CADETS FAIL ON COLLEGE RATING

Corps Loses Distinguished Honor Held Since 1920 By Two Points

For the first time in three years Wisconsin failed to receive the distinguished college rating for the military cadet corps, according to announcement just made by the military department.

Whether or not this failure was a result of the new ruling passed by the state legislature whereby military training for freshmen and sophomore became optional instead of compulsory is a matter of conjecture. At all events, Wisconsin received a grade of 88 whereas 90 is the passing grade. The new ruling was effective this year for the first time.

In 1915 the university received this rating for the first time. Since then it has received it four times, in 1916, 1920, 1921 and 1922. The past year was considered as being 1923.

Of the universities of the middle west, Ohio and Illinois were awarded the distinguished college rating this year.

The high schools which received a similar secondary school rating in this district, the sixth corps area, are Lake View High school of Chicago; Crane Tech of Chicago; Rockford High school of Rockford, Ill.; and Northwestern High school of Detroit, Michigan.

MEMORIAL CASH IS NOW $335,000

$915,000 Pledged To New Union Building; Need $65,000 More

Prof. E. H. Gardner, campaign manager of the Memorial Union building project reported the cash total as $335,000 at the last building committee meeting. The total pledge is $915,000, but $65,000 will be needed before building can begin on the first unit of the building—which will be the west unit.

Mr. Peabody reported progress on the plans, and explained to the committee what the further steps would be before construction can begin. The architects are revising the exterior designs of the building, and once this is done, the drawings will be presented to the Board of Regents and to the Memorial Union Building committee.

If accepted, the architects will begin construction. It was Mr. Peabody's belief that this might be done in time for construction in the fall.

When the work begins, it will be done in three units. The first to go up will be the west unit, which will contain the commons and student activity rooms. Next the central, or lounge and auditorium unit, will be built, and last the theatre and hotel room section.

The committee is asking all subscribers to take care of their subscriptions at once in order to expedite work on the west wing once it has begun.

Open Frat Dances Forbidden By Dean In Ignored Ruling

No subscription or open dances are to be given by any fraternity or sorority on the campus, according to Dean S. H. Goodnight, Thursday afternoon.

This ruling has been overlooked by several organizations and has been the cause of a little misunderstanding and inconvenience. The university has taken this step as a precautionary measure to safeguard the organizations and the student body in order that they may know whom they are entertaining.

Any organization is privileged to give a dance for its house members alone, if the necessary permission is obtained from the dean.

Fancy diving has been added to the list of events women can enter and has stirred up much interest among the fair sex. The 40 and 100 dashes are the other contests and by the number of entrants some hot competition is expected.

The sail boat race will be run in conjunction with those of the Madison Yacht club as the two races were scheduled for the same day. Sailboats entering will be handicapped according to the class they are in.

Further entries can be made still with Vallee at B 197.

FRANK MC ENTEE PRESENTS HAMLET

Head Of Company Has Wide Experience In Shakespearian Plays

Frank McEntee, who is to appear with his company in the Shakespeare Playhouse performance beginning on next Thursday night with the production of "Hamlet," has had, for this day and generation, an unusual experience for an actor of Shakespearian roles. He has played more than 70 parts in the various plays of the great bard.

Beginning with Ben Greet in his early years in this country, with Edith Wynne Matthison as the leading woman of the company, Mr. McEntee played in minor Shakespearian roles and continued to advance season after season until he eventually played, for two seasons, the whole role of Hamlet. This was followed by Romeo, Petruchio, Brutus, Shylock, and the chief comedy parts of Bottom, Malvolio and Touchstone and subsequently, the extremely difficult role of Prospero in an extensive series of performances of the Tempest, given in conjunction with the Boston, Russian and New York Symphony orchestras.

A few seasons ago he founded the Shakespeare Playhouse in New York. His aim in doing this was to establish a permanent producing center, where the plays of Shakespeare might not only be kept before the public as a constant source of inspiration, but where they could find the highest grade of interpretation. During the past year, however, he has been playing Hamlet in an extensive series of performances on tour, and is looking forward to presenting it in New York next season.

"Hamlet" begins the series to be presented in the University Open Air Theatre. The ticket sales will begin on Monday morning, at the booth in front of Music Hall.

