✓ Lyall, Katherine - Statement of goals as President, pp 5-8

Statement by Acting President Lyall

Remarking on the importance of moving forward in the coming year, Acting President Lyall stated that the UW System must control its destiny by the use of its own expertise and resources.

As to the current status, she noted that UW institutions are filled with students who have met new, higher admissions standards; distinguished faculty and academic staff are prepared to work with students using new teaching techniques and improved instructional materials--many of which spring from their own achievements in the library and research laboratories; there are more than 9,000 graduate students in training to help respond to the urgent needs for faculty and researchers of the future; and total gifts, grants and contracts to the university increased more than eleven percent over the preceding year. If the UW System were a private enterprise, it would rank 208th among the Fortune 500, and in Wisconsin it would be the second largest enterprise. For every dollar invested by the state through taxes, the UW earns two additional dollars from non-tax sources--an earnings pattern with a 15-year history.

At the same time, she commented, the UW System faces a number of important challenges, the first and foremost of which is meeting the commitment to educational quality. As identified in the biennial budget request, the basic needs to sustain quality are competitive salaries for faculty and staff, library materials, updated instructional laboratory equipment, improved computer access for students, and support for program assessment at each institution. The Board pledged to meet these needs from base reallocation and downsizing if necessary. Because the needs were only partially met by the final budget passed by the Legislature, planning began for reallocation which will occur through 1994-95. About 500 faculty and staff positions will be eliminated over the next four years, some programs will be scaled back or dropped so that remaining programs can be properly supported, and it will be necessary to work hard to retain and recruit faculty in priority programs. As enrollments decrease in accordance with Enrollment Management II targets, positions freed up will provide the funds for reallocation needs.

It is essential to recognize, she emphasized, that reallocation efforts will benefit students only if the funds remain in the UW System's base budget. Plans for reallocation will be brought to the Board in December and must be reported to the Joint Finance Committee in March of 1992.

Second, she stated that the initiative to improve undergraduate education throughout the UW System must be continued. The series of public hearings held last spring led to the targeted areas for improvement identified by Regent working groups. Throughout this fall semester, System Administration will work with administrators, faculty and staff at the institutions to develop initiatives in each of these areas, which will be presented to the Board in December together with an estimated timetable for action.

The third goal is to find a means to assure competitive salaries into the 1990s. Stating that this issue is inextricably tied to the future quality of UW institutions, she noted that average UW faculty salaries are estimated to be five percent--almost $23 million--below market as of the beginning of this biennium. While there is commitment to reallocating funds from elimination of 500 positions to close this gap by 1995, if pay plans remain below market over the next biennium, there will be a crisis in replacing retiring faculty and in retaining existing faculty by 1993. In the coming year, she stated, it will be necessary to develop one or more creative and realistic alternatives to "catchup." These alternatives should be market-oriented and provide for campus implementation that is flexible enough to reward differences in performance.

Fourth, she stated the need for a fair and reasonable process for post-tenure review of all faculty. While this currently is done through peer reviews, accreditation procedures, student evaluations and other methods, she considered it appropriate to develop a systemwide policy requiring professional reviews of each faculty member's work at reasonable intervals, coupled with retraining and professional development opportunities. Innovative types of appointments also might be explored, which would enable faculty to adjust their contracted services among teaching, research, and service activities as they pass through their careers or phase into retirement. In addition, the tenure process should be reviewed to ensure that fair and impartial procedures are being provided for all candidates regardless of race or gender, that there are clear and equitable tenure expectations and voting rules across departments within an institution, and that there is timely processing of appeals and complaints stemming from the tenure process. Tenure lies at the heart of academic freedom, she stated, and provides faculty the security to pursue long-term projects with delayed payoffs, to espouse untraditional and unpopular ideas, and to write and revise courses and curriculum in response to evolving scholarship. "It has never been intended to be a protection from regular review of faculty work or a means to insulate individuals from contributing fairly to the collective responsibility of departments for quality teaching, research, and public service."

