FOREWORD

JOHN J. BLAINE
Governor

THE OBJECT in preparing and issuing the Blue Book is to place before the public, official information relative to the state government. The statistical part of the book is very essential, and the official information therein contained is of especial value to schools, libraries, and public officials holding any position in local affairs or otherwise. The book also serves the purpose of an historical review for two years, in which we will find its chief value in the years to come.

It has been the purpose to exclude from this publication as much repetition of former publications as is possible, and to make the book presently valuable. It is not the purpose, in publishing the Blue Book, to include all the activities within the state, as that would entail too much expense; therefore the book is devoted largely to governmental affairs and matters closely related thereto.

I express the hope and belief that the 1921 Blue Book will be useful and beneficial, and that it will receive its appropriate place in our schools and libraries for the use of the general public.

I commend it especially to the teachers in our schools, and suggest that they might well devote a part of the students' time to a review of the material published. Much general and valuable information and inspiration will be gained by children and students of sufficient maturity to appreciate the valuable information and instruction that the work affords.

JOHN J. BLAINE,
Governor.

A BRIEF OUTLINE OF WISCONSIN HISTORY

DR. JOSEPH SCHAEFER

The geologist, to whom a thousand years are but a day, tells us that Wisconsin is about fifteen million years old. But there is an older, mountainous formation in the north and a newer plain land in the south. The mountains, however, in the course of ages have been so denuded and worn down by erosion as to be now nearly a plain also, or what the geologist calls a penepplain. All portions of the land mass, except one, were modified by the invasions of the glacial ice sheet. The exception is a region in the southwestern and western parts of the state which, because it is pure erosion country, is known as the driftless area. The counties of Lafayette, Iowa, Grant, Crawford, Richland, Vernon, La Crosse, and Trempealeau, and parts of Buffalo, Jackson, Monroe, Sauk, Dane, and Green lie within that area. The driftless area is hilly, usually with deep level-floored valleys; the balance of the state, though agreeably diversified in its topography, is on the whole generally plain land, but rather rolling than level. The main watershed of the state trends north and south, with the Wisconsin, which is the master stream, and the Black, the Chippewa, and the St. Croix in the north, also the Rock River in the south, falling into the Mississippi; the Wolf-Fox system and numerous smaller streams fall into Lake Michigan. A subordinate east and west watershed in the far northwest divides the waters flowing into the Mississippi from the short swift streams entering Lake Superior. All sections of the state, save the driftless area, have lakes, but these are surprisingly numerous near the sources of the Wisconsin, in Oneida and Vilas counties, and along the course of the St. Croix River. Practically all are of glacial origin.

The mountain land, now the great northern penepplain, together with considerable areas of the crescentic plain adjoining it on the south, east, and west, was once heavily timbered, largely with conifers. This has been the lumbering region, par excellence, though other parts of the state, both in the southeast and in the southwest, had plenty of timber for the uses of the white settlers when they began to come in. Some portions of southern Wisconsin, however, were nearly destitute of timber save along the water courses. These were the "prairies" which seemed so bleak to the pioneers but proved exceedingly rich farming lands. Vast deposits of copper and iron ore are found in the archean rocks of the northern penepplain, while the galena limestone formation, in the south and southwest, is the source of the lead and zinc deposits for which Wisconsin, with adjacent parts of Illinois and Iowa, has long been famous.

The Primitive Human Background

Space will not permit an attempt to give an account of prehistoric man in Wisconsin, though very much of interest has been collected on that subject. From the advent of white men in the region, of whom the Frenchman Jean Nicolet, in 1634, was the first, the Indian life was modified by two great influences. (a) The first of these was the wars carried on beyond the eastern frontier, and sometimes in the territory itself, by the Iroquis Indians of western New York, who drove the Hurons and Ottawas into Wisconsin, also probably the Sauks and Foxes, and the Pottawatomes; while the Sioux on the upper Mississippi invaded from the west.

These combined pressures tended to concentrate the Wisconsin tribes, in historic times, along the great water-way of the state, the Fox-Green Bay and Wisconsin line, which gave safety from enemies by providing a way of escape under almost any circumstances. This distribution of the tribes also facilitated the work of the French missionaries who followed, as friends and protectors, the refugee bands of Hurons fleeing from the Iroquois enemy. (b) The Indian trade¹ which was begun by the French and carried on by them at first through negotiation for furs to be brought to

Montreal, later through trading establishments placed at strategic points in the country itself. It was continued largely under a French personnel till the end of the fur-trading period, about 1834, although in 1763 the British took official control of the country and in 1783 it passed technically under the government of the United States. While British companies clung to the trade of the country for some years, and the American Fur Company later claimed its profits, it was mainly French-Canadian trappers and rivermen and also largely French traders who dealt at first-hand with the Indians. And it was the French-Canadians who formed the little trading colonies at Green Bay, Prairie du Chien, and other points in the state which gave so picturesque a feature to early Wisconsin history and, on the entrance of the settlers from New England, made the first of our "race" questions.² This trade brought the native tribes under the domination of white men, moderated their warlike spirit, and disintegrated their organization for offensive action. The absence of Indian wars, when white settlers entered—except the insignificant Black Hawk War—is largely attributable to the Indian trade carried on for two centuries by the tactful French. A pleasing reminder of the French régime in Wisconsin is the prevalence of musical French place names, rather numerous interspersed with names having an Indian origin and the more common English names.

American Beginnings

The fur trade "managed by Americans but almost wholly manned by French"³ continued the principal industry of Wisconsin till 1834. In that year land offices were opened at Green Bay and at Mineral Point, and settlers began to pour in through the port at Milwaukee, also by way of Chicago, up the Mississippi, and overland from the settled parts of Illinois, Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio.

Wisconsin was so late in settling because the earlier westward migration had been largely directed and controlled by the Ohio River. The Erie Canal, opened in 1825, made a new line of emigration from the northeast, and in a few years northern Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, and also southern Michigan were receiving their thousands of immigrants yearly. Only the lead region in the south and southwest of our state had received considerable numbers before the Black Hawk War in 1832. That event, preceded and followed by Indian land cessions, opened the entire southern portion of Wisconsin to agricultural settlement—to the line of the Wisconsin, Fox River, and Green Bay—and in the four years 1832-1836 that region was fully surveyed into townships, sections, and subdivisions of sections. So rapid were the sales, both to settlers and to speculators, that by December 1, 1836 nearly nine hundred thousand acres had been disposed of. The census of 1836 showed in that part of the newly-created Wisconsin Territory lying east of the Mississippi⁴ a total population of 11,683, of which

5,234 were in Iowa County (comprising nearly the entire lead region), 2,796 in Brown County (including Green Bay), 2,893 in Milwaukee County, and 850 in Crawford County (Prairie du Chien).

A Common School Course in Politics 1836-1848

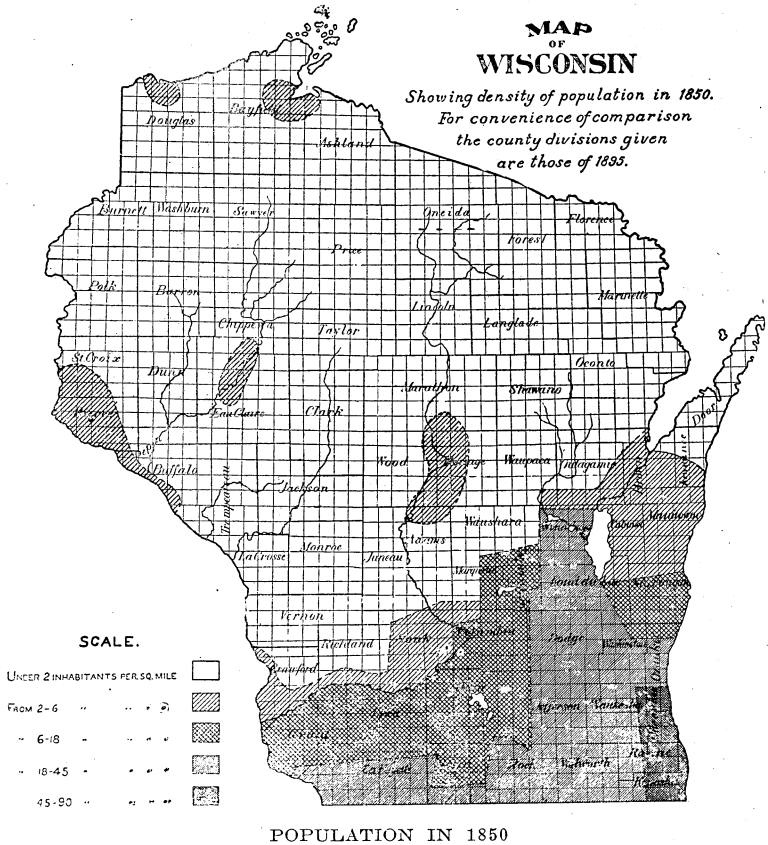

In this period the population of Wisconsin grew rapidly, at first almost wholly by emigration from the older states and, in the later forties, by a constantly growing stream of emigrants from the Old World, particularly Germany, but also the Scandinavian countries and Ireland. The surveyed lands were settled in what were thought the most favorable districts both for farming and for marketing the products of agriculture; roads were opened in many localities and the Territory also built several main high-ways; canal projects—especially the Portage Canal and the Milwaukee and Rock River Canal—were promoted, and the first plans for railroads in Wisconsin broached. The Green Bay Intelligencer, established in 1833, was the first newspaper in Wisconsin (or west of Lake Michigan); schools were founded, and churches built.

But the dominant intellectual interest in territorial Wisconsin was politics, which is not strange when we recall the names of such public men of the time as James D. Doty, Henry Dodge, William S. Hamilton, Morgan L. Martin, and Thomas P. Burnett, to mention only a few of the leaders. These men kept public questions to the fore so successfully that private citizens could not avoid giving them some attention, and thus the foundations were laid for a society which in more recent times has been characterized as intensely political. Relations with the national government, land grants, internal improvements, the location of the capital, the fixing of the southern boundary, the numerous referendums on the question of a state government, the two constitutional conventions of 1846 and 1847—these were some of the concrete problems agitating the minds of voters during the period. When, on May 29, 1848, the bill granting statehood to Wisconsin was approved by President Polk, a complete state government, elected the same month, was ready to take up the reins laid down by territorial officials.

Expansion, Trade, War—1848-1865

Wisconsin began her career as a state in the union with a population of nearly a quarter of a million. By 1850 that number had increased to 305,391 and by 1860 to 775,881. In spite of the losses, and the general retardation of immigration, due to the Civil War, the census of 1870 shows 1,054,670. Our period was characterized by agricultural expansion. This was favored by the building of railroads through new regions and by the economic advantage (or necessity, it might be called) of pushing wheat culture into ever fresh portions of the virgin soil of the state as the older lands responded more and more grudgingly to primitive modes of cultivation. The business of lumbering, in the great "pineries" of the north, now became fully established also, and Wisconsin was ready to dispute with Michigan for the cream of the trade in the years immediately following the war, often called "the golden age of lumbering." Milwaukee flourished more and more as a wheat shipping port, her population rising from 31,077 in 1850 to 89,936 in 1870. Farming (which meant wheat-growing), lumbering, and general commerce, together with mining, constituted the industrial basis of Wisconsin's prosperity.

Politically, the state of Wisconsin began with the Democratic party in control and it was not till 1856 that a split came. In that year the State Senate, elected in 1855, was Republican; and it was finally decided, after a fierce and vindictive struggle, that Governor Barstow, Democrat, who resumed office on a certificate of election being issued to him, had not been rightfully elected, whereupon Coles Bashford, Republican, became governor March 24, 1856. That ended the control of state politics by the old pro-slavery democracy. In 1860 Wisconsin gave the Lincoln electors a plurality of 21,089. The war came on apace, but it found the spirit of Wisconsin ready. "Wisconsin promptly and efficiently met every demand made upon her during the gigantic struggle; her quota of troops was always more than full; and although at times the fiscal situation seemed desperate, no question arose as to the wisdom of making liberal provision for the military chest."⁵

This period is also noted for the building up of public institutions, the state university, the normal school, the system of free elementary schools, and the beginnings of our high school system. The management of the university and school lands, and the loaning of the funds, constituted an important and not altogether creditable feature of the state politics of the time. These things had much to do with the anti-Barstow agitation of 1853 to 1856.

WISCONSIN'S RURAL POPULATION IN 1870

Progress and Readjustment—1865-1890

Wisconsin had furnished to the nation's armies and the navy a total of 91,379 men. Out of this number she lost, by death, 10,752. During the progress of the war general immigration and especially immigration from Germany, formerly so heavy, was largely cut off. So, the total gain in population between 1860 and 1865 had been only twelve per cent. In the next period of five years it was twenty-one per cent. This showed that with the close of the war all the elements of prosperity became once more fully operative, and now both European and eastern emigration were resumed on a great scale. During the same time Wisconsin was sending thousands of ex-soldiers and others into the prairie states of Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, and Minnesota, which enjoyed such a phenomenal growth during this interval. It was these new settlements which were largely responsible for ushering in the golden era of lumbering, and it was these same new states, with their limitless expanse of fertile, unspoiled wheat land, which gave the coup de grace to wheat growing as a profitable branch of farming in Wisconsin. Consequently, the period under review is for Wisconsin a period of economic and social readjustment involving among others these several features: (a) A change in agriculture from wheat growing to dairying, and other forms of permanent (fertility renewing) agriculture. (b) A gigantic progress in lumbering, under the stimulus of ample markets and good prices, and the rise of the lumber kings as a power in the state, sometimes in alliance with the railway kings. (c) The rapid slaughtering of the forests and the necessity, in many lumbering centers, of organizing industries to take the place of lumber manufacturing. (d) The consequent diversification of manufactories, the growth of the capitalist and labor classes in industry as distinguished from that earlier society when "not only did everyone work, but almost everyone worked with his hands and almost everyone worked for himself."⁶ It is a new and different Wisconsin in 1890, with problems more complex, stubborn, and difficult even than those of Civil War days, but fortunately with a public spirit among its people just as earnest in seeking solutions for those problems and with a public intelligence no less adequate to the new tasks than it had been to the old.

The Age of Science

To different on-lookers the history of the last thirty years will mean different things. One can but guess how the future historian will characterize it. But, whatever else he may say of Wisconsin society in this generation, he will not deny its tendency toward a scientific control of public as well as private business. This is, to be sure, a deep-running tendency of the age. Yet, it seems to me, that among democracies the people of Wisconsin—in their government, in their agricultural and other industries, in the way in which they have taken up the regulation of vast private concerns having public aspects; in their conservation policies both as respects human life, intelligence, and happiness, and as respects natural resources; in their educational systems, and the functions these are permitted to exercise in relation to practical concerns; even in their reasoned if not always reasonable and sweet-tempered politics—afford one of the best illustrations of a society which is swayed almost instinctively by the scientific motive. The dominant note, in Wisconsin politics, has been the attainment of social justice; and while we have by no means banished selfishness, greed, and corruption from our public and our private life as a people, nor the emotions of hatred and prejudice from our politics, yet on the whole it may be doubted if an equal number of voters anywhere will deal more disinterestedly or discriminatingly with public questions, employing in their solution not the unaided reason merely, but the best knowledge that science, in its appropriate forms, can afford.

And, best of all, the people have the habit of looking forward to the attainment by these means of an ever more perfect social future.

REFERENDUM OF SEPTEMBER 2, 1919. SOLDIER BONUS LAW

On September 2, 1919, the voters of the State of Wisconsin, by a vote of 165,762 for and 57,324 against accepted the amendment to Chapter 452 of the laws of 1919, which provided for the creation of the Service Recognition Board and the payment of what is known as the Soldier Bonus Act, which provided for the raising of a sum sufficient to assure each soldier, sailor, marine, and nurse, including Red Cross nurses, who served in the armed forces of the United States during the war against Germany and Austria, and who at the time of his or her induction into the service was a resident of Wisconsin, a sum of not exceeding ten dollars for each month of service with a minimum of fifty dollars, as a token of appreciation of the character and spirit of their patriotic service, and to perpetuate such appreciation as a part of the history of Wisconsin, a tax of not exceeding three mills on each dollar of the assessed valuation in addition to the income surtax hereinafter mentioned is hereby levied and authorized to be included in the next tax levy; provided that in case any county shall elect by resolution of the county board of such county, adopted prior to the levy of such tax, to raise said amount by a bond issue, authority is hereby conferred upon said county to issue such bonds and thereupon the proper authorities shall remit said levy in such county. If any person entitled to the benefits under this act be deceased before receiving such payment, then the payment accruing to said deceased shall be paid to the surviving widow, child or children, mother or dependent father, in the order herein stated, and in such case July 1, 1919, shall be deemed the date of termination of such service. The benefit of this act shall not accrue to any person for the time spent while taking training in any student army training camp, nor to any person who, although inducted into service, did civilian work at civilian pay."

VOTE ON CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

On April 6, 1920, the voters of the State of Wisconsin were asked to vote on two proposed amendments to the state constitution.

On the question "shall amendment to section 21 of article IV of the constitution (Joint Resolution No. 37, 1919) relating to compensation of legislators be adopted?" Reads as follows: "Whereas, At the biennial session of the legislature for the year 1917, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

"Resolved by Assembly, the Senate concurring, That section 21 of article IV of the constitution be amended to read: (Article IV) Section 21: Each member of the legislature shall receive for his services * * * such sum * * * to be paid at such times and in such manner as shall be prescribed by law. * * * The compensation prescribed for members of the legislature immediately prior to the adoption of this amendment shall continue in force until changed by the legislature in a manner consistent with the other provisions of this constitution;" therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the Assembly, the Senate concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the State of Wisconsin be and the same is hereby agreed to by this legislature."

Was defeated by a vote of 135,072 no to 128,904 yes.

On the second question "Shall amendments to sections 6 and 7 of article VII of the constitution (Joint Resolution No. 92, 1919) relating to circuit judges be adopted?" Reads as follows: "Whereas, At the Biennial session of the legislature for the year 1917, an amendment to the constitution was proposed and agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, which proposed amendment is as follows:

Resolved by the Assembly, the Senate concurring, That section 6, article VII, and section 7, article VII, of the constitution, be amended to read: (Article VII) Section 6. The legislature may alter the limits, decrease or increase the number of circuits, making them as compact and convenient as practical, and bounding them by county lines; but no such alteration, decrease or increase shall have the effect to remove a judge from office. In case of an increase of circuits, the judge or judges shall be elected as provided in this constitution and receive a salary not less than that herein provided for judges of the circuit court.

Section 7. For each circuit there shall be chosen by the qualified electors thereof one or more circuit judges. * * * as the legislature may, from time to time, authorize. * * * Every circuit judge shall reside in the circuit from which he is elected and shall hold his office for such term and receive such compensation as the legislature shall prescribe;" now, therefore, be it Resolved, by the Senate, the Assembly concurring, That the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Wisconsin be and the same is hereby agreed to by this legislature."

The vote was against the adoption 119,752 noes to 116,117 yeas.

STATE POLITICAL PLATFORMS, 1920

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

Adopted September 21, 1920

We unreservedly endorse the principles enunciated in the National Democratic Platform adopted at San Francisco and pledge our support to its nominees.

Administration of State Affairs

Wisconsin is facing a crisis. Socialistic, undemocratic and unamerican principles which have been translated into enactment in a sister state and are now being advocated for adoption in the state of Wisconsin have roused consternation and challenge the consideration of all who have at heart the interests of good government, the safeguarding of constituted interests and the enacting of progressive, remedial legislation. We invite the cooperation of all regardless of previous party affiliation to join with us in the fight for good government based upon sound principles, representing no class interests and having for its primary object the good of all.

Agricultural Progress

We stand ready to adopt any practical recommendations that the Division of Markets has to offer to strengthen and make more effective the operation of the Marketing Commission Law. In the interest of better agricultural progress we believe that a thorough and comprehensive investigation should be made of the cost of production of farm produce at home and abroad with a complete publication thereof.

We favor the unrestricted and unhampered right of cooperation and collective bargaining for agricultural organizations.

Welfare of the Worker

We pledge a state administration devoted to the principle of industrial democracy in continuation of the splendid record of the Democratic National Administration by the enactment of welfare measures in behalf of those who toil. We recognize the right of labor to adequate compensation, to participate in the decisions that affect their compensation, hours and general welfare. We stand committed to the indefeasible right of the workers to collective bargaining and of speaking through representatives of their own selection. We stand for the adoption of a maximum working day of eight hours in manufacturing and its allied industries.

Education

We favor better enforcement of compulsory educational laws and demand expansion and diversification of both elementary and secondary education, so that democratic equality of opportunity for preparation for the callings of their choice may be offered to the children of our people.

Change in Taxation

We pledge ourselves to meet the increased cost of government by such changes in our system of taxation as will place the burden upon those best able to pay. We stand for a more liberal exemption in the Income Tax Law and increasing the rate of taxation on larger incomes.

Regulating of State Boards

Regulation of railroads and public utilities must be made more efficient and responsive to the interests of the public.

Recognize Civil Service

We believe heartily in the merit principle in the public service. We shall favor any practical extension of its application.

Economy in State Expenditures

Every effort should be made to keep state expenditures within reasonable bounds consistent with a progressive government. A strict application of business methods should be applied to the administration of state affairs.

Favor Good Roads

The Democratic Party has always stood behind the good roads movement, both in the state and in the nation. The present Federal Aid Highway Act, which has produced such wonderful nationwide results,—the greatest step forward in the road movement in history,—is the creation of the National Democratic Administration.

We pledge our party to a continuation and amplification of the present road program in Wisconsin, with such changes and betterments as experience may prove desirable.

We believe that every citizen in Wisconsin is entitled to good roads, an easy access to his markets, and we pledge ourselves to legislation which will bring about these results.

Reforestation

Wisconsin must be developed and made still more productive. We believe that any agricultural lands now held by the state should be sold to bona fide settlers and we favor legislation to this end. We believe that the state should engage in the systematic reforestation of all non-agricultural lands that it now holds and that as fast as possible it should acquire other tracts of non-agricultural lands in different parts of the state and to them extend the work of reforestation. Only in this way can lumber be provided for the building of homes and raw material for paper mills and other woodworking industries. To this end we favor so amending the state constitution as to authorize public forestry. When doubt arises as to whether any land which the state owns or contemplates selling or buying, the test of soil analysis should be applied.

Home Rule for Cities

The proposed amendment to the Constitution of Wisconsin, providing for municipal home rule, subject to necessary restrictions, which was approved by the legislature of 1919, is a recognition of the American Principle of self-government and we promise that our representatives in the legislature of 1921 shall vote to submit this question to the electorate of the state.

Deep Waterway Program

We endorse the deep waterway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Seaboard movement as affording cheaper and more efficient transportation for Wisconsin.

Woman Suffrage

We welcome the women of both state and nation to equal suffrage.

Recognition of our Soldiers and Sailors

We pledge ourselves to the enactment of such remedial legislation as the administration of the Educational Bonus Law may require.

PROHIBITION PLATFORM

(Preamble)

The Prohibition party of Wisconsin, in convention assembled, do hereby recognize the hand of Almighty God in shaping the affairs of state, and offer our heartfelt gratitude to Him for the great victories which have been attained in the destruction of the liquor traffic, and the establishment of the prohibition policy. The adoption of prohibition by the United States of America is one of the most important steps ever taken by any nation in moral, civic and economic advance. That there may be no recession from this high stand, we renew our pledge of unswerving loyalty to the cause which has been the inspiration of our party for the past half-century.

(1) We endorse and pledge our support to the platform adopted and candidates nominated by the national convention of the Prohibition party held at Lincoln, Neb., July 22, 1920.

(2) We demand the strict enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment to the constitution, and the Volstead Act, and we offer to the electors of Wisconsin a state ticket made up of men, if elected, will see that said laws are carried out.

(3) We favor the retention of the Mulberger law for the sake of the State Prohibition Commission, but pledge our efforts to the amendment of the law to eliminate the license, local option and other objectionable features.

