SENIORS ENROLL ORGANIZATION IN MEMORIAL UNION

Vote to Assess Each Member
$5 and Join Alumni Association En Masse

Without a single dissenting vote the senior class yesterday voted that every member should become a life member of the Memorial Union, that each senior should subscribe $3 to the chimes fund, and that the class join the alumni association as a body.

This action was taken at the first meeting of the class which was held in 165 Bascom hall at 12:45 o'clock yesterday. Walter A. Frautsch '24, president of the class, presided at the meeting.

Short talks were given by Robert McMynn, president of the alumni association, and M. E. McCaffrey, secretary of the board of regents.

Acting upon the recommendation of the Memorial Union promotion committee, which is headed by John C. Dawson '24, the class voted to ask Prof. E. H. Gardner to direct the campaign among the seniors. Professor Gardner has consented to do this work and arrangements have been made to conduct the campaign during the week beginning May 12. He will be assisted by the promotion and publicity committees of the senior class.

Meeting Well Attended

Nearly every seat in 165 Bascom hall was filled when the meeting was called to order by President Frautsch shortly before 1 o'clock. Howard Lyman '24, chairman of the invitations committee, gave a report of the work being done in having the invitations printed and requested that the orders be sent in before May 1.

The benefits to be gained by the university and by the graduating students themselves in joining the alumni association were pointed out by Mr. McMynn, who came from Milwaukee to be present at the meeting. He showed the need of cooperation among the regents, faculty, student body, and alumni in carrying the value of the university throughout the state, and briefly outlined the work of the three subcommittees of the association—stu-

CORBETT ARRESTED FOR POSTING BILLS

Proletarian Editor Pays Costs of Case and is Discharged

Stratford F. Corbett, editor of The Proletarian, new "red-hot" publication for university students, which put its second issue on sale Wednesday noon, was arrested Wednesday afternoon on orders of Police Chief Shaughnessy. He is charged with displaying public bills on trees on the West Side in violation of a city ordinance.

The charge was dismissed by Judge O. A. Stolen of superior court on Corbett's payment of costs. Corbett declared that displaying posters on trees had been practiced by university organizations.

Corbett was taken into custody at the Campus Grill on State street near Lake, and hustled to the police station in a patrol wagon. As word spread over the Latin quarter that the Proletarian editor was being arrested, scores of students gathered to look on, but confined their demonstrations to derision or encouragement, according to their reception of the Proletarian's daring articles.

RIDICULOUS, BALL LEADERS SAY TO ANTI-WAR ATTACK

Publicity Stunt is Reply of Lyman, Hanson to Proletarian Charges

A publicity stunt, absurd and without foundation is the way Military ball officials in interviews made last night, characterized charges in The Proletarian, off-campus radical sheet, that the ball is a tinselled glorification of war and intended to inculcate a spirit of militarism in students.

Howard B. Lyman '24, general chairman of the ball, stated it as his belief that few persons would take the attack seriously. He declared the article and editorial was ridiculous and fallacious.

Democratic Function

"The Military ball will be a social function democratic in every respect and at a reasonable expense. Statements that machine guns and other destructive paraphernalia will be used to decorate the capitol are absolutely false," Lyman asserted.

Lee D. Hanson '24, assistant general chairman, called the criticism plainly a publicity stunt and an ambitious attempt to create a sensation.

"It is an intentional misconstruction of the purpose and spirit of the Military ball," he said.

Goodnight Comments

Dean Scott H. Goodnight, in an interview last night, commented favorably on the ball.

"Our cadet corps is very fortunate to have the state administration open the capitol for the annual Military ball. In the past Military balls have been dignified and democratic functions, such that they have never brought any discredit to the university. I hope and trust that this year's ball will be the equal of any of its predecessors," he stated.

Make Box Changes

Changes in the lists of boxes for the Military ball have been announced by Paul K. Robertson '24, chairman of the box committee.