The fifth objective is to continue to prune and focus the program array. Observing that the UW System has a leaner program array and less duplication than other Big Ten states, she noted that over the past 17 years UW institutions have added 149 new programs but have eliminated 218 others. In the 1990s, it will be necessary to look closely at the investment in professional programs to assure that it is proportionate to the demand for graduates. In the coming year, course offerings will be reviewed in agriculture and natural resources, and a review of offerings will begin in teacher education and business administration, with an eye to tailoring the investment in these programs more closely to the projected demand for graduates. Special attention also will be paid to eliminating duplication of specializations within these fields among institutions.

The sixth objective is to continue to monitor and streamline administrative functions and costs. Students and faculty have a right to expect efficient, responsive administrative services at reasonable cost, she stated, and proper accountability to the public requires reasonable, but not excessive, investment in skilled administrative staff, computing facilities, and financial planning and auditing.

Steps to be taken in the coming year will be: (1) to monitor institutional support costs as percent of total budget compared to peers and over time, (2) to identify through Total Quality Management activities opportunities to provide incentives for reducing administrative expense per unit of service or for improving service quality where costs cannot be effectively reduced, (3) to identify disincentives to achieving administrative cost savings and ways to turn these into incentives, and (4) to monitor changes in administrative costs as a percentage of budget and report to the Board any commitments, mandates, or policies that reduce or add significant administrative costs.

In conclusion, Dr. Lyall stated that all these efforts cannot save the UW System from decline unless a sense of genuine partnership can be restored with state government and the public. The downsizing that must be done today will restrict access and opportunities tomorrow for Wisconsinites, their businesses and their communities. "Five to ten years from now, you and I, as stewards of the UW System's assets, will not be asked what we did to cut budgets and save taxes. We will be asked what we did to maintain educational quality and opportunity and to move the university forward in service to the state. The six tasks I have noted are essential to meeting this challenge. They require close cooperation among all of us: students, faculty, staff, chancellors, system administration, and the Board of Regents. I look forward to the new year with enthusiasm, and I assure you that, with your guidance, we will keep the UW System moving forward."

Five-Year Reviews

The Committee considered five-year reviews of the Ph.D. in Nursing and Psychology at UW-Madison and the Ph.D. in Nursing at the UW-Milwaukee. Both programs were approved by the Board for implementation in February of 1984. Vice President Portch reported that both programs had met their original objectives and recommended that they be continued under conditions specified in the resolution. In Committee discussion, it was suggested that UW-Milwaukee review the intent to increase its library holdings in view of what is accessible in the area to meet student needs, in order to avoid duplication. Regarding the Madison program, it was noted that the psychology component was not being dropped, but rather, that secondary opportunities were being expanded to include physiology, sociology and other strong curricular fields.

The Committee approved Resolutions 5898 and 5899 with Regent Grover voting in opposition.

Regent Davis moved adoption by the Board of Regents of Resolution 5898. Seconding the motion, Regent Gundersen noted the national shortage of 200,000 nurses. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

REPORT OF THE BUSINESS AND FINANCE COMMITTEE

Regent Gelatt presented the Committee's report.

~~Audit Subcommittee Meeting~~ Follow-up to LAB Section Audit, p. 14

Associate Vice President Presley outlined the report on the follow-up to the LAB Section Audit and the questions raised by Regent President Lyon at the May 1991 meeting. Indicators showed improvement in the number of sections offered, while instructional workload remained relatively stable. System Administration proposed that several pilot projects be established to explore the feasibility of developing information systems that focus specifically on access to those courses students need to meet their graduation requirements.

(x ref LAB - (same))

Regent discussion of the report focused on the need to resolve the course bottleneck problems and to accurately identify where the problems are located as well as their solutions.

A resolution was adopted by the Audit Subcommittee and forwarded to the Business and Finance Committee for action.

Consent Agenda Items

Regent Gelatt presented Resolutions 5900-5903, which were approved unanimously by the Business and Finance Committee, as consent agenda items for action as a single unit by the Board of Regents.

