one of the most important reference collections west of the Alleghenies.

successor, Draper chose Reuben Gold Thwaites, at that time connected with the Wisconsin State Journal. The government of the institution could have fallen into no better hands, both because of the scholarly ability of Dr. Thwaites, and because of his many charming traits which endeared him to all with whom he came in contact.

Funds to erect the new library building were given by the legislature and the structure was finally completed and the collection moved into it in 1900. Only a short time later the capitol, which had for so long housed the society's collection, was burned.

Dr. Joseph Schafer, the present superintendent, came to the institution from the University of Oregon, but he was a Wisconsin man, and is a graduate of the University.

One of the most important collections in the possession of the society is a set of 5,000 Dutch books given in 1868 by Mrs. Nils Otto Tank of Green Bay. Information gleaned from some of the old atlases in this collection in 1899 helped to settle the boundary dispute between England and Venezuela, and thus a possible war with Great Britain was averted.

From all over the world, yes, from all over the world, even—scholars come or write to the Wisconsin Historical society for information which can be obtained nowhere else. When Theodore Roosevelt was writing his "Winning of the West" he used this library as his research laboratory. Prof. Graham Stuart, of the department of political science, made it his study-house while he was writing his new book on Latin America and the United States.

Each file and stack is open to every responsible student, although in some instances there are certain restrictions imposed upon the use of the collections.

New Bill at Orpheum Gives Promise of Class

The array of vaudeville talent for the new program at the Orpheum this afternoon looks good all the way through from the first act to the closing number.

Milton Pollock will be seen here in George Ade's comedy satire, "Just Out of College." This skit, which has been equipped four times with new lines, continues to be one of the funniest bits of business ever written by this author.

Comedy and skill is to be intermingled by Kinze, the interesting entertainer. This young man possesses the faculty of having many things in the air at the same time. He is one of the vaudeville's foremost jugglers.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

BADGERS CRUSH MAROON CAGERS IN THIRD GAME

Williams Receives Injury During Final Period of Contest

Howell, and Dugan, guard. The this half, but they were on the defensive most of the time. Had Wisconsin's passes been less erratic, an even larger score might have been rolled up.

Les Gage was individual high scorer of the game. He netted four field goals and four free throws out of seven chances. Gibson had his eye on the basket last night and although he did not start, he counted four baskets. Wackman was in the pivot position when the game began.

Rollie Williams and Tebell gathered in a pair of sensational baskets in the second half. Williams came after a long dribble. His floor work was superb against the Maroons and his passing has improved until he is now more accurate than some of his mates. Williams continues to play the role of the "Badger flash." Tebell played an excellent guarding game and also started several rushes down the court.

Gage is the most dependable basket shot. He is sure to drop in a number of goals in every contest, and is a floor man who steadies the Badger passing attack when it becomes erratic. Ken Elsom continues to upset early-season prediction that he could not stand the gaff of a Conference tilt. The slight forward is adept in evading guards and is a fast floor man.

Chicago was forced to depend upon Barnes for most of its points. He played roughly and engaged in many mix-ups. Although Barnes failed to cage a field goal, he made seven out of twelve free throws and was Maroon high scorer. Yardley played a good game for the Midway men, but the rest of the team failed to work together.

Pucksters Lose Hard Game to Michigan

(Special to The Cardinal)

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Jan. 13.—Michigan won a hard fought hockey game from Wisconsin by a 1 to 0 score here tonight. The goal was made by Lindstrom in the second period, a lucky drive which caromed off near the goal.

Capt. Combacker starred in the offensive while Mokrejs several times saved a gain by strong defensive work. Tredwell's goal-tending was excellent. Kahn was the outstanding Michigan player.

The lineups follow: Michigan: Comb, goal; Lindstrom, center; Anderson and Henderson, wings; Kahn and MacDuff, defense. Wisconsin: Tredwell, goal; Combacker, center; Fiske and Johnson, wings; Blodgett and Mokrejs, defense. Goal—Lindstrom.

1923 Tiger Grid Schedule Show Radical Changes

The Princeton football schedule for the 1923 season, announced yesterday by the athletic committee, is radically different from that of last year. The important games with colleges other than Harvard and Yale will be with teams which the Tigers did not meet last season.

