WOMEN PLAN BIG MEETING ON VOCATIONS

Conference Starts Thursday With Meeting For Underclassmen; Roe to Speak

The first meeting of the ninth annual Women's Vocational conference of the university will be held next Thursday afternoon at 4:30 in Lathrop parlors. This meeting will be held especially for freshman and sophomore women. Dean F. W. Roe will be the opening speaker. He will discuss the importance of preparation for a chosen vocation.

This first part of the conference is to be held especially for the benefit of freshman and sophomore women in the university. Its purpose is to help them decide what vocation they wish to enter and to help them get started in efficient preparation for that vocation. The meeting for underclass women is held before the second semester in order that they may begin their preparation in the selection of their work in the second semester.

To End Next Semester

The next part of the conference will begin next semester, on February 16, and meetings for all university women on February 16, 17, and 18, will offer information concerning all vocations which university women plan to enter.

"The aim of the conference is to promote vocational intelligence," said Virginia Conklin, chairman of the conference. "We think this first meeting is important because it will help the university women to decide what will interest them most in the second part of the conference than will come next month."

Dean Roe's talk will stress this same idea, and he hopes to hold an informal discussion with his listeners at the close of his talk.

Deans Favor Ban On Parties and Cut In Music Expenses

"It is a very wise plan to have a protective closed period of social activities before examinations," said Dean L. Louise Nardin, yesterday, in reference to the questionnaire being sent out to fraternities. "It is certainly a very extravagant waste of time and it does not make for the happiness of one single student, but rather for the unhappiness of many."

"If representatives from different organizations could get together and decide upon a reasonable orchestra price and not pay the excessive, it would greatly curtail waste of money and allow those who cannot afford the present prices to enter a wider sphere of social activity," she concluded.

That altogether too much money is wasted in a limited circle is the opinion of Dean S. H. Goodnight. "The real need of the university is to have more activities for the many and less for the few. Due to inertia of the students and activity of promoters, outrageous orchestra prices are being charged, and this condition can be remedied by more direct student co-operation," he said.

Dean Goodnight offered the suggestion that at the beginning of the academic year students could meet and agree to limit excessive activities and regulate orchestra prices.

Policemen Fail to Find Body of Martin

Darkness stopped attempts of policemen to recover the body of Hal R. Martin, Madison lawyer, and former student of the university of the class of '06, who is believed to have drowned Friday evening when the Studebaker car in which he was driving went through the ice at the mouth of the Yahara river. Scores of people worked yesterday in an effort to pull the car up and to secure the body.

Martin had gone across the lake in his car to visit Mrs. Henry Butler, his sister-in-law. The last seen of him was by A. H. Beckman who urged him not to return to Madison across the ice but to drive home by the road. It is said that this warning was unheeded and that he drove off in the same direction from which he came.

Victory Late in Battle

IOWA CITY, Ia. — With both teams playing a strong defensive game the Wisconsin basketball team nosed out the strong Iowa aggregation by an 18 to 15 score in the Badgers' first conference game of the season played here last night. A crowd of 4,500 saw the contest.

The score was close up until the last few minutes of play, when Taylor and Gage made two long shots which cinched the game for Wisconsin. Gage substituted for Tebell, who was put out of the game under the personal fouls rule.

"Cop" Stars

"Cop" Taylor was the individual star for Wisconsin, with two field goals and six free throws to his credit.

Shimek, Iowa's right guard, scored 10 points for the locals, after missing three free throws in the first period of the game. He came back in the second half and dropped six free throws into the basket.

Most of the scoring was in the second half, the score at the end of the first half being 7 to 5 in favor of Wisconsin.

Varsity Debaters Beat Washington In St. Louis Tilt

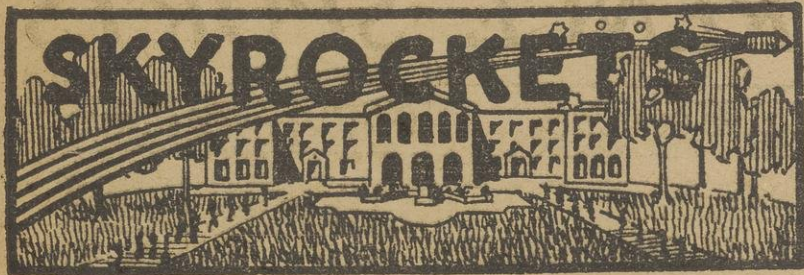

The Wisconsin debate team defeated the University of Washington at St. Louis Friday evening according to a message received yesterday.

Wisconsin's team was composed of Harold Seering '24, Martin Kriewaldt '22, and Thomas Amlie '22, and it debated the negative side of the question, "Resolved, that the Kansas Industrial court plan for settling industrial disputes should be adopted throughout the United States."

The same question was rebated against the University of Missouri Friday evening in Music hall, and Wisconsin's affirmative was successful in this debate also.

The team which debated at St. Louis was accompanied by Prof. John West of the department of speech, who acted as chairman of the evening.

The completed teams for the next intercollegiate debate have not yet been selected, but will be chosen at the tryouts to be held January 12.

UP at the mixer last Friday night some young man with a keen sense of observation walked up to one of those taking tickets, and inquired, "Who is giving this mixer tonight? The Kappas gave the last one."

THE "Standing Room Only" sign is in great evidence at the Libe during these days of topic writing and reviewing. Camp chairs may be taken out at the Historical Libe desk all next week, and then again, they may not.

HUNDREDS of students have been taking advantage of the skating in the last few days to sharpen up their senses preparatory to exams. After watching some of them take most ungentlemanlylike and unladylike flops on the resisting surface of the lake, we rather imagine that they wish their senses, at least that of feeling, were dead.

A REHASH

When wise were writing their sayings,
The one's we're expected to keep,
They took from the Bible, 'mid praysings,
That "As ye sow, so shall ye reap."

But were they of this generation,
And saw they the fashions we keep
They'd change it with no hesitation,
To "As ye show, so shall we peep."

THE sundaes and malted milks have gone down somewhat in price, now that the war tax has been removed. The two cents difference will very likely have quite an effect on the number that go down.

WE know what's wrong. There ain't no flu ban on this year. It's getting so you can't get anything for nothing any more.

MARY and Jimmie, among others, will entertain those who attend the Pre-Prom dance at Lathrop next week end. Won't it be fun to see them together and try and

SOMEHOW, or other, our muse seems to have slipped away, and is hiding. Ya know, writing this lingo requires certain essentials, such as a spacious room, hung with purple velvet curtains, with soft lights and correspondingly soft music, but primarily one must have a soft head and a muse. Having frozen our ears, many of the benefits derived from our soft head are now nil, and the muse.....well, it just ain't.