LAKES, COACHERS GAME IN 0-0 TIE

Peterson And Johnson Play In Overtime Pitching Duel

BY ORIE

Fans who say their hard earned cash to see professional baseball, might well have saved their money and seen the thrilling six-inning overtime game between the Coaching school and the Lake street out-fits on the lower campus yesterday.

Of course there were bobbles on both sides, but those made in the "big leagues" also. Good playing, however, featured on both teams during the matinee performance.

Johnson and Peterson hooked up in a pretty pitcher's battle with the honors slightly in favor of Johnson. Peterson was touched for five bingles, while Johnson allowed a measly three. Each twirler allowed one free trip.

Schrank Fielding Sensation
Schrank furnished the fielding sensation of the day. In the third inning, after Butz had singled, and had gone to second on Johnson's single, Coleman lifted a fly just back of third base which looked like a sure hit. Schrank came in on a dead run, caught the ball near his shoestings and doubled Butz off of second.

This ended the best chance the Lakes had during the afternoon. Their other chance came in the fourth after Henicken had breezed, Jensen went to third on three misplays, and Ritchie struck out. Ruff was passed, but Christiansen spoiled the fun by lifting a high one to Coffey.

Lowman's Coaches got a man on base in every inning, but three of them were nipped while on the journey to second, by Hanse's good pegging. In the sixth frame Peterson, the first man to face Johnson, singled between third and short-stop, and Tangen was walked on purpose. Lack of opportune punch killed this rally.

The game was due to go five innings, but by mutual agreement between Coach Lowman and Manager Hanse, it was extended one inning, with the hope that someone would break the deadlock.

On Tuesday, the Coaches will try to get even with the Langdon team. It will be remembered that the Langdons walked away with a 7-0 game on the Coaches last week. The game should provide plenty of amusement and excitement.

ENTERTAINS AT LUNCHEON
Mrs. B. B. Collyer, 17 West Dayton street, entertained Friday at 1 o'clock luncheon at the College club for Mrs. Vernon S. Phillips of Columbus, Ohio. Twenty guests attended.

Versus

Much shouting and great outbursts of joy! We are going to have women in our water carnival Saturday. Since the decision was made Wednesday to add some events for women, the feminine entries have increased until now there are over half as many as the men entrants.

Such enthusiasm as these women have we have never seen. We even knew of three or four that have given up smoking to get into condition for the races. Then too, you can see any number of young mermaids practicing arduous strokes and dives on the piers every afternoon. The swan dive and the jackknife (?) are the favorites.

Have you noticed how even Pete E. F. Burns cooperated with us on this swim festival. Just at the opportune time Pete threw a bathing suit sale so that everyone can afford to be decked out in the latest styles. Of course, we all know what a sacrifice it was for Pete to put on such a "common" thing as a sale.

Max Simpkins, the sensational Varsity diver, who is expected to hold us all spellbound Saturday is sporting a new cardinal tank suit so we will be sure to recognize him.

Among the nobility that are entered in the met is Clifford S. Nolte, ex-Prom Chairman, who is to favor the ladies with a superior view of his Apollo-like form. Front seats for Cliff's event are engaged by the Betas and Alpha Phis. The Delta Upsilon are placing all their hopes in Valentine Guenther who has developed two new dives known as the frog dive and the shooting star. The idea for the last named dive is said to have been inspired by the sight of Gene Tuthar attempting to pole vault.

WESTERN COLLEGES PLAN BIG REGATTA

Wisconsin, Washington And California Join In New Association

Formal announcement was made today by Coach T. E. Jones, of the formation of a Western College Rowing Association, with Wisconsin, California and Washington universities as members.

Since the Poughkeepsie regatta, much interest has been shown in the formation of a western regatta association, and it is expected that Leland-Stanford, Minnesota, Michigan and Chicago will soon apply for membership.

Plans for a meeting of the association members was being discussed here yesterday, and it is almost certain that a get-together will be held in Seattle next summer.

Such questions of inter-college rowing joint training quarters for the western crews at Poughkeepsie, freshman races, competition in Olympics, etc., will be discussed, according to Mr. Jones.

SECOND ROUND OF MEET COMMENCES

Racket Swingers In Close Matches As Play Advances

The second round of the summer session tennis tournament has begun. All second round matches will have been played by Monday morning, and the tournament winners can just about be determined by that time.

Up to this time all the favorites have through in easy fashion, and although some stiff competition will result in the second round, the best play will be seen in the round before the semi-finals.

