So You'll See Better

 Nature designed your eyes for seeing by daylight. But the average person spends most of his waking hours under artificial light.

To develop better artificial light—for all living and working conditions—has been a continuous project of G-E engineers and research scientists. They have even developed a whole new Science of Seeing.

The pictures on this page illustrate a few ways in which G. E. is helping you see the day-by-day and night-to-night things more easily. General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Powdered light. This luminous powder that you see is a phosphor. Coating the inside of every G-E fluorescent lamp, it transforms invisible rays into soft, cool light. Recently General Electric developed a remarkable new phosphor which will be used in a new fluorescent sun lamp to provide healthful summer sunshine all year round, economically and efficiently. And speaking of economy, G-E lamp research has reduced the cost of a 60-watt G-E bulb by 75% since 1923. Another way in which General Electric helps to bring More Goods to More People at Less Cost.

The tiny 7-watt G-E bulb in this night light makes darkened halls safely navigable for sleepy people. It's especially useful in homes with small children. And the cost of electric current has been brought so low that, at average residential rates, this little lamp will burn for four 8-hour nights for only a penny or so!

You'll soon see events as they happen—by improved television with a bigger screen and clearer reception. Back in 1928 a G-E engineer, Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, gave the first public television demonstration. And for more than five years now, G. E. has been telecasting regularly from its own station, WRGB, in Schenectady.

Wisconsin's Atom Smashers

- Faculty
- Alumni
- Machines

By POLLY COLES HAIGHT

★ Because all information concerning the development of methods of using atomic energy has been under such close censorship, only now can the story of the University of Wisconsin's contribution to this enormous project be told, and even now it can be told but partially.

The chief sources from which this article has been compiled are the H. D. Smyth report, which was the first account of the project to be made available to the general public, and an approved army story released by the University News Bureau. The stories of alumni who worked on various portions of the project were taken from individual newspaper interviews, from letters, and from separate news releases.

ATALE with all the suspense of a best-selling mystery might well be embroidered out of the bare facts concerning the University of Wisconsin atom-smashers. Badger scientists worked behind locked doors, confined their shop-talk to the limits of their work rooms and hid their comings and goings from enemy eyes for several years. But now the essential worth and military significance of their work has been proven, so the rough story of Wisconsin's share in the atomic-bomb research can be revealed.

Over ten years ago, Prof. R. G. Herb, '31, physicist at the university, began work on atom-busting, trying to develop an atom-buster in which the atomic bombardment could be accurately controlled, measured, and maintained at a constant speed. He went to one of the common laboratory static machines for an idea and built a great electrostatic generator. By 1937 he had this machine developing 2,600,000 volts, the highest steady voltage ever obtained up to that time, and four years later the Herb pressure electrostatic generator was capable of accelerating atomic particles to 4 million volts energy. This means speeds of about 70 million miles per hour, or one-tenth the velocity of light.

By the same year, Dr. J. L. McKibben, '40, also of the physics department, had perfected a slightly smaller atom-smasher which developed only 2,000,000 volts but which accelerated ten times as many particles as the larger machine. And then in that pre-war year, the two atom-smashing machines at the university were put to good peace-time uses, the larger involved in pure research and the smaller in "tracer" work for university biologists.

But with the advent of the "emergency", then with Pearl Harbor, and finally with the establishment of the National Research Council's Uranium committee, the Wisconsin atom-smashers were called into war-time service.

Prof. R. G. Herb, '31, inside his 4 million volt atom smasher

When the NDRC came to the decision that the possibility of obtaining atomic bombs for use in the war was great enough to justify an "all-out" effort for their development, Dr. McKibben was asked to head a research program to measure certain properties of the atom heretofore unknown. In February 1942, this program was begun on our campus. Prof Herb was on leave heading a research division on radar development at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, so while Dr. McKibben worked with his own generator, Dr. A. O. Hanson, '43, headed a group of physicists working on the 4 million volt atom smasher. These Wisconsin generators were particularly well adapted for such use because they had been so carefully designed as to be capable of nearly 24 hour a day operation, and this was unusual among atom smashers.

So while doors remained locked and while students and faculty members scratched their heads, important atom-bomb research was being carried on in the basement of Sterling hall.

In April 1943 a request came to the university from the government: Could the Wisconsin atom smashers be moved to a secret laboratory? Acquiescing, the university sent off the bulky atom smashers, complete with a hundred boxes of auxiliary equipment, and a staff of ten well-trained men. The secret laboratory for atomic research turned out to be the now famous one at Los Alamos, New Mexico. With Dr. McKibben and Dr. Hanson went J. Morris Blair, '42; David Frisch, '42; James Hush, '43; Robert Krohn, '42; Rolland Perry, '42; Worth Seagondollar, '43; Dr. R. Taschek, '41; and Dr. C. M. Turner, '43.

But the atom smasher devices themselves and the research they undertook did not alone represent the Wisconsin physics departments efforts on the atom bomb project. Many other problems of the bomb, both theoretical and experimental, were solved by faculty members and former students of the department.

At the start of the bomb project, the theoretical considerations were of extreme importance, for only on the basis of theory could the experimental program be worked out. Prof. Gregory Breit, theoretical physicist now returned to the university after a leave of absence for five years, was one of the key men in the country to lay down a program and to guide the theoretical aspects of the bomb project.