NOW is the time to begin planning your courses for next semester. Remember, before it is too late, that the pipe courses are the first to be filled up. If you are hard of hearing, we suggest Musical Appreciation, and if you are blessed with a good line, try Public Speaking. Tea hounds might try Chicken Culture. We're not certain that that course is given, but there ought to be a demand for it.

ESKIMO PIE, the new confection, must have been invented by some cold-blooded creature. At best, the inventor had a contempt for table manners. If you have ever eaten one, you know our feelings when we tell you that we tried to eat one with a girl the other day.

FOR our own enlightenment, can you tell us how a girl, in the race for a husband, is to know when she is in her last lap?

League of Voters To Hear Miss James

The Collegiate League of Women Voters will hold an open meeting and reception in the S. G. A. room of Lathrop hall at 7:30 Wednesday evening, Jan. 11, to hear Miss Ada James, president of the Wisconsin Women's Progressive association, who will speak on the subject "Progressive Ideals."

Miss James is well known in state and national politics and she is considered by the league as particularly fitted to present Progressive party views here before the Collegiate league, whose program for the year includes representatives from each of the political parties.

Her father, the late O. B. James, carried the Wisconsin ratification of the women's suffrage amendment to Washington in person. His efficiency is responsible for the fact that Wisconsin's was the first ratification to be filed. Before the enfranchisement was accomplished, Miss James was president of the Wisconsin Women's suffrage league. She has been an enthusiastic worker in the State Federation of Women's clubs.

Arriving from Richland Center on Tuesday of this week, Miss James will be in the city until Thursday.

Madison-Go-To- Theatre-Week January 8 to 15

All of Madison's Theaters will offer unusual attractions in movies and vaudeville. Watch the papers for the advertisements and the news stories. Madison Go-To-Theatre Week means 7 days of wonderful amusement. Out of town people doing shopping during January clearance sales can easily mingle a little theatrical amusement with their bargain seeking.

NEWS OF CONFERENCE SPORTS

STIFF SEASON FACES MEN OF MICHIGAN FIVE

Wolverines Have Only
Two Vets and One is Out of Game

(Special to Daily Cardinal)

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—With prospects not of the brightest, but with hopes high, Michigan's basketball five faces one of the stiffest seasons in the history of the court game at Ann Arbor. Sharing Big Ten honors with Purdue and Wisconsin, the Wolverines are making every effort to round a team into shape that will be able to defend successfully the position won in last year's hard fought schedule.

But two veterans of the great 1921 teams are members of the aggregation which will wear the Maize and Blue in the present season. Leading the Wolverine five is Capt. "Bud" Rea, sensational running guard, a man who was largely responsible for Michigan's splendid showing last season. Rea is possessed of an uncanny ability to cage baskets from all angles and distances, and is the one man on the Michigan squad that opponents of the Wolverines have reason to fear above all others. Rea is in his third year of service under Coach Mather, and the only Wolverine with two years of collegiate experience behind him.

Miller Out of Game

William G. Miller is the second veteran. He won his place on last year's team at forward through his speed and accurate shooting. Miller does not show the spectacular playing of his captain, but is consistent, and at all times a dangerous man to opposition guards. At the present time he is out of the game with throat trouble, leaving but one veteran to face Michigan's opponents, but he is considered to be in condition early in February. His absence, however, will be sorely felt in the early season games, and Michigan's proverbial jinx, known to haunt the Wolverine camp at the opening of nearly every season, is back on the job as a result.

At center, Ely, a sophomore, is having a hard time filling the place left vacant by the inability of "Duke" Dunne, football captain and star pivot man on last year's five, to report for practice. Inexperience is proving a great handicap to the lanky newcomer, but he has done well in the games to date, and bids fair to become a valuable man in the not far distant future.

Rex Reason, a substitute on last year's championship five, has been called on to fill a forward position as a running mate to Miller. Reason is light, but tall and wiry, has a keen eye for the basket, and promises much for the games to come.

Birks Plays Guard

With Captain Rea at guard is Birks, a new man this year, who is rounding into good shape under the able tutelage of Coach Mather. On the substitute list are Whitlock, Paper and Piper, substitutes in 1921, and Capon and Kipke of football fame.

Whether or not Michigan's practically new aggregation can show favorably with the many veterans in Conference circles this year is yet to be discovered. Nothing but victory has been met with as yet, Western State Normal, Case, and Cincinnati falling once, and Carnegie Tech twice before the attack of the Wolverines. The outcome of the Cincinnati game is looked upon as particularly promising, inasmuch as the Queen City quintet holds a victory over Ohio State.

Cold Weather Starts Ice Sports; Skiers, Tobogganers Await Snow

With the light snowfall and cold weather of the past week, the exceptional facilities offered for outdoor winter activities at Wisconsin have been made use of by hundreds of students and others are eagerly awaiting the snow which will make skiing and tobogganing possible.

Situated, as it is, on the shores of Lake Mendota and three other lakes, Madison offers perhaps the best opportunity for winter sports that is offered by any city in which a Big Ten conference school is located. Everything from skating to the thrills of ice boating and skiing is indulged in by the active ones in search of exercise and amusement.

Ice hockey, ski-jumping, curling, tobogganing, ice boating, and skating are the activities sponsored by Athletic Director Thomas E. Jones and his corps of assistants who see that every athletic desire of students is satisfied.

Hockey Recognized

For the first time, hockey is a recognized minor "W" sport this year. This puts it on the same basis as gymnastics, wrestling, and swimming and has created a large amount of interest within the student body. In addition to the skating on the lakes, a rink has been arranged on the lower campus for Varsity players.

Snow which was banked at the side of the lake rink caused unevenness of the ice and necessitated the flooding of a rink for the Varsity men. Dr. A. K. Viner, an old-time Canadian puck star, is coaching the Varsity hockey outfit. Games are being scheduled with Minnesota, Michigan, St. Johns Military academy, Northwestern university, and other teams.

Ski-Jumpers Prepare

Ski-jumping is fast becoming a recognized sport here. The slide on the side of Muir Knoll is one of the best in the Middle West. It makes possible a jump of 115 feet, exceeding by nearly 50 feet the best possible jump in previous years. At the top of the knoll, a scaffold has been erected to a height of 36 feet. With the Badger Ski club sponsoring the sport and with such men as Capt. Hans E. Gude, Sverre Strom, Tom Norberg, and Sven Kvaven making up a Varsity combination, Wisconsin has been declared to have the best college ski-jumping team in the country. These four men are entered in the National Championship meet to be held on the Norge Ski club slide at Cary, Ill., on January 22.