Upon motion by Regent Gelatt, seconded by Regent Steil, the consent agenda resolutions were adopted by the Board of Regents with Regent Davis abstaining from the vote on Resolution 5900.

The Business and Finance Committee received the report on 1991 faculty fringe benefits, which was the second annual report required by the Legislature as part of the follow-up activity for catch-up funding in the last biennium. The findings of the report were consistent with those of the previous year's report, which was prepared by Hewitt Associates using methodology for determining both the value of benefits to employees and the System's cost for providing those benefits. This year's report was prepared by using the Hewitt methodology, but it was replicated in-house using 1991 data. The Committee expressed its appreciation to staff for having found that cost savings. Although the fringe benefit studies are no longer required by the Legislature after this year, the administration plans to continue to collect this data on comparative benefits.

After discussions of retirement benefit calculations, the Committee encouraged System Administration to investigate improved benefit programs for employees at lower cost to the UW System.

Resolution 5904, which was unanimously approved by the Committee, was moved by Regent Gelatt, seconded and adopted unanimously by the Board of Regents.

Report on Classified Pay Plan and Salary Adjustments, p. 16

Vice President Poellnitz reported on distribution of the 1991-93 pay plan approved by the Joint Committee on Employment Relations, which authorized a one percent increase in 1991-92 for faculty and academic staff. Four percent of the faculty and nine percent of the academic staff received no increase under the pay plan; 85 percent of the faculty and 82 percent of the academic staff received increases between half of one percent and one-and-one-half percent; and only three percent of the faculty and two percent of the academic staff received increases of $1,000 or more.

Gloria Toivola, President of TAUWP, appeared before the Committee to comment that percentage increases negotiated by teaching and engineering professionals with the state were greater than those granted to faculty and to academic staff.

Vice President Poellnitz reported to the Committee that the state is in the process of implementing strategic planning for information technology in each agency and developing a statewide plan for information technology management. The UW System will participate in this process during its pilot phase with System Administration as one of the pilot sites. In the second cycle, the planning process will be extended to all institutions.

Department of Administration Division Administrator Pamela Wegner presented the state's strategic planning process and its information technology plan. She assured the Committee that the state's efforts, including establishment of a state computer utility, are consistent with the strategy previously approved and adopted by the Board of Regents for the UW System. The computing utility is meant to centralize computing hardware but will not lead to centralization of applications development. Vice President Poellnitz indicated that he was comfortable with the direction the state was taking and that their planning process also will benefit the UW System.

Regent - Policy - Review of - Endowment Spending Plan, p. 17

At the request of the Chair of the Business and Finance Committee, the Endowment Spending Plan fraction was reviewed, and the conclusion was that it did not appear to be advisable to change the plan at this time. The present policy, which provides for adjustments to the spending plan fraction in 1991-92 (5.2 percent) and 1992-93 (5.0 percent), will be reviewed again as the 5 percent fraction is approached and the 1993-95 budget implications are known.

Follow-up to LAB Sections Audit, R 5905, pp 17-18

The Business and Finance Committee approved the resolution adopted by the Audit Subcommittee, with Regent Lyon voting in opposition. On behalf of the Business and Finance Committee, Regent Gelatt presented that resolution and moved its adoption, noting the intention to offer a substitute resolution. The motion was seconded by Regent Steil.

The following substitute resolution then was moved by Regent Steil, seconded by Regent Gelatt, and carried unanimously:

Resolution 5905: That, upon the recommendation of the Acting President of the University of Wisconsin System, the Board of Regents approves the recommendations contained in the September 1991 Report on the status of class access and scheduling. These recommendations are designed to strengthen the management of student access to courses and include the implementation of automated degree audit systems, the establishment of pilot projects to explore the feasibility of developing information systems or processes on access to gateway courses, and other measures. The Board of Regents places a high priority on the timely completion of these projects and the implementation of their recommendations. In the nearer term, the Chancellors of each campus are asked to report at the December 1991 meeting steps being taken to reduce required course backlogs during the Spring 1992 semester.

