Yale Frosh Use Violence in Waging Dining Hall War

Perhaps because they preferred their "toasteds" at Longley's to the menu at the "commons", Yale frosh Tuesday abandoned their letter-writing campaign against compulsory eating at the "commons" and just to show how mad they were started hurling bread and dishes around the dining hall. Five hundred of them aided the bread throwers and dish smashers with yells. No action against the demonstration has been taken by authorities at the "commons."

THE YELL CONTEST

The new yells are in the hands of the judging committee and the results of the contest will be announced within a few days. Many suitable yells have been submitted and each one is receiving careful consideration.

MASTERPIECES OF PROSE FOUND IN HARESFOOT OCTY

The Haresfoot number of the Octopus will appear on the hill for sale in the various buildings Wednesday, February 21. This issue is full of humor direct from the stage. It is a larger and better book in every way, in fact, it comes near to being a masterpiece of art and prose.

"Twenty Minutes Behind the Screens" and "How I Learned to Dress Like a Girl" are several of the interesting sketches.

"We have put every possible effort into making the wit and art of this issue better than in previous ones," said Hubert Townsend, editor. "A new field of humor is covered this time, therefore it should be of added interest."

The Haresfoot club will take the issue to sell on its spring tour when the club will present "Kikmi."

MANY ATTEND AG EXERCISES

Purdue President Speaks to the Short Course Grads

More than 400 people attended the commencement exercises held by the Short course in Agriculture class of '23 in Agricultural hall yesterday forenoon.

The class assembled in the upper halls and marched in procession to their places in the auditorium. President E. A. Birge and Dean H. L. Russell lead the procession.

The principal address of the exercise was given by Dr. E. C. Elliot, President of Purdue university. President Elliot was formerly a member of the University of Wisconsin faculty and referred to his pleasant memories of Wisconsin more than once in the course of his address.

Agriculture Changing
"Agriculture is going through a tremendous revolution before our eyes and in our day," Dr. Elliot stated. "The results of this revolution are going to produce as far reaching changes as the great industrial revolution."

The speaker stated the problems of modern agriculture largely must be solved by constructive legislation. Much legislation is enacted that is unscientific. Agricultural blocs are used to force legislation through.

Birge Presents Diplomas

"We need a non political, agricultural commission that will make a scientific study of agriculture as a human institution," President Elliot declared. "No bloc ever solved an agricultural problem."

President E. A. Birge presented the diplomas to the members of the graduating class. Dr. Birge urged the students to create a greater demand for the knowledge of the best methods of agricultural practice in their communities so that more people would adopt the most approved methods.

W. A. A. BRIDGE PARTY HONORS ST. PAT TODAY

A St. Patrick bridge party will be given this afternoon in Lathrop parlors from 2:30 to 5:30 by W. A. A. "If you are not interested in bridge come just the same and play solitaire, rum, five hundred or anything you like in the S. G. A. room which is going to be reserved for just this purpose," said Rosamond Nolte '24, chairman of the committee in charge of the party.

The profits of the party will go toward a fund for erecting a W. A. A. cottage on Lake Mendota.

Refreshments will be served and two prizes will be offered. The decorations will carry out the color scheme of green and white.

Tickets for the party can be bought from almost all the members of the organization for 50 cents and will be sold at the door.

The committee in charge of the party is Rosamond Nolte '24, chairman, Gretchen Keoncke '24, Margaret Henry '25, Dorothy Simpson '24, Janice Boardman '24, Ruth Fuller '23 and Ellen Knight '24.

Detroit Alumni Wire for Game

The Cardinal received a telegram yesterday from E. W. Sanders, secretary of the University of Wisconsin Alumni club of Detroit stating that the club wished to contribute votes for a post-season game with Iowa. The message read: "Am signing for 175 members; their names upon request."

WOMEN CONFER ON VOCATIONS

Helen Bennett is Here From Chicago For Conferences

"Work is the one adventurous road we can travel in life. Work is the one chance we have in the world for self-expression," according to the definition given by Miss Helen M. Bennett, manager of the collegiate bureau of vocational occupations at Chicago, in her explanation of "What Employers Expect of College Trained Women." This address was the climax of the ninth annual Women's Vocational conference.

Miss Bennett lauded the pioneer work of the women of Wisconsin in the origin of the movement for vocational conferences now adopted all over the country. Back in 1911, Wisconsin appointed its first vocational committee to arrange for special speakers and to take charge of setting aside one week-end in the early spring to interest the women of the university in considering more definitely and seriously their future work.

Second Conference

Outside of a small conference at Smith college, this was the very first vocational conference plan to be made in any college in the United States. At present all the leading colleges and universities have followed Wisconsin's leadership.

"The college trained woman should be the best worker in the world, for she has a background of mental training, enabling her quickly to adapt herself to a position and to rapidly develop the required technique. Work for her is not dull and dry, but filled with thrills and excitement for she has the conviction that she is doing a thing that calls for every atom of her vigor, mental and physical."

