Stedman Clears Up Situation Caused by Withdrawal of Meiklejohn

Lougee Stedman '30, chairman of the student elections' committee, Thursday cleared up complications into which the election of junior member-at-large of the Union board had been tangled by announcing that the election would be postponed until later in the year.

According to Stedman, the election will be held in April or May, at the same time that members of the athletic council are chosen. The board is considering changes in its constitution which makes the exact date of the election uncertain.

Union Board Confused

The Union board Wednesday was placed in the position of having no candidates for the office in student elections March 15, when Donald Meiklejohn '30 withdrew from candidacy for the position, which would have gone to him by default. William Ramsey '30, had previously withdrawn in his favor.

It is understood that Ramsey did not know Meiklejohn would be a candidate for the position when he allowed his nominating petitions to be circulated, and when he learned that petitions for Meiklejohn had been turned in at the office of the dean of men, he withdrew. Fellow students of Meiklejohn circulated his nominating petitions hoping he would accept the office.

Postponing Only Solution

"Postponing the election is the only solution to the problem," Stedman said. "Ramsey himself would not like to have us give him the office, an action which would bring the accusation of 'crooked politics'."

John Catlin, who was rumored as an outstanding candidate for the position, stated Thursday night that he (Continued on Page 2)

Emblem Retained as Symbolic of Senior Status of a Woman

"Because it is accepted as symbolic of the senior status of a woman, the Blue Dragon ring will be retained, although the Blue Dragon as a society is dissolved," Miss Lee Bacon, executive secretary of the W. S. G. A., stated yesterday in discussing the constitutional amendment which abolished the existence of Green Button, Red Gauntlet, Yellow Tassel and Blue Dragon.

"About 14 years ago, when these groups were organized, they were more than nominal groups. The real purpose was to make for class spirit, and to involve no social or intellectual discrimination as to membership. Every woman in the university became automatically a member of her class organization.

"Although the societies no longer exist, I do not see that it will make a great deal of difference, except in changing the form of elections."

Miss Bacon favored the decision to have the board, consisting of representatives of all the organized women's rooming houses on the campus, meet six times a year instead of every two months as has been the custom.

Cold March Gale Will Bring Snow Expert Predicts

March winds—which stopped traffic on country highways yesterday—are expected to bring snow today, according to Eric Miller, U. S. meteorologist.

Rising temperature, increasing cloudiness, and snow are predicted.

Snow, blown into the roads by yesterday's high winds, prevented bus travel between Madison and Fond du Lac and between Madison and Portage.

Carnival Spirit to Reign at Beaux Arts Ball Tonight

In New Role

Bernadine Flynn '29 Is Chosen for Lead in 'Liliom,' Molnar Play

Bernadine Flynn '29 and Don Ameche, both of whom have appeared before on Bascom theater stage have been selected to play the leading roles in Ferenc Molnar's satirical modernistic "Liliom" which is to be produced by the Wisconsin University Players in a series of showings starting March 15 and 16.

"Liliom," according to Prof. Troutman, director of the Wisconsin dramatic organization, is the most ornate and elaborate presentation attempted by the players.

Molnar, author of "Liliom", also wrote "The Swan", presented by the Players' last year. Bernadine Flynn scored her first success playing the lead in that production.

Bernadine Flynn and Don Ameche are "born actors," according to Prof. Troutman. Miss Flynn is already (Continued on Page 2)

John Geib and Jennie Hodges Rule Social Swirl

John Geib '29 and Jennie Hodges '30 will rule social Wisconsin tonight as the second annual Beaux Arts ball takes place in the Great hall amid under-sea scenes of seaweed, fish, and sunken Spanish galleons.

Modelled after like balls held in foreign capitals and New York, the Beaux Arts ball has been made possible through the combined efforts of Wisconsin art students and faculty members.

The Great hall dance floor will gleam tonight with the color of beautiful costumes imported for the ball. Even the Haresfoot orchestra and the cigarette girls are to be specially outfitted for the occasion.

Since carnival spirit is to dominate, no grand march or receiving line is promised. Entertainment features have been arranged by Eleanor Raub '29 to aid the carnival spirit as much as possible.

The committee members who have been working on the ball are: general chairman, John Geib '29; assistant general chairman, Robert Hurd '30; finance, Madalen Heath Dion '29 and Janet Smith '30; expenditures, Helmut Summ '30 and Marion Withey '30; tickets, Kathleen Graybill '30, Margaret Trainor '29, and Paul Cassidy '31; publicity, Peg Carns '29, Edward Teska '30, and Elizabeth Swenson '30; posters, (Continued on Page 2)

Sellery Treats 'Pet Cows' in Talk Today

Freshman Convocation at 3:30

P. M. Open to Everybody

"I am going to pay my respects to some of the 'pet cows' of the campus," Dean George C. Sellery announced yesterday in forecasting the talk he will give before the freshman convocation at 3:30 p. m. today in the Great hall of the Union. The convocation is open to the whole university.

The fiction that the Wisconsin faculty is weak, the plan of the Experimental college, and the theory that this age is peculiarly distressed because it is lost in the welter of its inventions will be some of the "pet cows" dealt with by Dr. Sellery, who as dean of the college of letters and science is one of the ranking officials of the university.

Queer Spectacle to Mark Mailing of Gridiron Bids

Invitations to the fifth Gridiron banquet will be mailed with traditional ceremony and display this morning promptly at 11:50.

There will be a roadster carrying four red-masked men wearing derbies of a bright familiar color. There will be a truck carrying a live animal of popular species burdened with a government mail bag bearing the invitations to the formal dinner. Holding the animal's head will be seen a famous American type now speedily vanishing from civilization.

