Moderato

1. The lof - ty tow - ers sky - ward soar To 2. The wheels of com - merce, dawn to dawn Their
3. The schools of learn - ing, far and wide O'er 4. Thy law - a - bid - ing peo - ple all Pledge bring Gods' bless - ing down, And Heav - en gent - ly ord - ered course pur - sue, As toil - ers brave, with all the earth are known. Pure art proceeds with heart and hand to thee. A wealth of love a - watch - es o'er The bus - y, thriv - ing town. The brain and brawn Their tasks with cour - age do. 'Tis no - ble stride, And mu - sic has its throne. For waits thy call, — Un - swerv - ing loy - al - ty! And wing - ing larks In ver - dant parks The hal - lowed soil Where hon - est toil Its work well done, And laur - els won Thy they will fight For God and right When sweet - est mu - sic make, And rob - ins raise Their cause will not for - sake. Bright town of homes, And well - earned trib - ute take, O beau - ty-crowned And hon - or is at stake, God bless thee still, Thy songs to praise Mil - wau - kee on the Lake. tow' - ring domes, Mil - wau - kee on the Lake. world - re - nowed Mil - wau - kee on the Lake!

 hopes ful - fill, — Mil - wau - kee on the Lake!

What visions did the Red Man see,
When paddling his canoe?
Did he dream glorious dreams of thee?
And did these dreams come true?
O city fair, thy very air Bids poet's harpstrings wake,
As lands abroad thy bounty laud, Milwaukee on the Lake.

THIS stanza was added on the occasion of the christening of the German steamer, "Milwaukee," and has its place between the third and fourth stanza.