In response to a question by Regent Dreyfus, Regent Gelatt explained that part of the Committee's concern is that there is no effective way of measuring the problem. While it is clear that students take longer today than they did 20 years ago to graduate, it is not known whether that occurs because they cannot get into courses that are required, because they choose to take fewer credits, or because they change majors. Anecdotal evidence indicates that there are particular majors on most campuses where there are insufficient sections for students to take courses that are required for graduation. What is being sought is a means of identifying those bottlenecks so that management expertise can be applied toward solving those isolated problems.

Regent Dreyfus noted statistics showing that students at UW-Madison graduate in an average 4.4 years, while the national average is 4.6 years. He questioned whether there is a problem in fact, or a problem in communication and public relations.

The proposed lease will cover a five-year period, beginning January 1, 1992 (or date of occupancy) through December 31, 1996. The annual rental rate for each year of the initial five-year term will be in accordance with the following schedule:

Lease Period	Annual Cost	Cost/SF	% Increase
January 1, 1992 - December 31, 1992	$61,455	$12.75/SF	—

January 1, 1994 - December 31, 1994	$63,865	$13.25/SF	3.9%
January 1, 1995 - December 31, 1995	$66,275	$13.75/SF	3.8%
January 1, 1996 - December 31, 1996	$68,685	$14.25/SF	3.6%

Terms of the proposed lease will also provide for two, successive one-year renewal options from January 1, 1997. The rental rate for the renewal terms will be as follows:

Lease Period	Annual Cost	Cost/SF	% Increase
January 1, 1997 - December 31, 1997	$71,095	$14.75/SF	3.5%
January 1, 1998 - December 31, 1998	$73,505	$15.25/SF	3.4%

The proposed lease will include: 26 parking spaces for nonexclusive UWHC use, lower-level storage space at an estimated cost of $3.50/SF, and provides UWHC with the Right of First Refusal to lease the adjacent 2,025 SF of space for clinic expansion at any time during the lease term, under the then-current lease terms and conditions.

The proposed lease may be cancelled by the Lessee at any time on or after January 1, 1994, provided written notice is given 180 days in advance. In the event UWHC terminates the lease prior to December 31, 1996, UWHC will pay a $2.00/SF penalty to the Lessor for the remaining balance of the initial five-year term. That penalty will be prorated if termination of the lease occurs before the end of a calendar year. Additionally, UWHC will be responsible for the actual cost of demolition of the leasehold improvements or, if acceptable to the lessor, the cost of restoring and repairing all walls and surfaces.

UW Hospital and Clinics will be responsible for the costs of custodial services and the first $6,025 of electrical charges for the spaces they will occupy. The annual cost of custodial services is estimated at about $1.25/SF. The Lessor will be responsible for electrical costs which exceed an annual total of $6,025 ($1.25/SF), and the cost of all other utilities and services. UWHC will also be liable for a pro rate share of the Lessor's operating and real estate tax expenses which exceed the operating allowance of $3.00/SF per year. Those expenses are defined as the repair, maintenance, and upkeep of the building, parking lot, and real estate; real estate taxes, including installments of special assessments; and other items such as insurance premiums, licenses, permits, inspection fees, security service, and common area janitorial services and utilities.

The Lessor will contribute $48,200 ($10/SF) towards the total estimated cost of $142,363 to finish the interior space for UWHC. The balance of $92,163 will be paid by UWHC as a lump sum payment. That payment and rental expenses will be funded from UWHC's operating budget.

Regent Gundersen reported that, contrary to practice since 1980 and to Board's policy, the Building Commission has substituted program revenue funding for advance land acquisition funding for all or a portion of two recent parking land acquisition requests. If continued in the future, such actions could have a significant effect on parking rates at various campuses which, in turn, could create community relations problems as students decide to park on city streets rather than pay the higher parking fees. Vice President Brown informed the Committee that the situation has not yet crystallized to the point that staff would have a recommendation on the matter.