The assembly lobby is reserved for winning freshman and sophomore companies in the ticket sale campaign. The assembly chambers will be open to the general public. J. W. Bollenger '27, first sergeant of the winning freshman company, has announced that the box is open to all freshmen and sophomore cadets.

Problems of Land Economics Treated In Ely's New Book

The first book to deal scientifically with the problems of land economics will appear this month under the title of "Elements of Land Economics," written by Dr. R. T. Ely, of the economics department and director of the Institute of Research and Public Utilities, and George Moorehouse, a member of the staff.

The book is the second in a series on real estate to be used in two-year real estate courses in night schools, Y. M. C. A. classes and colleges and universities.

"The volume is intended to accomplish a double purpose: first, to deal in a scientific but elementary way with land as an economic factor, as other elementary books in general economics deal with all economic factors; and, second, to furnish a foundation of economic principles for treatment of land as a commodity," writes Dr. Ely in the preface.

SOUTHERN CLUB KEEPES OFFICERS

Organization Votes to Give $50 to Student Friendship Drive

With the exception of one position, the officers of the Southern club were voted in for the remainder of the semester at a meeting of that organization last night in the Law building.

A new office, that of social secretary, was created to fill the place of one member who had withdrawn at the end of the first semester. Mary A. Scanlon '27, was elected to the place.

Robye Nichols '27, president of the club, was presented with a basket of flowers and a box of candy as a mark of appreciation for her efforts on behalf of the organization since its founding.

The club voted $50 toward the Student Friendship fund. This amount will be turned over to the committee by the treasurer. A considerable portion of the time of the meeting was taken up by discussion of the social privileges of the club which were withdrawn following a Mardi Gras party given in January. It was the opinion of the majority of the members that the privileges would soon be restored by the deans.

Date Chosen to Enable Entries to Get Early Spring Practice

May 17 has been set as the date for the 1924 Spring horse show according to an announcement made last night by Albert E. Deacon '24, general chairman. Deacon also announced that the show would be held on the lower campus arena as has been the custom in past years.

SCRIBES TO VISIT CHICAGO APRIL 9

Annual Tour of Journalists

The itinerary will include a visit to the Western Newspaper Union, which supplies "ready prints" to hundreds of weekly newspapers, as well as "plate matter" to daily and weekly newspapers; to the Barnes, Crosby Engraving company where the process of making half-tone engravings, particularly colored plates will be observed. The students will visit the Associated Press, where news is received from all parts of the country and redistributed by means of the automatic printing telegraph; to the city news bureau where all Chicago city news is collected, written, and sent to the city newspaper offices by means of pneumatic tubes; to the Chicago Tribune plant, and finally to the Chicago American plant, in time to see the last edition run off in the press room.

FULTON URGES STUDENT SUPPORT OF BADGER REFERENDUM PLAN

"This referendum is one of the most fundamental pieces of legislation presented to the students since I have been in the university," said Ellis G. Fulton, editor-in-chief of the 1925 Badger in referring to the Badger referendum which will be voted on tomorrow.

"The Badger board at present is nothing more than a farce. When the class elects its editor and business manager in the spring, its control absolutely ceases. These two men could wreck the Badger, accept unlimited graft, or otherwise conduct matters as they pleased—with very small chance of being found out, with the board as at present constituted, until the damage was done and the class found it self, in May, holding the bag."

"This is a strong statement, but it is easily understood by anyone who will take the trouble to study the present constitution. The editor-in-chief is the chairman of the present board, and with the business manager, practically controls the board, by the simple expedient of calling meetings only when it is convenient and by being so much better armed with information and data than the board is likely to be. The board virtually rubber-stamps policies previously agreed upon by these two men."

Election System Faults

"As long as the class elects honest and capable men to the two executive positions, this system may work; but I think it unwise to leave the entire Badger enterprise at the mercy of two men—the Badger is too vital a part of the university and of the activities of the class.