After 11 o'clock the parade will start down the north side of the hill and proceed up Langdon street to Wisconsin avenue. Thence the truck and roadster will go to the post office where Pres. Hoover may receive the letters in behalf of the United States.

Sheldon Test Seeks Social Habit Facts

To devise a quantitative measure of conventionalism and liberalism, and to discover some of the environmental and hereditary factors associated with these habits, is the aim of Prof. W. H. Sheldon of the department of psychology, who is conducting an investigation among the students, faculty, and citizens, by means of his "Wisconsin Scale of Critical Social Opinion."

The scale drawn up by Prof. Sheldon consists of forty questions divided into six groups:

Economic problems,
Sex problems,
Social problems,

President Little Will Speak Here in Scientific Role

Pres. Clarence Cook Little of the University of Michigan will turn scientist again when he speaks here Tuesday on "The Genetics of Cancer" under the joint auspices of the Wisconsin Medical society and Phi Sigma at the Biology building.

Pres. Little will be making his first appearance here since the acceptance of his resignation, to become effective in June, by the regents of that university. The controversy between Dr. Little and the state followed disputes on scientific subjects. The president was charged with using bad taste in making public statements in regard to subjects which they claimed should not have been broached in public.

In referring to the incidents surrounding his resignation, Time magazine recently named him as one of the three progressive university presidents who came to middle western universities in 1926, naming Max Mason of Chicago and Glenn Frank of Wisconsin as the other two.

The two girls nominated for treasurer by the regular meeting were Bess Hayner '31 and Mercedes Weiss '30. The board chose Lenore Webber '30 as their nominee for this office.

Florence Pease '30 and Sibley Merton '30 were the nominees for recording secretary, the former that of the board. The board nominated Charlotte Flint '30 for corresponding secretary and the general meeting chose Elizabeth Grimm '31, as nominees for the same position. About fifty girls attended the general meeting.

One Central State Board Is Planned

University Regents Would Go Under Bill Before Assembly

The assembly committee on education today introduced a bill in the legislature which would abolish all existing state educational departments and reorganize them under the central control of a state board of education which would be created by the measure. Each re-created board would be guided by the policies of the main state board of education. State educational boards which would be reorganized on July 1, 1930, under this bill are: university regents, normal schools regents, mining school board, and board of vocational education.

Eleven Member Board

The state board of education would consist of 11 members: the state superintendent of public instruction, who is a constitutional officer of the state and who would serve as ex-officio chairman of the new board; and 10 members who would be elected at the April, 1930, election.

The four candidates receiving the highest number of votes at the 1930 election would serve terms of six years; the three receiving the next highest number of votes would serve for four years, and the three receiving the lowest number would serve for two years. Thereafter, as the terms expire, members would be elected for six years.

Each member would be paid $20 per day for services to the board, but would not be allowed compensation for more than 60 working days in any one year.

Theodora Wiesner '30, was the board's nominee for president, and Helen McLellan '30, was nominated at the general meeting.

For vice-president Rachel Phenicie '31 and Alfreda Kastner '30 were nominated at the board meeting and Mary Parkhurst '30 at the board meeting.

The two girls nominated for treasurer by the regular meeting were Bess Hayner '31 and Mercedes Weiss '30. The board chose Lenore Webber '30 as their nominee for this office.

Engineers Plan St. Pat Election March 13, 14, 15

St. Patrick will be elected on March 13, 14, and 15 by students of the college of engineering. Jack H. Lacher '30, president of Polygon, announced yesterday.

Two schools have yet to choose candidates: chemical and mechanical, and mining. Lester Ludwigsen '29 is the electricals' candidate, and John Cullinan '29 was named to represent the civil engineers last night.

St. Pat's official duty is to lead the parade formerly held on his birthday, but, in late years postponed until April.

Concert Band Plays March 24

Annual Program Will Be Held Palm Sunday at Armory

The spring concert of the university Concert band will be presented Palm Sunday, March 24, at 3 p. m., in the university armory, it was announced this morning by Maj. E. W. Murphy, director of the band.

This annual concert by the band draws an attendance of usually more than 2,000 Madison and university music followers, who crowd into the university armory to hear the student musicians under the baton of Major Murphy.

Maj. Murphy is completing a decade of service in the university this year, and the organizations under his leadership, the Concert band and the orchestra, have won a splendid reputation in this city and throughout the state.

The first in a series of spring concerts to be played in Wisconsin cities was presented by the concert band at Stoughton last Sunday, March 3, and because of a capacity attendance at the afternoon performance an evening concert was immediately scheduled.

Arrangements have already been made for appearances at Antigo, Wausau, Watertown, Sheboygan, and Lake Mills, following the annual spring concert here March 24. This is the most ambitious program ever outlined for the concert band in a single season, no more than one or two out-of-town concerts each year being scheduled in past years.

The program to be presented Palm Sunday will be announced next Sunday, according to Asher E. Treat, of Wausau, the president of the organization. There will be no charge for admittance to the concert, according to Mr. Treat.

Don Ameche, since his part in "The Devil's Disciple," has been seriously considering the stage as a profession. His success in previous productions came as a result of the rare combination of a cultured voice and good stage presence and gesture. Ameche appears in the role of Liliom.

Atmosphere abounds in the coming production, which is an Austrian drama. "Liliom" has been called by critics, a combination of "The Barker" and "Seventh Heaven."

