The Wisconsin Alumni Magazine

Realizing the importance of strengthening co-operative loyalty and increasing individual good-will, the General Alumni Association publishes an official monthly known as THE WISCONSIN ALUMNI MAGAZINE. From a few hundred members in the late 90's the General Alumni Association now has reached a membership of nearly ten thousand. These members are included in all classes from 1860 to 1925, are found in every state and possession of the United States, in eight Canadian provinces, and in three dozen foreign countries. No other publication promoting University interests reaches so large a representative, diversified, cosmopolitan list of readers. The Alumni Association is self-sustaining. Its sources of support are annual memberships of $2.00, life memberships of $50.00, and voluntary contributions by members to a Living Endowment Fund and to a Permanent Endowment Fund. In keeping former students in closer touch with each other and with Alma Mater, the Alumni Association through this publication renders a distinct and unique service to the University. Nevertheless, the alumni organization rightly feels that the publication is a means to an end rather than an end in itself. Expressed in a word, that end is co-operation.—From the 1925 Badger.

We ask each one of our 9,000 members to assume personal responsibility for mailing promptly to the Alumni Headquarters his or her change of regular address.

Why don't YOU investigate the opportunity to represent a Company that has so large a number of "Repeat Orders"?

An Opportunity

WE want to open negotiations with a few men now employed but looking for the opportunities for personal development and increased earnings offered by a dignified selling connection. The kind of man we want is at least twenty-eight years of age and has been out of college four or five years. He has had some selling experience or feels that, with the right training and cooperation, he can develop selling ability. He must be willing to work hard and enthusiastically. He will have an opportunity to earn at least $5,000 the first year and to broaden his contact with business men.

You need not necessarily be desirous of making an immediate change. We want to get thoroughly acquainted with you and your qualifications, give you full information concerning our work, and arrange for a personal interview before concluding final arrangements. Our idea is to have you available to take over a vacancy when it occurs on thirty days' notice to your present organization. Write fully to

"We have an obligation to our individual Alma Mater of at least a minimum equal to the amount that the institution has expended upon us. That obligation is even greater because we each incurred it at a time when we could not then individually afford to repay."

Madison, Wis., July, 1924

SOME thirteen hundred young men and women graduate this year and go to their home communities to take up their various duties in life. I have been delegated as one of their number to tell you how, as a class, we decided to express our gratitude and loyalty to the University and to the citizens of the state of Wisconsin for the Gratitude education that has been so kindly bestowed upon us during these past four years.

Senior classes that have gone before us have established the tradition of leaving a fitting memorial to serve as an inspiration to future Wisconsin students. Prior to the year 1910, it had been customary for successive classes each year to erect at some fitting place on the campus a marble slab, significant of the fact, that, while the seniors themselves had departed from University life, yet their loyalty and gratitude forever remained with their alma mater. From 1910 on, however, this custom of erecting markers has been done away with. Recent classes have felt that, while monuments of this kind might fittingly express their sentiments in leaving, yet they could be of little service in the life of the average University student. Memorials that would express gratitude and loyalty for the gift of education and at the same time be of service in contributing to the welfare of future Wisconsin students have been desired and sought after by recent graduating classes. For the past seven years contributions have been made to a chimes fund, which, when completed, will erect on Bascom Hall chimes similar to those at Cornell, so vividly remembered and dearly loved by graduates of that great university.

While we of 1924 make a contribution to this fund, so the time may be shortened before Wisconsin students will be called to their classes by the sound of these beautiful chimes, yet we feel that as individuals we have an extraordinary opportunity this year to leave a greater memorial for our fellow students, to contribute to a greater need of our University. Hence we have voluntarily decided that every student of our class will be enrolled as a life member in the Wisconsin Memorial Union, and Wednesday, May 14, was our red-letter day in carrying out this resolution. From early morning, until dark, one hundred and fifty senior solicitors were busy upon the campus filling in pledge blanks from their fellow classmates. The military department loaned us one of their three-inch fieldpieces, and for every ten subscriptions that were turned in, the cannon roared from the top of University Hill. From the number of times the canon was fired throughout the day 1924 went over the top 100% strong for the Memorial Union Building.

The members of the senior class which I represent feel that they owe much in loyalty and gratitude for the education that they have received. In return for this education, they feel that whatever can be done to make Wisconsin a greater university they should do. The Memorial Union building is the crying need of the present, as we have realized from our experiences of the last four years. As an expression of our loyalty and gratitude, therefore, we have pledged our support to this worthy enterprise 100% strong, so that students when they reach this stage of their university career may say, "We have attended Wisconsin. There we have seen the children of all races associate, students from all classes of society, from all creeds, from all nationalities, mingle, sit at the same tables, study in the same classrooms, belong to the same great society—the Wisconsin Memorial Union. There we have formed friendships that will never die."—FRANK COSGROVE, '24.

A recent magazine divides college alumni into six classifications, as follows: selfish, grouchy, snobbish, excusable, forgetful, and dependable.

Dependable Alumni The publication points out that the dependable alumni "belong to the Alumni Association, are always ready to support any worthy university or alumni project, and, when called on to help, always give a cheerful response."

We who are members of the General Alumni Association should do our part in bringing all other alumni into closer relationship with Alma Mater. Frequently we can help the forgetful alumnus who has good intentions that are weakened by procrastination. Of course, we should at every opportunity aid and encourage fellow alumni who, because of ill health, hard luck, or misfortune, cannot afford even the small amount of time, money, and effort required for active membership in the General Alumni Association. Just how to rescue the snobbish alumnus who feels too important to bother with Alumni Association or University affairs is a more difficult problem. Perhaps he may be brought to a sense of his own shame if now and then his attention is directed to the generous way in which even busier, more eminent, and more widely-known alumni are giving of their time, their talent, and their treasure for the advancement of these very matters he considers beneath his notice. While the grouchy alumni are few, there are always some cases of misunderstanding where grievances harbored against the institution or against some individual may be cleared up through kindly and considerate intervention. The more common sin of selfishness offers another problem for which no panacea has been discovered. The alumnus who capitalizes his Alma Mater as a personal asset, but who refuses to devote any expense, time, or effort to advance Alma Mater's interests is truly an ungrateful child of our good "institutional mother." A good example is probably the most potent influence with these alumni who show a desire to take all and give nothing. When they see the real pleasure enjoyed by those who do maintain close affiliations with classmates and with the University, they may in turn realize that selfishness weakens those bonds of enduring friendship which could be strengthened easily by practicing the proved precept that one really secures more pleasure and lasting benefit by giving than by merely receiving.

The steady increase in membership of our Wisconsin General Alumni Association offers convincing evidence that our dependable alumni outnumber all of the five other classes mentioned.

We feel, too, that the effort to group alumni in these six classifications fails to take cognizance of the fact that organized alumni work is a relatively new movement. Consequently every institution has a number of loyal graduates who do not as yet fully understand the necessity of organized alumni unity in advancing the welfare of their college and university, private or public, small or large. If this is true, many more alumni can be brought into active participation in organized alumni affairs if we who are members make a point of stressing this need of co-operation whenever we meet other graduates who have not as yet joined this great enterprise that exists so that former students may by keeping in closer touch with the University and with each other advance the welfare of the University through closer co-operation in many lines of service. A little thought will probably convince all loyal alumni that the future of any university is steadily becoming more and more dependent upon the number, the strength, and the willingness of its dependable alumni.

The growth of from $2,000 to nearly $20,000 in about half a dozen years is the proud record for the Chimes Fund. Indeed the fund is now almost double what its originators felt would be required to purchase the chimes. It now appears that probably another $10,000 will be requisite to get such chimes as will be fitting for the purposes desired. Furthermore, an additional $20,000 is estimated as the cost of necessary steel construction work in the building to house the bells. Surely, when voluntary subscribers furnish the money necessary to purchase a wonderful set of melodious chimes, the legislature will not be reluctant to provide the means of properly erecting and housing such a valuable gift in a University building. The growth of this fund shows the value of consistent, continued, co-operative support of a desirable objective. Our University will receive increasing benefactions as the years multiply. The steady growth of the Chimes Fund should help us keep in mind the value of co-operative action of the many, as well as encourage the spirit of generosity of the individual in giving such treasures to Alma Mater.

That Patrick Powers, policeman, must stand trial for having committed a crime in slaying Peter Posepny, ex '25, is the decision of Judge O. A. Stolen, '00, who upheld the coroner's jury Must Stand Trial that declared Posepny met death in an "unwarranted and unlawful manner." The court found "that a crime had been committed and that there is probable cause to believe that the defendant is guilty and should be held for trial." As to the defense that the killing was justifiable homicide, the court pointed out that "whether the killing is justifiable or not must be determined by certain principles of law," and added that "the notion that a peace officer may in all cases shoot one who flees from him when about to be arrested is unfounded."

