JONES HINTS AT BIG GAMES HERE FOR NEXT FALL

Athletic Director Says There Is No Need to Worry Over Schedule

Coach Jones reassured Badger football fans last night by stating that there need be no worry concerning Wisconsin's home schedule next fall and hinted at the possibility of signing up one of the best known teams in the country for a game at Camp Randall.

"Don't worry about Wisconsin's home football schedule next fall," Coach Jones said. "We haven't any teams definitely signed up as yet for the Homecoming game or another home game but we are dickering with some of the most popular elevens in the country and are confident that a highly satisfactory schedule will be arranged."

Coach Jones refused to make any definite statement as to which teams are likely to be chosen, as he feels that publicity at this time might prove detrimental to his plans.

Schools from all over the country, prominent in their locality, are ready and willing to play Wisconsin, he says, and can be signed to play in Randall stadium without any strings in the shape of return games being attached.

At least one conference team will meet the Badgers at Camp Randall next fall and there is a possibility that two Big Ten games may be played here. As the schedule now stands Wisconsin will play Michigan, Minnesota, and Chicago away from home, and has only two preliminary encounters slated here.

Such a situation seems to leave Wisconsin holding the sack but Coach Jones is apt to spring a big surprise on the Cardinals and bring them longing for years to see in some team here that fans have action against the Badgers.

DR. STEINER UNABLE TO GIVE TALK HERE

The all-university convocation at which Dr. Edward Alfred Steiner of Grinnell college was to speak on Thursday, December 6 has been indefinitely postponed, according to an announcement by Calvert Dredrick '24, in charge of the convocation.

A telegram from Dr. Steiner stated that owing to a change in the college schedule he could not lecture at Wisconsin at any time during the first semester. The Campus Religious council under whose auspices the lecture was to have been given announces that no fall convocation of any sort will be held.

The spring convocation of the Campus Religious council will be held in cooperation with the Y. M. C. A.

ARTISTS TO HEAR TALK ON PRINTS

Mrs. Brown Will Speak Tomorrow on Japanese Art at Library

Mrs. Lucy Fletcher Brown, national authority on Japanese prints will lecture on "How to Appreciate Japanese Prints," at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow in the exhibition room of the State Historical library. A collection of rare Japanese prints will be on exhibition at the same time. The lecture will be given under the auspices of the Madison Art association and will be open to the public.

Mrs. Brown has travelled in the Orient, and is well known in Madison. She has collected during her travels numerous pieces of jade and curios which will be exhibited at the city library.

A lecture for students of the university library school will be given by Mrs. Brown at 4 o'clock Thursday, December 6 in the lecture room of the city library on the subject of Japanese drama.

Movies Classed As Art By Ohio State Professor

By reason of their high function of catering to the betterment of society, the movies have earned the right to be classed as one of the fine arts, in the opinion of Prof. Ralph Fanning, of the department of fine arts, Ohio State university.

Within the next few years courses in scenario writing will be included in college curricula as part of the training in English, he predicts.

"The use of the moving picture as an educational medium has been established," Professor Fanning declares. "It will also come to be employed by colleges and universities as such in the near future."

BADGER NOW HAS EDGE OVER ILLIO

Over 2,700 Badgers Sold During Campaign Solicitors' Reports Show

The 1925 Badger subscription drive has passed the 2,700 mark according to reports compiled by Willis G. Sullivan '25, business manager.

Wisconsin's hopes of winning the Maplesden trophy increased during the latter part of the week as returns from solicitors showed a big increase in sales.

Up to the present time the number of Badgers and Illios sold is about the same; but the contest is on a percentage basis giving Wisconsin the edge over Illinois. Wisconsin has more Badgers sold in comparison to her number of students than Illinois and hopes to maintain this advantage until the end of the contest.

A change in plans has made it necessary to postpone the end of the contest until May of next year. All sales from now until May will be counted in the contest.

The Badger competition ended Saturday night, December 1. All books were in, and the number of Badgers sold by each solicitor computed.

In the men's division, Basil Berg '25, won first place with 120 subscriptions; Louis Falb '23, 51; Hugo Murray '25, 43; Arthur Anderson '27, 35; William Richtman '24, 32; and John Mayer '27, 31. In the women's division, Irene Norman '24, won first place with 83 subscriptions; Marie Campbell '24, 75; Ethelyn Sell '23, 51; Eleanor Hansen '24, 50; Dorothy Runkel '24, 42, and Virginia Cray '27, 41.