As early as January 1939 the hypothesis of uranium fission and its release of energy had been announced together with its experimental confirmation. There was, of course, immediate interest in the possible military use of this type of energy and since the American-born nuclear physicists were not accustomed to think of things in terms of military purposes, at first they scarcely realized what needed to be done both in getting government support for the experimentation and in imposing some kind of restrictions upon publicity concerning their experimental endeavors.

At the April 1940 meeting of the division of Physical Sciences of the National Research Council, Wisconsin's Prof. Breit initiated the censorship program which was to provide absolute secrecy concerning the project during the entire war and which even today involves one of the most critical questions facing a world working for peace: namely, should the secret of the atom bomb be revealed?

The first censorship committee which Prof. Breit proposed was to control publication in all American scientific journals and eventually covered a wide range of all fields of possible military interest. Pres. E. B. Fred and Prof. Breit both served on this nine man committee. A sub-committee dealing only with uranium fission was appointed and Prof. Breit served as chairman of this subcommittee. A former Wisconsin staff member, Prof. E. P. Wigner, also acted on this subcommittee.

By the summer of 1940 the National Defense Research Committee was organized and a special Uranium committee serving under it was established. Although this Uranium committee later became known as the S-1 section, Prof. Breit served on it all the while and contributed greatly to the problems undertaken by the committee, such as the obtaining of funds for further study, the establishment of a course to be taken by research workers, and the actual setting up of investigations at institutions equipped for fast-neutron studies. The University of Wisconsin was one of these institutions.

Other Wisconsin men, including Francis Friedman, '41; E. Cashwell, '43; R. Purbrick, '44; and H. Ibsen, '41, worked on theoretical problems also, and Dr. Robert Serber, '34, now professor of physics at the University of Illinois, did very important theoretical work.

Prof. J. E. Mack, member of the physics department who has been on leave for the last three years, is one of the outstanding experimentalists who carried through the actual research proving and disproving various theories advanced. Leaving Wisconsin in 1942, Prof. Mack went to work at Princeton university and in March 1943 moved to Los Alamos, New Mexico, where he was in charge of the optics group. Working with him there are F. E. Geiger, '44, and Donald C. Livingston, '43.

While the Princeton university cyclotron was still located on the Princeton campus, Dr. E. C. Creutz, '37, was in charge of early research work on uranium properties there. His wife, Lela Rollefson Creutz, '38, and Dr. Helen Jupnik, '37, also worked on this program.

In May 1942, Dr. and Mrs. Creutz went to the University of Chicago Metallurgical Laboratories. There Dr. Creutz aided in nuclear research studies and for a time headed a group which was engaged in important metallurgical studies. Dr. Howard R. Kratz, '42, also worked there, aiding in determining the design of production plants. Later Dr. Kratz and Dr. Creutz moved to Los Alamos.

Prof. H. B. Wahlin also worked with the problems at this time and did valuable work on the Wisconsin campus. He did his regular teaching at the same time, and taught courses in electronics and advanced development in physics. Among the members of Prof. Wahlin's group were Robert Krohn, '42; Budd Russell, '43; Worth Seagondollar, '43; and Homer Welch, '43. Prof. Edward Bennet of the Electrical engineering department worked with Prof. Wahlin on another phase of the work.

Other Wisconsin physicists who worked experimentally at the bomb project were D. Saxon, '43; Harry Heskett, '42; Robert R. Edmonson, '44; Arthur Breslow, '41; and Joan Hinton, '44.

Dr. Donald W. Kerst, '34, on leave from a professorship at the University of Illinois, and Dr. L. D. P. King, '37, both have been doing work at Los Alamos. Dr. Kerst is well known as a physicist for his invention of the betatron, an x-ray producing machine that emits x-rays ten times as penetrating as the most powerful x-ray machine of any other type. Dr. Kerst was just awarded the Cyrus B. Comstock prize of the National Academy of Sciences for his development of the betatron.

Dr. Elda Anderson, '24, who is professor of physics on leave from Milwaukee-Downer college, was one of the outstanding women scientists on the project.

Other civilian workers on various phases of the atomic bomb project include the following Wisconsin people: Robert C. Ring, '39, mechanical engineer who worked at Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Russell A. Schmidt, '42, chemist and nuclear physicist, who worked on it in the east and later at Oak Ridge; Lyle

Brehm, '43, mechanical engineer, who worked at Oak Ridge;

Dr. Eugene O. Brimm, '36, chemist, who worked in the east on chemicals used; Arnold Clark, '38, mathematician, who worked at Oak Ridge; Alfred G. Oehler, '11, electrical engineer, who worked on the project in the east; Merrill W. DeMerit, '14, electrical engineer, who also worked in the east; Glenn F. Finner, '41, technical supervisor; Ralph H. Firminhac, '41, chemist; and Emerald C. Lyons, Jr., '44, electrical engineer, who worked at Oak Ridge.

One of the key army officers involved in the success of the project was Col. Franklin T. Matthias, '31, who was commanding officer of the Hanford project at the very inception of the bomb undertaking. Matthias, as area engineer, selected the site for the engineer works, supervised the establishment of the 382 million dollar plant, sought manpower to run the works, and controlled the village of Richland in which workers lived. The magnitude of this job is realized only upon consideration that it involved 631 square miles, 45,000 workers on construction alone, 386 miles of highways, 80,000 regular employees, and all the accompanying arrangements and details.

Col. Matthias, "Fritz" to his university friends, was prominent on the campus, having been editor of the Wisconsin Engineer and winner of the Kenneth Sterling Day award. Col. Matthias was an instructor in topographic engineering for four years after his graduation, and earned his M. S. degree in 1933.

