Shakespeare Players Will Show
Comedy "Candida"
Tomorrow

MORELL LEADING MAN

More than 2000 tickets have been sold for the series of plays to be presented by the Shakespeare Players company tomorrow evening, Friday evening Saturday afternoon, and Saturday evening in the Open Air theatre, behind Bascom hall.

Many tickets have been sold to students in the summer session who have seen the Shakespeare players and have been greatly pleased with their productions.

Thursday evening's entertainment will be George Bernard Shaw's "Candida", a play full of clever lines and unexpected situations. It deals with the struggles of James Morell, a vigorous, good-looking clergyman, against the doubts and jealousy aroused in his mind concerning Candida, his wife, by Eugene Marchbanks, a poetic, imaginative, and subtle youth whom Candida has befriended. A comic element is introduced in the figure of Candida's father, Mr. Burgess.

Tickets for this series of plays are on sale at the booth near Music hall.

Purdue's New Prexy Was Chairman Here

The president-elect of Purdue university, Dr. Charles Edward Elliott, was the head of the department of education and teachers' training here from 1909 to 1915.

Dr. Elliott came to Wisconsin after he had received degrees at the University of Nebraska, Columbia and abroad. In 1915 he left to become chancellor of the University of Montana, from which position he goes to the presidency of Purdue University.

For 25 years Dr. Elliott has been a member of the National Education association and was president of the department of higher education in 1917. He also is a member of the financial inquiry commission and is making a national-wide study of educational expenditures. During the war he was in charge of the student army training corps in the northwest.

NO MIXER WILL BE HELD THIS WEEK END

Prof. P. W. Dykema, and Prof. E. B. Gordon, who are in charge of the all-university mixers, announce that there will be no mixer this Friday, but that plans for the following week are being made. There will probably be no more outdoor entertainments.

NOTED AUTHOR MAKES MADISON WINTER HOME

Sinclair Lewis, author of "Main Street" and other best sellers, is going to live in Madison this winter. He considers Chicago too big for him, and calls Madison "as nice a town" as he knows.

He has just finished the proof sheets on his new novel, which will be published September 15. "Babbitt," which is the name of the new book, is better than "Main Street," Lewis says.

CROWDS THRONG Y. W. C. A. MIXER ON FOURTH EVE

Lathrop Hall Scene of First Summer Session Dance

Between 400 and 500 people thronged the second floor of Lathrop hall Monday night at the first Y. W. C. A. mixer of the summer session.

The evening was started by pairing off the men and women in a grand march. Dean F. Louise Nardin spoke to the assemblage of the tradition of university parties, namely that there were no "stags," be held on observatory hill Saturday organization's office may be rented for 10 cents.

The evening was featured by mixing stunts led by Miss Swaywright of the gymnasium department. The dancing lasted until 11:30.

The next event planned by the Y. W. C. A. is a picnic supper to be held on Observatory Hill Saturday evening between the matinee and evening performances of the Shakespearean Players. The supper is open to all University women and will be furnished by the organization for a nominal fee of 25 or 30 cents. A poster on the Y. W. C. A. bulletin board will announce further details.

A tennis club is being formed for all women who are interested in the game and who have not as yet found tennis partners. A net in the organization's office may be rented for 10 cents a piece or three for a

A limited number of snapshots of members of the faculty are on sale for ten cents a piece or three for a quarter.

Eight Entries In For Tennis Singles

With eight entries already in for the singles tennis tournament among students and instructors, a busy summer on the courts is expected.

The Department of Physical Education, which is in charge of the tournament hopes to get 32 entries by July 8, the date set for opponents to be drawn. Registration for doubles play may be made now. Information concerning the tourney may be secured at the University gymnasium.

Those who have registered for the singles play are R. Stanffer, H. E. Oakey, F. D. Weber, H. W. Davis, O. L. Schneyer, V. Y. Tuttle, E. H. Burnquist, and T. E. Rawlins.

International Club Will Meet Friday

Members of the International club who are in attendance at the summer session will hold their first meeting on Friday evening in Lathrop parlors at 7:30 o'clock. Plans will be made at this time for various activities during the remainder of the session.

Last summer the club was one of the active organizations on the campus. Students from foreign countries always attend Wisconsin in large numbers, and an unusually high percentage of foreign countries are represented during the summer sessions. One of the biggest events of the program last year was the presentation of the "Cosmopolitan Revue" in which acts were given by representatives of 10 countries.

