CONFIRM NEW APPOINTMENT FOR GILMORE

Senate Officially Sanctions President's Action; Professor Leaves For Philippines in February

A dispatch received January 17 from the senate at Washington confirms the presidential appointment of Prof. E. A. Gilmore of the Law school to the position of vice-governor general of the Philippine Islands. Although the appointment was made last week while Prof. Gilmore was in Washington, the senate's confirmation, made necessary by the constitution, could not be given until an executive session was held this week.

Grant Leave of Absence

The Board of Regents granted Professor Gilmore a year's leave of absence on January 18, and the new vice-governor will leave for Manila about February 20, accompanied by Mrs. Gilmore, their daughter, and their younger son. The elder son, Eugene A. Gilmore Jr., will remain in the university until June.

The vice-governorship of the Philippines is subordinate only to the governor-generalship, which is at present held by General Leonard Wood. The position corresponds in general to that of vice-president of the United States, but carries much more responsibility in proportion.

Holds Important Position

The vice-governor is secretary of the Department of Public Instruction, which includes under its jurisdiction the Bureaus of Education and of Public Health Instruction, with their under-secretaries, directors, and assistants. He is also a member of a Council of State made up of the governor-general, the presidents of the House and the Senate, and the secretaries of the different departments.

On the appointment in 1913 of Governor Francis McGovern, Professor Gilmore represented Wisconsin in the national conference of commissioners of uniform state law and in 1920 he was reappointed to that position by Governor Emanuel Philipp.

New Time Tables to Be Issued Tomorrow

A limited number of time tables have been received from the printers and are being distributed to the faculty. The tables will probably be ready for student distribution tomorrow morning. They are improved by placing the course and section both before and after the title of the course.

Detailed and final information regarding registration for the second semester will be given out at the registrar's office tomorrow morning.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

Those persons changing addresses between semesters should notify the circulation manager at 752 Langdon street promptly with a postal card in order to secure regular delivery on February 7.

Sell Every Ticket To Minnesota Game

All tickets for the Minnesota basketball game to be played here Saturday night were sold yesterday afternoon at the student sale. The sale opened at 1 o'clock and at 5:30 the last of the 2250 tickets had been disposed of.

A line formed early during the noon hour before the booth in the gymnasium. At times during the afternoon the line extended up the stairs and completely around the gymnasium floor. Many people waited an hour and a half for their tickets.

It was originally planned to hold an open sale for non-students today and tomorrow, but the student demand has absorbed the entire supply. Two tickets were sold to each student on presentation of fee cards.

Short Course Men Will Revive Former Alumni Association

A movement for the revival of the Short Course Alumni association took definite form at the Short course convocation held in Agricultural hall yesterday afternoon.

"It is very important from the standpoint of the university that we know where our Short course graduates go and what they do," declared Dean Russell in an address on the subject, "The Value of an Alumni Association."

Mr. Russell declared that more short course graduates are engaged in the vocation for which they are trained than graduates of any other course in the University of Wisconsin.

"The Country Magazine will be the official organ of the Short Course Alumni association," said W. H. Ebling '22, editor of the Country Magazine. It is planned to devote a page of the Country Magazine to Short course news hereafter.

Al Penzenstadler represented Short course men in an address urging his class-mates to boost the Alumni association.

The resolution that was adopted by the Short course students and alumni was, "Resolved, that a Short Course Alumni association be revived and that the Country Magazine be adopted as its official organ."

Group Seat Changes Must Be in Tonight

Any changes in the group orders of tickets for the Junior Prom must be made by tonight, according to Lucius P. Chase, chairman of the ticket committee. All organizations will be held responsible for their orders as they stand at that time. Chase can be reached at B. 4659.

Winter Copy Due For Octopus Feb. 1

Copy and art work for the Winter Octopus should be turned in not later than February 3, according to announcement made at the Octopus office yesterday.