Parks, 1929 Grid Captain, Is Misogynist Who Admits Preference for Blondes

"No woman will ever catch me," declares Johnny Parks '30, captain of the 1929 Wisconsin football team, who has revealed himself as the latest addition to the list of womanly athletes.

"I'm always wary of persistent women," Johnny explains with a smile. "A persistent woman is interesting only for her persistency."

Johnny is a gentleman. He prefers blondes. The reason is not far to seek. "Well, I have to say that I like blondes," he admits, "because my best girl friend right now is a blonde."

"The kind of a girl I like best is one who is friendly to everyone and is interested not only in me, of course, but in everyone else in general.

"A girl who takes a lively interest in campus events, and who knows what's going on in the world, is my idea of a pleasant companion," he continued, expounding his ideas on women.

"I expect her to have some mentality and to be serious at the right time. I don't choose my women friends from the standpoint of mere physical or facial aspects. I like a girl to be about my own height, not too large, not too small and—not heavy."

Unlike most college young men, Johnny does not like to dance.

"I think it's a waste of energy," he concludes. "Dancing is all right for bringing a crowd of young people together, but it doesn't appeal to me at all."

"I like to talk, though, but I'd rather sit down to do that. Besides talking, I like to read and walk, or—he hesitated,—"ride."

Each question, or statement, is divided into five parts, varying from extreme conservatism through uneasy conservatism, perplexed uncertainty, cautious radicalism, to extreme radicalism, the opposite of the first supposition.

Students are asked to read carefully the statements, and then check the one with which they agree. The R. O. T. C., distribution of wealth, prayer, double standard of morals for men and women, eugenics, and belief in heaven and hell are among the subjects offered for opinion.

The scale of typical statements prepared by Prof. Sheldon is in the process of standardization at the present time, and when fully developed, will provide a measure for the mental habits considered.

The first step in the investigation is to find out what the liberal and conservative habits are, and the second is to determine what kind of backgrounds the people possessing them have.

Leith to Attend World Engineers' Congress at Tokio

Dr. C. K. Leith, professor of geology, will be one of the 300 American engineers and scientists who will attend the World Engineering congress at Tokio, Dr. Elmer A. Sperry, chairman of the American committee, announced Wednesday.

Accompanying Prof. Leith will be Mrs. Leith and a group of the delegation. They will sail Oct. 11 from San Francisco aboard the "President Jackson." At the convening of the congress Oct. 29 there will be presented over 60 papers on such subjects as trans-oceanic telephony, inter-connected power systems, radio, aeronautics, automotive progress, chemistry, physics, and civil, mineral and mechanical engineering.

Prior to the formal calling to order of the meeting sessions, the full membership of the American delegation will be introduced to Prince Chichiby, heir to the throne, at a reception in the Imperial palace.

Christian Bodies Begin Campaign for Financial Aid

A 10-day combined finance campaign of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. at the university will begin this morning when 35 selected canvassers set out to solicit support for the two Christian organizations among all members of the faculty above the rank of instructor. The campaign will continue daily until March 18.

Members of the two bodies met Thursday noon in the East Madison room of the Memorial Union to discuss plans for the canvass. Prof. R. R. Aurner and Miss Susan B. Davis, assistant to the dean of women, gave advice to members of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. as to the best methods of "selling" the organizations to the faculty in order to enlist their support financially.

The program of the Christian societies during the year includes various forms of work and aid among students in order that each may more easily adjust himself to university needs and environment.

12 Wisconsin Men Granted Degrees by Regent Board

Twelve degrees were granted by the board of regents at its meeting Thursday morning. Those to receive bachelor of arts degrees are Mortimer C. Denison, Mellen; Wesley Peterson, Rockford, Ill.; and Henry Sabin Stevens, Tucson, Ariz.

Fred Ernest Gustin, Bangor, and Mary F. Thompson, Elmswood, were given degrees of bachelor of philosophy, normal course. A bachelor of science in the hygiene course was given to Caryl Coe, Barron.

Bachelor of science degrees in the medical course were awarded to Michael Peter Ohlsen, Chicago, and Adrian Herman Scooten, Ames, Ia.

B. A. degrees of the civil engineering course were given to Joseph James Isabella, Spangler, and William J. Peterson, Madison.

La Verne Eastwood, Platteville, was given a B. A. degree in the mining engineering course. William Alexander Sheldon, Lake Geneva, was awarded a degree as bachelor of law.

Students Conduct Research on Rope in Economics 16

In an effort to find out the most economic method of distributing rope to the ultimate consumer, 22 students in economics under the direction of Professor R. R. Aurner, have been carrying on a research by getting fundamental information from a number of grocers and hardware dealers.

The students have talked with these men about several factors that enter into the selling and branding of rope, such as uses of rope, measures of selling, qualities, complaints of consumers, and to what occupation is it most indispensable.

Much interesting data has been obtained from this survey, according to Prof. Aurner. One student has found that there are 67 different uses for the product. It is also discovered that the rope market in the Middle west is greatest among the farmers.

The research, which has been carried on for three years, is explained by Professor Aurner as a laboratory field investigation under faculty control. The great problem before students is that of correlating new material.

Vote Postponed on Union Board Junior Member

The existing university board of regents would be abolished and its place would be taken by a new board of which the superintendent of public instruction would be president, and who would be assisted by five other members who would be appointed by the board of education to serve terms of six years.

The purpose of the bill, it is obvious, is to centralize control of the state's educational policies in the hands of one, big board which, because of its elective nature, and to coordinate educational activities would be directly responsible to the people. The subboards would be directed by the main board's policies.