(4) We favor the interpretation of the Eighteenth amendment to include the prohibition of all beverages containing alcohol in any percentage whatsoever.

(5) We favor such revision of our tax laws as will eliminate all exemptions and classification to the end that all property should pay an equitable share of the tax burdens.

(6) We are opposed to all kinds of class legislation.

(7) We commend the efforts of the government in seeking to suppress commercialized vice, and urge more effective restrictions and regulations be adopted by both state and national governments to prevent the luring of both boys and girls into lives of immorality.

(8) We favor more systematic efforts to Americanize residents of foreign birth, but these should be undertaken with tact and a spirit of neighborliness to make them realize the benefits of American institutions.

(9) We congratulate our fellow citizens who have recently attained to the rights and responsibilities of suffrage, and invite their support to the party which has always held as its cardinal principle the protection of the home, and which has during the half-century of its existence persistently advocated equal suffrage.

To all voters who are in sympathy with the above principles, we earnestly extend an invitation to support the Prohibition party ticket at the coming election.

WISCONSIN REPUBLICAN PLATFORM

Adopted September 21, 1920

The Republican Party of Wisconsin, met in platform convention, pursuant to law, hereby renews its allegiance to the principles of human liberty, equality and progress on which it was founded. We accept the platform of the National Convention adopted last June as a true declaration of those principles. There is no other party better qualified to advance the welfare of all of our people without any discrimination or favoritism.

We endorse as fully competent to carry out these principles, and pledge our united support to the candidates nominated by that convention—those splendid Americans, Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge.

We commend the record of United States Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, now a candidate for reelection, as one whose Republicanism and Americanism have been conspicuously right, and pledge him our united support.

We urge that Chapter 556 of the Laws of 1919, known as the Prohibition Enforcement Act ("Mulberger Bill") be continued in force and effect and made to conform with federal provisions, to the end that Wisconsin fines may reimburse Wisconsin taxpayers for the obligations imposed upon them by the federal government; and to the further end that those accused of violation of excise laws may have such speedy trial at such distance from their homes as will entail neither undue hardship nor expense. We therefore urge that the Mulberger Law be ratified at the polls.

The last legislature enacted a marketing law, the first law of its kind enacted in the United States. In passing such a law we were breaking new ground and could not anticipate all the difficulties involved to perfect a marketing system.

A year's experience under such law has demonstrated that it does not contain the broad and necessary powers to make effective a desirable marketing system. On account of lack of sufficient funds and authority to ascertain the cost of production of farm products and production of other commodities, the marketing director has been unable to proceed with either a thorough or complete investigation.

We pledge adequate financial support to the Division of Markets and such additional power and authority as may be necessary in order to give the Division ample power and authority to stimulate cooperation among the producers and to prohibit unfair dealing and discrimination and to prevent extortionate profits on the necessities of life and curb profiteering, so that the producers on the farms may receive a reasonable compensation for farm products and labor, at a reasonable cost to the consumer.

We favor a revision of the cooperative law to protect existing and future cooperative associations from exploitation and unfair practices, and also for the creation of cooperative associations upon a nonstock basis, thus extending to cooperative organizations the same privileges as are extended to trade corporations.

To prevent the spoiling of perishable food products the law should limit the time during which they may be held in storage.

The Attorney-General should be empowered to bring prosecutions on his own initiative to punish violations of laws to prevent and punish profiteering.

We favor laws to promote the development of actual settlers of Wisconsin agricultural lands.

The basic eight hour law should be adopted in all industries when reasonably applicable, with the return of normal conditions, in order that the welfare of our citizens may be promoted by giving such citizens time for something more than eating, sleeping and working.

We favor the elimination of child labor in industry; equal pay for equal service, regardless of sex; the right of workers to organize and to deal collectively with employers through representatives of their own choice.

We favor better protection to the railroad workers who are engaged in car repair at terminals and junctions against inclement and severe weather. We favor the revision and passage of laws to more adequately protect the trainmen and the traveling public against the danger at railroad grade crossings.

We favor an increase in payments under the Workmen's Compensation Act for the more serious and disabling injuries and death benefits, in order to more nearly meet the increased cost of living.

Since the income tax law was enacted the cost of living has more than doubled, and we therefore favor that exemptions from income taxes shall be increased in proportion to the increase in the cost of living; reasonable exemptions from taxation of improvements to encourage development of the agricultural area of northern Wisconsin, and to promote home building and home ownership; a progressive increase in income and inheritance taxes on the larger incomes and inheritances, and the establishment of a ratio between the rate of taxation on property and the income tax, so that as public improvements increase the entire cost of such improvements will not be levied on property alone. Taxes should be levied in proportion to the ability to pay, and therefore the necessary funds to meet the ever expanding necessities of the public should be raised upon a just and equitable basis as between the property tax and the income tax. This does not contemplate an increase in the total tax, but justice demands a readjustment of our taxation systems.

We further favor a law requiring all corporations licensed to do business in Wisconsin to file annual statements with the Secretary of State showing their financial condition, profits and dividends during the year.

The state should set an example in economy and while no necessary state activity should be hampered on account of lack of funds, a rigid economy should be practiced.

Our schools should be improved and adequately supported—especially the common schools. Extravagance in the administration of educational institutions should be avoided, but their usefulness should not be limited by a parsimonious policy. Evening and continuation schools, wherein persons unfamiliar with the language and institutions of America may receive instruction, should be provided and supported in proportion to the need that exists for them.

We favor the amendment of the Corrupt Practices act to require all league, committees, clubs and individuals to report all receipts and disbursements for political purposes, in the same manner as the personal expense accounts of candidates are now required. The acceptance of funds, and the disbursement of funds, from sources outside the state for political purposes to influence political action in Wisconsin elections should be prohibited.

We denounce the leadership of the Nonpartisan League, the I. W. W., the Communist party, and all other agencies seeking to undermine the principles of democracy and advocating a program of state Socialism, Bolshevism or Anarchy. We denounce the attempt of nonresidents of Wisconsin through the leadership of the Nonpartisan League to control the Republican party in Wisconsin.

We favor the construction and maintenance of the public highways of the state so that adequate roads may be in reach of all the people. We believe in the development of routes of through travel, and also the construction and maintenance of the farmers' roads to market, the feeders of these main lines. Wisconsin's present policy of highway construction and maintenance has attracted nation-wide attention, and we pledge our party to every step to secure not only a continuation but every possible advance in the state's highway program. We favor good roads everywhere for everyone so far as and so fast as this program can be pursued, consistent with sound economic policy and reasonable taxation.

Women having come into full partnership with men in the conduct of the affairs of government, the legislature should revise our laws to the end that in all matters men and women should be upon a basis of equality.

SOCIALIST PLATFORM

Adopted September 21, 1920

The Socialist party of Wisconsin, in convention assembled, reaffirms its belief in International socialism and in the principles of human brotherhood. We know that these principles are the only great force in the world that can bring order out of the present chaos and can prevent a repetition of the late world wide catastrophe.

This late world war and its terrible evils were the natural results of the capitalist system and were predicted by the socialist students many times. Future wars and greater misery will follow if this system is to last. Capitalism is based on exploitation, competition and strife.

Represents Worker and Farmer

The socialist party is the only organization representing the cause of the worker and the farmer. We point to the fact that the capitalist parties of all shades of opinion have added to the chains that bind the producers. Republicans, Democrats and Progressives have alike voted in congress and in the legislature to take away the liberties of the common people.

The hope of America and of humanity lies in the political, economic and social emancipation of the producing class.

The socialist party strives to accomplish this by political methods through the action of its elected officials. Our purpose is to secure a majority in all legislative bodies and also to fill the executive and judicial offices with men pledged to our ideas—in order to exercise this power to further the economic interests of the farmers and workers who form the overwhelming majority of our people.

Change Capitalist System

It is our aim to change the present capitalist system by transferring the ownership of the socially necessary industries to the people, beginning with all those of a public utility character. We also advocate the collective ownership of all monopolies and of land used or held by monopolies. The Socialists do not intend to interfere with private possession of land actually used and cultivated by the occupants.

We also indorse national, state and local aid in working out problems of practical co-operation.

It is our intention so to amend the constitution of the United States and of the state of Wisconsin as to put the safeguards of political and civil liberty beyond the attack of the Democratic and Republican parties. National and state constitutions should be made amendable by a majority of the voters of the nation or of the state upon the initiative of groups of voters or their legislative bodies.

Our Fourteen Points

In accordance with these principles, we stand:

1. For an immediate, democratic and humane peace and against the imperialistic robber peace of Versailles. We condemn the despotic and tyrannical refusal of Woodrow Wilson to declare peace. He has not kept us out of war, but he is keeping us out of peace.

2. Against the Wilsonian league of international bankers' groups and for a people's league of nations formed by the people's chosen representatives. The present league is simply an alliance to guarantee the economic slavery of many hundred millions of men and women for the benefit of a few thousand united exploiters.

3. Against the establishment of European militarism in America. This militarism is now demanded by the Republican and Democratic parties. The common people never originate wars. Modern wars are made by the ruling classes and are fought by the working masses.

4. Against the inhuman policy adopted by the European Imperialists and indorsed and carried into effect by the Republican and Democratic parties of starving millions of women and children in Russia, Poland and Central Europe.

Against Race Hatred

5. Against race hatred and mob rule which is incited by the profiteers and patrioteers and organized into action by the Republicans and Democrats. We charge Gov. E. L. Philipp and the Republican state administration with the same two-faced and cowardly attitude in this respect as the Democratic national administration.

6. For freedom of speech, freedom of press and freedom of assemblage, which were abolished by the Republican and Democratic parties at the behest of Woodrow Wilson under the plea of "war necessity."

For the constitutional and absolute repeal of all legislation conflicting with our national rights. We demand an investigation of the activities of Woodrow Wilson, Thomas G. Gregory, A. Mitchell Palmer, and Albert S. Burleson, and demand they be impeached and put on trial upon the evidence so secured.

7. For freedom of conscience, for religious liberty—and for the unrestricted right to use any language in church services and also for the right to teach, besides the English language, any language in public or parochial schools the patrons may desire.

Profiteers Must Pay for War

8. For the discontinuation of all prosecutions under the Espionage law. All persons serving sentences under charges growing out of their political views, religious beliefs, or industrial activity, to be immediately released with full citizenship restored.

9. Against prohibition and all sumptuary legislation. We have always favored to permit people the use of light wine and beer.

For the confiscation of plants and goods whenever profiteering is proved in court. We propose to increase the facilities of proper storing and marketing of farm products and other necessities. This to combat the high cost of living.

10. For compelling those who profited by the war to pay the cost of the war by graduated income tax up to 80 per cent of their income—income under $5,000 to be exempt.

11. For the national ownership of the trusts and public ownership of public utilities—by the nation, state or city, as the case may be.

12. Against using the public schools and especially the state university to foster the capitalistic philosophy of profiteering and of murder-patriotism.

13. For representative government and the right of the voters of every district to choose their own representatives. We condemn especially the congressmen of the Nonpartisan league and the so-called LaFollette Progressives for voting against the principle of representative government by vote to unseat Victor Berger.

Against government by injunction and against the use of the American legion to break strikes.

14. For legislation to permit cities and townships to issue sufficient bonds for buying or building income-producing public utilities; for housing and city planning.

We indorse all socialistic demands of our previous national and state platforms in regard to beneficial legislation for farmers and workers and we call attention especially to the record of the socialist members of the Wisconsin legislature on these matters.

We urge all lovers of freedom to rally to the banner of socialism which represents the only genuine patriotism of today, for Socialism guarantees to every man and woman the full fruit of their labor and it will give them a genuine stake in America which they do not possess today.

This certifies that the foregoing is a correct copy of the Socialist platform as adopted by the platform convention of the candidates on the Socialists ticket, held on the 21st day of September, 1920, 12 o'clock noon, at the capitol, Madison, Wisconsin.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

Adopted by the Democratic National Convention, San Francisco,
Cal. June, 1920

The Democratic Party, in its National Convention now assembled, sends greetings to the President of the United States, Woodrow Wilson, and hails with patriotic pride the great achievements for country and the world, wrought by a Democratic Administration under his leadership.

It salutes the mighty people of this great republic, emerging with imperishable honor, from the severe tests and grievous strains of the most tragic war in history, having earned the plaudits and the gratitude of all free nations.

It declares its adherence to the fundamental progressive principles of social, economic and industrial justice and advance, and purposes to resume the great work of translating these principles into effective laws, begun and carried far by the Democratic Administration and interrupted only when the war claimed all the national energies for the single task of victory.

League of Nations

The Democratic Party favors The League of Nations as the surest, if not the only, practicable means of maintaining the peace of the world and terminating the insufferable burden of great military and naval establishments. It was for this that America broke away from traditional isolation and spent her blood and treasure to crush a colossal scheme of conquest. It was upon this basis that the President of the United States, in pre-arrangement with our Allies, consented to a suspension of hostilities against the Imperial German Government; the armistice was granted and a treaty of peace negotiated upon the definite assurance to Germany, as well as to the powers pitted against Germany, that "a general association of nations must be formed under specific covenant, for the purpose of affording mutual guarantees of political independence and territorial integrity to great and small states alike." Hence, we not only congratulate the President on the vision manifested and the vigor exhibited in the prosecution of the war, but we felicitate him and his associates on the exceptional achievement at Paris involved in the adoption of a League and Treaty so near akin to previously expressed American ideals and so intimately related to the aspirations of civilized peoples everywhere.

We commend the President for his courage and his high conception of good faith in steadfastly standing for the covenant agreed to by all the associated and allied nations at war with Germany, and we condemn the Republican Senate for its refusal to ratify the Treaty merely because it was the product of Democratic statesmanship, thus interposing partisan envy and personal hatred in the way of the peace and renewed prosperity of the world.

By every accepted standard of international morality the President is justified in asserting that the honor of the country is involved in this business; and we point to the accusing fact that, before it was determined to initiate political antagonism to the Treaty, the now Republican Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee himself publicly proclaimed that any proposition for a separate peace with Germany, such as he and his party associates thereafter reported to the Senate, would make us "guilty of the blackest crime."

On May 15 last, the Knox substitute for the Versailles Treaty was passed by the Republican Senate; and this Convention can contrive no more fitting characterization of its obloquy than that made in the Forum magazine of June, 1918, by Henry Cabot Lodge, when he said:

"If we send our armies and young men abroad to be killed and wounded in northern France and Flanders with no result but this, our entrance into war with such an intention was a crime which nothing can justify. The intent of Congress and the intent of the President was that there could be no peace until we could create a situation where no such war as this could recur. We cannot make peace except in company with our allies. It would brand us with everlasting dishonor and bring ruin to us also if we undertook to make a separate peace."

Thus to that which Mr. Lodge, in saner moments, considered "the blackest crime" he and his party in madness sought to give the sanctity of law; that which eighteen months ago was of "everlasting dishonor" the Republican Party and its candidates to-day accept as the essence of faith.

We endorse the President's view of our international obligations and his firm stand against reservations designed to cut to pieces the vital provisions of the Versailles Treaty, and we commend the Democrats in Congress for voting against resolutions for separate peace which would disgrace the nation. We advocate the immediate ratification of the Treaty without reservations which would impair its essential integrity; but do not oppose the acceptance of any reservations making clearer or more specific the obligations of the United States to the League Associates. Only by doing this may we retrieve the reputation of this nation among the powers of the earth and recover the moral leadership which President Wilson won and which Republican politicians at Washington sacrificed. Only by doing this may we hope to aid effectively in the restoration of order throughout the world and to take the place which we should assume in the front rank of spiritual, commercial and industrial advancement.

We reject as utterly vain, if not vicious, the Republican assumption that ratification of the Treaty and membership in the League of Nations would in any wise impair the integrity or independence of our country. The fact that the Covenant has been entered into by twenty-nine nations, all as jealous of their independence as we are of ours, is a sufficient refutation of such charge. The President repeatedly has declared, and this Convention reaffirms, that all our duties and obligations as a member of the League must be fulfilled in strict conformity with the Constitution of the United States, embodied in which is the fundamental requirement of declaratory action by the Congress before this nation may become a participant in any war.

Conduct of the War

During the war President Wilson exhibited the very broadest conception of liberal Americanism. In his conduct of the war, as in the general administration of his high office, there was no semblance of partisan bias. He invited to Washington as his councillors and coadjutors hundreds of the most prominent and pronounced Republicans in the country. To these he committed responsibilities of the gravest import and most confidential nature. Many of them had charge of vital activities of the Government.

And yet, with the war successfully prosecuted and gloriously ended, the Republican Party in Congress, far from applauding the masterly leadership of the President and felicitating the country on the amazing achievements of the American Government, has meanly requited the considerate course of the chief magistrate by savagely defaming the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy and by assailing nearly every public officer of every branch of the service intimately concerned in winning the war abroad and preserving the security of the Government at home.

We express to the soldiers and sailors and marines of America the admiration of their fellow countrymen. Guided by the genius of such commanders as General John J. Pershing, the armed forces of America constituted a decisive factor in the victory and brought new lustre to the flag.

We commend the patriotic men and women who sustained the efforts of their government in the crucial hours of the war and contributed to the brilliant administrative success achieved under the broad-visioned leadership of the President.

Financial Achievements

A review of the record of the Democratic Party during the administration of Woodrow Wilson presents a chapter of substantial achievements unsurpassed in the history of the republic. For fifty years before the advent of this administration periodical convulsions had impeded the industrial progress of the American people and caused inestimable loss and distress. By the enactment of the Federal Reserve Act the old system, which bred panics, was replaced by a new system, which insured confidence. It was an indispensable factor in winning the war, and to-day it is the hope and inspiration of business. Indeed, one vital danger against which the American people should keep constantly on guard is the commitment of this system to partisan enemies who struggled against its adoption and vainly attempted to retain in the hands of speculative bankers a monopoly of the currency credits of the Nation. Already there are well-defined indications of an assault upon the vital principles of the system in the event of Republican success in the elections in November.

Under Democratic leadership the American people successfully financed their stupendous part in the greatest war of all time. The Treasury wisely insisted during the war upon meeting an adequate portion of the war expenditure from current taxes and the bulk of the balance from popular loans, and, during the first full fiscal year after fighting stopped, upon meeting current expenditures from current receipts notwithstanding the new and unnecessary burden thrown upon the Treasury by the delay, obstruction and extravagance of a Republican Congress.

The non-partisan Federal Reserve authorities have been wholly free of political interference or motive; and, in their own time and their own way, have used courageously, though cautiously, the instruments at their disposal to prevent undue expansion of credit in the country. As a result of these sound Treasury and Federal Reserve Policies, the inevitable war inflation has been held down to a minimum, and the cost of living has been prevented from increasing here in proportion to the increase in other belligerent countries and in neutral countries which are in close contact with the world's commerce and exchanges.

After a year and a half of fighting in Europe, and despite another year and a half of Republican obstruction at home, the credit of the Government of the United States stands unimpaired, the Federal Reserve note is the unit of value throughout all the world, and the United States is the one great country in the world which maintains a free gold market.

We condemn the attempt of the Republican Party to deprive the American people of their legitimate pride in the financing of the war—an achievement without parallel in the financial history of this or any other country, in this or any other war. And in particular we condemn the pernicious attempt of the Republican Party to create discontent among the holders of the bonds of the Government of the United States and to drag our public finance and our banking and currency system back into the arena of party politics.

Tax Revision

We condemn the failure of the present Congress to respond to the oft-repeated demand of the President and the Secretaries of the Treasury to revise the existing tax laws. The continuance in force in peace times of taxes devised under pressure of imperative necessity to produce a revenue for war purposes is indefensible and can only result in lasting injury to the people. The Republican Congress persistently failed, through sheer political cowardice, to make a single move toward a readjustment of tax laws which it denounced before the last election and was afraid to revise before the next election.

We advocate tax reform and a searching revision of the War Revenue Acts to fit peace conditions so that the wealth of the nation may not be withdrawn from productive enterprise and diverted to wasteful or non-productive expenditure.

We demand prompt action by the next Congress for a complete survey of existing taxes and their modification and simplification with a view to secure greater equity and justice in tax burden and improvement in administration.

Public Economy

Claiming to have effected great economies in Government expenditures, the Republican party cannot show the reduction of one dollar in taxation as a corollary of this false pretence. In contrast, the last Democratic Congress enacted legislation reducing the taxes from eight billions, designed to be raised, to six billions for the first year after the armistice, and to four billions thereafter; and there the total is left undiminished by our political adversaries. Two years after Armistice Day a Republican Congress provides for expending the stupendous sum of $5,403,390,327.30.

Affecting great paper economies by reducing departmental estimates of sums which would not have been spent in any event, and by reducing formal appropriations, the Republican statement of expenditures omits the pregnant fact that the Congress authorized the use of one and a half billion dollars in the hands of various departments and bureaus, which otherwise would have been covered into the Treasury, and which should be added to the Republican total of expenditures.

High Cost of Living

The high cost of living and the depreciation of bond values in this country are primarily due to war itself, to the necessary governmental expenditures for the destructive purpose of war, to private extravagance, to the world's shortage of capital, to the inflation of foreign currencies and credits and, in large degree, to conscienceless profiteering.

The Republican Party is responsible for the failure to restore peace and peace conditions in Europe, which is a principal cause of post-armistice inflation the world over. It has denied the demand of the President for necessary legislation to deal with secondary and local causes. The sound policies pursued by the Treasury and the Federal Reserve system have limited in this country, though they could not prevent, the inflation which was world-wide.

Elected upon specific promises to curtail public expenditures and to bring the country back to a status of effective economy, the Republican Party in Congress wasted time and energy for more than a year in vain and extravagant investigations, costing the tax-payers great sums of money, while revealing nothing beyond the incapacity of Republican politicians to cope with the problems. Demanding that the President, from his place at the Peace Table, call the Congress into extraordinary session for imperative purposes of readjustment, the Congress when convened spent thirteen months in partisan pursuits, failing to repeal a single war statute which harassed business or to initiate a single constructive measure to help business. It busied itself making a pre-election record of pretended thrift, having not one particle of substantial existence in fact. It raged against profiteers and the high cost of living without enacting a single statute to make the former afraid or doing a single act to bring the latter within limitations.

The simple truth is that the high cost of living can only be remedied by increased production, strict governmental economy and a relentless pursuit of those who take advantage of post-war conditions and are demanding and receiving outrageous profits.

We pledge the Democratic Party to a policy of strict economy in government expenditures, and to the enactment and enforcement of such legislation as may be required to bring profiteers before the bar of criminal justice.

The Tariff

We reaffirm the traditional policy of the Democratic Party in favor of a tariff for revenue only, and we confirm the policy of basing tariff revisions upon the intelligent research of a non-partisan commission, rather than upon the demands of selfish interests, temporarily held in abeyance.

Budget

In the interest of economy and good administration, we favor the creation of an effective budget system that will function in accord with the principles of the Constitution. The reform should reach both the executive and legislative aspects of the question. The supervision and preparation of the budget should be vested in the Secretary of the Treasury as the representative of the President. The budget, as such, should not be increased by the Congress except by a two-thirds vote, each House, however, being free to exercise its constitutional privilege of making appropriations through independent bills. The appropriation bills should be considered by single Committees of the House and Senate. The audit system should be consolidated and its powers expanded so as to pass upon the wisdom of, as well as the authority for, expenditures.

A budget bill was passed in the closing days of the second session of the Sixty-sixth Congress which, invalidated by plain constitutional defects and defaced by considerations of patronage, the President was obliged to veto. The House amended the bill to meet the Executive objection. We condemn the Republican Senate for adjourning without passing the amended measure, when by devoting an hour or two more to this urgent public business a budget system could have been provided.

Senate Rules

We favor such alteration of the rules of procedure of the Senate of the United States as will permit the prompt transaction of the nation's legislative business.