"WISCONSIN SPIRIT"—VINTAGE OF 1924

JOHN DOLLARD, '22

IF WISCONSIN SPIRIT means anything, it means fellowship in action—for the University—and so on Wednesday, May 14, the roar of a three-inch gun on Muir Knoll waked the late sleepers—in classes and out—to the fact that something was going on at Wisconsin. Another roar, and another, shaking the windows of the Engineering Building, followed. While the deans probably swore mightily, the students looked on with joyous anticipation because they knew that the great and only Class of '24 was in action, and because every sullen boom meant 500 new dollars for the Memorial Union.

The fun began in the morning with the letters "W A R" scrawled in great Gothic type all the way across the back page of the Cardinal. "Seniors Are Fighting for the Union," they said. "The cannon will boom for every ten new Life Memberships." "Keep the Cannon Roaring."

And they did. They kept it roaring all day.

From signboards, from trees, from handbills, in the Cardinal, it was made known that seniors were fighting for the Union. And all day loyal workers poured into the Union office with new pledges, got new names of "irreconcilables," and went out again. And when the smoke had cleared away, almost five hundred seniors had taken out new life memberships in the Memorial Union, and a total of $23,000 in new money had been pledged. And this was new money; the class had already pledged $20,000 in a previous campaign which brings their total to $43,000.

Our records show that this class has pledged the largest amount of money so far to the Memorial Union, and has the largest number of Life Members. The only 100% class on the books is the class of 1860 which has two members—W. P.

Powers of Los Angeles, and Vice President J. B. Parkinson of Madison. Both have subscribed heavily.

The delightful part of it is, to an alumnus, that this campaign was planned and executed entirely by students of this class of '24. There was assistance from office but no direction or compulsion; it was '24's ambition to be a 100% class, and they almost succeeded.

Alumni, hearing of the doings of this class, have written in, congratulating them and expressing their encouragement at this new-old thing which we call Wisconsin Spirit. Israel Shrimski, ex '88, member of the Board of Visitors, and ex-president of the General Alumni Association, writes in part:

When in Madison in attendance at a meeting of the Board of Visitors, I was amazed as well as delighted upon learning of the splendid activities of the Class of 1924 in behalf of the Memorial Union Building. The Board of Visitors took occasion to adopt a resolution commending the class.

The wonderful achievement made by 1924 is truly balm in Gilead. It represents determination and devotion, class unity and solidarity, recognition of an indebtedness to the University, and a return in service and helpfulness.

The alumni everywhere will be stimulated. The General Alumni Association will be proud to welcome the class as members. The members of the Association will have their faith renewed and their hopes enlarged.

This praise is truly well-deserved, and it comes from a man whose own devotion to the cause has been an inspiration to all of us.

In this determined army there were no privates; they were all generals, and all the generals worked in the ranks. The Campaign Chairman, John Dawson, who hails from the panhandle, carried a musket the same as all the rest, and himself led the canvassing operations. Walter Frautschi, president of this remarkable class, was one of the most vigorous solicitors. Gordon Wanzer, one-time Prom chairman and other things too numerous to mention, labored in the cause. Vernon Beardsley spent time when he should have been enjoying himself and writing his thesis, getting out some extraordinary publicity—and so on, every man with his shoulder to the wheel and his own money in the pot.

Everybody from Prexy down is rejoicing at the sturdy independence and splendid spirit of this class. This is Wisconsin ever new and vigorous, always growing wondrous things in fresh hearts, always teaching generously and with patience.

The old days—if there ever were any better—have come back at Wisconsin.

FOOTBALL TICKET REGULATIONS FOR NEXT FALL

PAUL HUNTER, Director of Ticket Sales

WITH the largest and best football schedule in the history of the game at Wisconsin, six of the eight games to be played in Madison, we hope that every alumnus will be able to return for at least one game next fall. Special arrangements have been made for the accommodation of the alumni at all games.

Although in general the system of handling applications and the distribution of tickets used last year will again be followed next fall, many improvements in the details have been approved by the Athletic Council, all planned to benefit the patrons of the game.

On August 15 application blanks with letters of instruction will be mailed to all former students whose addresses are on the University list. Applications will be filed in the order in which they are received on and after September 1, but any received before that date will be filed as of September 5. This is done to give every alumnus the same chance to procure a 50-yard line seat.

The big stadium at Camp Randall, seating approximately 33,000 people, will again be so divided that everyone will have an equal opportunity to procure a 50-yard line seat. The entire south half of the West stand will again be reserved exclusively for the alumni, the north half for the students. The partisans of the visiting teams will be placed in the south half of the East stand, while the public will be given the north half of the East stand and the North stand.

At the request of the Alumni Association, the alumni section will be divided so that the members of that organization will sit together. To do so the south half of the West stand (sections D, C, B, and A) will be divided horizontally, the members of the Alumni Association being given the upper portion, from the twenty-second to the forty-third rows, while the unorganized alumni will be given the lower portion, from the first to the twenty-first rows.

Another innovation this year will be a strictly male student cheering section, immediately north of the "W" section, where more than a thousand trained rooters will be seated at each game; their organized cheering will be directed by the Varsity cheer leader.

To provide as wide a distribution of tickets as possible, it will again be necessary to limit the distribution of tickets to all Conference games and the Notre Dame game to two to any one person. However, provision has been made that upon certification that they will be used personally by members of their immediate family alumni will be permitted to procure two additional tickets in the alumni section for the games played in Madison; but under no circumstances will it be possible for any one to procure more than two tickets for the Michigan and Chicago games.

As in the past, alumni who desire to sit together in the Alumni section may enclose their applications in the same envelope, but with separate checks, but if accompanied by applications from non-alumni (except two additional members of the immediate family for the home games) all will be placed in the Public section.

It will be of the utmost importance this year for alumni to make their applications on the blank sent to them for that purpose. Instead of a separate application for each game, one blank has been provided this year for all games. These will be addressed to the alumni in person and therefore will not be transferable but will only be honored for those to whom they are addressed.

This has been made necessary by the practice of some, who cannot or do not care to attend the games, of turning their alumni application blanks over to parties who never attended the University, thus crowding the loyal alumni into the farther seats and in many cases preventing them from procuring tickets at all.

The Athletic Council takes the attitude that, the intercollegiate athletic contests being by students, students shall first be taken care of, then the Alumni and visiting partisans; any accommodations left will then be accorded the general public. In other words, the students and alumni will first be provided with tickets.

For the games to be played in Madison, with a seating capacity of 33,000 in the big stadium at Camp Randall, there will be ample room for all students and alumni in the special sections reserved for them, but the public will be excluded from these sections. For the Chicago game, it will again be necessary to limit the sale of tickets exclusively to students and alumni, and no one will be permitted to procure more than two tickets under any circumstances, as our allotment will not provide tickets for all students and alumni who wish to attend this game, the classic of the West.

The plan of distributing tickets for the Chicago game established last year will be followed again this year. The Wisconsin allotment of seats will be divided horizontally, the alumni being given the lower portion of the stands, and the students the upper portion, the boxes being divided 50-50. Last year more than 6,000 tickets to the Chicago game were sold to the Wisconsin alumni and 4,000 to the students, while the applications of hundreds of alumni, including many "W" men, old football stars, had to be returned unfilled. The last application it was possible to fill for this game was received early in October, several weeks before the game.

From the above it will be seen that it is to the advantage of the alumni not only to use the application blank which will be mailed to them, but to send in their application for any or all games they wish to attend as nearly as possible after September 1. If one later finds he can attend some game for which he did not ask for tickets on the regular blank, a letter with proper remittance will answer the purpose merely by calling attention to the fact that a prior application has been made for other games, and accompanying the letter with the proper remittance, but care must be taken to give the class and college.

In this way it will be possible to add the subsequent application to the original, as under the system to be used next fall a complete cross index will be maintained of all applications for tickets, which will prevent anyone from making a second application for tickets to the same game and thus provide a wider distribution of tickets.

The ticket department, the department of Physical Education, and the Athletic Council greatly appreciate the loyal support of former students of Wisconsin. Every possible effort is made, based on experience, to improve the ticket system annually.

Next fall all applications will be recorded as they are received, after being sorted to their proper divisions. In this manner a complete check will be made daily on the number of tickets applied for, and as soon as the last ticket available for any game has been sold, those whose applications were received too late will be notified immediately instead of waiting until the actual distribution of the tickets has been made as in the past. This will be especially appreciated for the Notre Dame, Michigan, Iowa, and Chicago games for which it is certain more tickets will be applied for than can be provided.