Those wishing to buy Badgers can phone the Badger office or go in person and purchase them for the price of $4.00. The price will be raised to $5.00 in the near future.

If the quota of 4000 subscriptions is reached there is very little possibility of a sale in the spring.

CITY COUNCIL SEEKS TO ABOLISH TAG DAYS

An ordinance against the holding of tag days in Madison may be brought up by the city council soon as the result of protests which have been made to several of the councilmen. If such a ruling is passed it will necessitate that all organizations now holding tag days affiliate with the Community union and receive funds in their annual drive.

Foreign Flashes

MUNICH, Dec. 4 — There has been rioting against Von Kahr, dictator of Bavaria.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 — Radicals propose a scheme of taxation which would allow for a soldier's bonus without a raise in the rate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4 — In the first session of the year the house came to a deadlock over the election of a speaker. The voting was the first test of power for the Progressive bloc in the new session.

LONDON, Dec. 4 — A radium clock, invented by Lord Raleigh, has been running for more than ten years without being touched or repaired.

SEATS ARE STILL OBTAINABLE FOR MIXED MARRIAGE

Performance Will Start Early So Women Can Be At Home By 10:30

There still are many good seats for the Wisconsin Players' production, "Mixed Marriage," which will be given at the Parkway theater tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock according to Kenneth Gardner '25, business manager of the production.

"The time of the show is so arranged that all women can be in their rooms by 10:30 so there is no conflict with S. G. A. rules. "Mixed Marriage" is a good play and was one of the best on Broadway. It should merit a large attendance," Gardner declared last night.

"Mixed Marriage" is the first serious drama which the Wisconsin Players have attempted since its organization out of the three original dramatic societies.

"In all my experience in dramatic work I have never read a play which I felt was any better than this one," Roy French, journalism instructor, declared.

The prices at the box office are $2 and down plus war tax.

UNION VODVIL TO HAVE TEN ACTS

Burlesque, Orchestration, and Dancing to Feature Show

The program for Union Vodvil, the "only all-university show," which will be presented by Union Board at the Parkway theater on December 14 and 15, was announced last night by William Purnell, production manager.

The 1923 Vodvil will be comprised of ten acts and a unique prologue and epilogue, to be presented by the "Dunlap Twins" better known as James H. and John E. Dunlap.

An overture composed of special orchestrations of a new fox trot is being arranged for the show by the Jerome Remick music company. Nelson Fairbanks will be director of the orchestra which will be composed of the best known and talented musicians of the university.

"Skeets" Gilmore and his Piano Trio will be the opening act on the program. The act will be the first one ever to offer to Madison audiences a musical program arranged for three pianos. George "Shorty" Walsted will present character songs with the act. The Albert E. Smith company will furnish the pianos.

"Ten Minutes of Vaudeville" will present Jack Cornelius, Charles McKivett and Henry Sprester. Cornelius will sing popular songs, McKivett will present the comedy part

Green Button to Meet to Select Current Officers

Nominations for officers of Green Button will be made at a meeting of all freshmen women at 7 o'clock Thursday evening, December 6, in the Lathrop hall gymnasium. This is an important meeting and all freshmen women are asked to be there. Every year thus far the election of officers of Green Button has taken place early in the fall.

This year however, the early election has been deferred until now in order that each girl might have more opportunity to know the different girls nominated.

The women of the other classes who have organized societies are: sophomores, Red Gauntlet; the juniors, Yellow Tassel; and the seniors, Blue Dragon. Each organization is handed over from one class to the other so a freshman who is a member of Green Button becomes a member of Blue Dragon in her senior year. The annual dues of Green Button is 25 cents.

Girls' Glee Club Will Hold First Open Concert Soon

The annual concert of the Girls' Glee club is to be given sometime during the first week after Christmas vacation, although no definite date has been determined.

Dr. Charles H. Mills, director of the School of Music, has arranged for the program to consist of five groups, three of which will be given by the club and the remaining two will be violin and vocal solos.

"Plans are being made for the club to go on short trips next spring, to towns near here," said Charlotte M. Belscamper '24, president of the organization.

This will be the first time that the Girls' Glee club has undertaken anything of this kind.

CADET HOP TO BE GORGEOUS AFFAIR

Unusual Decorations Planned For Military Dance Next Saturday

Colored floodlights, silver tinsel, flags, and military decorations will transform Lathrop gym and concert room into a gorgeous setting for the fourth annual military hop which will be ushered in at 9 o'clock Saturday evening.

