Preface.

This being the fourteenth year of our publication we have, as heretofore, tried to merit your approval, by giving you as complete a volume as it is possible to make in a work of this kind. The new features for this year are: Legal standard of weights and measures, (page 26), maximum percentage of losses in union and confederate armies in one particular battle, chaplains killed, and classified deaths from all causes in the union army, from 1861-65, (pages 39-40); also all battles fought during civil war, the date, year, and loss sustained by union army, (page 395); another addition is our new map of the city—page 24. The book contains 10,916 names, deducting therefrom 1,266 for duplication, business houses, churches, etc., leaving 9,750 names, and using 2 as a multiple, which is most conservative, it gives a population of 19,500 in the city proper. Adding thereto the suburbs, South Madison, Wingra Park, Elmside, University Heights, and the students, Madison has a population of 21,500. We desire to thank the business men and public for their generous support, and we trust that our next volume two years hence will meet with the same hearty approval that has been accorded to our efforts in the past.

Respectfully,

ANGELL & HASTREITER.

ANGELL'S NUMERICAL DIRECTORY INDEX.

(Patented Dec. 31, 1895.)

A complete index of all house numbers found on the various streets and avenues in the city and suburbs. The streets and avenues are alphabetically arranged; under each, the house numbers (large figures) follow in numerical order as they appear on the various blocks and residences, commencing at the lowest number and continuing to the highest. After each house number will be found numbers, shown by exponents or small figures; these cite the page or pages in the general directory on which the names of the occupants of a building are to be found, and they follow in this order: Main occupant and his or her roomers and servants, thus (16<sup>105 165</sup>); co-occupant and family, with the letter z prefixed to the pages cited (z<sup>177 280</sup>) those occupying the basement and family, with the letter u prefixed to the pages cited (u<sup>126 43</sup>); those residing over and family, with the letter o prefixed to the pages cited (o<sup>230</sup>), and those living in a building to the rear of another (without a number), by prefixing the letter r to the pages cited, thus (r<sup>434 76 116</sup>). Second and third floors in business blocks are shown thus (b<sup>62 c<sup>85</sup></sup>, etc.) Vacant buildings are designated by the letter v affixed to the house number thus (245v).

In looking up occupants of buildings, thoroughly scan the pages cited to, as often two or more of the same, or of a different name, will be found on the same page. In a city of this size one citation covers all members of the family of the same name. The four avenues which extend from the Capitol square and Washington street in the western part of the city are the starting points for numbering; the Philadelphia system is used, i. e., the first number on the first block therefrom is number 1; the first number on the second block 101, and so on, the odd numbers appearing on the east and south side of streets.