Will Construct New Tank in Men's Gym

A new tank and tank room will be constructed in the men's gymnasium during the summer, according to Coach Thomas E. Jones, director of the Department of Physical Education.

The new tank will be 60 feet long, which is the conference regulation length. The old tank will be torn out, and the new one will occupy the same position, but will be larger and not so closely guarded by steel lockers.

The change will allow a larger seating arrangement and enable swimming as a sport to demonstrate its eligibility to become one of the major forms of athletics at Wisconsin.

Coach Steinauer's tank men won all their dual meets the past winter, beating Minnesota, later Conference champions, Milwaukee athletic club twice, and Illinois and Northwestern.

Round Table Discussion of Coeds is Held

Dean Nardin Favors Knickers
But Disapproves of Painting

GIRLIES CAN'T ROUGE

"Have a caution in judging that young 'neighbor of yours,' was the advice to deans of women given in Lathrop parlors Monday afternoon by Miss F. Louise Nardin, Dean of Women.

Knickers, bobbed hair, rouge, and short skirts came in for a brief mention as Dean Nardin conducted a round table discussion on "Finding The Facts."

The ease with which unjust criticisms given was the warning theme through the entire discussion. "Good behavior is seldom noticed. Bad behavior registers sharply," said Miss Nardin. She stated the case for the college girl, urging the deans of women to observe facts cautiously and to interpret facts fairly, being ready to decide "not guilty" where innocent interpretation of behavior is possible.

"Knickers, when dictated by the need of the girl's exercise, are accepted now as neither conspicuous nor unrefined. But paint on the young," continued the Dean, "seems to me to mean the giving up of a sincere effort for real health and being satisfied with the pretense.

The true key for interpretation of behavior is not the outward appearance but the thought behind that behavior.

If a girl wears a very short skirt for the purpose of making herself conspicuous, if she wears a raincoat just ready to slip off of her shoulders as she goes to and from the lake implying, "This much for convention and no more, then she is deserving of criticism."

"But on the whole, concluded Dean Nardin," in spite of the strangely caricatured picture of how youth is behaving as drawn by some of the modern newspapers, the young people of the present day are not furnishing cause for undue concern.

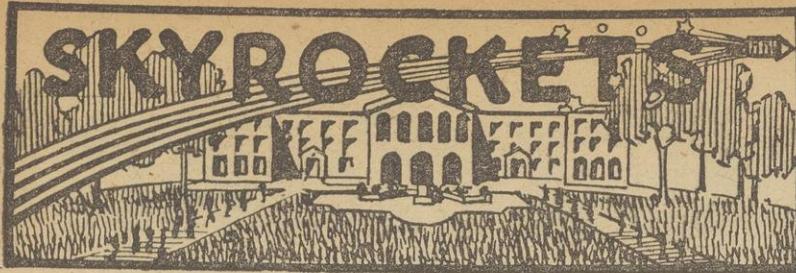

These round table discussions will be held every Monday afternoon at 4:30 in Lathrop parlors. The public is invited to attend and participate.

WOMAN'S HAIR IS BEAUTY HALO WHEN MECHANICS OF COIFFURE ARE HIDDEN

CHICAGO.—“The glory of a woman is her hair.”

So declared Solomon, whose reputation as a connoisseur in feminizing loveliness was equal to his fame as the wisest of men.

Fashion experts of today, assembled in convention in Chicago, agreed with the ancient king, but they declared that to be a woman's glory, hair must be arranged with an art that counterfeits nature.

“Nothing,” said a beauty specialist at this national gathering, “is so conspicuous in a woman as her hair. Gown, toque, lingerie, jewels have each their separate appeal to the eye. But their combined effectiveness is destroyed if the coiffure is incorrect.

“The hair must be arranged with careful carelessness. It must have the appearance of unstudied naturalness. The mechanics of the coiffure must not be noticeable. Hair nets, pins, and other contrivances for holding the hair in place must not show. The prettiness of a coiffure is lost in evidences of artificiality.

“On a correctly gowned and beautiful woman a double-mesh hair net, plainly visible, is a tragedy. It is a detail out of drawing in the picture, a discord in the music. It has an air of cheapness. Its only excuse is its durability, but who wants durable ugliness?

“Well-bred women have discarded these coarse-strand, visible nets. They lack style as well as beauty. Fashion has placed its imprimatur upon single-strand invisible nets of real hair or fine silk. They create an illusion. An indefinable charm distinguishes the woman who preserves the individuality of her coiffure beneath their strong, invisible strands.”

BLAINE TO AID JAILED WAR VETS

In an address at Superior last night Gov. Blaine answered those who were criticizing him for granting too many pardons.