Spot-lights are to be used in connection with the shifting lighting effects produced by various decoration stunts. These, thrown upon the silvered tinsel, will produce twinkling, vari-colored light reflections. Combined with the floodlights they will form a soft, blending light of blue, green and yellow.

The Badger "Tokio" orchestra of nine pieces will be dressed in the uniform of the cadet corps. The orchestra pit will be decorated with flags and other appropriate decorations in keeping with the affair, and the background will consist of silver tinsel upon which the spotlights will dance and flicker.

A 37 mm. gun, commonly known as the one-pounder, and several machine guns will help to make the military scenery more realistic.

Special features, to be announced later, will occupy the attention of the dancers during intermission, and programs suitable to the occasion will be given out.

Tickets to the hop may be secured from members of the cadet corps or from S. D. Thompson '24, who has charge of the ticket sale, for $1.00.

The military hop is an annual event for the cadet corps, band, members of the various military organizations, and ex-service men from all branches of the army and navy. It is a pre-season dance and fore-runner to the military ball which is held in the spring.

Five Cows Chew Themselves Dead On Filthy Weed

Nine cows try chewing tobacco and die. The moral for cows is: "know your 'cud."

Nosing their way into an open tobacco shed, nine head of cattle on the farm of Ernest Haines, selected a "cud" from the moist juicy, curing leaves.

Four of them died Sunday and the other five are reported to be suffering from acute nicotine and salt peter poisoning. The loss, Mr. Haines estimates, will be more than $1,000.

REGENTS RECEIVE BOOZE RESOLUTION

Methodist Church Action on Drinking to Be Considered By Regents

The resolution passed recently by the men's society of the Kingsley Methodist church of Milwaukee, protesting drunkenness among students will be brought before the meeting of the Board of Regents of the university which is in session here today and Wednesday.

This resolution, which caused much unfavorable comment among students and members of the faculty, condemns the prevalence of drinking among students of the university, especially during such occasions as homecoming.

The resolution recommends that the regents take steps to eradicate the causes of the evil, abolishing the events which seem to be an excuse for students to use liquor if no other solution can be found. The resolution has been kept on file in the office of the secretary of the university pending the meeting of the regents.

Y. W. WILL HOLD INDUSTRIAL DINNER

Banquet to Bring Working Girls and Students Into Co-operation

The Y. W. C. A. industrial banquet will be held at 6 o'clock, Tuesday, December 11 in Lathrop parlors. All students or industrial girls are invited to come whether they have ever done any industrial work or not.

After the banquet, which will be served by Halls and Commons, Prof. D. D. Lescouer, of the economics department, will give the address of the evening. Nell Martinson, who attended the industrial summer school at Brimar last summer will explain the value of summer school training in this field.

The student industrial co-operation movement in the National Y. W. C. A. was started six years ago, by Miss Florence Simms. It aims, according to Alice Corl '25, general chairman of the work here in the university, to bring the girl who studies into closer relationship with the girl who works, in order that both may work out their common problems in the best possible way.

The student industrial work is four years old here. The work this year is being carried on under the chairmanship of Alice Corl '25. The executive committee is composed of Louise Toby '24, Mary Devine '25, Clara Hurtberg '25, Mary Talford '26 and Isabel Winterbotham '24.

Sarah Stevenson '25 has charge of the ticket sale. The tickets will be 50 cents, and they may be procured from Jean Dunbar '25, in Barnard hall, and from Alice Colony '26 in Chadbourn hall, or in the Y. W. C. A. office in Lathrop hall. All reservations must be made before next Monday night.

SCOTT NEARING WILL TALK HERE TOMORROW

Scott Nearing, professor of economics and sociology at the Rand school of social sciences, New York will speak tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the university gymnasium on the subject "Oil and the Germs of War". Professor Rand's opinions have created much comment and controversy during recent years. Prof. Max Otto of the philosophy department will introduce the speaker.

BASCOM'S BASEMENT BEING REDECORATED

Classes meeting in the basement under the north end of Bascom hall have been inconvenienced for several days because the hallway and rooms are being redecorated. Temporary classrooms were assigned in other parts of Bascom and in various campus buildings. The work is nearly finished and the rooms will be ready for the classes to meet according to their regular schedule on Wednesday. No other part of Bascom will be painted at present.

TRUSTEES FOR VILAS ESTATE PROTEST TAX

The question as to whether federal income tax paid can be deducted from the amount of income upon which a state income tax is based is being threshed out at a hearing in the office of H. R. Briggs, county assessor of incomes, this afternoon. The case involves the estate of the late Col. William F. Vilas. The Central Wisconsin Trust Co., L. M. Hanks and Burr W. Jones are trustees.