"There are two other sides to this question. One is that, even when honest and capable men are elected, they would do better work if guided and backed up by a board constituted as the proposed board would be—with the previous editor and business manager and the faculty advisers from the course in journalism and the course in commerce to offer advice and suggestions in difficult problems and with the four members elected by the class to keep them in touch with class sentiment."

Require Experienced Man

"Then, too, the requirement that candidates for the offices be required to have a year's experience on the staff, will make a big improvement in the quality of Badger turned out year after year. No business enterprise would think of making an absolutely fresh start each year—success comes only by making an absolutely fresh start utilizing and profiting by experiences of predecessors.

"The other great objection to the present open election system is that it divides both the staff and the campus along political lines. The two candidates for the job are likely to be the most capable and experienced men in the class. The defeat or one candidate not only deprives the staff of his services, but kills the support of all his backers in the subsequent work of the Badger. The Badger should be the book of the class—not of a political faction."

Board Selection Necessary

"The system of selection of the two principal executives by a board has succeeded in the case of The Cardinal. It is still more necessary to the Badger. If The Cardinal board picks the wrong men, it is apparent at once—if the wrong men are picked for the Badger, no one knows the difference until May when it is too late."

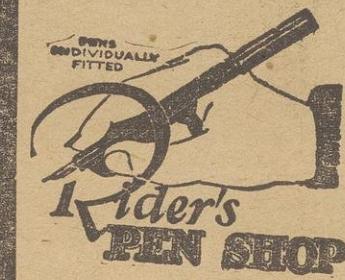

"As far as I am concerned personally, I have no interest whatever in this measure—the Badger board of 1925 is cooperating in splendid shape and our book is practically completed, but for the good of future classes and future Badgers, I strongly urge all students to vote 'yes' on this referendum when it is presented next Friday," Fulton concluded.

The entire student body is entitled to vote on the referendum.

OUTING CLUB HAS CHANGE IN PLANS

Meets Tonight to Discuss New Ideas For Reorganization

Plans for reorganization will be discussed at the meeting of Outing club to be held at 7:15 o'clock tonight in the fifth floor lecture room, Lathrop hall.

Outing club has been an organization ever since the spring of 1917 and has had its place in Keystone. Lately there has been an expression that Outing club was not filling the place on the campus that it ought to. At the last meeting it was voted that the club should continue as an organization.

"I believe that there is a definite place on the campus for Outing club," Doris Burdick '24, president declared. "Tonight we are going to try and tighten up our organization.

tion, freshmen and sophomores ought to be interested in Outing club as it is one means of getting acquainted and really accomplishing things in the field of minor sports."

Two new members will be admitted tonight. They are Venus Walker '24 and Gertrude Fries '25.

Approximately 50 of the 250 approved rooming houses for university women have now been examined by an inspection committee which includes Dean Lydia L. Brown, Mrs. C. B. Flett, and Miss Isabel Hunt. The remaining houses will be completed within this semester, according to Dean Brown.

ATHLETICS IN THE COLLEGIATE WORLD

ROUNDY COUGHLIN TO LEAVE TIMES; TAKES POST ON JOURNAL

Sport Writer and Columnist Accepts Position After Tempting Offer

Roundy Coughlin, versatile sport writer and columnist extraordinary, until recently connected with The Capital Times, has gone over to the ranks of the opposition and accepted a position on the staff of the State Journal according to a statement made last night by Bryn Griffiths, sporting editor of The Times.

Roundy, who has been connected with The Times ever since its birth several years ago, was induced to leave only after a tempting offer involving a new automobile with his name emblazoned all over it in box car letters, an enormous increase in salary, and the right to cover all athletic events of nationwide interest had been made him.

Roundy's prowess as a columnist testified to by the popularity with which his efforts have been received and by the weight that his predictions on games has carried. "Write your own ticket," says Roundy, and this advice has been followed with more than a fair degree of success on more than one occasion.

His plans right now include a more or less extended vacation and a layoff from the daily grind connected with getting out a daily column and keeping up with all sport developments.