"The employer expects above all things that the college girl will come to him with a trained mind. First she must possess the ability to grow on the job, to grow to the size where she fits the job, and then to grow beyond the confines of the job to bigger opportunities. Second, she must display intellectual curiosity that distinguishes her as a person of power."

Require Accuracy

The quality of mental accuracy, an accurate way of thinking a subject through with precision, is the third requirement. The final expectation of a college trained woman is intelligent co-operation, the tact to work harmoniously and in the proper spirit with all people with whom she may be thrown in contact."

Personal conferences of 15 minutes each will be held in the S. G. A. room, Lathrop, for junior and senior women, from 9 to 12:15 and 2 to 5 o'clock today.

Swiss Professor Discusses

Subject of Gland Secretion

Dr. Leon Asher, professor of physiology at the University of Bern, Switzerland, lectured Thursday night in Science hall on the subject of "Glands and Internal Secretions."

The thyroid gland has a direct influence on the state of health of the individual and is in close connection with the nervous system," Dr. Asher said.

Dr. Asher spoke again last night on "Autohormones." He is visiting the colleges and universities of this country on a lecture tour.

JENSEN TALKS ON LANDSCAPES

Chicago Artist Shows Slides of Great Plains of America

"The beauty of the little things in God's great out-of-doors will sink deep into the souls of Americans of tomorrow," said Jens Jensen, Chicago landscape artist, in his talk on "Art Out of Doors" yesterday afternoon in 165 Bascom hall.

"The dramatic, the impressive, and the stupendous in nature, as expressed in huge cliffs and mountains," he went on, "are usually apparent to the ordinary observer, but the wonderful refinement and great inspiration of the little things are seen only by the trained eye."

The artist dwelt for some time on the significance of the great plains of America, pointing out the breadth, freedom, and vision which characterize such landscapes.

"The birth and death of the day, as expressed in the rising and setting of the sun, always with the hope of another day, show mother nature at her greatest and best," said Mr. Jensen in closing.

POSTERS WILL DEPICT SPIRIT OF JAMBOREE

Art workers and designers will have an opportunity to use their talents in the poster contest announced by the committee for the Varsity Jamboree to be given April 14. A prize of $5 has been offered for the best poster submitted in accordance with the rules.

The awards will be based on the originality and the best expression of the spirit of the jamboree. The annual affair is the nearest approach to the Mardi Gras festival in New Orleans that the university has and every effort is put forth to make it an all-university playtime.

The posters must tell this story in pictures to present the idea of the carnival and masque ball.

Margaret Callsen '24 is art director for the jamboree and she will be assisted by Peggy Moehlenpach '25. They will decide on a committee of judges some time later.

All posters must be submitted to the department of industrial education and applied arts in the Chemical Engineering building on or before March 27. Any university student is eligible to compete. The winning poster will be exhibited in State street windows for one week before the jamboree.

Team Defends Right of Labor

Up to a late hour last night The Cardinal was unable to get word from Ann Arbor in regard to the outcome of the Michigan-Wisconsin debate.

By HAMPTON K. SNELL

Wisconsin's affirmative team easily defeated the negative team of Illinois in the first intercollegiate debate of the year in Music hall last night. The debate was particularly marked by the exceptional rebuttal work of Wisconsin's team, and by the evasive replies and statements made by the Illinois representatives.

The question was: "Resolved, that whatever statutory or constitutional changes are necessary to render impossible the use of injunctions in labor disputes in the United States, should be immediately made."

The winning affirmative team was composed of Wilber Katz '24, first speaker, George J. Fiedler '25, second speaker and George McKinnis '23, closer. The unsuccessful Illinois squad was composed of K. E. Oberholzer, G. S. McGaughey and R. R. Herzog, closer. Herzog's work was the outstanding feature of Illinois' debate.

Rarig is Judge

The decision was presented by Prof. F. M. Rarig, of the University of Minnesota. No discussion of points was made by the judge, although such a plan was originally proposed.

The affirmative's attack consisted of three main points: that the injunction imperils the rights of labor; that the injunction has generally been unsuccessful; that the injunction accomplishes nothing that can not be obtained through other legal and less dangerous channels. Under the first point the speaker showed that most of the legal forms under which labor obtains its rights are threatened by injunctions and that because of the extensive use of such a power, labor has become distrustful of American courts, and feels that they generally favor the employer.

Injunction Fails

The second speaker declared that the injunction exists only to protect property, and it has generally failed. The recent rail strike, the strike in 1894 and the Kansas City street car strike were cited as main examples. The third point covered the fact that injunction fails to provide any more force than any other legal process, and that contempt of court is the only threat held by the injunction.

Since the power is oppressive and undesirable, and better and more satisfactory measures can be used, there is no reason for the existence of such a power.