COUNTY RAISES CITY TAX BILL $30,879

The city of Madison will pay some $19,500 more in taxes to the state and county this year than last, despite the fact that the state's charges against the city decreased by $11,367.56. This is because the county's charges against the city increased $30,879.65.

AG STOCK JUDGES PLACE ELEVENTH

Wisconsin Team Competes With Many Entrants at Chicago

The Wisconsin stock judging team placed eleventh out of a field of nineteen college teams at the International livestock show in Chicago last Saturday.

"Great credit is due the team considering the competition it had and the little time that is given to judging here compared with that of other agricultural colleges," S. D. Sims, coach said.

The following students comprised the team. Byron Heal '24, Lester Caldwell '24, S. H. Sabin '24, Irvin Benson '24, and Harold Murphy '24. Junior alternates were Frank Crutcher and Harry Wood.

The same men placed sixth out of a field of nineteen at the American royal show in Kansas city, November 17. During this trip which lasted two weeks the student judges stopped over at Ames, Urbana, and at some of the leading Wisconsin farms to become thoroughly familiar with the best stock.

The International show in Chicago is the big windup of the activities of the stock judging team which will rest until spring.

CELEBRATE FIRST SHAKESPEARE ART

Dean Roe Comments on 300th Anniversary of Writer's First Work

Dean Frederick W. Roe, commenting yesterday on the 300th anniversary of the publication of the First Folio of William Shakespeare said, "The First Folio published in 1623 was the first collection of the poet's plays. It was an interesting event in literary history."

"Two fellow players who belonged to his company collected Shakespeare's plays seven years after his death in 1616. All of his 37 plays except 'Pericles' were included in this edition. They were the first persons to divide Shakespeare's works into the now famous three divisions of comedy, tragedy and histories," Dean Roe stated.

The dean said the Folio derived its name from the process of printing and folding the book. Each

DETERMINED TO
SCALP VARSITYSecond Tilt Between Regulars
and Freshmen Due
Today

The varsity netmen are due to mix with the frosh for the second time today at four o'clock in the gym and if the threatening murmurs that are coming from the frosh camp can be taken as indicative of their strength, Coach Meanwell's protégés are in for somewhat of a battle.

The frosh succumbed 49 to 7 in the last game, but they have an excellent alibi for the defeat. Many of the most brilliant frosh were not able to compete, in the first unfortunate episode. Today they will all be on hand and upon them hang the hopes of the yearlings.

These encounters between the frosh and the varsity are conducted according to Big Ten rules. Joe Steinauer is the referee.

There is a triple purpose behind the games. The student body is given an idea of the varsity strength; both the varsity and the frosh get a good bit of experience in playing before a crowd, and the games are very good practice. The fact that a game is really being played lends more interest to the pre-season activities of the basketball squad, Coach Meanwell believes. It is possible also to get an idea of the material that is coming up next year.

Last Game Thursday

The varsity and frosh will engage in battle once more next Thursday and that is the last time the fans will have a chance to see the team in action before the season starts.

There is a tentative arrangement with Milliken's quintet which Rollie Williams is coaching, but this game is very much in doubt since Milliken allows the frosh to play on the varsity team, which is against Big Ten rules. An attempt is being made, however, to get special permission to play the game next Saturday night.

Coach Meanwell wants all the students that can possibly make it to attend the game. Since there is no charge plenty of fans should respond to his invitation.

The frosh lineup is doubtful but here is the way the two teams will probably start:

Badgers and 3 Big Ten School Sign
For Unique Meet

Two quadrangular track meets between Wisconsin, Northwestern, Chicago, and Ohio were arranged at the conference of coaches at Chicago. The indoor meet will be held February 26 at Northwestern, and the outdoor May 17, at Wisconsin.

This is the first time in the history of track athletics at Wisconsin that a four cornered meet has been held between the Badgers and three other conference schools. Dual meets have been frequent, and in these the Cardinals have always managed to give a good account of themselves, as they have against the entire Big Ten aggregations in the conference meet.

If Wisconsin can win either of these affairs it will speak well for the track team, for the other three schools furnish some of the stiffest competition found in the conference.

All track events except the sprints and hurdles will be eliminated from the indoor quadrangular meet and relay races substituted. The outdoor meet at Wisconsin will consist of all regular track and field events and the winner may be considered as a dangerous contender for the Big Ten title in the conference meet which occurs the following week.

