FOUNDERS' DAY CONVO HELD AT GYM TONIGHT

Exercises to Commemorate Seventy-first Anniversary of University

Founders' Day exercises will be held in the armory tonight at 8 o'clock in commemoration of the seventy-first anniversary of the University of Wisconsin in conjunction with the celebration of Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays.

"An unusual and appropriate program has been prepared for this occasion which will make it a convocation extraordinary of interest to every student in the university," said Prof. Julius E. Olson, chairman of the faculty committee on public functions.

Dean George Clark Sellery, College of Letters and Science, will preside at the convocation. The program is as follows:

"The Stars and Stripes"—University band.

"America"—Assembly, assisted by the Choral Union and Music clubs, Prof. Peter W. Dykeman directing.

Introductory—Dean Sellery.

The Democracy of Washington and Lincoln—A Flashlight on Present Day Problems—Prof. Arnold B. Hall.

The University and Its First Chancellor—Dr. Chas. H. Vilas, '65, President of Regents.

Songs—Eastern Song, Beauteous Morn—University Girls' Glee

SEVEN WOMEN ON BONUS PAYROLL

The names of seven women are on the bonus payroll of students attending the university as a new feature of the bonus system for this semester.

Nearly 1,400 educational bonus students are at present enrolled, according to final records. There are 1,205 students from last semester and 120 enrolled for the first time this semester. The exact number of bonus students enrolled in the Milwaukee branch of the university has not yet been determined, but it is estimated that about 40 names are included in this list. There are about 40 enrolled in the agricultural short course here.

LAND DRAINAGE SUBJECT OF TALK AT 10 O'CLOCK

"Reclamation of Land by Drainage," will be the subject of an address this morning at 10 o'clock, in the Engineering auditorium by John A. Fox, of Chicago. Mr. Fox is director of the National Drainage congress and is manager of the Wisner estates, incorporated, which has carried out extensive drainage work in Louisiana. The lecture, which will be illustrated, will be open to the public.

Students enrolled in the course in elementary law will meet in the Biology auditorium at 10 o'clock because of the lecture schedule in the Engineering building.

VARSITY FISH TO MEET ILLINI

13 Swimmers Leave for Urbana Tonight; Two Men Ineligible

The varsity swimming team will travel to Urbana tonight to compete with Illinois tomorrow in the first conference tank meet of the season for the Badgers.

After eliminating ineligible men, the following lineup was announced by Coach Joe Steinauer:

Relay—Bach, Davies, Haldeman, and Peterson.

40 yard swim—Bach, Davies and Peterson.

100 yard swim—Bach and Davies.

Back stroke—Bach, Peterson and Burt.

Diving—Koch, Kidder and Collins.

Breast stroke—Koch and Collins. Plunges—Krum, Black and Bloodgood.

220 yard swim—Lamboley and Stark.

The hardest blow to the squad from the ineligible list is the loss of "Mike" Rudy and "Jot" Elder. Rudy won his "W" in swimming last year and is the fastest sprinter that the Badgers boast. Elder stars in fancy diving and would have been a sure point-winner in both the 100 and 220-yard swims.

The men whom the Badger enthusiasts are banking on are Bach, Kidder, Koch, Davies, Haldeman and Lamboley. Bach is booked to contest in four events, but he obtains his best results in the 40 and 100 yard competitions.

As minor sports were abolished at Illinois during the war it is not known what to expect from the Suckers in the way of a swimming squad. Nevertheless they have always been toppers in the aquatic sport and may press Steinauer's men to a close score.

OCTOPUS DRIVE GOING STRONG; PSI U'S LEADING

Humor Staff Calls for Contribs; Many Positions Now Open

Today is the last day of the campaign carried on this week to secure subscriptions for The Octopus. Thus far the campaign has been successful and the fraternity canvass Wednesday evening resulted in better than a 90 per cent record for some of the organizations. Psi Upsilon is leading the fraternities with Phi Psi and Sigma Chi running close behind. The hearty response is due in large measure to appreciation of the new magazine which is strictly a student publication for material and business management upon the student body. Subscriptions can be secured in the Physics building and Mainhall any time during the day.

The next issue of the magazine, due to circulate about the campus March 20, will be the New Thought number, and the staff needs your assistance if you are funny, if you can draw, or if you can sell ads. A call has been issued for contribs and five boxes have been placed in conspicuous places upon the campus to relieve your contributions. The

"MARY'S LAMB" NEEDS PLAYERS

Places in Haresfoot Orchestra and Chorus Still Open

"Every man in the university who can play an instrument is needed in the Haresfoot orchestra for 'Mary's Lamb,'" said "Jean" Juster, who is in charge of this part of the 1920 Haresfoot musical comedy. "There are lots of men in school who can play well, and we want them to come out and try for a chair in the orchestra."

