ON THE WATER AS WELL AS IN FOOTBALL.

SUCH IS THE DETERMINATION OF THE CREW.

But a New Shell Is Necessary—The Men Training Hard.

At a meeting of the board of directors last evening it was decided that every effort should be made to raise enough money to buy a new racing shell for the crew. The situation was discussed at considerable length and when it was learned that the Dahlymples, Manager O'Brien, Adams and one or two other football men had taken to crew practice with an idea of getting back to Wisconsin this spring for last fall's defeat, it was declared that the situation was altogether too serious to be neglected.

Captain Rohn described what was being done by the U. W. crew in the way of practice and showed that nothing was amiss in that direction. The pick of about sixty who began competition in January are working hard and steadily on the machine daily. The crews have taken to good form readily owing to the large number of old men who are in competition. Beside the old crew men there are a large number of the new comers who promise to make the best of racing material. It is doubtful if half of the old crew will be in the boat this year provided the new men show well in the shell next spring. Certainly there will be a freshman crew which will show well along with the regular 'varsity by the close of the season. The dates of the races have not been definitely determined as yet. The race with the Minnesota Boat club will be either June 22 or 29. The race with the University of Minnesota will be ten days earlier. The race with the Delaware crew of Chicago will be about the 8th of June when the regular 'varsity regatta will probably be held.

THE IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

The above was the subject under consideration yesterday in Professor Parkinson's course of lectures on the English constitution. He said in substance:

A parliament of today in full action is the constitution of today at work. A complete parliament has three branches—the Crown, the House of Lords, and the House of Commons. These, acting together, and sometimes called the "King in Parliament," are legally omnipotent. In theory, too, the three branches are co-equal in power, but in practice are very unequal. The cabinet is the modern device which binds the three branches together, in action.

The doctrine long held as to the source of parliament's life and power seems curious enough, in the light of modern facts and present practice. It was for centuries maintained that parliament owed its life to the writ of the king, and hence expired on the death of the king. This doctrine was first overthrown by the logic of necessity, and was then supplanted by positive law. The convention parliament that elected William and Mary, and enacted the Bill of Rights, although not summoned by a king's writ, went on and builded better than it knew. By setting aside one king and choosing another, and by changing and fixing the line of succession, it practically uprooted an old doctrine, and established another and a truer in its stead—the doctrine, not that parliament owes its life to the king, but that the king holds his crown and his kingship by consent of parliament, as representing the nation.

The sovereignty of parliament, from a strictly legal standpoint, is one of the most striking facts in English political institutions. It means that the three branches, acting together, can make or unmake any law pertaining to the united kingdom, and that no other authority can legally annul or set aside such legislation.

Several striking illustrations of the legal sovereignty of parliament were here cited, and some apparent exceptions to it, and certain limitations upon it, which have been sometimes claimed, were shown to have no real existence. But parliament, although legally unrestrained, is not actually so. The true political sovereign lies back of King, Lords, and Commons, and must ultimately be obeyed by parliament itself.

The legal sovereign, in every state, is actually restrained by forces both external and internal. These may or may not coincide, but it is the aim and effect of true representative government to secure such coincidence. What parliament, or a majority of the House of Commons, now command, a majority of the English people usually desire.

CHICAGO ALUMNI.

Hold Their Annual Banquet—The Toasts.

The annual banquet of the U. W. alumni of Chicago was held at the Grand Pacific, last Friday evening. About seventy-five sat down to the banquet. President and Mrs. C. K. Adams, Dr. R. T. Ely, Miss M. Oakley, '93, Stanley Hanks and Henry Niederman were present from Madison. Mr. Wm. A. Flower acted as toastmaster and toasts were responded to as follows: "The University of Wisconsin"—C. K. Adams; "Graduate Study"—Dr. Ely; "The Ideal Graduate"—H. A. Tenney; "The University as seen through Anglo-American Eyes"—A. A. Bruce; "Mrs. C. K. Adams"—Miss Oakley. At the close of the banquet Mr. Stanley Hanks presented the matter of the trip of the musical clubs about to be undertaken.

urer. A vice president from each class was elected as follows: C. R. Frazier, '95, W. L. Smithyman, '96, Chas. Hageman, '97, L. A. Goddard, '98, Pearl Lincoln, law '96, L. L. Constance, law '95. Orators elected were: W. C. Ferris, '95, F. W. Barber, '95, C. R. Frazier, '95, W. W. Moore, '97, E. B. Smith, '97 and J. W. Irish, '98.