He expects to sojourn in Chicago as a guest of Eddie Kane, Tom Gibbons' manager, and will probably return with all the latest information concerning the fight game, prepared to give Madison fans the up and down on prospective cards for the coming year.

Roundy's column has grown to be more or less of a public institution, and Madison folks would be lost without his chit-chat on doings about town, as well as all the latest and most authentic dope on football, basketball, boxing, and all live sport topics.

The writeups that Roundy has been giving bachelors during the past winter have done as much as any other thing to promote local domestic tranquility, and Roundy came near losing his title of the "Shield of Madison," and acquiring the more descriptive but more cloying cognomen of "the Cupid of the Capital City."

His column and his personality have been one of the big reasons for The Times' rapid growth and increase in circulation. He modestly admits that he started at the bottom and worked up, learning about all that he knows of the sport game while working on the Times, but now feels that a man must take his opportunities when they come him and not kick Dame Fortune in the face.

But, after all, as Roundy says, what more could be fairer?

GIRLS' RIFLE TEAM IN LAST CONTEST

Lack of Outdoor Shooting Facilities Prevents Further Practice This Year

The girls' rifle team of the university of Wisconsin will consist of the following members, as announced yesterday by Major Lambert: Florence E. Allen '27, Barbara D. Bacon '27, Helen Brodd '25, Alice Winston '25, Marie A. Wells '27, Ferne F. Fortnum '25, Jessie M. Groesbeck '25, Katherine V. White '26, Eloise S. Blakeslee '27 and Emilie Sandstein '26.

Alice Winston is captain of the team and Marie Wells is team manager. Besides these ten on the regular team, there are also five substitutes.

A triangular meet is going on at present with a branch of the University of California, situated at Davis, and with Northwestern university. The teams will fire any time during this week, each in its own institution, and the five highest scores will determine the winners of that team.

These results will then be compared with those of California and Northwestern. The Wisconsin scores will be known by tomorrow afternoon and the final result of the three reports will be known by Monday.

The Wisconsin team has already had two meets. One, with Oklahoma, it won and the second with Nebraska who has one of the oldest teams in the country, it lost.

The final meet of the season is to be fired soon with Ripon, according to Major Lambert.

Rifle practice will be discontinued after spring vacation because the university does not have competent facilities for outdoor shooting. But it will begin again early next fall and next year the girls team will compete not only with other university and college girls' teams but also with men's teams.

The best event was the relay. The two teams fought hard, first one and then the other gaining the lead. In the last lap the Engineers nosed out the L & S relay man for first place but were disqualified for using a man from the Commerce school, when Joe Steinauer noticed his neck was too clean for an engineer.

Connie Mack added considerable batting strength to his club by his winter deals but he finds himself whipping into shape at Montgomery, Ala., a lineup that has only two lefthanded hitters in it. The two are Max Bishop and Joe "Zip" Hauser. Bishop is the new second sacker. Hauser starred at first last season and incidentally was the luckiest regular on the team. Was out of fewer games because of injuries than any other member of the lineup.

Marquette will not have any spring football practice this year. Reason unknown.

Grade school kids are using the annex now. Getting down pretty close to the cradle.

In their first game of the national prep school basketball tournament at Chicago Superior high and Madison, S. D., put in the most thrilling contest of the first round. It was a game with two overtime periods. Superior lost 25 to 21.

Capt. Stevens, of the gym team, is now ready to quit training. He exhibits a face rather battered around the left eye, following a back flip to an eye stand on a concrete floor. His spirit was willing but his stance was poor.

Joe Steinauer refutes absolutely the statement made in the Proletarian to the effect that he has joined the Dolphin club and has been taking workouts in Lathrop gym. Joe says that he has invited the editor down to Death Corner in Little Italy to settle the affair with portcullises at thirty paces. Ringside seats are selling at a dollar a throw.

Weak and getting weaker was the condition of our snowdrift last night after a hard day with the sun.