SNEAK THIEVES

This is the season of the year at which sneak thieves reap their harvest of overcoats, mufflers, gloves, and similar articles since there is a ready market for such articles. They can easily be shipped out of town, and once taken, so far as the loser is concerned, there is nothing to do but forget them.

With every loss there comes imprecations against the student body in general and bitter harangues concerning student dishonesty, when the real facts of the matter warrant an altogether different attitude. Beyond all question, there are at least one or two sneak thief students here, perhaps even three, but no more. The regular sneak thieves are recruited from the ranks of the professional crooks of the town or those who come here from out of town. These crooks make it their business to go from one building to another on the campus to steal whatever they may. Hence, the student who is "willing to trust to student honor" and leaves his valuables where they may be easily appropriated is, in reality, not trusting to student honor but to luck that some professional crook may not come along and take them.

While there is no way of sorting out and driving away the thieves, there is a way of limiting their activities. That consists of being careful where property is left, and the kind of property that is left. It is better to take an overcoat into the class room and to sit on it than to leave it unguarded on a hook and later mourn its loss. Also, while overcoat pockets may be spacious, they are not the proper receptacles for pens, pencils, pocket books, and books if the articles are valued, even though the coat itself is locked on the hook. To carry valuables in such places amounts to nothing more or less than assistance to waiting crooks. In this mass of students, carefulness on the part of the individual is the only possible safeguard.

A DEPARTMENT EDUCATION?

Now and again a calamity howler will come forth with some favorite wail. The latest of these has been directed against the proposed founding of a Federal Bureau of Education, with its head a member of the president's cabinet. Periodically this question of a Department of Education, national in extent, has come up, only to be disposed of by the calamity howl of "Politics will creep in and corrupt it." As a proof of this assertion, the corruption of municipal education through municipal politics as illustrated by conditions that have existed in Chicago are brought up. While such results from the founding of a bureau of education would be utterly undesirable, it is, at the same time, extremely doubtful if they would necessarily accompany it.

The latest request for a Department of Education has been made to President Coolidge by the National Association of Education together with a number of other organizations. This department is to be similar in nature to the Department of Agriculture; its duties to be purely advisory in nature, and to consist of overcoming illiteracy, Americanization of foreigners, training of teachers, and the co-ordination of state education programs. An English Board of Education has succeeded to a very considerable degree in the performance of similar duties so there is no question of the practicality of the proposed plan of duties.

Many values are to be obtained from the establishment of such a bureau. Even as the Department of Agriculture has brought into existence better agricultural conditions and laws and promoted agricultural sciences, so would a Department of Education benefit our educational systems which are far from being perfect. Politics would not need to creep in any more than they have in the matter of the Department of Agriculture, nor would the advisory nature be lost in one case any more than it has been in the other.

UNINSTRUCTIVE ARGUMENTS

Easily first and foremost in the class of uninstructive arguments are those in which laboratory instructors allow themselves to be drawn to the neglect of their duties. The instructor who allows another instructor or a couple of students to engage him in a discussion of football championships, basketball teams, or any other topic of the day and thus keeps the students from receiving his assistance surely is not performing the duties for which he was hired. Nor is the attitude justifiable on the part of such an instructor that, if the student wants assistance, he knows how to come up and ask for it, for good training and a fine sense of courtesy on the part of the student makes him more willing to get along without the help than to drag the instructor out of his conversational interests and thus indirectly point out his actual duties to him.

There is no question but what this negligence is more the result of thoughtlessness than it is of anything else. But it is not to be forgiven on the grounds that it is unintentional, for the habit of attending only to those things strictly relevant to the duties of the instructorship may be and should be cultivated.

A WORD OF WELCOME

Professor Karl Young, in giving up the chairmanship of the Department of English at the University of Wisconsin to come to New Haven did Yale a great honor. Just how signal the honor and how great New Haven's good fortune few realized till hearing Professor Young speak at his first public appearance here last night. Congratulations are due on all sides. The Elizabethan Club, ordinarily restricting the lectures under its auspices to members of the Club, may share in the general content at having opened up its policy on such an occasion as this. To Professor Young the University extends a sincere welcome, looking forward with satisfaction to his stay within its borders.—Yale Daily News, Nov. 9.

The world owes Buddha much for setting up a religion in which upright conduct and deep thinking as the enemy of ignorance were placed as the highest qualities for human attainment. The degeneration of his religion is another story.