"DEBATERS CHOSEN."

"The Wisconsin debate contest was held last Wednesday evening. The following participated: Mr. Newkirk, Miss Beach, Messrs. Anderson F. L., Baldy, Finlayson, Gregory, Guilford and Berg. The first three named were chosen to win from Wisconsin. Mr.
Baldy is first substitute."

The above, from the university of Minnesota "Ariel," shows that the debaters of our university must not be backward in making arrangements for an inter-collegiate debate with Minnesota. The advantages of such a contest are obvious and it is unnecessary to cite any arguments in favor of such a contest. But the literary societies are extremely slow in regard to the matter. Each week of delay gives so much advantage to Minnesota. Some such plan as was in vogue last year for the selection of debaters, should be adopted by the societies at their meetings this week.
Let something be done at once to preserve the reputation of the university upon the rostrum!

AQUETICS.

The Cardinal mentioned in Saturday's issue the importance of making a good showing with our crew this year. Some statistics of last year's regatta and the training season that preceded it bring out to some extent the importance of the boating department viewed from a general athletic standpoint. Sixty men went in training for the Varsity crew in February. The class crews averaged fifteen competitors each, making sixty men who received more or less practice in the gigs. About half of these were men who dropped from competion for the Varsity crew.

The regatta entries were:

In gig races—36 entries.

In Canoe races—9 entries.

In swimming races—18 entries.

In pleasure boat races—22 entries.

In water tournament—6 entries.

In tub races—8 entries.

In Varsity crew and subs—13 entries.

Total—112.

A very small number of the list of entries of one event were duplicate of the entries of another. The gig and shell men were reparee and were not allowed to compete in any other events than their regular races. And an examination of the records of the Varsity show that over 80 persons took part in the regatta itself. But we have still further to look for the influence of boating sports. When we consider the audience that was drawn to the regatta last year, we can begin to appreciate what interest an intercollegiate boat race on Third lake would create—where 800 people could be carried along with the race by steamers and any number by transportation train. Six thousand people attended the great race at Minnetonka last year. Four thousand came from the Twin cities even though the early part of the day had been stormy.
There were two thousand of the cot-tagers about the lake, who represented all parts of the United States, who were there to see Wisconsin's crew row. This means considerable for the university and for our athletics. The amount of space devoted to the race by the four big twin city papers alone was measured and found to aggregate, with the preliminary write ups of the crews, to three hundred and ten inches —or nearly ten yards. The St. Paul Globe and the Minneapolis Tribune each ran cuts of 11 by 4 inches at the top of the first page of their Sunday papers, the day after the race; and the pictures of the crew and of the trophy cup offered by the U. W. Navy abounded in all the daily papers.

These are a few of the more striking phases of what a good crew means for Wisconsin. The Varsity must have a new shell this year if it takes from now to doomsday to raise the money.

YOU AND I.

If you were like the daybreak
And I were young as you, If it were early Maybreak And buds were pushing through;
If skies were only blue And we were met anew, My heart and prove it true!

How wide the world would seem then, How green the grass would be;
How we should dream and dream then Beneath the budding tree.
Come, marry, marry me,
And you could bend and beam then A Benedictite!

But, ah, for toil and twilight,
And you a silvery age,
And I with sob and sigh light For time's long-taken page And love a blotted page, And life a pilgrimage Where leaves that budded, die white Across the acreage!