With the above system all checks will be turned over to the Bursar daily and will be deposited by him immediately, instead of waiting until the tickets are distributed for each game. All tickets will again be mailed eight days before each game and will be sent in a special envelope by registered letter. Therefore it will be necessary for each applicant to include 12 cents for each game with his remittance instead of sending stamps or return envelopes.

So complete will be the records in the office that it will be possible at any time to tell just what ticket or tickets have been awarded to any person for each and every game, or if given the seat number of any ticket, ascertain to whom it was sold.

All tickets are first checked by the Bursar before being turned over to the ticket department, and after each game a complete statement is filed with the Bursar and the Director of the Department, showing the disposition of the tickets, either tickets or cash to balance being deposited with the Bursar. Thus every ticket is accounted for and all reports are audited by the state accountants.

A. A. U. W. NATIONAL CONVENTION

LAURA OSBORNE AUSTIN, '97

THE REPORT of Dean Nardin's Committee on Admission of Colleges came early in the convention and was of great interest to everyone. Ten colleges were recommended for membership; two other institutions—Kansas Agricultural College at Manhattan, and Oregon Agricultural College at Corvallis were also recommended, even though their acceptance would be a radical departure from established custom. The Convention felt that since the committee recommended the colleges that was sufficient and accepted them to membership.

The report of the Committee on Legislative Policies caused a great deal of discussion. It was to me one of the most interesting subjects, because, living here in Washington, I often have a feeling that the United States Treasury can never hold enough to do all that is asked of it, and much of the work that is being asked of the Federal Government could and should be undertaken by the state governments.

I attended the whole of the Conference of Affiliated Alumnae Associations and will try to give some idea of what took place there and, as briefly as possible, the suggestions that were made: Branch membership change, alumnae memberships do not. The alumnae of a college are particularly fitted to find those most suited to A. A. U. W. fellowships; may study the graduate work of their own colleges and report to the A. A. U. W. educational secretary; can stimulate their members to write articles for the A. A. U. W. Magazine; can study the work of A. A. U. W. and choose some lines along which to work; can be a clearing house for information; can hold intercollegiate conferences; can open up relations with affiliated alumnae of other colleges; can actively interest undergraduates in the A. A. U. W.; should see that dean and trustees are fully informed of A. A. U. W. lines of interest and work; can see that women are represented on boards of trustees and faculty and that they have salaries equivalent to those of men; should take an active part in establishing a resident physician. Alma Mater provincialism should be done away with.

The only action taken by the meeting was a vote that all communications should be sent to the executive secretaries of the alumnae associations.

The wish for more alumnae conferences (which seemed to be unanimous) was to be referred to headquarters. The talk on women in co-educational colleges was worth while. The speaker thought that co-eds could bring to the A. A. U. W. a spirit of harmony and co-operation—a practical working method of going about various big problems—that they have learned to see things from a man's point of view; that in undergraduate work they compete with men and show their ability to live up to a high standard which they must always strive to maintain. In organized group work they have a spirit of comradeship and practical knowledge.

The keynote of the convention might be said to be understanding. We felt that a more thorough knowledge and understanding of the A. A. U. W. and its many lines of work would mean greater activity in all lines of alumnae work and be worth striving for.

The following is the list of the women who represented Wisconsin, with their Washington addresses:

Katherine Lenroot, '12, 703 The Woodward; Hildred Moser Hawkins, '08, U. S. Department of Labor; Elizabeth Fox, '07, 5611-37th St. N. W.; Emma Lundberg, '07, 703 The Woodward; Laura Osborne Austin, '97, 3136 Newark St., Cleveland Park; Louise Evans, '09, 1801 Eye Street, N. W.; Jessie Hutchinson, '89, 301 D. Street N. W.

U. W. CLUBS

"Sit together, listen together, sing together, eat together, and you'll work together"

TO STRENGTHEN A LOCAL U. W. CLUB

"Make the first requirement of membership in a local U. W. Club membership in the General Alumni Association.

"The alumni, through their local organizations, can and should do things. The central association can not infuse life into local branches by some hypodermic method or other. Rather, it is the central organization which thrives only when alumni everywhere are alert for their opportunity for service.

"But whatever is done, emphasize that fact that the Wisconsin Alumni Association comes first, the local organization second. Why not put such provisions into the constitution?"

AMES

A. R. LAMB, '13

PROFESSOR C. R. Fish was our guest of honor at a dinner on the evening of May 15. The old Wisconsin songs were all sung, some of them repeatedly, particularly the favorite song of John Brindley, '02, "By the light of the moon." Several strictly impromptu talks were given. Professor Fish was at his best in reminiscences and current "gossip" of the University. Earlier in the day he had spoken in his usual humorously serious vein at a student convocation, at which the Wisconsin contingency gave him a skyrocket.

Plans were made at the dinner for a joint picnic of the Big Ten alumni groups, to be held in the near future. The following club officers were elected: President, George Fuller, '17; vice president, Edwin Kurtz, '17; secretary, Alvin Lamb, '13; treasurer, Helene Wilson, '21.—5-29-'24.

BIRMINGHAM

MABEL WINTER, '22

Owing to the momentum started by Professor Gilman, '99, during his visit to Birmingham in the spring, twenty-eight Wisconsin alumni gathered at the Lutweiler Hotel on April 11 for an informal banquet. Classes represented ranged from '96 to '23. Elsie Peters, '17, Frances Beecher, '22, and Edwina Dexter, '22, furnished a program of music and dancing. The Wisconsin spirit reigned. Charles Sexton, '11, presided, and it was not long before it was unanimously decided to organize a U. W. Club. Mr. Sexton was elected president.

We plan to have a picnic the first of June. About one-fourth of us will be in Madison for Commencement week and will bring back the news for our next meeting in August.

We hope that all Wisconsin people in or near Birmingham will communicate with the secretary or other members of the club so that they may be included in our good times in the future.—5-21-'24.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ALUMNI

JAMES BRADER, '23

We are just starting to obtain all the information possible about Wisconsin alumni in Southern California. Wisconsin alumni here want to get in the run of things as a body, and, as secretary, I want to see that they get every chance to foster the old spirit and to keep old memories freshened in their minds. The Corona is melting away from use this evening in pounding out the names of those alumni I have been able to locate.—5-20-'24.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ALUMNAE

MABEL BRADLEY BREWER, '04

We held our last meeting for this year on Saturday, May 24, at the home of Blanche Ranum Nelson, '02. After a splendid program of vocal and instrumental music, Sarah McKay, '06, of the nominating committee, announced the following as officers for the ensuing year: President, Ida Ellsworth Sunderlin, '14; vice president, Helen Steensland Nielson, '89; secretary-treasurer, Genevieve Church Smith, ex'98; publicity chairman, Mabel Bradley Brewer, '04. All were unanimously elected.

After the serving of refreshments the meeting adjourned. The next meeting will be held the second Saturday in October.—5-31-'24.

CHICAGO

L. C. HORNER, '17

Actuated by the motto "On Wisconsin," our club is attempting to carry on its work for the advancement of the interest of our Alma Mater. The officers are bending every effort to create a strong alumni spirit, to bring home to every member and also to every Wisconsin alumnus here in Chicago who is not a member of our club that our University has problems to meet and that we, as an organized club, can be of assistance in solving these problems by rendering our individual aid and services to the club in carrying out projects initiated by the club and co-ordinating our efforts for the benefit of the University. This effort to assist and aid the University in any of its projects is a matter that every alumnus owes to his Alma Mater, and the rendering of service to his Alma Mater, whether it be little or great, should be a great pleasure to him.

Our officers in their efforts to weld together the Wisconsin Spirit here in Chicago, have more or less abandoned the plan of having a speaker at our weekly luncheons except for an occasional prominent member of the faculty or some other speaker of note. These luncheons are now being held every Friday at 12:15 at Mandel Brothers' restaurant in a private room in the southwest corner just off the men's grill. The usual speaker, who might be of interest to some but possibly not of interest to all, is being replaced by a general discussion of University affairs; and thus by making the luncheons a "good old gang" affair, we are hoping to give our members an opportunity to become better acquainted with each other and with Wisconsin problems. Of course the success of this plan depends upon the individual and therefore no U. W. man who attends should feel that he must be personally introduced and entertained by a formal committee of the club, or that he must be personally conducted.

One of the interesting questions which has been discussed in recent meetings deals with the problems presented to the University if President Birge resigns, as has been rumored often. If President Birge should resign, we, as a club, want to be in a position to render as much assistance as possible to the authorities at Madison in securing a successor who will have the possibilities of being as capable a president as President Birge is, and who can accomplish as much for our University as President Birge has. This is a matter in which a great deal of discussion can be had and in which every U. W. man should be deeply interested.