Agricultural Interests

To the great agricultural interests of the country the Democratic Party does not find it necessary to make promises. It already is rich in its record of things actually accomplished. For nearly half a century of Republican rule not a sentence was written into the Federal Statutes affording one dollar of bank credits to the farming interest of America. In the first term of this Democratic administration the National Bank Act was so altered as to authorize loans of five years' maturity on improved farm lands. Later was established a system of farm loan banks, from which the borrowings already exceed three hundred millions of dollars and under which the interest rate to farmers has been so materially reduced as to drive out of business the farm loan sharks who formerly subsisted by extortion upon the great agricultural interests of the country.

Thus it was a Democratic Congress in the administration of a Democratic President which enabled the farmers of America for the first time to obtain credit upon reasonable terms and insured their opportunity for the future development of the nation's agricultural resources. Tied up in Supreme Court proceedings, in a suit by hostile interests, the Federal Farm Loan system, originally opposed by the Republican candidate for the Presidency, appealed in vain to a Republican Congress for adequate financial assistance to tide over the interim between the beginning and the ending of the current year, awaiting a final decision of the highest court on the validity of the contested act. We pledge prompt and consistent support of sound and effective measures to sustain, amplify and perfect the Rural Credits Statutes and thus to check and reduce the growth and course of farm tenancy.

Not only did the Democratic Party put into effect a great Farm Loan system of land mortgage banks, but it passed the Smith-Lever agricultural extension act, carrying to every farmer in every section of the country, through the medium of trained experts and by demonstration farms, the practical knowledge acquired by the Federal Agricultural Department in all things relating to agriculture, horticulture and animal life; it established the Bureau of Markets, the Bureau of Farm Management, and passed the Cotton Futures Act, the Grain Grades bill, the Cooperative Farm Administration Act and the Federal Warehouse Act.

The Democratic Party has vastly improved the rural mail system and has built up the parcel post system to such an extent as to render its activities and its practical service indispensable to the farming community. It was this wise encouragement and this effective concern of the Democratic Party for the farmers of the United States that enabled this great interest to render such essential service in feeding the armies of America and the allied nations of the war and succoring starving populations since Armistice Day.

Meanwhile the Republican leaders at Washington have failed utterly to propose one single measure to make rural life more tolerable. They have signalized their fifteen months of Congressional power by urging schemes which would strip the farms of labor; by assailing the principles of the Farm Loan system and seeking to impair its efficiency; by covertly attempting to destroy the great nitrogen plant at Muscle Shoals upon which the Government has expended $70,000,000 to supply American farmers with fertilizers at reasonable cost; by ruthlessly crippling nearly every branch of agricultural endeavor, literally cramping the productive mediums through which the people must be fed.

We favor such legislation as will confirm to the primary producers of the nation the right of collective bargaining and the right of cooperative handling and marketing of the products of the workshop and the farm and such legislation as will facilitate the exportation of our farm products.

We favor comprehensive studies for farm production costs and the uncensored publication of facts found in such studies.

Labor and Industry

The Democratic Party is now, as ever, the firm friend of honest labor and the promoter of progressive industry. It established the Department of Labor at Washington and a Democratic President called to his official council board the first practical workingman who ever held a cabinet portfolio. Under this administration have been established employment bureaus to bring the man and the job together; have been peaceably determined many bitter disputes between capital and labor; were passed the child-labor act, the workingman's compensation act (the extension of which we advocate so as to include laborers engaged in loading and unloading ships and in interstate commerce), the eight-hour law, the act for vocational training and a code of other wholesome laws affecting the liberties and bettering the conditions of the laboring classes. In the Department of Labor the Democratic Administration established a Woman's Bureau, which a Republican Congress destroyed by withholding appropriations.

Labor is not a commodity; it is human. Those who labor have rights and the national security and safety depend upon a just recognition of those rights and the conservation of the strength of the workers and their families in the interest of sound-hearted and sound-headed men, women and children. Laws regulating hours of labor and conditions under which labor is performed, when passed in recognition of the conditions under which life must be lived to attain the highest development and happiness, are just assertions of the national interest in the welfare of the people.

At the same time, the nation depends upon the products of labor; a cessation of production means a loss and, if long continued, disaster. The whole people, therefore, have a right to insist that justice shall be done to those who work, and in turn that those whose labor creates the necessities upon which the life of the nation depends must recognize the reciprocal obligation between the worker and the State. They should participate in the formulation of sound laws and regulations governing the conditions under which labor is performed, recognize and obey the laws so formulated and seek their amendment when necessary by the processes ordinarily addressed to the laws and regulations affecting the other relations of life.

Labor, as well as capital, is entitled to adequate compensation. Each has the indefeasible right of organization, of collective bargaining and of speaking through representatives of their own selection. Neither class, however, should at any time nor in any circumstances take action that will put in jeopardy the public welfare. Resort to strikes and lockouts which endanger the health or lives of the people is an unsatisfactory device for determining disputes, and the Democratic Party pledges itself to contrive, if possible, and put into effective operation a fair and comprehensive method of composing differences of this nature.

In private industrial disputes, we are opposed to compulsory arbitration as a method plausible in theory but a failure in fact. With respect to government service, we hold distinctly that the rights of the people are paramount to the right to strike. However, we profess scrupulous regard for the conditions of public employment and pledge the Democratic Party to instant inquiry into the pay of Government employees and equally speedy regulations designed to bring salaries to a just and proper level.

Woman Suffrage

We endorse the proposed 19th Amendment of the Constitution of the United States granting equal suffrage to women. We congratulate the legislatures of the 35 States which have already ratified said Amendment and we urge the Democratic Governors and legislatures of Tennessee, North Carolina and Florida and such States as have not yet ratified the Federal Suffrage Amendment to unite in an effort to complete the process of ratification and secure the 36th State in time for all the women of the United States to participate in the Fall election. We commend the effective advocacy of the measure by President Wilson.

Welfare of Women and Children

We urge cooperation with the States for the protection of child life through infancy and maternity care; in the prohibition of child labor and by adequate appropriations for the Children's Bureau and the Woman's Bureau in the Department of Labor.

Women in Industry

We advocate full representation of women on all commissions dealing with women's work or women's interests and a reclassification of the Federal Civil Service free from discrimination on the ground of sex; a continuance of appropriations for education in sex hygiene; Federal legislation which shall insure that American women residents in the United States, but married to aliens, shall retain their American citizenship and that the same process of naturalization shall be required for women as for men.

Education

Cooperative Federal assistance to the States is immediately required for the removal of illiteracy, for the increase of teachers' salaries and instruction in citizenship for both native and foreign-born; increased appropriation for vocational training in home economics, re-establishment of joint Federal and State employment service with women's departments under the direction of technically qualified women.

Disabled Soldiers

The Federal Government should treat with the utmost consideration every disabled soldier, sailor and marine of the world war whether his disability be due to wounds received in line of action or to health impaired in service; and for the dependents of the brave men who died in line of duty the government's tenderest concern and richest bounty should be their requital. The fine patriotism exhibited, the heroic conduct displayed by American soldiers, sailors and marines at home and abroad, constitute a sacred heritage of posterity, the worth of which can never be recompensed from the Treasury and the glory of which must not be diminished.

The Democratic Administration wisely established a War Risk Insurance Bureau, giving four and a half millions of enlisted men insurance at unprecedentedly low rates and through the medium of which compensation of men and women injured in service is readily adjusted, and hospital facilities for those whose health is impaired are abundantly afforded.

The Federal Board for Vocational Education should be made a part of the War Risk Insurance Bureau, in order that the task may be treated as a whole, and this machinery of protection and assistance must receive every aid of law and appropriation necessary to full and effective operation.

We believe that no higher or more valued privilege can be afforded to an American citizen than to become a freeholder in the soil of the United States and to that end we pledge our party to the enactment of soldier settlements and home aid legislation which will afford to the men who fought for America the opportunity to become land and home owners under conditions affording genuine Government assistance unencumbered by needless difficulties of red tape or advance financial investment.

The Railroads

The railroads were subjected to Federal control as a war measure without other idea than the swift transport of troops, munitions and supplies. When human life and national hopes were at stake profits could not be considered and were not. Federal operation, however, was marked by an intelligence and efficiency that minimized loss and resulted in many and marked reforms. The equipment taken over was not only grossly inadequate, but shamefully outworn. Unification practices overcame these initial handicaps and provided additions, betterments and improvements. Economies enabled operation without the rate raises that private control would have found necessary, and labor was treated with an exact justice that secured the enthusiastic cooperation that victory demanded. The fundamental purpose of Federal control was achieved fully and splendidly, and at far less cost to the taxpayer than would have been the case under private operation. Investments in railroad properties were not only saved by Government operation, but Government management returned these properties vastly improved in every physical and executive detail. A great task was greatly discharged.

The President's recommendation of return to private ownership gave the Republican majority a full year in which to enact the necessary legislation. The House took six months to formulate its ideas, and another six months was consumed by the Republican Senate in equally vague debate. As a consequence, the Esch-Cummins bill went to the President in the closing hours of the time limit prescribed, and he was forced to a choice between the chaos of a veto and acquiescence in the measure submitted however grave may have been his objections to it.

There should be a fair and complete test of the law and until careful and mature action by Congress may cure its defects and insure a thoroughly effective transportation system under private ownership without Government subsidy at the expense of the taxpayers of the country.

Improved Highways

Improved roads are of vital importance not only to commerce and industry, but also to agriculture and rural life. The Federal Road Act of 1916, enacted by a Democratic Congress, represented the first systematic effort of the Government to insure the building of an adequate system of roads in this country. The act, as amended, has resulted in placing the movement for improved highways on a progressive and substantial basis in every State in the Union and in bringing under actual construction more than 13,000 miles of roads suited to the traffic needs of the communities in which they are located.

We favor a continuance of the present Federal aid plan under existing Federal and State agencies amended so as to include as one of the elements in determining the ratio in which the several states shall be entitled to share in the fund, the area of any public lands therein.

Inasmuch as the postal service has been extended by the Democratic Party to the door of practically every producer and every consumer in the country (rural free delivery alone having been provided for 6,000,000 additional patrons within the past eight years without material added cost), we declare that this instrumentality can and will be used to the maximum of its capacity to improve the efficiency of distribution and reduce the cost of living to consumers while increasing the profitable operations of producers.

We strongly favor the increased use of the motor vehicle in the transportation of the mails and urge the removal of the restrictions imposed by the Republican Congress on the use of motor devices in mail transportation in rural territories.

Merchant Marine

We desire to congratulate the American people upon the re-birth of our Merchant Marine which once more maintains its former place in the world. It was under a Democratic Administration that this was accomplished after seventy years of indifference and neglect, thirteen million tons having been constructed since the act was passed in 1916. We pledge the policy of our party to the continued growth of our Merchant Marine under proper legislation so that American products will be carried to all ports of the world by vessels built in American yards, flying the American Flag.

Port Facilities

The urgent demands of the war for adequate transportation of war material as well as for domestic need, revealed the fact that our port facilities and rate adjustment were such as to seriously affect the whole country in times of peace as well as war.

We pledge our party to stand for equality of rates, both import and export, for the ports of the country, to the end that there may be adequate and fair facilities and rates for the mobilization of the products of the country offered for shipment.

Inland Waterways

We call attention to the failure of the Republican National Convention to recognize in any way the rapid development of barge transportation on our inland waterways, which development is the result of the constructive policies of the Democratic administration. And we pledge ourselves to the further development of adequate transportation facilities on our rivers and to the further improvement of our inland waterways; and we recognize the importance of connecting the Great Lakes with the sea by way of the Mississippi River and its tributaries, as well as by the St. Lawrence River. We favor an enterprising Foreign Trade Policy with all nations, and in this connection we favor the full utilization of all Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Ports, and an equitable distribution of shipping facilities between the various ports.

Transportation remains an increasingly vital problem in the continued development and prosperity of the Nation.

Our present facilities for distribution by rail are inadequate and the promotion of transportation by water is imperative.

We therefore favor a liberal and comprehensive policy for development and utilization of our harbors and interior waterways.

Flood Control

We commend the Democratic Congress for the redemption of the pledge contained in our last platform by the passage of the Flood Control Act of March 1, 1917, and point to the successful control of floods of the Mississippi River and the Sacramento River, California, under the policy of that law, for its complete justification. We favor the extension of this policy to other flood control problems wherever the federal interest involved justifies the expenditure required.

Reclamation of Arid Lands

By wise legislation and progressive administration, we have transformed the Government reclamation projects, representing an investment of $100,000,000, from a condition of impending failure and loss of confidence in the ability of the Government to carry through such large enterprises, to a condition of demonstrated success, whereby formerly arid and wholly unproductive lands now sustain 40,000 prosperous families and have an annual crop production of over $70,000,000, not including the crops grown on a million acres outside the projects supplied with storage water from Government works.

We favor ample appropriations for the continuation and extension of this great work of home-building and internal improvement along the same general lines, to the end that all practical projects shall be built, and waters now running to waste shall be made to provide homes and add to the food supply, power resources, and taxable property, with the Government ultimately reimbursed for the entire outlay.

The Trade Commission

The Democratic Party heartily endorses the creation and work of the Federal Trade Commission in establishing a fair field for competitive business, free from restraints of trade and monopoly, and recommends amplification of the statutes governing its activities so as to grant it authority to prevent the unfair use of patents in restraint of trade.

Live Stock Markets

For the purpose of insuring just and fair treatment in the great interstate live stock market, and thus instilling confidence in growers through which production will be stimulated and the price of meats to consumers be ultimately reduced, we favor the enactment of legislation for the supervision of such markets by the national Government.

Mexico

The United States is the neighbor and friend of the nations of the three Americas. In a very special sense, our international relations in this hemisphere should be characterized by good will and free from any possible suspicion as to our national purpose.

The Administration, remembering always that Mexico is an independent nation and that permanent stability in her government and her institutions could only come from the consent of her own people to a government of their own making, has been unwilling either to profit by the misfortunes of the people of Mexico or to enfeeble their future by imposing from the outside a rule upon their temporarily distracted councils. As a consequence, order is gradually reappearing in Mexico; at no time in many years have American lives and interests been so safe as they now are; peace reigns along the border and industry is resuming.

When the new Government of Mexico shall have given ample proof of its ability permanently to maintain law and order, signified its willingness to meet its international obligations and written upon its statute books just laws under which foreign investors shall have rights as well as duties, that Government should receive our recognition and sympathetic assistance. Until these proper expectations have been met, Mexico must realize the propriety of a policy that asserts the right of the United States to demand full protection for its citizens.

Petroleum

The Democratic Party recognizes the importance of the acquisition by Americans of additional sources of supply of petroleum and other minerals and declares that such acquisition both at home and abroad should be fostered and encouraged. We urge such action, legislative and executive, as may secure to American citizens the same rights in the acquirement of mining rights in foreign countries as are enjoyed by the citizens or subjects of any other nation.

New Nations

The Democratic Party expresses its active sympathy with the people of China, Czecho-Slovakia, Finland, Jugo-Slavia, Poland, Persia and others who have recently established representative government and who are striving to develop the institutions of true Democracy.

Ireland

The great principle of national self-determination has received constant reiteration as one of the chief objectives for which this country entered the war and victory established this principle.

Within the limitations of international comity and usage, this Convention repeats the several previous expressions of the sympathy of the Democratic Party of the United States for the aspirations of Ireland for self-government.

Armenia

We express our deep and earnest sympathy for the unfortunate people of Armenia, and we believe that our government, consistent with its constitution and principles, should render every possible and proper aid to them in their efforts to establish and maintain a government of their own.

The Philippines

We favor the granting of independence without unnecessary delay to the 10,500,000 inhabitants of the Philippine Islands.

Hawaii

We favor a liberal policy of homesteading public lands in Hawaii to promote a larger middle-class citizen population, with equal rights to all citizens.

The importance of Hawaii as an outpost on the Western Frontier of the United States demands adequate appropriations by Congress for the development of our harbors and highways there.

Porto Rico

We favor granting to the people of Porta Rico the traditional territorial form of government, with a view to ultimate statehood, accorded to all territories of the United States since the beginning of our government, and we believe that the officials appointed to administer the government of such territories should be qualified by previous bona fide residence therein.

Alaska

We commend the Democratic Administration for inaugurating a new policy as to Alaska as evidenced by the construction of the Alaska railroad and opening of the coal and oil fields.

We declare for the modification of the existing coal land law, to promote development without disturbing the features intended to prevent monopoly.

For such changes in the policy of forestry control as will permit the immediate initiation of the paper pulp industry.

For relieving the territory from the evils of long-distance government by arbitrary and interlocking bureaucratic regulation, and to that end we urge the speedy passage of a law containing the essential features of the Lane-Curry bill now pending co-ordinating and consolidating all federal control of natural resources under one department to be administered by a non-partisan board permanently resident in the territory.

For the fullest measure of territorial self-government with the view to ultimate statehood, with jurisdiction over all matters not of purely federal concern, including fisheries and game, and for an intelligent administration or federal control we believe that all officials appointed should be qualified by previous bona fide residence in the territory.

For a comprehensive system of road construction with increased appropriations and the full extension of the Federal Road Aid Act to Alaska.

For the extension to Alaska of the Federal Farm Loan Act.

Asiatic Immigrants

The policy of the United States with reference to the non-admission of Asiatic immigrants is a true expression of the judgment of our people, and to the several states whose geographical situation or internal conditions make this policy and the enforcement of the laws enacted pursuant thereto of particular concern, we pledge our support.

The Postal Service

The efficiency of the Post Office Department has been vindicated against a malicious and resigning assault by the efficiency of its operation. Its record refutes its assailants. Their voices are silenced and their charges have collapsed.

We commend the work of the Joint Commission on the Re-classification of Salaries of Postal Employees, recently concluded, which Commission was created by a Democratic administration. The Democratic Party has always favored and will continue to favor the fair and just treatment of all Government employees.

Free Speech and Press

We resent the unfounded reproaches directed against the Democratic Administration for alleged interference with the freedom of the press and freedom of speech.

No utterance from any quarter has been assailed, and no publication has been repressed which has not been animated by treasonable purpose, and directed against the nation's peace, order and security in time of war.

We reaffirm our respect for the great principles of free speech and a free press, but assert as an indisputable proposition that they afford no toleration of enemy propaganda or the advocacy of the overthrow of the Government of the state or nation by force or violence.

Republican Corruption

The shocking disclosure of the lavish use of money by aspirants for the Republican nomination for the highest office in the gift of the people has created a painful impression throughout the country. Viewed in connection with the recent conviction of a Republican Senator from the State of Michigan for the criminal transgression of the law limiting expenditures on behalf of a candidate for the United States Senate, it indicates the re-entry, under Republican auspices, of money as an influential factor in elections, thus nullifying the latter and flaunting the spirit of numerous laws, enacted by the people, to protect the ballot from the contamination of corrupt practices. We deplore these delinquencies and invoke their stern popular rebuke, pledging our earnest efforts to a strengthening of the present statutes against corrupt practices, and their rigorous enforcement.

We remind the people that it was only by the return of a Republican Senator in Michigan, who is now under conviction and sentence for the criminal misuse of money in his election, that the present organization of the Senate with a Republican majority was made possible.

Conclusion

Believing that we have kept the Democratic faith and resting our claims to the confidence of the people not upon grandiose promises, but upon the solid performances of our party, we submit our record to the nation's consideration and ask that the pledges of this platform be appraised in the light of that record.

NATIONAL PROHIBITION PLATFORM

The Prohibition Party assembled in National Convention in the city of Lincoln, Nebraska, on this twenty-second day of July, 1920, expresses its thanks to Almighty God for the victory over the beverage liquor traffic which crowns fifty years of consecrated effort. The principles which we have advocated throughout our history have been so far recognized that the manufacture and traffic in intoxicating drink have been forever prohibited in the fundamental law of the land; Congress has rightly interpreted the Eighteenth Amendment in laws enacted for its enforcement; and the Supreme Court has upheld both the Amendment and the law.

Asking that it be clothed with governmental power, the Prohibition Party challenges the attention of the Nation and requests the votes of the people on this Declaration of Principles.

Nullification Condemned

The organized liquor traffic is engaged in a treasonable attempt to nullify the Amendment by such modification of the enforcement act as will increase the alcoholic content in beer and wine and thus thwart the will of the people as constitutionally expressed.

In the face of this open threat the Republican and Democratic parties refused to make platform declarations in favor of law enforcement, though petitioned so to do by multitudes of people. Thus the Prohibition Party remains the sole political champion of National Prohibition.

The Prohibition Party in its platform in 1872 declared: "There can be no greater peril to the nation than the existing party competition for the liquor vote; any part not openly opposed to the traffic, experience shows, will engage in this competition, will court the favor of the criminal classes, will barter away the public morals, the purity of the ballot, and every object of good government for party success." Notwithstanding the liquor traffic is now outlawed by the Constitution this fitly describes the present political attitude of the old parties.

The issue is not only the enforcement but also the maintenance of the law to make the Amendment effective.

The proposed increase in the alcoholic content of beverages would be fraught with grave danger in that it would mean the return of the open saloon with all its attendant evils.

The League of Nations

The League of Nations is now in existence and is functioning in world affairs. We favor the entrance of the United States into the League by the immediate ratification of the treaty of peace, not objecting to reasonable reservations interpreting American understanding of the covenant. The time is past when the United States can hold aloof from the affairs of the world. Such course is short-sighted and only invites disaster.

Peace

We stand for a constitutional amendment providing that treaties of peace shall be ratified by a majority of both Houses of Congress.

We stand by our declaration of 1916 against militarism and universal military training. Without it our boys were in a short time trained to whip the greatest army ever assembled and with national prohibition to make sure the most virile manhood in the world we should encourage universal disarmament and devotion to the acts of peace.

Education

We stand for compulsory education with instruction in the English language, which, if given in private or parochial schools must be equivalent to that afforded by the public schools, and be under state supervision.

Suffrage

The Prohibition Party has long advocated the enfranchisement of women. Suffrage should not be conditioned upon sex. We congratulate the women upon the freedom which the Party has helped them to achieve.

Women and the Home

We approve and adopt the program of the National League of Women Voters providing for:

- The prohibition of child labor;
- Adequate appropriation for the Children's Bureau;
- Protection for infant life through a federal program for maternity and infancy care;
- A Federal department of education, Federal aid for the removal of illiteracy and the increase of teacher's salaries;
- Instruction of the youth and the newcomer to our shores in the duties and ideals of citizenship;
- Vocational training in home economics;
- Federal supervision of the marketing and distribution of food, the enactment and enforcement of such measures as will open the channels of our trade, prevent excess profits, and eliminate unfair competition and control of the necessities of life;
- The establishment of a Woman's Bureau in the Department of Labor to determine the standards and policies which will improve working conditions for women and increase their efficiency;
- The appointment of women in the mediation and conciliation service and on any industrial commissions and tribunals which may be created;
- The establishment of a joint Federal and State employment service with women's departments under the direction of qualified women;
- The merit system in the Civil Service free from discrimination on account of sex with a wage scale determined by skill demanded for the work and in no wise below the cost of living as established by official investigation;

Appropriation to carry on a campaign against venereal diseases and for public education in sex hygiene;
 Federal legislation permitting an American born woman to retain her citizenship while resident in the United States though married to an alien;
 And further, that an alien woman who marries an American citizen must take the obligation of citizenship before she can become a citizen.

Economy in Administration

We believe in the Budget system, and we stand for economy in governmental administration. There should be a reduction in boards, committees, commissions and offices which consume taxes and increase expenses.

Profiteering

We stand for Industrial Peace. We believe the time has come for the government to assume responsibility for the protection of the public against the waste and terror of industrial warfare, and to that end we demand legislation defining the rights of labor and the creation of industrial courts, which will guarantee to labor and employing capital equal and exact justice, and to the general public protection against the paralysis of industry due to this warfare.

Labor and Industry

The Prohibition Party pledges the nation to rid it of the profiteer and to close the door against his return. It will endeavor to eliminate all unnecessary middlemen by the encouragement of organizations among producers that will bring those who sell and those who use nearer together. It will enact and enforce laws needful to effectively prevent excessive charges by such middlemen. To this end it will demand legislation subjecting to the penalties of the criminal law all corporate officers and will make it unlawful for anyone engaged in Interstate Commerce to make the sale of one article dependent upon the purchase of another article and it will require such corporation to disclose to customers the difference between cost price and selling price or limit the profit that can be legally charged as the rate of interest is now limited.