Ice boating is another form of outdoor sport which has taken the interest of many students. With a good, stiff breeze, the boaters skip along over the ice at the exciting speed of 40 to 50 miles an hour.

Toboggan Slides Ready

Two toboggan slides have been built to enable tobogganers to arrange for races. The slides have been built on Observatory hill and send the toboggans far into the lake. It was originally planned to build either four, six, or eight slides and if interest in the sport becomes greater, additional facilities will be granted.

The Winter carnival, which will be held in February, is the climax which caps a strenuous season of winter athletics. Races across the lake and back for men and women, exhibitions of fancy skating, ski-jumping meets, ice boat contests, and various competitions for prizes are scheduled during the carnival which is an annual event at Madison.

Reports from the athletic department indicate that the 1922 carnival will excel all previous events of this kind, and plans are already being made for a successful program.

Because of the various opportunities given students to exercise, it is generally conceded that Wisconsin is unequalled in its facilities for all sorts of winter activities.

BIG TEN TEAMS START PRACTICE FOR BASEBALL

Hockey and Wrestling Rouse
Interest; Football
Lingers

That other institutions besides Wisconsin are talking baseball is indicated by announcements emanating from Chicago and Illinois regarding early-season practice for pitchers and catchers.

Thirty men went through preliminary work in Bartlett gym, Chicago, under the direction of "Fritz" Crisler and Coach Nels Norgren. Six first string players of last year who were out were: Capt. Cletus, Dixon, Schultz, Fedor, Gubbins, Hartong, and Yardley.

The Illinois pitching staff also begins practice this week, with other members of the team waiting until next month for their initial loosening up exercises.

Suckers Go South

Eight games will be played during the Suckers' annual two weeks' southern trip. Mississippi university, Mississippi A. & M., University of Alabama, and Mississippi college will furnish the preliminary diamond contests.

Other colleges throughout the country are showing marked activity in various sports.

The Minnesota hockey team will meet the Notre Dame sextet in two games, one to be played at Minneapolis and one at South Bend. The Gophers will also meet Wisconsin, University of Michigan, and Michigan School of Mines.

Wrestling Starts

Northwestern and Illinois opened the Big Ten wrestling season at Urbana yesterday afternoon. The Purple swimming team has carded a meet with the Chicago A. A.

tankers in Patten gym pool on January 11.

Football still retains the interest of many followers.

The University of Pennsylvania's schedule includes games with Navy, Pittsburgh, Penn State, Cornell, and Alabama. Centre has been invited to play the University of California on December 2, at which time the annual homecoming celebration will be held in Berkeley and the million dollar stadium dedicated.

Coach Earle Neale, Washington & Jefferson, charged that W. & J. was unfairly deprived of a touchdown in its scoreless game against California on New Year's day. He declared that "Hub" Huebel, head linesman and former Michigan player, should not have called Capt. Stein of W. & J. offside on a play from which halfback Brenkert carried the ball across the California line. Other officials disagree with Neale.

Women Plan National Hockey Association

Stimulated by the recent visit of the All-England Women's Hockey team to the American universities and colleges, women interested in field hockey in this country are preparing to form a national association. A meeting will be held in Philadelphia on Saturday, Jan. 21, to elect officers of the association and to adopt a constitution.

The purpose of the association is to foster more skillful play of field hockey, more inter-club and inter-city matches and the selection of teams for national competition, according to a communication from Mrs. E. B. Krumbhaar of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia.

"It is an excellent thing," said Miss Cynthia Wesson, of the physical education department, who has charge of women's field hockey in

SPEED SHOWN IN NON-"W" TRACK MEET

Roberts and Newell Tie
For First With Ten
Points Each

With the large amount of speed and skill displayed in the various events, the first annual non-varsity all around track and field meet held yesterday afternoon in the annex proved very successful. Tying for first place with ten points apiece, C. B. Roberts and Newell were individual high point men. On a toss up Roberts won a clear title to the first of five handsome ribbons offered as prizes.

Salentine, with nine points, won in the dash, the hurdles, and the broad jump, took away the ribbon for third place. Hofacker and Rossmiessel tied for fourth with nine points each. Hofacker won fourth place on the flip of the coin.

Van Ells, Widder, and Wallace were other stars of the afternoon, all three tying for sixth place with six points each.

Events Hard Fought

All the events of the afternoon were well fought and many good marks were made. Widder, a freshman, won the high jump, clearing the bar at 5 feet 11 inches for first position. Newell in the low hurdles performed exceptionally well, clearing the sticks in 5 3-5 seconds for a win in that event. The half mile was one of the feature races of the meet, Valleley breaking the tape in 2 minutes 9 seconds after a pretty run against a strong field.

The distance events were well contested, Thiessenhusen winning the mile in the good time of 4 minutes 49 2-5 seconds. Don Jones in the pole vault again demonstrated his ability, clearing 11 feet 6 inches with ease. Roberts, in the broad jump, cleared 19 feet 10 inches for first place. Van Ells, a member of the freshman team, heaved the shot 39 feet 3 1-2 inches, defeating even the formidable Hans Gude.

Blaine Wires Protest On Lenroot Action On Postmaster

WASHINGTON, D. C.—That Senator Lenroot and his "old guard" associates have found the Wisconsin postmastership situation "too hot to handle" and are about to abandon the attempt to deprive progressive members of the delegation in the house of their patronage appeared likely here when it was announced that Postmaster General Hays, his assistant, Hubert M. Work, and republican national committee Chairman Adams will meet within the next week to discuss postoffice patronage.

This announcement followed a conference between Assistant Postmaster General Work and Rep. John M. Nelson, Madison, here this week at which Nelson laid the facts concerning Madison district postoffices before Hays' assistant.

Postoffice and civil service commission officials in Washington freely admit that the job of dispensing postmasterships, undertaken by Senator Lenroot has been bungled. Wherever the senator has violated the well recognized rule and interfered with the congressman's choice of eligibles for a given postmastership, Washington officials have received a batch of several hundred letters and telegrams, bitterly denouncing the Lenroot administration policy of using the postal service to build up a political machine.

Among the protests received this week was one from Gov. John J. Blaine, who wired Postmaster General Hays in reference to the postmastership at Boscobel, the governor's home city.

H. E. Austin, the present postmaster, and his son, Lisle K. Austin, were the only applicants for the postmastership at Boscobel. Both qualified for appointment and at the request of friends of the pair, Rep. Nelson recommended for appointment the younger Austin, who was acting as his father's assistant and who had an honorable record as a service man.