Alack, 'tis autumn weather!
The chimney bears no bud;
A chill is on the heather, A mist is on the flood,— And yet from crackled wood It sings along the blood That you and I together Have loved and understood.
—Harrison S. Morris.

GERMAN SOCIALISM.

Socialism has been accused of aiming at the oppression of personal liberty. Now I beg you to look at our programme, and you will see that every point of it is a striking refutation of this childish reproach. What do we ask for? Absolute liberty of the press; absolute liberty of meeting; absolute liberty of religion; universal suffrage for all representative bodies and public offices in the state and the commune; national education; all schools open to all; the same opportunities of learning and education for all; abolition of the standing armies and creation of national militia, so that every citizen is soldier and every soldier citizen; an international court of arbitration between the different states; equal rights for men and women—measures for the protection of the working classes (limitation of the hours of work, sanitary regulations, etc.) Can personal liberty, can the right of the individual be better guaranteed than by this programme? And can any honest democrat find fault with this programme? Far from intending to suppress personal liberty we have the full right to say that we are the sole party in Germany that fights for the principles of democracy.

—Herr Wilhelm Liebknecht, in Forum.

CUBAN POSSIBILITIES.

The sugar-production of Cuba, enormous as is now is, can be increased tenfold. And by the aid of modern improvements in the method of manufacture sugar can be produced so cheaply there that no other country in the world can fairly compete with it. Only a tithe of the lands adapted to sugar is now under cultivation.
Coffee-growing, which was once in the front rank of its industries, has now fallen to a matter of small importance.
With capital and confidence in the honesty and good will of the government, this industry could again be put upon a profitable footing. So near as it is to us, and with the rapid improvement in means of transportation, it is the natural winter garden for the United States. There is no question about the "frost-line," that bugbear to the fruit-and vegetable-growers in our own South, and with cheap lands and cheap labor, and the encouragement that steamboat-lines are now giving, we could be supplied unfailingly with tropical products from this source.
Bananas, coconuts, oranges, lemons, pineapples, would all pay well for careful and systematic cultivation.— James K. Reeve, in Lippincott's.

CARDINAL BOARD: The editors of the Cardinal, will meet at the Cardinal office, Thursday, March 7, at 2:30 p. m.

The general notion of what happens in the interior of the piano when the finger presses a key may be conveyed in the simplest terms. Would you believe that the power developed when the strings of your piano are tuned to the proper pitch equals energy sufficient to raise twelve tons one foot from the ground? If it has ever been your misfortune to be present when the string-frame of a piano was fractured, the above statement will require no confirmation. A thunderbolt scarcely makes a greater uproar, an earthquake causes little more destruction. The writer happened to be playing on one occasion, with what, in his conceit, he imagined to be great effect. He felt he was being admired by the men and worshiped by the women, when, as he brought his fingers down for a magnificent finale, he instantly found himself upon the floor with the piano stool on his stomach, while the piano itself presented a wreck of keys, lids, mechanism, and serpent-like wires. Struggling to his feet, dazed, his stuttering questions as to what in the name of all the gods and demons had happened, were answered by a finger pointing to the ruins of what had once been a very fine parlor-square.—Demorest's Magazine.

NEXT WEEK'S ATTRACTIONS.

Thursday and Friday of next week D. F. Sherman, representing R. C. Notbohm, the Milwaukee importer, will have on exhibition at the Park Hotel the most complete line of imported and domestic suitings ever seen in this city.

All are invited to examine these goods, and those desiring garments for spring and summer wear, dress suits or spring overcoats, that are cut to fit and made up in the most approved manner, will be afforded the opportunity at that time of having their orders superintended by a practical and artistic cutter.

—Do you want a Cardinal sweater? If so look at the sample at the Co-op A bargain if a large order is secured.

—Everyone should call at James B. Bradford and see the electric piano. The wonder of the age. The Nelson banjo is handled by the firm, and is one of the best makes in the world. A complete line of small musical instruments and sheet music. Call and see us.
