SINFONIA WILL BRING MARTIN TO UNIVERSITY

Will Appear In Concert At Gymnasium On July 27

TICKETS ON SALE TODAY

One of the outstanding musical events of the year in Madison is the coming of Ricardo Martin, America's greatest tenor and famous opera star. Martin is booked for July 27 at the university gymnasium and the mail order sale begins today. The Wisconsin chapter of Sinfonia, honorary musical fraternity, has been able to secure Martin for Madison only by considerable effort because his concerts are given largely in the great cities.

In bringing Martin to the university, Sinfonia is following out its program of bringing about a greater appreciation of American music and artists. This spring it gave an "all American" concert in which the works of American composers were featured. The fraternity is presenting Martin practically on a cost basis.

Is Great Tenor.

Ricardo Martin was the first great American operatic tenor. For years he shared equal advantage and popularity with the other noted tenors of the Metropolitan Opera Company. He sang all the popular dramatic roles, including "Aida," "La Gioconda," "Pagliacci," "Tosca," and many of the German operas.

In 1916 Caruso was taken ill and forced to leave the Metropolitan for a season. It was then that Martin's true value became known, for the young American stepped into the lead and sang all the leading Italian parts with great success.

Joins Boston Opera.

Later he joined the Boston Opera Company and made several trans-continental tours. His Pinkerton in "Madame Butterfly" proved his most popular role and his singing together with that of Tamakura, the Japanese prima donna, helped to make this opera the most popular one in America.

Kentucky is Martin's birthplace, and when he sings "My Ol' Kentucky Home" his audiences appreciate the beauty of the Dixie classic as they never could before. His program will consist of a number of arias from the big operatic roles he has sung with both the Chicago and the Metropolitan Opera Company. Songs in French and Italian will also be given.

Martin is an excellent pianist in addition to being a singer. Besides both these he has won some fame as a composer of songs and choruses.

Martin's faith in the ability of America to develop its own national music and composers is an outstanding belief and one which he has frequently to defend with his foreign fellow artists.

FACULTY AND STUDENTS TO HAVE PARTY FRIDAY

A no-dance faculty-student mixer will be held at Lathrop hall Friday evening beginning at 8 o'clock. Short plays, games, and community singing will constitute the entertainment.

Plans are in charge of classes in community festival and pageant, community music, and community recreation, assisted by Prof. P. W. Dykema, Prof. E. B. Gordon, and Dr. J. C. Elsom.

Jay Walking Is Bad Habit, Cop Declares

"Jay walking is a habit and one which is contagious," declares F. L. Trostle, traffic officer on State st. in the university district.

"The epidemic reaches its height when the new students come to Madison for the summer session."

Groups of women engaged in conversation, unaware of the qualms they are causing the motorist or the difficulty they are giving the traffic cop, cut across streets at any point and across corners at the intersection of the busiest streets. Many serious accidents are just barely avoided daily.

Bennie Carries Water in Sieve Says it's Easy

If Simple Simon had known enough to use a little paraffin, he would have been able to carry water in his sieve.

Prof. Benjamin W. Snow, chairman of the department of physics, demonstrated this in his lecture on "Surface Tension and Soap Bubbles" Friday afternoon by not only making a sieve hold water but floating one on top of water as well.

Why rain drops are round, why the hairs of a fine brush cling together when wet, and why soap bubbles can be blown were likewise made clear.

It is all due, Professor Snow explained, to the remarkable force called surface tension, which is found in all liquids.

"All you have to do," he said, "is to keep the wires of your sieve from becoming wet. This is done by coating them with paraffin. Then surface tension holds the water in the sieve."

The attraction that every particle of water has for every other, Professor Snow pointed out, is what makes surface tension. Since the particles at the top are attracted downward and sideways but not upward, a film is created over the liquid which is surprisingly hard to break.

"Soap bubbles are among the most beautiful of all things," continued Professor Snow. "Every bubble is perfectly constructed, meeting every other bubble at an angle of exactly 120 degrees. Three bubbles meet at a point, and if one bursts, the other snift their position until the 120-degree angles are restored."