Agriculture

We pledge our aid to the farmer in working out a plan to equalize prices, to secure labor, and to organize a system of co-operative marketing, including public terminals, mills and storage for the purpose of encouraging agriculture and securing for the farmer such return as will tend to increase production.

We favor such extension of the parcel post as will further facilitate the direct traffic between the producer and consumer.

Presidential Qualifications

The qualifications for President stated in the Constitution have to do with age and citizenship. We call attention to the fact that of greater importance are those not so stated referring to moral, intellectual and spiritual endowments. The President of the United States in his daily life, his home and family relationships and in his official career is expected to typify the finest and best the country can produce. He is the leader of the nation. The moral force and power of his example are immeasurable. No man or woman should ever be elected to the high office who is out of harmony with the purposes of the people or who lacks sympathy with their highest and holiest ideals, and with the Christian principles upon which the nation was founded.

Law and Order

A crying evil of the day is the general lax enforcement of law. Without obedience to law and maintenance of order our American institutions must perish.

The Prohibition Party now, as ever, pledges impartial enforcement of all law.

Conclusion

In this national and world crisis the Prohibition Party reminds the people of its long time faithfulness and its wisdom, proved by the many reforms which it was the first to advocate; and on its record as the oldest minority party—one which has never sold its birthright for a mess of pottage, but throughout the years has stood for the best interests of the country—it asks the favorable consideration of the voters, believing that by its support they can make it necessary for all political organizations to come up to a higher level and to render a finer quality of service.

It pledges itself resolutely to stand for the right and oppose the wrong and dauntlessly to lead in the advocacy of righteous and patriotic principles. On its record and on this Declaration of Principles it submits its case to the American people.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM 1920

The Republican party, assembled in representative national convention, reaffirms its unyielding devotion to the Constitution of the United States, and to the guarantees of civil, political and religious liberty therein contained. It will resist all attempts to overthrow the foundations of the government or to weaken the force of its controlling principles and ideals, whether these attempts be made in the form of international policy or domestic agitation.

For seven years the national government has been controlled by the Democratic party. During that period a war of unparalleled magnitude has shaken the foundations of civilization, decimated the population of Europe, and left in its train economic misery and suffering second only to the war itself.

The outstanding features of the Democratic administration have been complete unpreparedness for war and complete unpreparedness for peace.

Unpreparedness for War

Inexcusable failure to make timely preparation is the chief indictment against the Democratic administration in the conduct of the war. Had not our associates protected us, both on land and sea, during the first twelve months of our participation and furnished us to the very day of the Armistice with munitions, planes and artillery, this failure would have been punished with disaster. It directly resulted in unnecessary losses to our gallant troops, in the imperilment of victory itself, and in an enormous waste of public funds literally poured into the breach created by gross neglect. Today it is reflected in our huge tax burden and in the high cost of living.

Unpreparedness for Peace

Peace found the Administration as unprepared for peace as war found it unprepared for war. The vital needs of the country demanded the early and systematic return to a peace-time basis.

This called for vision, leadership and intelligent planning. All three have been lacking. While the country has been left to shift for itself, the Government has continued on a war-time basis. The Administration has not demobilized the army of place holders. It continued a method of financing which was indefensible during the period of reconstruction. It has used legislation passed to meet the emergency of war to continue its arbitrary and inquisitorial control over the life of the people in time of peace, and to carry confusion into industrial life. Under the despot's plea of necessity or superior wisdom, executive usurpation of legislative and judicial functions still undermines our institutions. Eighteen months after the Armistice, with its war-time powers unabridged, its war-time departments undischarged, its war-time army of place holders still mobilized, the Administration continues to flounder helplessly.

The demonstrated incapacity of the Democratic party has destroyed public confidence, weakened the authority of the government, and produced a feeling of distrust and hesitation so universal as to increase enormously the difficulties of readjustment and to delay the return to normal conditions.

Never has our nation been confronted with graver problems. The people are entitled to know in definite terms how the parties purpose solving these problems. To that end, the Republican party declares its policies and program to be as follows:

Constitutional Government

We undertake to end executive autocracy and to restore to the people their constitutional government.

The policies herein declared will be carried out by the federal and state governments, each acting within its constitutional powers.

Foreign Relations

The foreign policy of the Administration has been founded upon no principle and directed by no definite conception of our nation's rights and obligations. It has been humiliating to America and irritating to other nations, with the result that after a period of unexampled sacrifice, our motives are suspected, our moral influence impaired, and our Government stands discredited and friendless among the nations of the world.

We favor a liberal and generous foreign policy founded upon definite moral and political principles, characterized by a clear understanding of and a firm adherence to our own rights and unflinching respect for the rights of others. We should afford full and adequate protection to the life, liberty, property and all international rights of every American citizen, and should require a proper respect for the American flag; but we should be equally careful to manifest a just regard for the rights of other nations. A scrupulous observance of our international engagements when lawfully assumed is essential to our own honor and self-respect, and the respect of other nations. Subject to a due regard for our international obligations, we should leave our country free to develop its civilization along lines most conducive to the happiness and welfare of its people, and to cast its influence on the side of justice and right should occasion require.

(a) Mexico

The ineffective policy of the present Administration in Mexican matters has been largely responsible for the continued loss of American lives in that country and upon our border; for the enormous loss of American and foreign property; for the lowering of American standards of morality and social relations with Mexicans, and for the bringing of American ideals of justice, national honor and political integrity into contempt and ridicule in Mexico and throughout the world.

The policy of wordy, futile written protests against the acts of Mexican officials, explained the following day by the President himself as being meaningless and not intended to be considered seriously, or enforced, has but added in degree to that contempt, and has earned for us the sneers and jeers of Mexican bandits, and added insult upon insult against our national honor and dignity.

We should not recognize any Mexican government, unless it be a responsible government willing and able to give sufficient guarantees that the lives and property of American citizens are respected and protected; that wrongs will be promptly corrected and just compensation will be made for injury sustained. The Republican party pledges itself to a consistent, firm and effective policy towards Mexico that shall enforce respect for the American flag and that shall protect the rights of American citizens lawfully in Mexico to security of life and enjoyment of property, in accordance with established principles of international law and our treaty rights.

The Republican party is a sincere friend of the Mexican people. In its insistence upon the maintenance of order for the protection of American citizens within its borders a great service will be rendered the Mexican people themselves; for a continuation of present conditions means disaster to their interests and patriotic aspirations.

(b) Mandate for Armenia

We condemn President Wilson for asking Congress to empower him to accept a mandate for Armenia. We commend the Republican Senate for refusing the President's request to empower him to accept the mandate for Armenia. The acceptance of such mandate would throw the United States into the very maelstrom of European quarrels. According to the estimate of the Harbord Commission, organized by authority of President Wilson, we would be called upon to send 59,000 American boys to police Armenia and to expend $276,000,000 in the first year and $756,000,000 in five years. This estimate is made upon the basis that we would have only roving bands to fight; but in case of serious trouble with the Turks or with Russia, a force exceeding 200,000 would be necessary.

No more striking illustration can be found of President Wilson's disregard of the lives of American boys or of American interests.

We deeply sympathize with the people of Armenia and stand ready to help them in all proper ways, but the Republican party will oppose now and hereafter the acceptance of a mandate for any country in Europe or Asia.

(c) League of Nations

The Republican party stands for agreement among the nations to preserve the peace of the world. We believe that such an international association must be based upon international justice, and must provide methods which shall maintain the rule of public right by the development of law and the decision of impartial courts, and which shall secure instant and general international conference whenever peace shall be threatened by political action, so that the nations pledged to do and insist upon what is just and fair may exercise their influence and power for the prevention of war.

We believe that all this can be done without the compromise of national independence, without depriving the people of the United States in advance of the right to determine for themselves what is just and fair when the occasion arises, and without involving them as participants and not as peace-makers in a multitude of quarrels, the merits of which they are unable to judge.

The covenant signed by the President at Paris fails signally to accomplish this great purpose, and contains stipulations, not only intolerable for an independent people, but certain to produce the injustice, hostility and controversy among nations which it proposed to prevent.

That covenant repudiated to a degree wholly unnecessary and unjustifiable, the time-honored policies in favor of peace declared by Washington, Jefferson, and Monroe, and pursued by all American administrations for more than a century, and it ignored the universal sentiment of America for generations past in favor of international law and arbitration, and it rested the hope of the future upon mere expediency and negotiation.

The unfortunate insistence of the President upon having his own way, without any change and without any regard to the opinions of a majority of the Senate, which shares with him in the treaty-making power, and the President's demand that the Treaty should be ratified without any modification, created a situation in which Senators were required to vote upon their consciences and their oaths according to their judgment against the Treaty as it was presented, or submit to the commands of a dictator in a matter where the authority and the responsibility under the Constitution were theirs, and not his.

The Senators performed their duty faithfully. We approve their conduct and honor their courage and fidelity. And we pledge the coming republican administration to such agreements with the other nations of the world as shall meet the full duty of America to civilization and humanity, in accordance to American ideals, and without surrendering the right of the American people to exercise its judgment and its power in favor of justice and peace.

Congress and Reconstruction

Despite the unconstitutional and dictatorial course of the President and the partisan obstruction of the Democratic Congressional minority, the Republican majority has enacted a program of constructive legislation which in great part, however, has been nullified by the vindictive vetoes of the President.

The Republican Congress has met the problems presented by the Administration's unpreparedness for peace. It has repealed the greater part of the vexatious war legislation. It has enacted a Transportation Act making possible the rehabilitation of the railroad systems of the country, the operation of which under the present Democratic Administration, has been wasteful, extravagant and inefficient in the highest degree. The Transportation Act made provision for the peaceful settlement of wage disputes, partly nullified, however, by the President's delay in appointing the Wage Board created by the act. This delay precipitated the outlaw railroad strike.

We stopped the flood of public treasure, recklessly poured into the lap of an inept Shipping Board, and laid the foundations for the creation of a great merchant marine; we took from the incompetent Democratic Administration the administration of the telegraph and telephone lines of the country and returned them to private ownership; we reduced the cost of postage and increased the pay of the postal employes—the poorest paid of public servants; we provided pensions for superannuated and retired civil servants; and for an increase in pay of soldiers and sailors. We reorganized the Army on a peace footing, and provided for the maintenance of a powerful and efficient Navy.

The Republican Congress established by law a permanent Woman's Bureau in the Department of Labor; we submitted to the country the constitutional amendment for woman suffrage, and furnished twenty-nine of the thirty-five legislatures which have ratified it to date.

Legislation for the relief of the consumers of print paper, for the extension of the powers of the government under the Food Control Act, for broadening the scope of the War Risk Insurance Act, better provision for the dwindling number of aged veterans of the Civil War and for the better support of the maimed and injured of the Great War, and for making practical the Vocational Rehabilitation Act, has been enacted by the Republican Congress.

We passed an oil leasing and water power bill to unlock for the public good the great pent-up resources of the country; we have sought to check the profligacy of the Administration, to realize upon the assets of the government and to husband the revenues derived from taxation. The Republicans in Congress have been responsible for cuts in the estimates for government expenditures of nearly $3,000,000,000, since the signing of the Armistice.

We enacted a national executive budget law; we strengthened the Federal Reserve Act to permit banks to lend needed assistance to farmers; we authorized financial incorporations to develop export trade; and finally, amended the rules of the Senate and House, which will reform evils in procedure and guarantee more efficient and responsible government.

Agriculture

The farmer is the backbone of the nation. National greatness and economic independence demand a population distributed between industry and the farm, and sharing on equal terms the prosperity which is wholly dependent upon the efforts of both. Neither can prosper at the expense of the other without inviting joint disaster.

The crux of the present agricultural condition lies in prices, labor and credit.

The Republican party believes that this condition can be improved by: practical and adequate farm representation in the appointment of governmental officials and commissions; the right to form co-operative associations for marketing their products, and protection against discrimination; the scientific study of agricultural prices and farm production costs, at home and abroad, with a view to reducing the frequency of abnormal fluctuations; the uncensored publication of such reports; the authorization of associations for the extension of personal credit; a national inquiry on the co-ordination of rail, water and motor transportation with adequate facilities for receiving, handling and marketing food; the encouragement of our export trade; an end to unnecessary price-fixing and ill considered efforts arbitrarily to reduce prices of farm products which invariably result to the disadvantage both of producer and consumer; and the encouragement of the production and importation of fertilizing material and of its extensive use.

The Federal Farm Loan Act should be so administered as to facilitate the acquisition of farm land by those desiring to become owners and proprietors and thus minimize the evils of farm tenantry, and to furnish such long time credits as farmers may need to finance adequately their larger and long time production operations.

Industrial Relations

There are two different conceptions of the relations of capital and labor. The one is contractual and emphasizes the diversity of interests of employer and employee. The other is that of co-partnership in a common task.

We recognize the justice of collective bargaining as a means of promoting good will, establishing closer and more harmonious relations between employers and employees, and realizing the true ends of industrial justice.

The strike or the lockout, as a means of settling industrial disputes, inflicts such loss and suffering on the community as to justify government initiative to reduce its frequency and limit its consequences.

We deny the right to strike against the government; but the rights and interests of all government employees must be safeguarded by impartial laws and tribunals.

In public utilities we favor the establishment of an impartial tribunal to make an investigation of the facts and to render a decision to the end that there may be no organized interruption of service necessary to the lives, health and welfare of the people. The decisions of the tribunals should be morally but not legally binding, and an informed public sentiment be relied on to secure their acceptance. The tribunals, however, should refuse to accept jurisdiction except for the purpose of investigation, as long as the public service be interrupted. For public utilities we favor the type of tribunal provided for in the Transportation Act of 1920.

In private industries we do not advocate the principle of compulsory arbitration, but we favor impartial commissions and better facilities for voluntary mediation, conciliation and arbitration, supplemented by that full publicity which will enlist the influence of an aroused public opinion. The Government should take the initiative in inviting the establishment of tribunals or commissions for the purpose of voluntary arbitration and of investigation of disputed issues.

We demand the exclusion from interstate commerce of the products of convict labor.

National Economy

A Republican Congress reduced the estimates submitted by the Administration almost three billion dollars. Greater economies could have been effected had it not been for the stubborn refusal of the Administration to co-operate with Congress in an economy program. The universal demand for an executive budget is a recognition of the incontrovertible fact that that leadership and sincere assistance on the part of the executive departments are essential to effective economy and constructive retrenchment.

The Overman Act invested the President of the United States with all the authority and power necessary to restore the Federal Government to a normal peace basis and to reorganize, retrench and demobilize. The dominant fact is that eighteen months after the Armistice, the United States Government is still on a war-time basis, and the expenditure program of the Executive reflects war-time extravagance rather than rigid peace-time economy.

As an example of the failure to retrench which has characterized the post-war policy of the Administration, we cite the fact that not including the War and Navy Departments, the executive departments and other establishments at Washington actually record an increase subsequent to the Armistice of 2184 employees. The net decrease in pay-roll costs contained in the 1921 demands submitted by the Administration is only one per cent under that of 1920. The annual expenses of the Federal Government can be reduced hundreds of millions of dollars without impairing the efficiency of the public service.

We pledge ourselves to a carefully planned readjustment to a peace-time basis and to a policy of rigid economy, to the better co-ordination of departmental activities, to the elimination of unnecessary officials and employees, and to the raising of the standard of individual efficiency.

The Executive Budget

We congratulate the Republican Congress on the enactment of a law providing for the establishment of an Executive Budget as a necessary instrument for a sound and business-like administration of the national finances; and we condemn the veto of the President which defeated this great financial reform.

Reorganization of Federal Departments and Bureaus

We advocate a thorough investigation of the present organization of the Federal departments and bureaus, with a view to securing consolidation, a more business-like distribution of functions, the elimination of duplication, delays and over-lapping of work, and the establishment of an up-to-date and efficient administrative organization.

War Powers of the President

The President clings tenaciously to his autocratic war time powers. His veto of the Resolution declaring peace and his refusal to sign the bill repealing war-time legislation, no longer necessary, evidence his determination not to restore to the Nation and to the States the form of government provided for by the Constitution. This usurpation is intolerable and deserves the severest condemnation.

Taxation

The burden of taxation imposed upon the American people is staggering; but in presenting a true statement of the situation we must face the fact that, while the character of the taxes can and should be changed, an early reduction of the amount of revenue to be raised is not to be expected. The next Republican administration will inherit from its Democratic predecessor a floating indebtedness of over three billion dollars, the prompt liquidation of which is demanded by sound financial considerations. Moreover, the whole fiscal policy of the Government must be deeply influenced by the necessity of meeting obligations in excess of five billion dollars which mature in 1923. But sound policy equally demands the early accomplishment of that real reduction of the tax burden which may be achieved by substituting simple for complex tax laws and procedure; prompt and certain determination of the tax liability for delay and uncertainty; tax laws which do not, for tax laws which do, excessively mulct the consumer or needlessly repress enterprise and thrift.

We advocate the issuance of a simplified form of income return; authorizing the Treasury Department to make changes in regulations effective only from the date of their approval; empowering the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the consent of the taxpayer, to make final and conclusive settlements of tax claims and assessments barring fraud, and the creation of a Tax Board consisting of at least three representatives of the tax-paying public and the heads of the principal divisions of the Bureau of Internal Revenue to act as a standing committee on the simplification of forms, procedure and law, and to make recommendations to the Congress.

Banking and Currency

The fact is that the war, to a great extent, was financed by a policy of inflation through certificate borrowing from the banks, and bonds issued at artificial rates sustained by the low discount rates established by the Federal Reserve Board. The continuance of this policy since the Armistice lays the Administration open to severe criticism. Almost up to the present time, the practices of the Federal Reserve Board as to credit control have been frankly dominated by the convenience of the Treasury.

The results have been a greatly increased war cost, a serious loss to the millions of people who in good faith bought Liberty Bonds and Victory Notes at par, and extensive post-war speculation, followed today by a restricted credit for legitimate industrial expansion. As a matter of public policy, we urge all banks to give credit preference to essential industries.

The Federal Reserve System should be free from political influence, which is quite as important as its independence of domination by financial combinations.

The High Cost of Living

The prime cause of the "High Cost of Living" has been first and foremost, a fifty per cent depreciation in the purchasing power of the dollar, due to a gross expansion of our currency and credit. Reduced production, burdensome taxation, swollen profits, and the increased demand for goods arising from a fictitious but enlarged buying power have been contributing causes in a greater or less degree.

We condemn the unsound fiscal policies of the Democratic administration which have brought these things to pass, and their attempts to impute the consequences to minor and secondary causes. Much of the injury wrought is irreparable. There is no short way out, and we decline to deceive the people with vain promises or quack remedies. But as the political party that throughout its history has stood for honest money and sound finance, we pledge ourselves to earnest and consistent attack upon the high cost of living by rigorous avoidance of further inflation in our government borrowing, by courageous and intelligent deflation of over-expanded credit and currency, by encouragement of heightened production of goods and services, by prevention of unreasonable profits, by exercise of public economy and stimulation of private thrift and by revision of war imposed taxes unsuited to peace-time economy.

Profiteering

We condemn the Democratic administration for failure impartially to enforce the anti-profiteering laws enacted by the Republican Congress.

Railroads

We are opposed to government ownership and operation or employee operation of the railroads. In view of the conditions prevailing in this country, the experience of the last two years, and the conclusions which may fairly be drawn from an observation of the transportation systems of other countries, it is clear that adequate transportation service both for the present and future can be furnished more certainly, economically and efficiently through private ownership and operation under proper regulation and control.

There should be no speculative profit in rendering the service of transportation; but in order to do justice to the capital already invested in railway enterprises, to restore railway credit, to induce future investment at a reasonable rate, and to furnish enlarged facilities to meet the requirements of the constantly increasing development and distribution, a fair return upon actual value of the railway property used in transportation should be made reasonably sure, and at the same time provide constant employment to those engaged in transportation service, with fair hours and favorable working conditions, at wages or compensation at least equal to those prevailing in similar lines of industry.

We endorse the Transportation Act of 1920 enacted by the Republican Congress as a most constructive legislative achievement.

Waterways

We declare it to be our policy to encourage and develop water transportation service and facilities in connection with the commerce of the United States.

Regulation of Industry and Commerce

We approve in general the existing Federal legislation against monopoly and combinations in restraint of trade, but since the known certainty of a law is the safety of all, we advocate such amendment as will provide American business men with better means of determining in advance whether a proposed combination is or is not unlawful. The Federal Trade Commission, under a Democratic administration, has not accomplished the purpose for which it was created. This Commission properly organized and its duties efficiently administered should afford protection to the public and legitimate business interests. There should be no persecution of honest business, but to the extent that circumstances warrant we pledge ourselves to strengthen the law against unfair practices.

We pledge the party to an immediate resumption of trade relations with every nation with which we are at peace.

International Trade and Tariff

The uncertain and unsettled condition of international balances, the abnormal economic and trade situation of the world, and the impossibility of forecasting accurately even the near future, preclude the formulation of a definite program to meet conditions a year hence. But the Republican party reaffirms its belief in the protective principle and pledges itself to a revision of the tariff as soon as conditions shall make it necessary for the preservation of the home market for American labor, agriculture and industry.

Merchant Marine

The national defense and our foreign commerce require a merchant marine of the best type of modern ship flying the American flag, manned by American seamen, owned by private capital, and operated by private energy. We endorse the sound legislation recently enacted by the Republican Congress that will insure the promotion and maintenance of the American merchant marine.

We favor the application of the Workmen's Compensation Acts to the merchant marine.

We recommend that all ships engaged in coastwise trade and all vessels of the American merchant marine shall pass through the Panama Canal without payment of tolls.

Immigration

The standard of living and the standard of citizenship of a nation are its most precious possessions, and the preservation and elevation of those standards is the first duty of our government. The immigration policy of the United States should be such as to insure that the number of foreigners in the country at any time shall not exceed that which can be assimilated with reasonable rapidity, and to favor immigrants whose standards are similar to ours.

The selective tests that are at present applied should be improved by requiring a higher physical standard, a more complete exclusion of mental defectives and of criminals, and a more effective inspection applied as near the source of immigration as possible, as well as at the port of entry. Justice to the foreigner and to ourselves demands provision for the guidance, protection and better economic distribution of our alien population. To facilitate government supervision, all aliens should be required to register annually until they become naturalized.

The existing policy of the United States for the practical exclusion of Asiatic immigrants is sound, and should be maintained.

Naturalization

There is urgent need of improvement in our naturalization law. No alien should become a citizen until he has become genuinely American, and adequate tests for determining the alien's fitness for American citizenship should be provided for by law.

We advocate, in addition, the independent naturalization of married women. An American woman, resident in the United States, should not lose her citizenship by marriage to an alien.

Free Speech and Alien Agitation

We demand that every American citizen shall enjoy the ancient and constitutional right of free speech, free press and free assembly and the no less sacred right of the qualified voter to be represented by his duly chosen representatives; but no man may advocate resistance to the law, and no man may advocate violent overthrow of the government.

Aliens within the jurisdiction of the United States are not entitled of right to liberty of agitation directed against the government or American institutions.

Every government has the power to exclude and deport those aliens who constitute a real menace to its peaceful existence. But in view of the large numbers of people affected by the immigration acts and in view of the vigorous malpractice of the Departments of Justice and Labor, an adequate public hearing before a competent administrative tribunal should be assured to all.

Lynching

We urge Congress to consider the most effective means to end lynching in this country which continues to be a terrible blot on our American civilization.

Public Roads and Highways

We favor liberal appropriations in co-operation with the States for the construction of highways, which will bring about a reduction in transportation costs, better marketing of farm products, improvement in rural postal delivery, as well as meet the needs of military defense.

In determining the proportion of Federal aid for road construction among the States, the sums lost in taxation to the respective States by the setting apart of large portions of their area as forest reservations should be considered as a controlling factor.