The eccentricities of winter and sidelights on winter sports are suggested to contributors as copy possibilities for the February number.

"Lit" Writers Play With Analysis--Tell Of Cats, Lips, Love

By William M. Sale

Those who write for the January issue of the Literary Magazine are obsessed with a passion for analysis. They run the gamut from the elusive feminine "cattiness" of "One-Tenth Cat," through the room-mate and landlady stages, to the frankly satirical but rather tiresome essay, "Concerning Humanized Intellectuals." The element of relief, or variety, as you will, is furnished by a flippant, running commentary in the Menckonian style which sets forth the "Ramifications of the Wisconsin Mind," and some very good verse, which sings, among other things, of the lips and loves of which the Lit is so fond.

"The Man in the Moon," a one act play by Lloyd George, is the center-piece of this issue and, withal, the most entertaining contribution. It is well-constructed, and the humorous situations are handled satisfactorily. The dialogue moves along, though in spots it shows signs of hasty scribbling. The conflict between the characters is managed with ease, and, contrary to the general rule of one act sketches I believe the play could be staged, as well as read, with enjoyment. Let those who long for more than entertainment cavil at this play; I liked it.

"The Ramifications of the Wisconsin Mind" are more amusing, and more enlightening than the far-famed "Mirror" presented recently by The Commerce Magazine. The authors, who, strangely, hide under pseudonyms, do not desire to be taken seriously; and who would spoil such delightful comment on (Continued on Page 8)

Twelve Men Picked In Debate Tryouts

Results of the debate tryouts which were held yesterday afternoon and evening as posted late last night by Prof. James M. O'Neill, of the speech department, showed that the following men made the squad: Melbourne Bergerman '22, Phil. G. Deicher '23, Clyde W. Gleason '23, Albert W. Inman '23, K. K. Karel '23, Leo H. Kohl '22, F. H. Kraege '22, F. J. Moreau '22, Robert B. Stewart '22, Sterling Tracey '22, Wayne L. Morse '23, and H. W. Blake '24.

Sixteen men competed in the tryouts. The question debated was: Resolved that the United States Government should cancel all war debt due her from her allies in the Great War. This question is to be debated in the triangular debate with Michigan and Illinois which will take place on March 17. A triangular debate with Northwestern and Minnesota will probably be held on April 17.

Bonus Checks Are Distributed Today

Soldier bonus checks will be distributed today and tomorrow at 151 Bascom hall, according to an announcement by George Chandler, assistant secretary of the faculty. Hours for distribution will be 8:30 to 12:30 a. m. and 1:30 to 5:30 p. m. Friday, and 8:30 to 12:30 Saturday.

ZONA GALE TO GIVE LECTURES AT UNIVERSITY

Authoress Secured by Regents to Talk on American Novel; Faculty Changes

Zona Gale, noted authoress and lecturer, has been appointed by the Board of Regents to deliver a series of three lectures here in April on "The American Novel."

Miss Gale is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and has gained distinction as the writer of novels depicting life in the Badger state. Among her works are "Friendship Village," and "Lulu Bett." The latter was presented at the Parkway theater recently in dramatic form. Miss Gale has lectured here and at other universities.

Make Faculty Appointments

Other appointments made by the regents were:

College of Letters and Science—Prof. Charles Cestre, of the University of Paris, was appointed lecturer, with professional rank, in the Romance languages for the second semester; Donald A. Piatt was appointed instructor in philosophy, and May M. Bausch, part-time instructor in German. Student assistants appointed were: Frieda Meyer, German department; Jean Cline, Hallie Farmer, C. H. Laub, Alina Lindegren, Carl Lemm, and John Rydjord, history; Wilford G. Payne and Theodore L. Scholtze, philosophy; Florence M. Lamppert and Olive E. Mitchell, public school music; B. W. Chapleau, C. M. Chapman, J. A. Dollard, Neil S. McKay, business administration. The resignation of V. T. Thayer, instructor in philosophy and psychology, was accepted. Prof. C. K. Leith, geology department, was granted leave of absence for three months.