Offer Post Session Course in Geology

The department of geology and geography will give a four weeks' course in Field Geology during the month of August. The class will camp at Devil's lake and study the geology and physiography of the region.

Trips will be made to the Lower Narrows, Gibraltar bluff, Parfrey's and Durward's glens, the Pewitts' Nest, Ableman quarries, the Dells, Camp Douglas, and other places of geologic and scenic interest.

The course is particularly attractive to teachers who see in it an opportunity to make 4 to 6 credits during the interlude between summer school and the opening of their schools in September.

The camp is situated on the shore of Devil's lake where there are all the advantages of canoeing and swimming. G. Harold Smith, director of the course, has made arrangements for married men who wish to take their wives along. Former camps have been thoroughly successful in giving work in geology, at the same time giving excellent opportunities for an outing.

SHOW 3 EDUCATIONAL MOVIES WEDNESDAY EVE.

The moving picture to be given Wednesday night at 7 in Music hall auditorium by the Bureau of Visual Education, is an Irish story, "In Slumber Land." There will also be a nature study called "Teddy Birds," and a travelog, "They Grow Everywhere."

The pictures will be shown from 7 to 9 p. m. and a second show will begin about 9 o'clock. The Bureau of Visual Education, which is giving this entertainment free weekly, is a branch of the University Extension division.

RESCUERS BUSY DURING WORST RAIN OF YEAR

Life-Saving Station Receives Twelve Calls For Help

MENDOTA RISES 4 INCHES

Twelve rescue calls were received at the University life saving station yesterday, from canoes and sailboat parties which were caught in the worst storm of the season.

Langdon and Lake streets were veritable rivers for two hours after the storm last evening. Canoes and swimmers plied their way from Park street to Grady's rooming house; girls in bare feet waded home through flooded streets, and many automobiles were left deserted after attempts to start them had proved futile.

Lake Mendota rose about four inches from 8 o'clock Sunday a. m. to 8 a. m. Monday, according to the figures of the city engineer. Lake Monona is about two feet above the normal level set by the commission and 19 or 20 inches higher than its usual level.

A huge tree was blown down in front of the Alpha Xi Delta house in Sterling court and pedestrians in every part of the city were endangered by falling branches which were blown from the trees by the heavy wind.

MUSEUM TRIP IS ENJOYED BY 200 STUDENTS

Devil's Lake Excursion Is Next Saturday Under Smith

More than 200 university students made the excursion around Lake Mendota last Saturday under the direction of Charles E. Brown, curator of the historical museum. Many points of archaeological and historical interest were visited, and lectures on the unusual features were given.

Mr. Brown spoke at the State Hospital grounds, and at West Point the speakers were Dr. Louise P. Kellogg of the State Historical society, Prof. Beverly Bond Jr. of the University of Cincinnati, and Rev. Francis S. Dayton of New London.

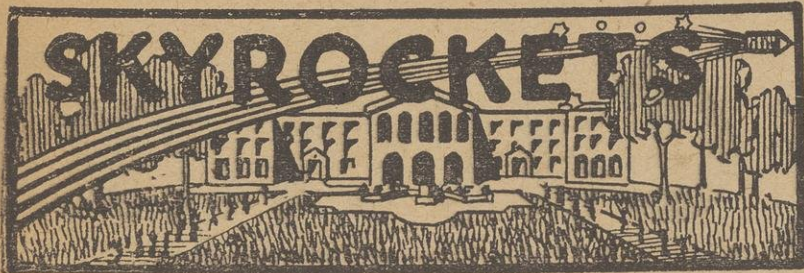

Next Saturday's excursion to Devil's Lake will be in charge of G. H. Smith of the department of geology and geography. The train will leave the Chicago and Northwestern station at 7:40 a. m. and return to Madison at 5:30 p. m. The fare is $2.36 round trip. Students who wish to make the excursion should sign up at the registrar's office before Friday.

C. R. Jonson Exhibits Paintings In Museum

By Genevieve McAllister.

An exhibition of paintings by C. Raymond Jonson, recently connected with the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, is being shown at the Historical museum.

This young artist's work is remarkable in its boldness; his complete abstinence from imitation or adherence to formulae. His "Light," "The First Morning," are examples of rare imagination. "Shylock," a strong character study, is alone worth a visit to the museum. For brilliancy of color and strength of touch, these pictures are especially attractive.