Other servicemen connected with this atomic bomb project include Ens. James Beyer, '44; T/Sgt. John Lohmann, '39; T/5 Willard L. Dennison, '42; Pfc. Boyd G. Schultz, '44; Pvt. Robert L. Turner, '44; Sgt. Raymond J. Elbert, '44; Pvt. Lester L. Jirucha, '42; T/5 Harvey C. Loeffler, '34; T/5 Lester J. Martin, '42; and Pfc. James C. Wootton, '41, all of whom were located at the Clinton Engineer Works, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Campus Expansion Plan

Hagenah Plan Proposes Long-Term Improvement

PLANS for long-term development of the University of Wisconsin campus were revealed to university officials and alumni by William J. Hagenah, '03, at a Homecoming dinner sponsored by the Wisconsin Alumni association.

With eyes to the future and minds particularly alert to the fact that the University will celebrate its centennial three years from now, the key alumni and university officials attending the dinner found the Hagenah plan both interesting and stimulating.

The area involved in the plan includes all the land bounded by Lake Mendota, Lake street, University avenue, and Park street, and also the block south of University avenue between Park and Murray streets. It would clear out this area, border it with needed buildings, and establish an open mall extending through the center from University avenue north to Lake Mendota.

The first buildings to be sought under this plan would be a Center for Continued Study and Research on Lake Mendota and Langdon, an auditorium seating 4,500 between University avenue and West Johnson street, an art museum, and a combined War-Memorial building and chapel.

Attending the dinner and previewing the long-range campus expansion plan were members of the Board of Regents, members of the Board of Visitors, directors of the Wisconsin Alumni association, Alumni Club presidents, and members of the University of Wisconsin Foundation.

This Hagenah centennial plan is but part of a large project involving betterment of the University in preparation for the 1948-49 celebrations. It dovetails nicely into the plans of the Wisconsin Alumni Association and the University for a greater university by the time of the centennial.

In 1941 the Wisconsin Alumni Association adopted the following resolution:

"The alumni of the University represented in this annual meeting hope that the University will be permitted to continue as one of the leading universities of our country, and that the future sons and daughters of our state will be assured of educational opportunities at least equal to those of any other young people in the country. Education in Wisconsin should go forward in accordance with the courageous motto of our state. We therefore pledge ourselves to the task of promoting specific gifts and bequests to the University."

As a development originating with this resolution, the University of Wisconsin Foundation was established last April having as its purpose "to encourage gifts and bequests for the University of Wisconsin."

Realization of the many specific projects involved in a plan such as the one which Hagenah has worked out necessarily demands the obtaining of many funds, both from the state and from alumni and others who wish to make gifts or create memorials of far-reaching usefulness.

Hagenah, father of the plan and a most distinguished alumnus of the University of Wisconsin, is now serving as chairman of the Schering corporation, Bloomfield, N. J., makers of endocrine and pharmaceutical preparations. This company is a German-owned one, and Hagenah has been acting as its head since the U. S. government took control over all alien property in this country.

He is on leave from his position as president of Public Utility Engineering and Service Corporation, a service company for the operating units of the Standard Gas System.

He has spent a great many hours working out his plan, consulting with interested university and alumni officials, and formulating detailed arrangements by which it might be realized.

The first model of the centennial plan for the Wisconsin campus was revealed at this dinner meeting.

★ This view shows the proposed auditorium as it would look from Lake Mendota, through a park which would cross the present lower campus to University avenue. The present Memorial Union is at the right.

The WISCONSIN ALUMNUS is published monthly, October through July, by the Wisconsin Alumni association and is entered as second class matter at the post office at Madison, Wis., under the act of March 3, 1879. Subscription to the ALUMNUS (included in the membership dues of the Wisconsin Alumni association) is $2. a year; subscription to non-members is $4. per year.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

Regents Make Progress With Building Plans

Looking forward to the centennial celebration of the University in 1948-49, the Board of Regents is planning more specifically for realization of the building program which they have been working on for the past several years.

Their most recent move was the adoption of a resolution calling for an expansion of the university campus east of Park street.

Library Grouping

They have directed that the new library building be located on Lake street directly opposite the state Historical Library. These two buildings, together with the Memorial Union will be so situated as to make possible a grouping of buildings in this lower campus area facing on a mall extending south from Lake Mendota along the present line of Murray street.

The regents have authorized the purchase of land on Langdon and N. Lake streets for the site of the new library building.

The first unit of the library will be an L-shaped structure at the corner of Langdon and Lake streets. The building will extend on Langdon from Lake street west to a point on the lower campus opposite the west end of the old armory across the street. The building will then extend south on the lower campus to State street, east on State street to include the Sweet building at 718 State st., and then back to complete the L-shape to Lake street in back of the University Co-op building.

The general plan for campus expansion which the regents accepted, was recommended by the Campus Planning commission, of which Prof. James G. Woodburn is executive secretary. (See page 5.)

Atom-Buster Addition

The Board of Regents voted an appropriation of $20,000 for construction of an underground addition to Sterling hall to house the university's two atom-buster tanks.

Now still in the southwest, these tanks will be returned when their military mission is completed and then moved into their new home. They had been located in the physics department in Sterling hall, but the quarters there were much too crowded.

The new structure will adjoin Sterling hall at the rear.