Hold Prize Contest For "Student Life" Section of Badger

Grand prizes and periodic prizes will be the awards of the contest for pictures for the "Student Life" section of the 1923 Badger which will be conducted for the next six weeks. Pictures of all phases of university life are wanted. All photos should be addressed to Horace Powell, editor 1923 Badger, Union building.

The contest, which will consist of six periods ending March 6, is open to any one connected with the university, faculty as well as students. At the end of each week period a prize will be awarded for the best picture of the period, and at the end of the six weeks the grand prizes will be awarded. No contestant may win more than one grand prize, but it will be possible for him to win more than one periodic prize.

One entire section of the 1923 Badger with special art work will be devoted to pictures illustrating every possible phase of student life on the Wisconsin campus.

"We are attempting to accomplish in pictures what the Commerce Mag accomplished in the Wisconsin Mirror," said "Hap" Powell, editor of the 1923 Badger.

Wisconsin Graduate Wins Bellevue Prize

Dr. Meredith F. Campbell, graduate of the university with the class of '16, has been awarded the $100 cash prize, offered by the alumni of Bellevue Medical school for the best essay written by a member of Bellevue hospital medical staff, based on clinical observation and studies made while on service in the hospital.

Dr. Campbell was a member of the class of 1916 in the university and took his M. A. here in 1917. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta fraternity, and of Sigma Sigma, honorary medical fraternity. During the holidays Dr. Campbell visited here at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. B. C. Campbell, 409 N. Murray street.

Committee Issues Application Blanks For Scholarships

The committee on Loans and Scholarships under the direction of Prof. J. E. Olson, chairman, has issued application blanks for the Wisconsin Scholarships.

Applicants must be first year students, must be registered as residents of Wisconsin, and must have shown worth and ability and need of financial assistance. Either men or women may apply. Students receiving a monthly bonus from the state are not eligible.

Application blanks may be obtained at the Registrar's office and should be filled out and returned to the registrar, February 8 or 9, and not before.

"These scholarships were first awarded by the regents in 1919 at the time of the S. A. T. C. when a great many students were in need of financial aid, and now these same scholarships are continued to help needy students who show ability and ambition," said Professor Olson.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

CHANGES SURE IN CONFERENCE CAGING GAMES

Wisconsin or Gophers to Fall in Weekend Play

GAMES TONIGHT

Northwestern at Chicago.
Indiana at Ohio State.

Although eight Big Ten conference basketball teams go into action tonight and tomorrow night, only one of the five leaders is apt to be slipped from the perfect percentage column: namely, the loser of the Wisconsin-Minnesota game.

Indiana did not make a very brilliant showing against Northwestern last week, winning by only three points. Consequently, the Buckeyes stand a fair chance of beating them. Coach Levis lost several of his veterans, among them the star, Dean, who was the unanimous choice of all conference centers. Ohio State, on the other hand, has a good offensive machine, although their defense is weak, as evidenced by the fact that 73 points were scored on them in two games.

Maroons Meet Purple

Northwestern seems to be slated for a fifth beating from Chicago tonight. The Purple are simply outclassed. Chicago started well against Ohio State, but lost to Michigan a few days later. The Maroon team is such that it will improve as the season progresses and teams that meet Norgrens outfit at this stage of the season are fortunate.

The Wisconsin-Minnesota clash is the headliner tilt of the week-end. One must drop from its present rating. The teams are deadly rivals, and the game should be one of the best played in the conference this year.

Purdue travels to Iowa on Saturday for its first real test. The fact that the Boilermakers licked Northwestern 31 to 0 counts for little, but this game will give other contenders an opportunity to get a line on Lamberts highly touted aggregation. Last year Iowa put a halt to several championship marches, and the Hawkeye team this season is capable of doing as much in spite of the two defeats already received.