Health Special

Children from Columbia and parts of Adams and Sauk counties will be examined during the two-day stop. Two weeks, Apr. 21 to May 3, will be devoted to Ozaukee county, and three weeks, beginning May 5, in Milwaukee county. The car then will go to Winnebago county for a week's tour. Dr. Sylvia Stuessy will have charge of the medical work of the car. Miss Agnes Doyle, La Crosse, will act as nurse with the car.

Bank Bandits Return; Get Another $3,000

DETROIT, Mich. — Boasting they were the same trio that robbed the bank last Nov. 16, when $8,000 was taken, three bandits armed with shotguns held up the manager and teller of the Liberty State Bank branch on Joseph Campau avenue today and escaped with $3,000 taken from the vaults and cash drawers.

Coolidge Calls Parley to "Speed Up" Session

WASHINGTON—President Coolidge today began efforts to "speed up" the session.

The president went over with his guests, the entire situation and an endeavor was made to map out a program for the remainder of the session.

Squad Shows Promise Now, But Time and Southern Jaunt Will Tell

Baseball prospects continue to improve with the change in the weather, but the varsity will be considerably hampered when it starts on its southern jaunt by the lack of actual diamond play that it has had.

Work has been entirely in the gymnasium annex, and although the squad has been practicing since the first of the semester, it has not had actual experience in team play and baseball tactics on a regulation diamond.

The squad is hitting several noches higher up in the scale than it did last year and gives promise of being a slugging, fence crashing, bat smashing aggregation that will strike terror to any pitchers that may face it this year.

Jim Emanuel swings a mean club and will do a lot to bolster up the fighting ability of the Badgers. He is slated for center field.

Servatius and Dugan, both men with previous varsity experience are playing the other two outfield positions, and look like likely material.

The infield is composed of green material, with the exception of Slim, Ellington, but Steen, at first base, Ellington, at the keystone sack, Goss, at third and Murphy or Skaife, at shortstop, are beginning to get under way, and act as if they knew what it was all about.

Goss, the stocky third sacker, is wielding a heavy club and is clouting the ball with avidity.

Tangen and Radke are giving the regulars a tight rub for infield positions and will be valuable material before the season is over, while Tjoflat and Schmitt may be used to substitute in the outfield.

The battery is showing signs of becoming one of the strongest in the conference. Capt. Eddie Aschbrenner swings a heavy bat and steadies his pitchers well, while Johnson and Christensen are flinging them over better and better.

The team leaves Saturday on a trip which will occupy the better part of two weeks and will end with the first conference game of the season against Chicago.

WATCHING OUR STEPS

The amateur voter has for some time been considered an easy mark by politicians. The youth who is casting his ballot for the first time can easily be taken advantage of, the worldly wise candidates think. Consequently they go ahead on this assumption and try to bulldoze the youngster to vote for them on false faith.

But the political aspirants have been fooled. Ways are changing and the hoax is now passe. The local elections have proved this. Perhaps in the old days candidates could secure a vote by promising to keep anyone who supported him safe from the meshes of the law. But such tactics will not work now, and candidates will do well to realize this fact.

Novices, yes, even they, are not so stupid that they will think that a civic officer who will protect them from the law will serve their interests in other respects. Votes can not be gotten by such foul means.

A POLITICAL HOAX DEFEATED

The activities of university students today are coming under an ever increasing degree of public scrutiny. Unpleasant as it may seem they are being watched. The great majority of American people still look upon a university as a place where too many things are learned by the students which are not in text books. Students are supposed to be radical, morally and intellectually. The out-side world feels the responsibility of watching and waiting with a diligent eye the every move of the university body. University scandal apparently has as much of a lure to the readers of our newspapers as have the political affairs at Washington. Some of the attacks are vicious, some are ludicrous, and still others have a modicum of merit. Books are being written about the American college and about the things that go on therein. All these things mold public opinion. They worry the fathers and mothers of college students, they perturb legislatures, and they amuse the students themselves.