Another matter of interest is the present housing situation in Madison for men students. Dormitories should be built. Legislative enactment has been passed on the subject. What can be done to build dormitories?

The accomplishment of the club in matters pertaining to athletics are first, the recent athletic dinner given at the University Club of Chicago on Easter Monday last. At this affair over two hundred members had the pleasure—and they all have announced it was a pleasure—of acting as host to our championship basketball team. Dr. W. E. Meanwell, basketball coach, and John Ryan, football coach, were present. We also had as guests some fifty high school students, young men prominent in high school athletics and scholastic standing. All of them, we believe, would be benefited by attendance at the University and, in return, the University will be benefited by having these boys registered as U. W. men.

On the weekend of May the 30th several of our members motored to Madison and took as their guests a group of prospective Badgers. The trip had been planned for some time and we were given to understand that certain organizations in Madison would assist us in entertaining our guests, but except for the individual assistance of "Moose" Hansen, '19, and the hospitality of certain fraternities, our members would have had difficulty in entertaining the guests that they had brought to Madison. The success of the party can only be ascribed to the members of our club who conducted the party.

The lack of organization in handling most of our alumni problems seems to be an established fact and must be changed. The Union Building project was and is the first big project that has required organized alumni effort. In carrying out this project as far as it has gone and in its present status, it has not been put over by the alumni in such a manner as can be looked upon as a proud achievement of alumni inculcated with the Wisconsin Spirit, a spirit that emulates accomplishment—a spirit that we all claim exists, but exists possibly in individuals and has not been collected for organized accomplishment. This spirit should be, and must be, organized. Our alumni must accomplish for Wisconsin what the alumni of other Conference schools accomplish for their alma mater. Our campus must have buildings, the results of endowment by our alumni as the Michigan campus boasts of. Our school should reflect the strong alumni that we have.

In the matter of athletics, something which a great majority of the alumni are interested in, and the strongest and most effective liaison between the alumni and the University itself, observation seems to point to the same fault—lack of competent organization. Our general system of control of the moral questions concerning athletics is excellent. We are foremost in our efforts to keep athletics clean, and this is as it should be. On the other hand, taking what we have in men power, coupled with the Wisconsin Spirit, should we not be better than "near great" or "near champions" of the Conference? With the exception of basketball, which sport is coached by a competent organizer, what championship have we had in athletics since the football championship of 1912? Very few in major sports.

The lack of competent management and organized ability seems to be the keynote of the situation. In the athletic department you hear the cry that the faculty are against competitive athletics, and that the athlete is not given the same break as the man who is a student only. The writer does not believe this to be a fact, for, if this were true, how is it that Dr. Mean-well's teams escape their wrath? The athlete should keep up in his scholastic standing, for that is, or should be, his primary reason for attending the University. It seems to the writer that the student who is doing full scholastic work and is an athlete in addition needs some assistance and guidance in his efforts, and the coaches who have him in their charge should organize their work so that the student can accomplish not only his scholastic work but also his additional endeavors on the athletic field. Foresight and efficient management under an efficient organized department would go a long way toward accomplishing this end. If we are to win our share of championships in the Conference, we must organize; at the present time, in the concrete organized work such as Wisconsin must compete with, especially such as prevails at Michigan, Chicago, Illinois, and Minnesota, we are sadly lacking.

The writer would give as an excellent example of the disorganization at Madison in the matter of handling the morning water sports preceding Venetian Night, held in Madison on Saturday, May 31. Canoe races and water events were announced, but no organized effort had succeeded in securing entrants for these events, so it was necessary for those managing the affair to patrol the waters and announce that entrants were needed. Thus much time was wasted in securing volunteers from among the spectators to carry on the events.

This condition and other conditions should receive consideration. We, as an organized club, hope to devote some effort to the adjustment of such conditions. We also hope that other alumni organizations will join us in this and all other efforts which will be of benefit to the University.—6-11-'24.

DEAN NARDIN

At the time of the national convention of the American Association of University Women held here in April Wisconsin Women took advantage of the opportunity to dine at the Hotel Willard with Dean Nardin as guest of honor. Cora Halsey Robertson presided.

The list of former Wisconsin students who are members of our branch of the A. U. W. includes: Emma Lundberg, '07, with the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor; Blanche Halbert, '12, with the Better Homes Organization of America, a part of the Rockefeller Foundation;

Emily Clark, '15, with the Bureau of Internal Revenue; Edna Dyar, '14, Neurological Library; and Alice Evans, '10, Hygienic Laboratory of the Public Health Service. Louise Evans, ex'09, another former student, also lives in Washington, as does Cora Halsey Robertson, '06.

In addition to the Washington women mentioned above, several former Wisconsin students were present from other cities: Frances Perkins, '98, Fond du Lac, director of the Northeast Central Section of the Association; Grace Ellis Ford, '05, of Minneapolis, director of the Northwest Central Section, whose husband, Guy Stanton Ford, '95, is the dean of the Graduate School at the University of Minnesota; Amy Comstock, '09, assistant editor of the Tulsa, Okla., Tribune; Edith Lyons Becutch, ex'20, of Tulane University, New Orleans; and Fredrica Shattuck, '05, professor of public speaking at Iowa State College, Ames.—5-31-'24.

DETROIT

HERBERT MANDEL, '17

About eighteen Wisconsin men had a very enjoyable outing on Saturday, May 17, the source of the enjoyment being an outdoor-indoor baseball game. As usual we have very little information about Wisconsin baseball games, but we are glad to find out, even though indirectly, that Wisconsin was near the top. Most of us went out to Ann Arbor to see Wisconsin play Michigan.—5-31-'24.

JAPAN

AURELIA BOLLIGER, '21

The first group of U. W. alumni to celebrate Foundation Day this year was the Japan Club. On February 2 a round dozen of us met at Kobe College to take dinner together, exchange reminiscences, and effect a temporary organization. Only the local crowd could meet, owing to the shortness of time for preparation, but several dozen more alumni will be located soon.

Cards and greetings from ten absentees were read. Gisaburo Ishikube, '98, telegraphed congratulations from Niihama, and Dr. Masasada Shiozawa, '00, took time from his duties as dean at Waseda University, Tokyo, to wire "Regret unable to attend. Hearty greetings with pleasant reunion." That's the Wisconsin spirit!

When we got tuned up on "Varsity" and "On Wisconsin" everything went with a bang with George Swan, '05, as toastmaster. If the Madison radio station didn't receive our locomotive yells, it isn't our fault!

There has never been a union among the alumni in Japan, so an organizing committee was chosen: Eleanor Burnett, '05 secretary, Kobe College, Kobe; Genkwan Shibata, '09, 82 Kyomachi, Kobe; George Swan, '05, Y. M. C. A. Kyoto.

Those who attended the banquet were Aurelia Bolliger, '21; Eleanor Burnett, '05; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Isohe, '10; Mr. and Mrs. S. Koda, ex'07; Mr. and Mrs. R. Konno, '10; Sydney Phelps, Y. M. C. A. Secretary, Tokyo; G. Shibata, '09; Mr. and Mrs. George Swan (Helga Ekern), both of the class of '05.—5-26-'24.

WESTERN CONFERENCE UNIVERSITY CLUB

F. C. McINTOSH, '13

We wish to extend to all U. W. men coming to Pittsburg a cordial welcome. Knowing from experience the lonesomeness of a new town and strange surroundings, we shall be happy to be at their service in any way that we can; if friends will supply us with names of newcomers we shall make every effort to get into touch with them. Most of the schools of the Conference make use of our address—930 Union Trust Bldg., Pittsburg—and any alumnus applying there will be properly directed.

Since its start over a year ago, the club has been progressing nicely. A daily noon lunch table is established, general meetings are held each Saturday, and smokers and dances occasionally. Prominent speakers appear before the Club, which is similar to Western Conference clubs in Cleveland, Buffalo, and other cities. This has served to strengthen the individual Alumni Association locally and provides a general hub for alumni activities.—6-9-'24.

ATHLETICS

By PAUL HUNTER

WITH the crew in training at Poughkeepsie for the big Intercollegiate Rowing Regatta on June 17, the Varsity athletes have closed another successful season despite the tremendous handicap caused by the weather.

Late word from Poughkeepsie was to the effect that the members of the Badger crew were in better physical condition than any other crew in training there and Wisconsin was therefore considered a "dark horse" although Coach Vail had no hope of winning the race. Coach Vail had a difficult time in finding the right man for No. 5 and tried out three men in that position after arriving at Poughkeepsie.

The Badgers found considerable difficulty in acustoming themselves to the river, especially in rowing with the current, as all their experience has been on Lake Mendota where there is no current. The members of the crew were determined to fight hard for a place in the big race.