May Wreck Purdue

Should Iowa win from Purdue, the blow would be one that the Boilermakers would hardly be able to overcome. They have a hard schedule left before them, and Wisconsin, one of the most dangerous contenders for honors, has practically finished its first semester's games without a reversal. This fact means a lot when it is remembered that Doctor Meanwell's teams usually have a knack of winning most of their second semester games. Any Meanwell team that survives its first semester's games, undefeated, is to be greatly feared by fives hoping for the championship.

Zeta Psi and S. A. E.'s Win Exciting Games In Fraternity Tilts

The Zeta Psi-Sig Chi, and S. A. E.-Phi Gamma basketball games were the headliners of the fraternity tilts last evening.

The Zetas took a hard-fought game from the Sig Chis, with a score of 10 to 8. The S. A. E. quintet started out strong, getting a lead on the Phi Gammas, and keeping ahead during the first half and the first part of the second half.

The results of games played were as follows:

Zeta Psi 10, Sigma Chi 8.
Sigma Alpha Epsilon 9, Phi Gamma Delta 8.
Phi Kappa Psi 14, Alpha Tau Omega 5.
Alpha Gamma Rho 16, Sigma Phi 12.

Presenting-- "GUS" TEBELL

Gustav K. Tebell '23 is one of Wisconsin's all-around athletes who has landed a berth on the basketball team this year.

"Gus" played on the West Aurora, Illinois, high school team for three years prior to entering the university. After graduation, he went into the service, and did not enter the University of Wisconsin until 1919.

He won his Frosh basketball and football letters, and has won letters in the same two sports annually since that time. Last fall Tebell was one of the best ends in Big Ten football, and his basketball improvement this year has been nothing short of phenomenal. He has played a consistent guarding game, and has become a floor man of no mean ability.

The all-around ability possessed by Tebell is well recognized on the campus, as evidenced by his being elected president of the Junior class. In addition, he is a member of White Spades, Inner Gate, Star and Arrow, Athletic Board, and Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Ski-Jumping Made Intra-Mural Sport By Athletic Board

Body Denies Petition to Make Wrestling Major Sport

Ski-jumping was raised to the position of an intra-mural sport at a meeting of the Athletic board held Tuesday afternoon.

A petition presented by Coach George Hitchcock to make Varsity wrestling a major sport at Wisconsin was denied by the board.

The board tabled a petition by Major John S. Wood to make rifle shooting a minor sport.

With ski-jumping made an intra-mural sport, teams entering various intercollegiate tournaments will receive points counting towards the Nelson intramural sport trophy. Any men who compete in national or state ski meets will be barred from participation in intercollegiate competition.

Several men were discussed for manager of the University circus, but no appointment was made.

Members of prospective managers of the high school basketball tournament to be held here in March were also discussed, but no definite choice was expressed by the board.

HOCKEY TEAM MEETS GOPHERS AT 3:30 TODAY

Badger Team Remedies Weak Points and Looks For Win

For their second game of the season, Coach Viner's Badger pucksters will enter the lower campus rink this afternoon at 3:30 to meet the strong Minnesota team. In preparation for the twin meets scheduled for today and tomorrow with the much heralded northerners the men have been working hrough-out the week in perfecting their passing game and goal defense which seemed to be their weak points in the contest with the Milwaukee squad.

Except for the loss of Johnson and Woods, whose places Coach Viner has been working hard to satisfactorily fill from his string of new players, the line-up for the meet today will be practically the same as that which started in last Saturday's game.

O. R. Baker will probably start at center. His work is one of the strong points of the team, and his playing will be a feature of the contest. His consistent work in practice has shown him to have the makings of a crack puck chaser, and he will be a strong contender for a permanent berth at center on the Badger team.

