UNION ISSUES PLEA TO OVER 20,000 ALUMNI

Wisconsin Alumni Magazine
Supplements Mailed to Grads; Faculty Drive
Nets $14,000

A call to over 20,000 alumni and former students of Wisconsin to do their part toward the completion of the Memorial Union drive, was issued today.

Twenty thousand supplements to the Wisconsin Alumni magazine, devoted exclusively to the Memorial Union proposition, have been mailed out, to mark the opening of a nation-wide alumni campaign.

Birge's First Message

President E. A. Birge's Christmas message to all the alumni and former students is the first message issued of this nature since President C. R. Van Hise sent a holiday greeting to the boys in France in 1918.

The total figures of the faculty drive, submitted by Prof. Frank C. Sharp, amount to almost $25,000. Of this $14,000 was subscribed in this drive and $11,000 two years ago in the drive of 1919. Still some money has not yet been turned in, but the allegiance of many faculty members to their undergraduate universities has handicapped the drive somewhat.

The same plan of organization will be carried on in the alumni campaign as existed here in the student body. The first complete workable mailing list of all alumni and ex-students since 1910 has been prepared by the Memorial Union committee and several mailing sheets will be sent to each person. In January, organization will be started in each important alumni (Continued on page 12)

"CAP" ISABELLE SAVES 68 LIVES

Sixty-eight persons were rescued from drowning in Lake Mendota during the past season by Capt. Thomas Isabell of the university life saving station, according to his report at the close of the season. In addition, the life guard with his motor boat conveyed all the racing shells, recovered two bodies, and enforced the safety rules to reduce the danger to the thousands of students who swim and paddle canoes on the lake.

Two students were drowned during the season, both in canoe accidents during stormy weather when all had been warned to stay off the lake. These were the first students drowned in the lake since the life-saving station was established in 1917, and the fatalities broke Captain Isabell's clear record of four seasons without a student drowning. Up to the year 1917, before he was employed, the lake usually took several victims each year.

Of the 68 persons rescued, 55 were in canoes, and the rest were swimming or sailing. Not all of them were students. Because no other life-saving equipment is maintained on the lake, Captain Isabell is called upon to rescue towns people, campers, and anyone else on the lake.

The increase in his work, from 26 rescues in 1917 to 68 in 1921, represents roughly the increase in the use of the lake in recent years. Although the rescues are the most striking part of his work, his chief activities consist in formulating and enforcing safety regulations to prevent accidents.

PRESIDENT BIRGE SENDS CHRISTMAS MESSAGE TO ALUMNI OF NATION

I AM GLAD of this opportunity to send a Christmas greeting to more than twenty thousand sons and daughters of Wisconsin.

You are giving to Alma Mater the greatest material gift in her history, a building to cost a million dollars, which will form a center for student life on the campus, with consequences for good upon the future lives of men and women greater than we can estimate. For the generosity of the thousands of you who have subscribed, and the thousands more who will subscribe when the opportunity is offered, I thank you in the name of the University.

But the University has more than this for which to thank you. You have carried the name of Wisconsin, with honor, into the professions and into business. You have sung her song on the battlefield, and have made her ideals felt in the works of peace. Wisconsin is great through her children.

You are asked to aid in providing this Memorial Union building, not merely to furnish additional facilities for the University, but chiefly that you may have a personal share in an enterprise which will bind in closer unity the hearts of all who love Wisconsin. It is my hope that the relation thus established may become wider and stronger as years pass and as your numbers increase. The University needs the affection, the counsel, the active help of you all.

Merry Christmas!

E. A. BIRGE.

With this issue the Cardinal suspends publication until after vacation. The next issue will appear on Wednesday, Jan. 4.

JUNIOR PROM PLANS ALMOST ALL COMPLETE

Dance, Benefit Movie, Play, Arrangements Completed;
Brader and Dorward
Select Feature

After a month of endeavor, the work of the committee for the 1923 Prom has progressed so that much of the preparation for the annual social event has been completed, and little but routine work will remain for committeemen after the Christmas holidays. Arrangements for festivities, benefits, and other features of Prom have been completed, and few important matters are being allowed to await settlement after the holidays.

Dance First Event

The Pre-Prom dance will be one of the first events, and it is scheduled for January 13. "Doc" Dorward, in charge of the dance, has planned special features, and the music and decorations are already settled.

"At the End of the World," featuring Betty Compson, has been procured for the Prom benefit movie. Three performances will be given January 18, 19 and 20.

"We are bound to make the benefit movie a success and we hope every student will help by at least going himself," declared Vincent Conlin, head of the movie benefit committee.

Prom Play Selected

The play entitled, "On the Hiring Line," has already been selected for the Pre-Prom play, to be given February 2. The cast has already been announced and rehearsals scheduled.

The ticket sale will open on January 10, when telephone orders will be received every night from seven to nine by Lucius Chase, chairman of the ticket sale. The tickets will be $7 with supper checks and $6 without.

The reward for Prom fox trot this year has been raised to $50 instead of the usual $15. Besides adding $25 to the amount set by the committee, (Continued on Page 12)

FRIENDSHIP FUND RECEIVES $1,500

Although $1,500 is the total amounts received to date on the Student Friendship fund which closes today, a final report will not be possible until the resumption of classes after vacation.

Frank Kuehl '21, general chairman, urges all fraternities, sororities, and organizations which have not turned in their contributions to the treasurer to do so as soon as possible. The faculty of the department of home economics has contributed $100 to the Friendship fund.

"It will hardly be possible for us to enjoy our Christmas dinners over here, conscious of the famine and starvation among the students over there if we have not contributed in a small way to their relief," said Frank Kuehl, general chairman, yesterday.

"President J. R. Angell of Yale has said that no greater opportunity to help solve world problems and guide the future has ever faced American students. Twenty-five years from now many of these same students will be ruling 32 different countries of the world.

"Today the Friendship fund is binding their hearts together; tomorrow it will bind their governments together. Our Friendship fund, therefore, is the price of peace, the acid test of our willingness to make war forever impossible."

DRIVE WILL BE WIDENED; AGS DESIRE CAMPUS

Linden drive is to be an important part of the new agricultural campus which is to be called the "Agriquadangle." This campus is to be for the agricultural students what the upper campus is for the L. and S. students.

Instead of the Lincoln Memorial, the agricultural students have decided to have a Hoard Memorial. The site of this monument is to be the vacant space opposite Agricultural hall. The Linden driveway, however, is to be the first enterprise undertaken in the building of the new campus.

Because the driveway was originally constructed for horses, it is found too narrow for automobiles. Ten automobiles have been damaged in accidents in this road.