Preliminary tryouts held last night in the Wisconsin high school revealed much talent, as well as a variety of instruments. However, there is still room for every orchestral instrument, including the brass, string, and wood-wind sections. Juster states that he needs several more violins and clarinets in order to commence preliminary rehearsals.

"The score of 'Mary's Lamb' is one of the best I have ever seen," said Juster. "It contains good selections for every instrument. Men who play in the University orchestra, or who have had some experience in ensemble playing should turn out full force for the Haresfoot orchestra, as we are going to put over some good work with the show this year."

The orchestra will have places for 30 men, and will tour in full force with the show when it takes the road during spring vacation. This trip will cover much territory in Wisconsin and Illinois, including two performances in Milwaukee. Tryouts for the orchestra will be held in Lathrop concert room Saturday afternoon promptly at 2:00.

Men competing for chorus places will try out in the Lathrop concert room at the same hour. Men who were unable to be at the first tryout of the year last Wednesday night will be able to register and try out with the other men at the same time. Tryouts will consist of dancing and singing competition, and it is expected that two choruses of 20 men each will be chosen at this time.

Principal characters were tried out last night at the Wisconsin high school. Over 30 men competed for the 10 principal characters, qualifications in singing and stage presence being worked over. Men who are desired for further tryouts will be personally notified by Haresfoot members, and dates arranged for more complete tryouts than were given last night. Much talent was displayed, according to "Boz" Whitney, and two casts will be picked by the Haresfoot club, and the final cast picked by the coach.

MONDAY HOLIDAY FOR UNIVERSITY

As scheduled in the student directory, Monday, Feb. 23, will be a legal holiday, because of Washington's birthday which this year falls on Sunday. There was a possibility of delegating the holiday to make up the time lost during the recent coal shortage, but according to M. H. Haertel, secretary of the faculty, it has been decided to make the day one of freedom for students and faculty members and no classes will be held.

DR. OSCHNER TO SPEAK AT LAST PROGRAM

Edward Jordan and Willis Wisler, Engineers, to Talk at Same Time

Dr. Albert Oschner of Chicago, one of the best known physicians of the city, and one highly successful as a diagnostician, will speak at 4:30 this afternoon in the Biology building as a part of the final program of the all-university Vocational conference.

Simultaneous with the session on medicine, one devoted to automobile and efficiency engineering will be addressed by Edward S. Jordan and Willis Wisler, in the Engineering auditorium. These two meetings bring the conference to a close.

Jordan is president of the Jordan Motor company of Cleveland, a Wisconsin graduate, and the youngest successful automobile engineer in the country.

As labor manager for the Clothiers Exchange, Wisler will present the newest phases of the efficiency engineer's outlook. He was formerly with the Harrington Emerson Efficiency Engineers.

The increasing need for educated men in the world of agriculture and the splendid opportunities which it offers to the youth of today were discussed at yesterday afternoon's session in the Biology building by W. L. James of Fort Atkinson, manufacturer of farm equipment in that

FRANCE CONFERES RARE DECORATION ON PROF. R. T. ELY

In recognition of his scholarly work in the field of economics and of his services to France during the war, the French government has just conferred the decoration of "Officier de l'Instruction Publique" upon Dr. Richard T. Ely, professor of economics. This decoration has been conferred upon but few Americans.

Mercl Knecht, of the French high commission, recently wrote to Professor Ely, informing him that the decoration was conferred on the proposal of Prime Minister Andre Tardieu and Foreign Office Minister Millerand. The formal announcement has since been made by Maurice Casenave, French minister and director general of the French services in the United States. The diploma and the decoration, which is a mauve button with golden palms, is to be sent in a few weeks.

Dr. Ely, who joined the faculty of the university 27 years ago to develop the department of economics and to help lay the foundation for the Graduate school, is known throughout the world for his scholarly work. During the war he spoke and wrote extensively in the interests of France and the allies. He was chairman of the committee which brought the Win-the-War-for-Permanent-Peace convention to the university in November, 1918, and subsequently served as chairman of the Wisconsin branch of the League to Enforce Peace, working in the interests of the League of Nations.

"Why," says he. "Those conscientious objectors aren't doin' anything to help matters out on the affair."