Gov. Blaine announced that he would extend executive clemency to every man in Wisconsin prisons, "who can trace his plight, directly or indirectly, to causes arising out of service to his country."

This announcement the governor said he made after investigation had shown him that in the three Wisconsin penal institutions 352, or 25 per cent of the total number of inmates, were ex-service men. There are scores of these men in jails, he asserted, who ought to be out, advising at the same time that it was necessary for proper application by the prisoners before clemency could be granted.

"No partisan considerations, no attempts at intimidation by political conferences will drive me from the course of duty enjoined upon me by the constitution and dictated by every consideration of human sympathy," Gov. Blaine said. "Twenty-five per cent of the inmates of our state penal institutions is too large a percentage out of 122,000 that went into this war from Wisconsin."

"Shortly after assuming the office of governor, I began to note that among the pardon applications were applications of former service men. I immediately began an investigation, and I pursued that investigation until March 1, 1922. I found on that date that in the three state penal institutions 352—or 25% of the total number of inmates in those institutions—were ex-service men. I also found that I had been granting executive clemency to these men with increasing frequency."

"I then had made a comparative analysis of pardons granted in the last 36 months, the same being for the last 18 months of Governor Philipp's administration, and the first 18 months of my administration.

For the last 18 months of Gov. Philipp's administration, there were 193 applications for pardons, of which 107 were acted upon, there being 53 absolute pardons, 18 conditional pardons in the nature of a parole, and 36 commuted sentences granted; and 86 were not acted upon or refused.

LEARN THE RULES

There is a general appreciation of the improved traffic conditions in Bascom Hall.

That the condition is improved is due to the ready response made by the majority of the students. That there is still room for improvement is due to the continued refusal of some to obey a majority rule.

Independence is an ideal state in which to be. To be free from all restraint, all rules of conduct and direction must be an admirable feeling. On a desert island perhaps that might be possible.

But in a crowded corridor or on a narrow stairway there is little room for freakish inclination or an independent individual.

At the top and foot of each stairway there are directions for the movement of traffic to and from classes, and a careful observance of these rules will eliminate the unnecessary congestion in the doorways, halls and on the stairs. The first two weeks are nearly over and yet there are students who insist on entering the buildings by means of the exits, leaving by way of the entrances and elbowing their way up and down the stairs, meeting students coming from the opposite directions with a complacent smile of self-satisfaction suffusing their faces.

"When ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise."

But what is bliss for one individual may mean no end of annoyance for the many who are in immediate proximity.

It is to be hoped that those who are not observing the rules may soon see fit to do so.

THE REAL OFFENDERS

The lake regulations are again being ignored.

The Daily Cardinal has repeatedly stressed the necessity of heeding these six simple regulations. Captain Isabel has courteously explained the hazards of not obeying them. And yet the violations continue.

All previous exhortations on the subject of lake regulations were primarily intended for and addressed to the students. It was believed that the instructional and business staffs of the university were thoroughly acquainted with the situation and would realize the need of obeying the rules.

That our faith was too charitably extended is now evident. The faculty rather than the students are the frequent violators. To the students who have thus far been generally credited with being the aggressors apologies are due. The point of attack must henceforth shift from students to the august faculty.

Members of the instructional staff, professors of the university, and members of the business department have repeatedly taken out canoes without life preservers, overloaded the canoes without life preservers, overloaded the sary rules.

With a splendid disregard for their lives or for the lives of those who are with them, they have taken out canoes when the lake was splendidly beautiful—and fearful—with waves running high and white-capped.

This in spite of warnings of the dangers and in defiance to respectful requests from the authorities at the boathouse.

It would seem that members of the faculty would be the first to understand the need of the lake regulations. And it would seem that, understanding the need, they would not only observe them but assist in every possible way in their enforcement.

They should at least set the example in obeying the rules that govern the various phases of our university life.

And the faculty as a unit are in no wise to blame for this neglect of duty by some of the members. Doubtless the majority of the instructional staff would be eager to point out to the erring members the seriousness of their neglect.

But that all of the members are not so high-minded is evident. Perhaps there is little that can be done about it except to hope that those faculty members who decline to observe the regulations suffer a change of heart and show a belated inclination to be as courteous to other departments of the university as they expect others to be in theirs.

RESULTS, NOT ALIBIS

Those age-old dispensers of human ills and pleasures, Fate and Circumstance, have handed out some pretty tough problems to a lot of people within the last few weeks. In fact it would almost seem that they were trying the breaking point of most of their visitants.