The game with the Navy will be played at Baltimore and that with Yale at New Haven. The schedule is as follows:

Oct. 6, Johns Hopkins at Princeton; Oct. 13, Georgetown at Princeton; Oct. 20, Notre Dame at Princeton; Oct. 27, Navy at Baltimore; Nov. 3, Swarthmore at Princeton; Nov. 10, Harvard at Princeton; Nov. 17, Yale at New Haven.

BADGER MATMEN TAKE 1ST MEET BY 19-6 COUNT

Capt. Templin is Praised By Northwestern Coach

The Badger wrestlers pulled into town early yesterday morning, having contributed their share toward making this week-end a success for Wisconsin athletically, by winning their first meet of the year from Northwestern, 19 to 6.

Both Coach George Hitchcock and Capt. Edward Templin are pleased with the showing of all the men, and the condition in which the team came out of the meet, for all of the members avoided injuries. Captain Templin has been bothered somewhat with a strained muscle in his shoulder and neck, but is otherwise all right.

Although a number of the Wisconsin team were wrestling their first conference match, the Coach said that they acted like veterans. The only two men to lose their matches were Benbow and Gregor, who lost only by decisions, and who were wrestling on the defensive under orders, as the meet was sewed up for Wisconsin anyway.

With a long period to prepare for the next meet with Minnesota here on February 10, and with the likelihood of several more men of varsity calibre being eligible by that time, prospects for a clean sweep of the schedule are bright.

Dana M. Evans, director of athletics at Northwestern passed a nice compliment on Captain Templin who wrestling in the 175 pound class weighing in at only 164 pounds, threw Larry Horton, Northwestern's football wrestler, who was so badly done up when Templin finished with him that he had to be carried from the floor. Mr. Evans expressed the opinion that Templin was the best man in the conference at either the 158 pound or light heavy weight class.

BURKE'S TRACK TEAM IS FIRST IN CLASS MEET

Second Place Taken By Another of His Teams

For the third consecutive time a team from Mead Burke's track division won the inter-track class meet which was held in the gym annex yesterday afternoon. The winning team, composed of men from the class meeting on Tuesday and Thursday at 3:30 o'clock, won 29 points.

Winners of second place were also of Burke's division. The team representing the Tuesday and Thursday 11 o'clock class took second place with 21 points, and Berg's 1:30 class placed third with 13 points.

Large Entry List

Owen took first honors in high point winning when he took two first places and a third. Owen led the field in the 40-yard dash, and placed first in the broad jump. Goedecke stepped out in the shorted distances, taking first place in both the half mile and the quarter mile. Melham took three third places for a total of nine points. Butz followed closely on the heels of the others and took a first place in the mile and second in the half mile for a total of eight points.

The entry list for the meet was large, and it was necessary to run several heats in many of the events.

3000 Chickens Burned In $8,000 Fire Here

Damage estimated at $8,000 was caused by a fire of unknown origin at the chicken farm of John E. Hiestand, town of Burke, Sun Prairie road, at 1:30 today, when a large chicken barn burned.

Approximately 3,000 chickens were lost in the blaze which trapped them and before they could escape. Firemen from the Central station who rushed to the scene, were able to save part of the huge barn.

THAT POINT PROBLEM

EXPLANATION from members of the student senate indicates that its attitude on the resolutions from the Council of 40 is not so self-sufficient as it seemed.

The resolutions, senators explain, were such as to commit the senate to a definite plan of action before the field had been entirely investigated by the committee.

Though perhaps lacking in tact, we are convinced that the action of the senate was incident to looking before leaping, rather than from undue self-importance. Members of the senate committee assure The Cardinal that the council's suggestions have not been discarded but will be carefully considered.

One suggestion of the council, we feel, is particularly important. That is the suggestion that a large commission be organized to make preliminary point ratings.

In each activity on the campus are dozens of positions, and the importance of each can only be intelligently rated by those closely associated with it. For instance, we feel capable of rating positions on The Cardinal but would find difficulty in rating positions on the Octopus or Badger.

It is for this reason that we feel such a committee should be organized almost immediately, to broach the problem.

Members of each organization could rate the positions in their organization, according to importance and time demanded. Such a preliminary report would give the senate committee material upon which to work.