It is planned to build a driveway 40 feet wide, extending from Charter street to the Stock pavilion. The new trees will be set 50 feet apart instead of 20 feet, as they now are. This will mean the cutting down of the old lindens on the drive, but as Prof. Benjamin Snow, of the physics department advocates, it is far better to sacrifice trees than human lives.

Five years ago the plan of a double roadway was submitted to the Board of Regents, but was rejected because it was declared that this would not be symmetrical. Since that time the agricultural department have been working to find a plan to make Linden drive wider and to enable the agricultural students to have a campus of their own.

Student Hangovers Will See Espanola

A number of students who are spending Christmas in Madison are making a special trip to Milwaukee to see "Espanola," the three act musical comedy, by the Princeton Triangle club of Princeton university at the Pabst theater, Friday. Similar to the Haresfoot production the cast is made up of men students who excel in feminine roles.

EVERYBODY will be too busy this morning to read this col., but for the benefit of those who may chance to wander over it, we shall offer this:

BY THE way, we refuse absolutely to say anything about Christmas since this subject has been done to the limit.

COMMUNICATION

Dear Ed:

I am worried. I don't know what to buy my girl for Christmas. She's an awfully nice girl, comes from a good family and everything, but she doesn't brush her teeth. What shall I give her for Christmas? Remember, she's quite wealthy and owns real estate, and I like her lots.

WORRIED.

Dear Worried:

This is indeed unfortunate. I wouldn't waste my time with her, if I were you. I have a Prom date with her.

Batten is Only Poet of "U" Represented In Verse Anthology

Waldo W. Batten '23, is the only student-poet in the University of Wisconsin who is represented in this year's College anthology of verse, according to data derived from the volume, "The Poets of the Future," which reached the university yesterday.

The anthology is a compilation of college and university verse composed by students; 68 institutions are represented. The volume is compiled by the Stratford Publishing company of Boston, Mass.

Batten is a student in the course of journalism; he is a charter member of the Delta Chi fraternity, the Press club, Athenae literary society, and is on the dramatic staff of 1923 Badger. He has served as city editor of the Portland Republican and the Commercial-Review, newspapers of Portland, Indiana. Batten has contributed poetry to The New Pen magazine of New York city, the National Enquirer of Indianapolis, Ind., and the Courier-Journal of La Fayette, Ind.

"Don't Spoil My Circle," is the title of the poem for which Batten received honorable mention. It treats of a philosophical subject on the fate of man.

A volume of poetry entitled, "Reflections," with an introduction by William Jennings Bryan, is being finally revised by Batten for publication.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

FIVE HARRIERS GET LETTERS BOARD DECIDES

Amendment Will Give Cross Country Men "W's"

By amending the constitution in regard to the awarding of "W's" in cross-country, the Athletic board, in its meeting yesterday noon, granted major letters to five members of the 1921 harrier squad. Acting upon the recommendations of Coach Thomas E. Jones, the awarding of letters for the 1921 football season was also completed by giving five "AA's" rewards in that sport.

The five men to receive major "W's" in cross-country, by the recommendation of Coach Meade Burke, were: Captain Mark Wall '22, George Finkle '23, Arthur Knutson '22, Carl Rossmiessell '23, and Thomas Daniels '23.

Change Made in Rules

These men received their letters on the basis of having won second place among the Conference schools entered in the Big Ten race at Bloomington, Ind. The change in the constitution provides for awarding of major "W's" to any man of a team placing first or second among conference schools, placing among the first ten in a conference race, winning first in a dual meet, or placing among the first five to finish in two dual meets. "aWa" will be given to any man who competes in two dual meets. In the old method of awards only a man winning first in a dual meet, placing among the first ten in the conference race, or being on the winning conference team was eligible to receive his "W." By this rule, George Finkle, the outstanding star of the season, and Captain Wall, who placed eighth in the conference, were the only men who would have been eligible for the letter reward.

Winding up the affairs of the football season five substitutes of the 1921 team were granted "aWa's" for their work of the year. The men recommended were: Raymond Irons '24, Daniel O. Horne '22, Everett H. Crozier '24, Victor C. Anderson '23, and Edward G. Scherneck '23. George Gardiner was promoted to senior manager of the 1922 football team with Norman Clark as his junior assistant.

Other "W's" Given

Seymour Nason '22 was given his manager's "W" for work with the cross country team. The junior manager appointed by Coach Burke for next year is Enos Jones '23, and his two junior assistants will be Horace Wetmore '24 and Robert Black '24.

Two men were awarded "aWa's" in cross country on the basis of having participated in two dual meets of the season. They are: Wayne Ramsap '23 and Douglas Moorhead '22. These men ran in the race against Minnesota and Chicago.

For work in the annual inter-college cross country race, the following men of the winning Engineering team were awarded their college insignia: Harvey Hazen '24, Robert Trier '25, Frank Manthey '25, William Greeley '24, Wenzel Fabera '25, and Carl Nelson '23, captain. Raymond Thiessenhusen '23, of Commerce; Bert Hilberts '25, L. and S.; and Ralph Smithyman '23, Agriculture, were awarded their insignia as the first three to finish in the race.

Captain Peterman of the varsity wrestling team spoke before the board on the petition to make wrestling a major sport at Wisconsin. The matter was laid upon the table until the next meeting.

A meeting of the 1921 squad will be called after the holidays to elect a captain for next year.

Schlatter Chooses Yearling Gym Team

Six men were picked for the freshman gymnastic team as a result of final trials for elimination which were held on Tuesday night. This was the last of a series of three trials, and only those men who survived the final set were selected for the team.

The six gymnasts who will compose the yearling team are E. Dill, H. Geiwitz, G. Kress, H. Schmidt, E. Schmidt, and E. Uehling. Exercises on five pieces of apparatus were given to the men who tried out for the team. The men who placed highest in these exercises were selected for the team.

On the horizontal bar, H. Schmidt placed first with 8 points. E. Schmidt placed second with 7.5 points. The placing of the other men was as follows: E. Dill, 7 points, and Geiwitz, 7 points, tied for second; Kress, 4 points, fourth; Uehling, 3 points, fifth.

Schmidt also placed first on the side-horse, with 8 points. Kress was second with 7 points, and E. Schmidt was third, with 6 points.

Dill was the best on the rings, scoring 8.5 points; H. Schmidt was second, with 7.5 points; Geiwitz placed third, with 6 points, and Uehling was fourth, with 4 points.

On the parallel bars, H. Schmidt again took first place, scoring 9 points; E. Schmidt second with 7.5 points; Dill placed third, scoring 6 points; Geiwitz placed fourth, with 5 points, and Uehling fifth with 4 points.