NO ADMITTANCE TO MIXER AFTER 9:30

Committee in Charge to Avoid Crowding as Far as Possible

On account of the senate ruling requesting students not to gather in crowds no students will be admitted to the all-university mixer Saturday night after 9:30.

All those with colds and symptoms of influenza are asked to stay away. Bleachers will be put up in the side of the gym for those who do not care to dance. This will prevent the students from crowding together in groups.

A floor committee under the direction of Foster Strong, member of Philomathia literary society, will see that everyone gets acquainted. Members of the committee are Goodwin Watson, Baron Meyer, Gertrude Harley, Ellida Murphy, Mildred Downie, Vira Winchell, and Edith Schwartzbough.

Refreshments consisting of pop and doughnuts will be served. Charlotte Calvert, Vira Winchell and Marion Goodwin will assist in the serving.

Whitney N. Seymour, chairman of the music committee, has secured Bobby's best orchestra for the dancing.

TWELFTH NIGHT TO HOLD NEW TRYOUTS THIS SEMESTER

Freshmen girls interested in any line of dramatic production will be given opportunity to tryout for membership in Twelfth Night, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Feb. 24 and 25. Applications for tryouts may be had and must be signed in the S. G. A. room, Lthrop hall, at noon Monday.

Any girl interested and capable in acting, costume designing, stage directing, or the designing of settings is invited to take advantage of the tryouts. Each candidate is requested to prepare a selection from a play to be read in not less than three nor more than five minutes. The selection may be memorized or read and must contain the conversation of two or more characters. Early application is urged as the number to be considered is limited.

take a bracer in the near future. I'm afraid it'll be "Farewell Forever" for you. We know you'd rather fuss than study, but we can't give you poors on that you know. Better go around and see if you can lie to Major Woods about your drill. Maybe you can get away with it; we doubt it, but if you do maybe we'll let you back to school.

I haven't any time to talk to you, so don't come around. Even if you do you'll have to sit around half the morning while I help the wife with the washing. Hope to see you next fall.

Inconsiderately yours, you fool,
A. Heluva Row.

The Letter Your Dad Gets

Dear Sir:

If I'm not a liar your offspring came up here to school last fall. No doubt you spent considerable cash, maybe to the extent of mortgaging the grocery store, to keep him here. All I can say is that you played the wrong horse when you tried to educate that brat. As one of the faculty members says, "As a student that boy would make a good plumber."

We can't say anything to encourage this boy in his scholastic record. As you can see without your glasses, he hasn't done a cussed thing worth mentioning, although we hear he can sling mean line to the women. Maybe Marshall Field can use him for a floorwalker. Might try it.

You got my sympathy, old man. These are hard times, and we could use the tuition, but we gotta let him go. Hope he's not a chip off the old block.

Discouragingly yours,
I. Raisa Rumpus, Bean.

HAVE you asked the ouija board about the date of Prom? We tried it last night, but all Ella Wheeler Wilcox would say was "Lemon Pie."

Y. M. C. A. BEGINS MEMBER CAMPAIGN

Committee Under Chairmanship of Allen Davey Starts New Drive

Membership committees under the chairmanship of Allen Davey are planning to secure membership in the Y. M. C. A. for all men in the university who are interested in its work. Lawrence Hall is in charge of the campaign among fraternities.

Although the men of the university have contributed much to the annual finance campaign in October, this does not include membership which is available to all men, regardless of creed, who sign the application blanks indorsing the objective and program of the association.

Membership advantages of major importance are: first, the voting privilege. The Y. M. C. A. is in the hands of students and all members exercise the right to vote and thereby direct the policies of the association. The officers and the general secretary are elected each spring for the following year. Another advantage is the usefulness of membership cards in traveling for they may be used as guest cards at city associations throughout the country and as means of identification.

There is no fee attached to membership and it is hoped that every man who believes in the good work of the university Y. M. C. A. will join within the coming week.

Blanks may be obtained in the Y. M. C. A. or at the office of Secretary Wolf for the next ten days. already the membership includes over 600 but since the association serves over 2,000 men it is hoped that many of them will become members.

CADETS IN STUNTS FOR MILITARY HOP

All men in the R. O. T. C. are eligible for tryouts for special features to be given at the Annual Military ball. Tryouts are in charge of Capt. B. Jennings and will be held at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, Feb. 21, at the armory. All men who have ideas along these lines are asked to be present.