Students Reinstated on Opium Gum Theft Charges

Investigation into the disappearance of a quantity of opium gum used in Marquette dental school laboratories ended early this week when Dr. H. L. Banzhaf, dean of the school and business manager of the university, issued a statement reinstating the 80 students suspended since Monday.

WEATHER: CLOUDY

Increased cloudiness has been predicted for today, probably followed by snow tonight or tomorrow. It will be somewhat warmer today but colder tomorrow. The maximum temperature yesterday was 19.4 at 3 in the afternoon and the minimum was 5 at 8 in the morning.

NEW BUILDING AND LAND PROGRAM IS EXTENSIVE

To Develop the Lower Campus

A big land and building program to be carried out in the future at the university was outlined yesterday at an executive meeting of the joint committee on finance when the university requests for appropriations for land and buildings was heard.

The purchase of the present university Y. M. C. A. buildings, the closing of Langdon street from the gym to Park street, the ultimate purchase of the property between the lower campus and Lake street, and the building of a new gymnasium in another part of the university section was the plan outlined by President Birge and Theodore Kronshage, university regent.

In addition the university wants to buy four parcels of land near the university heating plant to eliminate the necessity of storing coal on Camp Randall.

In view of the possibility of dormitories being erected it is also planned to acquire six parcels of land directly north of the University high school building.

The university authorities are asking for appropriations of $203,000 for land to carry out the ultimate building development plans at the university.

The biggest development program proposed centers about the lower campus. It is proposed to close Langdon street between the gym and Park street. This will make possible an ultimate addition to the state historical society building which will then extend out over Langdon street. Options have already been obtained on the Y. M. C. A. building, and ultimately a new gym will be erected on another location.

The following statement was issued by university authorities to the finance committee:

"The University owns all of the property in the block bounded by Park Street, Langdon Street, Lake Street and Lake Mendota, except the Y. M. C. A. property and the property at the east end of the block.

"A volunteer committee is now at work collecting funds for the construction of a Memorial Union Building which is expected will cost over $1,000,000. Pledges approximating $830,000 have been secured.

A statement issued by university authorities says:

"Bascom Hall houses most of the departments in the college of letters and science which require class rooms rather than laboratories. Some idea of the increasing demand for classroom space in these buildings may be gathered from the fact that in the first semester of 1906-07, 24,000 credits of instructional work were given, while in the first semester of 1915-16, 38,000 credits; and in each semester from 1919-20 to the present time some 50,000 credits are nearly one-quarter of the total credits given in the University. Each fifteen credits represent one student; a credit practically represents the presence of a student one hour per week for a semester, and is the unit of measuring classroom work given. This shows that the teaching load on these buildings has doubled since 1906. The large number of students present in Bascom Hall has necessitated traffic rules in order to accommodate the passage of students through the narrow halls.

"The latest addition to Bascom Hall was made in 1906. By 1913 the students had greatly increased and the building was so crowded that plans for a large addition were presented to the legislature. They included an extension of the center to the west 150 feet by 63, and a wing in the rear of this extending to the south and connecting with the present south wing. These plans were approved by the legislature of 1913 and money was voted for the addition; but none of it was expended and the appropriation was repealed by the legislature of 1915. The regents now repeat the request which was made in 1913 and present the same plans that were before the legislature of that year.

The cost of the addition is estimated by the state architect at $477,000.

"The present appropriation of $90,000 for this building will complete the upper stories of that part of the west wing of which the basement and first story are already built. The area of the addition is about 98 feet by 49 feet. This addition will provide only for temporary relief to the building. To the north of this part of the wing should come a fireproof staircase and a laboratory to the north of this. The regents ask for an additional sum which will provide for the full completion of the west wing according to the plan for the building in the complete form. This addition will cost $84,500, with equipment."

LIT WILL SEND COPIES TO CITY

The Wisconsin Literary Magazine which appears on sale March 19 scores another triumph this month when copies of it go by request to a news agency in Chicago.

This student publication seems of late to have been motivated by the Coue principle until this month sees it with the richest of faculty and student contributions and a cover design by Stanislaus Szukalski, the young Polish sculptor and artist.

Prof. William Ellery Leonard,

MORGAN'S
MALTED

poet and dramatist, whose Indian play "Red-Bird" was presented at the Parkway last spring, offers in this issue a group of social satires hitherto unpublished. Prof. F. A. Manchester in a review which he calls "Impressions of Mr. Barrymore," gives a critical evaluation of that actor's interpretation of Hamlet.

"Stanislaus Szukalski is the greatest artists in America," declares the Chicago Literary Times. Thus it is with pride that the Wisconsin Literary Magazine is able to announce, through the courtesy of the Covici-McGee company, a cover design by Mr. Szukalski.

Included in this issue are a review by Frank D. Crane of Sherwood Anderson's latest novel, "Many Marriages," a study of Walter De La Mare by Margaret Emmerling, fiction by Guy Tallmadge and Kenneth Fearing, and verse by Catherine Meyer, Mr. Tallmadge, Carl Rakosi, Irvin Schaffring and Fearing.