Among the tumblers, Dill was first, Geiwitz second, Uehling third.

The ranking in total points was as follows: H. Schmidt 25, E. Schmidt 21, Dill 23.5, Geiwitz 20, Kress 11, and Uehling 13.

On January 14, the six men who compose the freshman team will meet the Varsity team in their annual clash.

MEANWELL WILL FAVOR NEW RULE

The present agitation regarding free throws will be one of the principal matters that will be discussed at a meeting of basketball officials which will be held in New York next week, and at which Coach Meanwell will be present.

The Badger coach has for several years past agitated for a revision to the rules regarding the penalizing of a man during the progress of a game. The movement has rapidly gained adherents, and a number of solutions are being suggested, and are even being tried out at eastern schools. A good example of the inadequacy of the present system may be seen in the case of Pennsylvania last season, when they won the eastern championship, after having been outscored on field goals in four games.

One of the plans suggested is for the man fouled to have the privilege of doing as he sees fit with the ball, that is, be allowed to pass, shoot, or dribble unmolested. This plan is being tried out in the East, where it is meeting with varying success.

The University of Pennsylvania is the first team to try out any of the plans. Ralph Morgan, chairman of that school's basketball committee, and an official of the Inter-collegiate Basketball league for many years, has agreed to put the plan into execution both at the latter school and at West Point.

"Instead of shooting fouls from the free-throw mark," says Mr. Morgan, "the ball will be declared dead where the foul is committed. The offending side will be given a free play, regardless of the nature of the foul. The offended man can shoot, pass, or dribble or do anything else he wants with the ball. His opponent will have to stand five or six feet away without hindering in any manner. The exact distance will be tested and determined later."

The plan was initiated against Drexel Institute of Philadelphia on December 7, and against West Point on the 17, but no report have been made as to the success with which the scheme met.

J. Scholz, Missouri, won the final in the 100 yards dash at the Penn Relay carnival in 1920.

SWIMMING TEAM TO FACE STRONG M. A. C. QUINTET

One of the strongest Wisconsin swimming teams in recent years will leave for Milwaukee today to meet the Milwaukee Athletic club squad in the first tank meet of the season at Milwaukee.

With the completion of time trials and tryouts in which the tentative Varsity combination stacked up against the freshman team, the Badgers are in excellent shape for their initial meet.

Coach Joseph C. Steinauer's relay combination of four men has been cutting the water in record time, and if early season showing is an indication of their ability, the men should step into a nice lead over the club swimmers.

In previous years, M. A. C. has taken the measure of Wisconsin teams. With many veteran tank men, many of whom were college letter men, the Milwaukee aggregation has a fast team this year. At least five former Badger swimmers will swim again a team representing their Alma Mater.

John Koch, captain of the Wisconsin squad last year, will compete against his old mates in the breast stroke and the diving events. Oscar Osthoff, a noted swimmer, is entered in the dives and relay. "Bob" Benson, Wisconsin's only representative on the All-American swimming team two years ago, will swim in the breast stroke event. Howard Stark, former football man and swimmer, has been making good time in the 220 yard race and David Bloodgood holds a position on the M. A. C. water basketball squad.

This quintet of men is expected to count many points for the Milwaukee club, but whether it will be able to swing the meet away from Wisconsin is a big question.

A tentative Badger lineup, as announced by Coach Steinauer, follows:

Relay—Lamboley, Davies, Sol-litt, Gibson.

Dives—Koch, Collins.

50 yard swim—Gibson, Storey.

Breast stroke—Czerwonky, Lederer.

220 yard swim—Lamboley, Bennett.

Back stroke—Czerwonky, Cope-land.

100 yard dash—Davies, Lamboley.

Waterbasketball—Lahman, Collins, Pabst, Davies, Bennett, Lamboley.

Jones Meets Sports Heads in New York

Athletic Director Thomas E. Jones will represent Wisconsin at three meetings of athletic bodies which will be held in New York from December 25 to 29.

The National Collegiate Athletic association, Society of Physical Directors in Colleges, and Athletic Research association will hold their annual convention during the Christmas holidays.

Matters pertaining to eligibility, proselyting, and professional athletics will be taken up by athletic heads from schools throughout the country.

Coach Walter E. Meanwell will attend a meeting of the basketball rules committee to be held in New York next week. The question of abolishing the free throw in basketball will probably be taken up. Dr. Meanwell and Eastern sport authorities are in favor of throwing the free goal out of the game.

A serious point to be considered is that of intersectional track meets. Although western squads have been supporting the Penn relays, teams from the East refused to attend the national track meet which was held in Chicago last June. Coaches from western institutions are asking that Eastern squads co-operate in the matter of intersectional track and field meets.

BADGER TEAM LEAVES TODAY MEETS NORMAL

Knapp and Meyers Will Play With Milwaukee

The Badgers will leave this noon for Milwaukee, where they will play the Milwaukee Normal "M" club basketball team tonight. Tomorrow morning Coach Meanwell and the men entrain for La Crosse to fill an engagement against the normal school team Friday night.

The team will meet one of the strongest fives appearing on the schedule tonight, and prospects for a victory are slim, to say the least. The game will be played in the Auditorium, and reports have it that several thousand persons will witness the clash.

Knapp and Meyers Play

Mike Knapp, ex-captain of the Badgers and Paulie Meyers, another Meanwell star of bygone days, form the nucleus of the Milwaukee aggregation, and they are assisted by three men who have had years of experience in collegiate and professional basketball circles. They are all used to the large Auditorium floor, and to playing together, so that Meanwell's band will have to display a far better brand of ball than they have on any occasion this year if they are entertaining any hopes of victory.

Doctor Meanwell will carry only eight or nine men on the trip. Ceaser and Taylor will play their regular positions, and Williams and Tebell will probably be assigned the guards. Gibson, Johnson, and possibly Irish will perform at center, as the coach is giving all of them a chance to develop. Irish can also be used to supplant Tebell at back guard, and he is apt to be used in both games.

Team Still Weak

The best that Wisconsin fans can hope for is that Ceaser and his mates have ousted all of the poor basketball that was in them in the past three games. A reversal of form is way past due, as every man knows his game, but has just failed to hit his stride. The worst fault of the team is that they appear to have no ideas as to where the basket is located. Ceaser is the only man who is playing in mid-season fashion, as "Cop's" eye and form are way off.

Wisconsin should win handily from the La Crosse normal on Friday night. On several occasions the northerners have put up good exhibitions of basketball, but they have never been able to win a game from the Badgers.