CALLS IT "CRIME" TO POST-PONE PROM

To the Editor of The Cardinal:

At present there is in the whole United States a great thrift movement. We had a little taste of this during Thrift week, and most of us favor the movement.

Have you ever stopped to think how much a Prom gown costs? One hundred and fifty, would be the minimum and possibly one thousand the maximum. Few gowns will cost as much as the maximum. To set the average low let us say that $175 is that amount. There will be at least 900 girls at the Prom so from my arithmetic I find that $150,000 will be spent for Prom gowns. Very few of these have not already been made, but to lower the figure let us call the amount $100,000. These gowns can be used for a few other formal affairs but anyone who knows a woman will limit the wearing to five times without alteration of the gown. Not more than half of these gowns would have been purchased had the Prom not been the occasion. We now have $50,000.

Any reasonable person will know that a mid-winter gown cannot be worn to a late spring event. This means that $50,000 has been wasted. Most of these girls could scarcely afford the gown, and their parents who are from people of moderate means have had to pinch in order to allow their daughters the pleasure of this grand event. These proud parents will now have a double burden, because their daughters can hardly break their dates. They think that this would make people sneer at them. Is it fair to these girls and their parents to make them stand this double burden and waste this $50,000.

Since the different churches do not require their members to refrain from dancing during Lent, could not these members do a greater service by agreeing to have Prom March 19 instead of May 14? No ethical nor moral law in the world would condemn these people for dancing at this time on account of a cause like this.

Possibly in a few cases some unfortunate girl will have to stay out of school a year because $175 to $250 had been literally wasted. It is grossly unfair to these unfortunates. "The Prom for All" will become "The Prom for the Wealthy" in the future if many more incidents such as this occur.

From another point of view let us note the tireless work and uncalculable amount of money that has been spent already by different organizations in preparing for Prom. A very great deal of this will be wasted. A magnificent entertainment in late spring must have vastly different preparations than one in mid-winter.

From an economic point of view it is a crime to put off Prom until May 14. It would be a far greater religious service and a good act for the minority who have religious scruples to ask that Prom be given March 19 instead of May 14.

If I, a freshman, have been too presumptuous in writing and speaking my mind when the date of the Prom does not concern me, then I am sorry and apologize to all affected by this letter.

Anon

To the Editor of the Cardinal: I understand that a member of the student senate is trying to slip something over on the poor misguided student body. I refer to Whitney N. Seymour, who is not attending the university as a regular student, but who, nevertheless, saw fit to accept the office of secretary of the senate Wednesday night. His sole claim to membership of the student body is based on the fact that he is carrying a couple of courses through the Extension department. Even at that he is taking less than half enough units to make him eligible.

It is to be regretted that one man should make the senate powerless by refusing to resign. Every act or decision that the senate reaches while he is a member could be contested.

Here we have one of the lawmakers one of the men who should be helping put self-government on the map refusing to abide by the few rules already in force. As chairman of the elections committee last year Seymour was bound to inform himself on all matters effecting eligibility.

He apparently has no intention of resigning from anything. He has the meetings of the Cardinal Board of Control postponed from the regular day until such time as he will not be employed elsewhere. Here is another body in which the "president" is seeking to keep personal control.

There are some, perhaps, who will resent a mere student pointing out the inability of the student senate to take care of its own membership. I resent being considered one of the students represented by Whitney N. Seymour.

FOUNDERS' DAY

FOUNDERS' DAY, now a university tradition, is today celebrated in a convocation that will also observe the birthdays of Washington and Lincoln.

The commemoration of Founders' Day was given impetus last year and it is assured of its position as one of Wisconsin's most cherished traditions. Each year the Founders' Day convocation will review for new students the history of the university from its humble beginning and acquaint all with the interesting stages of the 70 years of its development.

One cannot fully appreciate how the old grads revered their alma mater and struggled for its success until he learns the significant facts of Wisconsin's history. The convocation tonight will make you rich in a store of knowledge and inspiration coming from the university's past. It is a real duty to take part in the commemoration exercises tonight.

PREMATURE CREPE-HANGING

GOOD deal of blue-spectacled pessimism is allowed to gloom its way into the exordiums that some professors deliver to their classes in opening a course. After painting a stark and horrible verbal picture of the intelligent rigors in store, they conjure up the frazzled scarecrow of low grades, and then, like the proverbial parent who says that "spanking hurts papa more than it does Johnnie," they make lachrymose prophecy of just what percentage of the class is predestined to flunk the subject.

To our despairing faculty friends we say, cheer up! The worst is NOT yet to come.