Skinner Discusses Pension System

"Most pension systems are a financial failure," was the opinion expressed by Prof. E. B. Skinner in his lecture on the Mathematics of Teacher's Pension. A discussion of the present Wisconsin teacher's pension system was included in the lecture.

Mr. Skinner acted as adviser to the legislative pension law of 1921. He is chairman of the board in charge of the administration of the University retirement fund.

The committee of 1921, Mr. Skinner explained, found a deficit of $10,000,000 increasing at the rate of $1,000,000 per year in the fund set aside by the state for the pensioning of teachers. This deficit was caused by the failure to provide for the accrued liabilities. The new law provides that the teacher pay 5 percent of his salary each year, and the state pays a certain amount increasing according to the length of service.

A committee meeting in Boston is now discussing the offering of federal aid to those states establishing a sound system of pensioning. The Wisconsin delegation intends to ask for federal aid in keeping up with the accrued liabilities.

Mrs. Mallory Declares Tourney Held After 7 O'Clock

LONDON — "I have nothing to say, no excuses to offer, but anyone who witnessed the match knows I did not play my best game," says Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory regarding her defeat Saturday for the world's singles championship by Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the French girl.

"One thing I wish to point to, though—it is not fair or correct to hold a world's championship contest after 7 o'clock at night. Owing to the rain and other delays, it was after 7 before play started Saturday. The sun came out within a few minutes, striking right across the court and almost blinding me. In addition, the center court at Wimbledon is not level, and the balls do not bounce true."

Mrs. Mallory is sailing for America next Wednesday on the Homeric.

Let Bids For Camp Randall Work July 13

To Start Improvements This Month; Plans Are Drawn

Bids for the improvement of the Camp Randall stadium will be let July 13 at the offices of the state architect. Upon request of residents along Breeze Terrace in a petition to the council the city asked that the state make improvements. Work will probably be started about 15 days after the bids have been let and will be completed late this fall.

Maps of the project were submitted to the city engineer this morning outlining the work to be done. The entire bank on the west side will be graded and terraced with concrete walks leading to the stadium with a concrete approach from the street.

The frame bleachers on top of the hill will remain until the last big game in November after which they will be removed. The board walk running along the top which will be replaced with a concrete walk. An ornamental iron picket fence will surround the state property.

IS THIS VENICE?

SUMMER after summer Langdon street is flooded by rains. A more effective means of taking care of the unusual amount of water after a heavy rain is clearly needed.

When students can swim and paddle canoes about the middle of one of the principal thoroughfares after a heavy rain, and when this is of such frequent recurrence as in this case, something should be done. It is true that the present condition affords amusement for many students, but that is hardly the purpose of the street.

Cars are stuck in the water and mud, sidewalks are buried under a thick coating of lower campus mud, and many a pair of shoes is ruined after each rain. Why cannot something be done to improve existing conditions?

USE YOUR TALENTS

THE charge has been made that the Summer Session is dull and uninteresting when compared with the regular session. If the students who make these charges would interest themselves in some profitable extra-curricular activity they would find their attitude somewhat changed.

There is an opportunity for activity in almost every field of endeavor, including baseball and tennis, clubs and organizations, and the student publication.

A baseball league has been formed, but there is a positive need of more teams to make the organization complete and representative. Coach Lowman wants more teams out for games.

A tennis tournament is being organized by the Department of Physical Education. About twenty men have signed up for the singles play, and several doubles teams have signified their intention of competing. The drawings for the singles meet will take place this week, there is still plenty of time to prepare for the match. The doubles tourney will be held after the singles championship is settled. A women's tennis club has also been organized.

The Spanish club, the Cercle Francais, and the Deutscher Verein all hold weekly meetings which are not only interesting but helpful to those who are studying the languages. Plays, readings, and songs offer an opportunity for those who have talent in these lines. At any rate attend the meetings and get acquainted with your fellow students. Know your classmates out of the classrooms.

The International club holds weekly meetings which are attended by students from all over the world, as well as their Wisconsin friends. Here is a chance to get in intimate association with men and women from other lands.