A few days ago, Senator Lenroot requested that a second examination be held at Boscobel with the evident purpose of enabling him to have a personal henchman declared eligible and to name the latter in preference to the soldier candidate recommended by Nelson.

One Week Left For Agric Song Entries

"One more week remains for Agrics and Home-Ecs to enter songs in the Agricultural College federation song writing contest," declared B. B. Langen '23, chairman of the contest. "Fourteen songs have already been entered in the contest," said Langen. These songs have been written by students, faculty members, and alumni. Many letters have been received from alumni signifying their intention to submit songs.

The prizes for the contest consist of a silver loving cup, a bon-bon dish or a cigarette case, and honorable mention for the next five places.

International Club Chooses Slichter For National Head

Local Chapter Given Authority to Elect Officers and Edit Magazine

Choosing the national president and chief officers for the 50 chapters of the Association of Cosmopolitan clubs was the main business at a meeting of the International clubs Friday night in Lathrop hall. Dean C. S. Slichter of the Graduate School was elected president of the association of all Cosmopolitan and International clubs in this country; J. D. deWet, president of the International club here, was made vice-president of the national organization, and E. Boerke, national treasurer.

The right to elect these officers for the national organization was conferred upon the International club by the convention of delegates from all Cosmopolitan and International clubs throughout the country, which was held during the holidays at Minneapolis.

Mohindra Bahadur, from India, who had been sent as Wisconsin delegate, reported to the International club that the publication of the monthly of the Association of Cosmopolitan clubs, the "Corda Fratres Review," has been turned the International club here.

Accordingly the International club chose from its members Miss Grace E. Langdon, graduate student in journalism, to be the editor-in-chief, and E. Glenn Ash as business manager of the magazine. Both electees are to select their staff.

The first number of this year's "Corda Fratres Review" will be published by the International club at the end of January.

Miss R. M. Kelsey, of the University Extension division, and Swaminatha Aiyar, from India, were elected members of the board of directors of the club.

Carl D. Jackson and L. E. Gettle of the railroad commission spent Thursday in Milwaukee. They were present at a rate hearing in Milwaukee.

Miss Alice Van Hise, daughter of the late president of the university, has a story, It's the Things of the Mind that Count, in the January number of The Woman's Home Companion.

The tale is full of humorous situations and pokes sly fun at the would-be literary person. It is cleverly written and holds the attention of the reader. Miss Van Hise recently accepted a post as assistant to Prof. Pitkin of the Pulitzer School of Journalism in New York.

Madison High Defeated By Edgerton Five

Locals Lose Rough Game; Lowman is Attacked

The Madison high school basketball team was defeated by Edgerton high school at the local auditorium Friday night, 24 to 17. The locals were slow on the floor and missed repeated good shots for the baskets. The score at the end of the half was 12 to 6 in favor of Edgerton. The Madison second team was defeated by a score of 11 to 16.

A free-for-all fight was narrowly averted in the hall when Johnson, right guard for Edgerton, slapped Coach Lowman in the face, and the latter started chase. The players hid in a dressing room and after 10 minutes of interruption the game proceeded.

Madison's team did not seem to be able to find the basket. Edgerton doubled its tally of the first half during the second period, and Madison came back with a better showing than in the first half. The game was exceedingly rough as the game went on. Johnson was thrown out of the game for incurring the limited number of personal fouls. Tallard of Madison had two personal fouls. Smith of Madison had two called on him, and Walsh, three. The lineup: Madison (17) Edgerton (24)
Tallard R. F. Madson
Walsh L. F. Hadden
Smith C. Bardeen

"GOING THROUGH THE MOTIONS"

EVERYBODY knows of the one-horse town clerk who feverishly leans over his desk and plays tit-tat-toe as the "boss" puts his face through the office window.

Everybody knows or has probably experienced the case of the mechanic or ditcher or stitcher who lays down on the job and revels in his soldiering and sham attempts at keeping busy.

Everybody knows the puffed-up intellectual nonentities who put on all sorts of brazen "fronts" and think they are fooling their betters, who sooner or later learn to see through them.

Yes, the world sees through these people and coolly winks its eye at them, knowing full well their hollowness and knowing full well that their activity is simply superficial maneuverings, aimless actions carried on to deceive others. They are not real. They are just going through the motions!

* * *

"Going through the motions" is not a phenomenon that characterizes any particular walk of life. Its effect is felt everywhere in one form or another. But in the field of ideas, where the student is supposed to move and linger, the tendency to this mechanical bluffing is more prone to come to the fore. Here the product is so intangible.

In business, a man is judged by what he is worth in dollars and cents; in engineering, a man is judged by the durability and service of the structure he builds; in diplomacy, a man is judged by the actual good will he has created between nation and nation and with what wisdom he has brought about better national and international adjustments.

In other words, in the world of action a man is judged by his product. But in the world of books, it is far more difficult to judge by products, since often no perceptible product exists.

It needs no aid of a high-powered telescope to find in university circles this "going through the motions," tendency highly developed. People in a university have an extraordinary opportunity just to read mopingly, blankly, burying themselves in their books without knowing whether it is English or Sanscrit that they are reading—just words, words, words. Students can draw lines, write papers on all sorts of subjects, pass examinations, add, subtract, and multiply without understanding one iota of what they are doing. Students are a rare lot, but that is the truth, and there is no use hiding it. It is so easy to get by in a university just by going through the mechanical tricks of the game.

Professors try to cure the evil by an elaborate system of bugaboo examinations, but whether this adds a real incentive to the mastery of a subject is indeed very doubtful. Just what is needed is not bugaboos, but a sincere, frank desire to do away with so much sham in our intellectual life at the university.

Too much need not be said on this score. It is always a problem with every worth while man or woman. It is a question of doing some constructive definite thinking or just going through its exterior motions. Which it shall be lies with the individual himself.

A COLLEGE MAN'S NEWSPAPER

THE college man today needs a regular reliable and brief medium whereby he can get the news every day in the shortest possible time and with the least tax on his energy. Most of all he needs a dependable digest of the paramount events in the national and international spheres.

Unfortunately today the college man is noted for his deplorable ignorance of current events. That ignorance is partly due to the inadequacies of the newspapers at his disposal, partly to his own lack of time to delve into an entire newspaper and read when his whole day is occupied with reading.

Students coming from all over the country and some from all over the world are little expected to follow with any accuracy the fragmentary world news and tremendous local material that forms a large portion of the small town paper. When we consider that there are many students all over the land who are in a similar situation, something ought to be done to bring the broad news to them—the news in which they are particularly interested.

Again a college man's newspaper should be brief and devoted to nothing but vital domestic or world affairs. The newspaper should be a sort of daily leaflet sent to all the students of the country and thereby act as an influential educator of American students in current events. A great defect of American education would thereby be mitigated.