DO UNIVERSITY WOMEN VAMP PROFESSORS TO GET GRADES?

"Do they vamp 'em?"

"They do!" declare the university men. The women vamp the professors to get good grades. The pretty co-eds are putting it over the men professors, say the male students. They are vamping them, using tears, smiles, laughter and other feminine wiles to get high academic standing.

"All a good-looking girl needs to do is look twice at her professor, and laugh a couple of times at the right time, and she pulls an ex," declared a senior here, a former all-American tackle. "There are lots of girls in my classes who really don't know much, but they surely come out with ex's."

"Of course they do," chorused several commerce students, when the question was put to them. "Certainly," amended one, "some of them don't or can't, but most of them do."

Cleo Parsely, president of S. G.

A. said that perhaps the women do use vamping methods.

"It's alright if they do," she asserted, "it is sure that that process takes brains and ability, and if the men can't find anything so original and good, that's their hard luck. It is true that a few co-eds have it down to a fine art."

"It is really easier for women to get the good grades," stated the captain of next season's football team, "but it may not be exactly called 'vamping.' I think that possibly it is because a lot of the fellows have the wrong attitude. They don't get acquainted with the professors, and the girls make it a point to do so. It is largely true that the men don't use the 'hand-shaking' policy enough and the girls do."

"The majority of girls get out of a course just what they put into it," declared Belle Knights, president of W. A. A.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

BADGERS ENTER BIG TEN MEET AT PATTEN GYM

Squad Shows Steady Improvement

The Badger track team, groomed into perfect condition by weeks of hard indoor training, will leave Madison this morning for Evanston, Ill., where the men will pit their prowess against stars from nine other conference schools in an uphill fight for first conference honors.

The Wisconsin men have gone through a rather erratic season, taking the count at the hands of Iowa early in the season, and then coming out of the mire to defeat the strong Notre Dame team a week ago.

Steadily increasing their speed and endurance, the runners who at the beginning of the season looked like second-raters at best, have been hitting their top stride during the past few days and should cause other conference teams no end of worry.

Expect Fast Meet

The men who are working in the field events have improved their work during the practice since the Iowa meet and they will account for themselves more creditably.

The Patten gym course will be favored with the cream of mid-west college track men and a fast meet is certain to result. Many men of conference note are booked to perform and a few smashed records may result.

Names such as Hubbard, of Michigan, Crippen of Northwestern, Brookins and Coulter of Iowa, Krogh of Ohio, and Hirt of Minnesota, have become familiar through their work during the past few years and with these men at Evanston working against each other, some high-class competition is bound to result.

Competition Centers on 4

While the Badgers are not booked to take first place, they have a sneaking chance which they will work to the utmost. Michigan looks good for a win by virtue of her perfect record during the indoor season and her strong array of consistent point winners.

The competition will resolve itself into a fight between Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa with their relative chances for a win in about the order they are listed. Dopesters are at a loss to determine the exact strength of any of the teams because of the many upsets in the dual meets.

Wisconsin's hope lies in her middle distance and distance runners, her high jumpers, hurdlers, and a few possible points in other events.

Jumpers Going Strong

Badger runners took first place in every run except the dash against Notre Dame a week ago and they are still working with the same good form which should count even against a much larger field of entries.

Platten and Donohue, Badger jumpers, are both going above the six-foot mark and should score points.

A list of the Wisconsin men who will compete at Evanston follows:

Dash—Spetz, Eagleburger, Ellison, Graham; 440 yard dash—Spetz, Johnson, Hill, Wade; half mile—Valley, Hilberts, Ramsey and Rossmessel; mile run—Schneider, Bergstresser; two mile—Tschudy, Perry, Sherman; hurdles—Newell, Tuhtar, Muzzy; high jump—Platten, Donohue; pole vault—Tomlinson, Hammann; shot-put—Van Ellis.

Name of Chick Harley to Be Inscribed on Trophy

The name of "Chick" Harley, all-American halfback, and the first four-letter man produced at Ohio State university, will be perpetuated in a trophy that the "Boost Ohio committee," of the university, has offered for the annual winner of the high school championship of Columbus. The trophy which will be inscribed with "Chick's" record will be perpetual. Harley is now at the home of his parents recovering from a nervous breakdown following his work with the old Staley football team.

Guy Sundt, Record Holder

of Wis., is Visiting Here

Guy Sundt '21, who is head coach of athletics at Ripon college, arrived at the Kappa Sigma house last Thursday to spend the week-end visiting friends at the university. Sundt was probably one of the best athletes ever graduated from Wisconsin. He was the winner of 9 W's—a record that still stands. Four of the nine were in track, four in football, and one in basketball. He will go back to Ripon to assume his work next Monday, March 20.