Conservation

Conservation is a Republican policy. It began with the passage of the Reclamation Act signed by President Roosevelt. The recent passage of the coal, oil and phosphate leasing act by a Republican Congress and the enactment of the waterpower bill fashioned in accordance with the same principle, are consistent landmarks in the development of the conservation of our national resources. We denounce the refusal of the President to sign the waterpower bill, passed after ten years of controversy. The Republican party has taken an especially honorable part in saving our national forests and in the effort to establish a national forest policy. Our most pressing conservation question relates to our forests. We are using our forest resources faster than they are being renewed. The result is to raise unduly the cost of forest products to consumers and especially farmers, who use more than half the lumber produced in America, and in the end to create a timber famine. The Federal Government, the States and private interests must unite in devising means to meet the menace.

Reclamation

We favor a fixed and comprehensive policy of reclamation to increase national wealth and production.

We recognize in the development of reclamation through Federal action with its increase of production and taxable wealth a safeguard for the nation.

We commend to Congress a policy to reclaim lands and the establishment of a fixed national policy of development of natural resources in relation to reclamation through the now designated government agencies.

Army and Navy

We feel the deepest pride in the fine courage, the resolute endurance, the gallant spirit of the officers and men of our army and navy in the World War. They were in all ways worthy of the best traditions of the nation's defenders, and we pledge ourselves to proper maintenance of the military and naval establishments upon which our national security and dignity depend.

The Service Men

We hold in imperishable remembrance the valor and the patriotism of the soldiers and sailors of America who fought in the great war for human liberty, and we pledge ourselves to discharge to the fullest the obligations which a grateful nation justly should fulfill, in appreciation of the services rendered by its defenders on sea and on land.

Republicans are not ungrateful. Throughout their history they have shown their gratitude toward the nation's defenders. Liberal legislation for the care of the disabled and infirm and their dependents has ever marked Republican policy toward the soldier and sailor of all the wars in which our country has participated. The present Congress has appropriated generously for the disabled of the World War.

The amounts already applied and authorized for the fiscal year 1920-21 for this purpose reached the stupendous sum of $1,180,571,893. This legislation is significant of the party's purpose in generously caring for the maimed and disabled men of the recent war.

Civil Service

We renew our repeated declaration that the civil service law shall be thoroughly and honestly enforced and extended wherever practicable. The recent action of Congress in enacting a comprehensive civil service retirement law and in working out a comprehensive employment and wage policy that will guarantee equal and just treatment to the army of government workers, and in centralizing the administration of the new and progressive employment policy in the hands of the Civil Service Commission is worthy of all praise.

Postal Service

We condemn the present administration for its destruction of the efficiency of the postal service, and the telegraph and telephone service when controlled by the government and for its failure to properly compensate employees whose expert knowledge is essential to the proper conduct of the affairs of the postal system. We commend the Republican Congress for the enactment of legislation increasing the pay of postal employees, who up to that time were the poorest paid in the government service.

Woman Suffrage

We welcome women into full participation in the affairs of government and the activities of the Republican party. We earnestly hope that Republican legislatures in states which have not yet acted on the Suffrage Amendment will ratify the amendment, to the end that all of the women of the nation of voting age may participate in the election of 1920 which is so important to the welfare of our country.

Social Progress

The supreme duty of the nation is the conservation of human resources through an enlightened measure of social and industrial justice. Although the federal jurisdiction over social problems is limited, they affect the welfare and interest of the nation as a whole. We pledge the Republican party to the solution of these problems through national and state legislation in accordance with the best progressive thought of the country.

Education and Health

We endorse the principle of Federal aid to the States for the purposes of vocational and agricultural training.

Wherever Federal money is devoted to education, such education must be so directed as to awaken in the youth the spirit of America and a sense of patriotic duty to the United States.

A thorough system of physical education for all children up to the age of 19, including adequate health supervision and instruction, would remedy conditions revealed by the draft and would add to the economic and industrial strength of the nation. National leadership and stimulation will be necessary to induce the States to adopt a wise system of physical training.

The public health activities of the Federal government are scattered through numerous departments and bureaus, resulting in inefficiency, duplication and extravagance. We advocate a greater centralization of the Federal functions, and in addition urge the better co-ordination of the work of the Federal, State and local health agencies.

Child Labor

The Republican party stands for a Federal child labor law and for its rigid enforcement. If the present law be found unconstitutional or ineffective, we shall seek other means to enable Congress to prevent the evils of child labor.

Women in Industry

Women have special problems of employment which make necessary special study. We commend Congress for the permanent establishment of the Women's Bureau in the United States Department of Labor to serve as a source of information to the States and to Congress.

The principle of equal pay for equal service should be applied throughout all branches of the Federal government in which women are employed.

Federal aid for vocational training should take into consideration the special aptitudes and needs of women workers.

We demand Federal legislation to limit the hours of employment of women engaged in intensive industry, the product of which enters into interstate commerce.

Housing

The housing shortage has not only compelled careful study of ways of stimulating building, but it has brought into relief the unsatisfactory character of the housing accommodations of large numbers of the inhabitants of our cities. A nation of home owners is the best guaranty of the maintenance of those principles of liberty, law and order upon which our government is founded. Both national and state governments should encourage in all proper ways the acquiring of homes by our citizens. The United States Government should make available the valuable information on housing and town planning collected during the war. This information should be kept up-to-date and made currently available.

Hawaii

For Hawaii we recommend Federal assistance in Americanizing and educating their greatly disproportionate foreign population; home rule; and the rehabilitation of the Hawaiian race.

Pointing to its history and relying on its fundamental principles, we declare that the Republican party has the genius, courage and constructive ability to end executive usurpation and restore constitutional government; to fulfill our world obligations without sacrificing our national independence; to raise the national standards of education, health and general welfare; to re-establish a peace-time administration and to substitute economy and efficiency for extravagance and chaos; to restore and maintain the national credit; to reform unequal and burdensome taxes; to free business from arbitrary and unnecessary official control; to suppress disloyalty without the denial of justice; to repel the arrogant challenge of any class and to maintain a government of all the people as contrasted with government for some of the people, and finally, to allay unrest, suspicion and strife, and to secure the co-operation and unity of all citizens in the solution of the complex problems of the day; to the end that our country, happy and prosperous, proud of its past, sure of itself and of its institutions, may look forward with confidence to the future.

SOCIALIST NATIONAL PLATFORM, 1920

In the national campaign of 1920 the Socialist Party calls upon all American workers of hand and brain, and upon all citizens who believe in political liberty and social justice, to free the country from the oppressive misrule of the old political parties, and to take the government into their own hands under the banner and upon the programme of the Socialist Party. The outgoing administration, like Democratic and Republican administrations of the past, leaves behind it a disgraceful record of solemn pledges unscrupulously broken and public confidence ruthlessly betrayed. It obtained the suffrage of the people on a platform of peace, liberalism and social betterment, but drew the country into a devastating war, and inaugurated a regime of despotism, reaction and oppression unsurpassed in the annals of the republic. It promised to the American people a treaty which would assure to the world a reign of international right and true democracy. It gave its sanction and support to an infamous pact formulated behind closed doors by predatory elder statesmen of European and Asiatic imperialism. Under this pact territories have been annexed against the will of their populations and cut off from their sources of sustenance; nations seeking their freedom in the exercise of the much heralded right of self-determination have been brutally fought with armed force, intrigue and starvation blockades.

To the millions of young men who staked their lives on the field of battle, to the people of the country who gave unstintingly of their toil and property to support the war, the Democratic administration held out the sublime ideal of a union of the peoples of the world organized to maintain perpetual peace among nations on the basis of justice and freedom. It helped create a reactionary alliance of imperialistic governments, banded together to bully weak nations, crush working-class governments and perpetuate strife and warfare. While thus furthering the ends of reaction, violence and oppression abroad, our administration suppressed the cherished and fundamental rights and civil liberties at home. Upon the pretext of war-time necessity, the Chief Executive of the republic and the appointed heads of his administration were clothed with dictatorial powers (which were often exercised arbitrarily), and Congress enacted laws in open and direct violation of the constitutional safeguards of freedom of expression. Hundreds of citizens who raised their voices for the maintenance of political and industrial rights during the war were indicted under the Espionage Law, tried in an atmosphere of prejudice and hysteria, and many of them are now serving inhumanly long jail sentences for daring to uphold the traditions of liberty which once were sacred in this country. Agents of the Federal Government unlawfully raided homes and meeting places and prevented or broke up peaceable gatherings of citizens.

The Postmaster General established a censorship of the press more autocratic than that ever tolerated in a regime of absolutism, and has harassed and destroyed publications on account of their advanced political and economic views, by excluding them from the mails. And after the war was in fact long over, the administration has not scrupled to continue a policy of repression and terrorism under the shadow and hypocritical guise of war-time measures.

It has practically imposed involuntary servitude and peonage on a large class of American workers by denying them the right to quit work and coercing them into acceptance of inadequate wages and onerous conditions of labor. It has dealt a foul blow to the traditional American right of asylum by deporting hundreds of foreign born workers, by administrative order, on the mere suspicion of harboring radical views, and often for the sinister purpose of breaking labor strikes. In the short span of three years our self-styled liberal administration has succeeded in undermining the very foundation of political liberty and economic rights, which this republic has built up in more than a century of struggle and progress. Under the cloak of a false and hypocritical patriotism and under the protection of governmental terror the Democratic administration has given the ruling classes unrestrained license to plunder the people by intensive exploitation of labor, by the extortion of enormous profits, and by increasing the cost of all necessities of life. Profiteering has become reckless and rampant, billions have been coined by the capitalists out of the suffering and misery of their fellow men. The American financial oligarchy has become a dominant factor in the world, while the condition of the American workers has grown more precarious. The responsibility does not rest upon the Democratic Party alone. The Republican Party, through its representatives in Congress and otherwise, has not only openly condoned the political misdeeds of the last three years, but has sought to outdo its Democratic rival in the orgy of political reaction, and repression. Its criticism of the Democratic administrative policy is that it is not reactionary and drastic enough.

America is now at the parting of the roads. If the outraging of political liberty, and concentration of economic power into the hands of the few is permitted to go on, it can have only one consequence, the reduction of the country to a state of absolute capitalist despotism. We particularly denounce the militaristic policy of both old parties, of investing countless hundreds of millions of dollars in armaments after the victorious completion of what was to have been the "last war." We call attention to the fatal results of such a programme in Europe, carried on prior to 1914, and culminating in the Great War; we declare that such a policy, adding unbearable burdens to the working class and to all the people, can lead only to the complete Prussianization of the nation, and ultimately to war; and we demand immediate and complete abandonment of this fatal programme. The Socialist party sounds the warning. It calls upon the people to defeat both parties at the polls, and to elect the candidates of the Socialist Party, to the end of restoring political democracy and bringing about a complete industrial freedom. The Socialist Party of the United States therefore summons all who believe in this fundamental doctrine to prepare for a complete reorganization of our social system, based upon public ownership of public necessities; upon government by representatives chosen from occupational as well as from geographical groups, in harmony with our industrial development; and with citizenship based on service; that we may end forever the exploitation of class by class. To achieve this end the Socialist Party pledges itself to the following programme:

1. Social.

1. All business vitally essential for the existence and welfare of the people, such as railroads, express service, steamship lines, telegraphs, mines, oil wells, power plants, elevators, packing houses, cold storage plants and all industries operating on a national scale, should be taken over by the nation.

2. All publicly owned industries should be administered jointly by the government and representative of the workers, not for revenue or profit, but with the sole object of securing just compensation and humane conditions of employment to the workers and efficient and reasonable service to the public.

3. All banks should be acquired by the government, and incorporated in a unified public banking system.

4. The business of insurance should be taken over by the government, and should be extended to include insurance against accident, sickness, invalidity, old age and unemployment, without contribution on the part of the worker.

5. Congress should enforce the provisions of the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments with reference to the Negroes, and effective federal legislation should be enacted to secure to the Negroes full civil, political, industrial and educational rights.

2. Industrial.

1. Congress should enact effective laws to abolish child labor, to fix minimum wages, based on an ascertained cost of a decent standard of life, to protect migratory and unemployed workers from oppression, to abolish detective and strike-breaking agencies and to establish a shorter work-day in keeping with increased industrial productivity.

3. Political.

1. The constitutional freedom of speech, press and assembly should be restored by repealing the Espionage Law and all other repressive legislation, and by prohibiting the executive usurpation of authority.

2. All prosecutions under the Espionage Law should be discontinued, and all persons serving prison sentences for alleged offenses growing out of religious beliefs, political views or industrial activities should be fully pardoned and immediately released.

3. No alien should be deported from the United States on account of his political views or participation in labor struggles, nor in any event without proper trial on specific charges. The arbitrary power to deport aliens by administrative order should be repealed.

4. The power of the courts to restrain workers in their struggles against employers by the writ of injunction or otherwise, and their power to nullify Congressional legislation, should be abrogated.

5. Federal judges should be elected by the people and be subject to recall.

6. The President and the Vice President of the United States should be elected by direct popular election, and be subject to recall. All members of the Cabinet should be elected by Congress and be responsible at all times to the vote thereof.

7. Suffrage should be equal and unrestricted in fact as well as in law for all men and women throughout the nation.

8. Because of the strict residential qualification of suffrage in this country, millions of citizens are disfranchised in every election; adequate provision should be made for the registration and voting of migratory voters.

9. The Constitution of the United States should be amended to strengthen the safeguards of civil and political liberty, and to remove all obstacles to industrial and social reform, and reconstruction, including the changes enumerated in this programme, in keeping with the will and interest of the people. It should be made amendable by a majority of the voters of the nation upon their own initiative, or upon the initiative of Congress.

4. Foreign Relations.

1. All claims of the United States against allied countries for loans made during the war should be cancelled upon the understanding that all war debts among such countries shall likewise be cancelled. The largest possible credit in food, raw material and machinery should be extended to the stricken nations of Europe in order to help them rebuild the ruined world.

2. The Government of the United States should initiate a movement to dissolve the mischievous organization called the "League of Nations" and to create an international parliament, composed of democratically elected representatives of all nations of the world, based upon the recognition of their equal rights, the principles of self-determination, the right to national existence of colonies and other dependencies, freedom of international trade and trade routes by land and sea, and universal disarmament, and be charged with revising the Treaty of Peace on the principles of justice and conciliation.

3. The United States should immediately make peace with the Central Powers and open commercial and diplomatic relations with Russia under the Soviet Government. It should promptly recognize the independence of the Irish Republic.

4. The United States should make and proclaim it a fixed principle in its foreign policy that American capitalists who acquire concessions or make investments in foreign countries do so at their own risk, and under no circumstances should our government enter into diplomatic negotiations or controversies or resort to armed conflicts on account of foreign property claims of American capitalists.

5. Fiscal.

1. All war debts and other debts of the Federal Government should immediately be paid in full, the funds for such payment to be raised by means of a progressive property tax, whose burden should fall upon the rich and particularly upon great fortunes made during the war.

2. A standing progressive income tax and a graduated inheritance tax should be levied to provide for all needs of the government, including the cost of its increasing social and industrial functions.

3. The unearned increment of land should be taxed, all land held out of use should be taxed at full rental value.

SOCIALIST DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES, 1920.

The convention also adopted the following Declaration of Principles: The Socialist Party of the United States demands that the country and its wealth be redeemed from the control of private interests and turned over to the people to be administered for the equal benefit of all.

America is not owned by the American people. Our so-called national wealth is not the wealth of the nation but of the privileged few. These are the ruling classes of America. They are small in numbers but they dominate the lives and shape the destinies of their fellow men. They own the people's jobs and determine their wages; they control the markets of the world and fix the prices of farm products; they own their own homes and fix their rents; they own their food and set its cost; they own their press and formulate their convictions; they own the government and make their laws. They own the schools and mould their minds.

Around and about the capitalist class cluster the numerous and varied groups of the population, generally designated as the "middle classes." They consist of farm owners, small merchants and manufacturers, professionals and better paid employees. Their economic status is often precarious. They live in hopes of being lifted into the charmed spheres of the ruling classes. Their social psychology is that of retainers of the wealthy. As a rule they sell their gifts, knowledge and efforts to the capitalist interests. They are staunch upholders of the existing order of social inequalities. The bulk of the American people is composed of workers—workers on the farm and in the factory, in mines and mills, on ships and railroads, in offices and counting houses, in schools and in personal service, workers of hand and brain, all men and women who render useful service to the community in the countless ramified ways of modern civilization. They have made America what it is. They sustain America from day to day. They bear most of the burdens of life and enjoy but few of its pleasures. They create the enormous wealth of the country but live in constant dread of poverty. They feed and clothe the rich, and yet bow to their alleged superiority. They keep alive the industries but have no say in their management. They constitute the majority of the people but have no control in the government. Despite the forms of political equality the workers of the United States are virtually a subject class.

The Socialist Party is the party of the workers. It espouses their cause because in the workers lies the hope of the political, economic and social redemption of the country. The ruling class and their retainers cannot be expected to change the iniquitous system of which they are the beneficiaries. Individual members of these classes often join in the struggle against the capitalist order from motives of personal idealism, but whole classes have never been known to abdicate their rule and surrender their privileges for the mere sake of social justice. The workers alone have a direct and compelling interest in abolishing the present profit system. The Socialist Party desires the workers of America to take the economic and political power from the capitalist class, not that they may establish themselves as a new ruling class, but in order that all class divisions may be abolished forever.

To perform this supreme social task the workers must be organized as a political party of their own. They must realize that both the Republican and Democratic Parties are the political instruments of the master classes, and equally pledged to uphold and perpetuate capitalism. They must be trained to use the ballot box to vote out the tools of the capitalist and middle classes and to vote in representatives of the workers. A true political party of labor must be founded upon the uncompromising demand for the complete socialization of the industries. That means doing away with the private ownership of the sources and instruments of wealth production and distribution, abolishing workless incomes in the form of profits, interest or rents, transforming the whole able-bodied population of the country into useful workers, and securing to all workers the full social value of their work.

The Socialist Party is such a political party. It strives by means of political methods, including the action of its representatives in the Legislatures and other public offices, to force the enactment of such measures as will immediately benefit the workers, raise their standard of life, increase their power and stiffen their resistance to capitalist aggression. Its purpose is to secure a majority in Congress and in every State Legislature, to win the principal executive and judicial offices, to become the dominant and controlling party, and when in power to transfer to the ownership by the people of industries, beginning with those of a public character, such as banking, insurance, mining, transportation and communication, as well as the trustified industries, and extending the process to all other industries susceptible of collective ownership, as rapidly as their technical conditions will permit. It also proposes to socialize the system of public education and health and all activities and institutions vitally affecting the public needs and welfare, including dwelling houses. The Socialist programme advocates the socialization of all large farming estates and land used for industrial and public purposes as well as all instrumentalities for storing, preserving and marketing farm products. It does not contemplate interference with the private possession of land actually used and cultivated by occupants. The Socialist Party, when in political control, proposes to reorganize the government in form and substance so as to change it from a tool of repression into an instrument of social and industrial service. It affirms a fundamental truth of the American Declaration of Independence, that when a government fails to serve us, or becomes destructive of human happiness, "it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it and to institute a new government, laying its foundations in such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness."

The Socialist transformation cannot be successfully accomplished by political victories alone. The reorganization of the industries upon the basis of social operation and co-operative effort will require an intelligent and disciplined working class, skilled not only in the processes of physical work but also in the technical problems of management. This indispensable training the workers can best gain as a result of their constant efforts to secure a greater share in the management of industries through their labor unions and co-operatives. These economic organizations of labor have also an immediate practice and vital function. Their daily struggles for betterment in the sphere of their respective industries supplement and reinforce the political efforts of the Socialist Party in the same general direction, and their great economic power may prove a formidable weapon for safeguarding the political rights of labor. The Socialist Party does not intend to interfere in the internal affairs of labor unions, but will always support them in their economic struggle. In order, however, that such struggle might attain the maximum of efficiency and success, the Socialists favor the organization of workers along lines of industrial unionism, in closest organic co-operation, as an organized working class body.

The Socialist Party does not seek to interfere with the institution of the family, as such, but promises to make family life fuller, nobler and happier by removing the sordid factor of economic dependence of woman on man, and by assuring to all members of the family greater material security, and more leisure to cultivate the joys of the home. The Socialist Party adheres strictly to the principle of complete separation of state and church. It recognizes the right of voluntary communities of citizens to maintain religious institutions and to worship according to the dictates of their conscience. The Socialist party seeks to attain its end by orderly and constitutional methods, so long as the ballot box, the right of representation and civil liberties are maintained. Violence is not the weapon of the Socialist Party but of the short-sighted representatives of the ruling classes, who stupidly believe that social movements and ideals can be destroyed by brutal physical repression. The socialists depend upon education and organization of the masses.

The domination of the privileged classes has been so strong, that they have succeeded in persuading their credulous fellow citizens that they, the despoilers of America, are the only true Americans; that their selfish class interests are the sacred interests of the nation; that only those who submit supinely to their oppressive rule are loyal and patriotic citizens, and that all who oppose their exactions and pretensions are traitors to their country. The Socialists emphatically reject this fraudulent notion of patriotism. The Socialist Party gives its service and allegiance to the mass of the American people, the working classes, but this interest is not limited to America alone. In modern civilization the destinies of all nations are inextricably interwoven. No nation can be prosperous and happy while its neighbors are poor and miserable. No nation can be truly free if other nations are enslaved. The ties of international interdependence and solidarity are particularly vital among the working classes. In all the advanced countries of the world the working classes are engaged in the identical struggle for political and economic freedom, and the success or failure of each is immediately reflected upon the progress and fortunes of all.

The Socialist Party is opposed to militarism and to wars among nations. Modern wars are generally caused by commercial and financial rivalries and intrigues of the capitalist interest in different countries. They are made by the ruling classes and fought by the masses. They bring wealth and power to the privileged few and suffering, death and desolation to the many. They cripple the struggles of the workers for political rights, material improvement and social justice and tend to sever the bonds of solidarity between them and their brothers in other countries.

The Socialist movement is a world struggle in behalf of human civilization. The Socialist Party of the United States co-operates with similar parties in other countries, and extends them its full support in their struggles, confident that the class-conscious workers all over the world will eventually secure the powers of government in their respective countries, abolish the oppression and chaos, the strife and bloodshed of international capitalism, and establish a federation of Socialist republics, co-operating with each other for the benefit of the human race and for the maintenance of the peace of the world.

The Socialist National Convention, on May 14, adopted the majority report of its Committee on Foreign Relations, presented by Morris Hillquit, declaring the adherence of the Socialist Party of America to the Third Internationale, organized and dominated by Lenine, Trotzky and the Communist Party of Russia, with instructions to its international delegates to insist that no special method for the attainment of the Socialist Commonwealth, such as the "dictatorship of the proletariat," be imposed as a condition of affiliation. The delegates were also instructed to participate in movements looking to the union of all Socialist organizations in the world into one internationale. The Socialists of France, Great Britain and Germany have refused to affiliate with the Third Internationale. Upon the plea of Mr. Hillquit that its adoption would necessitate a change in the method of the Socialist Party of America from one of political action to a programme of violence and a recurrence of the street fighting and barricades of the Paris Commune, the convention voted down the ultra-radical substitute offered by J. Louis Engdahl of Illinois and William F. Quick of Wisconsin as a minority of the committee, merely reaffirming the adherence of the party to the Third Internationale without any qualification. This substitute was defeated by a vote of 90 to 40.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

STATE OFFICERS

GOVERNOR

JOHN J. BLAINE (Rep.), was born May 4, 1875, on a farm in the town of Wingville, Grant County, Wisconsin; attended common school and was graduated from Montfort high school, Montfort, Wisconsin; afterwards attended Northern Indiana University at Valparaiso, Indiana, and was graduated from the law department thereof on June 3, 1896. He practiced law in Montfort, Wisconsin, one year, after which he removed to Boscobel, Wisconsin, where he has since practiced law. He served as mayor of Boscobel four terms and member of county board of supervisors of Grant county four years. He was elected to the state senate in 1908 and served in the sessions for 1909 and 1911, but was not a candidate for reelection. In 1912 he was alternate delegate to the Republican National Convention at Chicago, and in 1916 a delegate to the Republican National Convention at Chicago. In 1918 he was elected Attorney General. In 1920 he was elected a delegate at large to the Republican National Convention at Chicago, and at the November election 1920 he was elected to the office of Governor on the Republican ticket, receiving 366,247 votes, against 247,746 votes for Robert McCoy (Dem.), 6,047 for Henry H. Tubbs and 71,126 for William Coleman.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

GEORGE F. COMINGS is a native of the old Green Mountain State, Vermont. He was born in Orleans County March 18, 1848 of New England Pilgrim Stock. His paternal ancestor, Isaac Comings, came to Massachusetts Colony in 1625. His mother's name was Mary Huntington whose ancestors came to Norwich, Connecticut a few years later. One of the family Samuel Huntington, representing the Colony of Connecticut, signed the Declaration of Independence. This fine old Revolutionary Ancestry no doubt accounts in part at least for Mr. Comings' devotion to the high ideals of Americanism for which his ancestors fought against British tyranny. He was educated in the common schools of his native state, supplemented by a few terms in select schools and several terms in Barre Academy where he prepared for college.