After the game, the team will disband for Christmas, but will have to return to Madison before New Year's in order to prepare for the game against Nebraska on January 3, and for the opening of the conference a week later.

Butler is Defeated By Purdue, 43-13

Tired out from its victories over Wisconsin and Chicago, the Butler college basketball quintet went down to an overwhelming 43 to 13 defeat at the hands of Purdue on Tuesday night.

The effect of the hard games against the Badgers and Maroons plainly told on the tired collegians who were unable to halt the effective Rollermaker attack.

"Pat" Page's men have made up a remarkable record in defeating two Big Ten teams two days in succession. White, star Purdue guard, counted 18 of his team's points.

Wisconsin has not had a football championship since 1912. It is figured that the Badgers are due every 10 years if that is true, 1922 is the big year.

Communications

Again the matter of hazing and traditions is brought before the student body. Just when everybody thought that the matter had been settled by the referendum on the question at the recent election in which the students voted about six or seven to one in favor of retention of the traditions, and was thinking of Christmas, home and vacation, along comes the sophomore traditions committee with a proposal which will have as its result the abolition of all hazing and traditions at the university.

No one favors indiscriminate hazing, such hazing as results in broken arms and burnt faces. But hazing as carried on by the class of '24 the past fall can be objectionable to nobody. No one was hurt; no one injured, and the frosh as well as others enjoyed it. They saw and felt the difference between high school and university. They were being initiated into the university and they felt proud of it.

Contrary to the statement of the chairman of the traditions committee there were no complaints registered against hazing last fall by either the members of the legislature or people of the state. In fact, there were only words of praise from upperclassmen for the wonderful and fair way that the class of '24 conducted the class rush and the hazing of the frosh.

The chairman also charged that the hazing last fall was done not by sophomores but by freshmen themselves, "town-bums," or sophomores on probation. This is an affront to every sophomore who participated in any hazing and to that great number of sophomores who almost daily waited on the hill to make the frosh button, or walk up the hill with their trousers rolled up, or coats turned inside out. All the sophomores I know to have been in any hazing party last fall were men the class of '24 can be proud of, men who were good in their studies and active in promoting the welfare of the university and their class.

But should the committee succeed in its attempt to abolish hazing at the university the three methods with which they intend to punish frosh are entirely inadequate and ineffective. First, they purpose to bar such a man from being a member of any fraternity. How many students who come here ever expect to be pledges to a "frat?" After they have been here only a short while the average student realizes that the "frats" are largely for a few hand-selected, hand-picked fellows who are nice sociably, are good mixers, etc., that they are not chosen on a basis of merit or excellence in scholarship. So he will say to himself what difference does it make to me whether I wear a green cap or not?

The second method is to forbid any such frosh from running for any class office or receiving any committee appointment. Now, what chance has the average student at this university of being elected to a class office when candidates for these offices are carefully selected by an inner coterie of fellows high up in fraternal circles, or receiving an appointment to a committee, which are usually determined on a basis of friendship or political influence and long before the man who has the honor of appointment is elected? So here, too, the frosh will not be scared by the penalty and will or will not wear the green cap just as the whim pleases him, unheeding and unafraid of the fate he may suffer.

The third and last method of making the heart of the freshman quiver and his teeth rattle with fear, should he not wear his green cap, is to take from him the right of suffrage at university elections. How many students ever pay any attention to voting? At the last election, an election usually keen in competition, almost unprecedented in the amount of interest shown by a student body, the number of votes cast by members of the sophomore class was a little over 400—a very small minority of the members of the sophomore class. Out of this 400 about 100 were girls, leaving 300 men out of which about 250 was the organized "frat" vote. Considering these figures how many men would care if their right of franchise would be taken from them? Evidently, the vast majority not caring any now whether they vote or not would not care any more later.

And so the threats of punishment instead of impressing upon frosh the duty to wear a green cap will have a diametrically opposite effect. The threats of punishment are useless, are weak and will in every instance affect only a small minority of the students. The result will be the gradual and complete disappearance of the green cap and consequently the affairs related to it—the class rush and cap night. It will bring about the same result as was attempted by the Student Senate last June in spite of the universal and unmistakable protest of the students at the mass meeting in Music hall on June 11 and their vote at the referendum on November 10, last.

Furthermore, the Carlson ticket of the sophomore class was elected on a platform of retention of the red button on the green cap (which means buttoning of the frosh), and the enforcement of all traditions. This stand, I am sure, did just as much as anything else to give it the necessary majority for victory. It is now attempting to perform a complete right about face on the platform on which it was elected at a meeting of about 150 men, a small minority—not even a quorum—of the class, thus giving it no legal sanction.

Prof. Commons To Be Speaker at Labor Meet

Plans in use in American industries for insuring workers against unemployment, and proposals for depression insurance and for preventing employment through compensation laws, will be discussed at the annual meeting of the American Association for Labor Legislation in Pittsburgh, Dec. 27-29. Scientific forecasting of business cycles, as a newly developed aid to industrial managers in preparing for depressions, is also on the program for discussion by manufacturers, bankers and economists. Prof. John R. Commons of the University of Wisconsin; Henry S. Dennison of the Dennison Mfg. Co.; Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, and Wm. J. Mack, impartial chairman, ladies garment industry, Cleveland, are announced as the chief speakers on unemployment.

National Guard Officers To Have School Jan. 4-5

A school for all commissioned officers of the Wisconsin national guard will be held in Milwaukee Jan. 4 and 5, Adjutant General Orlando Holway announced today. Work for the coming year will be mapped out, and a review made of the accomplishments and inefficiencies of the past year. Gen. Holway has just returned from a national meeting of state adjutant generals, and will report on their recommendations, some of which may be taken by the Wisconsin guard. There will also be a general report of battalion majors who have completed inspection of their troops, both equipment and personnel. All officers of the state guard are to be present.

Union Carol Session at Capitol Sunday Noon

A brief union carol session will be staged in the rotunda of the capitol Sunday at 12:15 p. m. after the morning services in churches. The Madison community music committee, of which Prof. Peter W. Dykema is general chairman, is arranging the non-sectarian Christmas celebration and E. B. Gordon will direct the singing. Members of various choirs and musical organizations will be among the singing assemblage and a feature will be one number by a group of children. The "songfest" will not last more than 20 minutes, enabling many church-goers to "drop in" before returning home for dinner.

Third Music Memory Contest

(A movement to acquaint Madison with the best music, through a contest in naming selections from hearing them. Open to everyone without fee or restrictions.)

SELECTION NO. 15.

Angels Ever Bright and Fair, from Theodora; by George Frederick Handel (Born, 1685 at Halle, Lower Saxony; died, 1759, London.)