GYM TEAM TO MEET AT OHIO

Last Year's Squad Intact, Bids For Conference Honors

Wisconsin's championship-seeking gym team, 11 strong, is in Columbus, Ohio, this morning anxiously awaiting the opportunity which will be offered them this afternoon to pit themselves against gym men of other conference schools for a try at the championship.

The Badger team is well represented in all events and has an even chance with several other teams to come out of the meet at the top of the list.

Have Won Two Meets

The team which took second place in the conference meet last year is virtually intact and with a successful season of training behind them the men should bid strongly for first honors.

Wisconsin has eked out victories in two Conference dual meets in which they have worked this winter and if they work correspondingly well today they should win.

The greatest competition will be between Wisconsin, Minnesota and Chicago, teams which are hoped to show the class of the meet.

Entries In Fencing

Past competition favors the Cardinal in the tumbling and the side-horse events. Captain Kitchen will do the tumbling and Hansen is expected to uphold the side-horse honors. Hansen took second place in his event in the conference meet last year and he has won his event in all meets this year.

Porth is an all-round man who can be counted upon to score points. He works on the rings, the parallel bars and swings the Indian clubs. He took second in the last event last year at the conference meet.

Besides the gym team proper, Wisconsin will enter men in the fencing events. Two men will be entered in the foils event and two will work with the sabers.

MAT MEN WILL ENTER MEET AT OHIO TONIGHT

Wisconsin is represented at the conference wrestling meet at Columbus, Ohio, today by two of the strongest and fastest wrestlers in the Intercollegiate Wrestling association. Coach George Hitchcock, Captain Edward Templin and Robert Holmes left Thursday for Ohio State.

Captain Templin in the light heavyweight division is ranked high for the championship in that class this year. He placed second last year, losing to an Ames man by a narrow margin. Templin has won all five of his matches this year, and has never been forced to exert himself greatly.

Bob Holmes is only a sophomore, but has won three of the four bouts he entered this season. The 135 pounder has had only two years of Hitchcock's coaching, but he has unusual strength.

The coach predicted that Holmes would finish high in the tournament if the schedule did not give him too hard a match the first round. In two more years Holmes should be all that Templin is now.

One of Hitchcock's best bets, Wilbur Heuer, 158 pounder, was unable to make the trip because of injuries received in the Chicago meet. Heuer won four straight matches and would undoubtedly won a fifth but for his injury. Heuer was figured as the best 158 pound wrestler in the conference.

CHICAGO WATER SEXTET TAKES BIG TEN TITLE

Northwestern's 4 to 1 victory over Illinois in the final game of the water basketball sextet Saturday gives the Big Ten championship laurels to the University of Chicago.

The Maroons have not been defeated this season, though they were put to a hard fight when they met the Illinois team and were held to a 2 to 2 tie.

If the results of the Purple-Hini game had been reversed, the Maroons would have met the Illinois team during the conference week at the Midway this week-end to play off the tie.

Among the outstanding players on the Chicago team this season were Capt. Livingston Hall, deep water guard, and Felix Janowsky, deep and shallow water men of great prowess and fight. Mike Greenebaum, though less versatile, has been largely responsible for Chicago's wins, playing in the shallow end of the pool.

Among the regulars are Kennedy Gilchrist, Red Miller, and Johnny Merriam. Of these Miller and Merriam are the only ones who will graduate this year.

Chicago beat Northwestern in the toughest game of the season with a score of 3 to 2, and Wisconsin last Friday night with a score of 10 to 0.

STURGEON BAY—Walter Nelson, Escanaba, is the new executive secretary of the Door county chamber of commerce.

SUPERIOR—Superior High school debaters won the Ladysmith-Chippewa Falls triangle by one point.

BADGERS TAKE THIRD IN SWIM

Bennett Ties Own Record as Three Others Are Smashed

(Special to The Cardinal)

CHICAGO, Ill., March 16—Three Big Ten records went scuttling to when Northwestern university captured the bottom of Davey Jones' locker tured one of the most sensational conference swimming meet ever held in Bartlett pool here tonight. A fourth record was tied by its present holder, Capt. Johnny Bennett of Wisconsin.

Northwestern scored 32 points, Minnesota 30, Wisconsin 16, and Illinois was fourth with 10 points. Northwestern broke the record for the 440 yard, Michigan the 150 back stroke event, Northwestern the relay race, and Wisconsin tied the old record for the 100 yard free style.

Breyer, Northwestern, was high man with 15 points and Bennett, Wisconsin, was second high man with 7 points. Wisconsin was second in the relay, third in 40 yard dash, second in the 200 yard breast stroke, first in 100 yard free style.

Wolverine Track Squad to Meet Western Teams

Announcement was made Saturday at the University of Michigan that the U. of M. track team will meet the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque, March 28, and the University of California at Berkeley, April 7, during the spring vacation trip. Track coach Schulte will select a team of twenty men for the trip.