Bascom Hall

The state architect and engineer were asked by the regents to draft plans immediately for the fireproofing and remodeling of stairways and hallways in Bascom hall.

Biology Building

The regents instructed the state architect and engineer to begin drafting plans for an addition to the biology building. The new section, a wing attached to the present building, will be built onto the west end of the building.

Dairy Building

A recommendation by the construction committee of the regents that a proposed Dairy building be built near the Stock pavilion was approved by the board. Plans are now being drafted for this building which will be constructed in the area bounded by Linden drive, the Milwaukee road tracks, the Stock pavilion, and a relocation of Babcock drive which would be west of the present site.

Home Economics

Also on recommendation of the Campus Planning commission and the regents construction and development committee, the regents voted to ask that plans be drafted immediately for a new wing to the home economics building. This addition will be on the west end of the present building.

Dormitories

In preparation for a satisfactory solution to the present housing crisis on the campus, the regents authorized that the university administration start a survey immediately to determine maximum usage of existing housing facilities.

The administration was also instructed to find out whether or not a new men's dormitory with a capacity of 650 students and a new women's dormitory with a capacity of 400 students can be constructed without using postwar building funds. The problem is to find out whether some other method of financing can be arranged. It is proposed that these dormitories be built near present dormitories on Lake Mendota.

A recommendation was also approved by the regents that some form of permanent housing be established for married veteran students. The suggested building would consist of apartments which could be turned over to married graduate students and married faculty members in the lower income brackets after its use by married veterans is no longer needed. One location suggested for such a building is on the present site of the poultry buildings on University avenue.

The university administration was asked to investigate the financing of such a project, under the condition that $300,000 be taken from the postwar building fund. The problem of the administration will be to find a way to finance the cost above and beyond the appropriated $300,000.

Short Course Dormitories

Any decision concerning the location and construction of short course dormitories was deferred to the next regents meeting, after there was some disagreement concerning the location of such dormitories. Planning commission members suggested placing them near Agriculture hall, just west and on the property on which Babcock drive is now located, but the regents did not agree unanimously on this site.

Plans for the building have already been drafted, and it is to include dormitories for both short course men students and the short course women students in home economics. A public forum building will be attached.

FM Tower

The regents approved a request of the campus radio commission asking to erect a radio antenna on the campus for the transmission of educational programs from the campus via frequency modulation (FM).

The antenna will be built at the rear of North hall at a cost of $2,000. It will be 200 feet high, almost double the height of the present WHA transmitter site.

This transmitter is to be a temporary move to provide operation and experimentation in the early stages of the development of FM. Later on the main transmitter will be located near Blue Mounds and the campus tower will be used only as a relay station.

University Loyalty

"We are loyal to Alma Mater as a leader in the warfare against ignorance, superstition, quackery and demagogism; as not least among the spreaders of the light; as the home of the scientific spirit, which searches ever for the truth as it is, no matter what hypotheses the truth may wreck; the spirit which states its theories and the arguments against its theories as fairly and as candidly as Darwin did. In Darwin's day the storm-center of thought was biological. Today the center is sociological, but now, as then, the one great duty of the university is to report the facts as they are, the truth as it is, regardless of the effect on theocracy, or plutocracy, or even our idol, democracy." by Mrs. Florence Griswold Buckstaff, '86, from a response delivered June 21, 1910.

For the Benefit of Veterans:

Furthering the University's policy of doing all it can for World War II veterans who are studying on the campus or desirous of taking work here, the Board of Regents have undertaken the following projects:

Eight-Weeks Term

A special eight-weeks term has been established to run concurrently with the last half of the present semester. This term, which began Nov. 13, enables servicemen receiving discharges shortly after the start of the fall semester to work off some credits without having to wait around for the beginning of the second semester late in January.

Establishment of this term was recommended by the Administrative committee of the university. Courses provided in the College of Letters and Science include freshman English, mathematics, Spanish, and history. If there is sufficient demand, other courses may be offered.

Though designed for veterans, this course will be open to any student who meets entrance requirements.

Veterans have not been fined for late enrolment in the regular semester, however.

Second Trailer Camp

The State Emergency board voted an additional $25,000 for use of the University in establishing a second trailer camp for married veterans.

Negotiations are now under way to procure 100 more trailers from Kingsbury, Ind., and it is expected that they will be brought to Madison as soon as possible. The new camp will be located on a football practice field just west of the present camp.

Because of the acute housing shortage it was thought that perhaps arrangements would have to be made to use some of the pre-fabricated houses from the Badger Ordnance workers' village, but with the additional appropriation from the State Emergency board for trailers, it is assumed that the present crisis can be satisfactorily met for the time being.

Sports and Activities Eligibility

To permit veterans to return to athletics and student extracurricular activities, the faculty and Regents have agreed that no academic delinquency which occurred at Wisconsin or any other school during the term just preceding a veteran's entrance into service can cause his ineligibility.

In the cases of veterans, 12 credits shall be considered a full program of work qualifying them for intercollegiate athletic eligibility.

This revision of the eligibility rules was recommended by the Athletic board and the faculty committee on student life and interests.

Out-of-State Tuition and Bonuses

The Board of Regents recently voted to earmark for possible refund the tuition in excess of the Wisconsin resident fee, paid by state resident veterans, in order to protect veterans from a possible unfair future deduction.

Under the GI bill, the University charges the government out-of-state tuition for each veteran, whether he is a Wisconsin resident or not. There is the possibility that, although the government pays this amount at the present time, in the future the sum spent on education might be deducted from any bonus received by veterans.