No group of students, for instance, has yet proposed sending a bucket of tears to the professor at the opening of a course, with a black-bordered note of sympathy prompted by the suspicion that he may not whack the bell of lucid, sound instruction in every lecture.

And no one has yet proposed flunks for professors in their own courses.

But as a matter of real truth, every time a professor climbs his classroom platform to give a lecture he is going up against an acid test of the thinking students in his class, just as surely as they go up against it when he hands out the bluebooks.

Of a surety the lackadaisical, supercilious, dozing undergraduate parasite unfortunately survives in every classroom, and is a fair target for pedagogical cynicism.

But the majority are alert-brained young men and women who come to school primarily for sound intellectual development, and mean to get it. If the lecturer is dull, or superficial, or shows an unconvincing grasp of his material, such students are quick to note the fact and mark him down for it. And they are more keen at distinguishing real scholarly grasp and presentation from the subterfuges of platform tricks and wind-jamming than the average teacher may realize.

Since the impolite fashion of students writing their teachers into perdition went out of style with Dante, more professors might profitably hazard the chance that at least one member of the faculty took when in the final examination bluebooks last semester he invited constructive criticism of his course and the way it was taught.

convinced that such whip-cracking under any circumstances belongs only to faulty pedagogical ringmastership.

No professor who hesitates about braving that sort of test ought at the beginning to crack the whip of mournful prognostication about low grades and failures. Indeed, we are almost

THE OCTOPUS—NEW STUDENT ACTIVITY

THE OCTOPUS has taken its place among campus activities.

It is run and controlled by the students; its staff and board of editors is highly competitive. Eligibility is based on merit alone.

It is that fact that is most significant about the new magazine and which insures its success. That is what has established the continuity of The Harvard Lampoon, which is perhaps the most enterprising of college comics. As freshmen, students begin to work for the "Lamp," as they call it, and to aspire to its staff positions. Then, on the faithfulness and merit of their work they are rewarded.

Wisconsin has long felt the need for such a journal—some outlet for the humor of the campus. With her 6,700 students Wisconsin can surely produce as much satire material as Yale, which is not one-half the size of Wisconsin. And still The Yale Record is one of the most prominent and the most successful college publications. And why? The students take an interest in it. They know that it is their magazine and they refuse to shirk the responsibility that it involves. Such is the spirit that The Octopus staff wants to instill in Wisconsin students. It wants them to realize that The Octopus is their magazine and that it is all for the interests of the school.

On this basis, it should make its strongest appeal for support. A good comic magazine is one of the best boosters that a school can have. How much The Punch Bowl means to Pennsylvania; how much The Gargoyle speaks for Michigan. How much The Octopus will speak for Wisconsin will depend upon how much the students will stand behind it. Let's assume the responsibility of turning out a humor magazine that will compare favorably with the leaders in the college realm.

What the College Editors Say

JAZZ HOUNDS

"Take me to that land of Jazz," she hummed. Habitually he complied.

The compliance of the man may be stated as habitual in this or any similar instance, in that there are so many of these instances that they have developed a great habit—the habit of jazz.

True, it has not spread to all parts of the college community—there are some exceptions—but nevertheless jazz is so prevalent that its influence on college life cannot fail to be marked.

Writing in a recent Saturday Evening Post, Nina Wilcox Putnam laments the hold that jazz has on the country at large. She satirizes its effect on food, clothing, furniture and other articles of domestic interest.

But this writer neglects the effect of jazz on one important commodity—the date. Jazz has deprived the modern girl of the majority of her abilities to entertain a man. She only waits until he asks, "Where shall we go?" Then away they go to the haunts of syncopation or unessential trimmings.

Their sortie may end at only a "movie." But jazz has entered there in the music, in the decorations, in the films and in the price. Or they may drop into a harmless confectionery. Here, too, jazz may be found holding sway in the whipped cream and fancy dishes. Everything is "jazzed up."

No longer does one hear of parties that seek to enjoy what nature offers, such as sleighing, coasting or skating. The modern couple can only seek the jazz parlors.

When will this seemingly irresistible force—jazz—cease to hold domination over the so-called good times that college students have today? When the man puts his foot down and says "No."—Ohio State Lantern.