The Popular Talleys
Up at the University of Wisconsin, Del and Bob Tally, cousins, and the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Homer B. Tally and Mr. and Mrs. G. Edward Tally, are accomplishing the which isn't so easy as you might imagine—prominence of the Wisconsin campus of many hundreds of students. They rank among the most popular boys of the entire school.

Del is very busy these days—when he isn't studying—ushering a most attractive young woman about. She is small and lithe, with dark hair and eyes, and hails from an Illinois town.

And Del, that fortunate young man, sports a full length raccoon coat and a Studebaker car. What more could any student want?

As for Bob, he is quite busy with his music. He is musically inclined and can play most any instrument he desires. This makes him rather much in demand and he plays in a number of orchestras. As for the girls, Bob, too, has one of which he is rather fond but he has any number of girl friends to fill in his date nights.

ARE 45 PER CENT OF US DEFICIENT?

Average Adult Has Mind of 13 1/2 Year Old Child, Some Writers Say

Some writers have drawn startling conclusions from the results of the army intelligence tests. They claim that these tests demonstrated that 45 per cent of us are dull, that the average adult is equal in age only to the 13 1/2 year old child, and that education cannot remedy these things.

Most psychologists now say that the army tests only proved that 55 per cent of the soldiers were brighter than the others. The degree of brightness of the one division and the degree of dullness of the other division was not tested. The mental age as determined by comparing the scores of children and the scores of adults who had taken a test proportionally similar to that given the children, is disputed.

Psychologists, moreover, affirm that while all may profit by education, the kind and amount of education from which people can profit most is largely determined by their original endowments of mental capacity.

Intelligence tests have been developed by prolonged experimentation into workable form. The aim of these tests is to measure general mental ability. The kind of ability that these tests measures is, in the opinion of many, primarily the ability to deal with verbal and numerical situations, such as confront most students.

Large differences exist in the scores on intelligence tests between occupational environmental, and social groups, and between individuals from different groups. If the training of two individuals has been the same, the scores of their tests represent, fairly accurately, the difference in their mental capacity. Some allowance is generally made for class or group, but to some extent these tests measure real inherent capacity.

FANS FLOCK TO

By CHATTY

Doug Jr.'s first picture is out. It's making quite a sensation at the Rivoli in New York too, according to reports. The youthful Fairbanks has put out an unusual picture and by it has proved that the everlasting theme of love isn't essential to the financial success of a movie. For Doug, being a bashful lad by nature, has kept heart throbs and the Blind Bow Boy far, far away from his studio.

"Stephen Steps Out" is the name of this initial piece. As near as we can make out, the story is a little wild—that is, the hero runs into contact with the Sultan of Turkey and uses a little pull with his highness. We always had an antipathy to ringing royalty into a picture. But we suppose that there are enough other qualities in the production to make up for this factor.

The story deals with a spirited lad who flunks out of prep school because one of his professors refuses to be influenced by the family name of the boy. Stephen goes to Turkey to study and while there learns that the professor has lost his position because he had not passed him. Along come the Sultan and the lad prevails upon this dignitary to bestow a high honor on the professor so that he will be reinstated in the faculty of the school. Which is done forthwith.

According to reports, Doug Jr. is a great star destined to an amazing future. His pantomime abilities are unusual for so young an actor (he is fourteen although he does look older) with unexpected poise and ease of characterization. In spite of the fact that there are other stars in the film such as Theodore Roberts and Noah Berey, Doug is the outstanding feature and suffers nothing by contrast.

Your first question about this picture will probably be: Does he do any of daddy's stuff? The answer is: Yes. And he is as agile as his father.

There is only one feminine character listed in the cast, a unique feature in itself.

We don't know when it will be run in these parts, but it should be along soon.

PLOT VARIATIONS AND BEBE MAKE
EXCELLENT SHOW

"His Children's Children"
Presented at the Madison.
Produced by Adolph Zukor.
Featuring Bebe Daniels.

By HITT, V. F. H. MISS

The chap who directed this piece took Arthur Train's interesting novel, jugged it around a bit—but not harmfully—and delivered a rather unusual and quite entertaining movie. The skeleton plot is hackneyed, but dressed up in all its frills it betrays a few striking variations from the ordinary run. For instance, the children of these wealthy folk are not selfish, nor is their "old man" merely a walking bank. What is more incredible, knickers appear only once, and negligee thrice—by actual count. And we learn that family life really exists in the residential palaces of Fifth Avenue and Riverside Drive.