For Christmas week, which is essentially children's week, our selection is by a great master, whose childhood was almost as remarkable as that of Mozart's, the wonder-child.

A Music Prodigy.

Born of lowly and not particularly musical parents, Handel soon showed a decided love for music. His father regarded Art as a degrading pursuit, or at best an idle amusement, and wishing to make a lawyer out of his son, he strove in every way to stifle the alarming symptoms of musical genius which appeared almost in the boy's infancy. He even refused to send the child to school, lest there, among other things, he should learn his notes. In spite of this, some friend contrived to get into the house a clavichord, which was concealed in a garret, where, without being discovered, the boy taught himself to play. One day, when he was but seven years of age, some friends brought him to the Duke of the province. He was lifted on to the organ stool and played in such a manner as to surprise everyone. The Duke sent for both father and son, and told the father such genius should be encouraged. From that time little Handel was placed in the hands of the best teachers to be found. In a short time these teachers dismissed him saying he knew more than they did. But this did not mean the end of Handel's development, for he continued his studies and compositions throughout his life.

An Angelized German.

Handel is one of the few composers who have found fame and happiness in an adopted land. He made his first visit to London in 1710, and there achieved his first public success with the opera Rinaldo, which he had written in a fortnight. London opened its heart to him, and Handel soon took up his permanent residence there becoming a British citizen in 1726 at which time he normalized his name as given above. The English spelling and pronunciation is now in general use (The original name was Haendel, haen being pronounced like hen.) The British people rewarded their great proselyte with an affection and a popularity that no other composer has ever enjoyed in England. This was because they at once felt—and time only confirmed the first impression—that no native Briton could have been more one of them. The whole tone of Handel's mind and genius was fully in harmony with the best features of the English character. Stubborn in independence, truth, and loyalty, deep feeling which hides behind bluntness of expression—these qualities found artistic expression in Handel's music. The dominant characteristics of his work are grandeur combined with simplicity, definiteness of idea expressed with unswerving directness, and deep emotion rendered with moving seriousness.

Mighty Choruses

Instrumental music, of course, was in a comparatively undeveloped stage in Handel's day, and it is as a vocal and especially as a choral writer that Handel still reigns supreme. No one ever developed as he did the resources of the chorus, and his compositions of this class are to this day unexcelled and perhaps unequalled. Custom has preserved for us one of the most striking instances of the power of Handel's choral music. When his great oratorio the "Messiah" was first performed in London in 1743, the king and court were present. All were stirred and moved by the noble music, but when in the Hallelujah Chorus they heard the tremendous strain, "For the Lord God omnipotent reigneth", the entire audience, including the King sprang to its feet in transport, and remained so until the chorus ended.

A Favorite Soprano Solo.

One of Handel's own favorites was the oratorio Theodora, though it found no favor even in his lifetime, and has been wholly forgotten since. But several of the individual numbers were so lovely that they have been kept alive independently, and among these is the beautiful aria, Angels Ever Bright and Fair. It is the prayer of a young and beautiful maiden for deliverance. She forsores a fate so terrible that she pleads with her guards to lead her to the rack or to the flames rather than "to worse than death, indeed!" Then, realizing that they are powerless to help her, she falls upon her knees beseeching the angels in heaven to take her to their care.

The Music Analyzed

The main melody, with the words which give the title to the song, is preceded by a free declamatory passage in the style of a recitative. Note the cry of horror in the first few notes, followed by the passionate pleading for death. Then the main theme enters, a pure melody which indicates her resignation and trust. There is a floating quality that suggests a prayer rising to the angels. In the middle there is a contrasting strain with the words "Speed to your own courts my flight, Clad in robes of virgin white." The main melody appears again at the close.

THE WAY OUT

THE winter solstice has been observed as a time of rejoicing by men from the earliest days of recorded history. The custom must have begun when men first came to worship the forces of nature. For them the winter solstice marked the time when the cruel grip of winter began to loosen as the sun started back toward the north bringing light and life.

The Romans observed the Saturnalia at this time of the year. It was a time of universal rejoicing. Slaves were freed for a time. Gifts were exchanged among friends.

Happily, the Christian church adopted the same season for celebrating the birth of Christ. There is no historical evidence to show that He was born December 25. But for the early Christmas there was no need for historical evidence. It was enough for them that their rejoicing was deeper than that growing out of natural phenomena. For them a brighter sun had risen and a more bitter winter was on the wane.

For nearly two thousand years Christendom has celebrated annually the birth of her founder. The significance has varied with the time and the spirit of the age. But never was the season fraught with more meaning than today. The world is shaken to its foundations. Europe is facing utter collapse. Asia, that slumbering giant, is slowly awaking. America is marking time to see what will happen. The bases of industrial society have been radically changed over a large area of the earth.

Our vaunted civilization is sick, nigh unto death. Men know not where to turn for deliverance. They have trusted in machines, in science, in strange philosophies, but their trust has availed them nothing. All the while these civilized nations professed and called themselves Christians. But they did not take Christianity seriously. It would do for theologians to dispute about and for old women to meditate upon. But for the business man, the statesman, the father, the teacher, the lawyer and the laborer to apply the ordinary relations of life—never, it wouldn't work.

But the founder of Christianity said it would work and work wonderfully well. The saints and prophets through the centuries have said it would work.

Who knows but what they were right?

It must be worth a trial.

Who can doubt the future of civilization if all men were to agree to act on the belief that every man stands equal in worth, that the greatest ambition is to be the servant of all, and that love between man and man and nation and nation is, after all, the fulfillment of all law?

Men may yet feel the magnificent import of Phillips Brooks' lines:

"O little town of Bethlehem,

How still we see thee lie;

Above thy deep and dreamless sleep

The silent stars go by;

Yet in they dark street shineth

The everlasting night.

The hopes and fears of all the years

Are met in thee tonight."

THE APPEAL TO THE ALUMNI

PRESIDENT BIRGE has sounded the opening note in the movement to enlist the help of 20,000 alumni of Wisconsin to make the Memorial Union a fact. He expressed the belief that Wisconsin's sons and daughters will respond out of the love they bear their alma mater.

The students have shown that they want the Union. Everybody knows that Wisconsin needs the Union. The Alumni will do their share.

The forthcoming campaign among the alumni will mark the beginning of a movement to draw more freely from them the support needed to keep this university in the first rank. Wisconsin must not overtax the splendid generosity of the legislature for ever-increasing appropriations. At the same time, the university must forge ahead and keep pace with other state universities which are now receiving liberal support from their graduates.