In this, as in other well regulated universities, the normal amount of school work seems laid out as the maximum attainable load with the student working at high efficiency and in good health. This is conducive to steady, hard work under normal conditions, but under the strain of poor health the handicap is greater.

The prevalence of colds, grippe and other health destroyers, besides being a general nuisance and particular discomfort to the unfortunate also brings to light many a hidden trait of character otherwise seldom noticed.

"That man is a splendid worker under ideal conditions," you say. "But what does he do in time of trouble?" is the immediate return question. The world is full of "fair weather" men, but what about the fellows who can stick while the whole world falls about them? They may be few in number by comparison but greater by far is their worth to their community.

History fails to record with much detail or credit, the lives of myriads of men and their kings who lived splendidly useful lives in the midst of peace and quiet, but those same pages ring deep with deserving praise of the men who, beset by all manner of difficulties, held steadfast to their goal, whatever it might be and fought a good fight against whatever odds might come. Discouragement, ill health, loss of friends, and portends of failure are indeed things which stir men's souls to super-men.

As a rule the man with the alibi is the man who is trying hardest to "get by." The fellow who smilingly accepts the inevitable decrees of Fate and Circumstance, then turns the adverse ones squarely about and makes them serve his own ends, is the man who will ultimately land on top while his competitors are still debating the easiest way out of their trouble.

Is a slight illness bluffing you into inaction? Or can you overstep your troubles and get results in spite of handicaps?—Daily Illini.

Thousands Jam Park to See Fireworks Display Featuring End of Big Celebration Here

With a program of speaking, racing and athletic contests, and dancing and fireworks in the afternoon and fireworks and dancing in the evening, thousands of Madisonians turned out yesterday and participated in the biggest Fourth of July celebration in the city's history.

The streets about the square were crowded throughout the morning and evening, and Monona park held a capacity crowd in the afternoon. Thousands of people packed Vilas park in the evening to see the mammoth display of pyrotechnics.

Great crowds thronged sidewalks and streets at 10:30 as the youngsters of the city gathered at the corner of Main st. and Monona ave. for the marathon and bicycle races. Harry Sweet, one of the winners of the foot race was nearly overcome by the heat and exertion.

Henry Heim, Harry Sweet, and Donald Watson took first, second and third places, respectively, in the marathon race around the square. About fifteen boys under sixteen were entered.

Hamilton Watson, Fred Caruso, and Henry Freiling took first, second and third places in the bicycle race once around the square. Due to the great crowds that thronged the streets it was almost impossible for the boys to get through.

The second bicycle race which was open to boys of all ages won by Norman Douglas. George Schott took second honors, Nichols Burke, third, and Sylvester Aaser took fourth. There were twenty-three boys entered in this race.

vision of "Hi" Smith, Paul Graven, and Arthur Hedquist.

The band paraded the square and gave a concert from the band stand which was erected in the south promenade of the capitol park.

A motley throng spent the afternoon at Monona park. A short talk was given by Judge E. Ray Stevens of Circuit court, welcoming the new citizens to the land and outlining the importance of their work in the future.

"A man may be a traitor in times of peace as well as in times of war when they refuse to follow the colors on the field of battle," Judge Stevens said, following the calling of names of new citizens. "The voter who does not vote with the intention that he is endeavoring to better conditions is not a true voter. New citizens we welcome you to our family of citizens."

Prof. Julius E. Olson of the university spoke on the importance of the day, and told of the greatness of the land whose birthday it was.

"This day is the only one of its kind to be celebrated in the whole world", Prof. Olson stated. "In other countries such as the European powers they celebrate the birthday of a king or queen. We do not celebrate the birth of any one man but the birth of an entire nation, builded on a rock submerged and solidified in sacrifices which have not been in vain. The constitution is that rock—the results of toil and suffering on the part of the men of the revolution and preserved through the Civil War.

The athletic contests were run off without delay. Due to lack of entrants, some of the events were not held. The winners of the afternoon were:

100-yard swim—W. C. Cochrane, 1st; V. C. Rengstorff, 2nd; George Schott, 3d.

50-yard swim, boys under 15—L. Cochrane, Marshal Morgan, A. Olson; for girls under 15—Irene Kelley, A. Corona.

At 7:15 the program was resumed with an exhibition of classical dancing by Prof. F. W. Kehl's dancing pupils, followed with community dancing on the approaches to the capitol.