Bebe Daniels is to be complimented on her choice of characterizations, for unlike so many film stars, she does not try to play the naive young lady of sixteen with a worldly facial expression that can never be wholly changed by false curls and Betty Wales frocks. In all her pictures she is the same "good scout" and the audience is made to feel that they know the real Bebe and not an actress of many personalities. On the legitimate stage this talent would not be considered art but in the picture world, where every fan has his god, her ability to remain the same has won for Bebe Daniels many followers.

The settings and costumes are as usual very elaborate and the society scenes are satisfying to the "Middle class who crave the latest gossip about New York's four hundred."

The use of a villain dressed like Omar Khayyam, with hypnotizing eyes, is getting rather old in picture history and is the weakest thing in this play. As usual he is

Want a Cry, Girls?
See Strand Movie

"THE BAREFOOT BOY"
Featuring John Bowers and Marjorie Daw.

Produced by David Kirkland.

Presented at the Strand.

By SAPPY

Girls, if you want to have a nice cry, get a couple of fresh handkerchiefs, and make HIM take you to the Strand the first part of the week. You will use the hankie a couple of times, and when you come out, you will feel so happy and satisfied and good.

The "Barefoot Boy" has everything that a melodrama should have and lots of it too. It is the story of a little barefoot boy who is blamed for everything bad that all the other children do, who has to suffer all the time, and who finally leaves the town, swearing that he is going to revenge himself. He does come back, of course, and is all ready to crush the little town, when he finds the girl, and then finally after the fatality is wrecked and they almost die in the wreck, everything ends up sweetly and nicely.

The first part of the picture, where children play the main roles, is rather nice, especially Frankie Lee, who promises to make a good little actor. The second part is pretty much of sentimental slush. It is not bad at all, but we hate that kind of stuff. It is too much overworked; there is enough sentimentality and crying and tears in this world as it is, and we prefer to see something different when we go to the movies.

John Bowers and Marjorie Daw do nobly in their roles. They make the drama just what it wants to be a flood of happy and unhappy tears. The comedy in the play is old stuff, and cannot pull the lay out of its root. But we know that such movies are liked, and again we say, girls, get your hankies ready and go to the Strand.

COLUMBUS, Ohio.—Ohio State's musical comedy selected this year to be presented by Scarlet Mask club bears the title "The Cat and the Fiddle."

about to ruin some young girls life, in this case Bebe's sister, when the hero rushes in and saves the young victim.

The titles are unusually clever and help to lift the picture out of the mediocre class into which the plot might otherwise place it.

Up Stage Bits

BY TORMENTOR

This is theater week again, folks, with the Parkway full up every night and "Mixed Marriage," a student production, taking the lead on Wednesday night.

"The theater, for all its artifices, depicts life in a sense more truly than history, because the medium has a kindred movement to that of real life, though an artificial setting and form."—George Santayana.

That's what "Mixed Marriage" gives,—a picture of real life. The theater's function of amusement is adequately fulfilled every day. Here is a serious drama which depicts a live human problem.

In a way the students are on test. The attendance at "Mixed Marriage" will show whether their sole taste for the drama is jazz and eye and ear productions, or if real art attracts.

There are many good seats left. As regularly as Shredded Wheat for breakfast, Fiske O'Hara comes to the Parkway each year with a new show.

Our English departments deplore Harold Belle Wright, but still he's the best seller. We may not think of O'Hara as a great actor but he expects to fill four houses here. And there's something appealing about his ballads and Irish romances, too.

It's funny how the shows at the Parkway this week are running to the Irish. The Engineers probably will declare a holiday.

All's set for Union Vodvil except picking a name for the Dance Revue. Tormentor will receive contributions so that he can get credit for suggesting the winning title.

"THE ETERNAL STRUGGLE"

Presented at the Majestic.
Featuring an all-star cast.

By E. M. S.

"The Eternal Struggle" is interesting and strongly emotional. The battle between love and duty forms the main theme, treated in such an unusual way, and with such suspense that we forget how often it has been used.

It is difficult to decide which deserves most credit, the acting, the plot, or the photography. There are half a dozen well-known actors, each of whom sustains his role excellently. Pat O'Malley, as Bucky, the Irish hero, plays opposite Renee Adoree who is a fascinating little French minx and, incidentally, a splendid actress. Earle Williams is the noblest character, Josef Swickard plays the lovable French father, and Barbara La Marr and Wallace Beery portray the villainous roles.

The stage or rather, screen, is set in Canada for this drama of the Northwest Mounted Police. Bucky and Earle Williams, officers of the Mounted Police, are in love with Renée. When Bucky tells her that he has simply been playing with her, she runs into the night, is protected by the villain, wounded him, is accused of his death, runs away and is sought for murder by Bucky. On the homeward trip comes the struggle between love and duty, and duty conquers. We were surprised at the end, but we won't spoil it for you.

