The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

A Couple

Long ago they say there was a couple taking care of an old man. They got tired of taking care of him and told him that he would have to look elsewhere to be taken care of but he can take his blankets with him. When he left he forgot to take his blanket. So they had their son go get it and he caught up to him to give it to him. Then he was walking alone and his son appeared and he said, "What are you doing?"

He said, "I'm cutting this blanket in half and I'll keep one for you when you get old."

Then right away he went after the old man and made things right from then on. So it teaches us that we should love the elders and care for them.