Three second round matches resulted yesterday. F. D. Morton won from D. Cannon, 6-4, 6-2; G. J. Miller won easily from O. Wernecke, 6-1, 6-0, and J. C. Liu took a thriller from Adam Sah, 6-4, 11-9. This last match was a hot one from the start; Liu winning only through his superior stamina—both men being pretty closely matched.

Two of the three girl entrants were eliminated in the closing of the first round yesterday. Holmes defeated Miss Peacock, 6-2, 6-1, while D. Cannon received a forfeit at the hands of Miss Miller.

The summer session tournament starts today. Rules for tournament play have been posted on the bulletin board in the gymnasium, and all contestants are especially urged to call their opponents and play as soon as possible.

Didn't Exercise, Diploma Is Denied Honor Student

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—J. Ward Ruckman, magnamcum laude, formerly literary editor of Ski-U-Mah and editor-in-chief of The Gopher at the University of Minnesota, has 362 honor credits but it doesn't mean anything.

Although he only needs 180 credits to graduate, the board of regents refused to allow him a diploma because he didn't take the gym exercises at the university. Ruckman averred he was advised by his family physician, Ralph S. John Perry, that such exercises would irritate his bronchial trouble.

At a special meeting of the board in Rochester yesterday, Ruckman was advised he would have to take six weeks of gym exercises this summer before his diploma could be issued. Gov. J. A. O. Preus recommended that a canoe trip in the north woods be substituted but the regents were firm.

Ruckman said he would rather go to some other university for a year than take his punishment. He has a month to think it over.

MISS PARKHURST GIVES LAST TALK

Says Greatest Difficulty Is With Children Misunder- standing Graphs

The "Difficulties of Organization" was the subject discussed by Miss Helen Parkhurst yesterday at her fifth lecture on "The Dalton Plan" in Music Hall.

"The greatest difficulty arises because the child does not understand the graphs and is not taught definitely how to organize his time," said Miss Parkhurst.

According to the Dalton Plan the first period in the morning is devoted to organization. At this time the child goes over his assignments with his advisor and is taught how to get the required number of units of work done to the best advantage. Following this period is a two to three laboratory period.

"The laboratory period is not a supervised study period," declared Miss Parkhurst. "It is a period when the child is allowed to work out his assignments according to his plan of organization. The children are allowed to go from one laboratory to another as they please. In this way it has been found that greater interest is maintained, for as soon as the interest in one subject begins to wane the child will take up something new."

There are no failures in the Dalton Plan. If there are nine school months in the year there would then be nine assignments. If, however, the child completes the nine assignments in seven months he is through that grade and continues on to the next year's work. If he does not complete the work in a year he takes it up at the point where he left off the following term. Grades are preserved only for grading the curriculum. Each job or assignment is graded as it is finished and the job book is also the report card.

Since the first actual application of the Dalton Plan in Pittsfield, Massachusetts in 1918 most of the European countries and the Orient, especially Japan and China have shown a great interest in its principles and application, according to Miss Parkhurst in her last lecture on the "Dalton Plan," this afternoon in Music Hall.

In the United States there are between three and four hundred schools using the plan. The greater number of these are in the eastern states.

Miss Parkhurst will leave for Boulder, Colorado tomorrow where she will give several courses in education at the second term of the summer school session at the University of Colorado.

Consider Site for New City Water Reservoir

A joint meeting of the special water works committee and the board of water commissioners has been called for Friday night to consider options on three possible sites for a high service reservoir. A survey of these properties has brought to light a fourth site which is nearer the city and is of sufficient height for the reservoir. The site may also be considered.

The Campfire Girls' club will have the Service Shop, 113 East Doty street, all day Saturday with a large variety of stock.

LIBRARY DISPLAYS BRITISH POSTERS

Come From Empire Exposition At Wembley Unusual In Color, Design

BY REVIEWER

Displayed on the third floor of the State Historical library is a series of posters concerning the British Empire Exposition at Wembley, England. Unusual in design and color, these posters graphically portray the various features of this remarkable exposition.

"The British Empire Exposition surpasses all previous expositions in size, scope, and grandeur," says the Literary Digest. It represents an outlay of $200,000,000 and has its sources in every colony, province and dominion, of the British Empire. Each of these has gone to a great expense to make its building as complete as possible.

Looking at the exposition from an economic standpoint one sees that Great Britain is rapidly, if not completely, recovering from the effects of the war.