✓ Budget - → Final Status of 1991-93 Capital Budget, pp 23-24

Regent Gundersen reported that the UW System has been highly successful in having its major requests funded in the 1991-93 capital budget. The Regents had requested approximately $167 million in GPR bonding authority, which included $123 million new bonding authority for major projects and deferred maintenance, and enumeration of $44 million existing bonding authority for projects already in design. Also requested was $150 million new GPR bonding as the state's contribution toward a $225 million WISTAR program.

The UW System received approval to proceed with nearly all of the projects approved by the Board, including $56 million in prior commitments, $225 million for new construction and remodeling for research facilities, and the UW System share of the All-Agency funds which is estimated to amount to about $30 million. In all, this constitutes about $236 million in GPR funding authorization plus another $120 million in projects funded from gifts, grants and program revenues.

One of the most significant successes associated with the 1991-93 Capital Budget was endorsement of the WISTAR program. The budget bill included language which will enable $225 million in WISTAR projects to proceed over the next several years without further enumeration. Considerable flexibility was provided, which will enable cost estimates to be adjusted and funding distributed among the projects as they are implemented over the next several years. This favorable treatment of the WISTAR program, Regent Gundersen stated, will positively impact the advancement of knowledge and the ability to compete in a global economy. He thanked Regent President Lyon, Regent Vice President Nicholas, Regent Schilling and Regent Gelatt who joined him in meeting personally with the Governor to persuade him of the merits of proceeding with the authorization.

Other areas in which the System gained flexibility in implementation of the authorized building program are: increase of the dollar threshold for projects requiring Building Commission approval from $30,000 to $100,000; increase in the maximum amount for limited trades work which can be accomplished without formal bidding from $10,000 to $20,000; increase in the dollar threshold for emergency construction and repair projects which can be approved by the Governor without Building Commission action from $50,000 to $250,000; and elimination of the need for Joint Finance Committee approval to implement non-enumerated projects over $250,000 which are funded entirely by private or federal gifts and grants.

Several of these actions were the result of vetoes by the Governor, which indicated the Governor's recognition of the need to simplify the complex project approval process.

Regents - Legal Services Study - Report on Study, R 5914, pp 24-28

REPORT ON LEGAL SERVICES STUDY

Regent Schilling noted that in the summer of 1990, Regent President Lyon established a Regent Committee on Legal Services composed of Regents Schilling and Steil. They concluded that there would be substantial benefit to having outside experts carry out an objective examination of the way in which legal services are provided in the UW System. Assistance was requested from eight individuals outside the university with legal and/or management expertise in the private and public sectors. The panel was very ably chaired by Robert Waldo, former President and CEO of Verex Corporation. Also on the panel were Attorney Erica Eisinger, of Quarles and Brady; Attorney Edward Main, Department of Administration; Attorney Tom Ragatz, Foley and Lardner; Attorney Arvid Sather, of Michael, Best and Friedrich; Martha Sullivan, CPA and Manager, Virchow Krause and Company accounting firm; James R. Underkofler, former Chairman of the Board, Wisconsin Power and Light; and Mike Perino, of the Attorney General's Office.

Regent Schilling introduced Mr. Waldo and Mr. Ragatz to present the panel's report.

Mr. Waldo began by noting that the panel would convene again to address issues raised in a letter from TAUWP, which asked specific questions which might be addressed in a supplement to the report.

He then expressed appreciation to the panel members for their excellent participation and to Fredi Bove and Pam O'Brien, of the Regent's staff, for all their efforts and assistance.

Summarizing the Panel's findings, Mr. Waldo reported that legal services are provided through a bifurcated system, with UW System legal office reporting to the System President and legal departments on some campuses reporting to the Chancellors. This system allows the Chancellors to develop legal expertise to meet the needs of their campuses and provides them quick access to counsel. Other institutions are served by UW System legal counsel. The decentralized system is consistent to what is found in conglomerate corporations and in other large government organizations.