BASE BALL TEAM PRACTICES FOR SOUTHERN TRIP

Recent Storm Hinders Work

The Varsity base ball squad is working out daily in preparation for the spring training trip through the south during spring vacation. The team is rapidly rounding into such form as their indoor work in the gym annex will permit. The training schedule consists of eight games some of which will push the Badger nine to the best of their ability.

The coach is conducting several practice games a week to give the men as much work as possible. Some outdoor work before the vacation trip would do more for the squad than several weeks of work in the annex. The recent snow has destroyed all possibility of any outside work until after the training trip.

There are about eight pitchers working out for the mound position on this year's team. None of the men can show their best stuff in the gym and will have to get in trim when they can get outside.

The team suffered by the loss of several men by professionalism, among them was George Ruedigger captain elect of this year's team.

The eight men who are working out for the hurling staff are Pickford, Schrenk, Meyland, Cardinal, Mills, Johnson, Hanson, and Radke.

Among the best teams that the squad will meet in the south are University of Mississippi, Mississippi College of Agriculture, Mississippi college, and the University of Alabama.

The coach is not making the trip to win a lot of games. The sole idea is to get his team in condition for the opening of the conference schedule.

THE DEBATE

How many attended the inter-collegiate debates last evening?

The fine art of debating does not seem to be appreciated as much in these days as it deserves to be. The orators of the past received great glory in their day. We hear yet of the magnetism of Calhoun, the powerful oratory of Webster, the fiery logic of Patrick Henry.

And men who are living still have made on public platforms history for ages. There are men who are today prominent as public speakers and orators who first charmed audiences in one of our university buildings.

More than one prominent statesman, lecturer and minister has received his first training in public speaking at the University of Wisconsin. Their logic might not be quite so sure and successive, their syllables might not be so well-rounded and silvery were it not for the instruction and practice gained here.

Whether or not one is training for public work he should be able to talk simply and convincingly before an audience. And he should be able to appreciate a good orator or a clever debater when he hears one.

The interest in debating at Wisconsin should be heightened. It is a part of the curricular and extra-curricular activities that is entirely worth while.

HARESFOOT ON THE JOB

With the cast and chorus announcement of all the girls who are men, yet every one a lady, Haresfoot sets about intensive work on its silver anniversary production, rather dubiously named "Kikmi."

Claiming the services of one of the most accomplished and ingenious coaches of college opera work, building their own scenery for the first time in twenty-five years, and making the show completely an undergraduate production has started Haresfoot off on the right foot that will help it to maintain its place as one of the three leading musical dramatic clubs of the country.

Associating Walton Pyre, dramatic school head now in Madison, Professor J. F. A. Pyre, English professor and dramatic leader in the university, and Herbert Stothart, music writer and orchestra director of Hammerstein's "Wildflower" now playing in New York, as leaders and backers of Haresfoot recalls to one a wealth of tradition behind the organization and the fact that the club has served a good purpose in lending an impetus to the work of these men. It is to be hoped that Haresfoot may continue to give a substantial start to those dramatically and theatrically inclined.

TEACHERS' PAY

Not more than a year ago a hearty campaign was waged to increase the pay of teachers in secondary schools. Some rather startling facts were given about the extremely low wages paid to these teachers.

As a result of the campaign wages were raised in some schools and teachers in general were accorded a fairer chance to compete with other workers for a few of the necessities of life.

The trouble with the campaign is that it was not all inclusive. As we remember the figures quoted as salaries some of these secondary teachers were drawing more money each month than were instructors in the university.

We wonder just how many people of the state know how totally inadequate is the pay of a university instructor.

The state and the university expect the instructors and professors to maintain a standard of living which is consistent with their position. But the pay that is granted to the instructional staff is not as much, in many cases, as these same members of the staff could earn at manual labor.

During the war a car inspector, he who looks at the wheels of the railroad coaches, drew in his weekly pay envelope more by far than did a university teacher. He still draws more each week than does an instructor at Wisconsin. And yet the instructor has had to prepare by years of schooling for his position while the car inspector needs no education and but a modicum of training.

It would seem to us that an educational campaign carried to the people of the state might work for a change. We have faith that if the citizens of Wisconsin knew how small a salary is received by some of the instructors they would agitate a movement to make a substantial increase.

Yesterday the President of the university submitted to members of the legislature a table showing the salaries paid to members of the faculty at the university.

That is a constructive move that we hope will be followed up by the legislature and board of regents.

Each year some of the best instructors and professors at the university leave Wisconsin for other schools, attracted by more remunerative positions and better chances for advancement. There is not a college in the university but yearly suffers a loss of good instructors because of the inconceivably low wages paid them.

Universities of the Big Ten have been among those who have drawn instructors from Wisconsin. Often the salary increase granted by other schools is nearly double that paid for similar instruction here.

Wisconsin now enjoys a high standard of excellence in scholarship and instruction. If the prestige this institution now has is to be maintained, adequate precautions must be taken to preserve the excellence of its instructional staff.