Prof. J. F. A. Pyre, '92, of the Athletic Council and representing the faculty, went with the crew and conducted the regular examinations at the same hours that they would have been taker if the men were still in Madison.

The Junior Varsity crew defeated the St. John's Military crew in the annual spring regatta on Lake Mendota by about five lengths, but lost to Culver on June 7, at Culver, in a rough sea when the No. 3 outrigger broke and the crew had to finish with but seven oars which caused the shell to list with each stroke.

Rain undoubtedly interfered with Coach Lowman's baseball team winning the Conference championship. The Badgers won six games and lost three, defeating Chicago, Purdue, Minnesota, Michigan, Illinois, and Northwestern and losing to Illinois, Purdue, and Michigan. Other games with Chicago, Northwestern, and Minnesota were called off on account of rain, while the game lost to Illinois on April 26 was played in a drizzling rain on a muddy field which accounted for the runs scored by the Illini. Coach Lowman, the members of the team, and every baseball fan in Madison were confident of winning the three games which were called off by rain.

Coach Lowman developed the best team which has represented Wisconsin in years, despite the fact that the team did not have a single warm day in which to practice, and only one day of "baseball weather" for a game.

At the close of the season Eldred Ellingson, '25, infielder, was elected captain of the team for 1925 and a "W" was awarded to Captain Aschenbrener, '24, Ellingson, '25, Christianson, '24, Johnson, '24, Luther, '26, Steen, '25, Tangen, '27, Goss, '24, Skaife, '24, Emanuel, '25, Dugan, '24, and Servatius, '24, with a Manager's "W" to Murphy.

Seven members of the Varsity team will be lost through graduation, Aschenbrener, catcher; Christianson and Johnson, pitchers; Goss and Skaife, infielders; and Dugan and Servatius, outfielders. This means that Coach Lowman will next year have to develop practically an entirely new team, but with the exception of pitchers, the freshman team has a number of men of Varsity caliber.

Without any individual stars, Coach Jones's track team, which, like the baseball team, suffered continually from the rain and cold weather, finished the season by taking fifth place in the Conference meet at Chicago, June 7.

McAndrew, '25, took second in the broad jump at 24 feet, 3 1/2 inches, and looks good for the Conference winner in that event next year. He also finished fifth in the 100-yard dash. Schneider, '24, finished third in the mile; Captain Hammann, '24, tied for third in the pole vault; while Read, '24, finished fifth in the two-mile; Kennedy, '26, fifth in the 440 and Tuhtar, '26, fifth in the high jump. The mile relay team also finished in fifth place.

Coach Jones loses but six men from the Varsity track team by graduation and with a number of unusually promising men coming on from the freshman team the prospects are bright for next year. Captain Hammann, Finkle, Krieger, Read, Schneider, and Wade are graduating this month.

The Wisconsin Tennis team closed a fairly successful season, but like the other teams was greatly handicapped by rain. The golf team lost close matches to Chicago, Illinois, and Northwestern and defeated Iowa and Minnesota and will enter the Conference tournament on June 23 with the determination to make a good showing at least.

BOOK NOTES

Some Annals of the Powers Family, by W. P. Powers, '60, president of the Powers Regulator Company, Chicago, Illinois, was written "in the belief that possibly some one in our line one or two hundred years from now after we and all recollection of us are gone" may wish to know something of his forbears and something of their lives. For them this work of love will be a heritage indeed.

For those less personally concerned the story of pioneer problems successfully coped with makes interesting reading and furnishes valuable source material for the student of that period of history.

Mr. Powers affectionately dedicates the book to his father and in telling the story of his life depicts a character of whom the son may well be proud.

The story of Mr. Powers' own career is a happy and satisfying one. Graduating from the University on the eve of the Civil War, he entered that conflict and won deserved recognition. The war over, he took up the struggle for a livelihood and headed for the goal from which he can look back today, assured that it has not been reached at the sacrifice of the love and respect of his associates. Master of the casting rod as well as of the thermostat, he has not allowed business cares to dull his sense of the keen joy of living. He has lived close to nature, and the memory of the warm friendships he has formed throughout his life is now coloring the autumn of his days with rich hues that will never fade.

The class picture and a facsimile of the "Commencement Program for June 27, 1860," accompanies the section devoted to college days.

The general make-up of the book is pleasing, for the author has desired to leave a record that will be substantial as well as artistic. The autographed copy on the shelves of the Association's library is prized highly as a "good report" of one who has met his obligations to his country, to his home, and to his Alma Mater.

The Paris office of the American University Union at 173 Boulevard St. Germain, reports that during the academic year now closing there were over three thousand American students in France, 429 of whom were enrolled at the University of Paris and 1,348 at other Parisian institutions of learning; there are 46 American candidates now applying for the doctorate at French universities; American students at French provincial universities number 434, and 791 students are engaged in independent study or research. Students going over, to France to study will find their progress facilitated by inquiry at the above address. The London office of the Union is at 50 Russell Square, W. C. 1, where similar information may be obtained and reader's tickets for research in the British Museum Library applied for.

Prof. C. M. Gayley, of the University of California, has been invited to serve as Director of the British Division for the academic year 1924-25, and Prof. H. C. Lancaster, of Johns Hopkins University, as Director of the Continental Division.

RICHARD T. ELY

(On the occasion of his seventieth birthday)

A youth at work at three score years and ten,
A builder who has seen his dreams mature
Into the living temples that endure
And heighten future happiness for men;
Who ever dreams anew and labors on
Not satisfied with basking in the sun
Of adulation for achievements won,
But pressing onward to a brighter dawn!

And like electrons singing on through space
His thoughts flow out to other minds in tune,
And set them singing with the hope that soon

New steps of progress will enrich the race.
Long may his life of usefulness extend!
But in his work his life will know no end.

Samuel Bryan, graduate student 1911-14

OTHER UNIVERSITIES

Alumni—the product of the University—should be well enough posted on educational matters to sit in council when big questions of the institution's future are being settled. The University has come to the point that it needs—it must have if it is to continue to grow in consonance with its illustrious past—the continuous, intelligent, moral support of every one of its sons.

Remember, we live a life of change. And the University is a growing institution. There is nothing more substantial for it to grow upon than the shoulders of its own informed sons. Great as it is today, it will be incomparably greater in a few years if we have an alumni opinion and interest that is abreast of the time, and if every man who leaves Chapel Hill takes with him the consciousness that through his stay there he has become a part of another great agency through which he can work for the continued growth of our life.

If this sort of consciousness and interest is developed, the Alumni Association will come into its full fruition. In its wake will follow endowments, buildings, fellowships, scholarships, laboratories, a school of fine arts, or anything else which the University needs to better serve our twentieth century life. That I conceive to be our alumni goal.—N. C. Alumni Review.

THE MEDICAL CLINIC

DR. J. S. EVANS

FOURTEEN years ago a student working his way through the University was taken ill. He did not call a physician at once. His illness spread through his boarding house and among his friends. From this single case of typhoid fever fifty students were stricken and nine deaths resulted.

This sad experience at the University taught the people of the state a lesson. It is easier to prevent disease than to cure it. From this experience there grew the establishment of the University Clinic which has had the medical supervision of all students, both boys and girls, who attend the institution. Every student must undergo a physical examination upon entrance, and, in case of absence from classes on account of illness, must report to the clinic for excuse. This gives the physician an opportunity to discover any threatened disease that may be lurking among the students and the further opportunity to correct any defects in the health of the particular student.

"Health is worth more than money" reads the adage of an old Egyptian philosopher. The clinic is impressing this old adage upon the students. Of approximately seven thousand students, eighty-five per cent come to the clinic during the college year for advice and treatment. The average length of loss of time because of a cold and the grippe, which ten years ago was on an average of eight days, under this type of medical supervision lasts on the average of three days. Apply this to the seven thousand students, assuming one illness a year, and you have saved 35,000 student days of college work.

What has been accomplished for the students of the University of Wisconsin can be accomplished and should be accomplished for all the people of the state. The lessons learned at the clinical department have come as a result of a study of over thirty thousand students. It has been an economic saving not only to the student but to the state. This experience shows the importance of regular routine medical examinations of all persons in general. There is not a man or woman in Wisconsin, no matter how happy and contented and well he or she may feel, but should visit a physician for advice or an examination once in a year. The same epidemics which are checked in the bud at the University can be checked in every city, village, and community in this state. The people of the community should look upon their physician as an adviser in the days of health instead of as only a savior in the days of illness.

DEATHS

GEORGE F. CLARK, ex'62, died at West Plains, Mo., on May 5.

LILLIAN DALE BAKER WARNER, '89, wife of Ernest N. Warner, also of the class of '89, Madison attorney and president of the Madison Park and Pleasure Drive Association, died at their home, Merrill Springs Farm, on May 23, 1924.