Reporting news events and writing feature stories on campus activities and celebrities is well worth the time it costs. The Daily Cardinal offers an opportunity for literary effort which is found in only two other summer session schools.

If the student would use his talents in some of these campus activities there would be less complaint of a dull campus.

MADISON'S NEW STREET

THE plan for the extension of University avenue to W. Washington avenue seems at last to be changing from an indefinite to a more tangible form. It is believed that but a few months will see the city council take the required steps to put this plan in operation.

The new thoroughfare will be of inestimable value to the University section, but it is not for that reason alone that we commend it. The value will extend to the whole city and the interests of the University.

The plan as proposed calls for the extension of University avenue to W. Washington avenue, the junction to occur at the corner of W. Washington avenue and S. Henry street. This will create a big corner at this point, but will involve no danger of traffic congestion. The traffic on University and W. Washington avenues will move simultaneously and will alternate with that of S. Henry street.

As the new thoroughfare will be pushed through on a straight line, parallel to State street, it will be necessary to condemn and purchase property through four blocks and probably the corners on two others.

The selection of the method of financing the project appears to be the chief hindrance. The city may condemn the property and proceed under any of the ordinary methods or it may employ excess condemnation, which is permissible under the Wisconsin law. By this method land may be purchased in excess of the needs of the project and sold at a later date at a value enhanced by the project itself. The undertaking will thus pay, or nearly pay, for itself.

The only difficulty lies in the fact that, although the Wisconsin law provides for the employment of excess condemnation, it does not prescribe any exact method of procedure. If this difficulty may be overcome, it seems to us that this method is peculiarly adapted to the nature of the undertaking. The city merely takes that increment which it creates.

It is considered possible that business men and property owners on State street will be strongly opposed to the plan, fearing competition from the new street. This is not conceivable to us—in fact, we sincerely believe that the new road will be of much greater value than detriment to State street trade. A study of traffic conditions in numerous cities has shown that after the volume of traffic on a certain street reaches a certain point, it becomes a "passing" or transient traffic, and evidences itself clearly in the decline of retail business and property values. State street, we believe, has reached, or nearly reached, that point.

The need of this new road, and the value it will prove to the city, is readily apparent to one at all acquainted with Madison. The western section of the city, including the University, is the most densely populated area, and it is served by only one narrow traffic artery. State street is becoming less able to meet the increasing volume of traffic, and it is not capable of being widened.

The most conservative person, if he be acquainted with the problem, must admit that a remedy will eventually have to be applied, and the only complete and lasting remedy is the present plan. Each year makes the cost more prohibitive; the quicker the action, the lower will be the ultimate cost.

General Rains Aid Crops In Wisconsin

The general rains of the past few days have come to the rescue of farm products, the state crop reporting service reported here today. Crops throughout the state, and in the southern section particularly, have been suffering from a deficiency of moisture.

Corn is about up to the average, having been retarded ingrowth by cool weather and the dry condition of the soil. Small grains range from the filling stage to well headed, and in general on short straw. Harvesting is in progress in rye fields, the crop being heavy and of good quality.

Clover and timothy, which is being cut, is heavy throughout the state, especially in northern counties. Rain injured some of the cutting which was still in the swath.

Potatoes, which have an excellent stand this year, were helped by the rain.

Madison Defeats Sheboygan 5 to 3 In 5 Inning Game; Locals Start Rally In 4th

Noble Issues 6 Passes As Game Opens; Rain Halts Contest

BY RAY

Local ball fans were disappointed Sunday when the Sheboygan Madison game at Kipp field was halted by rain after the local nine started a rally in the fourth inning and led the Chairmakers 5 to 3. Madison started bad in the first inning letting Brielmeier come home on an error at third base. The crowd didn't mind "Punk" the first time they were up to bat. Noble got on first on an error on Peebles, but he died there as Martin fanned.

Peebles struck out for Sheboygan in the second but Noble walked the next three men and filled the bases. Kores sent a single to center field. Wilke out on home and Heilburger crossed the plate after Kleinheinz tried to throw out Kores at first. Braun struck out. Bowes walked in the second and died on base as the next three men fied out. Bartzer walked in the third and the next three fied out. Kleinheinz, Berigan and Garvey fied out.