"The finest and most attractive posters which we get come from London," said Charles E. Brown, curator of the State Historical museum. "We have been getting them in quarterly periods since 1915. We find that the public is interested in these posters because of their subject matter and their method of presenting it."

"All are carefully filed and preserved. Often they are sent around the state to various schools and exhibits. The posters on the London underground railway were perhaps the ones which carried the most interest."

They portray nearly every phase of London life and are always issued in series. Some of these series have been based upon the country side of London, London parks, shops, gardens, flowers, and the many types of characters which are common to London life but which are not found in America.

THE BIG EVENT

The one big event of the summer session which can be termed as extra-curricular is the Union board Water Carnival scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

Feeling that the summer session students are not in a position to enter into such activities as the Water Carnival in the way the students in the regular session are, members of the Union board and Cardinal staff met together and decided upon staging this carnival, purely for the entertainment and recreation of the students.

No financial matters are connected with the carnival. With their usual spirits and interest in the affairs of the university, Madison merchants have given prizes liberally from their stocks. A group of prizes has been collected by the committee which should make competition in the various events exceedingly keen.

As has been said in the news column, a swimming suit is the only requisite for entrance in the meet. And even a swimming suit is not necessary in the canoe and sail boat events. Although there will be some good swimmers and canoeists in the races, those who do not feel that they can compete with the others should not fail to enter the carnival for this reason. The races have been planned so that there will be several classes in each event.

Every one who is at all interested should enter. They'll have a lot of fun, in the first place—and that is the most important feature of the carnival, and they'll get some experience and possibly a prize in the second place. But the prize is a minor detail.

All in all, it should be a big afternoon,—big not only from the view point of the participants but also from that of the spectators. And those who are in charge of the affair hope that the banks will be jammed with onlookers just as the water will be with competitors. There are going to be enough comedy stunts and features to make the scene look like a Harold Lloyd seven reeler.

And there will be some fast racing, too, and some beautiful diving.

Although The Cardinal has stepped out from under, as it were, and given the Union board free reign in the matter of the carnival, it hopes that you either see or take part in the affair and that you'll have a mighty good time. The Cardinal looks upon the water carnival in the role of a parent, for the germ of the idea came from the staff.

Have a good time.

KEEPING UP OUR TENNIS

The report comes that the tennis courts are in disreputable shape. The Varsity courts on Breeze Terrace are full of holes as are many of the other courts along University avenue.

Since tennis ranks with swimming as being a summer sport and past-time, it would seem imperative to keep up the facilities which make it possible for summer students to take part in it.

The Athletic department is not entirely at fault, although it would appear on the surface that there is where the blame should be placed. For years the courts have been in bad shape off and on. Those who have them in charge excuse themselves with the fact that there is not sufficient money on hand to keep them up. But what about the thousands that are taken in every year from gate receipts. There should be sufficient money and part of it should be spent undeniably in keeping the courts in condition.

But part of the blame lies elsewhere; it lies on the students, and they should change their tactics if they wish to play tennis during the summer.

Clay courts, such as most of ours are, are affected by rain rather severely. Students should refrain from using them immediately after heavy rains. But instead of doing that, they think only of the games which they have on hand at the particular time and are too near-sighted to look ahead at the effect which playing on wet courts will have. As a consequence, the courts are chuck full of holes.

If we are to have good tennis—or any kind of tennis at all—we must keep off the courts after they have been soaked with rain.

YOU THIEF

"Say, Jack, did you save that topic you wrote last semester for Fish's 'Representative Americans'?" was a question put to his roommate by one of the boys a few days ago.

"No I have lent mine to Harry to use this summer," Jack replied, "but I know a girl living at the A. T. O. house who has one, and I am sure she would give it to you. She got an 'A' on it too."

"Well," was the happy rejoinder, "that will save me a lot of worry. I could see myself before I would waste any time this weather on a topic."

Every student in the university has either asked for such a favor, or been asked the favor, or overheard many times just such a conversation.

It is a common talk on the campus.

Some persons would make such disgusted remarks as "inbred dishonesty," or "as the twig is bent," or "college education, bahl nothing but a college course in thievery, with a major in plagiarism." And good reason for such conclusions too.

The only crime in regard to such cheating lies in getting caught, according to the student—and that is almost impossible. The last sensation that one would feel if a fellow student knew that he was copying a topic or theme is shame. They boast about such things, and very few of those that will not practice them will openly condemn them.