Starting with a clean slate, the Gopher players will endeavor to keep their record unbroken in the coming contests. Captain Chet Bros, himself a hockey player of much experience, leads a team of veterans who will put up an interesting scrap. In their home district they have been cleaning up all comers. Their over-confidence, however, may be a point in Wisconsin's favor. Coach J. V. McDonald of the Minnesotians will lead his bevy of crack players into town this morning, and they will return to Minneapolis Saturday night.

BEARS INVITE BADGER TRACK MEN TO MEET

Jones Receives Bid to Attend California Contest

An invitation to the Wisconsin track team to participate in a meet with the University of California at Berkeley, Calif., next spring was received here yesterday by Coach Thomas E. Jones, director of athletics.

L. A. Nichols, coach of the far western institution, telegraphed Coach Jones, asking that the meet be run off either on March 25, April 1, or April 8, at Berkeley, with April 1 as the preferred date.

Badgers Favor April 15

The Wisconsin department wired back answering that the only date to be considered would be April 15. The University of Wisconsin will have its spring vacation at that time, and members of the track team would miss few classes if they made the trip to the far West during the middle of April.

"Personally, I favor the western trip if we have a good team," said Coach Jones yesterday afternoon. "It will be up to the Athletic council to decide whether Wisconsin can accept California's invitation."

"If the men remain eligible, Wisconsin should have a strong track and field team. We have some of the best distance men in the country in George Finkle and Wall. Our sprints are well strengthened by the addition of Ralph Spetz, who was unable to compete last year, and we have good men in the field events."

MORE BUSINESS IN EDUCATION

THE watchword of modern business is efficiency. Industrial engineers, political leaders, financiers, and educators—the men who have their hold on the pulse of the nation—insist more and more on the need of greater efficiency in our industrial and social life. Efficiency is the quest of every active and responsible man who seeks advancement of the specialized field in which he has chosen his profession.

But like every worth while idea in this cramped world of ours, the word efficiency has been worked almost to death. It has unfortunately become a jarring commonplace. Yet efficiency is no hollow phrase. It is a quiet, a yearning that fills the life of the far-sighted man of action.

Everywhere in creative spheres men are striving to proportion their lives to gain the maximum benefit and contribute the greatest good to their profession and to society. Efficiency is the alpha and omega of civilization. The more complex our life becomes, the more men leave behind the confusion of their barbaric selves, the more urgent is there the need for classification, for drawing lines of demarcation, for analysis. Herein the element of efficiency plays its role. It means knowing exactly at what point one stands at every turn. It means knowing exactly where the tools one uses are and using them to their highest capacity. It means the fullest development of the instruments that are at one's disposal.

The business man has much to teach the student in respect to efficiency. The student is often careless of his time as well as of the source of his subsistence. But to the business every scrap is saved, every worker is obliged to maintain an optimum speed, every effort is exerted to tabulate the output and income.

Intellectual life, it seems, does not permit such numerical scrutiny, yet much can be done to imitate the ways of the man of business and adopt some of his spirit of saving and calculation.

It would be a valuable asset to all of us if students and men who live by their minds could become business men—not in the sense of unsatiable dollar-chasers, but in the sense of vital controllers of their lives and minds to reach the maximum of their capabilities.

SELLING THEIR COURSES

A GREAT deal has been said in these columns urging the students to realize the paramount importance of their academic work amid the feverish distractions of campus life. The social craze has been denounced. The tremendous amount of time wasted in useless outside activities has been decried.

All this has been a consideration of the problems from the student's point of view. A word is now in order concerning the responsibility of the faculty in raising the standards of the intellectual life of the university.

Many members of the faculty are frankly cynical of the great mass of students. They assume that the average student is interested in little more than getting by. Most of the students are held guilty of stupidity until they prove themselves innocent. The result is that the instructors holding these ideas present their subjects in a perfunctory manner calculated to stifle the interest of the best students.

The faculty has an obligation in this business. That obligation, to use the words of the mart, is to "sell" their courses to their students. If the instructor does not exhibit a vital interest in his course he cannot expect his students to manifest any more interest. The instructor is often half the course. He can inspire his students or he can repel them.