Lillian Baker was born at Edmund, Iowa County, on December 7, 1867, and was the youngest daughter of John Uglow Baker and Elizabeth Dale Baker.

In the death of Mrs. Warner the University of Wisconsin is called upon to mourn the passing of a faithful and beloved alumna. It was her privilege to live most of her life almost under the shadow of the gates of the University, and her devotion and loyalty to her Alma Mater never failed. While in the University she was conspicuous for her high scholarship and charming personality.

She was married on July 5, 1894, to Ernest Noble Warner, a classmate at the Madison High School, graduating in 1885, and also at the University of Wisconsin, from which they were both graduated in 1889. Mrs. Warner receiving the degree of B. A. She was one of a small number chosen to represent the class at the Commencement exercise. On April 22, 1913, she was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

In the thirty-five years since her graduation, her life has been happily filled with the activities of her home, the First Congregational Church of Madison of which she was a member, and the social and civic life of the community in which she lived. She has served as vice president of the University Alumni Association and also as treasurer of the American Association of University Women. Mrs. Warner radiated a spirit of friendly helpfulness in whatever position she might be placed and met every problem with an uncompromising sense of justice and unswerving loyalty to her highest ideals.

To the members of the class of '89 the news of the death of Mrs. Warner will bring a sense of personal loss, and the class will gather this year for its thirty-fifth reunion with saddened hearts.
Many of its members, both individually and collectively, have enjoyed the gracious hospitality of the Warner home. She will walk with us no more, but the beauty of her life will remain with us like a benediction.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Warner leaves three children to mourn her loss: John Clement Warner, '18, l'21, now practising law in Milwaukee; Elizabeth Dale Warner, '22; and Ernest Noble Warner, Jr., graduate of the Madison High School. She also leaves three sisters and three brothers: Anna Baker Watkins, Lincoln, Nebr.; Clara Baker Flett, '84, assistant dean of women at the University; Carrie Baker Oakes, '85, New Richmond; J. U. Baker, Clark, S. D.; N. D. Baker, '82, Madison; and
O. C. Baker, '83, Ashton, Ill.—S. M. G., '89.

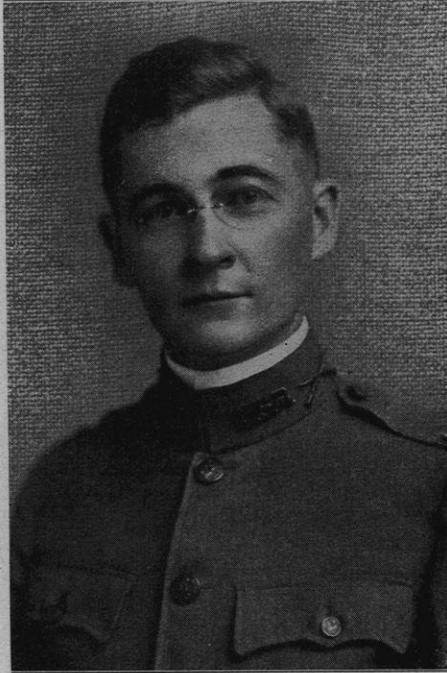

EDITH LOCKE WORDEN, '92, died at her home in Glenridge, N. J., on April 22, at the age of fifty-three years. She was buried in Milwaukee.

Edith Locke was an only child of Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Locke; Mr. Locke, B. M. E., '92, was a pioneer shoe merchant of Madison, prominent in the Congregational Church, also in the management of the famous Monona Lake Assembly of old. Soon after graduation Miss Locke was married to her classmate, E. P.
Worden of Milwaukee, and for many years resided at that city, finally moving to New Jersey.
Mrs. Worden was a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority, her husband of Psi Upsilon.
A daughter, married, resides at Evanston, Ill.;
the only other child, a son, attends a preparatory school at Hanover, N. H., and enters Dartmouth in the fall.—O. D. B., ex'85.

FREDERICK P. ANDERSON, '13, died on June 8 at Madison, after an illness of more than half a year. Interment was at Madison.

Frederick Anderson was born on July 27, 1890, at Dresser Junction, where he received his early education. After one year at Gustavus Adolphus College, he came to Madison to earn his way through the University. He entered the College of Letters and Science, from which he was granted the B. A. degree. He took up further work in the Law School, but gave that up when he was appointed Special Agent of the Wisconsin Life Insurance Company at Madison, where he was made Superintendent of Agencies a year later.

In July, 1917, Mr. Anderson married Louise Boethin of St. Peter, Minnesota. The same year he was commissioned at the Second Officers' Training camp at Fort Sheridan and sent overseas with the 804th Pioneer Infantry. He was in the midst of the engagements at Meuse Argonne, Marbach, Thiocourt, and Verdun, receiving his captaincy before being sent back as casual following serious disability from gas attacks. After his recovery and discharge in 1919 he resumed his promotion work with the company with which he had previously been associated; he was elected its vice president in January, 1922.

For the past five years, Mr. Anderson, following the habits he formed at the University, was very active in Madison civic and business affairs, taking an important part in the work of Grace Episcopal Church, Gyro International, and the William B. Cairns Post of the American Legion, besides maintaining his earlier interests in the Masonic Order, in Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity, and Chi Phi fraternity. He and Mrs. Anderson had enjoyed an unusually happy home life, and their host of friends will be glad to know that Mrs. Anderson and her two sons will continue to live in Madison.—H. R. N., '19.

MAUDE HIBBARD IRISH, '14, passed away on April 18 at Anaka, Minn., after a month's illness.

GERTRUDE GWENDOLYN WALKER, '14, died at her home in Racine on April 17, after an illness of but a few days. Miss Walker was a teacher in the Racine high school at the time of her death.

RICHARD STEFFEN, ex-'27, died on May 6 at Loomis, N. Y., where he went for treatment upon being obliged to give up his school work last December.

Bloodgood was recopied in many papers was clipped from a local paper). Dr. Blood-Commenting on the decision of Dr. Guy Stanton FORD, dean of the graduate department at Minnesota, to decline the recent invitation to accept the presidency at Texas University, the Minnesota Alumni Weekly says: "Compliments are due all around. That it should elect for its president, a man so liberal and so fearless as Dean Ford argues the growing liberality of the Texan University—a university which has barred the teaching of evolution, for instance, from its curriculum. Although the offer from the University of Texas is highly complimentary to Dean Ford, his refusal is, even in ratio, more highly complimentary to Minnesota. He has shown by his action that Minnesota is worthy of her men of distinction—worthy through the contacts that she offers with other men of distinction, worthy through the new building and library accommodations—both through her faculty and her facilities. In a word, he has shown that Minnesota is worthy of Dean Ford—one of the highest compliments that can be paid our University."

H. RYAN in the Milwaukee Leader for May 26. The article, commemorating the fiftieth year of Mr. Ryan's birth and the twenty-fifth of his services in the newspaper business, goes on to tell of the early days when carrier pigeons were being tried out. "Radio was then an unknown quantity, but I sent my stories via the air just the same and during the first few months the experiment was kept up there always was an admiring audience when I released a pigeon with his installment of the day's news for the special westside edition."

Judge O. A. STOLEN, Madison, who claims that he cannot cope with the moonshine and other evils in Dane County because prisoners sentenced to jail terms escape their sentences through the workings of the Huber law, has proposed that Dane County follow the example of several counties and contract with Milwaukee County to house certain prisoners in the Milwaukee house of correction. His proposal is calling forth much favorable comment in local papers.—Lottie ABBOTT Woodford, Westfield, formerly national lecturer for the department of scientific temperance instruction, and member of the board of directors of the state W. C. T. The following article, under the signature of William EVJUE, editor of the Madison Capital Times, appeared in that publication under date of May 21:

"The people of Wisconsin and the friends of the University may, within the next six months, see a new president of the University in Robert Morss Lovett, at present dean of the undergraduate department at the University of Chicago.

"The Capital Times sets down herewith a story concerning the presidency of the University which it has, through confidential relations, been unable to publish heretofore. For nearly a year, influences close to the Progressive movement in Wisconsin have been canvassing the situation with respect to a new president at the University, and search has been made for a man who will bring to the University the perspective of a John Bascom.

"The following facts are the outstanding highlights in the situation at the present time: 1—If the board of regents were to elect at the present time, Robert Morss Lovett of the University of Chicago would probably be elected president; 2—Other candidates who have been considered are Roscoe Pound, dean of the Harvard Law school, F. J. Turner, '84, professor of history at Harvard, Alexander Meiklejohn, former president of Amherst; 3—The next president of the University will not be selected from any person now connected with the University. This disposes of the possibility of the selection of any of the following: Max Mason, '98, J. R. Commons, E. A. Ross, Dr. J. S. Evans, and W. H. Kieffer, Ph.D. '13.