College psychology,—indifferent to nothing except education and training.

It is an old joke of the man who remarked that was majoring in girls, minoring in booze, and spending too much time according to him, on his outside activity—L. and S.

The trouble with such things is that they cast over everybody who indulges in them a common veneer of mediocrity. It is in most cases imitation. It is not an expression of the true self. Personality is drowned, and the remains take the form of copper plated lead, silver and gold however the individual is at bottom.

A college is not, and will never be a reformatory. It is supposed among other things to be a gathering place of different individuals who will express themselves according to their own ways of thinking.

The trouble does not lie in the fact that dishonest people come to college—that is inevitable. Nor does it lie in the fact that they gather around them satellites, and tools, weaklings that is also inevitable. The trouble is that they, at any rate at Wisconsin, have so permeated and saturated the atmosphere with their influence that their acts have become conventionalized, and are within the pale of every law except the laws as set down by the disciplinary committee.

If you are dishonest, so be it. We have nothing to say. If you are honest, you are fortunate. But if you are honest and try to give the impression of dishonesty and moral laxity, you are a hypocrite, and are false to yourself, and to those around you.

Be yourself!

BRITISH GLOBE FLIER SAFE, SAYS WIRELESS

TOKIO—The foreign community and Japanese authorities, especially of the air service, took a deep breath of relief today when news filtered down by wireless from the Kurile Islands that the McLaren party of round-the-world fliers was safe.

The party headed by A. Stuart McLaren, hopped off from Lake Toshimoye, on Yotorofu Island for Pramashiru Island last Wednesday. Until a Japanese destroyer, combating the rugged coasts of the Kuriles today, picked up a wireless report from a commercial steamer that the party had landed on Uropho Island, near the starting point of their hop, no word had been received from them. Two Japanese destroyers spent almost two days searching for them.

Charles Assofsky, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. David Assofsky of Milwaukee, and former resident of Sun Prairie topped off in Sun Prairie last Thursday for a few hours visit. He has just returned from Harvard university where he graduated from the law school this year. After a short vacation in Milwaukee he will return east and will locate in New York.

FIRST LINE

Am feeling fine and hope you are the same.

WAS WALKING up Langdon Street this morning and met some co-eds. One of them saw a price tag hanging on our coat which we had neglected to remove. Said she "Oh, look at the farmer, he's forgotten to take the take off his new suit."

"Your mistaken we answered, that's our telephone number."

WE ARE expecting a telephone call any minute now.

HEARD YESTERDAY

Snell—"I admire the beautiful dresses the co-eds are wearing this summer."

Stod—"I'm a research student, myself."

ONE GOOD reason for joining the Ku Klux Klan this summer would be for comfort's sake. You would not need to wear any underwear underneath the hood and gown. We envy those boys during this hot season.

WHEN WILL we get our directories. That is the question. They will be distributed too late for some of us to locate certain co-eds who have struck our fancy. They're all gobbled up now, and a directory will do us as much good as a drink of necto. The registrar is a wise bird after all.

FLOP

Ham—"What are you doing walking around at this time of night?"

Cram—"I'm just taking the air."

Ham—"Doctor's orders?"

Cram—"No; girl I just proposed to."

CHEER UP FELLOW STUDENTS, THERE'S SOMETHING IN THIS WORLD BESIDES MONEY—IT'S THE POORHOUSE.

CORRECT

German Instructor—What does the word Heben (love) mean in English, Mr. Page.

Slowly she walked up the hill. The eastern sun shown bright, I approached from the west, Oh, what beautiful weather.

Wonder what frat he was serenading.

MINSTRELS SILENCE WITH SILVER NOTES. They also destroyed sleep during the massacre.

THOSE VOICES

They creep into my room at night; These voices without number. They penetrate my window sill, And disturb me in my slumber.

And some are high and some are low,

And some are filled with glee, And now and then I seem to know, These voices which are cast to me.

Last eve within my Cooper's clad, I lay awake most all the night, And listened to these voices gay and glad, That did not cease 'till morn was bright.

And now and then these maidens dear, Will speak of things with loud rejoices, And broadcast forth in accents clear, A symphony of Gath Inn voices.

DID YOU HEAR of the man who was so dumb that he thought an elevator was an elevated train.

A SONG which would fit the occasion these days would be, "There Will Be a Hot Time in The Old Town Tonight."

HURRAY

The Circus will be back with us next week. Many students are wondering what the clown will spring this time.