Surely no university in the country endears itself more to its children than Wisconsin. They carry away from these halls an inspiration that follows them all the rest of their lives. They must not forget the mother that nourishes them and first planted their feet on the path of great achievement.

The students who are going home for the holidays should talk the Memorial Union with the alumni in their respective towns or cities.

TALK IT UP

ONE month from the time classes are resumed in January the Junior Prom will be held. The committees have gone about their duties in a business like manner and as a result a great deal of good work has been done already.

There is every indication that the Prom workers are sincerely aiming to make the function this year better than ever. The movement to popularize Prom is proceeding well. Every inducement is being offered every man to make it easy for him to attend.

During the holidays some good strokes can be put in at home. The facts about Prom can be truthfully presented and a friendly feeling aroused all over the state.

Prom is the biggest social event of the season and is well worth being conducted in the best possible manner.

Michigan May Hold

Noon Hour Classes

To Avoid Crowding

Present congestion in class rooms at the University of Michigan may necessitate the using of the hour from 12 to 1 o'clock as a class period, according to the opinions of many of the faculty.

It has been pointed out that the practical problem facing the university in the establishment of this innovation is whether restaurants, eating houses and fraternities would be willing to extend their lunch hour to take care of those having 12 o'clock classes. It is anticipated that managers of these establishments may object on the grounds that an additional force of waiters would be required, while the work for the regular help would also be made greater. If this difficulty can be smoothed out, however, it is altogether likely that the plan may be carried out.

PROHIBITION TO REIGN HERE IF DRIVE SUCCEEDS

Federal Officers Investigate
"Little Italy," Drug Stores and Doctors

A bone-dry crusade in Madison which will effect "Little Italy" and the Latin quarter has begun in real earnest. Federal prohibition officers have been working diligently for the last two days to dry up all the oasis in the city.

Little Italy has been greatly excited by the presence of dignified investigators who do not conceal the fact that they are prohibition enforcement officers. Druggists in the city are also worried about the accuracy of their prescription records. Three drug stores, one of which is near the University district, have had their liquor stocks sealed, and the proprietors have been ordered to appear before the federal dry officers for a hearing. Several physicians who have been rather lucrative sources for whiskey and wines for medicinal purposes have been visited by federal officers and have had their liquor prescription rights cancelled.

W. J. Lawrence, federal enforcement officer, under whose direction the Madison liquor "clean-up" is being made, said yesterday at Milwaukee, "We are going to investigate everything which indicates that liquor law violations exist."

The work of the enforcement officers now in Madison shows that they are doing everything possible to make Madison dryer than the Sahara desert.

"We have enough evidence on one party to send him to Fort Leavenworth for five years and much more evidence on many others, and we are in earnest and this will be pushed. There will be no let-up until this city is cleaned up and all liquor law violations stopped," said one of the investigators, yesterday.

Professor Morgan Will Tour Europe

Prof. Bayard Q. Morgan will conduct a comprehensive tour of Europe next summer, beginning June 24, and extending to September 8. The trip will traverse Europe twice, from Paris to Naples and back from Naples into Germany, and from there into Holland, Belgium, and England.

The important stops on the itinerary include Paris, Versailles, Chateau Thierry, Rheims, Marseilles, Nice, Genoa, Rome, Naples, Pompeii, Florence, Venice, Oberammergau, Munich, Heidelberg, Weimar, Leipzig, Dresden, Berlin, Amsterdam, and the Hague.

Chess by Wireless Is the Last Word At Cincinnati "U"

Intercollegiate Chess, to be played by Radiophone, is apparently a culmination of the intense interest that has recently been displayed by the Engineers of Cincinnati, Ohio, University for this game. This novel idea is the result of the co-operation of the Chess and Wireless Hobby-Hour clubs of the Engineering College, and is indicative of the progress being made by these organizations.

Challenges have been sent to all the nearby colleges among them Miami, Ohio Wesleyan, Wittenberg and Ohio University—for contests, and it is hoped that a number of acceptances will result. Word has already been received from Miami, who has declined to take part in the experiment, no doubt because of a scarcity of chess players in Oxford.

According to the plan as outlined, each side would set up a chess-board near the radiophone, making it possible for the wireless man to announce immediately to the opponents each move made by his team.

Men—tear this out and show it to your father.

Why should a young man take out life insurance?

First, to protect the one who is directly responsible for your being in the university—father, mother, brother.

Someone has sacrificed and planned to send you here. You are willing to "take a chance" without life insurance; but it is they who take a chance.

Second, to pass the medical examination while unquestionably in sound health.

Third, to develop a habit of independence, self-reliance and saving.

Fourth, to bring an endowment policy to maturity during your early years when you may need it most.

Ask your father, seriously, "What do you think about my taking out life insurance?"

Then call Central Life.

Crime on Rapid Increase in State; Industrial Slump and Not Prohibition Is Held Cause

Number of Inmates in State Penal Institutions Has Grown From 959 to 1217 During Past Year,
Board of Control Reports

Crime has been on a rapid increase in Wisconsin during the past few months, judging from prison figures of the state board of control, which show in the December report made today, that the number of inmates of state penal institutions has grown from 959 to 1,217 during the past year. This increase, according to M. J. Tappins, secretary of the board, has largely occurred since August.

Industrial depression with resultant unrest is attributed by Mr. Tappins as the cause of the rapid rise in prison populations, one of the most marked in the history of state penal institutions, resulting from the war, while moonshine is absolved as a primary cause.

The board of control reports that there are 791 male prisoners and 31 female prisoners in the state penitentiary at Waupun, and 395 male prisoners in the Green Bay reformatory, making a total of 1,217 in the two prisons.

"During the war there was a marked falling off of crime and in the population of the state penal institutions," Mr. Tappins said. "The population of the Waupun penitentiary fell to 600 at one time when there was general optimism and every one was at work."

"Lately, with industrial depression and unemployment there has come unrest and crime.

"One encouraging feature of the situation, however, is the fact that most offences are against property, and not against persons. Few of the prisoners are sent to the institutions for personal assaults while the great proportion are robbers and persons convicted for larceny, embezzlement, and other crimes against property."

While some of the increase may be attributed to ex-soldiers, Mr. Tappins said, their war training is not often responsible for their turn to crime. In a number of instances, he said, former soldiers have suffered from mental diseases that led them to commit offenses, and others have become desperate through inability to obtain work.

Prohibition has little to do with the present situation, Mr. Tappins believes. Up to the present there has been little indication of the effect of prohibition on the number of inmates in the institutions, especially since the marked increase of the past few months.

During the war and for the first year following there was a decided decrease in the prison population, which then increased slightly until the sudden jump since August of this year.