Final formulation of the plan, of course can be efficiently done only by a small committee. It would be the work of this committee to correlate the preliminary reports and reduce them to a single standard.

The Cardinal will await with interest the first step in formulating a definite point system.

A CAMPUS NEWSPAPER

AT times The Cardinal is asked why it does not expand into a full-size newspaper, join the Associated Press, and become the morning paper of Madison. Though other university papers have thus expanded The Cardinal has limited and probably will continue to limit its news field to matters affecting the university.

There are many reasons for this. The first and most obvious is, of course, that a small paper like The Cardinal could not compete with metropolitan papers in quality of national news.

But even more important is the size of the paper. This little sheet, which is we think the ideal size for a college paper, would have to be enlarged if national news were carried. While it is now handy to read at the breakfast table or to carry to classes, it would have to be printed in a form considerably less convenient.

With its present size The Cardinal can fairly and efficiently interpret campus news, without burying it among foreign dispatches and yet without leaving important items out.

Thus to present and interpret news relevant to the campus, as well as to call on university experts for occasional comment on important world news, is The Cardinal's ideal of service to the university.

WORTHY CAUSE

THE vocal concert of Alexius Baas '06, at the Presbyterian church tomorrow evening, merits student support not only for aesthetic reasons but for the cause it is to benefit.

Across the lake, at the Mendota hospital, is a considerable number of war veterans reduced to dependency upon the government by the devastating effects of shell shock. The men are well-provided for, so far as necessities go; but luxuries are lacking. The profits from the Baass concert will go toward furnishing for the shell-shocked veterans a club room equipped with a phonograph and other paraphernalia of comfort.

Laskey to Be Interne at Bellevue Hospital

Norman F. Laskey '21, who is at present attending the physicians and surgeons college of Columbia university, has been appointed an interne at Bellevue hospital. Mr. Laskey ranked fourth in a competitive examination in which 75 contestants were entered. He will receive his M. D. in June and will enter Bellevue hospital in July.

 To powder rouge and paint

 A dangle on her arm
 A small dress in-case with a tray
 And at the least alarm
 She opens up the lid and takes
 A brief squirt at the glass
 Then with a powder puff and pencil makes
 Herself up, bold as brass
 I look at her and call to mind
 The good old-fashioned girl;
 Whose skirts were long--the trailing kind
 Whose cheeks were like the pearl;
 She never bobbed her silken hair
 The lipstick was taboo
 And only when climbed a stair
 Were ankles shown to view.
 Our modern styles would give her pain
 That girl of long ago
 Ah! Don't I wish her back again?

This scene takes place before the Dean, you know "on the carpet" as it were and the penitent young man is standing there with his eyes and feet on the floor. He is shuffling his feet as if they were a deck of cards. His glance falls on a paper on the desk but he hastily picks it up as if nothing had happened. Just then one of the office-girls bursts in the door (Poor girl). Well, to get back to the scene. The dean says as follows: "What do you mean by speaking to a teacher in such language?" And the penitent young man says, "I didn't say nothing!" Is cofferdam a bad word?" "No," says the dean, but "you must remember this instructor is a lady." "Well" says aforesaid student, "She had a very bad cold and all I said was that I hoped she'd cofferdam head off!"

Hugh Walpole's Varied Powers Please Boston

Hugh Walpole, who will lecture in Music hall next Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock, has been the subject of many magazine and newspaper articles during the past few months.

During Walpole's recent visit to Boston, on his lecture tour, the Boston Transcript says of one of his speeches: "He had not been speaking 10 minutes when curiosity had been changed to friendliness, and at the end of his hour's talk on "Books and Friendships," there was a warm note of affection in the applause and in the reluctance of the audience to leave the place.

Praise Latest Book
 "Hugh Walpole is a man of many and varied parts and powers. All of them are illuminated by his personal charm. He has learning, but no pedantry; experience, but no cynicism; imagination, but abundant common sense—sincerity, warm-heartedness, religion—but not a scrap of the self-satisfaction that makes religion an empty form."

Joseph Hergesheimer says in the January issue of the Bookman, a magazine devoted to literary people and their work:

"The Cathedral (Walpole's latest book) is a splendid Anglo-Saxon novel. Whatever may lie ahead of that race and of the traditions it is still strong in, Mr. Walpole typifies it. He is a part of England exactly as John Masefield is utterly English, and both come at the end of an epoch.