THE DRIVE is glorious wrote a co-ed to her mother. The mother wrote back saying, "I am glad you are enjoying the fresh air, but why did you get a room so far out in the country that you have to drive in."

KEPT IN TRIM

He—"I trained for initiation all summer long."

Haw—"What did you do?"

He—"I paddled a girl in a canoe every evening."

AS YET, we have not been invited up on Grady's front porch, but still, there is three weeks of school left.

THE LAST LINE

Considering the circumstances, over which I have had no control, I think it best for both parties concerned, that we drop the subject altogether.

Foreign Students To Present Native Religions Friday

If you want to know why certain people worship idols; why others worship the sun, moon, wind, or even the humblest of animals; come to the International Club meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Concert room, Lathrop Hall.

Perhaps an idol or two can be seen on the stage but I am afraid you have to use your imagination instead. My foreign friends told me that true images are invisible, not even through the most powerful microscope. They are so minute that they are everywhere.

Religion is such a complicated thing. The International club is giving us an opportunity to at least know some of the so-called "Teathen eReligions." The followers of the different religions will explain the principles of their respective cults.

SEN. WHEELER TO TAKE NOMINATION?

Montana Solon May Run With La Follette For Vice President

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A formal agreement to tender to Sen. Wheeler of Montana second place on the La Follette ticket was reached during the day by leaders of the National Committee supporting the La Follette candidacy who gathered in Washington.

WASHINGTON—Determined efforts were made today by some of the followers of Sen. La Follette to induce Sen. Wheeler, Dem. of Mont., to reconsider his refusal to run for vice president on the La Follette independent ticket. Some of those who were in touch with Mr. Wheeler appeared confident late today that he would consent to become Sen. La Follette's running mate, despite his previous unqualified announcement that he would refuse. The Montana Senator himself refused to make any public statement on the subject. He already has announced he would support Mr. La Follette.

Determination of the La Follette organization to make a strong bid for votes in the south was shown in the announcement by Rep. John M. Nelson that campaign headquarters should be opened in New Orleans.

Subordinate to the main offices in Chicago, headquarters probably will be opened in New York and San Francisco. La Guardia, Rep., N. Y., has been asked to make preliminary arrangements for the eastern office while the work on the Pacific coast probably will be that some obstacles were being encountered.

The most serious situation, he said was in West Virginia, where it was admitted, difficulty was being met in complying with the election law. The task of placing La Follette electors on ballots in all states has been left in the hands of Donald Richberg, a Chicago attorney.

Today's meeting was an outgrowth of the convention two weeks ago in Cleveland of the Conference for Progressive Political Action, which, after endorsing Sen. La Follette left the selection of his running mate to the national committee, made up for the most part of representatives of labor and farm organizations.

Members of the committee went into conference today with a dozen or more names advanced by committee members before them. Sen. La Follette, who has indicated he would leave the selection to the committee, was understood to look with favor on any one of a half dozen.

Before announcing a decision, the committee, presided over by W. H. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machin-

RULING BARS LA FOLLETTE FROM W. VIRGINIA BALLOT

WHEELING, W. VA. — West Virginians will not be able to vote for Senator La Follette for president in the November election, according to an opinion Thursday from the attorney general's office, which holds that Mr. La Follette has not complied with the West Virginia law which requires that certificates of nomination be filed within 20 days after the primary election.

The time limit for such certificates expired June 27 and there is no way for Mr. La Follette to get his name on the ballots in this state, according to the ruling.

The opinion is expressed that Mr. La Follette will be barred from the campaign in a number of states for similar reasons.

ists, intended to narrow down the field, then ascertain Mr. La Follette's preference, and finally determine whether the person selected would accept.

WEATHER

Highest temperature yesterday was 68 at 4 p. m. and the lowest last night was 49 at 5 a. m. The sun sets at 7:23.

Nearly the lowest temperature ever recorded at this season accompanied an area of high barometer and clear skies in the lake region and the upper Mississippi valley. Showers are falling over a wide area on the plains and in the Gulf states. More than an inch of rain fell at Dodge City, Kans. The temperature is rising along the northwestern border and on the Pacific slope. Clearing and cooler weather follow rain on the Atlantic coast.