Many of the newspapers are at present inadequate to meet student needs because either of their puerility or because of their down-right inaccuracies. Some enterprising philanthropist or socially-minded capitalist should take advantage of this opportunity to benefit American students and create such a small nation-wide newspaper for circulation to the entire country. Such an enterprise would be profitable, no doubt, because it would meet a need among the students; and secondly, it would act as an effective incentive for deeper appreciation of the problems of our country and of civilization.

Skaters, Iceboats, On Icy Mendota; Everything Moves

Brilliant Colors Mingle With Kaleidoscopic Effect

by H. C. T.

Shades of St. Moritz! Visions of Muren! All pale before the scene on Lake Mendota.

With the guardians of the lake seriously considering the plan of installing traffic cops—troops of them—where the paths of speeding ice boats and the meteoric streaks of lone skaters form chaotic criss-crosses, the winter season of outdoor sports has opened in a rush.

Twenty-five square miles of frigid plane provide a playground for the myriad of muffled merry-makers. Mendota—the unrivalled northern American winter resort—is alive in her wintry glory.

Everything moves. High-powered motor cars and motor-cycles come down to thrill their occupants with reckless skidding. A gasoline motor bob with roaring exhaust slices the air as it defies time and space. Innumerable ice boats—the owners huddled in the pits—scurry silently over the smooth surface.

In sharp contrast to the speed of these faster conveyances, skaters, alone and in groups, play around closer to the shore. In a community spirit, seniors and freshmen, students and towns people join hands to crack-the-whip. Spills are frequent, but no one cares, and to have one's hands or ears slightly frozen only adds to the fun.

Costumes of both men and women are of all varieties. Specially designed sport clothes of the knicker and chic coat type seemed to be the most popular among the fair sex, whereas the military outfit or the golf suit predominated with the men.

But the thing that strikes the eye is the array of color. Sweaters, red and yellow, clash with orange and green headwear. Flying arms and legs produce an effect that is kaleidoscopic.

Students forget the approaching examinations and give their weak ankles their first work-out this season. Persons from southern climates, novices and uninitiated in the skating art, clap on skates and struggle in imitation of their northern brothers. Fails of frantic skaters wagging hither and thither clutch desperately to the rear of hooting Fords.

Khaki-clad co-eds with streaming mufflers and ruddy faces skim through the maza. Dirty faced school boys in corduroy suits and vari-colored toques shout as they kick tin cans or play at some form of tag. College professors in long black coats glide along on ancient runners. Everything moves.

Jack Childs Was Strong In University Activities

John L. Childs '12, Wisconsin representative in China, who has gained fame for his work in Peking, was prominent in university activities while at Wisconsin. He was a member of Iron Cross, of Delta Sigma Rho, and of the Student conference. He was editor-in-chief of The Daily Cardinal, president of Y. M. C. A., commencement orator, secretary of the International Y. M. C. A. in Student association work 1911-1916, and was sent to Peking for Wisconsin in 1916.

JACK CHILDS

In showing the Chinese students the true Wisconsin idea of service, Childs, secretary for work among about 400 Peking students, has been promoting social service programs, athletics and sports, conducting evangelistic meetings, and arranging for prominent American speakers for his students. He has organized and conducted conferences of the Western returned students to make them participate actively in China's political and social reformation.

Under his direction, the students who return to China from foreign study are welcomed by the English and Americans.

Dvorak, Huneker Go On A Toot --With Variations

Noted Critics' Posthumous
Work Filled With Reviews,
Remarks and Anecdotes

Variations by James Huneker, published by Charles Scribner's Sons. $2.00.

VARIAIONS is a collection of Mr. Huneker's Sunday contributions to the columns of The New York Times. Like many post mortem publications, this little group of haphazard essays shows a distinct lack of sympathetic editing. Mr. Huneker cannot be held responsible for anything that may be set up against him in his posthumous work far be it from me to condemn anyone for what he inadvertently confides to the general public through the medium of a signed article in a Sunday edition of the newspapers.

VARIAIONS holds its position as a literary effort by radiating the erratic, undisciplined, irresistible personality of James Gibbons Huneker over a limitless field of music, art, and letters. It was virtually impossible for Mr. Huneker to write two pages of critical manuscript without reference to Franz Litz, Gustav Flaubert, Jemmy Whistler, Henry James, Paul Cezanne, George Moore, William Yeats, Ivan Turgeneff, Enrico Caruso, Richard Wagner, Frederic Chopin, Anatole France, Charles Baudelaire, Frederick Nietzsche, Mary Garden, Oscar Hammerstein, Antonin Dvorak, and the 18th amendment.

Speaking of Mr. Huneker and Dvorak, perhaps, the most characteristic and entertaining of all the essays is the account of an unsuccessful attempt to submerge completely the heavenly gifted Antonin in a flood of alcohol. But the immortal composer was like Baron Munchausen's immortal horse. All New York was standing on its head; Times Square reeled, tottered, and fell. Yet Antonin was right side up, a colossal monument of musical genius and the Polish constitution.

Mr. Huneker displayed his erudition as a not over-modest member of the nouveau-riche displays with many broad and careless gestures, the flash of a large diamond upon the second finger of his right hand. This explains, in part, Mr. Huneker's popularity with the European artists who wandered, with dreams of unexhaustible bank accounts, to our hospitable, lionizing thoroughfares. They had found an American curiosity. One who boasted of his learning and not of his pocket-book.

Pre-Prom Play Is Happy Choice ---Miss Johnson

"On the Hiring Line" is an ideal play for the pre-Prom play." This is what Miss Gertrude Johnson, professor of dramatics who is coaching the production says of the offering of the three dramatic clubs, February 2, the night before Prom.

"The play requires an all-star cast, for every part is just as important as the other. This gives every actor a keen interest in his part and the play, which is difficult to attain when a play has only one or two leads and many insignificant parts," Miss Johnson said.

"In casting the play the committee was fortunate in having among the members of the three dramatic clubs people who are particularly capable of handling the many difficult parts in the play, especially those of characters of a more mature age."

Seventh Appeal Made for Aid of Childs In China

Crane to Speak Here on Behalf of Annual Drive

Making its seventh appeal to the student body in as many years, the annual Wisconsin-in-China drive for the support of Wisconsin's representative, Jack Childs '12, will open on Wednesday morning, Jan. 11, with a campus-wide canvass for $3,650, the amount necessary for the proper carrying on of Wisconsin's work in the Orient.