In 1870, with his father's family he moved to St. Joseph, Michigan, where the next thirty years of his life were spent. Here he engaged in the fruit growing business and became one of the largest and best known growers in the state.

In 1901 he removed to Eau Claire, Wisconsin and entered the business of dairying and the breeding of Holstein cattle. From 1909 to 1919 he was a worker in the farm institutes and has a state wide acquaintance as a lecturer for the Equity Society. He served four years as a member of the State Board of Agriculture, having been appointed by Governor McGovern. He also served on the Committee of Thirteen appointed by State Superintendent Cary to study the rural schools and suggest ways and means for their improvement. During the past three years he has been a member of the State Board for Vocational Education having been appointed by Governor Philipp.

Since arriving at his majority he has been actively identified with all the great progressive movements of the country; favoring and supporting prohibition, equal suffrage, public ownership of public utilities, the initiative and referendum, the taxation of land values, and during all his life he has been an active supporter of farmers clubs and other organizations for the improvement of rural conditions.

SECRETARY OF STATE

ELMER S. HALL was born September 17, 1866, at New London, Waupaca County, Wisconsin. In January, 1867, he moved with his parents to Green Bay, where he has since resided. He attended the common schools until he was fifteen years of age, after which he worked for a short time at the printing trade and as clerk in the postoffice. He served for fourteen years as railroad accountant and auditor, then returned to the mail service where he spent the next eight years. He was elected County Clerk of Brown County in 1904, in which capacity he served until April 16, 1916, being elected three terms without opposition. He resigned as county clerk to become commission mayor of the city of Green Bay, which office he held until January 3, 1921, when he assumed his duties as Secretary of State, to which office he was elected by a vote of 436,221 against 122,065 for W. V. Silverthorne (Dem). While County Clerk of Brown County he also served as secretary of the Green Bay Commercial Club for nine years and director and president of the Brown County Fair Association for five years. In 1920 he was a delegate to the National Convention held in Chicago. He has been an active Progressive Republican for the past twenty-five years.

STATE TREASURER

HENRY JOHNSON, now serving his fourth consecutive term as State Treasurer, has been a public servant for the last 40 years. Born in Denmark, he attended the common schools in that country and emigrated to Wisconsin in 1873, at the age of 19 years, arriving in Oshkosh without a cent on May 16. He immediately went to work on a farm at $7 per month in the summer, but worked for his board in the winter while attending school. He then went to Shawano where he worked until 1879 when he was married and settled in Oconto county where he cleared and cultivated a large farm, engaged in the lumber business and built a warehouse at Suring. His first public office was as treasurer of his school district, then as justice of the peace, town assessor, treasurer and chairman. He was elected to the assembly in 1900, 1902, and 1904, was assistant State Treasurer for six years under Andrew Dahl and succeeded him in office, being elected in 1912 and was re-elected in 1914, 1916, 1918 and 1920.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL

WILLIAM J. MORGAN was born on a farm in Charlestown, Calumet County, December 13, 1883; attended district schools in Calumet, Clark and Manitowoc counties. After graduating from high school at Manitowoc he taught the district school at Valders, Wis., which both he and his father had attended. His vacations were spent as a railroad section-hand and quarry laborer. After attending the University of Wisconsin he became a traveling salesman. He graduated from the Law Department of the University of Michigan in 1908. In September, 1908, after being admitted to the Wisconsin bar, he entered the law office of Nathan Glicksman, then one of the Board of Bar Examiners. In 1910 he opened his own law office in Milwaukee, and in 1914 became a member of the firm of Saltzstein, Morgan & Breidenbach, in which he continued until the firm was dissolved when Otto H. Breidenbach was elected Judge. In 1918 he joined the firm of Frank M. Hoyt and Guy D. Goff, which has since been known as Hoyt, Goff & Morgan. Mr. Morgan was never before a candidate for State office, but he has always been actively interested in civic and state affairs and the welfare of the Republican Party. He opened his campaign for the Republican nomination for Attorney-General on August 5, 1920 and at the primary election on September 7th following, defeated Adolph Kanneberg, his opponent, who was endorsed by Senator La Follette and the Nonpartisan League, Mr. Morgan's vote being the largest vote cast for any candidate in the Republican primary. He was elected Attorney-General by a majority of 207,549 over his Democratic opponent.

STATE SUPERINTENDENT PUBLIC INSTRUCTION

JOHN CALLAHAN, who was elected State Superintendent at the election, held April 5th, 1921, by a total vote of 207,521 to his opponent's, C. P. Cary vote of 177,582 was born in Westchester county, New York, December 16, 1866, and came to Wisconsin with his parents in 1869, making his home at Prescott, Pierce county. He has had over thirty years experience in Wisconsin public schools and for twenty-seven years had held the life certificate. For three years he was with the Pierce county schools, eight years Supervisory Principal at Glenwood city, three years at New Richmond, and Superintendent of Schools at Menasha for seventeen years. For the past three years he has been State Director of Vocational Education. He was conductor of the Teachers Institutes, president of the Northwest Teachers Association 1900, president of the Northeast Teachers Association 1908, president of the State Teachers Association 1913, and for the past twelve years has been a member of the Teachers Legislative Committee. He has made a specialty of rural and graded school work and has an exceptional familiarity with the entire school system of the state. He assumes the duties of his office as State Superintendent of Public Instruction July 1, 1921.

ACTIVITIES OF THE PRINCIPAL DEPARTMENTS

STATE DEPARTMENT

The growth of business in the Department of State has continued steadily for several years and in 1920 the receipts were more than three and one-half million dollars or more than three times the receipts of 1916. The motor vehicle and corporation divisions are largely responsible for much of this enormous increase of receipts, but the amount of work done in the other divisions has also been largely increased by the growing demands upon the department, and more than 1,000,000 pieces of mail were handled in 1920.

More than 150,000 warrants were drawn upon the state treasury during 1920 and the auditing division was also required to do much additional work on account of the soldier bonus and the educational bonus payments.

The fees received from corporations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920 were $344,418.25, a gain of more than $250,000 in one year, a large portion of which was due to the new law requiring foreign corporations to pay upon their authorized capital rather than paid in capital.

There are on record several thousand nonstock, nonprofit-sharing corporations. As such concerns are not required to file annual reports, it is impossible to even make an estimate as to the number which are actually alive and active. On July 1, 1919, there were 10,951 corporations which were active and in good standing.

During the year from July 1, 1919 to July 1, 1920, a total of 1,973 new corporations were organized. During the same period 497 corporations dissolved and 475 lost their rights through forfeiture on account of failure to file a report. The net gain for the year was therefore 1,011. Total corporations active July 1, 1920 were 11,962. Of these 485 were telephone companies, 602 were organized under the co-operative provisions of law, 10,875 were organized under the general corporation law. From July 1, to Dec. 31, 1920, 705 new corporations have been filed, 197 dissolutions, 83 foreign corporations licensed and 437 amendments filed.

The gain in the number of automobiles in the state during 1920 was 51,000, and about 5,400 trucks. The following table shows the growth from year to year since 1905:

MOTOR VEHICLES LICENSED FROM 1905 TO 1920, INC.

STATE FINANCES

General Fund

This fund embraces all the revenues of the state applicable to the payment of the ordinary expenses of the state government.

The sources from which it is derived are from the annual tax levied for the support of free high schools, graded schools, charitable and penal institutions. A tax on civil actions, license on railroad companies, plank road companies, street railways, telephone companies, insurance companies, trust companies, boom companies, hawkers and peddlers, notary and office fees, tax on legacies, sales of books, laws and reports, apportionment of interest on deposit with bank depositories, and United States appropriation for the Wisconsin Veterans' Home.

The expenditures therefrom are authorized by permanent and temporary appropriations and by the several laws requiring the secretary of state to audit accounts.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Commissioner of Agriculture, C. P. NORGORD

The department of Agriculture has charge of the administrative, regulatory, and control measures pertaining to agriculture in the state.

Agricultural Statistics—Joseph A. Becker, Statistician, representing state and federal departments of agriculture.

The Division of Agricultural Statistics, (1) makes forecasts of acreage, condition and probable yield of crops, (2) compiles final estimates of acreage, production and value of crops, and of the numbers and value of farm animals. Monthly bulletins carry the forecasts and an annual report on January 1 gives final estimates by counties for the year. This work is made possible by the assistance of the assessors of the state and a corps of 1,500 voluntary crop correspondents. By a cooperative arrangement with the U. S. Bureau of Crop Estimates, the Wisconsin Field Agent of that Bureau is also statistician of this division.

Insect and Plant Disease—S. B. Fracker, state entomologist; H. J. Ninman, assistant plant pathologist; H. L. McMurry, chief apiary inspector; N. F. Thompson, in charge of barberry eradication; C. D. Adams, inspector.

The division of Entomology has the responsibility for the control of plant diseases and insect pests. It inspects nurseries, orchards, parks, and city trees for such diseases and insects, gives advice in regard to their eradication and takes measures for their control when necessary. Licenses are issued to nurseries and nursery agents. In connection with this inspection the division has charge of barberry eradication, a measure adopted for the protection of grain against black rust. It is also in charge of White Pine Blister Rust eradication, an introduced disease of white pines. All importations of plant material from foreign countries are inspected to prevent the introduction of new insects and diseases. Insecticides and fungicides are inspected and analyzed to see that they conform to the required standards. Apiary inspection is carried on for the eradication and control of the various contagious diseases of bees which have secured a foothold in many parts of the state.

Feed and Fertilizer Inspection—W. H. Strowd, Director and chief chemist; D. R. Mihills, field inspector; Grace Bitterman, Assistant chemist.

The Feed and Fertilizer Inspection Division has charge of the enforcement of the Feed and Fertilizer laws which were framed for the purpose of protecting farmers against fraud and misrepresentation in the sale of these products.

This Division issues licenses, inspects stocks in stores, warehouses and mills, analyzes feeds and fertilizer, reports violations of the laws for prosecution, assists the district attorney in prosecutions, and disseminates information among consumers regarding feeds and fertilizers.

Horse Breeding—Dr. A. S. Alexander, Director.

The Division of Horse Breeding has charge of the work of enrolling and licensing public service stallions. The stallion enrollment law compels owners of stallions to advertise the exact breeding of their sires. The effect of this work has been to decrease the number of grade and scrub sires and to increase the number of pure-bred stallions. This division answers inquiries pertaining to the stallion law and horse breeding in general.

Immigration—B. G. Packer, Director.

The Immigration Division advises intending settlers about soil, climate, crops and opportunities for farm making in different parts of the state and protects those in communication with it from possible exploitation by unfair methods of land selling. A total of more than 4,000 settlers located in 1919-1920, most of them coming from territory covered by Chicago and Twin City papers received information from this division; 15,784 home-seekers asked advice, of whom 8 to 11 per cent report purchasing as follow-up is completed and more than 2,000 families were cautioned against activities of unfair land dealers.

Live Stock Sanitation—Dr. O. H. Eliason, State Veterinarian, Dr. J. P. West, Asst. State Veterinarian, in charge of Area Test work, Dr. W. R. Claussen, Dr. J. B. Collins, Dr. R. C. Coulson, Dr. W. R. Johnson, Dr. J. D. Eastwold, Dr. A. T. Olson, field assistants. Dr. J. S. Healy and Dr. J. T. Purcell, representing the United States Department of Agriculture, cooperating on tuberculosis eradication, accredited herds, and hog cholera.

The Division of Live Stock Sanitation is responsible for the control and eradication of animal diseases. The supervision of the inspection of interstate shipment of cattle, horses and other animals is also vested in this division, and in connection with the Live Stock Sanitary Board of the department, all quarantine and regulatory measures are issued.

Seed and Weed Control—A. L. Stone, Director; Henry Lunz, Assistant; George Morris, Laboratory Assistant.

The Seed and Weed Control Division is charged with the enforcement of the state seed and weed control laws. By the enforcement of these laws clean, vital seeds are assured to Wisconsin farmers and noxious weeds limited in their spread and eventually destroyed, thus ensuring maximum crop production and greatly increasing the wealth of the state.

Veterinary Licensing—Dr. T. H. Ferguson, Secretary.

The Board of Veterinary Examiners by high standards in examination and by vigorous enforcement of the laws pertaining to veterinary practice and the establishment of high ideals among veterinarians is promoting these favorable and desirable conditions for the scientific treatment of valuable live stock of all types and for the satisfactory and successful practice of well prepared veterinarians in the state.

Through the efforts of this Board a very marked improvement is noticed in the type of men who are successfully passing the annual veterinary examination and entering practice throughout the state.

State Fair—Oliver E. Remy, Secretary; A. W. Kalbus, Accountant.

The State Fair Division conducts the annual State Fair, which will be seventy-one years old in 1921, the first State Fair having been organized in Janesville in 1850. The State Fair is presented at Milwaukee, having been established in its present location in 1892. The value of the 147½ acres, buildings and equipment is $1,515,137. During the past six years the State Fair has gradually progressed until it is in the front rank of the great annual expositions of the world. In 1920 the total attendance for the six days and nights was 327,394, and the total receipts $226,367.36. The total number of exhibitors in 1920 was 3,190, and the value of exhibits exceeded $3,000,000. The record attendance for one day was that of September 2, 1920, Milwaukee Day, when 114,937 passed through the gates. The total gate receipts in 1920 were $107,788.95 and the total grand stand receipts $45,729. Preparation of each year's State Fair necessitates the services of a secretary, accountant and stenographer the year round. As the actual fair period approaches additional help is added as needed. The State Fair is asking the Legislature of 1921 $250,000 a year for operation, $25,000 a year for maintenance and $5,000 a year for purchase of new equipment. As receipts will more than take care of these expenditures, nothing is asked excepting a change in the law governing appropriations. The Wisconsin State Fair, as large in exhibits as others of its class, is conducted for nearly $100,000 a year less than others in the same class. The dates of the 1921 State Fair are August 29 to September 3, inclusive.

Crop and Livestock Review 1919-1920

Wisconsin farm crops in 1919 reached a total value of $400,000,000, 4 per cent greater than in 1918 and 206 per cent greater than in 1909. Area devoted to these crops in 1919 was 9,052,000 acres, an increase of 117,000 or 13 per cent over the previous year, and 1,072,000 acres or 13.4 per cent over 1909.

The total value of live stock production in 1919 was $372,000,000, 9.4 per cent greater than in 1918 and 235 per cent greater than in 1909. Of this amount, $251,000,000, or 67.5 per cent, represents the value of milk produced on farms.

The gross income of Wisconsin farmers, after deducting from the above totals the value of crops fed to live stock, was approximately $506,000,000. This income will unquestionably stand as a record for years to come.

The crop year 1919 was featured by a "bumper crop" of corn, by an unusually heavy tame hay crop, by an unusually light crop of small grains and by a short crop of potatoes.

Planting and seeding were delayed in April and May by the wet, cool weather. June was also wet but warm and crops grew luxuriantly. A protracted dry spell during July and August cut down the growth of small grains and potatoes. Unusually mild weather during September produced the largest corn crop ever harvested in Wisconsin.

Although production in 1920 exceeded that of 1919, the general decline in agricultural prices reduced the value of the 1920 crops to $323,000,000, or 19 per cent less than in 1919. The area in crops increased to 9,109,000 acres,—only 57,000 acres more than in 1919 and about one-half the usual increase.

The value of live stock production in 1920 was $324,000,000, or 15 per cent less than in 1919. The serious decline in milk prices during the last five months of the year was a big factor in the decline.

The gross farm income in 1920 was approximately $420,000,000, 20 per cent less than in 1919.

The crop year was featured by an above-average production of all principal crops, except spring wheat and rye, and by an unusually large acreage in all "cash" crops.

Planting and seeding were completed at about normal dates. June was again unusually wet, but cooler than normal. July and August were again dry, but temperatures were more moderate than in 1919. The dry spell was shorter and crops suffered much less. A warm September was again beneficial, corn and potatoes making excellent growth.

A summary of all important Wisconsin crops follows:

Live Stock Summary

Live stock values in Wisconsin reached unprecedented heights in 1920. On January 1, the total value of live stock on Wisconsin farms was $374,000,000, which was $35,000,000 or 10.5 per cent more than in 1919, and $220,000,000 or 143 per cent more than in 1909. High prices received for all live stock products caused farmers to increase the number of all animals. Milk cows in particular increased both in number and value. Receipts of animals at the stockyards in Chicago, South St. Paul, Milwaukee and Cudahy indicated a renewed activity in the feeding of live stock for market.

The serious decline in live stock prices during the latter part of 1920 caused some decrease in the number of live stock on Wisconsin farms. As a rule, the poorer animals were turned off, so the quality of live stock has been increased as a result of the reduction in number.

Total value of live stock on farms on January 1, 1921 was estimated at $350,000,000, a decrease of $24,000,000, or 6.5 per cent, as compared with the previous year.

A summary of live stock numbers and of live stock production follows:

THE DIVISION OF MARKETS

The Division of Markets was created in 1919. Its object is to improve the system of distribution and to bring about conditions under which commodities will be transferred from the producer to the consumer as rapidly, as cheaply, and in as good a condition as possible.

To enable the Division of Markets to achieve this three-fold purpose the legislature makes it the duty of the Division to locate farm products necessary to supply the demands of the people of the state, to furnish information regarding the location of markets, to devise and maintain economical and efficient systems of marketing, grading, standardizing, and storing of farm products, to aid in determining proper shipping routes and to endeavor to reduce expenses and wastes incidental to the marketing of farm products.

Owing to the complexity and wide scope of these problems, it has not been feasible to put into effective operation all the means that might solve this problem as expressed in the desires of the legislature. The activities of the Division of Markets have been limited because of the desire to make effective all that has been undertaken. Other projects will be started when capable men and sufficient finances warrant their employment.

The Market News Service

Reliable market information is one of the most important prerequisites of profitable marketing. The producer, dealer, and consumer should have at their disposal facts which will keep them informed as to when, where and how it is best to buy and sell. Prices are subject to so many variations from day to day and from place to place that a certain amount of risk is involved in buying and selling without adequate information as to the actual condition of the market. The establishment of a service which aims at giving information constitutes the first step in the promotion of an efficient marketing system.

The market information published has covered a wide range of subjects, such as reports on the condition of the market in various farm products, crop and cold storage reports as well as exchange lists.

Standardization and Inspection

Standardization and inspection of food products go hand in hand for without standardization, inspection of food products can hardly hope to be a success.

The idea involved in standardization and inspection is that products properly graded and shipped from the place of production will reach the consumers in better condition, and that properly graded products bring more money to producers and dealers and will give the consumer full value for his money.

Standardization. Standardization of agricultural products is of comparatively recent origin. The Division of Markets thus far has turned its attention to fruits, vegetables and dairy products. Up to January 1921 grades have been established on potatoes, honey and cabbage. Other grades, namely those on apples and cheese, are being worked out. The grades are accompanied by regulations which provide for tags showing the grade and the net weight of products sold. In the case of honey the regulation provides for the marking of the grade and color of honey on every section and case of comb honey and on every container of extracted honey.

Inspection. The service of inspection of food products has been divided into two lines, namely, terminal market inspection and shipping point inspection.

The terminal market inspection work consists of making inspections and issuing official state certificates describing the quality and condition of the product at the time of inspection. This service is furnished to anyone in the state requesting it. A fee of five dollars is charged for each carlot inspection and two dollars and fifty cents for a half car or less.

These inspections and the issuance of certificates are usually requested when there is some dispute over the acceptance of the car. An applicant can secure a certificate of inspection on payment of the required fee and this certificate, based on the impartial judgment of an unbiased inspector, is good as prima facie evidence in any court of the state.

The shipping point inspection of potatoes has for its main object the enforcing of the grade rules and regulations established by the Division. For the purposes of shipping point inspections the state is divided into districts. An inspector, appointed for the shipping season, is placed in each district which usually comprises from three to ten counties.

This inspection service consists of inspecting carloads of potatoes and issuing official certificates giving the grade of potatoes at the time of inspection. A copy of the inspection report is given the applicant and another copy tacked inside the car.

The inspectors whose work is also educational, visit potato warehouses and dealers and instruct them in the proper packing of potatoes to meet the grades and regulations. They also work with farmers and address growers' meetings in regard to the grades.

The inspection service is instrumental in protecting the consumer's interests. Care is taken to put graded stock on the market and the consumer is informed of the quality of stock which is sold to him.

The cabbage and honey inspection has been purely educational.

The grading of honey resulted in the beekeepers of the state receiving twenty to thirty per cent more than the wholesale prices of honey while Wisconsin consumers are paying less than those of other states.

Organization

The Market News Service and the Work of Standardization and Inspection play a well defined part in the schemes for the improvement of the system of distribution.

The economic system is too complicated to be fundamentally improved by legislation whether federal or state. State legislation may be effective in a few instances but, if carried too far, it necessarily encroaches upon individual freedom and initiative.

The safest course to adopt is to leave the solution of the complete economic problems to individual initiative properly directed.

This initiative can be properly directed and can produce the maximum results through organization of individuals who have identical interests and who associate on the principle of cooperation to accomplish certain definite ends.

Organization of cooperative societies for buying and selling eliminates the waste and unnecessary expense by reducing the costs of operation through wholesale buying and selling, and by making possible the reduction of the number of middlemen concerned in the transfer of commodities. On the other hand, organization confers upon the producer and the consumer the power of collective bargaining which gives them the necessary strength to treat as equals with the organized business and industrial interests.

The organization of farmers into cooperative societies has made a marked progress in Wisconsin in recent years. Wisconsin has now about 2,500 farmers' cooperative marketing associations. Among them are creameries, cheese factories, live stock shipping associations, potato warehouses, elevators and other miscellaneous agencies.

The activities of the Division in this field consisted of

(1) Services rendered through the introduction of business methods in the marketing of organizations.

(2) Investigations of cooperative organizations with the purpose to determine what steps could be taken to improve their effectiveness and get the facts concerning their management.

(3) Assistance in the organization of new companies. This assistance has been lent in the organization of wool, American and foreign cheese, butter and canned peas associations.

Marketing business practice. Accurate records and accounts, proper financing, and competent management are essential to the success of every marketing organization. The Division has conducted investigations of the business practices of cooperative organizations with the idea of adopting a uniform system of accounting for the principal marketing agencies of the state. The Division has investigated and adopted systems of accounts for cooperative live stock shipping companies and cooperative warehouses and personal service has been given the marketing agencies in installing the system recommended by the Division.

Service Work

The service work consists of assisting individual farmers and farmers' organizations in the marketing of their products. A great many sales at the request of farmers and farmers' organizations are consummated through the office of the Division of Markets. The Division does not assume any financial responsibility in these sales. Among the products dealt with were apples, potatoes, beans and live stock. Dealers and individuals often call for carloads of commodities during the year.

Fruit. During the marketing of the Door County cherry crop a representative of the Division assisted the Fruit Growers Union by inspecting cherries before loading to insure a good pack and assisting the sales manager in locating the best markets.