Instructors and students should be partners in the pursuit of learning. The responsibility for high standards is dual. Both sides should accept their full share of the task.

THE FORENSIC SEASON

THE selection of the intercollegiate debaters for the coming contests with Michigan, Illinois, Minnesota, and Northwestern turns all eyes toward the 1922 forensic season. The question for debate will be the cancellation of the war debt of the Allies to the United States. This question, involving all the aspects of the world-wide economic situation, will create unusual interest in the forensic battle.

The no-decision experiment tried last year will be abandoned and one competent critic will serve as judge.

Last year forensics achieved a success unparalleled in the past generation. It was demonstrated that the discussion of great public questions from the platform can attract and hold the interest of students. This year it is hoped that the record of 1921 will be surpassed. Forensics deserve to live.

CLASSROOM COURTESY

One of the outstanding differences between the college of half a century ago and the present day university is the absence of that mass of petty rulings which governed the life of the undergraduate in former years.

The gradual removal of restrictions on personal conduct implies a corresponding increase in confidence in the undergraduate on the part of the faculty. It is regrettable that in several cases student freedom has been abused here at Columbia. We do not intimate that particularly flagrant transgressions have occurred. It is the little incidents of daily classroom occurrences which are referred to. Respect to professors and consideration for fellow students may be evidenced in more ways than one. Think it over the next time you light a cigarette before the prof has finished giving out his assignment. —Columbia Spectator.

Italian 1a will be given in the second semester. The hour will be 1:30, the room to be announced later. Students wishing to register for the course are requested to see Mr. Lipari at 321 Bascom hall.

Varsity Students Have Lead Roles In Y. W. Comedy

An opportunity to shine in musical comedy is given to university students in "Springtime," which is to be presented by the Y. W. C. A. at two performances, matinee and evening, at the Parkway theater, January 21. Many leading parts are being taken by university students, and the active supervision of scenery, properties, and lighting is being handled by Sydney Thorson '24, and James Irwin '24.

Willet Kempton '23 shows real ability in the portrayal of Bobby Brewster, the comedy lead. Olivia Fentress '23 takes the part of a modern flirt and later portrays her own grandmother, a flirtatious vamp of 1868. Carroll Robb '24 plays opposite Mrs. Carl Russell Fish in the leading singing roles. Aletha Smith '24, Lauris Owen '23, and a number of graduates are also included in the cast.

"Springtime" is decidedly a musical comedy featuring choruses, clever dances, and solos by the leading characters.

Tickets for the play can be obtained at the city Y. W. C. A.

Will Show Prom Pictures Sunday

Prom pictures will be placed on display Sunday in the Photoart, McKillop's Art shop, and the Portrait shop, according to Hone and McKillop, official Prom photographers.

Besides the picture of the Prom Chairman, Prom Queen, and the assistant chairmen and their partners, there will be a group of Madison girls, and one of Chicago girls.

Survey Shows Light Fiction to be Taboo Among "U" Students

That Wisconsin students are not readers of light fiction is a fact proved by the popularity of heavy periodicals in preference to the fiction magazines, as shown by a survey made at the library recently. The most frequently used periodicals in the library, and there are 3,000 different varieties, are Current History, The Literary Digest, Review of Reviews, and The Bookman.

"The popularity of fiction depends upon the time of the school year," said Miss Ruth Wolfe, assistant in the periodical division of the library. "At this time, when examinations are approaching, fiction magazines have scarcely any demand."

The library has magazines from many foreign countries. Among them are some from China, Japan, Switzerland, Netherlands, Germany, France, and Spain. These magazines come from an exchange office in New York which deals with a firm in Leipzig, Germany.

Besides all the general magazines, a great many technical periodicals are in demand, such as mechanical magazines, which are sent to the engineer's library; women's magazines and agricultural journals, which are sent to the agricultural library, and medical magazines for the clinic.