Work on the drive has been under way for some months, with Prof. E. A. Ross acting as general chairman, assisted by Prof. E. A. Gilmore as faculty chairman, and Lee McCandless '23, as student chairman. The drive will be officially opened on Tuesday night at 6 o'clock, at a banquet attended by 350 workers at the Woman's building.

The Hon. Charles R. Crane, former United States minister to China, will address the group on "Some Impressions of China," which will reflect the work of Jack Childs and its effect on the Chinese life of today. Mr. Crane knows his subject thoroughly, being the representative in China for over a year and a half. He was appointed to his post by former President Woodrow Wilson.

McCandless, in his work as student chairman, has been assisted by Roy Sorenson '22, Reginald Garstang '22, and Joseph Holbrook '22, besides a large number of canvassers and other workers. The canvass will be made in a thorough manner, and every student will be asked to share in the contribution to Wisconsin's work in the Orient.

"Child's work is more than mere missionary representation," said McCandless last night. "He is doing a real service in the spreading of Wisconsin spirit to every young Chinese that comes in contact with him. In organizing study groups, in promoting athletics, in pushing Christianity, Childs has proved himself to be a most successful exponent of Wisconsin's highest ideals."

The present drive is the seventh appeal made to the students for the support of Childs. The amount for Childs' work has always been subscribed in previous years, and it is hoped that the amount will be obtained as it always has been heretofore.

actor, also was prominent in university dramatics when he formerly attended school. He is a member of Pi Epsilon Delta, honorary dramatic fraternity.

The rest of the cast were selected by Miss Johnson with considerable care from the large number of dramatic club people who appeared at the tryouts.

Play Was Success

"On the Hiring Line" is a highly amusing three act comedy which ran for a year in New York city. The plot develops to a very complicated stage through the efforts of an ambitious semi-professional detective to find evidence. It is the type of play, according to Miss Johnson, which is particularly desirable as a pre-Prom play.

KANSAS CITY—The U. S. is mentally a "sixth grade" nation, John B. Coleman, of La Crosse, Wis. told the annual convention of the National Society for Vocational education.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS presents "THE THREE MUSKETEERS"

With nothing that has ever been done in the vast multitude of films given to the world, can you fairly compare this supreme picturization of a story that has made millions of men and women in every country on the face of the earth laugh and sob with unforgettable emotion. And Douglas Fairbanks as the noble D'Artagnan has caught, with rare feeling, that indescribable "something" that enables him truly to live the part.

WASHINGTON—Poison gas as an instrument of warfare was outlawed today by Great Britain, Japan, France, Italy and the U. S., who through their representatives in the Washington conference approved the American proposal to prohibit the use of that weapon.

After the adoption of the anti-gas resolution the armament committee took up the report of its sub-committee on air craft limitation but reached no conclusion on that matter. The aircraft discussion will be continued Monday.

Gophers Lack Material For Basketball Team

With only two veterans back this year, Dr. L. J. Cooke of the University of Minnesota basketball team is having a difficult time finding Conference material to represent the Maroon and Gold on Big Ten floors this season. Captain Kearney and Hultkrans, both guards, are the only two veterans back this year.

From a squad of about 40 men, Dr. Cooke and assistant coach, Arnold Oss, have picked Swanson and Severson for forwards, Hanson for center, with the "M" men as guards. The Gophers so far have played four practice games and ended their pre-season basketball with the University of Kansas at Minneapolis, January 2.

The Gophers lost three good men through the graduation last spring in the graduation of Capt. Arnold Oss and Neil Arnston, both forwards, and Fred Enke, stationary guard. Other men who will get into Big Ten games this winter will be Cyril Olson, Fogelberg, Anderson at forward, Sinclair and Grimes at center, and Gross and Sullivan at guards.

Column Right!

Are you able to number among your acquaintances one of those persons who welcome a chance to give some one a book merely to witness the reactions of the recipient? We know one who made his mother a present of Rose McAuley's DANGEROUS AGES and felt amply repaid when she called the book immoral and pointed out that the picture of women smoking cigarettes was over-drawn.

Now G. J. Nathan's latest book is death to critical tradition. That fails to damn an actor's look. And send each play plumb to perdition.

"GOLD, a novel of marriage," by one Mr. Fuessle, is the advertising slogan of a late novel of some popularity. Just what connection is between the title and marriage is BE-BRASS, or even appropriated Syn-yond us. Now if they had called it clair's title, THE BRASS CHECK, and then coupled the slogan with it, there might be some light on the subject matter. As it is—well, perhaps it tells the inside story of the McCormick divorce case.

There is a revised edition out of THE AMERICAN LANGUAGE by H. L. Mencken. After committing mayhem on the language in one edition, Mr. Mencken with his destructive generalities (it is poor generality that fails to work both ways) has probably discovered that it is utter foolishness even to dream that our speech has any relation to that used on a certain island a few thousand miles from here.

The labor difficulties, particularly the coal-miners strike, seem to have borne fruit in England. John Masefield's newest effort is KING COLE with illustrations by his daughter. Here is an instance where genius does not run in the family. Come to think of it, Upton Sinclair will probably be suing Mr. Masefield for stealing his thunder; Sinclair's KING COAL sounds good enough for a law suit.

The "college geniuses" who have written successful novels this season will probably inspire someone to prepare statistics regarding the number of this class of individuals after leaving their respective ETR who make anything more than a failure after leaving their respective campuses. The Lit would undoubtedly furnish backing for such a worthy research.

Gena Thompson To Go East On Leave; Is Writing Book

Miss Gena Thompson

Miss Gena Thompson, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Women's Progressive association, leaves next week for a vacation of some months in New York city. She will stop for a few days in Chicago and for a week or so in Washington to attend the armaments conference.

Miss Thompson is writing a book on the new study of the drama in connection with English work in the public schools. She at one time taught drama as a part of English study. Miss Thompson's book will probably be published in the near future.

During Miss Thompson's absence her place will be taken by Miss Ada L. James of Richland Center, president of the organization.

Smith Asks Compressor or Another Well

Pumping Plant Handicapped in Time of Fires, Board Told

Recommendations for the installation of a new well, a new air compressor, and the laying of a new water main along Wilson st. during the present year were made to the city water board by Supt. L. A. Smith, superintendent of the water works, at a meeting last night in the city hall.

"There now are 10 wells and three air compressors at the waterworks plant, and during the past year they have been sufficient to supply the needs of the city," said Mr. Smith. "On July 12, last year, 5,222,000 gallons of water were used. This was the highest amount of the year. Fortunately we had no fires on that day as we were pumping at capacity, and a fire or fires lasting over six hours would have put us at a disadvantage."