Students of Orient to Attend Religious Assembly Sunday

A delegation of Far-East students has been invited to the annual Baptist-Methodist convention which will be held at Janesville on Sunday, March 10.

Representatives from the university are Hoon Koo Lee, graduate student, China; Chung Hsi Chang '29, China; S. N. Lei '31, China, and Francisco G. Ponogbanua, graduate student, Philippines, who is chairman of the convention.

Japanese and Indian delegates are still unappointed. In addition to the representatives, other foreign students plan to attend.

Each representative will wear his native costume and make a short speech. Those who do not speak will sing their native songs. Mr. Ponogbanua, who is the principal speaker, will discuss "Religion in the Far East."

Plan College of Education

Visitors Recommend Change of Name at Session

Recommendations that the school of education be made into a college of education under a plan outlined by C. J. Anderson, present director, and that the activities of the University Press bureau be greatly extended so that the university may be properly presented to the state were made by the board of visitors to the board of regents in their joint meeting on Wednesday afternoon.

"The board of visitors have studied this problem from every angle over a period of years," they reported. "Several reports, as stated above, urging the consideration of the teacher training problem in the university have been filed with the board of regents.

"We do not desire to be unduly persistent, but we feel very strongly the necessity for an aggressive educational leadership in teacher training on the part of the university. As has been repeatedly stated, we are of the opinion that the changes should be initiated from within rather than come as a result of pressure from without.

"We believe, however, that the time has come for changes which will permit the university to exercise the leadership in teacher training that the educational forces of the state expect and have a right to demand."

The vengeful Wisconsin cage squad will attempt to annex their final Big Ten game Saturday night when they take on the lowly Maroon quint at the local gym. A win is needed by the Badger cagers in order to make them co-partners with Michigan for conference first place honors.

Chicago, though conceded but a slight chance to win over the Meanwell five, are fresh from a victory over the Minnesota Gophers and are consequently keyed up for their final game. Captain Gist, Kaplan and Changnon lead the offense for the Maroons and of late have been showing a fast offense combination. The Norgren men use a defensive game that resembles somewhat the style of play used by the Meanwell squad.

Co-Captains Elmer Tenhopen and Johnny Doyle will end their varsity careers in the coming tilt as will Lyman Miller and Ray Ellerman. Doyle and Miller have been used as the main reserves throughout the season and they have fitted in well whenever called upon by Coach Meanwell. Tenhopen, who succeeded in out-scoring "Stretch" Murphy in both Purdue games this season, has in his three years of conference play proven as capable a center as any that Wisconsin has ever had. His peculiar back hand style of shooting baskets has caused many a conference team to go home on the far end of the score.

Ellerman, rated by experts as an all conference guard, has been the key man in all back floor play and through his able play perception has broken up many plays in the offense of the opposition.

Foster, Chmielewski and Kowalzyk will be the other members in the line-up Saturday night with Foster out to gain second place in the all conference scoring competition. Little "Chimmy" second to none in the conference as a dribbler is paired with Ellerman as all Big Ten guard, while big Hank Kowalzyk is much favored in his role.

Delta Zeta Loses First Intra-

sided Score

Chi Omega and Phi Omega Pi were the victors in the first of the intramural swimming meets which was held in Lathrop pool Wednesday evening. The former won from Delta Zeta, 37 to 18, after Alpha Chi Omega had defaulted to the latter.

The Chi Omegas took an early start by winning first and second in the side stroke race. The Delta Zetas could not catch up, although they took seconds and thirds consistently. Chi Omega swimmers took all the firsts between them, Virginia Fisher winning the side stroke, form, and dive, while Margaret Wise was first in the tube race.

The advanced events went in much the same fashion. June Deadman won the only first for Delta Zeta by her diving, and H. Findley won a second and a third. Chi Omega captured all the other available points and wound up the evening by taking the relay easily.

Due to the fact that there were only two teams swimming, the points were awarded by giving 4 for first place, 2.5 for second, and .5 for third.

Tube: Wise, Tupper, Snyder.

CARDINAL SPORTS Athletics in the Collegiate World

HERE'S the DOPE

By HAROLD DUBINSKY

The conclusion of the Big Ten basketball race Saturday night will end the career of several invaluable Badger basketball men including Captains Tenhopen, and Doyle, as well as Ellerman and Miller.

Valuable

These four men were great assets to the Wisconsin team this year, and say what you will about "plenty of reserve material for next year" their loss will be severely felt. Tenhopen and Ellerman were regulars, the former at center and the latter at guard. Tenhopen, because of his elongated stature, was able to pull many a game from the rush. His one handed shots brought many a gasp of applause from the spectators.

Ellerman

Ellerman waited several years for his chance to play as a regular, and when he once got that opportunity he took advantage of it by making himself one of the outstanding guards of the conference. Doc Meanwell frankly admitted once this season that Ellerman's work with Chmielewski made them the best pair of guards in the conference.

Funny?

One of the detriments to Meanwell's system of coaching is that it takes so long to become proficient at it that a newcomer to varsity ranks has but little chance of breaking into the lineup. He must wait for a year or two until somebody graduates, to get his chance. So it was with Ellerman. Coming here with a brilliant high school reputation, he was forced to wait on the bench for his chance. If he had another year to play college basketball he would undoubtedly develop into one of the best guards in the country. He is a beautiful dribbler and has a remarkable eye for long shots.

John Doyle

Co-Captain John Doyle is a brilliant player, but he got little opportunity to play this year because of the excellent work of Ellerman and Chmielewski. But Doyle played in several games and when he got a chance he played splendidly. Meanwell will miss Doyle when he lines up his squad next year.