"No proposition has been closer to the heart of Senator LaFollette '79, than the question of bringing the University back to the spirit that prevailed in the days of John Bascom, LL.D., '05. No person viewed with greater disappointment than did Senator LaFollette the reactionary trend in University circles in recent years. The Senator, himself an illustrious alumnus of the University, is anxious that the institution shall be returned to the ideals of former days when young men and women dedicated to the 'fearless winnowing of the truth' came out of the halls on the hill.

"Senator LaFollette and Governor Blaine have been cooperating to the attainment of this end. Quietly and without notice, men in the educational field in the nation have been appraised and assessed with a view to their qualifications for the presidency here. With the appointment of a sufficient number of regents to insure control, a committee of the regents was recently formally named to make a recommendation to the regents with respect to a new University president.

"That Dean Lovett best fills the qualifications wanted in a new president is the belief at the present time. In the first place, a younger man, comparatively speaking, is being sought. It is felt that the man who is to assume the responsibilities of the University at this time should be a man who has at least twenty years of service before him. Dean Lovett is 53 years of age. He was born in Boston and attended Harvard. He was assistant professor of English at Harvard from 1896 to 1904. He has been dean of the undergraduate department at the University of Chicago since 1907.

"The man wanted at Wisconsin must be both a scholar and an executive. Dean Lovett is said to fill both of these requirements admirably. Lovett is also a liberal. He has been one of the frequent contributors to the New Republic and he was once editor of The Dial. He has also written several books. Dean Lovett's son was killed in the recent war. Lovett has been an aggressive fighter against war and he has been numbered among the Chicago liberals who have taken this position.

"Dean Pound of Harvard has also been prominently mentioned. Dean Pound, however, does not impress Progressive leaders here as a man who has the executive ability to direct an institution like the University. As a scholar Dean Pound is in the first ranks.

"Those who have been canvassing the situation have also looked with favor on Meiklejohn of Amherst. While it is not believed that Meiklejohn will be elected president, it would not be surprising to see him come to Wisconsin to accept a position as dean of one of the departments.

"As to Professor Turner of Harvard, it is felt that his age is against him in view of the fact that a man of younger years is wanted.

"It is expected that the choice of a new president will be made before the close of the University year."

It's a far cry from concert director of the University circus to conductor of some of the most famous orchestras in Europe, yet such has been the career of one of the graduates of the School of Music. Frank Waller, '07, when a student, divided his interests between an eager participation in athletic and music activities. He was one of the fastest track men Wisconsin ever had and spent most of his time outside classes with the squad of which he was captain, but still was able to be the leading personality in music at the University. After several years traveling with various musical organizations throughout the world he became accompanist for many of the great concert artists, including Tetrazini, Raisa, and Rimini. During the war he was head song leader and band director at Camp Grant. Few Wisconsin people know that the remarkable success of the revival of "The Beggar's Opera" in 1921 was due in a great part to a Wisconsin man, Frank Waller, its conductor. During the same year Mr. Waller was also conductor of the Cincinnati Grand Opera, and of the Boston Opera Company. Recently he has been touring Europe as guest conductor of the Berlin Symphony Orchestra, the Dresden Philharmony Orchestra, the Munich Konzert Verein, the Vienna Tonkünstler, and the Paris Lamoureux orchestra.

Mr. Haessler was released in 1920 and is now managing editor of the Federated Press with headquarters in Chicago. He spoke here under the auspices of the Wisconsin chapter of the League for Industrial Democracy. Ho, hum, only 33,696,000 seconds more or less till our next Reunion. If that isn't going to be the biggest reunion that ever happened since the cows came home, then so help us Alum.

Ralph Hoyt has given up tennis for the plebeian game of golf and will soon be ready to take on all comers in his new vocation. Ralph, you know, is practicing law (successfully 'tis whispered) in Victor Berger's town. He's in the firm of Hoyt, Bender, McIntyre, and Hoyt.—George LUHMAN, who is living with wife in the same town, is trust officer of the First Wisconsin Trust Co.—Monte APPEL is practicing tax law in Washington, D. But just because they're all trumps, it does not necessarily follow that they are all in the same suit.—Kemper SIDELL—you all remember Kemp—well, he's with a regular outfit now—The Burgess Battery Company of Madison. That makes three Nynteenteners in the same organization; you know the other two—Oliver STOREY and Walt SCHULTE.—Pearl PADLEY, who used to live at Berthoud, Colo., has moved to Lodi, presumably to be close at hand when the next Reunion happens.—Haven't mentioned Les. BECHTOL of late, so here goes. He's still "sky pilot" at Superior; was lately named moderator of the Chippewa Presbytery.—Queen SHEPARD GREEN (not Queen of Sheba) has just joined the Alumni Association. Fine stuff, Queenie. She abides at 805 W. Green Street, Urbana, Illinois. There is an unconfirmed rumor abroad in the land that there is a University down in that there town, but that's all bunk—just some propaganda to attract the tourists.—Mary STIMSON, who is teacher and dean of girls at Terre Haute, Ind., also kicked in with a membership in the Association, so we got to write her up with this little ad. Mary, save your pennies so you can come to Reunion in 1925 and get acquainted with the gang all over again.—Julia FLETT Morris comes in for her notice now. She lives at 800 College Ave., Racine.—Martha LEWIS is director of physical education at W.S.T.C. (this is not a radio station, but darned if we know what it is); and she hangs her new hat at 226 Center St., Winona, Minn.—George WORTHINGTON, New York City, has gone and moved to 3656 Waldo Ave., Dash Place, Riverdale, N. Well, she's teaching at Omaha high school and lives at 3308 Lincoln Blvd.—Hello, Ethel Budd! Guess we won't mention your name in this issue, because we're limited for space.—Hal and Hazel Stafford have a joint membership in the General Alumni Association and here we wrote them to join up! Beg pardon, H. and H. We'll never do it again so long as we live.

A. H. MARTIN, principal of the Lincoln school at Long Beach, Calif., has recently prepared an article covering the results of his study of the progress of specially promoted students during the past ten years that this system has been in effect in the Long Beach schools. The article appears in the 1924 Yearbook of the National Society for the Study of Education and is attracting attention among educators. Mr. Martin's investigation reveals the necessity of something more than high grades as a recommendation to special promotion. The mentality of the student, the grade to be skipped, and his general characteristics should be taken into account. In most cases there should be special mathematics classes in the grade to be skipped, as the fundamentals of arithmetic are necessary to the student. He finds that skipping the lower grades is less dangerous than skipping the fifth or sixth grade, with the exception of reading or writing. Students who miss the mechanics of these two subjects suffer from a handicap in the higher grades.

FACULTY NEWS

Tribute was paid to the memory of the late Prof. M. S. SLAUGHTER, former head of the Classics department who died in Rome last December, at a memorial service held in Music Hall on May 26, the day of the interment of the remains in the family lot at Forest Hill cemetery, Madison. President Birge, LL. D. '15, Prof. Grant Showerman, '96, and Sterling Tracy, '22, eulogized the deceased associate, friend, and teacher.

"Prof. Slaughter was an individualist as well as a humanist," Professor Showerman said. "The real Professor Slaughter was not a conformist to a system. He was not intimidated by the authors of the classics; he made them human, rejuvenated them, and brought them home to his students. He had all the knowledge of a philologist and still he remained a humanist."

"Professor Slaughter's nature was an instrument, sensitive to every impulse; nor were the feelings all his own. He felt the sorrows of the race," said Mr. Tracy. "Professor Slaughter had the happy faculty of entering into the spirit of the beauty of his work. It was impossible for his students to sit under the spell of a love like his without being influenced by it. It made the technical part of the class seem like an incident to an end. He leaves a thousand happy memories in the minds of his students, and lives in legacies he has left to his students—one, an impression of his great learning, and the other a memory of his gentle character. To learn with him was more than to learn the classics; it was seeing life in the beautiful."

"It would be difficult to overrate his contributions to the University," said President Birge. "The man and his subject were one. His virtue is one which death cannot destroy."

Miss L. L. BROWN has resigned as assistant to the Dean of Women to spend a year in study abroad. As official delegate of the A. A. U. W. she will attend the international conference of that body held in Christiania in July.

Otis MILLER of the editorial staff of the Austin, Texas, Statesman, has been appointed instructor in journalism to succeed Henry Birdsong, resigned.