Population of Institutions On Increase

Census of Penal and Charitable Homes Boosts in State

The state and county penal and charitable institutions are populated by 12,963 persons, an increase of 653 over last year, report of the state board of control today shows. Out of this number 5177 are in state institutions and 7786 in county.

County hospitals for the insane have 6973 inmates, and state hospitals 1407, an increase of 162 over last year, while the number of feeble minded being cared for is 1182, an increase of 36. There are 1217 prisoners in the penal institutions, 1183 in the industrial schools, and 1001 in institutions for tuberculars.

State and county hospitals for tuberculars have a waiting list of 111, which they are unable to care for because of lack of facilities.

The number of persons on parole from state institutions is 3,393, an increase of 283 from 1920, while those on probation are 215, the same number as last year.

Pavlowo Delights Large Audience In Charming Dances

Mme. Pavlova with a cast of 44 dancers appeared at the Parkway last evening in three acts of dancing before a crowded house. Each of the first two acts unfolded an interesting plot combined with a beautiful setting and motion in rhythm. The last act was composed of diversions, each unique and giving its own distinct impressionism.

Pavlova combines a delightful personality, a striking figure, and a charming manner with an artistic poise, a graceful movement and an absolute refinement of taste. Dancing to her is a real art, and she made it seem such to the audience. So light and buoyant were her feet that she seemed almost to float in mid-air.

Hilda Butsova, co-worker of Pavlova, appeared first in Coppelia, by Deliber, a French production. She portrayed exceedingly well the jealous Swanilda, and showed that she has considerable ability in depicting moods. She was grace itself, every movement being delicately refined and under perfect control. A great deal of color was added to this act by the vivid and picturesque background of a Galician village.

In the second act, displaying a Parisian toy shop, Pavlova as the fairy doll, brought to life with her wand a number of human dolls. A carnival of dancing ensued which was gorgeous and beautiful. The changing panorama of color with its kaleidoscopic effect was delightful, and the absolute perfection of the ensemble dancing showed careful preparation and much diligent training.

The swan as portrayed by Mme. Pavlova was of the utmost daintiness and delicacy. Even the swan itself is not more graceful and subtle in its movements. The audience showed its appreciation by a tremendous outburst of applause which forced Mme. Pavlova to the front of the stage many times.

Petite figures draped enchantingly in nebulous gossamer raiment enhanced the youthful joy and exuberance of Schubert's Moment musical as they fittingly danced to this music.

The Holland dance offered a pleasing diversion and M. Warzynski was quite subdued by the coquetry and charming naiveness of his winsome partner Mme. Bartlett.

The orchestra which played the accompaniments, although quite small, obtained some very artistic effects and added greatly to the beauty and impressiveness of the program. The overture and ballets were played with a smooth even tone, and precise, accurate attack. The orchestra, although conspicuous for its artistry, yet was never obtrusive, but fitted in admirably as a part of the general scheme of Pavlova's terpsicorean art.

The Parkway management proved again, but last evening's program, that it is striving to maintain a very high standard of performance in all the productions staged at the new theater.

The money will be used during the winter to help former employees and other men of the plant who are in need.

Commerce Mag Will Publish Results of Questionnaire Soon

The results of the Commerce magazine questionnaire will, if possible, be printed in the first issue of that magazine next year.

There is an overwhelming amount of work to be done on the questionnaire; 3,100 copies must be examined, and about one million tabulations must be made. There are about 200 alternative questions to record. Of the 150 papers which were gone over yesterday, only 12 were insincerely answered.

Some of the members of the staff will remain here over the Christmas holidays to work on the questionnaire. They intend to make cross section starts which will reveal many interesting things about student philosophy.

That the general increase in farm values in the state of Wisconsin, as well as in other states, is due to the kind of government, society, business, and education that we have here was the statement of R. Prof. Whittbeck explained that in the 60 years from 1840 to 1900, the people of Wisconsin had not created as much wealth as favorable conditions in the last 10 years have done, because of the lack of these institutions in that early period.

Charities To Provide Poor With Dinner

Public Welfare Heads Groups Giving Xmas Baskets

Working through the Public Welfare association, in order that their charity may be both secret and efficient, Madison folk are planning to take care of a greater number of the city's unfortunate than have ever been taken care of before during the Christmas season. According to Miss Jeannette Davis, secretary of the Public Welfare association, there are many in the city this year, who need Christmas dinner and Christmas cheer.

Among the organizations assisting is the Roxana club, which has placed a motor corps service at the disposal of the association for the past two weeks. This corps will deliver all the baskets Saturday. Christmas baskets or money have already been promised the Association by the Unitarian Sunday school, five groups from Christ Presbyterian church, Westminster church, St. Andrew's Episcopal church, the Baptist church and the Y. M. C. A. and individuals have already contributed about $100.

The Industrial clubs of the Y. W. C. A., instead of giving a party for the poor children, raised $40 which they contributed toward the support of one family in the care of the association. Fraternities and sororities have already raised about $200 as a separate fund for the relief during the winter.

Organizations contributing money are the Pythian Sisters, the Fifth Ward Sewing society, the Attic Angels, the Tenth Ward association, the Wheeler School of Music and the Spanish War Veterans' auxiliary. Parties for the poor children have been given by the Wisconsin Library school, the Lutheran Brotherhood and several sororities.

On Friday a party will be given at the Day Nursery of the association, 22 N. Hareack st., for the children and their mothers. Mrs. Volney G. Barnes is in charge. Members of the Forest Products League and the Busy Bees are attending to the tree.

NEED ROOM FOR 250 STUDENTS IN HIGH SCHOOL

School Board and Kittleson Will Hold Conference on Quandry

A conference between the school board, Mayor I. Milo Kittleson and the chairman of the council finance committee will be held in the near future to determine what shall be done with the 200 children who will enter the central high school as the result of the winter promotions in February. Fifty will also enter the Randall junior high school.

This was determined last night at the regular meeting of the school board. Conditions in the high school are already as crowded as possible, and the 200 extra students cannot be accommodated in the central building. One of the ways of solving the difficulty, it was suggested, would be to build barracks both at the high school and at the Randall school, a step the board would be loath to take.

Mayor Kittleson declared today that as soon as the east side high school is opened the situation will be greatly relieved, as many children residing on the east side are now forced to attend the central high school.

Joseph Brown and W. H. Collins were re-elected to represent the school board on the vocational school board. Their terms expired this month.

The resignation of the following teachers were accepted: Doris Blanchly, Longfellow school, effective Jan. 6; Ruby B. Richardson, Longfellow school, Dec. 16; Myrtle E. Wood, Doty school, Dec. 23;

Della J. Bowers, Washington school, Dec. 23.