Cherry growers realized an average of seventy-five per cent above the price received by Michigan associations as a result of putting up a good pack and finding the best markets available.

Transportation

An efficient system of marketing depends to a large extent upon facilities for transportation. A lack of these facilities has a considerable influence on prices.

In cooperation with the Railroad Commission the Division was able to relieve many instances of car shortage for the movement of food products to market.

The fall and winter of 1919 saw an acute shortage of refrigerator cars for the movement of potatoes. Through the efforts of the Division, solid potato trains were put on the different roads. As a result of these efforts the service was improved from eight and a fraction days to from twenty-four to thirty-six hours delivery at Chicago from the northern parts of the state while under the old system thousands of bushels of potatoes were frozen in transit.

Educational Work

The educational work consists in familiarizing the grower, dealer and consumer with the work of the Division by means of exhibits at fairs, publications and public addresses.

Investigational

The investigational activities form one of the most important activities of the work of the Division. The system of distribution can be improved by removing some of its defects. In order to do so the facts must be learned whether there are any defects and what they are. The knowledge of these facts can be arrived at only by investigations and it would not be exaggerating to state that the investigational activities form the basis of the work of the division.

Retailing of Groceries and Meats

An investigation in cooperation with the agricultural economics department of the University was made of the retail stores in the city of Madison. The facts gathered in relation to the $6,738,000 worth of foods distributed by the 160 stores of Madison led to the conclusion that the improvement in the retail system requires above all else that the handling of food be done by efficient stores. To bring about conditions in which all stores in operation are large enough to efficiently render retail services it is necessary to reduce the number of stores either by consolidation or elimination.

Cost of Distributing Milk in Milwaukee

This investigation was undertaken to determine the profits earned by eighteen milk dealers in Milwaukee to consider the possibilities of reducing the price of milk to the consumer. Facts were gathered and the whole situation was found to be so complicated that the following recommendations were made by the Division:

- (1) The establishment of uniform accounting systems for Milwaukee milk dealers, and
- (2) The appointment of a milk commission to study the general situation and particular problems involved, to interpret the facts revealed by the uniform accounting system, and to consider the possibilities of supervision over the business.

Potato Prices, Profits and Monopolistic Conditions

An investigation of three representative potato warehousing companies was made to determine:

- (1) The cause in variation of prices paid to farmers on the same date.
- (2) Profits earned in the year 1919-1920, and
- (3) Monopolistic possibilities and combination in restraint of trade.

It was found that the price differences were due primarily to varying economic forces rather than to an arbitrary fixing of the price by the buying warehousemen.

In addition to these investigations, economic problems involved in the process of distribution were made the subject of a special study. These studies include the relation between production and price, factors that influence prices, obstructions that interfere with the working of the law of supply and demand and similar problems concerned primarily with the price working forces.

Legal Department

The legal activities of the Division of Markets consisted of investigations of unfair business practices and the enforcement of rules and orders eliminating such practices.

They related to the following subjects:

- (1) Payment for fractional weights of American cheese.
- (2) Premature packing or paraffining of American cheese.
- (3) Co-operation with federal authorities under the Lever Act.
- (4) Public hearings relative to prices and costs.
- (5) Intervention in behalf of Wisconsin interests in the matter of the Sugar Equalization Board and the Chicago Live Stock Exchange.
- (6) State coal inquiry.
- (7) Legal assistance to cooperative associations.
- (8) Prosecutions.

BANKING DEPARTMENT

The Legislature of 1895 enacted a law providing for supervision and examination of banks operating in the state of Wisconsin. At that time there were both incorporated banks and private banks.

Honorable Edward I. Kidd of Prairie du Chien was the first chief of this Department which in the law of 1895 was made a Bureau of the State Treasurer's office.

In 1903 the Department as it exists at this time was established. Major Marcus C. Bergh was appointed Commissioner as successor to Mr. Kidd who died in office.

The first annual report of Mr. Kidd listed one hundred and twenty-five state banks, one hundred and seven private banks, one savings bank and five trust companies. The aggregate amount of the resources of these institutions was $43,601,829.47. The growth of the state banking institutions has been steady and the increase from year to year during the last several years has been especially marked. This can best be illustrated by the table following showing the condition of the banks ascertained from the November statement for the years 1918, 1919 and 1920.

On December 31, 1920, ninety-eight Building and Loan Associations were in operation under the supervision of the State Banking Department.

During the year 1920 forty-five licenses for the Transmission of Money to Foreign Countries had been issued under section 2014-200 to 2014-206 of the Wisconsin statutes.

On Nov. 15, 1920, there were 152 National Banks in Wisconsin with total resources of $371,097,000.00.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

The Wisconsin Civil Service Commission serves the state in the same capacity as an employment agency serves a large private concern. Governmental positions have increased in the past decade greatly, and judging from the way in which socialization of various things are going on in the country, there is still likely to be a greater increase.

The Wisconsin Civil Service Commission feels that it should do everything within its power to get the best available people for public service, and improve by education the efficiency of those engaged in public service.

During the last biennial period, large attention has been given by the Commission to conducting practical examinations and to encouraging those in the service to improve. Also, the Commission has done much towards a more complete classification of the duties of the employes in the service, and the standardization of salaries on the basis of the new classification.

The number of applicants for public service during the last two years has been about 4,000. There were 207 different examinations conducted. Where there used to be 5 persons for a position, judging from the last examination, there will be in the future 25 persons. This, of course, is due to the fact that the labor market is much easier.

The motto of the Commission, "The Best Shall Serve the State" has been strictly adhered to. Wisconsin has 5,000 people employed in the various state activities. This number, of course, includes the faculty of the university and of the normal schools. The merit principle has been employed in the selection of members of the faculty of our educational institutions just as rigidly as the merit principle has been employed in securing clerks and stenographers for the state capitol.

At present there are 88 exempt positions in the state service which might be considered "political plums." Of this number, however, more than one-third are filled from eligible lists provided by the Civil Service Commission. The tendency is growing stronger each year by appointing authorities to rely upon the Civil Service Commission to determine qualifications of persons even for the exempt positions.

The Civil Service Commission realizes that it has large duties and responsibilities to perform. Every activity of the state, to a greater or lesser degree, depends upon the Civil Service Commission for assistance. The new year that we are to usher in invites new complications and new problems for attack and solution. The Wisconsin Civil Service Commission faces the situation with vision and with encouragement.

CONSERVATION COMMISSION

The State Conservation Commission of Wisconsin was created by the legislature of 1915 and became effective on August 1 of that year.

The commission has control of the administration of all laws pertaining to the wild life of the state, fish and game; also the operation of the various state parks, forest reserve areas, fish hatcheries and public lands lying within the forestry area of the state. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, the department expended the annual appropriation of $250,000. The income of the department from various sources, such as the sale of hunting, trapping and fishing licenses, confiscations, income from rental leases, etc., was $307,216.99, leaving an excess of $57,216.99 collected over the appropriation for the administration of the department. In addition to the above figures there was collected through prosecution of the fish and game laws fines amounting to $36,992.50, and which money under the law was turned in to the State School Fund.

The following is a condensed statement of the activities of the commission, covering the last fiscal year, i. e., June 30, 1920:

Seizures made by game wardens	623
Arrests made by game wardens	835
Acreage under control	206,995-79/10.

STATE BOARD OF CONTROL

The State Board of Control is a paid board of three members, two men one woman, one appointed biennially by the Governor for a period of 6 years. It is the administrative board for all the state charitable and penal institutions. The chief duties of the board with reference to the several institutions are to administer, supervise, inspect, purchase supplies, audit bills and to transfer inmates to and from the different institutions.

The Board of Control further acts as a board of parole, a commission in lunacy, a probation board, a board of relief and supervises the administration of the Mothers pension law. It is through this board that the law for sterilization of defectives is administered.

The county asylums for chronic insane, county tuberculosis sanatoria, Milwaukee County House of Correction, Milwaukee Hospital for the Insane, the county and city poor houses, county jails and police stations are all subject to inspection by representatives of the State Board of Control.

(a) The Psychiatric Institute is maintained in connection with the Wisconsin State Hospital at Mendota. Free Wasserman tests are given here, defectives are sterilized, and special care and attention with reference to the healing of mental diseases constitute the chief functions of this Institute.

(b) The Binder Twine Plant, operated at the State Prison, produced during the year ending June 30, 1920, 5,044,180 pounds of twine. This output has met with very ready sale and is said to be of superior quality. A visit to the twine plant reminds one of a visit to a commercial industry rather than to a department of a criminal institution. The willingness with which the convicts perform their labor is remarkable. The Prison also operates with convict labor a shoe shop which supplies shoes for the inmates at all the State institutions. Practically all the various accounting and office forms used by the several state institutions are printed in the Prison print shop. A creamery and another industry in the nature of a tin shop, which proposes to make automobile license plates, are also operated with convict labor. Convicts from the Wisconsin State Prison have also been used for quite a bit of state road work in Wisconsin during the past few years. A major portion of the labor at the Industrial Home for Women at Taycheedah was performed by convicts. So, also, was the labor at the Southern Wisconsin home for Feeble-Minded and Epileptic at Union Grove.

(c) The figures given for the State Public School include the crippled and deformed children.

(d) The Wisconsin State Reformatory has an industry in the nature of a broom plant where brooms for state and county institutions are manufactured. The Reformatory tailor shop produces inmate clothing not only for the Reformatory inmates but for those of the other institutions. A granite shop is also operated at the Reformatory. These industries are all operated with inmate labor. This affords a wholesome productive outlet for the inmates and at the same time teaches them a useful trade.

(e) The Industrial Home for Women is still in process of construction and is not yet ready to receive inmates.

(f) The Southern Wisconsin Home for Feeble-minded and Epileptic was opened for inmates in February, 1919, with the transfer of 62 patients from the Wisconsin State Home for Feeble-minded at Chippewa Falls.

(g) The Wisconsin Workshop for the Blind affords employment in basketry, rattan and willow work for adult blind. It does not maintain its workers.

DAIRY AND FOOD DEPARTMENT

The work of the dairy and food department has been carried on effectively and efficiently resulting in enormous benefits to the people and industries of the state. That many of these benefits are more or less intangible and cannot be expressed in terms of dollars and cents makes them none the less real. That much of the work of the department consists of preventing rather than correcting abuses detracts in no way from the good accomplished. This is particularly true of the work of food inspectors and chemists in safeguarding the health of the people and protecting them from adulterated products masquerading under the guise of products of quality.

The legislature has placed under the jurisdiction of the dairy and food department many and varied laws. Among these laws are found those regulating the manufacture, sale, etc., of dairy, food (including beverages) and drug products; also the sale of linseed oil, turpentine, white lead and oxide of zinc. It is also charged with the licensing of operators of cheese factories and butter factories, cheese makers, butter makers, receiving stations, condenseries, bakeries, confectioneries, soda water establishments, cold storage warehouses and canning factories. On January 1, 1921 the dairy and food department has supervision over 2,752 cheese factories, 762 butter factories, 66 condenseries, 348 receiving stations, 126 canning factories, 945 bakeries, 515 confectioneries, 239 bottling establishments, 47 cold storage warehouses and approximately 15,000 grocery stores and meat markets and other similar places where foods are manufactured, prepared or offered for sale. Besides the collection of samples, the dairy and food commissioner is authorized to cause to be made chemical and bacterial analysis of the suspected food and drug products and of linseed oil, turpentine and white lead.

Some of the important laws passed at the 1919 session are those licensing canning factories, condenseries, and receiving stations and setting the moisture standard for brick cheese at 42%. The law was also passed making the manufacturer equally guilty for the sale of any cheese which contained more than the permitted amount of moisture.

Considerable work is also carried on by this department in connection with the cold storage warehouses and inspections of the food held therein. During the past year investigations have shown that many food products, especially fish, have been held in cold storage for a longer period than twelve months; also it has been found that not all operators of cold storage warehouses are properly marking the foods as they enter cold storage.

One of the most important cases brought by the dairy and food department during the past year, and one which the dairy industry is vitally interested in, is that brought at Menomonee Falls against a cheese maker and the manager of a factory manufacturing cheese made from skim-milk and coconut oil. The manufacturing of filled cheese is a revival of the practice which had its beginning in the early days of Wisconsin's development as a dairy state and it was effectually stopped in 1892 by the passage of our present law on that subject and this case was the first one which it was necessary to bring under this section since its enactment.

On account of limited space it will not be possible to give a full discussion of the various branches of this department but the following tabulation of dairy statistics for the year of 1919 will give some idea of the extent of the dairy industry.

Total		$277,582,053.25

According to figures given out by the Crop Reporting Department of the Federal and State Departments the average price received by producers for milk in 1919 was $2.82 per hundred weight and the average production per cow in 1919 was 4,926 pounds. The average number of cows in 1919 was 1,819,000. At the average production of 4,926 pounds of milk per cow during the year 1919 there was produced 8,960,394,000 pounds of milk.

The data for cheese, butter, condensary products and ice cream was obtained from blanks filled out by the operators of these plants.

The figures used for cheese and butter produced on farms were taken from the census report of 1917.

The value of milk produced other than that furnished cheese and butter factories and condensaries and ice cream plants was estimated as the amount used for family consumption by the total population of the state, which population is taken as 2,500,350 (figures reported by the U. S. Census Bureau, July 1, 1916). In estimating this amount, one pint per capita per day was used and the milk valued at 3 cents per pint.

In obtaining the estimate for the value of milk and cream shipped to Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Dubuque, and other points, the figures in the 1909 report were used. The value for such milk was estimated at $1.14 per hundred pounds which is the value of hundred pounds milk for 1909 as reported by the Crop Department. The amount of milk was increased 10 per cent assuming that there was that percentage of increase from 1909 to 1919. The value of milk for the year 1919 was placed at $2.82 being the value reported by the above mentioned department.

Skim milk was valued at one-half as much per hundred pounds as shelled corn is per bushel; and the value of whey at one-half of skim milk. The value of shelled corn was placed at $1.40 per bushel being figures given by the State Department of Agriculture.

The weights and measures work which is also covered by this department may be broadly divided into two general classifications, mechanical work and supervisory work. The mechanical embraces the actual testing, adjusting and sealing of various kinds of weighing and measuring appliances. The importance of the mechanical side of the work must not be overlooked because without correct weighing and measuring appliances it is absolutely impossible to secure the desired results along weights and measures lines. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, the state department inspected 11,288 establishments and tested 107,426 appliances of which number 103,099 were sealed. In summing up the supervisory work of the department the results are not so readily apparent as in the case of the mechanical work. It is true that certain prosecutions have been made in case of violations of the law but the actual results are more or less intangible and the large amount of good which has been done by this supervisory work cannot be shown in black and white. Supervisory work consists of try-outs and check weighings performed in the various places of business throughout the state, in educational work, in instruction in the law and the proper method of complying therewith, in talking before various organizations of business men and housewives, in examination into questionable methods of sale, in examining the conditions and use (not testing) of weighing and measuring devices.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF ENGINEERING

The department of engineering was organized under the law of 1915 by which all the engineering and architectural work of the state is combined under the direction of the state chief engineer.

Wisconsin was the first state in which all these activities were brought together in one department, although since the organization was made in Wisconsin several other states have passed somewhat similar laws but in none of them has the coordination been made so complete as in Wisconsin. A movement has been started to get the various federal engineering departments grouped in a single branch of the federal service.

The advantages in having these related lines brought together are many, among which are the avoidance of duplication of effort, standardization of practice, the ready transfer of experts from one department to another for short time service which must be of the highest quality, lower total cost and the very important point of providing a central office from which contractors and dealers in supplies may obtain information in the briefest time as to work being planned or in progress.

The Wisconsin state department of engineering is organized in eight divisions under direction of the state chief engineer, John G. D. Mack, as follows:

Architectural Division

Arthur Peabody, State Architect

This division has general charge of the design and maintenance of state buildings and supervision of the building of new structures. The state owns many buildings which may be classified as follows: Nine normal schools, sixteen penal and charitable institutions, the capitol, university, the state fair park, Stout Institute, Wisconsin Mining School, Veterans' Home, the Historical Library, and six main fish hatcheries,—a total of thirty-eight separate institutions, to which must be added many smaller detached buildings or groups, such as the Belmont territorial capitol, buildings in state parks, buildings at the experimental farms of the university, and the small fish hatcheries. The state has buildings of many kinds for a diversity of purposes, even owning three small hotels.

Drainage Division

E. R. Jones, State Drainage Engineer

The drainage division was formed recently to perform certain duties placed upon the department of engineering by the two excellent drainage laws passed by the 1919 legislature, namely, the farm drainage and the district drainage laws. In the state are seven million acres, one-fifth of the area of the state, which requires drainage, of which one million acres have been partially or well drained.

Highway Division

A. R. Hirst, State Highway Engineer

This division has charge of all the state's engineering work on highways and bridges under the Wisconsin Highway Commission, and formulates plans for county aid bridges. The great activity in road construction makes this the largest of the seven divisions of the department in the number of persons employed and the amount of money expended. For administration purposes the state is divided into eight divisions with a division engineer in charge of each. During the first nine months of 1920, 103 federal aid construction projects were undertaken, totaling 449 miles, of which 92 miles were concrete and plans were prepared for a total of 503 bridges. The supervision of the maintenance of the 5,000 miles of state trunk highway is one of the large factors in the work of the highway division.

Industrial Division

R. McA. Keown, Engineer

The industrial division has charge of the varied engineering problems arising in the work of the industrial commission, such as examinations for safety of machinery, fire prevention, electrical safety, boiler inspection, fire escapes, industrial disease hazards, illumination standards, and the examination of building plans to determine whether they meet with the requirements of the building code. A large committee is now working under direction of the industrial commission to fix a standard for automobile headlights.

Military Architecture and Engineering

H. C. Hengels, Major W. N. G.

In charge of military architecture and engineering for the state military department. Warehouses and other buildings are under construction at Camp Douglas. A number of buildings throughout the state are to be remodeled into armories.

Power Plant Division

John C. White, State Power Plant Engineer

The state owns twenty-eight institutions having heating or heating and power plants over which the power plant division has general supervision to obtain the most economical operating conditions. This division designs the new power and heating installations and supervises the construction and repairs.

Railroad and Utilities Division

C. M. Larson, Engineer

This division performs the engineering work required by the railroad and tax commissions consisting in part of the following: Utility valuations, studies of utility operation, gas, electric, water and heat service inspections, water power inspections, railroad grade crossing safety and elimination, and electric and steam railway accidents. The work of this division is increasing rapidly in volume due to the many demands for rate adjustments.

Sanitary Engineering Division

C. M. Baker, State Sanitary Engineer

This division has for its principal function the sanitary engineering problems arising under laws administered by the state board of health, such as the protection of streams and water supplies from contamination, the sanitary disposal of wastes, and the inspection of plumbing and sewage disposal plants. Many of these problems approach those of the conservation commission, the industrial commission, and the dairy and food commission, duplication of work being avoided by conference with these departments.

Engineers are frequently called upon to perform some service for a department of state other than that to which they are attached, for example, an electrical engineer from the railroad and utilities division to design an installation or consult on electrical work for the state board of control or the board of regents of normal schools.

It was the purpose of the engineering law to furnish the state with the highest type of professional engineering or architectural service, so that the law provides that if there be no one on the staff specially qualified for a particular problem one who has the necessary qualifications may be appointed.

The legislatures of 1917 and 1919 added many duties to the state department of engineering over those prescribed in the original 1915 laws.

Wisconsin's state health organization, given wider scope and personnel by the 1919 legislature, exercised its varied functions during the last two-year period with greater effectiveness than in any previous time. Although the influenza epidemic greatly swelled the normal mortality, the period showed a notable decline in deaths generally. The public was more careful in avoiding infections, the epidemic teaching many a valuable lesson in this regard. Reporting of communicable diseases, greatly stimulated by the energetic efforts of a federal health official now with this department, reached its highest efficiency, enabling the authorities to analyze health conditions with an accuracy not hitherto attained.

A few summaries from the official records will illustrate the favorable mortality trend. In 1919 Wisconsin had an exceptionally low infant mortality, with 80 deaths out of every 1,000 births. This gave Wisconsin seventh rank in the Birth Registration area for low infant mortality.

Tuberculosis deaths were reduced to 86 per 100,000 population in 1919, the big decline being obvious when comparison is made with 1909, when the mortality was up to 107.8. In 1918, when latest comparative figures are available, Wisconsin had the fifth lowest death rate from tuberculosis in the entire registration area of the United States, only Utah, Kansas, Washington and Oregon showing better records.

With the exception of infantile paralysis and scarlet fever, the death rates from all communicable diseases in Wisconsin during 1918 and 1919 were lower than those of the registration area. The actual number of deaths in the state from communicable diseases in 1919 was 5,341, which was approximately one-half the number recorded during 1918. This fact alone is proof of the steadily decreasing mortality. Diphtheria was the only communicable disease the mortality from which was higher in 1919 than in 1918. The remaining death rates were invariably lower than in the previous year. Death rates are considerably higher in counties having the larger cities.

The principal communicable diseases responsible for death, excluding influenza, are meningitis, diphtheria, measles, infantile paralysis, scarlet fever, smallpox, tuberculosis, typhoid fever, and whooping cough. In 1918 the death rate from these combined causes for the entire state was 14.5, while in 1919 it was 12.1 per 10,000 population.

The following table epitomizes Wisconsin's low mortality in comparison with the death rates of other states in the registration area. This is a comparison of the death rates per 100,000 population from all causes and from certain communicable diseases in Wisconsin in 1918 and 1919 with those of the U. S. Registration Area for 1918 (the rates for 1919 not yet being available):

DEATH RATES PER 100,000 POPULATION

Disease	Wisconsin 1918	Wisconsin 1919	Registration Area 1918
All causes	1,370.1	1,103.8	1,797.2
Meningitis	10.2	6.0	8.7
Diphtheria	10.7	11.5	13.8
Measles	6.1	2.6	10.8
Poliomyelitis	3.5	2.0	1.2
Scarlet fever	7.8	6.0	3.0
Smallpox5	.5	.4
Tuberculosis (all forms).....	95.0	86.0	149.1
Typhoid fever	4.0	3.2	12.5
Whooping cough	7.5	4.6	16.8
Influenza	233.0	87.5	298.9

In the two years noted, influenza was the greatest single cause of death. In 1918 the reported deaths from influenza in Wisconsin were 7,066, with a death rate of 27.9 per 10,000 population, while in 1919 the deaths were 2,230, with a death rate of 8.7 per 10,000.

The measles death rate was very low in the state, dropping to 2.6 per 100,000 in 1919. For diphtheria the rate was the lowest recorded in Wisconsin in ten years, only 82 deaths resulting in 1919. The record for infantile paralysis is less favorable, Wisconsin's death rate of 2.0 in the same year being somewhat higher than for other area states. Scarlet fever has steadily increased in fatality, being perhaps the only disease in the state whose mortality shows an ascending trend. In 1919 this death rate was 6.0. For the registration area in 1918 this rate was 3.0. Smallpox mortality is almost negligible, only five deaths being recorded in 1919—about the same rate as for the country as a whole. The cases were very numerous, however, 3,397 being reported in 1919, the largest number since 1914.

Typhoid fever shows a pronounced reduction as a cause of death. There were 215 cases and 82 deaths in 1919, the mortality rate being 3.2, while in 1910 the state had 2,446 reported cases and 558 deaths, or a mortality rate of 24.0. The fight for purer water supplies thus has borne excellent fruit.

Bureau of Vital Statistics

This Bureau is charged with the duty of keeping complete state records of the three most important events in the lives of the citizens—those of birth, marriage and death. Divorce records are also filed. The statistical information obtained from these records is always of great value in the prevention of disease, in safeguarding the civil and property rights of citizens, and in arriving at a proper understanding of our social conditions. All records after being properly indexed and tabulated are filed in a fireproof vault.