"BENNY" REPEATS TALK ON SNOW WEDNESDAY

Because so many people were turned away Wednesday afternoon from Prof. Benjamin Snow's popular lecture on "Snowflakes," it has been decided to repeat the talk next week at 3:30 o'clock on Wednesday. It was impossible to accommodate more than 100 persons because so many students and townspeople wanted to hear this lecture.

The Friendship Bible class of Pilgrim's church will hold their annual picnic Saturday afternoon, July 19, at Tenney park. All members of the church congregation are invited to attend.

Booze-Peddlers, High-lifers In Week's Shows

BY HAL

Next week will bring mostly "heavy" plays to Madison theaters, which as a whole came to us with good recommendations.

The Strand will open the week with "Those Who Dance," a melodrama concerning boot-leggers and high life that is out of the ordinary. The cast is good, and contains Blanche Sweet, Bessie Love, and Warner Baxter. It was being shown in Seattle three weeks ago when I was there, and drew heavy crowds. The latter half of the week will be featured by the return of Elaine Hammerstein to Madison in "Drums of Jeopardy," another melodrama, which finds its plot based on the ownership of a pair of wonderful emeralds. Jack Mulhall, David Torrence and Tully Marshall are members of the supporting cast.

"Bluff," a word that we know so well, will be the title of the picture that will open the week at the Parkway. Agnes Ayres and Antonio Woreno are the eaders in this movie of society life. Then "The Man that Life Passed By" will be shown, and is another picture that will feature a good cast. Eva and Jane Novak, Percy Marmont, Cullen Landis, and Hobart Bosworth are the headliners.

Wesley "Freckles" Barry will hold the screen for the entire week at the Madison in "George Washington Jr." Wesley plays the part of a young mna who never tells a lie. Pre-reviews says that it is a photoplay worth seeing.

Even the Majestic is hitting a fine pace, and the pictures that have been so far scheduled are good. Sunday and Monday will feature E. K. Lincoln, Helen Ferguson, Tom Santschi, and June Elvidge in a melodrama of the Blue Ridge mountains called "The Right of the Strongest." Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday will bring "Untamed Youth" to that hteater, and it will be a melodrama of a small town with Derelys Perdue and Lloyd Hughes.

Another week of comedy will be in style at the Orpheum for the Dorothy LaVern Players will present "So This is London."

How'd you like the new leading lady at the Orph? Or didn't you happen to see the show this week? She's pretty good, seems to us. Dorothy herself has improved a whole lot this year and you've got to hand it to her.

"To the Ladies" is a good play, too. Sometimes the Orph company doesn't pick such good plays.

Take "The Man Who Comes Back," for instance. Well, it's popular and appeals to a fair part of the audience so we suppose that it is not strange that the Stock company should feel bound to put it on. But it's not nearly as good a piece as "To The Ladies."

See Clemence Dane has a new book out, called "Wondering Stars." What's that got to do with the theaters, you ask. Well, a whole lot. Because it was she that wrote one of the best plays that has been on the boards in ages, "A Bill of Divorcement."

It went great guns in London, but when the American producers transferred it to our shores it almost fell flat. That's how America treats a real play. She's the author of "Will Shakespeare," too, and that's a delightful little play. Besides, "Wondering Stars" is about an actress. We wouldn't be surprised if it were dramatized shortly, if it isn't already.

Have you read Thomas Hardy's play epic "The Dynasts." We haven't, but we're going to this summer. It's about Napoleonic times, you know, and there are some hundred odd scenes, or something like that, in it.

Do you know that "The Woman on the Jury" which has been showing at the Strand is taken from a play which was written by a Wisconsin graduate? It is, and it's one of the best plays on Broadway now. It makes a good movie too.

Mrs. Katherine Swint Fox with her daughter, Betty, of San Francisco, is visiting her sister, Mrs. S. A. Brant, Stratford apartments. Mrs. Fox was at one time society editor at the Wisconsin State Journal.

"The Miracle" To Be Made Into A Picture

"THE MIRACLE"

"The Miracle," perhaps the greatest stage spectacle that New York has ever seen, will be made into a motion picture if the plans of movie magnets are successful. Raoul Walsh, who directed Douglas Fairbanks in "The Thief of Bagdad," is negotiating with Morris Gest for the movie rights. Mr. Walsh intends to star Lady Diana Manners in the production.

A Guide to The Week's Shows

"FLOODGATES"

At the Strand.

A melodrama of the old school. In spite of a slight flavor of ham, it has a plot with remarkably few inconsistencies and with two or three genuine thrills. Together with two crazy comedies it serves to pass two pleasurable if not profitable hours.