In the fourth inning, Madison garnered three points as Bowes laid a single to the second baseman and Carroll slammed a beauty to the center field almost over the fence. Bowes came home and Carroll seconded the motion as the fielder threw wild of third base. Gannon popped a single, stole second, went to third on an error and later came home on Peterson's single. Sheboygan scored its last run in the fifth when Kores fied out and Braun went to first on balls. Bartzen struck out and Wangeman gained first on an infielder's error, bringing Braun home. The other two men struck out.

"Ike" Carroll showed some pretty playing in the fifth inning as he grabbed off a swift low fly going to right field but never got there. Gannon and "Red" Peterson almost collided when the snappy short stop went for the ball. He had to leap over Gannon's head to get it.

On Thursday the local nine will go to play the winner of the Stoughton-Lancaster game at Livingston in the afternoon. Stoughton and Lancaster play at Mineral Point Tuesday.

Need $15,000

32d Division Reunion To Be Financed Through Ticket Sale

One of the most unique methods of taking care of the reunion of the 32d division veterans association in this city, late in August, has been decided by the citizen's committee in eliminating all solicitations and donations and securing the revenue from the sale of tickets to a big spectacular field day program to be staged at Camp Randall, Aug. 29 at 2 p. m.

A fund of $15,000 will be necessary to take care of the entertainment, registration and housing for the 10,000 men who are expected to arrive from every state in the union. The field day program is considered a novel and unique attraction with a championship game of la crosse played by Fort Rouge and Tiger teams from Winnipeg, Can. Thirty-five men will make the special trip to Madison to play this game.

Advance sale of tickets will start on Wednesday next and a block of 6,000 tickets will be made available immediately. Ten thousand tickets have been reserved, free of cost, for all 32d division men, and it is expected that fully 20,000 people will witness the events.

17 Year Locusts Coming To Southern Wisconsin

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Seventeen year locusts are coming to southern Wisconsin this year, the department of agriculture announced on Sunday. The locusts are expected to be confined to a relatively small section. Crop conditions in Wisconsin generally are good, the department said. Winter wheat is being harvested in the Badger state. Wisconsin canning crops are in excellent condition.

CREW SURVIVES RACING SCHOONER'S WRECK

The crew of the Puritan, Gloucester, Mass., fishing schooner, built to compete in the international fishermen's races next fall, escaped almost certain death when their ship floundered off Nova Scotia, by taking to tiny dories in a raging sea. Only one member of the crew was lost. The others managed to reach Sable Island. The photo shows the rescued members.

Bezdek, Mentor Of Mentors,
To Teach Coaching At Penn
State College This Summer

Back to the old stamping ground is the venerable but still energetic "Ducky" Holmes. This old player and manager has just signed to pilot the Beatrice, Neb., team in the Nebraska State League. It was in that town that he started his baseball career long seasons ago. The return of that celebrated gent from Elba in this history league had nothing on Ducky's arrival.

"As a hero he's a dead bird," says one New York scribe of Babe Ruth. Which sets it down clearly and succinctly.

Once more that old saw about "not all good baseball is played in the majors" can be pulled. In the press of the day's news little mention was made about the country of a fifteen inning pitchers' battle staged between Albany and Bridgeport in the Eastern League the other day. The game was staged at Albany. Kirley and Lepard were the hurlers. Both went the full route and Lepard lost. the game to Albany with a wild throw in the last inning.

While Detroit and in fact all American League fans are watching with interest the brilliant playing of Rigney, Texas rookie, at short for Ty Cobb's crew there comes word from Fort Worth, where Rigney made his name, that his successor at the shortfield is making the league forget Rigney. The new infield star answers to the name of Tavey. Go ahead, scouts, and may the best talker win.

Referring again to the barnstorming rule and the unfairness of it. Frank Bruggy, steady, hard-working catcher, now with the Athletics, was going good behind the bat for Mack when he journeyed to Akron with the team for an exhibition game—and received a split finger in the contest. He'll be out of the game for some time.