Consulting engineers hired by the city in 1916 estimated that the wells in use at the present time would furnish water until the city reached a population of 35,000. Those wells are now supplying more than 40,000 people, said Mr. Smith.

Figures prepared by Mr. Smith show that the consumption of water has increased 8 per cent each year for the last decade. Consequently the present equipment at the water works will not be sufficient to care for the needs of the city if the consumption increases at the same rate this year, especially in case of fires.

Two possibilities were suggested by Mr. Smith to meet the anticipated increase. He suggested either an electric pump in the west end, or the installation of a new well in the vicinity of the pumping station. He is in favor of the latter because it can be operated by steam the same as the other wells are now operated. If it were installed in the west end it would have to be operated by electricity. Either proposition will cost approximately $40,000.

The survey which was made of the city's pipe lines last summer was pronounced a success by Mr. Smith. There are 7,879 water meters installed in the city. Members of the board estimated that the present year would see the figure more than 8,000.

Financial Interest No Bar to County Aid

County boards have the power to appropriate funds to any agricultural society to aid in the purchase of improvement of fair grounds or for conduct of public exhibitions, even though one of its members may be a member of the society in favor of which the appropriation is made, E. Any member of a county board having a financial interest in the transaction could not vote on the question of county aid, Mr. Brossard said.

Auto Busses Come Under Speed Laws

Passenger automobile busses weighing more than five tons when loaded, must comply with the laws governing motor trucks on state highways, both with regard to speed limits and weight, Atty. Gen. William J. Morgan held in an opinion today to D. K. Allen, district attorney at Oshkosh. Policemen had been arresting buss drivers operating at a speed exceeding 15 miles an hour, the limit for trucks over five tons within corporate limits of cities. Company officials claimed that the law applied only to trucks.

THE THEATER BEAUTIFUL

"Doug" is at Majestic as Swashbuckling D'Artagnan

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS AS D'ARTAGNAN

Readers of Dumas who have gone to see the swashbuckling hero D'Artagnan in the movies have not been disappointed. Good books are usually spoiled when screened, but the presentation of Douglas Fairbanks as the hard-fighting Gascon of "The Three Musketeers" has been universally hailed by metropolitan critics as a graphic reproduction of the novel and one of the best photoplays in years.

Flashing swords, great sacrifices, and daring deeds of heroism make this one of the most thrilling pictures ever presented, according to critics. Many who have doubted "Doug's" ability to act in a real dramatic role have discarded their doubts as they have viewed his presentation of this character and have spoken of him as a truly great actor.

Those who see the picture at the Majestic theater this week will be given a film tour of Paris as it was in the early Seventeenth Century; of the palace of King Louis XIII; of Buckingham Palace and several ancient and picturesque continental towns. To meet the requirements of this story, three acres of exterior sets and one acre of interiors were built, all duplicated from ancient engravings of historical buildings of that time.

A prologue reproducing one of the massive acts in reality has been staged by Manager St. Pierre of the Majestic, and the Broadway trio has been engaged to sing for the presentation.

Tom Wise Back; To Play at Orph In Comedy Skit

Those who saw Tom Wise play the part of Peter B. Kyne's inimitable Cappy Ricks at the old Fuller theater two years ago will be glad to hear that he is back in Madison again in an act at the Orpheum, beginning Monday. "Memories" is a skit which gives the actor plenty of opportunity to show his great ability at characterization.

Comedy, modern or classic has no better exponent than Tom Wise, who has been identified with some of the most famous producers in the theatre including "Are You a Mason?" "Mrs. Temple's Telegram" and "Before and After." It is quite a step from "Are You a Mason" to the "Merry Wives of Windsor," but the genuine talents of this rotund comedian enabled him to negotiate the step with ease. Mr. Wise is without question one of the best character actors the American stage boasts of. Vaudeville always has a welcome for this player and so he is back again in a one-act comedy by Roy Briant called "Memories." This is a story of the stage of a retired player who has amassed a fortune and of a company in ill luck. Mr. Wise is back again, and will headline the vaudeville bill for the first three days of the Go-to-Theatre-Week at the Orpheum Theatre opening Monday night.

LLOYD TO GO EAST

Harold Lloyd will head a delegation eastward, leaving the day after Christmas. The party which plans to be gone a month includes Mr. and Mrs. Hal E. Roach and Mildred Davis and her mother.

EVERYBODY'S DOING IT

Following the lead of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, Norma Talmadge will now come forward with the most elaborate film of her career, "The Duchess of Langeais." It's a costume drama of very colorful and dramatic nature.

"Tol'able David" Plays at Grand

The Grand Theatre announces as the feature for Go To Theatre Week "Tol'able David," Richard Barthelmess' first appearance as an independent star. Mr. Barthelmess has been seen in "The Love Flower," and "Way Down East" under the direction of Mr. Griffith, and in "Tol'able David" he has made a production with himself as a star. There is no doubt but that Mr. Barthelmess, one of the most likable screen personalities of today, will continue to grow in popularity with this, the first of his new series of features.

Clinging Vine And Fat Man Unite at Strand

Wanda Hawley and Walter Hiers in "Her Sturdy Oak" will be shown at the Strand theater for three days, starting today.

Miss Hawley, departing from her usual role of a pert and independent heroine, is a typical clinging vine, and whom does she love but fat and dreamy Sam Butters (perfectly played by Walter Hiers) a poet who has never earned his own living, to say nothing of a living for a wife.

Everybody, including fat Sam's former fiancée and tender Violet's guardian, predicts ruin from this unpromising union of clinging vine and flabby poet. But necessity develops some real stamina and courage in both the vine and her impractical spouse and the way they win fame and fortune with a thriving honey business should be a lesson and an inspiration to other perplexed Newly-weds, who find domestic bliss not all smooth sailing.

Larry Semon in his latest comedy "The Saw Mill," and a Pathe study in natural colors.

Alice Calhoun in "The Little Minister" will be the attraction at the Strand Wednesday to Saturday.

Jolivet Plays at Parkmay As Empress Theodora

Rita Jolivet in Goldwyn's "THEODORA"

In the big Goldwyn spectacle "Theodora," which has scored such a sensational success which opens at the new Parkway theater today, theatregoers have their first glimpse in several years of beautiful Rita Jolivet, the young French actress who came to this country for the first time seven years ago to act in an Oriental spectacle. That was her advent to Broadway, and from the first night when she made her magnetic appearance in the Eastern robes of a young Persian princess, the name of Rita Jolivet became symbolical immediately of the most exquisite type of Oriental loveliness upon the stage.

The name of Miss Jolivet naturally is familiar to all who remember the Lusitania tragedy, for when the ship went down, it was Miss Jolivet who was standing next to the late Charles Frohman, and it was she who gave to the world the last remark made by the great theatrical manager as the Lusitania sank: "Why fear death? It is the most beautiful adventure in life."