All clients surveyed felt their needs are being adequately met, and the attorneys surveyed also generally felt they were meeting client needs. The Attorney General's staff, which handles all litigation for the University of Wisconsin, are generally satisfied with the condition of cases as received and are satisfied also with the follow-up services they receive from the university legal departments.

The study showed some unique features in the university which are not found in the private sector. First, the mid-level administrators of the university are elected by their peers for a term and are not professional administrators. Second, personnel matters are decided at the department level, including the hiring, firing, performance evaluations and tenure. The tenure decisions made at this level cannot be reversed by higher authority. If at any point it is found that tenure was improperly denied, the only recourse is to remand the case back to the department because of the Supreme Court decision that only the department, with consent of the Chancellor, can grant tenure.

As a result of these unique features, mid-level administrators attempt to settle disputes collegially and may overlook due process in some cases. More commonly, they may say or do things that give rise to claims.

After understanding the client relationship, the panel looked at how the legal services are delivered. The UW System legal department has three lawyers and has not grown over the years, primarily because of budgetary constraints. The legal department is included in the System Administration's line-item budget, which is reviewed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor.

There are individual campus legal departments at UW-Madison, UW-Oshkosh, UW-Green Bay and UW-Milwaukee. These have evolved in response to needs at those institutions. At UW-Madison, the great deal of research conducted and the large athletic program, among other reasons, have given rise to needs for counsel, which in many respects are unique and are not shared by other campuses.

The panel found that, except for preventive law, there seems to be no specific areas of unmet legal needs. Preventive law includes legal workshops and review sessions with department chairs, deans, and others who are not professional administrators but who have administrative duties for a period of time.

The panel's surveys showed that all UW attorneys feel they have heavy workloads, and some of the clients feel the attorneys are stretched too thin. While the panel did not try to evaluate the competence of the lawyers, they found that everyone in the client base feels that the lawyers available to them are very capable. The panel also did not make any evaluation as to whether or not additional attorneys are needed. However, by implication from the fact that there is a need for preventive law and because UW attorneys are already heavily scheduled with cases that have time deadlines, it could be concluded that more counsel probably is required.

The panel found that it would be helpful to have outside counsel in some instances, such as unique or specialized issues for which it would not be efficient to develop expertise. However, the procedure for retaining outside counsel is very cumbersome and can inhibit approved use of outside counsel.

Mr. Waldo summarized the Panel's recommendations as follow:

--First, that the University System's Legal Department be transferred from the System line-item budget to a systemwide category, so that the department can be tailored and sized to meet the needs of the System and some of the outlying campuses;

--Second, that the present organizational structure of the System attorneys reporting to the System President and the campus attorneys reporting to the Chancellors remain the same. There should be functional reporting between the System general counsel and the campus counsel;

--Third that the System general counsel, in conjunction with the campus counsels, determine which issues should be centrally handled and which issues should be handled on campus;

--Fourth, that the System and Chancellors maintain direct responsibility for determining the size of system and campus legal staff, subject to management oversight in due course;

--Fifth, that preventive law workshops be increased;

--Sixth, that the UW general counsel, together with campus counsel, Attorney General's staff and the Department of Administration, determine how outside counsel can be retained more expeditiously and efficiently; and

--Seventh, that there be increased use of paralegals.

Mr. Ragatz commented that he was impressed by the efficiency with which the university's legal needs are met, considering the size of the institution and the relatively small number of lawyers. While the system works well, the panel's report contained "fine tuning" recommendations which they believe would improve the provision of legal services. In a world becoming increasingly more complex and specialized, he observed, there will be more legal problems and more need for legal services in response, and the System will need to continue to grow and adjust.

Regent Davis asked Mr. Ragatz to expand on the minority report he had submitted.

Mr. Ragatz noted that the current system does not have a charge-back mechanism, which would allow monitoring of whether particular units of the institution were incurring disproportionate legal costs. He thought some kind of a charge-back system or formal reporting would be a beneficial management tool. There also might be opportunities for charging program revenue operations with the cost of their own services.