ANN "U" MEN TO SIGN HONOR PLEDGE

PHILADELPHIA—In one of the stormiest undergraduate meetings ever held Pennsylvania men declared themselves emphatically in favor of an all-university Code of Honor. After two hours of spirited speeches and frank revelations, the undergraduates voted for the establishment of a code drawn up in a definite, constitutional form, as opposed to any system resting on unwritten tradition and precedent. The "no proctor, no pledge" idea was voted down, and a motion was passed to the effect that every student be required to sign an honor pledge before taking an examination.

"AVOID CROWDS" EDICT FAVORED BY VAN VALZAH

Dr. R. N. Van Valzah of the clinic yesterday confirmed the resolution of the S. C. A. and student senate requesting students to keep away from large crowds this weekend. University authorities have not put any ban on student gatherings because it is felt that any effective action must come from the students themselves.

According to Dr. Van Valzah, the height of influenza and kindred diseases has in past years followed the inter-semester recess; at this time the influx of new students is likely to bring infection.

At present the situation is not alarming, only one or two cases of influenza having been reported in the last ten days.

HYMEN SUBTRACTS TWO FROM RIPON

RIPON, Wis.—Hymen has descended among Ripon college students for the second time in one month, this time robbing the freshman class of one of its number. News spread about the campus that Harold W. Hughes, Campbellsport, and Miss Marjorie Eaton, Ripon, both 22 years of age, featured in an elopement and secret marriage at Waukegan, Ill.

Hughes, when he entered Ripon college as a freshman last fall, choose the Collins home as a boarding place. The romance thus started grew rapidly and culminated in the Waukegan ceremony.

This is the second secret marriage in the new year in which a Ripon college student featured.

DATES OF TRYOUTS FOR JUNIOR PLAY TO BE SET TODAY

The time and place of tryouts for the junior class play will be decided at a meeting of the committee in Lathrop hall this afternoon.

Due to the conflicts occasioned by the changes in the date for the Prom it has been impossible to set a definite date for the production. It is possible that the committee may take definite action on the date at its meeting today. The name of the play has been selected but not yet announced. Juniors interested in trying out for the cast or the production staff should hand in their names to some member of the committee.

MUSIC HALL WILL SEAT 800 PERSONS

Completion of alterations now being made in Music hall will enlarge the auditorium to a seating capacity of 800 in full view of the new stage.

Sloping cement floors are being constructed on the main floor and in the gallery, thus doing away with the undesirability of back seats. Side curtains will be added to the stage, and the whole interior done over in imitation of old English halls, with heavy blackened beams to support the roof.

Because of the high cost of materials and labor, and the consequent difficulty in getting bids, not much other building will be done in the next year on the campus. None will be started until after July 1.

During the summer, however, it is expected that there will be at least one new building erected, and one greatly altered. At Camp Randall a new "Shop" will be erected for engineers, and the Service building next to the heating station will be doubled in size.

"Farming is the largest industry in America today, and the most important," said Mr. James. "But educated men are needed to carry on the improvements that are underway. The fact that there are 24,000,000 dairy cows in this country, 40,000,000 of other breeds, and 75,000,000 hogs to be cared for, is evidence of the fact that the field of labor for the agriculturist is almost unlimited.

"Good salesmanship is more necessary on the farm than in other business, because it is on the farm that the real life and strength of the nation is built up. A farmer should both produce and market his goods. This eliminates the middleman and saves money not only for the farmer himself but for the consumer.

"It doesn't take a lot of money to go into the farming business," said Mr. James. "I went into the manufacturing industry with just $2.50, and one can go onto the farm without a cent. Only he must be educated. Don't try to graduate in the school of hard knocks. I did, and it isn't a pleasant road to travel."

"The newspaper man of today is just as much a public servant as is the congressman, legislative and executive officer," said Henry C. Campbell, editor of the Milwaukee Journal at the evening session of the convention.

"His place is one in a profession of constantly rising standards. It is now looked on with as much favor as that of the teacher, the lawyer, the doctor, or the minister. The problem of demand in the field of journalism is not one of salaries, but one of getting sufficient men who are capable of doing the work required of them."

Mr. Campbell outlined the requirements that editors are now asking of prospective staff workers, claiming that for the man or woman contemplating active endeavor in constructive, trustworthy journalism, no greater opportunity for real service is offered.

PERMANENT SLIDES AND SKI JUMPS TO BE BUILT NEXT YEAR

Owing to the unexpected interest shown in winter sports this year, the athletic department is considering the erection of substantial and permanent toboggan slides and ski jumps for coming years.

Coach Jones in conjunction with the athletic department is drawing up plans for the construction of this apparatus, which will probably be completed in the course of a week. The jumps and slides will be completed and ready for use as soon as the season opens next winter.