About 25 different newspapers are also kept in the periodical room, though most of the papers are found in the newspaper room on the first floor of the library. Nineteen of the papers in the former room are American papers, four are from London, England, and two from Paris.

Sigma Delta Chi to Act as "Paper Boys" For Prom Cardinals

Members of Sigma Delta Chi, honorary journalistic fraternity, plan to act as "paper boys" in the house delivery of Prom Cardinals Saturday morning after Prom, it was announced on Thursday.

The Prom Cardinal will be the only edition of the paper during the examination period of nearly two weeks. The staff of the Prom edition has decided to devote a limited space to campus news to fill in this gap, and arrangements have been made for a special house delivery in addition to the distribution to be made to boxes Prom night. Staff members pointed out that this arrangement was made to enable students desiring to send copies away to their family and friends to be certain of having a paper in good condition.

Distribution to houses is to be made to any who order five or more copies. Orders are being received by telephone or mail by Bruce R. McCoy, 430 W. Gorham street, Badger 1751, and by George Greene, 445 W. Gilman street, Badger 7929.

Many Hear Burleigh, Composer, Violinist, In Pleasing Recital

Last evening a large and enthusiastic audience greeted Cecil Burleigh, who appeared in a faculty recital at the University School of Music. The welcome amounted to an ovation before the end of the program.

Had the sole interest been that of hearing Mr. Burleigh's playing, the word would have gone about that our city welcomes a superb violinist. This impression is only dimmed by the distinction of the artist's work as a composer. No one present will express borrowed opinion in the statement that Cecil Burleigh, the composer, presented as fine music as that of any living writer for the violin.

The first half of the program was given to the Handel D-Major Sonata and a group of shorter pieces. Mr. Burleigh's playing of Handel was distinctly convincing. His is an unusually grateful tone, warmly vibrant and yet not sentimental.

In the presentation of his own compositions Mr. Burleigh's playing was most enjoyed. The second concerto, which of his two he declares to be his favorite was the high point of the evening's program. It is tardy to speak of the distinction that Mr. Burleigh's compositions have attained in the musical world. This concerto adds to its composer's repute for having really musical inspiration and a finely poetic manner of expressing it.

The last group on the program consisted of several of those shorter compositions which have added equally to his renown. Of these, two were repeated: "The Village Dance," and "The Hills." As other encores Mr. Burleigh played "Orientale," "Hindoo Chant," and his own "Fairyland."

Dr. Charles Mills supplied accompaniments of color and sympathy. Especially in the concerto, of which the piano part is much more than mere accompaniment, was the playing of Dr. Mills appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. Richie, played by William Tannewitz '23 and Dixie Davis '23 cause all the trouble in "On the Hiring Line," the Pre-Prom play. As amateur detectives—and still only butler and cook serving in the Fessenden household—there are on a continual quest for evidence.

in the above scene Richie has discovered a clue. He is sure there is something crooked going on and before he is through he has found enough evidence to upset the whole household and some of the neighbors too. Richie's part in the quest consists largely of queries as to "what's it all about," and "what you lookin' for now?"

FRENCHMAN TO JOIN FACULTY

Prof. Charles Cestre of Paris University Given Professorship

Prof. Charles Cestre, of the University of Paris, will join the faculty of the Romance languages department of the University of Wisconsin for the second semester this year, beginning in February, as French exchange professor. He was appointed lecturer, with the rank of professor, by the Board of Regents last week.

Professor Cestre spoke in Madison in 1919 at a public meeting and also before the Rotary club.

He will give courses in "French Romantic Poetry," and "The Contribution of France to the Human Ideal," as well as "The English Romantic Poets and the French Revolution," in the English department.