Regent Hirsch asked why Mr. Main dissented from the first recommendation.

In reply, Mr. Waldo shared Mr. Main's view that division of the System's administrative budget should be a matter of internal negotiation. If more money is needed, it is the responsibility of the System President to convince the Legislature and Governor of that need.

Concerning preventive law, Regent Krutsch asked if it would be appropriate and cost effective for administrators familiar with those areas of the law to instruct others, or whether such work would have to be done by attorneys.

Mr. Waldo felt experienced administrators could be useful tutors. The Panel's view was that preventive law should be instituted, whether the work be done by attorneys, paralegals or others.

Regent President Lyon thanked Mr. Waldo and all members of the Panel for the time they devoted.

Regent Steil also expressed appreciation, on behalf of himself and Regent Schilling, to the Panel for the time and thoughtful consideration devoted to the report and the considerable amount of time they devoted on a volunteer basis to study this issue for the past seven months.

Before action is taken on the recommendations in the panel report, he and Regent Schilling proposed that the Board request System Administration to develop specific implementation options, to be brought to the Board for consideration and action.

Adoption by the Board of the following resolution was moved by Regent Steil and seconded by Regent Schilling.

Resolution 5914: That the Board of Regents is pleased to receive the Report of the Legal Services Panel and expresses its appreciation to the Panel members for the time and careful deliberation they gave to this study; and

That UW System Administration develop specific implementation options related to the recommendations in the Legal Services Report to present for Board consideration and possible action.

Regent President Lyon called on Gloria Toivola, President of TAUWP, who had asked to comment on the study.

Noting that TAUWP had written to the Co-Chairs of the Committee, Professor Toivola stated TAUWP's view that there are significant instances of conflict of interest, in which the same attorney might advise both the Appeals' Committee and the Chancellor. In the last year, there had been two requests from Faculty Senate Chairs to use TAUWP's legal services because they wanted an independent view of a legal question.

Another concern was that the rules put Chancellors in the position of reviewing decisions of Appeals' Committees which are dealing with the appeals of the Chancellor's actions.

As to preventive law, she said TAUWP has done such education work by having its counsel hold seminars for faculty in conjunction with System legal counsel and the Attorney General's office. She encouraged the Board to include faculty and academic staff among recipients of such instruction.

Put to the vote, Resolution 5914 was adopted unanimously.

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL REGENT COMMITTEE ON COMPETITION WITH THE PRIVATE SECTOR APPEAL

Regent Gelatt, Chair of the Committee, reported that the Special Regent Committee was formed to hear an appeal brought under the Regent policy on competition with the private sector--the first appeal to come to the Regents under this policy. The Committee consisted of Regent Gelatt (Chair), Regent Clusen, Regent Schilling and Regent Steil.

The policy establishes a protocol under which an activity that is questioned is first referred to the Institutional Competition Review Committee, which makes a recommendation to the Chancellor. The Chancellor then makes a decision which may be appealed to the System President. If a satisfactory resolution cannot be reached, an appeal then can be made to the Board of Regents.

The appellant in this case was WKOW-TV, a private sector Madison television station, which for some years had been producing a program aired on private, cable and public television. Early this year, the program producer did not renew its contract with WKOW and contracted instead with WHA-TV for production of the program. WKOW filed a complaint that acceptance of the contract by WHA violated the Regent policy on competition with the private sector.

The complaint was reviewed by the UW-Extension Competition Review Committee, which concluded that production of the program by WHA did not violate Regent policy. The UW-Extension Chancellor concurred with the Committee's recommendation. WKOW then appealed to the System President who upheld the Chancellor's decision. As permitted under Regent policy, WKOW then appealed to the Board of Regents. Regent President Lyon referred the appeal to the Board's Special Committee.