Obviously this practice would discriminate against the Wisconsin residents, who by virtue of their service record, would have deducted the full amount of out-of-state tuition. Now that the sum in excess of state resident tuition is to be held for veterans, there can be no unfair treatment accorded Wisconsin-residing veterans.

This sum will be set aside until July 1, 1946. It is expected that Congress will repeal the clause of the GI bill which might permit education money to be deducted from future bonuses, but if Congress does not do so, state-resident veterans will not be penalized anyway.

Veterans in Industry

A special institute on the "Veteran in Industry" was held recently, sponsored by the Commerce School and the Extension division in cooperation with the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association.

New Law Dean

Dean Oliver S. Rundell, '10

New dean of the Law school is Oliver S. Rundell, '10, who has been on the faculty for the last 35 years, after being appointed by Pres. Fred and approved by the Regents.

The deanship of the school is not new to Prof. Rundell, for he has served as acting dean twice before, first from 1929 to 1933 before Lloyd K. Garrison came here, and again since 1943 when Garrison went on leave.

Dean Rundell was graduated from the Wisconsin law school in 1910, then practiced law in Monroe, Wis., for several years, and returned to Wisconsin first as an instructor, later rising to professorial rank. He has been an acting professor of law at the University of Chicago in 1924-25, and at the University of Michigan in 1940-41.

Dean Rundell is author of the book, "Cases and Materials on Rights of Land" and has served as advisor to various reporters for the American Law Institute for a number of years.

Speakers at the institute discussed such problems as advising and counselling of veterans, re-employment rights, the GI Bill, readjustment of veterans, training veterans for industrial jobs, and working with veterans in industry.

UW Credit For War

Shortly after American entry into the war, the faculty voted a credit bonus to all American veterans, and those in merchant marine and field service. The bonus amounted to 10 credits for enlisted personnel and 15 credits for commissioned officers. These credits count toward electives. The faculty has just voted to allow a similar bonus to veterans of the armed forces of our Allies also.

Faculty Honored

Dean Ira L. Baldwin of the College of Agriculture was awarded an honorary doctor of science degree by Purdue university at its commencement exercises late last month. Dean Baldwin is a Purdue alumnus.

Director Arthur H. Uhl of the School of Pharmacy was elected president of the Wisconsin Pharmaceutical association at its annual meeting late last month.

Aspirin Improvement

A patent for a tablet which combines common aspirin (acetylsalicylic and vitamin K has been granted to Wisconsin's Prof. Karl Paul Link, and Link has assigned this patent to the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation.

Several years ago Dr. Link discovered that there was danger involved in continued dosages of aspirin, because the salicylic acid in the aspirin slowed down the clotting of blood. If a person's blood-clotting time slowed down too greatly, serious and sometimes fatal hemorrhaging would result.

Link found that the hemorrhagic effects of aspirin could be controlled by administering vitamin K, and it was this finding that led him to the preparation of the combination tablet of aspirin and vitamin K. The aspirin performs its normal pain relieving functions while the vitamin K aids clotting to insure against hemorrhage.

Five or six large pharmaceutical houses have indicated their intention to market the new product, Link said, and licenses will be granted by the Research foundation as soon as approval of the Pure Food and Drug commission is received. The tablets should be available in five or six months.

Middleton Back

A welcome returnee to the Medical School is Dean William S. Middleton who has returned to the campus after over three years of military duty, having served as chief consultant in medicine, with the Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Forces (SHEAF).

In this capacity, Dr. Middleton, first a lieutenant colonel and then a colonel, established and directed the consultative services in medicine in the European theater, and assisted in establishing a new type of mobile front line surgical unit to deal with American casualties.

Honored by three countries for his work, Dr. Middleton received the Legion of Merit medal from the United States, the Croix de Guerre from France, and was elected a fellow of the Royal College of Physicians in England, the latter an honor bestowed upon only two other Americans.

Prof. Robert R. Aurner of the School of Commerce, now on leave to teach servicemen and women in the Biarritz American university, Biarritz, France, was appointed dean of the college of commerce and administration there.

Homecoming

Homecoming brought back to the campus the largest crowd of alumni and former students since pre-Pearl Harbor days. Some said that it would have taken a shoehorn to have crowded many more people into Camp Randall Saturday afternoon, and others declare that alumni must have scared the undergraduates away from their usual Saturday night haunts with the tremendous number of recent grads returning.

Friday night the traditional pep rally was held on the lower campus, and afterward the traditional, though unscheduled, march up State street attracted the too-young-for-college crowd. Saturday afternoon brought perfect cold and clear football weather, with Ray Dvorak's bandmen going through well-timed formations depicting a troop transport decorated out with flags and pennants, among other things.

It was just the post-war Homecoming that everyone hoped it would be, with the final score a forgotten factor in the whole weekend picture.

Fraternity Plan

A postwar program for campus fraternities, designed to achieve "high levels of scholastic work and social living" was adopted by the university faculty early this month. The plan goes into effect with the 1946-47 school year and involves these four main points:

1. Each fraternity is required to have a housemother who will live in the fraternity house. She must be approved by the dean of men.

2. A separate, alumni-controlled, house-owning corporation shall be organized for each group and shall act as "landlord" while active chapter members are "tenants."

3. Each fraternity must submit an operating budget and monthly financial reports to an auditor for fraternities who will be employed in the university business and finance office.