Recognition, based on his pioneer service in the laying of a sound and constructive basis for civic training and for eminent leadership in working out the new methods of political research, has recently come to Prof. A. B. HALL in the form of an LL. D. from Franklin College, Indiana. "This was evidenced by your founding the national conference on the science of politics and directing its initial efforts to the end that it has become firmly established upon a sound and enduring basis," President Goodell said in conferring the degree.

Prof. Angelo LIPARI, of the Romance Languages department, who has been in charge of the Italian courses for the past four years, has resigned to accept a position as associate professor of Italian at Yale. Prof. Joseph Russo from Allegheny College will take up Professor Lipari's work at Wisconsin.

Under Professor Lipari, the study of Italian has increased six fold. His aim has been to give the students the ability to read Italian literature and to understand spoken Italian without placing stress on composition and speaking.

Professor Frederick BRUNS, '04, is spending one-half year leave of absence in Germany.

CAMPUS NOTES

"So this is Venice," was the slogan for Venetian night, which was the most realistic representation of that event every staged at the University. Vari-colored lanterns, searchlights, rainbow flood lights, piers and floats, a flaming exhibition of the fire dive, night riding of the surf board, and the return of the Lost Ship, ablaze in the distance in the middle of the lake, made the slogan real to the spectators. A pirate ship with its roaring cannon, black flag, and lighted riggings on the Psi U pier won of the class, to Dorothy John, head of next year's class. Margaret Callsen, '24, announced the election of the following junior women to Mortar Board, senior women's honorary society: Alice Corl, Esther Fifield, Dorothy Haskins, Margaret Meyer, Jean Palica, Helen Robinson, Elizabeth Stolte, and Hazel Weingandt. Edith Leach, '27, received the S. G. A. scholarship cup in recognition of her scholastic average of 94.7. The traditional Maypole colors were twined in a dance around the first place; a Mediaeval castle with stained glass windows, battle flags and turrets won second place for the Beta Theta Pi pier. Phi Mu was awarded first for its "Day-break" sorority float; Tri Delt won second for its "Sleeping Beauty." Among fraternities, Alpha Chi Rho's "Spirit of Mendota" took first. The two prizes for individual canoe decorating went to Solomon Kupperman, '27, and Harold McMurray, '26.

"On Wisconsin Women," was the slogan for the annual program for the women's athletic meet.

The Swing Out was held on Lincoln Terrace on the evening of May 21 before thousands of University and town people. Escorted by the junior women, clad in white, the seniors filed down the daisy-chain isle to the foot of Lincoln statue. The Glee Club rendered the farewell song to the seniors, written by Esther Fifield, '25; Josephine Snow, president of Blue Dragon, passed the torch, symbolical of the power maypole by 16 sophomore women. The two University bands and the Girls' Glee Club furnished the musical numbers.

The Senior Sing, was instituted as a new Wisconsin tradition on the evening of June 4, when the senior men assembled for a one-hour-song festival on Lincoln Terrace. The program included Wisconsin songs, a few popular pieces, and Haresfoot songs of the past four years.

"Civil War born of hatred bred by the Ku Klux Klan threatens the United States with destruction if the post-war hysteria which made the Klan possible continues to exist," said Elizabeth Flynn of New York, who is touring the country under the auspices of the American Civil Liberties Union, and who spoke in the gymnasium recently under the auspices of the Social Science club. "The fact that a man was born colored, a Catholic, or a Jew is not a matter of his choice and does not prevent him from becoming a true American."

In memoriam, the faculty at its June meeting unanimously adopted with rising vote the following resolutions:

"The faculty of the University of Wisconsin expresses its deep sorrow and sense of loss in the death of Thomas Evans Brittingham, a man of large affairs and rare judgment in the business world; a public spirited citizen, who gave generously of his means and time to measures which would advance the general welfare of his state and city.

"He was particularly devoted to the University of Wisconsin. He served as a member of the Board of Visitors, and later as a member of the Board of Regents, and chairman of its executive committee. While thus engaged he strove constantly to make the University more capable of achieving its high destiny in the lives and well-being of the citizens of the state.

"His retirement from the Board of Regents did not mean a lessening of interest in the University, and he kept in constant and sympathetic touch with its affairs to the end of his days. An alumnus in spirit, his name was ever welcomed in grateful fellowship, and although not a graduate he was made life member of the Alumni Association.

"His gifts to the University, including the Lincoln statue, the Muir bust, the Van Hise bust, his donation to the University hospital, and the final bequest of the residue of his estate to the University and public causes, demonstrated his abiding interest and faith in the ideals of service for which a public university stands."

Alumni snapshots give the distinctive touch to the 1925 Badger, which appeared for distribution on June 7. Interspersed among its pages some 250 alumni are shown at their work, in their homes, or in some pose characteristic of their present-day life. Famous athletic coaches, and members of the faculty as some of us remember them are also featured. Biographic sketches accompany the pictures. The list of alumni includes: John Parkinson, '60, Theodore Kronshage, Jr. '91, Edward Henning, '94, Dr. John Andrews, '04, Senator LaFollette, '79, Senator Thomas Walsh, '84, R. A. Nestos, '02, W. C. Keys, gold for four years' and silver for three years' service in the band, were awarded to 13 students at a special ceremony held in connection with the last formal concert of the season.

Public school music has been extended from a two-to a three-year course; the new arrangement is designed to fit with the four-year course, so that a student who has completed the three-year supervisor's course may by adding another year obtain the degree of bachelor of music.

Memorial Day services took on a new feature this year, when the city joined with the University in one memorial service on Lincoln Terrace. The wreath-bearing ceremony was repeated as usual. Maj. H. L. Garner, '09, was the general chairman of the day; Lieut. G. A. Chandler, '17, acted as assistant chairman. Jesse Meyers, ex '72, commander of the Madison G. A. R., presided, and Michael Olbrich, '02, gave the address of the day. Centering his talk on the pseudo-patriotism which permitted one class to make millions while the rank and file of American manhood gave its all in the last war, he said in part: "The problem of adjusting compensation will never again arise when you have written into the organic law a proviso that: 'In the event of a declaration of war, the property, equally with the persons, lives and liberties of all citizens shall be subject to conscription for the defense of the nation. Make that the law, and never again will there be doubt, division or debate as to the cause of a war. No man can then mistake the favored rash of greed for the glow of patriotic ardor.'"

Textile and bacteriology classes in home economics made a trip to Milwaukee in May to study various phases of their work in factories there. The itinerary included hosiery and shirt factories, packing plants, the condensory, and the sanatorium.

The Order of Coif, honorary law organization, recently elected to membership the following third-year law students: Russell Jones, Miriam Frye, '19, Arthur Thorson, Walter Dahl, Thomas Burke, Beatrice Walker, and LeRoy Burlingame, '18.

The ninth annual conference of the National University Extension Association was held in Madison this year largely out of tribute to Dean Reber. Dean Reber addressed the conference on "A Consideration of the Field and Scope of University Extension Work." Dr. John Tigert, U. S. Commissioner of Education, lauded the University for its pioneering in the extension field and said that the Badger State instruction has been one of the chief factors in placing this type of teaching in the high place in which it stands today. "The University of Wisconsin became a pioneer in the field of modern education extension work when President C. R. Van Hise began what President Birge terms his 'Service to the Commonwealth,'" he said. "The extension movement has developed faster than any other movement."

The 1924-1925 budget, set at $3,300,096, to be asked of the Emergency board is $336,000 less than that asked for last year; this includes nothing for land purchases or new construction. For the first time revolving funds have been provided, which include income from various sources and which will be budgeted separately from the specified sums received from the state. Distribution of the funds is as follows: To L. and S., $1,064,136; to Agriculture, $66,048; to Engineering, $261,200; to Medicine, $198,150; to the Summer Session, $119,238; to Extension, $236,585; to administration and general expenses, $239,970; to current expenses $601,323.

Alpha Zeta, honorary agricultural fraternity, announces the initiation of three seniors: Henry Otterson, Robert Ralph, and Richard Kuhns; and four juniors: Leland Brown, Carrol Ingebritson, Harry Hill, and Joseph Semb.

Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary commerce fraternity, announces the election of the following juniors: Henry Alinder, Leon Herreid, Vernon Houghton, and Lloyd Valley.

The Lewis Prize of $25 for the best freshman theme was awarded to George Johnson of Kenosha for his "Sketch of Life at Kvillsfors, Sweden." Helen Wicks, Chicago, won second place for her "Closed Doors."

"Cervantes in his works asserted the rights of women long before Moliere or any others who are commonly credited or blamed for initiating women's rights," said Dr. Americo Castro in his second lecture on Spanish literature. "Readers are prone to judge Cervantes by Don Quixote, his most widely-read piece of work, but this standard is erroneous, since the author presents a different angle of his personality in his separate works. Do what you will, but nature will take its own course is the central theme of Don Quixote."