Meeting four times to consider this matter, the Committee reviewed the record, received briefs, and heard oral presentations by the parties. In these meetings, the positions of WKOW, UW-Extension, and the producer, Nancy's Notions, and its principal, Ms. Nancy Ziemann, were thoroughly presented and discussed.

It was the Committee's conclusion that production of the program by WHA-TV does not meet the criteria established in the Regent Policy for judging the appropriateness of competitive activities. That is: (1) Production of the program by WHA is not integral to the fulfillment of the university's instructional, research or public service missions; (2) There are not compelling reasons of economic efficiency for production of the program by WHA; (3) Production services for this type of program are available elsewhere in the community; (4) Providing television production service in this case is not a major convenience to the campus community; and (5) Production service by WHA is not of major importance to maintaining the quality of UW-Extension.

Therefore, it was the majority recommendation of the Committee, with Regent Schilling dissenting, that: (1) At the option of the client, the existing production contract with WHA be completed or cancelled by the client without penalty prior to the end of the contract; (2) The decision of the UW-Extension Competition Review Committee, affirmed by the Chancellor and the System President, be reversed; and (3) WHA-TV be directed not to enter into a new contract with the client but may extend the existing contract for up to six months, to permit a smooth transition to a new production studio.

It was moved by Regent Gelatt and seconded by Regent Steil that the following resolution be adopted by the Board of Regents.

Resolution 5915: That the Board of Regents adopts the August 29, 1991, Report and Recommendations of the Special Regent Committee on Competition with the Private Sector Appeal.

In response to Regent Dreyfus' request, Regent Schilling explained the reasons for his dissent.

It was very difficult, he commented, to apply some of the policy's criteria to this case. On one hand, other television facilities exist that can produce the program. One question was whether it mattered that they could not do it on the same scale with the same efficiency as WHA. Clearly, the policy's intent is not to use facilities built with state dollars to disadvantage the private sector. In addition, there was the collateral effect of production at a WHA facility carrying with it a seal of approval in the industry, which would enhance the likelihood of the program being chosen for airing on public television stations.

After considering those factors, Regent Schilling was not convinced that the service provided by WHA is available elsewhere in the community. Therefore, he reluctantly dissented from the Committee's recommendations. It was a very complicated issue, and while he had decided to dissent from the majority, he did not dismiss the position taken by the other Committee members.

Regent Flores asked if the Committee discussed whether production of this program falls within the educational mission of the university.

Replying in the affirmative, Regent Gelatt said it was the conclusion of the Committee, with which the representatives of UW-Extension concurred, that it was not in any sense central to the educational mission of the university. It is an educational program of an unusual kind, with the sponsor paying most of the cost and the producer reaping substantial economic benefit.

Regent Dreyfus asked if the possibility were considered of the program being produced in the private sector but distributed to public television with WHA's stamp of approval, assuming a level of quality acceptable to WHA.

Regent Gelatt replied that such a possibility was discussed but WHA has refused to serve that role. Part of the rationale for the Committee's decision was the sense that it was inappropriate for the public station to make itself unique by refusing to accredit productions done by private production facilities.

Regent Flores noted that one of the contentions of Nancy's Notions was that the former producer does not meet all of its requirements for production. He asked if the Committee looked into the validity of those claims.

Regent Gelatt replied that it was very difficult for the Committee to be able to decide that issue. While it is clear that WHA has a significantly larger and better equipped studio than WKOW or any other private producer in the Madison area, the fact is that the program was successfully produced by WKOW. The majority concluded that the advantages of WHA were a convenience and not a necessity. The tax support of WHA makes it difficult for any private station to be in a position to provide facilities as large and convenient as is possible by the public provider.

Regent Steil said the majority also was impressed with the fact that WKOW had been producing the program for years at a cost most recently of $85,000. WHA provides better facilities at a cost of $120,000. For that price, a private production house might enlarge their studios and give the same service. The Committee did not feel it was in the best interest of a public institution to be competing with the private sector to that extent.

Put to the vote, Resolution 5915 was adopted, with Regents Flores and Schilling voting in opposition.