The following appointments were confirmed: Mrs. Lucy E. Davis to the Longfellow school, effective Jan. 9; Mrs. Clara Giles Holmes to the second grade at the Longfellow school, Dec. 19.

The schoolhouses will be available for general community uses in so far as these uses do not conflict with the regular school routine and with decency and good order, the board decided. It will grant the use of school buildings for public meetings without charge provided the buildings are not otherwise engaged, and provided that these meetings are open to the public without discrimination and without charge and that the meetings are not for propaganda purposes.

Whenever permits are issued for other purposes other than purely public in nature, a fee payable in advance will be charged according to the following schedule: auditorium, $50; gymnasium, $10; elementary school gymnasium, $3 up to 9:30, beyond 9:30, $6.

No dance shall be permitted in any school building which is advertised, or for which admission is charged, or to which other than members of the local community are admitted. Smoking is prohibited in all school buildings at all times.

TOM MIX STARRING IN NOVEL RANCH STORY

Tom Mix, the William Fox star, will be the big attraction at the Parkway theater today in a picture called, "After Your Own Heart." William Wallace Cook wrote the story, so it ought to be good and thrilling. Cook certainly knows the picturesque side of the cowboy's life, and he has had many experiences on the range—which are just as thrilling on the screen. So it may be repeated—the picture ought to be a good one.

Opera Company Will Present Classic in Chicago Next Week

After three years of building and painting scenery, and creating costumes; and after several weeks of orchestral rehearsals, Serge Prokofiev's Russian opera fantasy, "The Love for Three Oranges" will be produced by the Chicago Opera company next Friday night, Dec. 30, at a special performance, Auditorium theater, for the first time on any opera stage. The investment represented is in excess of $80,000, Nina Koshetz, famous Russian soprano will make her debut in the premiere.

Monday night of Christmas week brings Edith Mason and Lucien Muratore in Massenet's "Manon," for the first time this season. Grovlez will debut as conductor.

"The Jewels of the Madonna" follows Tuesday night, Dec. 27, with Rosa Raisa as "Maliella," and Forrest Lamont as the blacksmith, making his first appearance this season. The Wolf-Ferrari opera carries an unusually heavy cast. The Pavley-Oukrainsky ballet appears in incidental numbers. Cimini conducts.

Wednesday night, Dec. 28, is scheduled Miss Garden's long awaited revival of "Salome," previously postponed by her overwork. She has excluded herself from all appearances until that date. Muratore, with whom she sang the role a hundred times at the National opera, Paris, will sing Herod, for the first time in America. Polacco whose ambition of a life time has been to conduct the one-act Strauss music drama will have his wish gratified.

Galli-Curci will sing her third opera in nine days on Thursday night, Dec. 29, appearing as "Rosina" in "The Barber of Seville." Tito Schipa, Vittorio Trevi-san, Virgilio Lazzari, Vincente Bal-lester and Marie Claessens are also cast in this always delightful Ros-sini opera.

Friday night comes "The Love for Three Oranges," and then Saturday matinee, Dec. 31, "Thais," in which Mary Garden relinquishes one of her favorite roles to Marguerite Namara, who makes her first appearance of the present season as does Riccardo Martin, the latter as "Nicias."

For Saturday night, New Year's eve, is scheduled "Carmen" at all-star prices and cast. Garden, Muratore, Mason and Baklanoff at $10 for orchestra seats, already indicate a clean sell-out. The Pavley-Oukrainsky ballet again will be a feature for the special New Year's eve opera attraction.

Mercury is Falling; Skaters Anticipate

Christmas vacation will be accompanied by real winter weather if the present cold snap is a true indicator for the next week or two. Yesterday morning the thermometer at the weather bureau in North hall registered 9 degrees below zero, and zero weather has prevailed ever since. The lowest temperature for a year ago was 24 degrees below zero.

With Lake Mendota presenting an arctic appearance with its fringe of ice extending several rods out from shore, skaters can look forward to enjoying themselves within a short time. Last year Lake Mendota was not frozen over until Christmas day. King Winter threatens to appear ahead of his last year's schedule.

A high snowfall was predicted by the weather man for last night or today. Skiing and sleighing are likely to be vacation pastimes.

Rev. Zitterl Was Ordained 53 Years Ago On Monday

The Rev. Alois Zitterl, 123 W. Gorham st., retired pastor of Holy Redeemer church, Monday observed the 53rd anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, which occurred at St. Francis Seminary, Milwaukee, in 1868.

After serving as pastor at St. Martins, for several years, Father Zitterl was transferred to Holy Redeemer church and continued his pastorate there until his retirement in 1905.

He has since devoted his time largely to writing. His manuscript, prepared in German, will eventually be translated, for English publication. He daily celebrates mass in the private chapel at his home and it has been his custom to take frequent long walks, those of late have been limited to the vicinity of his own neighborhood. On Christmas day Father Zitterl will observe the 53rd anniversary of the celebration of his first mass.

WEATHER

The highest temperature during the last 24 hours was 25 at 1 p. m. and the lowest was four degrees below zero at 8 a. m. Sunsets at 4:26.

The cold wave reached the lake region, middle and upper Mississippi valley this morning with temperatures 20 degrees below zero on Lake Superior, zero in southern Wisconsin and Iowa, and freezing in Arkansas. Rising temperatures prevail on northern plains and in Rockies. The weather continues unsettled in the Pacific states with rain in the lowlands and snow in the mountains.

1923 Prom Plans Well Under Way

Hook Brothers Music store has promised to publish the winning selection, and pay royalties after the expense of printing is met. Words must accompany the music and alumni closely connected with the university are permitted to try out.

Will Pick Feature Act

James L. Brader, 1923 Prom chairman, and "Doc" Dorward, chairman of special features, expect to spend part of Christmas vacation in Milwaukee and Chicago selecting a special feature act for Prom. They have no satisfactory plans submitted as yet for special features, so this course of action was chosen.

The traditional reception at the fraternity house of the Prom chairman will not take place this year at the Beta house. This was eliminated to cut down expenses, and it was felt that such a reception is unnecessary.

Already from 25 to 30 groups have signed up for boxes, and eight non-fraternity groups have been organized to come to Prom. It will be well for organizations to sign up immediately if they have any preference, according to John Heuston Schee, chairman of the box committee.

"February 3, the date set for the 'Prom of Proms,' is not far away, said James L. Brader, chairman, "and all the committees are working to the best of their ability to fulfill the ideal set in the slogan, and make the 1923 Prom one of the best, most representative Proms that has ever been put through in Madison."