Studied in America

Professor Cestre first came to America to study for the master's degree at Harvard. Later, in 1905, he received the doctor's degree at the University of Paris, and, after serving as professor of English in the universities of Lyon and Bordeaux, returned to Harvard in 1917 as American exchange professor. In 1918, as lecturer of the Alliance Francaise, he lectured in many American universities and received the LL.D. from the University of California.

Returning to France in 1918, he took the chair of American Civilization and Literature which had just been founded in the University of Paris, while the Germans were 50 miles away, as a manifestation of French gratitude to America.

In 1919, he was sent to America by the French government to investigate conditions in American industry. He taught in the University of California during summer session and spent two months visiting industrial plants. Stopping at Madison he spoke before the Rotary club and at a public gathering.

Professor Cestre is known for his tion of American industry, "The English Romantic Poets and the French Revolution," "Shops and Housing of Workingmen in the United States," "The Growth of English Democracy," books on Bernard Shaw, and contributions to American magazines.

Curfew Rings At 10 For A Change; Students Like It

If you are harboring any fond dreams of whiling away the weekend in dancing as an antidote for the strain of exam preparations,—if you cherish the idea that the only-girl-who-understands-you will get special permission to cheer you up Friday and Saturday nights,—wake up and listen to this mournful tale. "Curfew SHALL ring to-night, and ring at the hour of 10."

No dances may be held this weekend, and all co-eds must be in by 10 o'clock. Special permission is taboo. S. G. A. rules continue in full force. Late permission may be granted at the discretion of the house mother for only such special attractions as The Bat, Springtime, and Chauncey Olcott.

That this edict is not entirely contrary to the wishes of the students themselves is upheld by the questionnaires which Dean Goodnight is receiving from all organized groups on the campus. Practically all answers show approval of the faculty's action in keeping the two weeks before exams free from social events.

Football Advisor Picked

Medical school—The resignation of Howard Curl, instructor in roentgenology, was accepted. Ernestine Kandel was appointed laboratory assistant in infirmary and hospital; Avid Lindberg was appointed technical assistant in radiology.

College of Engineering—R. A. Rose was appointed instructor in steam and in engineering. Anthony W. Pesch was appointed fellow in chemical engineering on funds supplied by the Wisconsin Gas association. Chester Hunziker was appointed student assistant in machine design.

Extension division—Richard E. Ellingswood was appointed instructor in retail selling, Oshkosh district.

Department of Physical Education—Prof. Warner Taylor was appointed academic adviser to the football men in the absence of Coach Richards. A. E. Minert was appointed coach of freshman baseball.

Writers Analyze in January Lit Issue

what the university student thinks about by forging upon it the responsibility of weighty consideration. These two young fellows are laughing, so why not laugh with them? There's much to laugh at.

The most formidable piece of verse in this issue is S. G. Weinbaum's "Semiramis." It possesses exceptional lyrical rhythm—trite comment, perhaps, but the ringing music of the piece almost lures one into forgetting the theme of the tale. Walter Schwinn's "Sonnet" is restrained and well-conceived, with several pleasing figures. "Apud Infernos," by Gaston d'Arlequin, has good imagery and phrasing.

The many women who have lost their loves and remember their kisses are still writing their tragedies in verse. I suppose the happy lovers do not lapse into poetry. Pennell Crosby's "Design With Motive in Black" is colorful, but Oh, Gosh, Annabel! I like Margaret Emmerling's song, "April;" it sounds a distinctly plaintive and fanciful note. "Afermath," by Cheryl Mohr, is well-turned, but oh, so tragic! "One-Tenth Cat," by Elizabeth Katz, is reminiscent of Chadbourne hall and the Freshman Theme. Alfred Galpin's "Impressions of H.

L. Mencken" are rather more personal than convincing, but perhaps this is as it should be. "Concerning Humanized Intellectuals," by Earl Hanson, is not sharp enough for excellent satire, though it picks up tremendously near the end.

I wonder why Paul Gangelin does not write more editorials. They are forcefully written, with a flare of good sea-going spirit. Is the one in this issue his?