Northwestern students are dubbed "pinks" in a banner head in the Chicago Tribune because they have within their limits a movement for the establishment of a permanent world peace. How little attention the Tribune would pay to the signing of such a pledge as the Northwestern students signed were the signers living in some remote community. Here in our own university when two girls are asked to leave school for the visiting of a roadhouse it receives front page comment in the city papers and is copied throughout the state. Thousands of girls visit roadhouses without this publicity but they are not university women. At every opportunity any disgraceful action on the part of students is grasped by the press for its hungry readers, who gasp amazed and who in their concern for the welfare for university people completely overlook the licentiousness that goes on at their very doorsteps.

Books such as Town and Gown and the more recent Plastic Age which portray to perfection the intemperate, the bawdry, cheap side of university life pay very little attention to the good and the constructive thinking that is going on in the universities at all times. They accentuate the immoral which is far in the minority and forget that universities turn out many more good men than they do bad; they forget that when thousands of youths are assembled together that their opinions are bound to differ from those people who have been absorbed by more normal living conditions.

University people are subject to a different law than the average American. They are much more highly criticized. Out of a long ago overworked idea has grown the conception that the university student should lift himself to a plane of morality above the average, and he has, and is striving to do that, but he is only human, and the length to which his faults are carried and the publicity given his mistakes is absurd and unneeded.

Other Editors Say—

Coddled

High school and preparatory teachers along with parents are charged by freshman dean Roswell P. Angier of Yale with the failure of so many college freshmen. After questioning many freshmen whose scholastic records are unsatisfactory he finds that most of them have been coddled either by their preparatory teachers or by their parents. They are "coached up" to pass college entrance examinations with the teacher doing most of the work and with the student assuming a dependent attitude, which carried into college, is almost certain to lead to failure.

College administrative authorities have for many years been taking about the same general tendency, the failure of preparatory school instruction to stimulate intellectual interest and to put the student on his own. In the high schools the interest of school authorities and teachers they contend is to maintain enrollment at the highest possible level, with the result that students are frequently pushed ahead and encouraged to keep them in school, when under a more rigid system of marking they would be flunked and, as a consequence, would probably drop out entirely.

But the fault in many cases seems to be not with the students themselves. Under different conditions, compelled to stand on their own feet in business environments of one kind or another, most of them succeed. That they could have done creditable college work, once they had found themselves and made a reasonable effort, there can be little doubt.

The colleges blame the preparatory schools and the parents for the failure of so many boys and girls to find themselves by the time they are 17 or 18 years of age. Perhaps the colleges also have a certain function to perform in that connection. Perhaps they should share the responsibility with preparatory schools and with parents, for heavy freshmen failures.

A Victory Ball

EDITOR'S NOTE

The following verses, written by the poet laureate of England, served to inspire Ernest Schelling to write his orchestra fantasy, "A Victory Ball," which was played by the Minneapolis symphony orchestra Tuesday night. They are only part of the poem.

By ALFRED NOYES

The cymbals crash, and the dancers walk,
With long silk stockings and arms of chalk,
Butterfly skirts, and white breasts bare,
And shadows of dead men watching 'em there.

Shadows of dead men stand by the wall,
Watching the fun of the Victory Ball.
They do not reproach, because they know,
If they're forgotten, it's better so.

Under the dancing feet are the graves.
Dazzle and motley, in long bright waves,
Brushed by the palm-fronds, grapple and whirl,
Ox-eyed matron and slim white girl.

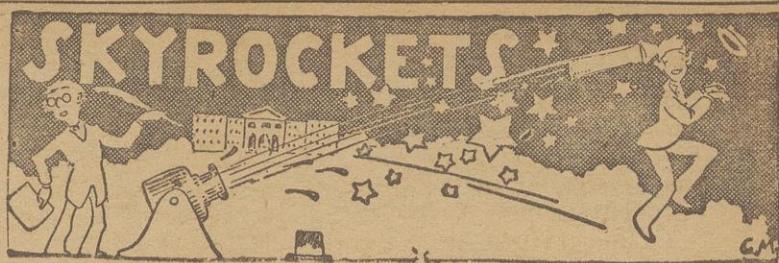

See, there is one child fresh from school,
Learning the ropes as the old hands rule.
God, how that dead boy gapes and grins
As the tom-toms bang and the shimmy begins.