4. No fraternity may open in the fall if, on July 1 of any year, it has more than $300 in unpaid bills (excluding rent), or if its members owe it more than $200.

The program was introduced to the faculty by the student life and interests committee of which Scott H. Goodnight, retired dean of men, is chairman. This group's subcommittee on society, fraternities, and politics also recommended the plan.

In making the recommendation, the committee explained that the aim is "to establish a relationship between the University and the fraternities which will better promote their achievement and provide for the fraternities a definite and mutually understood place in the University program."

Additional details and provisions were worked out in full in the program, providing for an interfraternity Alumni conference, an alumnus as financial adviser, and university approval of rental, building, and buying plans.

This fall only 10 fraternities operate houses, as compared with over 50 in pre-war days. The group of ten are Psi Upsilon, Sigma Chi, Theta Chi, Alpha Delta Phi, Phi Delta Theta, Alpha Chi Sigma, Delta Sigma Pi, Triangle, Theta Delta Chi, and Sigma Phi.

Two other houses, Chi Psi and Delta Kappa Epsilon, are being operated as rooming houses for men by the fraternities. Some fraternities are now operating without houses.

Badger Jack Mead breaks away.

When the V-12 class which started at Wisconsin about three years ago was transferred to Notre Dame, the Badger spirit did not die. This month the class was graduated, and to commemorate the occasion the newly commissioned ensigns, under the leadership of Irv Pittleman, '45, held a "Wisconsin" dinner.

About thirty ex-Badgers met for dinner in a South Bend steak house, sang "On Wisconsin" for the benefit of all fellow diners, and then embarked on leaves which were long enough to bring many of them back to Wisconsin's Homecoming.

Indiana and Ohio

Frank O. Holt, director of the university's department of public service, met with three alumni groups last month when he traveled to Evansville, Ind., Cincinnati, Ohio, and Columbus, Ohio.

About twenty alumni met for dinner in Evansville, and Holt spoke to them about the current situations on the campus, answering many questions of alumni dealing with present conditions and also future plans for the university.

About forty alumni met at Cincinnati for a dinner followed by Holt's speech and informal discussion. Ben Heald was elected president of the Cincinnati club at this meeting.

The Ohio State university athletic department gave a pre-game luncheon on October 13 for the Wisconsin people attending the game. About 150 attended, including the president and vice-president of the university, and a number of prominent university people. Not all present were alumni; many were outsiders interested in the University of Wisconsin.

Chicago Alumni

Prof. Farrington Daniels of the chemistry department was guest speaker at the University of Wisconsin Club of Chicago meeting in October. "Wartime Research and Developments" was the subject of his talk.

Alumni in Chicago meet every Monday noon at lunch for an informal get-together with no planned program of events.

Kenosha Dinner

"European Politics at the Present Time" was the subject of the talk which Prof. Robert L. Reynolds gave to members of the Kenosha Alumni club at a meeting held last month. Drawing from his experiences while a member of the Office of Strategic Services in England, Prof. Reynolds discussed the general trend to the left in European politics, commenting on the general class leveling resulting from the war, the status of the war veteran in European countries, and the future possibilities and probabilities over there.

Alden White, acting secretary of the faculty, also spoke briefly on the advantages being accorded the war veterans at the university.

Mrs. Frank J. Disbrow, Jr., was general chairman of arrangements for the dinner meeting, and assisting her were Mrs. Margaret Siver, decorations; Mrs. E. V. Ryall, tickets; Walter Turner, program; John Strom, reservations; and George Epstein, publicity.

David L. Phillips, president of the club, announced that Coach Harry Stuhldreher will be speaker at the Founders' Day meeting in February. Miss Jennie Greco was elected a member of the club's board of directors.

Milwaukee Women

Full activities of the women's group of the Milwaukee Alumni Club have now been planned, and the first affair, a bridge-luncheon was held on October 13. Mrs. J. A. Biersach was hostess and she was assisted by Mary Louise Freyermuth.

New officers for the year were elected and are as follows: Mary Louise Freyermuth, president; Mrs. W. W. Huppert, vice-president; and Marie Hutter, treasurer.

Plans are now under way for the annual tea at the College Women's club on November 17. Recent graduates of the university will be guests and will be introduced to the group. Mildred Schauz will be chairman of arrangements for the tea and she will be assisted by Vilma Steiner, Dorothy Ann Kettner, Beverly Scheele, and Marion Kell.

Since Homecoming at Madison this year corresponds with the date of the group's third luncheon, there will be no November luncheon, and instead the third will be held on December 8 at the Pfister hotel.

The regular club meetings are held on the second Saturday of each month.

Detroit Women

Newly elected officers of the University of Wisconsin Women's Club of Detroit are as follows: Lucile D. Born, president; Mrs. H. M. Merrill, vice-president; Mrs. L. V. Garrity, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. L. Dickerson, recording secretary; and Mrs. G. Noyes Bright, treasurer.

The October meeting of the group was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Noyes Bright in Ferndale, Michigan and was open to husbands and friends.

Southern California

Mrs. Alice Evans Field, '08, director of the department of studies and public service for the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, was the speaker at the September meeting of the Wisconsin Alumnae Association of Southern California.

"Moving Pictures in a Postwar World" was the subject of her talk. She was introduced by Miss Helen Kellogg, vice-president in charge of the program. Mrs. David Simpson is president of the club.