Marcosson Likes Him
 "It is a fortunate thing, here, that Mr. Walpole is a novelist, for a novelist and his novel are one. Nothing can disentangle or separate them, one cannot be measured or praised aside from the other. I mean, of course, that the essential in the novelist is like his essential in the novel, and that in Mr. Walpole could hardly be better—he has humor and the qualities of the heart and, like me, he has no prejudices, nothing that is life is condemned by him."

Isaac Marcosson, in his book, "Adventures in Interviewing," published in 1919, says: "Of all the younger British writers that I have met, Hugh Walpole stands out with the most vivid distinction. If I should indulge in the dangerous dissipation of prophecy, I would say that unless unforeseen accident happens within the next 10 years, he will stand at the head of the list."

Museum Exhibits Age-Worn Relics

Between classes, when there is no work to do and no girl with whom to have a pleasant tete-a-tete, stroll up to the fourth floor of the Library building, wander through its rooms and see the relics of by-gone days which are on exhibition there; smile at the crude tools, wonder at Daniel Webster's old carriage, catch your breath at the thrilling war trophies.

This state has been rich in historical antiquities and the Wisconsin Historical society has been extremely fortunate in its monumental acquisitions.

Bookcase is Old Relic

The case containing the original volumes of the society's library is a relic which has probably been in the possession of the organization the longest. Among the age-worn tomes which remain in the book case, there is a "Documentary History of New York State," the "Wisconsin Journal of the House," dating from 1839 to 1840, the "Statutes of Wisconsin" for 1834 and "Transactions of the American Institute."

In the long room towards the lower campus where this bookcase is kept can also be found the interesting old carriage owned by Daniel Webster. It was built in England and shipped to Boston where it was used by ancestors of Webster. When the owners died, it was passed to the statesman.

Finally it came into the possession of John R. Goodrich of Milwaukee, who in turn handed it over to the Wisconsin Historical society. With its huge wheels and lard springs it is quite representative of the type of carriage used in the early nineteenth century.

Ostensorium Most Famous Piece

In the ethnological hall of the south wing can be found a collection of prehistoric implements made of pottery, copper and stone. These remains were dug up from the Indian mounds which abound in this vicinity.

A collection of Flemish lace which was presented to the society by Mrs. Charles Kendall Adams and the engravings and color prints are also noteworthy exhibitions of the Wisconsin Historical society.

The most famous object of historical interest in the museum is the silver ostensorium presented to the old Jesuit mission at De Pere in 1686 by Nicholas Perrot who was then commandant for the French in the country of the upper Great Lakes.

Fruit Show Closes With Talk By Blair, Illinois

The annual convention and fruit show of the Wisconsin State Horticultural society closed yesterday afternoon with a talk, "The Spirit of the Middle West," by Prof. J. C. Blair, Illinois.

Prof. Blair's talk concluded a three day meeting which included speeches, banquets, business and discussion sessions. A prominent feature of the convention was an exhibition of apples from all parts of Wisconsin, on display in the rotunda of the capitol.

Frederic Cranefield, Madison, is secretary of the society. Prominent men who spoke at the meetings are Judge Charles G. Traxler, Minneapolis; Prof. H. F. Wilson; W. J. Moyle; James Nicols, Michigan; Prof. Leroy Gady, Minnesota and Dr. S. B. Fracker, state entomologist.

Legion Officers Have New Campus Policy

A new and more active policy for the university post of the American Legion was insured at the first meeting of the year Thursday noon when new officers, chiefly faculty members, were elected.

The new officers are as follows: Commander, Prof. Ray S. Owen; vice commander, Richard W. Austerman; adjutant, Prof. R. J. Roark; finance officers, John K. Kolb; sergeant-at-arms, Victor Van Steenberg; chaplain, Arthur S. Looker. The new members of the executive committee are Miss Agnes W. Ried, Professor V. L. Bohannon, Professor W. V. Meek.

Retiring Comander John C. Fritschler expressed the desire of the student members of the Legion to see the organization improved and perpetuated through the leadership of the faculty. The progressive work of the post under Commander Owen was started as soon as he had assumed office with the adoption of a resolution to more firmly establish the legion here and increase its activities.