The life of the Empress Theodora, ruler of the Roman empire in the sixth century is the basis for the big spectacle.

The picture was taken on the shore of the Lake of Albano, near Rome, where a miniature city was built of reproductions of ancient architecture. The building of the sets was planned by Armando Bascini, architect of the Vatican. The production was directed by Commendatore Ambrosio, who broke down under the strain in the last stages of the work.

The film is presented in this country under the direction of Samuel Goldwyn.

CONSIDER REPARATIONS

Take Up Problem Preliminary To World Financial Conference

CANNES, France. — The Allied Supreme council began consideration of the question of Germany's war reparations today in an atmosphere somewhat cleared by yesterday's decision to get together with Russia and Germany in an international financial and economic conference.

The air of pessimism noticeable preceding the opening of the council was largely dissipated by the successful results of the first day's session.

An invitation to the U. S. to participate has been extended through George Harvey, here as official observer for his government.

Conditions were adopted under which Russia, Germany, Bulgaria, Austria, Hungary and all the other European powers are to be invited to the conference, but no mention was made of Turkey. The conditions in the form of resolutions are:

First, the nations can not claim the right to dictate to one another the principles according to which they shall organize their interior systems of property rights, government or political economy.

Second, it is impossible to induce foreign capital to come to the aid of a country unless the foreigners who furnish the funds are certain their rights will be respected and that the profits from their ventures be assured.

Third, this security can not be considered and established unless nations or governments of nations desiring to obtain foreign credits undertake freely to recognize all public debts and obligations contracted by a state and restore confiscated property or indemnify the victims of confiscations.

Fourth, nations must have a suitable medium of exchange and monetary system and must offer proper guarantees to trade.

Fifth, all nations must undertake to abstain from all propaganda subversive of public order or of political system established in other countries.

Sixth, all countries must undertake to abstain from all aggressions upon their neighbors.

Nanette Goes Prom Shopping with Marjorie

"I've just got to get my things for Prom today," exclaimed Nanette the Vivacious bursting in, "and I want you to help me. You know I can't spend too much, but, oh, I do want really nice things

"Of course," I interrupted. "I'd be delighted. sales at Keeley-Neckerman's you could satisfy really with a very economical check book.

because—well, because he— And with the wonderful extravagant tastes

"Let's start!" cried Nanette, dramatically.

"First thing, of course

we must pick out goods for a dress— oh, it must be very clever—but how shall I have it made?

"How would this Society taffeta do in two-tone orchid and silver?" I asked. It was positively lucious! It is $3.50 a yard, and you wouldn't need more than 2½ or 3 yards, you know. Isn't it a dream under this silver metallic net? You could pull it up in puffs at the sides, or let it trail a bit. But wait—I know where there are the dearest of orchid and pink rose buds. There! A shoulder strap of these would be most intriguing."

"Wouldn't that be chic!" exclaimed Nanette ecstatically.

"Oui, tres chic," I echoed Frenchily.

And she passed arily by the lustrous two-tone Satin Daphne at $2.50, the vampish velvets selling at half price, and the gorgeous brocaded georgettes and satins marked $9.75—just half off.

"Oh, My Dear!"

Ma Petite Nanette paused breathlessly before an array of feather fans. She was simply irresistible as she smiled coquetishly from behind a half circle of fluttering orchid-pink plumes. This fan was marked $17.50, and she took it, although there were less expensive ones.

"I'll tie this to my wrist with a silver ribbon," said the wise little maid demurely. "Where is the ribbon section, please."

And There We Found

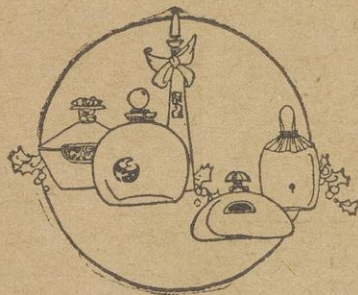

the cleverest corsage set off with a background of metallic ribbon.

"You could make one in just a few minutes," I suggested, and she promptly bought silver ribbon and a dear little cluster of orchid violets for the center.

A Spanish Comb

We discussed combs from settings to teeth, and after looking at any number of quaint designs, Nanette carried away an amber colored Spanish comb set in stones of three harmonizing colors.

"That will make you look very statuesque, as it sparkles its way under the dome on Prom night," I prophesied. And just think—you would have to pay $12 for that comb if the sale were not on. It's only $6 now!"

We Lingered Long at Lingerie

For Nanette couldn't decide whether to take a cunning blue teddie or one in pink crepe de chine with a hem-stitched band top adorned with a bow and two tiny orchid buds at $3.75—now $2.50. She decided on an orchid, silver and pink color scheme throughout, and took the latter.

And those wash satin bloomers in pink at $3.50, too," added Nanette. A pink satin bandeau brassiere was the next discovery—95 cents.

"Isn't this just the thing for formal wear?" said she, picking up a glove silk, shaped vest with elastic in the top to hold it securely without shoulder straps. It was re-enforced under the arms and marked $4. There were others with ribbon straps at $3.50.

Nanette Ponders

"What kind of perfume do you think I should get?" queried the Vivacious Nanette perplexedly.

I thought Houbigant's Quelques Fleures—and that it was. "It's most elusively alluring—like a breath from May meadows—I confided," and absolutely correct." Nanette is terribly correct, for all her youthful exuberance and frivolity, you know.

Ready for the Grand March

"Didn't we make it snappy!" exclaimed Nanette joyfully.

"Oh, I'm so glad I came to Keeley-Neckerman's for my things. Why, it's a regular Prom store, isn't it? They have just everything?"

Happily yours,
MARJORIE.

N. B.—Would you like to know about how Nanette's dress will look—all made? Then be sure to see it in Keeley-Neckerman's window, under the spot light. It's adorable. Here's another tip—for you who are having your things made. There's a discount of 20 per cent on all the dress trimmings—tulle, malines, metallic and metaline cloths and net flouncings. You'll like them, I know.

And Mr. Manchester is in New York, buying a truly bewildering array of Prom dresses for those who wish to get them ready made.

From Head to Toe

That brought us to the subject of hosiery and slipper pins.

"As for hose," I counseled, "you couldn't do better than to buy a pair of silver color with lace clox at $4.50.

And she did, although the array of Italian hand drawn and embroidered black hosiery at from $9 to $13.50—1-3 off—was most tempting. She did buy a pair of fish net hose, though, at $3.50, which was a good selection, for they are more durable than chiffon—and prettier.