F. J. Sensenbrenner Honored

More than 450 alumni and outstanding Wisconsin residents honored Frank J. Sensenbrenner, Neenah, at a testimonial dinner held in Neenah's North Shore Country Club October 30.

Sponsored by the Wisconsin Alumni Association and alumni of the Neenah-Menasha and Appleton areas, the dinner was occasioned by Sensenbrenner's election to the regents' presidency.

A Wisconsin Alumni association certificate of appreciation was presented to Sensenbrenner by John Berge, association executive secretary, for "distinguished service, unwavering loyalty, and excellent leadership."

Tributes were paid by the three other speakers, Michael J. Cleary, member of the Board of Regents; Frank O. Holt, director of the university's department of public service; and George I. Haight, representing the Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation. William E. Schubert, '29, Appleton, was toastmaster at the dinner.

As father of the idea that the University establish closer contact with business and industry throughout the state, Sensenbrenner has encouraged the type of cooperation between business and the university which has existed for some time between agriculture in the state and the university.

A large number of faculty members and prominent citizens in the state attended the dinner, as well as alumni in that area.

The committee in charge of the dinner included E. E. Jandrey, general chairman; F. F. Martin, arrangements; John Pinkerton, reception; A. F. Kletzien, program; Owen E. Lyons, publicity; and Robert M. Connelly, entertainment.

Milwaukee Regional Directors

Plans for activities of the Milwaukee area alumni were discussed last month when Milwaukee officers and directors of the Wisconsin Alumni Association met with officers and directors of the Milwaukee Alumni Club at a luncheon meeting in the Milwaukee Athletic Club. Pictured here are W. D.

Seated at the speakers' table at the Sensenbrenner testimonial dinner which was held in Neenah late last month are many prominent Wisconsin men and university officials who paid tribute to the new president of the Board of Regents. They are: (left to right) E. E. Jandrey, Neenah, general chairman of the event; M. E. McCaffrey, secretary of the regents; D. H. Grady, member, Board of Regents; A. Matt Werner, member, Board of Regents; F. O. Holt, di- rector of Public Service; M. J. Cleary, member, Board of Regents; Julius P. Heil, former governor of Wisconsin; F. J. Sensenbrenner, honored guest; George I. Haight, chairman, University of Wisconsin Foundation; John Berge, executive secretary, Wisconsin Alumni association; W. E. Schubert, Appleton, toastmaster; the Very Rev. D. M. Burke, O. Praem, St. Norbert college; John Callaban, Supt. of Public Instruction; and W. J. Campbell, member, Board of Regents.

Milwaukee Sentinel

Hoard, Jr., president of the Wisconsin Alumni association; John Berge, executive secretary of the association; Ray H. Myers, president of the Milwaukee Alumni club; and W. G. Aschenbrener, director of the association from Racine.

The chief subject under discussion was the possibility of publishing a Milwaukee directory of university alumni. The group also outlined a program of activities for the coming year, made preliminary suggestions for the victory reunion which will be held during the May commencement week-end, and focused their attention on the University centennial which will be held in the 1948-49 school year.

Under Doctor's Orders:

"I enjoy your publications very much, and as I am the doctor, I am sure the best cure for the ailments would be receiving your publications until I get out of the armed forces."—Lt. Miles Laubheimer, '43, Germany

★ Yes, Lt. Laubheimer, your advice is well taken. We know that thousands of Fighting Badgers are still in the armed forces—and will be for months to come. Mail means a lot to these Fighting Badgers, and it's our job to supply it until all of them are home again for keeps. Each membership check will help to supply this mail, so send yours today—please. Regular membership—$4. Intermediate membership (classes '41 to '45 incl.)—$2. Victory membership—$10. Let's finish our job as effectively as these Fighting Badgers completed theirs, by supplying mail for them.

Lloyd Larson, Chairman

Tickets for football games may be obtained at the Boston Store, or by writing to:

University of Wisconsin Athletic Dept.
711 Langdon St.
Madison 6, Wisconsin.

MONTHLY LUNCHEON MEETINGS

After the football season outstanding University of Wisconsin faculty members will speak here. Meet your old profs at luncheons to be announced later.

H. J. Schwahn, Chairman

FOUNDER'S DAY DINNER

Help us celebrate Wisconsin's 98th birthday. In February, the Milwaukee Alumni club will again present an outstanding alumnus at a dinner commemorating this anniversary.

Erwin Zentner, Chairman

SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Seventy-five cents of your membership dues are placed in the Milwaukee Alumni club Scholarship Fund in Madison. Loans are available to any worthy students from the Milwaukee area who are upperclassmen at the University of Wisconsin.

Ernest Rice, Chairman

WOMEN'S GROUP

Theater parties, a tea, bridge parties, and prominent women speakers are planned for the women's group this year. Make reservations with Mrs. Willard Huppert, EDgewood 5536, or Charlotte Griesmer, MArquette 2096. Join the women alumni at the Pfister Hotel on the second Saturday of each month.

SUDS PARTY

Place a red circle around December 11th on your calendar. Good fellowship will reign supreme at the beer party for all alumni (and alumnae) at the Pabst Blue Ribbon Hall.

BASKETBALL HEADLINERS

Wisconsin opposes our friendly rival, Marquette in a basketball game December 22nd at the Auditorium.

Our team will return to the Auditorium on New Year's Eve to play a Big Ten conference opponent. This double header brings Marquette against another outstanding team.