An institution is judged by its instructors as well as by the students it sends out. The one way to assure a continuity of good instruction is to raise the pay of members of the faculty.

Bygone Events

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

There was a special committee meeting of the Board of Regents today to discuss the plans for the new gymnasium.

"It is surprising how many of our students are Sons of Erin. A large and varied collection of green bows appeared on the hill this morning."

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

An advertisement reads: "University shoes extra adopted for students. All kinds of leather, the best quality, and the very latest style, one price $3.50."

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Classes in the operation and management of automobiles and motors are being established in the different cities of the state by the University Extension department.

The whirlwind campaign for funds for the Y. M. C. A. closes today. The committees are confident that the $35,000 required will be raised. The city has already subscribed $10,055 and the state $2,500. About $25,000 is needed from the city.

Pyre Charms With Dramatic Poem Reading

By M. A.

Walton Pyre, by his unique dramatizations rendered with such great expression, charmed the large audience that heard the program given by the literary department of the Woman's club, Thursday evening in the Woman's building.

Mr. Pyre in his first selection "King Robert of Sicily" by Longfellow was accompanied by Wesley La Violette who is touring with him this season in rendering the piano accompaniments which add so greatly to the character and delightfulness of Mr. Pyre's work. The music of "King Robert of Sicily" was composed by Rosseter G. Cole, formerly of the music department of this university.

The main selections of the evening were chosen from the works of Robert Service and Rudyard Kipling. "The Cremation of Sam Mc

Never realized what a Bolshevik community we were fostering in our midst till the President's Guard came out with those anarchist insignia.

And a girl mistook Shorty Klos for the captain of a volunteer fire department, just yesterday.

They might at least have had a picture of the President.

Jimmy Walton was lecturing on alcohol.

"It is telling on the faculties," he said. "In my experience—"

But that would be telling on the faculty.

Sheba: I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth.

Peter Doubt: You couldn't—there wouldn't be any minister.

As long as personal memoirs are in order, we shall submit from time to time selections from a Heirotglyphics-quarry recently unearthed in the mountain fastnesses and valley slownesses of Abyssinia. The author's name is best rendered into English as Gustav.

THE MEMOIRS OF GUSTAV WIND

"One of the most striking of our modern bonhomers is Lady Weelda Hatchetwell, whose husband is the proprietor of some of our highest cliffs."

"Wealthy old 'Back-to-Nature' Claymore—so called because in spite of his wealth of Saber-tooth skins he insists on going about in a bearskin—was making fun of the effeminate modern use of punctuation. 'In my father's day,' he said, 'we were satisfied with simple pictures of our thoughts. This punctuation is a menace to the self-reliance of the community. And—a sly twinkle came into his one good eye—at this period one is an asterisk it!'"

"But Lady H., never at a loss, replied, 'How commacal,' and brained him coyly with a convenient boulder."

Clever Farce Pleases With Pretty Maids

More than 50 pretty French maidens, ardent lovers, timid gendarmes and war heroes frolicked in the presentation of "The Blue Bandits," a hilarious musical comedy, by the members of the Gun and Blade club in the auditorium of the Madison high school last night. The play was directed by John L. McDonough.

A picturesque mountain village in France near the Swiss border served as a beautiful setting for a farce revolving around the capture of two bandits and the adventures of two ex-doughboys traveling through the country. It was a case of mistaken identity.

The foolish gendarmes led by a self-satisfied officer succeeded in capturing the Americans instead of the bandits. The play comes to an exciting climax when the doughboys with the assistance of one of the village maidens surprise the real bandits and receive the proffered reward.

Helen Wood, as Jacqueline the pretty village maiden, captivated the audience by a series of songs depicting the various phases of her

Gee, a humorous portrayal of the northern Klondike country, offered the audience an excellent illustration of Mr. Pyre's ability as a dramatist. "The one ambition of an actor is not only to entertain, but to reveal something," said Mr. Pyre.

After a most vivid representation of Kipling's poem "On the Road to Mandalay," in which Mr. Pyre was again accompanied by Wesley La Violette, he gave a group of short poems among which were "The Thousandth Man," "Mother o' Mine" and "Bill 'Awkins," all by Kipling.

Mr. Pyre closed his program with "Boots," a poem of Kipling's showing the British soldier's great fear of insanity. This poem Mr. Pyre memorized while marching to the step of the soldiers, and thus so vividly pictured it, that the audience was stirred deeply. Mr. Pyre was recalled and gave as an encore "The Ride of Lochinvar" by Scott.

"Y'know Valentino?"
"Yeh; do you?"
"Well, he's only got four finger-nails on his right hand."

"Fact?"
"Sure; the other's a thumb-tack."

uncertain love affairs. She sang "When You Are in Love," "I Am Feeling Lonely," and "Chanson du Matin."