Miller

Another valuable man who will be lost by graduation this year is Lycan Miller. Miller is an outstanding player, but has never quite ranked as a regular, although he entered practically every game. When he was "on" there was no better shot on the squad.

But...

But Wisconsin will have the services of such men as Sammy Behr, Milt Gantenbein, Morry Farber, and several others to fill the gaps.

Big Ten Track

The Big Ten track meet gets under way this evening at Iowa City. Iowa has a huge indoor track and as usual many good records and times should be turned in at this annual meet. Watch the half mile, mile, and quarter mile records. Meanwhile Director George Little accompanied the team to Iowa City for the meeting of Big Ten directors. They have this meeting each year at the indoor meet, and rumor has it that a definite decision on the possibilities of a Pennsylvania basketball game will be secured by Mr. Little.

in Big Ten Meet

Illinois, Present Champions, Favored to Repeat, With Iowa Close Second

Coach Tom Jones will lead 22 of his track men into the preliminaries of the conference track meet at Iowa City today, and the finals tomorrow. The Badgers are favored to land in the first division.

Illinois is a slight favorite, with Iowa running a close second. Wisconsin is expected to nose out Ohio and Chicago for third place, with Northwestern, Purdue, and Minnesota trailing along in the second division. Michigan and Indiana are doped to struggle for the cellar position.

Simpson of Ohio, the returning champion, is considered to have the best chance for a victory in the 60-yard dash, with Larson, Wisconsin; Timm, Illinois; and Root, Chicago, also given a chance to place. Tolan, Michigan, and Pape, Iowa, are given consideration.

High Hurdles

Rodgers of Illinois is the general choice for a victory in the high hurdles, with Allison, Iowa; Gentian, Illinois; and Otterness of Minnesota expected to finish in close order. Saling, Iowa; Rockaway, Ohio; Hatfield, Indiana; and Hayden, Chicago, may also place.

Baird, conference champion from Iowa, receives first mention in the quarter mile. Davidson, Wisconsin; Stevenson, Iowa; and Catlin, Minnesota, are chosen to take the remaining places. Stamats, another outstanding 440 man from Iowa, and Abramson from Indiana may also place.

Martin of Purdue is the returning title-holder in the half-mile, and a close race is expected between him and White of Illinois for first place. Gunn of Iowa; Fink of Wisconsin; Chasey of Purdue; Orlovich of Illinois; and Moulton of Iowa are also included among the best 880 men in the Big Ten.

Mile May Be Close

The mile event has a number of good men to contest it this year. Novak of Illinois (conference champion) has not been competing much this season and is selected for fourth place. Stine, Novak's teammate, is a possible first as are Letts, Chicago, (Continued on Page 8)

Matmen Meet
Boilermakers

Saturday Tilt Will Decide Wisconsin Ranking in Conference

The Wisconsin wrestling team meets Purdue here Saturday afternoon and are putting in a strenuous week of work in preparation for its coming battle. Coach Hitchcock expects one of the strongest fights of the year from the Boilermakers. In looking over previous scores we find that Cornell College of Mount Vernon was defeated by the Badgers by a close score whereas Purdue defeated the Iowans by a big margin.

The Western conference is divided into sections, the eastern and western. Wisconsin is listed in the western half and holds second place. Purdue has the same ranking in the eastern division. A Wisconsin victory will place the team in undisputed possession of second place, and a defeat will put them down to fifth place.

The Purdue meet will be the last on the home schedule, after which the squad travels to Purdue where the Big Ten meet is to be held. The following is the probable lineup:

Wisconsin	Purdue
Hales 115 lbs.	Weinraub
Holt 125 lbs.	Faucett
Stetson (c) 135 lbs.	Divan, or
	Tweedie
Harris, or
Karsten 145 lbs.	Robinson
Hammer 155 lbs.	Walsh
Mathias, or	Hooker (c) or
Osterhaut 165 lbs.	Hadley
Heywood 175 lbs.	Stickle, or
Swenson Heavyweight	Buttner
	Edwards
	Hooker

Cardinal Swimmers Given
Even Chance to Win in Tilt
With Gopher Team Tonight

Minnesota Scene of Combat;
Water Polo Game May Be Cancelled

For their last conference dual meet of the season, Wisconsin's swimming team travels to Minnesota tonight with an even chance to win, in an effort to produce a mark of .500 per cent for the season.

The probability of bringing the water polo squad was not known Thursday afternoon, according to Coach "Joe" Steinauer. The Gophers are having difficulty in forming a polo team this year, though they had one last season.

Capt. Neal Crocker and Lowell Marsh will be Minnesota's aces in the sprints and the backstroke respectively. The Badgers have Arnie Meyer in the breast stroke, Art Thomsen in the backstroke, Earl Hatleberg in the dives, and Capt. "Bud" Lange, Laurie Davis and Tad Tanaka in the crawl to bear the brunt of scooping points.

Freshman Meets

Results of the Wisconsin-Minnesota freshman telegraphic meet will be known Friday night. Coach Steinauer is bringing the marks made by the Badger plebes with him to compare them with Coach Niel Thorpe's yearlings.

The outcome of the Illinois-Wisconsin frosh meet will probably be known by Saturday, states Coach Allen Pederson of the yearlings. The time made by the Cardinal plebes was sent Thursday afternoon to Coach Dick Manley of Illinois.

Fresh Squad

This season's frosh squad is regarded as below the caliber of the 1930 and 1931 freshman teams. A few promising youngsters, however, have been showing up quite well in the past time trials held.