UNIVERSITY RELATIONS COMMITTEE

The Milwaukee Alumni club meets with university leaders to plan how the University of Wisconsin may render a greater service to the State and to Milwaukee in this post-war world. Cooperation and loyal support from the alumni make this aim possible.

George Grabin, Chairman

Variety is the spice of life in alumni club programs too. If your alumni club program of activities is dull and monotonous, perhaps it needs the variety offered in the program of the Wisconsin Alumni Club of Milwaukee, illustrated above. This shows the inside spread of a folder recently mailed to Milwaukee Badgers.

This Milwaukee schedule of events illustrate two features that are essential in all successful alumni club programs: (1) Variety—so that every alumnus in your city will find some activity in which to express his or her interest; (2) Division of labor—so that each job will be well done without putting all the load on the president's back. Eight types of activities are listed in this Milwaukee schedule. It covers the entire gamut of alumni interests from football to public relations world. Every Badger in Milwaukee can find one or more activities to whet his alumni interest. Not every club, of course, can sponsor eight types of activities. Every club, however, can and should sponsor at least two projects annually with the Founders' Day Dinner as the main event.

With your Founders' Day Dinner as your No. 1 event, look for another event which can be developed into a club tradition. The Suds Party in Milwaukee, for example, has become a Milwaukee tradition. Waukegan Badgers have developed splendid interest in an annual Paul Bunyan Pancake Breakfast. Other clubs have developed interest through scholarship activities.

This gives you two regular events for your club calendar: your Founders' Day Dinner and your traditional event. With these two as a start, you and your fellow members are all set to expand your program of activities by adding as many events as are necessary to meet your needs.

Your club officers welcome your suggestions on putting spice into your club programs. They need your cooperation, too. Running an alumni club is usually a thankless job, so give your officers a lift in carrying out their activities. They'll appreciate it, and you'll get more out of your membership.

—JOHN BERGE.

Eight Badgers Released From Jap Prison Camps

Lt. Col. Harry Pike, '35, Maj. William N. Donovan, '31, 1st Lt. Benjamin W. Meek, '34, S/Sgt. Solly P. Manasse, '35, Lt. Robert J. Leyrer, '40, Lt. Col. Edward R. Wernitznig, '27; Sgt. Max H. Lever, '37; and Lt. Robert J. Jones, '40, have been released from Japanese prison camps and returned to the states.

Col. Pike was listed missing in action in September 1943. He had led a raid on Jap installations on the South China coast, had served as decoy to lead 19 Jap bombers to destruction, and had been credited with shooting down several Jap Zeroes. Rumors and unverified reports of his safety were brought back to the States by radio, by fellow fliers, and by several of our own Fighting Badgers, but until his release, no definite information was known. Col. Pike was freed during a special rescue mission by the Third Fleet.

Maj. Donovan, holder of one of the highest army awards, the Distinguished Service Cross, had been taken by the Japs at the fall of Corregidor, and was a prisoner for three years and four months. He had won his DSC for heroism under fire in the Philippines during the last days before surrender. Maj. Donovan is a doctor.

Lt. Meek has been liberated from the Jentsuji prison camp in which he spent three and a half years. A former Badger boxer, Meek was working for his Ph.D. when work as a federal geologist took him to the Philippines in 1937. He was transferred to the army engineers right after the Pearl Harbor attack and was captured during the fall of Bataan.

S/Sgt. Manasse was a member of the coast artillery and had been stationed at Ft. Stotsenberg, P. I. before the war. He was taken prisoner with the fall of Bataan and now released, is awaiting shipment home.

Lt. Leyrer joined the Air Corps right after his graduation, and after receiving his commission, was sent to the Philippines. He was based on Nichols Field as pilot of a pursuit plane. He was taken prisoner at Bataan.

Col. Wernitznig was regimental surgeon with the 57th Infantry division of the Philippine scouts. A member of the regular army for eight years before his capture on Bataan in 1942, Col. Wernitznig was freed from a camp in Korea.

He had been aboard one of the unmarked ships carrying prisoners from Manila to Japan when the ship was sunk by American submarine. The survivors were loaded into boxcars and shipped to northern Luzon where they were ordered into the hold of another unmarked ship. This second ship sailed and was sunk in Tokyo harbor on Jan. 9. Wernitznig survived this sinking also and was sent to the Korea prison.

Sgt. Lever, another Milwaukeean, was also taken prisoner at the fall of Bataan in April 1942. A former journalism student here, Lever was released from a camp in Japan.

Lt. Jones was stationed at Nichols field near Manila prior to Pearl Harbor. He was taken prisoner on Bataan and spent 41 months in Japanese camps.

Baumann Greets Yamashita

When Jap Gen. Yamashita surrendered to the Americans on Northern Luzon in September, it was Badger Russ Baumann, '40, who accepted his surrender. An AP story told it this way: "The enemy group had been met on a rugged mountain trail by 24 picked members of the 32nd division led by Lt. Russell Baumann of Glenbeulah, Wis.

"Baumann and Yamashita exchanged salutes, after which the American lieutenant told the "Tiger": 'I have been charged with bringing you and your party through our lines without hindrance, delay or molestation.'

"Yamashita replied through an interpreter: 'I want to tell you how much I appreciate the courtesies and good treatment you have shown us.'"

But Baumann modestly tells his story this way: "After fighting Japanese in the Guadalcanal, N. Solomons, New Guinea, Leyte, and Luzon campaigns, it was a satisfaction to go up and bring out Yamashita, his general staff, and the admiral of the Japanese navy in the Philippines."