Now, the point is this. Had Bruggy received that injury in an independent barnstorming tour off season he would have come in for censure and possibly a "docking." What's the difference? Bruggy received no extra pay for the Akron jaunt. He would have received dough on a barnstorming trip. That's about the only difference.

Joe Beckett is in bad again with followers of boxing in England. Joe was all but matched for a bout with Frank Goddard when Georges Carpentier sent him word to pass up the clumsy but hard hitting Goddard and take on Soldier Jones instead. Goddard recently sent Bombardier Wells to sleep, and in doing so showed signs of improvement. Evidently Georges was afraid that Farmer Frank would be too much for Joey and would spoil the foxy Frenchman's plans.

Beckett promptly called off negotiations with Goddard and announced that he will do no serious battling until he meets Carpentier, but the fans think that Goddard received a raw deal.

The veteran infielder. Art Fletcher, did something recently which has not been done by an infielder in years. On June 24 in each of two successive games he accepted nine chances, and on the next day he accepted nine again. That is twenty-seven for three days in succession. None of your young or your old chaps are doing that. Some feat for nimble feet!

Landis Forbids League
Game at Montrea

MONTREAL — Moist Montreal has seen its last American big league baseball league team in action, it was learned today following receipt of word that Commissioner Landis had quietly passed the word that henceforth the big leaguers should play only on their own side of the international fence. The order followed a recent visit to Montreal of a National League club.

Officials of the local club have begun negotiations with the House of David Nine for an exhibition game. Games with Chinese and Japanese teams are also being sought.

ers have been working on the invention for nearly twenty years. The navy soon will test the craft.

WASHINGTON AFTER 30-YEAR ABSENCE

On the eve of celebrating his one hundredth birthday anniversary, ex-Senator Cornelius Cole, the oldest living U. S. senator, recently visited Washington. It was his first visit to the capital in thirty years. He chatted for some time with Samuel Shortridge, the present senator from Cole's home state of California. Cole was in the senate during the Lincoln administration and sat in the stand with Lincoln when the latter made his memorable Gettysburg address.

Smith And Bolesta Tee Off
To Open U.S. Golf Tourney;
Jim Barnes To Play Evans

Away they go! This morning George Smith of the Hyde Park club of Cincinnati, and Henry Bolesta of the Palma Celia club of Tampa, Fla., teed off in the 27th annual open championship of the U. S. Golf association at Skokie Country club at Glencoe.

All day yesterday clouds, driven by a hurricane from the west, passed over the sunbaked course, but not a drop of moisture fell on the course, and the contestants who were putting in their final practice rounds, faced the same conditions as on the preceding days, except for the increased velocity of the wind.

Scoring conditions were harder and scores on the average ran just a trifle higher. Taking the scores made during the last few days and figuring that conditions will be about the same today, the general opinion is that two rounds of 76 will be good enough to secure a position in the eligible list of 24 who will qualify for places in the championship proper on Thursday and Friday.

The wind yesterday was strong enough to keep the canvas in the press tent flapping, while the electric lights strung from the roof did a jig all day long.

One of the late matches to start was a "birdie" fivesome which included Walter Hagen, Leo Diegel, Bobby Jones, Stewart Maiden and Emil Loeffler. The boys were hitting for distance and got away some mighty swipes. Hagen on the hole drove 350 yards and got an eagle 8, the hole being 470. Loeffler, who overpulled his second shot wide of the green, made a freak pitch, the ball hitting a spectator and running up the leg of his trousers. Maiden had three birdies in a row.

The most attractive pairings for this morning are Emil Loeffler and Cruickshank, Alex Smith and Cyril Walker, Abe Mitchell and Phil Gaudin, Jim Barnes and Chick Evans, Jock Hutchison and Mike Brady, Joe Kirkwood and Joe Novak, Abe Espinosa and Jack Kennedy, Robert A. Gardner and John Edmundson.

John Black, the former California open champion, whose entry had miscarried, was the last player admitted, bringing the total to 329. Black arrived on Friday at 11 o'clock, and shot a round of 67 the first time out. On Saturday he had rounds of 73 and 71 and yesterday turned in a 69, one of the best rounds of the many shot. His card:

Out 4 3 4 4 7 4 8 4 2—35
In 4 3 4 3 8 4 3 5 5—34—69