These are Clyde Chizek, Wally Falk, John Ermen and Phil Stone in the crawl; Ken Connell and George Alexander Hall in the backstroke; Bill Murray, W. Allen Abbott and Cooper in the breast stroke, and Howard Montgomery in the fancy dives.

Dan Smith, an especially good diver, flunked out of school. Wally Falk is regarded by Coach Pederson as the most promising of his protégés, as he has bettered the time made by any varsity tankman in the 440 for the last two years.

Lewis Probasco, Alden Olander, Prinz and Vernon Reich are the others who compose the freshman team.

Frosh Seek Win
Over Ohio State
in Meet Friday

The Freshman track team, coached by Guy Sundt, will run off a telegraphic meet with Ohio State's formidable track men Friday afternoon in the Gym annex. Coach Sundt's men have won the two meets which they have participated in so far, defeating Minnesota with a score of 55.9 to 43.2 and Michigan, 51 to 48.

These meets have been won in the face of a great disadvantage. Wisconsin has a much smaller track than the teams with whom they are now competing and in any distances from the quarter mile up, it is a distinct advantage to have a larger track, because on every turn the runner loses time. A Notre Dame coach suggested that the opposing squad be handicapped one-fourth second for every quarter of a mile. Coach Sundt refused to accept this offer. In all of the indoor meets it has been the hurdles, high jump, broad jump, pole vault, shot put and the 40 yard dash that have gathered in the points.

Following the Ohio State meet the Wisconsin yearlings will take on Notre Dame and Illinois on successive weeks. The freshman-sophomore meet will be held March 30.

A Prayer

Dear heaven, thank you so much for abolishing Green Button, Red Gauntlet, Yellow Tasse, and Blue Dragon. Please, on your next visit to the Wisconsin campus do something about White Spades, Badger Aces, Crucible, Mystic Circle, Arrowhead and any other ghosts who can't find resting places. Amen

About Prexy

In Which the Whitewater Register May Learn Something

Dear Whitewater Register:

Basing your attack on the fact that for three and one-half years no university policy has been formally announced, you make the statement that President Frank regards the University of Wisconsin merely as a stepping stone to the White House. With no desire to prolong the discussion we would like to offer two questions for you to chew on.

In the first place, did you ever hear of the good old political game which lets a small paper start an attack on a powerful but partisanship unpalatable figure and which then feeds the murmurs until they are big, husky howls?

Secondly, have you the general theory that the day a man walks into an executive office, a policy descends angel-like and reveals itself in a blaze of white light?

In spite of the fact that we have played with the presidential rumors which have attached themselves to Mr. Frank, we who are acquainted with him, know that no matter what the future may hold for this prominent young man he is at present sincerely and industriously working for the University of Wisconsin. He is studying it and prodding it here and there. These preliminary testings, these advances and retreats and then further advances logically come before the codifying of a comprehensive policy. Just because they go on behind the scenes where you can't see them is no sign they aren't going on.

When someone goes a-swatting our Prexy we always like to think of the other two men who ascended to university presidencies in 1925, Clarence Cook Little and Max Mason. Really Wisconsin isn't so badly off.

The Daily Cardinal

The world is dark in many places. It needs to be set aglow with cheer. So many hearts need the rays of understanding; so many lives need the sunlight of kindness. Even the home town seems a desolate place. It's a great thing to light the lamps for someone in the dark.—Grove Patterson.

Peacocks and Beaux Arts

How Men Revel in Indian Hairdress, and Women in Hindu Costume

THERE never was a peacock that ached to imitate a parrot. There never was a Russian wolfhound who loved to put his stomach on a plane with his knees in imitation of a dachshund. There never was a tabby cat who enjoyed being dressed like a baby. But unlike other animals, there are men who become exhilarated in an Indian's headdress; and many are the women who thrill more to a Hindu maiden's costume than to a Sabatini novel.

In thousands of years, you see, peacocks and cats and dogs haven't changed. But man has gone from fig leaves to animal skins, to armor, to flowing robes, to more armor, to knee breeches, to flowered waistcoat. Each type of apparel typified the man his environment deemed it most advisable he should be.

Now clerk and copper-king wear the same style business suit. Democracy has deprived man of the purple and thrown it to the women's fall style display windows. His bill case, and not his armor, is the only protection he wears over his heart. He reaches to his side and pulls out a summons instead of a rapier. Since swivel chairs ruined his waistline he no longer wears a Roman striped sash, for he has found women can be attracted by the brilliance of his idea as well as plumage, his glasses have become thicker and his courtiers' ruff has dwindled to a bow tie.

But like appendices, and tonsils, the outgrown desires still remain. Man still looks back wistfully on what he has. Repressed desires come out at a Beaux Arts ball. The potential draftsman who will probably spend his life bunting over blueprints, may never ride more than a hobby, but his sheepskin pants, spurs, and red neckerchief give him a galloping feeling, and the breezy boisterous sensation of a right hand man of Custer.

The political science major may marry a man who will respect her work, but for one evening an Arabian veil shrouds all but her eyes which speak to a lord and master. The boy who sells ties in the afternoons swaggers beneath the plumed hat of a Prince Charming; the phy-ed trails the raiments of a butterfly; the girl who wore too many clothes emerges from the abbreviations of a Charleston costume, while the girl who wore too few, serenely arises from hoop skirts, and regards the world with dignity beneath a white wig that has extinguished a flapper bob. The future lawyer streaks his face with the war paint of hate, and the devil's horns start from the head ordinarily preoccupied with neurones and reaction patterns.

