

ROSE SWANSON'S TAPE OF CLARENCE AND HAZEL KLEIN'S HOUSEWARMING PARTY+,
December 11, 1968.

1. Rose announces who's there. As this tape was made for her sister and her husband in Washington state, Rose talks throughout the tape, especially when Fritz is playing and there's no singing. Walter Levine also frequently seized the microphone and talked into it at too close a range so that there's considerable distortion.
  2. Fritz Swanson on Accordion with Dorothy Nettleton (who taught music at Ondossagon) energetically clinking beerglasses in time. "Bonde Kallas."
  3. Fritz and Dorothy, "Bonde Kallas."
  4. Ditto, ?
  5. Duane Olby performs a song to Vietnam protestors which he wrote, "Would You Send Your Father Off to War Again?"
  6. Another Duane Olby composition, "It Hurts Me to See You (With Somebody New)".
  7. Fritz with Duane, ? Vagabond Waltz (Swedish Version)
  8. Fritz, Finn Polka.
  9. " , "Belmont Ro."
  10. " "with Walter singing, "Bonde Kallas."
  11. Fritz and Walter again, "Kyss Waltz."
  12. Fritz with Vera Olby on spoons, ?
  13. Fritz and Walter, "Hölsa den der Hemma."
  14. Ditto, ?
  15. Fritz, "Life in the Finnish Woods."
  16. " , "Finn Polka."
- (END OF TAPE ONE)
17. Fritz, "Johan På Sniggen."
  18. " , Same again.
  19. " , "Hjisen Graba."
  20. Walter Levine tells a story about a Jew bottling a woman's champagne bath and coming up with an extra pint. Legman's Rationale ~~story~~ of the Dirty Joke analyzes this tale with regard to Sarah Bernhardt.