The toboggan slide is to be built with a concrete foundation and covered with turf. An unusually large platform will be built from which four 24-inch slides will run. This will make toboggan races possible and heighten the interest in the sport. The ski jump will be made longer and probably as permanently constructed as the toboggan slide.

FAMED POETS CALL ON FRANTIC MUSE
TO SOLVE MYSTERY OF LONESOME DIME

Can you make the Line?

Ordinarily such a question could only refer to the famous column conducted by B. L. T. However, the demand for a certain line-o-type to win the prize tickets for the junior play has given this well known phrase a new significance.

The first poet to enter a solution was that gallant track athlete with the Spanish pompadour, Henry "Pat" Dennis. He enclosed a special delivery stamp and self-addressed envelope in which the tickets might be sent him. Although the judges were confused at this unexpected development, they managed to withhold judgment until other entries were examined. Dennis completed the limerick as follows:

"When you take the girl out the first time,
And your trousers yield up one thin dime,

"Don't stop to explain,
It will only cause pain.
Seek a drug store and buy her a lime."

As soon as news of this remarkable solution spread it was rumored that no other contestants would try. This proved to be unfounded, for a score of letters appeared in the first ## mail.

Fred Sperry, editor of that m. or l. humorous opus, The Octopus, submitted the following confession: "When you take the girl out the first time,
And your trousers yield up one thin dime,

O, do not be rash,
And fly into a pash.
Think of church when the Lenten bells chime."

The Prom chairman stopped long enough to give an insight into his idea of the proper way out of such an embarrassing situation. He writes:

"When you take the girl out the first time,
And your trousers yield up one thin dime,

"Either spread a fast line,
Or go home and resign—
Steering clear of the women's no crime."

And there you are. One bird suggests "saying it with flowers." Maybe he means the next day. A man with a dime would probably have to confine himself to moss and geranium leaves. But let it pass. The question is,

Can you make the line?

NAME LEADERS FOR COMING RELIGION MEET

Conference Committees to Represent All Bodies in University

With an organization that is probably more comprehensive than any ever arranged for a university event, plans for the All-university Religious conference to be held here March 4-7, are rapidly swinging into shape. A complete framework of committees representing every organization and activity in school has been appointed. It is planned in this way to reach every man and woman here and to enlist their interest and support in the conference.

The general chairmen for the conference are Milton Borman and Mildred Rogers. Chairmen for the special committees appointed are: publicity, Frank Keuhl, Helen Ramsey; fraternities, "Bud" Follett; sororities, Ima Winchell; arrangements, Allen Davey; public meetings, Vincent O'Shea; church executive committee, John Baker, Winifred Titus; entertainment of speakers, Wesley Travers; prayer groups and personal work, Clyde Emery; morning watch, Helen Golder; general organizations among girls, Katherine Lees; supper for conference workers on Feb. 26, "Brud" Taylor and Florence Hanna; personal interviews, Ross Rogers, Anne Humphrey, Janet Lindsay, Esther Wanner and Viola Maag.

The following central committee chosen from the university at large will form the nucleus for the work of bringing the conference before the attention of the students: Loring Hammond, John McPherrin, "Bud" Follett, "Brud" Taylor, Vincent O'Shea, Wesley Travers, Fred Stuhler, Everett Grubb, "Red" Weston, Clyde Emery, Lorin Dickerman, Kirby Avery, Harold Kuckuk, Allen Davey, Robert Lindsey, Everett Ivy, Wayne Beckwith, Ronald Ramsey, R. The committees representing S. G. A., Mortar board, Freshman commission, Sophomore commission, Junior Council, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., church executive committee and the Inner Circle will be announced later.

These committees are already at work securing preliminary speakers to address students in all rooming houses, sororities and fraternities with a view to interesting them in the work of the conference.

This conference will not in any sense be of a revival nature. It is simply an attempt to bring before the student body the higher and better things of life in a rational way. Students will have an opportunity to hear some of the strongest national leaders, including President M. L. Burton of Minnesota university; President Ozora Davis of Chicago Theological seminary; Dean Shaler Mathews, Bertha Conde and A. J. "Dad" Elliott.

ISSUED THURSDAY

Poems, Features, and Stories of Interest to Agric Fill
Many Pages

The February issue of the Country Magazine, filled from cover to cover with timely features and news stories of interest to students, made its appearance on the campus yesterday.

An illustrated poem entitled, "Winter," by L. W. Bailey, one of America's foremost agricultural writers makes up the frontispiece.