Man treasures his regressions. He returns to them apologetically, patently in a spirit of play, and yet with a certain intense delight. Perhaps when the Meiklejohn college celebrates its 200th anniversary with a costume ball, students will elicit the same weirdly powerful enjoyment from their masquerade of red lettered white sweaters, or hip boots and blue shirts, or martial uniforms.

Talkies

Alexander Bakshy discusses in the Theater Arts Monthly the art, or lack of art, of the movies, and the effect of the talkies upon that art. The talking picture, he believes, has an assured future.

"It's performance today may be primitive and crude, (which is hardly to be wondered at considering the infancy of the process) but it has already proved its ability 'to get the stuff over' to the audience. A medium which can do that, and do it with extraordinary ease and effectiveness of the talking picture in its shorter subjects, need not worry about its future.

"The great future awaiting the talking picture, alas, signifies the doom of the silent variety as a form of popular entertainment. As to this it is futile to deceive oneself. Their success is much more due to the warmth and intimacy which has been given the picture by the human voice and which is so unmistakably missing in the silent picture. With this added appeal and the greater ease with which it lends itself to dramatic treatment, the talking picture cannot possibly fail to displace the silent picture from its present dominating position."

Bakshy doubts whether the big companies now making silent movies will be making them ten years hence.

As a Hindu Sees Us

TO those who are accustomed to being reviled and indicated as a "jazz-mad" youth comes a welcome relief from a distinguished visitor to this country, Shrimati Sarojini Devi. This Hindu woman, ex-president of the Indian National Congress and formerly mayor of the City of Bombay, finds that her stay in the New World "has been a period of veritable delight and revelation," as she expresses her sentiments in a letter to Gandhi.

"Through all the incredible tumult and turmoil of the daily existence, I find the spirit of a valiant and vital youth, seeking for some truth, some realization, finer and higher than the Old World has yet conceived or expressed. Though today stone and steel and gold be their only symbols, they express the challenge and dream of youth in all its unspent and invincible courage, power and insolent pride." The M. I. T. "Tech."

I CAN'T GIVE YOU ANYTHING BUT LOVE—HONEST!

I would like to bust you in the head, Baby,
Just to prove that chivalry's not dead, Baby,
Anything I could sing won't be enough,
To reward your accord with a line of rotten stuff.
Don't think you can pass that bull on me, Baby,
Having ears and eyes with which to see, Baby,
If you don't improve, now honestly, Baby,
You won't get another thing but love.

HOW TO RAISE POLAR BEARS FOR PROFIT

We were on the subject of proper introductions for Clarence and Thelma when the whistle blew last time. From there on. Teach Clarence to say, "Mr. Sharp, may I present Miss Thelma Bear." And teach Thelma to say, "Pleased to meet you, I'm sure." Then teach Thelma to say, "Mr. Monsen, may I present Mr. Clarence Bear?" And then Clarence will very properly respond with, "Why don't you shave, Bill?" No, that's not it. "Pleased to meet you, Mr. Monsen."

Special introductions are sometimes ticklish. It is all very proper that the little dears should know that no one is ever introduced to anyone else in a speak-easy. The masked man is liable to turn out to be the chief of police and what embarrassment for the chief the next time you are pinched for overparking. Introductions while descending in a parachute should be brief as possible. Nothing irritates more than to listen through a lengthy introduction just when you are trying to avoid a church spire or a bayonet practice. Warn Clarence that men need not be introduced to their wives but that they all act that way after so long a time.

It is hardly fair that so much valuable time should be spent on introductions when we still have soccer, water polo, the race question, 'Mother's Nose Best,' Mandarin sex novels and Hugh Walpole to cover before the first of April. So we must away.

If either of the little dears seem restless between installments, try buying a Frigidaire and setting them to the task of writing a 10,000 word thesis on "Why the Iceman Was Better All Round."

MELLVILLE CANE
in The Nation

THESE ARE MY JEWELS. By L. B. Campbell
New York: W. W. Norton & Co., pp. 183. $2.00 net.

I can't remember the moth-eaten yarn about the Roman matron who was kidded about not having any jewels. Anyhow she turned on her tormentors and pointed out her twin sons—Castor and Pollux—and said, "These are my jewels." Thus coining a bon mot for Miss Campbell to use in titling her novel.

It will be remembered that Miss Campbell badgered English students here for seven long, weary years. In fact when she left to go to California everybody felt like it was getting rid of a sore tooth. They hated to see her go but go she must.

Anyway "These are My Jewels" is an elegant satire on motherlove or what have you. Evidently Miss Campbell feels that she must swing into the spirit of the day and so she does it hot and heavy. The book, in fact, looks like a satire on a satire. As such it is swell.

The plot, if there is one, deals with an over-sentimental mother which Miss Campbell turns inside out. I don't think that the author was ever caught in a jam closet or behind the woodshed with that bad Jones boy who lived up the street. The mother has a psychosis of the worst variety—mother-fixation, I suppose the term is—and hangs endearingly to all her offspring. She wrecks her son Harry's marriage because she insists on hanging around.

The Campbell book looks narrow to me as a Yale lock keyhole looks to a drunk at 4 a. m., and that, brother, is narrow. This is nothing against the book but it's a good idea to keep it in mind.

A letter from the Norton people says that this is the first fiction they have published in five years. All I've got to say is that they had better stick to the Outlines of Aesthetics, and leave Miss Campbell and her ilk to Putnam and Appleton, two gentlemen if I do say so myself.

Death and Immortality

By JAMES MO
IFE is good. Death is bad. But life is mortal. Death is immortal. Then we're lost. Live how we can, we are trodding the narrow and straight path of life towards the dark domain of death coming at every breath nearer and nearer to our journey's end.