"FOOL'S AWAKENING"

At the Parkway

A splendid cast, aided by some fine photography, works overtime in vain to make a good movie out of the germ—but oly the germ—of a good idea.

"THE STORM DAUGHTER"

At the Madison

Priscilla Dean and Tom Santschi in a melodrama of the high seas that will be interesting despite the hot weather. A good slap-stick comedy adds to the quaity of the show.

"TUCKER'S TOP HAND"

At the Majestic

Another typica Westerner, with all known emoluments. Bring the kiddies, and stay away yourself.

Japan Appreciates Hospitality Of American Nation, Speaker Declares

Twilight. Thousands of little red lanterns from under which the forms of as many children peeked; tree after tree of magnificent pink-white cherry blossoms in the prime of their bloom flying Japanese and American flags; crowds upon crowds of men, women, and children, lining the streets, their motley native dress blending artistically with the background; cheer after cheer of "welcome" as one throng after another was passed; flags everywhere; photographers on every hand; dignitaries, official educators, and others supplying every want and providing every luxury the country could afford; entertainments; eulogies; tea twelve or fifteen times a day; laden with hundreds of exquisite gifts; a glorious dream in a magnificent fairy land—such was the reception of Miss Helen Parkhurst, recently returned educational advisor to Japan upon her arrival there, who spoke last evening in Music hall.

Miss Parkhurst found herself and her traveling companion becoming very good Japanese before their departure. They lived as the Japanese did, ate their food, slept in their beds, and tried to think their thoughts. Every courtesy was afforded them; "Courtesy is the very ofundation of their life," Miss Parkhurst stated.

"The people are very stoic and not given to demonstrations. Children are taught to inhibit their emotional expression. A lecture is not considered a good one unless it lasts at least three or four hours. A tremendous interest in education prevails, about ninety-nine percent of the children attending school. Because of their sensitiveness they are indirect in their speech and methods for fear of injuring one's feelings. They imitate western civilization in all its modern achievements and are combining what they have gained with their learning and culture.

BLAINE CHECHED CAPITOL PROBING

—HIRST
Administration Blocked Severson Move Candidate Says In Speech

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis.—The present state administration has been one of "apologies and blaming someone else for its failures," A. R. Hirst, Republican candidate for governor, charged in a campaign address here last night. He spoke on the functions of government and taxation.

"Government is simply a group of people, a community doing things and rendering service for the benefit of the whole," Mr. Hirst stated. "Some of the outstanding things on which we must focus our attention are these: How much funds shall be raised? How shall they be raised, and how shall we secure their efficient expenditure?"

"Taxes are a common fund raised by the community to be expended for the good of the community. In the last four years, the present executive has been in charge of raising and expending the common fund. When he ran for governor in 1920, he made promises. When he ran again in 1922, he made apologies and blamed the conservatives for defeating his alleged program, and again he made more promises. He is now making more apologies and blaming the progressives for defeating his alleged program and also making more promises.

"He has reason to apologize. In his last term of office, the last two years, the expenditures increased $8,500,000 and the receipts increased $13,000,000 over his first term.

"The whole spirit under the Teapot Dome at the state capitol is that of politics, politics and more politics. During the last legislature when Senator Severson introduced resolutions to investigate conditions at the capitol, the administration, which is bold enough to commend the Teapot Dome investigation at Washington, immediately put forth every effort to defeat the investigation, and succeeded in doing so."

Mr. Hirst charges the governor with an attempt to "wreck the state tax commission by turning it into his subservient tool," and similar action with the civil service commission.

MISS RICE PRAISES JAPANESE ATTITUDE

"The general attitude of the Japanese is not anti-American in regard to the exclusion act. They appreciate all that we have done for them since the earthquake," said Miss Carol M. Rice of the physical education department recently returned from a trip around the world.

Miss Rice sailed from New York on the "Samaria" Jan. 25 and returned June 5. Crossing the Atlantic the cruise continued through the Mediterranean sea, Suez Canal, Red sea, Indian ocean, South China sea, Pacific ocean, Panama canal to the Atlantic.

"A comparison of Japan and China in regard to their acceptance of western civilization revealed some interesting things," Miss Rice asserts. "In Japan all western enterprises are owned and operated by Japanese, in China by Americans and English. In China, however, European dress seems to be more popular than in Japan."