The greatest display of fireworks ever seen in this city was presented before between 10,000 and 15,000 people at Henry Vilas park at 9:30 last night. Nearly 5,000 automobiles lined the drives to and from the park and were parked inside. The rockets, bombs and feature displays were said by those present to be the best they ever saw. Dancing at the capitol and at the beaches completed the Fourth program.

Donors of the bicycle race prizes were: Gold watch, Eclipse Machine Co., Elmira, N. Y.; gold stick pin set, New Departure Mfg. Co., Bristol, Conn.; pair tires, U. S. Tire Co., New York; set wrenches, Frank Mossberg Co., Attleboro, Mass.; bicycle pump, Bridgeport Brass Co., Bridgeport, Conn.; solar lamp, C. M. Hall Lamp Co., Kenosha; trip cyclometer, Veedee Mfg. The two men stated that they had the joke of the season on "Roundy" Coughlin, sport writer of this paper. It seems that the two were walking through Brittingham park on their way to the lake when they spied "Roundy" and inquired the score of the Stoughton and Madison ball game yesterday.

La Crosse Game Promised To Be Feature of 32d Reunion

Elaborate plans for the entertainment of the fighting 32d division veterans association are well under way and the preliminary announcement that two crack lacrosse teams from Winnipeg, composed of 35 men, is assured is arousing the enthusiasm of some 28,000 men who are members of this division.

The lacrosse game will be a feature of the spectacular field day to be staged on Aug. 29, when 20,000 people will witness these events and participate in the Madison welcome to the 10,000 ex-service men who are expected to attend from every state in the union, with heavy attendance expected from Wisconsin and Michigan, from which states most of the members of the unit enlisted.

Arthur M. McFadyen, manager of the amateur lacrosse teams that compose the Canadian league, states in a telegram today that the men are playing regularly, "like you are playing baseball, and are in excellent shape. Our championship comes off just after this event you are to have, and you can depend upon an excellent contest."

A broadside is being prepared to go to 30,000 men who were in any way connected with the division in a few weeks and this will be the final notices to these ex-service men. A postal announcement was mailed to 28,000 several weeks ago and acceptances have been received from every section of the country. Reduced rates have been secured on all railroads of a fare and a half.

Lenroot In Assault On Tariff Duties

Declares in Senate He Reserves Right To Vote Against Bill

WASHINGTON — Majority leaders in charge of the administration tariff bill were warned today in the Senate by Sen. Lenroot, a leader of the Progressive group, that unless some of the high duties proposed in the tariff bill were brought down to within reason, "he would reserve the right to vote against the measure."

Sen. Lenroot's announcement came at the close of an address opposing the duty of 12 cents a pound on unshelled almonds, which he declared to be unjustified on the showing both of Senators Johnson and Shortridge, Rep., Calif. and of the Almond Growers association of California, in favor of the rate.

"I want to resolve all doubts in favor of this bill," Sen. Lenroot said "but if such rates as these are to be voted into this bill to any great extent I want to say that I will not vote for it."

The Wisconsin Senator said he was in favor of protection but added that he had "no sympathy with the system that seems to prevail here that if the interests of a person in a Senator's state demand exorbitant duties that Senator can go and ask for and receive those duties and then because of the inter-relationship of duties throughout the bill, that Senator will vote for every increase that is proposed."

Sen. Johnson, in a fiery reply, declared he was casting his vote as between the almond growers who were selling at a loss and candy manufacturers who were making 300 percent profits and fighting the rate on almonds.

The California Senator said he had seen Sen. Lenroot sit here day after day and vote for ad valorem duties higher than the ad valorem equivalent of the specific rate on almonds.

He added that the almond growers were asking for the 15 cents duty in order to live, "not to gouge, not to reap 300 percent profits as the confectioners are making."

Sen. Lenroot denied that the candy makers were making any such profits.

The committee amendment carrying the 15 cents a pound rate on almonds finally was approved, 39 to 18.

Two Republicans, La Follette and Lenroot, voted against it and three Democrats, Ashurst, Broussard and Kendrick supported it.

Behrend Tells Turners Of Extension Project

Extension of University ave. was the subject of an address delivered to Madison Turners at their hall Monday evening by Ald. Jacob H. Behrend of the eighth ward.

Ald. Behrend was invited to address the regular meeting of the Turners telling them of the proposed extension and the necessity of running the street through.

"The extension of this street would not be a burden on the tax payers but would merely be in the nature of an investment for the city. The returns would come in later in more valuable real estate," Mr. Behrend stated. "The street is needed to relieve the traffic conditions now found on State st."