Love of life begets fear of death. "Prominent men and women in all walks of life" have repeatedly expressed constant fear of death. To mention but the best-known, Dr. Johnson all his life possessed with the fear of death. The vien of John Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress was the very same sentiment, and the chief obsession of De Maupassant was the apprehension that his life might come to an end. Romantic poets have pictured death as a rest, a sleep; yet at the bottom of their heart, they couldn't be any braver. Even theologians and religionists were horrified by the same thing. The sanctimonious St. Augustine referred to death as a suffering, a "penalty" and Pascal was "terrified" when he began to think of the short duration of life. Indeed, death kills all, love and hatred, joy and woe, tear and laughter.

Fear of death begets hope for immortality which is supposed to oversweep tide and time, pains and peals. Most men and women are not satisfied with the idealistic immortality of Pythagoras and Plato, nor with the limited-existence of soul-after-death of the Stoics, nor yet with the cosmic immortality of Xenophanes and Spinoza. They want, above all, a personal immortality of Homer and Dante. They aspire after an eternal grand survival on a green and flowery mount, laughing, drinking, dancing, singing with everlasting joy and transporting joy.

This sort of personal immortality unfortunately has been, and will be a lie, an eternal lie; a disillusion, a miserable disillusion. As Huxley said, there is nothing which can be called evidence of future life and,

"Strange, is it not, that of the myriads who Before us passed the Door of Darkness thru Not one returns to tell us of the road Which to discover we must travel too."

(Omar Khayyam).

Even the faithful, God-fearing and heaven-believing folks have in bitterness and despair cried: "Ah, Christ! that it were possible For one short hour to see The souls we beloved, that they may tell us What and where they be?" (Tennyson). But there is another side of the picture. The fear of death, the hope for immortality are essentially luxurious sentiments and privileged follies of the rich, the powerful, the celebrated, the leisured. The poor masses who suffer from hunger, ache, cold, penury, sickness and overwork are always excepted. To them, life is not so dear and death not so bad. And they toil so hard that they do not have time to ponder on life and death and immortality. This they know: if there is immortality, it would take care of itself.

COMPLETE CAMPUS COVERAGE

By The Rambler

Wednesday's Daily Cardinal carried a "Challenge to Co-eds" reprinted from the Daily Illini which read in part: "Don't walk four abreast. . . ." At 3:20 p. m. Wednesday afternoon five A. O. Pi's strolled abreast of course nonchalantly down the north walk from Bascom hall to Park street. Despite the congested traffic behind them, they continued to gossip unconcernedly and to walk leisurely until they reached their destination, the big red brick house on the corner of Langdon and Lake street, Moses Shesnyak '30 tells us.

H. R. Dittmar informed his chemistry section that in denoting a reaction one delta indicates heat, two deltas signify more heat, and three deltas stand for maximum heat. Lou Bellinson '29 believes that this is the newest angle on the Tri-Delts.

Prof. C. P. Higby recently told his lecture section that European college students take up their spare time with politics, while American students are busy with athletics. Evidently the good professor has never made the acquaintance of any of our Prom kings or Union board members.

The high-powered advertising influence is making further inroads on the campus. Now the athletic department in announcing next Saturday's wrestling meet adds the epitaph: "With thrills and spills."

William Young '32, fresh overlord, is of the opinion that pressing the button for the Union elevator is like extracting soap from a central feed line in a public washroom.

A fashion revue at a local theater boasts of at least one co-ed earning pin money. "And all I have to do," she says, "is wear clothes."

SIMPSON'S AT THE CO-OP

"SMART COLLEGIATE APPAREL"

Madison, Wis.

March 7

Dearest Moms,

Honestly, you are just too wonderful . . . Here you send me a gorgeous birthday cheque . . . and the clinic tells me to get more rest . . . and Simpson's at the Co-Op have the most beautiful negligee . . . And what does Drucie do?

Anyhow, I had a lovely time shopping with your cheque . . . Simpson's is absolutely the smartest place in town and now that its branch is near the Hill . . . well, I don't neglect my shopping.

And thanks to my birthday and Simpson's, I have a stunning coolie coat in red and black to wear to feuds at night . . . Even history gets interesting when I study in it. Only $5.95, mom . . . I'm a lot happier.

Such a darling tailored gown . . . Trillium, they call it. I chose soft pink with pastel blue touches . . . Awful smart and yet inexpensive when I think of all the wear I'll get . . . $7.50 isn't so high, is it? I'm wonderfully pleased.

And for P. J.'s to wear while gossiping with the sisters, I got the latest Rose and orchid pongee . . . practical and beautiful. Just what you'd like for me, momsie. I am learning here at college, thanks to that smart Simpson shop.

Honestly, mom, I'm all shot

Goodnight,

Your loving daughter

Drucie

Ever sigh for a little real action?

The hard-looking stranger only yawned at the pay-day activities of Red Gulch.

Piqued at his indifference, several citizens asked why, if Red Gulch wasn't tough enough to interest him, he didn't go back where he came from.

"I can't," the stranger drawled. "That place is so all-fired hard, they kicked all us sissies out!"

A clear case of relativity. If you've smoked merely mild cigarettes all your life, you can't imagine how much you'd cotton to a cigarette that's mild and something more! We refer, as you guess, to Chesterfield.

For mild as they are, they satisfy. You know you're smoking them—and you're right glad of it. They're rich with taste, tobacco taste. They . . . there's no other word, and no other cigarette that fits it . . . they satisfy.