Suspense did not prevent us from appreciating the magnificent Canadian mountains, sweeping snow-covered vistas, cool lakes, frothing rapids. There is a marvelous scene in which a canoe plunges into steep swift rapids, grazing mammoth boulders, being hurled into space, ever onward. There are sleds and dogs and mountain trails, all the local color of Canada, and always the grandeur, of slender icy peaks.

"The Eternal Struggle" may be a little exaggerated, here and there, but as a whole, it is extremely interesting.

International News is followed by a funny comedy, "Running Wild," featuring Jack Lloyd.

yet been definitely settled. Under present plans, the conference will get under way the latter part of December and continue through January. Individual lines of vocational work will be discussed at each conference.

FEDERAL TAX INCOME
LOWERS 575 MILLIONS

WASHINGTON—Reductions in income and profit taxes and in the leases on amusements, automobile sales, spirits and the like accounted for most of the decrease of more than $575,700,000 in collections during the last fiscal year. The annual report of the internal revenue bureau, which was published today, listed collections during the 12 months ending June 30, totaling $2,621,745,227, as compared with $3,197,451,000 during the preceding fiscal year. Increases of $38,256,108 in taxes on tobacco and $39,856,727 on automotive products, Commissioner David H. Blair, asserted, were much more than offset in reductions made by new laws in taxation from other sources. Income and profits taxes totalled $1,691,089,000, a decline of $395,000,000 from the preceding year and taxes on amusement, automobile sales, spirits and similar items amounted to $930,655,693, a decline of 179,876,925.

of the act, and Sprester is a guitar virtuoso.

The Wisconsin University Players will offer Stephen Leacock's "Raft," a screaming burlesque.

Wayne Limberg, a "Whistling Clown," will present a novelty exhibition of vocal talent.

Rudolph Teschan will be presented by Phi Beta Pi in features of magic including a remarkable escape from a straight-jacket while suspended feet up in the air. Teschan has arranged an entirely new program of tricks which will be shown at Union Vodvil for the first time. The scenic background for this act will be a sensational novelty. The set will be made entirely of black patent leather.

A song and dance melange, "Do Re Mi," has been arranged by Mu Epsilon, musical sorority. Reinette Douglas and Carolyn Hinsdell will be featured in novelty dances in the act. The scenic production for this act will be the most elaborate of the show. A gold and blue cyclorama made entirely of pure satin will form the background for the musical and dance numbers. HEREDITY FACTOR IN CANCER GROWTH

Chronic Stimulation Has Also Been Proved Influ- ential

"Although the immediate cause of cancer is as yet unknown, heredity and chronic stimulation have been proven to be important factors in bringing about the disease," Dr. H. Gideon Wells of the University of Chicago lecturing on "Cancer and Heredity," told an audience composed largely of faculty and students of the medical school last night in the Biology building.

Dr. Wells then told of experiments carried on by him in a laboratory in Chicago in cooperation with a young woman graduate in genetics. In this laboratory 45,000 mice are raised, cared for, allowed to live and propagate, and die naturally of old age, after which they are studied with reference to cancerous growths. It was in this manner that it was discovered that cancer is determined by heredity.

That cancer is an attribute of all multicellular and unicellular organisms was another statement made by Dr. Wells. It has also been shown to be a disease of advanced age. It is never contagious.

"Does cancer behave as a Mendelian recessive?" asked Dr. Wells in conclusion. "Yes, it does, thereby proving that the tendency toward it is inherited."

times especially for this and other acts of the show.

Roy Goodlad, who will be the surprise of the show, according to Purcell, will present an original monologue written by himself and entitled "Comic Moments."

"Feet Features," a soft shoe and eccentric dancing act, will be presented by a company including James Hildreth, Tom Niles, John McCausland, Byron Rivers and Arthur Ardell.

"Heinie" Hall and "Bill" Eddy, stars of "Kikmi," will present a running comedy called "Oh Pappa!" Hall will impersonate Ray Dooley, famous comedienne of Ziegfeld Follies. Songs and dances will be interspersed in the comedy parts.

The closing act of the program will be "Resistless Syncopation" to be presented by the Teke band of 12 pieces. Their program will be composed of special symphonic numbers. A good cyclorama made in Chicago and special costumes made by Lester will be used in the act.

Open sale of seats for the show began at the Parkway theater on Monday.