"What did you think we should find," said a shade,
"When the last shot echoed and peace was made?"
"Christ," laughed the fleshless jaws of his friend,
"I thought they'd be praying for worlds to mend."

"Fish," said a statesman standing near,
"I'm glad they can busy their thoughts elsewhere!
We mustn't reproach 'em. They're young, you see."
"Ah," said the dead men, "so were we!"

Victory! Victory! On with the dance!
Back to the jungle the new beasts prance!
God, how the dead men grin by the wall,
Watching the fun of the Victory Ball.

For the first time in their history the University Players will produce a play that has been coached, directed, and manager entirely by students, unassisted by faculty members or professionals, who present Barrie's three-act play "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," next Saturday night, in Lathrop Hall concert room, for their annual guest night.

Alethea Smith '24, is the director and Olivia Orth '24, is assisting her as coach. The cast is:

Alice, Mildred Engler '26; Amy, Laura White '25; Cosmo, Jackson Taylor '26; Fanny, Hazel Weinhardt '25; Steve, Renn Hemingway '25; Ginevra, Carol De la Hunt '26; Col. Gray, Gordon Abbott '25; Richardson, Agatha McCaffery '24; the Nurse, Bernice Klug '24.

Special scenery is being made under the direction of Donald Kastler in the speech department workrooms on the fourth floor in Bascom Hall. A cyclorama setting has been adopted for use in the first and last acts of the play—curtains being used to obtain a circular effect for the background.

100 GIRLS APPLY FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

Awards Will Be Announced at Student Industrial Banquet, April 21

One hundred applications for the Florence Simms scholarships which entitle eight industrial girls to the six weeks summer school course with room and board in Barnard hall have been received by the committee on awards Alice Corl announced today.

University girls will act as tutors for the industrial students. In this way the industrial girls will be instructed in keeping note books, writing topics, and the best methods of study. Once every two weeks the eight tutors and students will meet in a seminar under the direction of Alice Ligon '24.

"Wisconsin is the second school to try out methods of education for the industrial girls," said Miss Mary Anderson. "Although Bryn Mawr has turned over the entire summer session to the industrial girls, we feel that our plan will enable the girls to come in contact with university students of widely different fields, which serves a purpose in itself."

The jobs which will be vacated for the six weeks will be taken over by university students. The types of work vary from factory jobs to culinary positions. Any girl in the university interested in taking up this kind of work should see Miss Anderson as soon as possible.

No applications for the scholarships will be received later than Saturday, April 5. The awards will be announced at the student industrial banquet which will be held on April 21. Tickets can be procured at the City or University Y. W. C. A. offices.

Campus in Uproar Over Proletarian, Says the Tribune

The following article appeared on the front page of the Chicago Tribune yesterday morning:

Madison, Wis., April 1

Agitation over pacifism and militarism is developing here in conjunction with the publication Wednesday morning of a new radical sheet, the Proletarian. This is the second number, being printed solely to criticize the annual military ball of the R. O. T. C. of the University of Wisconsin, to be held Friday evening in the state capitol.

The paper, an unofficial student publication, criticizes the flags, groups of guns, martial posters, advertising the ball, and the fact that the rotunda of the capitol will be decorated with war paraphernalia the night of the dance. It calls the affair a stimulation of war psychology and therefore an insult to the "betrayed dead of the A. E. F."

The paper's own posters criticizing the ball were torn to pieces by cadets this morning, after which students made unsuccessful attempts to find the editor, Stratford F. Corbett, to throw him in the lake. Howard Lyman, cadet colonel and leader of the cadets, refuses to talk. More excitement seems imminent tomorrow, when the paper makes its appearance.

tion of the club. It has been distributed to all members of the Chicago alumni organization.