Lucille Hanson played the part of Yvette, the village belle seeking to win the valiant officer, Gaspard, Carroll Robb. Gaspard and Yvette were at their best in their dialogue and songs.

The part of Margot, the village spinster, was taken by Hilda Schultz who proved herself to be an alluring French flapper.

Silas Bean, William Christenson, and His Honor, the Mayor, Bernard Berndt, showed exceptional ability in adapting themselves to rather difficult parts.

The costumes worn by the chorus of village girls and flower maidens blended perfectly with the quaint stage setting. Their songs won encores several times.

The play showed the result of careful directing on the part of John T. McDonough, Eau Claire, who is also the author and composer.

"The Blue Bandits" will be presented for the second time at 8:15 o'clock this evening in the auditorium of the high school.

"Freckles was his name."

He got into more trouble than one could shake a stick at; he bossed his kid sister and brother; he comforted his mother, and he filled the big shoes of his big policeman father.

One does not have to see Freckles very long before he knows that the boy is full of every power of mimicry under the sun. And the youngster does not fall short of the mark in his role of "Mickey" in "Heroes of the Street." It's a good picture.

Not good necessarily because of the story or the cast or the production. None of these are poor by any means. But they are simply accessories to the star. Probably it is a difficult thing to find a good story in which the leading role is taken by a lad of fifteen. That age is just too great and just too slight for a story of almost any kind. But the Warner Brothers succeeded admirably in supplying young Barry with a suitable vehicle.

The story smacks somewhat of "The Bat". There are crooks and the crook. Try and find him. Freckles did; or rather, he blundered into him. And he has a number of exciting times before he finally runs down the "Shadow."

Whenever we see tears in the cinema we think of onions. Snuffles about us in movie houses make us want to get up and holler "Onions." So it was to a certain extent during the pathos of "Heroes of the Street". But here the pathos is somewhat more real than in most pictures. And the humor is top-notch for the movies.

We could not consider a review of this picture complete without some mention of the dog. Having a dog of our own and also having had much difficulty in trying to make him do a few stunts, we are prone to applaud heartily animal intelligence such as that which is displayed in this picture.

BARBARA WILL AID
SOPHS IN BENEFIT

Barbara La Marr has become the friend and ally of the sophomore class. She's going to try to put across six benefit shows at the Parkway which are being conducted by the class of '25.

Her medium for this feat will be a picture called "The Hero" which will be run at the Parkway theater Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Members of the class are busy selling tickets for the show but it will be possible to obtain cardboard seats at the box office also.

According to Burns Mantle, "The Hero", as played in New York by Richard Bennett and Robert Ames, is one of the ten best plays of 1921-22. The piece was written by Gilbert Emery, actor and playwright, and was produced by Sam Harris.

The screen version of the stage success was directed by Gasnier, who is responsible for such pictures as "Kismet", "Rich Men's Wives" and "Thorns and Orange Blossoms". The title role, originally acted by Ames, has been given to Gaston Glass who has acted with Sarah Bernhardt's company on European platforms.

est American grand opera singers on the circuit, introduce piano and cello solos and duets in a real musical act. Gladys Delmar and Boys, a syncopated sextette, offer the other antithesis of music in super-jazz with modern improvements.

Minstrelsy will reign Sunday in the program for the first half of next week under direction of Dan Fitch. This celebrity of the circuit, called "minstrel master of the circuit," will stage an extravaganza of song, dance and delicious story telling in two scenes. A singing act by Sterling and Gold, promises 10 minutes of popular music.

Humor is promised also. Sam K. Otto and Estelle Hammer return again to Madison in "The Duck Hunters," reported to be a comedy of unusual gaiety.

The Wilson Aubrey Trio of comedy gymnasts offer several minutes of strenuous and interesting endeavor.

Cross-Eyed
Ben Makes
Burlesque

Mack Sennett, picture producer, must surely get a kick from the prognostications of the so-called wiseacres.

Each time these know-it-alls begin to make themselves heard, Sennett comes out with another feature, a comedy-drama—subtle satire, melodramatic comedy or a broad comedy with plenty of hokum.

Mack Sennett's latest effort is a comedy burlesquing "The Sheik," under the title "The Shriek of Araby." Ben Turpin with his crossed and roving optics, is the Shriek and will be shown at the Strand for four days starting Wednesday.

Sennett carries the spectator's interest in his players from somewhere in America, out onto the broad expanse of the ocean where they see Turpin thrown overboard.

They follow him and sympathize with him in his struggles against the waves in a frail canoe, and are happy when he is washed up on shore, even if it is the edge of an arid desert.

It takes five reels to tell the adventures of Turpin, but those five reels are crammed with a new brand of riotous comedy with many thrills, and with here and there touches of real drama, to say nothing of the climax.

The last few feet of "The Shriek of Araby" will send everybody who sees it on their homeward way with "a smile that won't come off," say those who have seen the picture.

the life that Christ lived 2,000 years ago.