"Rural Parks Re-create the Country," by Mary Johnstone, calls attention to a plan for preserving places of natural beauty and places of historical and traditional interest throughout the state. "The Agric Women's Farm Society," by Helen Holden, gives brief publicity to the new association composed of women students who are studying agriculture.

The uses and manufacture of dried milk are discussed in an article by Walter Wendt, and "The Wonder Crop—Hemp," gives a brief history of a crop which despite its recent introduction into Wisconsin has now become one of the state's most important minor crops. "How the Poor Cow Detective Works," by Harold Kuckuk, is a survey of the work of the cow testing associations in Wisconsin. Ekmed Meachan contributes a history of the "Little Red Barn," another peculiar campus building which has an interesting story.

"Henke Sets the Pace in Honolulu," and "Moving Campus Trees," precede such home economic stories as "The Lied and Dyed Art Revived," by Marie Gowdy; "The Staff Changes," by Caryl Parkerson and "Experimental Cookery Offers Numerous Problems," by Helen Perkins.

"Why Do They Call Us Short-horns?" is the confession of one of them. Alumni news, editorials,

CUPID AND THE ARMY GET FRESHMAN JOB ON THE OIL LANDS OF MEXICO

This is not an "Evening Story." 'Tis the true romance of "Jeff" Spiva and Dolores Coraggio.

When Herbert T. Spiva, freshman in the chemical engineering course, and Harold Lighty, sophomore in the geology course, left Monday night for Tampico, Mexico, to take work on the oil lands of Don Coraggio, cupid winked. He winked because he remembered well the ramrod shot fired when, in 1916, "Jeff" Spiva, a private in the U. S. border guard stationed at Las Vegas, met Dolores Coraggio, a Mexican girl who was spending the summer in that city to escape the unsettled conditions near her home.

And Cupid has kept his eye on the affair ever since. "Jeff," then 19 years old, returned with the troops and in 1917 entered the chemical engineering course at Wisconsin, soon after this he enlisted in the medical corps and, after spending some time in the laboratories at Camp Meade and Fort Bend, Ind., he went across. When he returned from France he again entered the chemical engineering course here.

His experience in chemical work in his father's explosives factory at Joplin, Mo., together with his work in the military laboratories, gave him technical knowledge beyond that of the average undergraduate in his course, and when oil was discovered on Don Coraggio's land near Tampico, whom should the latter turn to more naturally for technical assistance than his future son-in-law.

So Don Coraggio asked Herbert T. Spiva to take charge of the interests.

"Jeff" asked Harold Lighty to go along as assistant, and, it is rumored, as best man. Both men are members of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Thus endeth the story—but who said romance was dead?

AT THE ORPHEUM

Ben Linn, "The Singing Humorist," is the most popular in a good week-end bill. Ben is a rotund young fellow with much more than his share of avoirdupois. He prances around with as much grace and daintiness as an elephant. He has a fine voice and gets much applause with his comic songs.

"The League of Nations," billed "A Timely Review," is not all that is expected. For the size of the cast there might have been much more of a display. There was some rather good singing however, even if the chatter was stilted and "Son of France" certainly could shake 'em up.

Wellington and Sylvia, "eccentric manipulators," did some clever juggling but their line of jokes was much fresher and better received than their tricks.

Rose Valyda, a striking blonde, has a superior contralto voice which she is able to raise into a clear and pleasing mezzo soprano.

Henry C. Campbell Discusses Newspaper Problems at Cafeteria Supper

Henry C. Campbell, editor of The Milwaukee Journal, addressed the members of the University Press club at a cafeteria supper held at the Woman's building last evening, on the organization of an American Association of Journalist.

Mr. Campbell, while a strong advocate of unionized labor among manual workers, believes that newspaper work should be ranked with other brain work and professionalized rather than unionized. That institute or national organization corresponding to the American Association of Engineers, or the American Bar Association, with the purpose of elevating the standards of journalism, should take the place of a union of newspaper men, in his belief.

A round table discussion followed in which Mr. Campbell advised all journalism students to train themselves in stenographic work. Reporters on English papers must be able to take down a speech report verbatim. Shorthand is a decided advantage in newspaper work and a knowledge of it will soon be required of reporters, Mr. Campbell predicted.

Any students interested in discussing newspaper problems or in asking Mr. Campbell's advice on subjects relating to journalistic work, are invited to meet him in Professor Bleyer's office, 32 South hall, this afternoon.