YELLOW CAB

Cleanliness Means
Safety

A dirty, ill-smelling cab may be safe, but you have a right to doubt it.

Our cabs are washed inside and out every day. This is not a mere slapping on of sponge and water, but involves the liberal use of soap, disinfectants and scrub brushes, which reach every nook and cranny.

YELLOW CAB safety precautions begin with your health, which means proper sanitation, and are carried through by mechanical experts whose business it is to see that YELLOW CABS are accident-proof.

A mud-covered chassis cannot be properly inspected, aside from the fact that it is unsightly. Before our cabs go out of the garage we must know that every screw, nut and bolt is tight and sound. The condition of wheels, springs and tires is checked.

YELLOW CAB is as carefully and systematically manned as the most efficient railway organization. That is why you are safe, comfortable and contented when in charge of one of our drivers.

And YELLOW CAB rates are the lowest. Isn't it rather unusual these days to find even one thing that can not only be had for less money, but is the best at any price?

CHEMICAL ENGINEERING PRACTICE OF THE MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

A GRADUATE SCHOOL offering a course of study leading to the degree of Master of Science, with field stations in the plants of six different companies. These companies produce steel, pulp, paper, caustic soda, chlorine, heavy acids and salts, sugar, gas, ammonia, benzol, etc.

The more important unit operations of chemical engineering are studied systematically by means of tests and experimental work on full scale plant apparatus.

The work is wholly educational and independent of control by the plant managements. The attention of the student is directed exclusively to the study of Chemical Engineering.

The total number admitted to the school is limited and the students, studying and experimenting in small groups, receive individual instruction from resident professors. For entrance requirements and details address R. H. Haslam, Director, School of Chemical Engineering Practice.

BUSY BADGER ASKS FOR MORE HELPERS

Staff Members and Others Urged to Report Afternoons at Office

"This is the busy season for The Badger—just when we have to gather in all the loose ends and get all material in final shape for publication," said Ellis Fulton, editor, today.

"Any members of the staff who may have time to spare can help us greatly by reporting at the office afternoons. This also applies to any students who may not have been on the staff, but would like to get some experience for next year. The hardest month is yet ahead of us."

Persons who can do typewriting or who have had some experience on other publications in the preparation of dummies or in proof or copyreading are in great demand at this time, according to Fulton.

Members of the staff who expect to remain in Madison during the spring recess, or others who would like to help in the work during that period, are urged to call at the Badger office in the Union building afternoons and register their names and telephone numbers.

Apartment Gives Novel Aspect to Student Housing

The new apartment in the process of building at the corner of State street and Hawthorne court, will present a novel addition in student housing. The apartments will include a small living room, a bed room, and a kitchenette. Two upper stories will be devoted to the new style apartments.

The ground floor will be occupied by four stores, a restaurant, and a cafeteria.

The entire work is planned to be finished by early summer, but the lower floor will be available before that time. Clarke and Starke are the architects.

Just across the street from this building, another structure, one story in height, is also under construction. This building will be of brick and tile finish.

The exact use of these stores has not as yet been decided.

"By" Rivers

Byron Rivers '26 has returned from Chicago after spending two days with Lester, Chicago creator of costumes, who personally fitted him with the gowns he will wear in the Haresfoot club's 1924 production, "Twinkle Twinkle."

We have above an advance showing of one of River's dancing costumes and a close-up of the girl who is a man and yet a perfect lady. The furs, silks and laces worn by Rivers and other feminine leads of the "Twinkle Twinkle" show will be just as acceptable at spring formals or in a royal court as on the stage, —so it is said by those who have seen them.

The opening of the advance student mail order sale for the Madison performances of "Twinkle Twinkle" has been announced for tomorrow. Order blanks are to be distributed on the hill.