ALL of these suits will be designed cut and tried on right here in our tailoring department. They'll differ from our regular custom clothes only that they're tailored away from our own benches.

An extremely fortunate circumstance of which we've taken advantage has made these values possible. The selection will be most complete, of course, for early buyers.

Brush Protects Hill

Against Trespassers

Overnight, like a swiftly thrown up barricade in war times, there appeared on the campus at various places rows of branches. Curiosity as to their purpose and origination reigned supreme, concerning particularly those that are placed on the upper campus, and extending two-thirds of the way down the hill.

The purpose is for protection, not against a foe, but for the protection of the campus against thoughtless students. The barricade was placed there at the order of A. F. Gallistel, supervisor of university grounds and buildings.

"About this time of the year," stated Mr. Gallistel, "when the ground is alternately thawing and freezing, is the time when the most damage is done to our campus because of thoughtless students who in order to take a short cut wade through the mud and slush. It would be useless to put a fence there, as they would only crawl under it or jump over it, and this method is the best that could be found."

School Board Vacancy

Possibility of appointment of a successor to E. T. Baillie for his unexpired term on the school board was scouted today by Mayor I Milo Kittleson. Mr. Baillie's term as a member of this board expires in the Spring, only three months remaining before the spring elections.

"I do not think that appointment of a successor is needed and unless the board desires that I make one I do not think it will be made," Mayor Kittleson said.

Death of Mr. Baillie also leaves a vacancy on the board of health. A successor to this position will probably be elected by the city council at the council meeting Jan. 26.

First Occultation in

Last 40 Years Occurs

The first occultation in forty years of the planet Venus was visible at 5:30 o'clock yesterday morning and lasted until 6:13 o'clock, according to telescopic observations made by Prof. Joel Stebbins of Washburn observatory.

At the beginning of the occultation Venus and the moon were behind the clouds, but about ten minutes before they were due to reappear the sky gradually cleared, and Venus was satisfactorily observed through the thin clouds. In another 10 minutes the sky was overcast and the pictorial effect of the moon and the planet was lost. The scientific observations of the phenomenon was as satisfactory as though the sky had been clear.

The next occultation visible in Madison will be the bright evening star of Alvearan on January 27. Particulars will be announced a day or so in advance.

Hours: 9 to 12 or 2 to 5.

ELECTRIC MAN AFTER SENIORS

Westinghouse Representative Seeks Electric and Mechanical Engineers

Westinghouse Electric company, represented by Perdy H. Moon, who was graduated from the university last June, has been reconnoitering during the past week among the senior electrical and mechanical engineers, preparatory to hiring a group of them after graduation.

"Westinghouse would like to get more men from the University of Wisconsin this year than during the past few years," Mr. Moon said yesterday. "The present outlook indicates that men in this field of work should have no difficulty in getting jobs; more men are being taken on than last year."

The college men whom the Westinghouse company employs will be used mainly as salesmen, designers and machine installers. Most of the new men are sent to the company school at East Pittsburg, Pa., for a special course lasting one year. All types of manufactures and the entire scheme of the business are learned by the men in the class room, shops and testing laboratories.

A large number of the students at the Provincial institutes of Matanzas, Camaguey, and Pinar del Rio are supporting the strikers in their walkout. A mass meeting will be held today at which spokesman for the students, the university, and the government will be heard. Until then there will be no change in the situation.

Dean Urges Greater Control of Athletics

Greater control of athletics by the faculties of colleges and the elimination of commercialism from intercollegiate athletics were urged by Dean Douglas Anderson of Tufts in a report made Thursday night to the Association of American Colleges in session at Chicago. The report was the result of a survey made of the leading universities and colleges in the country.

"Among the leading abuses which the committee discovered were commercialism, excessive expenditure of money, scouting for athletes in preparatory schools, too much newspaper publicity, gambling, and the over-emphasis on the part of alumni and the general public of the relative importance of athletics," Dean Anderson stated.

That faculty control over finances, schedules and the employment of coaches as well as the eligibility of players, entrance requirement and scholastic training should be the first step toward the elimination of these evils is the belief of Dean Anderson.