Bureau of Communicable Diseases

The 1921 Legislature will be asked for an appropriation sufficient to broaden and strengthen the activities of the Bureau of Communicable Diseases, formerly known as the Bureau of Contagious Diseases. With additional assistance it will be possible to study intensively the circumstances connected with disease prevalence, thereby insuring improvement in the methods of prevention and control. The work of this bureau is at present under the temporary direction of Dr. Robert Olesen, who has been detailed by the U. S. Public Health Service for duty with the State Board of Health. Valuable aid in preventing and controlling communicable diseases is given by the five deputy state health officers and the state laboratories.

Bureau of Education

The functions of this Bureau are to disseminate through various channels facts about the control of disease, personal hygiene, sanitation, preservation of health, and promotion of better social conditions, and the general activities of Wisconsin's health administration. A large number of health bulletins, popularly written, are distributed to citizens of the state, and health activities are discussed in brief articles in the newspapers. This latter activity is in charge of L. W. Bridgman.

Bureau of Child Welfare and Public Health Nursing

This division through education and the supervision of the work of public health nurses promotes children's health and wellbeing and the attainment of 100 per cent birth registration; the establishment of nutrition classes for underweight children and of children's health centers, and the placing of scales in rural schools. Other objects are the standardization of the work of county nurses; maintenance of a traveling library for nurses; encouragement for more nurses to take up public health work, and the establishment of a complete nursing service which will provide advisory service for all public health nurses. Mrs. Mary P. Morgan is director of the Bureau, and Miss Nellie van Kooy is field advisory nurse.

Bureau of Sanitary Engineering

This Bureau, authorized for a number of years, had clearly defined functions and personnel prescribed for it by the 1919 Legislature, and is charged with the safeguarding of Wisconsin's water and ice supplies from pollution, and with the supervision over all sewage and industrial waste disposal, and the approval of all plans for such new plants and important extensions of existing systems. C. M. Baker is state sanitary engineer, and E. J. Tully is chemical engineer.

Bureau of Plumbing and Domestic Sanitary Engineering

This division of the Board conducts the work of inspection of plumbing and drainage installations, enforcement of the State Plumbing Code and licensing of plumbers; promotes the adoption of ordinances for local supervision of plumbing; assists in methods for insuring proper rural water supply and sewage disposal systems, and for toilet facilities for schools, fairs, industrial plants and homes, especially where public water supply and sewerage systems are not available, and supervises the enforcement of the Comfort Station act. It also does much educational work on behalf of sanitation, approved plumbing systems, and other lines in which public health and personal comfort are concerned. License fees make the Bureau self-sustaining. Frank R. King is State Plumbing and Domestic Sanitary Engineer. Assistant inspectors are: John H. Owens, Racine, First District; Robert E. Hasselkus, Dousman, Second District; Eugene Morse, Eau Claire, Third District.

Laboratories Division

The laboratories of the State Board of Health comprise the State Laboratory of Hygiene at Madison, the branch State Laboratory at Rhinelander, and the state cooperative laboratories at Superior, Oshkosh, Wausau, Kenosha and Green Bay. Another has been authorized for Beloit. Their principal service is the examination of specimens for suspected cases of tuberculosis, diphtheria, typhoid fever, gonorrhoea, rabies, anthrax, actinomycosis and meningitis. Water is tested for its purity. The central laboratory furnishes anti-typhoid vaccine and pneumonia vaccine free to physicians of the state. The laboratories are under the direct supervision of Dr. W. D. Stovall, director of the central laboratory at Madison. M. S. Nichols is laboratory chemist.

Hotel and Restaurant Division

The sanitary regulation of all hotels and restaurants, and their licensing, are under the direction of this division, which is sustained by the license fees. All eating establishments at state and county fairs are also inspected every year, and fair toilet conditions brought under surveillance to safeguard the rights of the public. The inspectors are W. G. Mase, Madison; B. A. Honeycomb, Madison; and E. U. F. Loether,* Eau Claire. (*Resigned, June, 1920).

Barber Division

The State Board of Health licenses all barbers and inspects all barber shops in the state, and enforces rules for their sanitary operation, which are minimum requirements. Charles E. Mullen, Madison, is chief clerk; and E. C. Puerner, Fond du Lac, and Fred Beth, La Crosse, are the state barber inspectors.

Beauty Parlor Division

The 1919 Legislature authorized the sanitary regulation of beauty parlors, placing the law's enforcement in this Department. All operators and managers of beauty parlors are licensed, and all beauty parlors are inspected at least once a year. Mrs. Katherine Burgess, Madison, is the inspector.

Embalming Division

The State Board of Health prescribes rules and regulations governing the licensing of embalmers and enforces the minimum requirements necessary for the safe transportation of the dead. The license fees are sufficient to support the embalming division.

Local Boards of Health

The state law requires that each township, incorporated village and city in the state must have a local health organization. There are 1,741 local health officers. The local health board, when appointed, must organize and keep a record of all its transactions. The state health department supervises and assists the 1,741 townships, incorporated villages and cities and the city health departments in the enforcement of the health laws and state and local rules and regulations.

The State Board collects reports of all communicable diseases and assists local health officers in guarding against epidemics. It makes a special study of the causes and methods of prevention of excessive mortality from any disease in any portion of the state. When necessary it assists the local boards of health in the abatement of nuisances and other conditions which are detrimental to health. It assists each local health officer in making an annual sanitary survey of the territory within his jurisdiction and in maintaining therein a continuous sanitary supervision. It furnishes to any township, incorporated village or city without charge expert advice and assistance at any time in the solution of health problems.

WISCONSIN STATE HIGHWAY WORK

The progress of systematized road work since its inception in 1907 has been described in detail in the Blue Books of 1915, 1917 and 1919. The period since the last issue has also been one of steady progress, in spite of obstacles which were serious and at some times appeared insurmountable.

In the early stages of the work, state highway improvements generally consisted of isolated short improvements serving almost purely local means. The advent of the automobile in large numbers made clear the necessity for coordination of improvements. Steps were taken as early as 1915 for better coordination. The enactment of the Federal Aid Law in 1916 gave an increased impetus to construction on the main highways and assisted in the passage of the State Trunk Highway Law by the legislature of 1917. Under this the state trunk highway system of five thousand miles was laid out in 1917 and marked and maintained beginning in the spring of 1918.

The success of this system far surpassed our expectations and resulted in a demand from the legislature of 1919 for increased mileage. That legislature responded by authorizing the increase of 2,500 miles and this addition was made during the late season of 1919, marked and maintained commencing early in 1920. The net result is that we now have a state trunk highway system of 7,500 miles laid out in the same manner as the first five thousand and marked and maintained by the counties under the direction of the State Highway Commission. All construction with joint federal and county funds, and construction with the first fifty per cent of state aid, and accompanying county and local funds is confined to this system. We have, in addition, the county systems of prospective state highways, comprising about 15,000 miles, on which improvements with the second fifty per cent of state aid and accompanying funds, also improvements with joint county and town funds, may be made.

Aside from this addition of mileage to the state trunk highway system, and an important increase in appropriations mentioned later in this article, no large changes were made by the legislature of 1919. There were several amendments to the State Aid and State Trunk Highway Laws, explained in the commission bulletin No. 9, but these were changes in details and did not affect fundamentals.

The amount made available by the state as state aid to construction on the county system of prospective state highways is the same as heretofore, $785,000 annually. The original federal appropriation to aid the states was increased by $50,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, that sum being made available February 28, 1919, and the sum of $75,000,000 annually for the fiscal years ending June 30, 1920, and June 30, 1921, these sums to be distributed among the states in the same proportion as the original appropriation of $75,000,000. This made it necessary for the state to make additional financial provision over what had already been made. This took the form of an annual appropriation of $1,700,000 for three years, beginning July 1, 1919. The total thus made available for new construction in 1919 and 1920 through both Federal and State Aid laws was $5,032,856 and $8,938,590 respectively.

It was, however, not possible to execute more than a portion of the work for which financial provision had been made. While there were, prior to 1919, war restrictions and economic difficulties arising from war conditions which interfered seriously with the execution of construction of all kinds, the full effect was not felt until 1919 and 1920. Prices of labor and materials continued to advance; there were new restrictions, such as embargoes on the use of open top cars, the only equipment suitable for the shipment of road materials, strikes, and many other unforeseen conditions which made it difficult to get work executed at all and impossible in many cases, except at exorbitant costs.

The Highway Commission foresaw these difficulties as early as 1917, and took steps to meet them. It was plain that any attempt to carry out an extensive highway construction program during the period would serve to dissipate the funds available without adequate returns and to aggravate the prevailing economic difficulties. It was therefore determined to limit all construction to work of two classes: First, that which was absolutely unavoidable and worth while, even at the high prices paid; second, scattered work which could be done with local labor available for that purpose, but not available for work away from its own locality. It was determined to defer all other construction until such time as conditions would become stabilized.

It might be thought that this policy would result in damage to the highways and consequent great detriment to the traveling public through postponement of important road work. This, however, was not the case. Our roads have steadily improved, in spite of the restrictions on construction. This is due to the maintenance policy inaugurated, which has, in spite of difficulties attendant, steadily become more efficient. It is in reality more than mere maintenance, as the roads continually improve. The State Highway Commission believes that this maintenance system is sufficient to make possible the indefinite postponement of many construction operations which would otherwise be necessary in the near future.

It has been so effective that many of our counties have installed it on county trunk systems comprising their most important roads outside of the state trunk highway systems. These systems have been marked in a manner similar to the marking of the state trunk highways, except that letters are used in the place of numbers. The maintenance work and the marking have received the enthusiastic praise of practically all of our citizens who have made any comment and residents of other states visiting with us have been even more appreciative.

The commission is determined, come what may, to keep the trunk highways open to travel at all reasonable times, to repair damages at the earliest time practicable, to mark and maintain detours when obstructions are unavoidable and to make the roads as comfortable to travelers as our means will permit.

The legislature of 1919 repealed the old labor tax town road law and substituted a law requiring payment of road taxes in cash and their expenditure under the supervision of a town superintendent of highways. Replies to a questionnaire addressed to all town chairmen in the state indicate a preponderance of opinion in favor of the new law, especially in the towns where it has had a thorough trial. It is hoped that this new law will be the means of extending the benefits of systematic maintenance beyond the main highways to byroads of the state.

It has been stated that the commission, as early as 1917, adopted a policy of restricting its construction work in order to avoid interference with activities deemed more essential for the successful prosecution of the war. But it must not be inferred from this that this was a policy of indiscriminate repression. The various construction projects were carefully considered, those postponed were the least essential. There were several projects of the largest importance to the people of the state, some consisting of short, unpaved gaps in important roads otherwise paved. In other cases improvements were most necessary to do away with serious existing danger, particularly in the way of railroad grade crossings. The necessity of carrying out work of this character was early determined and the intention of the commission to see them through never relaxed. Many important grading projects were carried out, largely with local labor. While successful agricultural operations in this state mean activity the year round, there is no real slack season for the Wisconsin farmer, yet there are periods in the summer when there is a certain surplus of labor in the rural districts. Advantage was taken of such periods to organize grading crews to make the smaller improvements and many such, aggregating a large total mileage, were executed. All circumstances in connection with the work being considered, the construction accomplished during the years 1919 and 1920, will compare favorably with the accomplishments of previous years and the accomplishments of neighboring states.

The Highway Commission has always endeavored to keep closely in touch with its work and has, from the beginning, done more day labor work than any of the neighboring states. In the early days this could not be avoided. Operations were, in general, so small and so widely scattered as not to make it profitable for contractors to undertake them. These day labor operations, with which the commission's engineers have always kept in close touch, have, however, been the means of giving the commission a close insight into the costs of all road construction operations. The surplus war equipment turned over to the state by the U. S. War Department, beginning in 1919, furnished the means by which day labor operations could be executed on a large scale. The commission hesitated long before undertaking any day labor work, but there were, on certain important projects, irreconcilable differences of opinion with regard to proper costs for the work. The commission felt that it was justifiable to supplement the equipment received from the War Department with other necessary equipment and do the work by day labor where it could not be contracted at a cost which appeared fair to the commission's engineers. A number of these day labor projects have been completed and the results have amply justified the undertaking. In all cases there have been savings to the people of the state and in a majority these economies have been substantial.

But the mere savings in dollars and cents have not been the most important benefits of these undertakings. They have enabled the Highway Commission to get a better insight on construction work than it could obtain in any other way and the economies effected in the operations already undertaken will without doubt be reflected in future work. It should not be understood from this that the Highway Commission is opposed to fair profits for legitimated services rendered; in fact the experience derived from its own operations will be the best guarantee of fair profits to those who are able and willing to give due return therefor.

When it became evident that the supply of materials in the way of sand and gravel and crushed rock received from commercial producers would be severely restricted, largely through transportation difficulties, the commission at once began considering the possibility of local production of such material. In conjunction with the Geological Survey, a careful study of material deposits was made throughout a large portion of the state. The first investigations were made with the view of developing supplies for projects under immediate consideration and this policy still continues to some extent. But it is the intention to acquaint ourselves as fully as possible with the material supplies of the entire state, in order that the most advantageous arrangements for projected construction may be made. This material investigation has already been amply justified. Through the use of local materials, the commission has been able to execute important projects which could not otherwise have been carried out; in a number of instances deposits of construction materials have been discovered where they were previously unknown and we believe that discoveries made to date are only a beginning of the discoveries that will be made. We feel that the public in general and the counties in particular will be able, through an improved knowledge of local sources of supply, to acquire such quarries and pits of sand, gravel and clay as are necessary for the conduct of their road building work and hope that they will avail themselves of the opportunity. The industry of road building is the largest consumer of materials of this kind and it is no more than fair that it should purchase its materials in the cheapest market. It behooves those in conduct of the work not to allow their own demand for the materials necessary for their work to run the price up to an exorbitant figure.

This does not mean that the local sources of supply will be used exclusively, or even in the majority of cases, but only where there is a saving. There are economies in the large commercial plant which temporary or portable plants cannot rival. The installation of a temporary or portable production plant will rarely, if ever, be advisable in projects conveniently selected with regard to commercial plants. This will be especially true if freight facilities improve to a marked extent, as we now begin to believe will be the case. From such information as the commission now has, it is of the opinion that we will be able to use the entire available output of our commercial plants in addition to the materials which can be produced locally.

The commission believes that construction in 1921 will be carried out under more favorable conditions than during 1919 and 1920. There are indications which appear unmistakable that materials will be cheaper and deliveries better, that labor will be more efficient, even though wages are not greatly reduced. While the two lean years of 1919 and 1920, have curtailed road construction, they have also taught us lessons which will be of the utmost benefit in the future. The policy of restriction adopted has left considerable unexpended balances from appropriations made in these years. The county board meetings of 1920 have voted more funds for road building than ever before. They have in fact raised more money in some cases than appears expedient. It now appears that conditions in 1921 will be such that highway construction can be undertaken on a scale unprecedented in this state.

The commission believes that the public will receive adequate returns for the expenditures made. The difficulties under which it has struggled in the past few years have put the organization in a better condition than ever to cope with the problems of the future. No work has been undertaken in excess of what could reasonably be completed, consequently there are no incompleting contracts, let at the high prices of 1920, to be completed in 1921. The future is a clean slate. The commission hopes and expects, by its record of performance, in the future, to merit the continuance of the support so generously accorded in the past by the people of the state.

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION

Wisconsin is an important industrial state. In the Census of Manufacturers of 1914 it ranked tenth among the states of the Union, both in the number of employes engaged in manufacturing and in value of manufactured products. Since that date the manufacturing industries of the state have grown rapidly. While the results of the 1919 Census of Manufacturers have not yet been announced, there are now employed in manufacturing industries of Wisconsin approximately 325,000 persons, and the annual value of the manufactured products exceeds $1,000,000,000 and perhaps $1,500,000,000. The value of the manufactured products is, thus, approximately double the total value of the annual agricultural production of the state.

In mining Wisconsin also ranks high among the states of the Union. While it has no coal or precious metal mines, its iron and zinc mines and its limestone, granite and other quarries are great sources of wealth and give employment, in round numbers, to 15,000 persons.

This does not exhaust the number of persons employed in Wisconsin in industrial employments, as distinguished from domestic service and agriculture. In mercantile establishments, in building construction, and in miscellaneous branches of industry more than 100,000 persons are employed.

For the protection of the large number of its citizens who are employed in these various industrial employments, Wisconsin has enacted progressize labor laws. These laws are all administered by the Industrial Commission. It is its duty to do everything possible to prevent industrial accidents and to eliminate needless loss of life and property through fires. It administers also the compensation act, the apprenticeship law, and all laws relating to the employment of women and children. It is further charged with the duty of promoting the voluntary arbitration, mediation and conciliation of labor disputes. It conducts the free employment offices of the state and regulates the private employment agencies. Finally, in broad terms, it is its duty to administer and enforce "all other laws protecting the life, health, safety and welfare of employers, employes and places of employment, and frequenters of places of employment."

For convenience of administration, the Industrial Commission has divided its work into seven departments: Safety and Sanitation, Workmen's Compensation, Employment, Women and Child Labor, Apprenticeship, Statistics, and General Administration. It has 110 permanent employes and its total appropriation available for the current fiscal year is, in round numbers, $289,000.

Safety and Sanitation

The largest department of the Industrial Commission is the Safety and Sanitation Department, and on the work of this department is expended one-third of the commission's total appropriation.

In common with other leading industrial states, Wisconsin does not now prescribe in detail the safety devices which must be used in industry. The statutes merely provide that all employers and all owners of public buildings shall provide places of employment and buildings which are safe to employes and frequenters, and make it the duty of the Industrial Commission to determine what is to be regarded as safe in different industries.

In discharge of this duty the Industrial Commission has adopted the following safety codes:

- General Orders on Safety
- General Orders on Sanitation
- General Orders on Fire Prevention
- Building Code
- Elevator Code
- Electrical Safety Code
- Industrial Lighting Code
- Boiler Code
- General Orders on Existing Buildings
- General Orders on Safety in Building Construction
- The Refrigerating Plant Code
- General Orders on Laundries
- General Orders on Lead and Zinc Mines
- General Orders on Acetylene Charging Plants

All of these codes were drafted by the advisory committees, composed of representatives of the employers and employes in the industries affected, and were adopted after widely advertised public hearings.

These orders are enforced through the inspection service of the commission. There are eleven district deputies, who endeavor to make systematic inspections of all factories and other places of employment in their territory. In addition the commission has a number of engineers on its staff to deal with special problems, such as lighting, ventilation, building construction, fire prevention, elevator inspection, boiler inspection and mine inspection. In all the inspection work the thought uppermost in mind is to secure the cooperation of both employers and employes in accident prevention. The commission's deputies are not mere policemen, but seek to help employers solve their accident and industrial health problems.

Workmen's Compensation

The chief purpose of the workmen's compensation act is to guarantee at the expense of industry, necessary medical treatment to injured employes, and at least enough compensation to keep them and their dependents from becoming public charges. It is a plan also for avoiding needless litigation and for securing prompt payments to the injured. The compensation allowed is only a part of the wage loss, but the question of negligence is eliminated.

Nearly 20,000 compensable accidents occur in Wisconsin each year. In approximately 95% of these cases, settlements are made without a formal award of the Industrial Commission. In all cases, however, complete reports are furnished to the Commission and it sees to it that the injured employes are paid the full amount due them.

In 5% of the cases settled,—which involve, however, nearly one-half of the total benefits under the act,—the Commission must determine the rights of the parties by a formal order. This part of its work involves nearly 2,000 hearings each year, which are held in all parts of the state. Usually these hearings are conducted by one member of the Commission or by an examiner, but the Commission as a body passes upon and decides all cases.

The table given below gives the totals of the benefits which have been paid under the compensation act.

*Of these 118,988 cases reported, 8,968 should never have been reported, since they were not compensable accidents (i. e., less than eight days, not in course of employment, not an employe, etc.) The open cases, therefore, are 9,714.

Employment

Free employment offices are maintained by the Industrial Commission at Milwaukee, Superior, Green Bay, Sheboygan, Racine, Madison, Oshkosh, La Crosse, Wausau, Rhinelander, and Ashland. All these offices are conducted under co-operative arrangements between the Industrial Commission and the city or city and county combined, in which they are located. All expenses for quarters, equipment, telephone rental and janitor service are defrayed by the city, while the state, through the Industrial Commission, pays the salaries of all employes. The work of these free employment offices during the fiscal year 1919-1920 is summarized in the table given below:

The total of 94,770 verified placements of the free employment offices is to be contrasted with 8,286 placements of the private employment agencies during the same fiscal year. Of this total number, 26,437 were casual workers, 20,352 common laborers, 12,318 skilled and semi-skilled men in manufacturing industries, 9,218 woodsmen and timber workers, and 3,873 agricultural laborers.

Women and Child Labor

Under the child labor law of Wisconsin employers must secure permits for the employment of children under seventeen years of age, except in agricultural pursuits and in domestic service in places where there are no vocational schools. All such permits are issued by the Industrial Commission. In Milwaukee these permits are issued directly by the Commission through its paid employes. Elsewhere in the state they are issued by unpaid deputies—more than 200 in number—who are generally public officials, such as county judges, superintendents of schools, and directors of vocational schools. In 1919-1920, 25,507 child labor permits were issued in Milwaukee, and over 15,000 permits in the rest of the state.

Besides being responsible for the issuance of child labor permits, it is the duty of the Industrial Commission to secure compliance with the child labor law by employers and parents. This is done through the inspection of places of employment, through educational propaganda, and through the enforcement of the provisions of the compensation act, giving treble compensation to minors injured while illegally employed.

This department of the Commission is responsible also for the enforcement of the women's hours of labor law. This law limits the hours of employment of women to periods which will be consistent with their life, health, safety and welfare, and makes it the duty of the Industrial Commission to determine these limits for various industries. Pending such determinations, a maximum 10-hour day and 55-hour week for day work and an 8-hour day and a 48-hour week for night work is prescribed. Six orders adopted by the Industrial Commission have modified this schedule, but have not disturbed the maximum limitations. The principal modification made has been to prohibit all night work of women in manufactories and laundries.

The minimum wage law is also enforced through this department,—one deputy devoting her time to this work. This statute provides that all employers of women and minors shall pay to all such employes a living wage and requires the Industrial Commission from time to time to determine what is the living wage. In discharge of this duty the Industrial Commission fixed the living wage at 22 cents an hour, which order became effective August 1, 1919. In the determination of this rate and in the preparation of six orders supplementary to the original minimum wage order, the commission has been assisted by an Advisory Wage Board, composed of four employers and four employes, selected by the principal organizations of employers and employes, and four representatives of the general public, selected after consultation with the other members of the board. Under the operation of this law the wages of probably one-third of all women and minor employes in the state have been raised and over $30,000 has been collected as back pay for employes who were paid less than the minimum wage since the law became effective.

Apprenticeship

Wisconsin is the only state in the Union which has a modern apprenticeship law, but such laws are to be found in many foreign countries. The purpose of this law is to encourage boys and girls to learn skilled trades and to meet the great need of industry for all around mechanics. Under this law learners in all skilled trades must be indentured, and the terms of the indenture must be approved by the Industrial Commission.

To date the terms of apprenticeship contracts have been standardized in more than twenty trades. More than 1,000 boys have completed their contracts and have received certificates of apprenticeship from the Industrial Commission, which are coming to be recognized everywhere as proof that the holder is an all around mechanic. At the present writing there are 1,150 live apprenticeship contracts in force in the state, and the number is rapidly increasing.

Statistics

It is the duty of the Industrial Commission to collect statistics relating to industrial conditions in Wisconsin. Special emphasis has been given to statistics upon industrial accidents and compensation costs. These have been analyzed by causes and by industries, to facilitate the work of accident prevention and to serve as a basis for determining the reasonableness of compensation insurance rates. During the last year attention has been given also to securing better employment and wage statistics. Reports are now secured monthly from employers having between 25% and 30% of the total payroll of the state, which show the number of their employes and the total of the wages paid by them. These reports are tabulated promptly after receipt and afford a fairly accurate index to the condition of the labor market in various industries.

Mediation and Arbitration

Upon the request of either party to an industrial dispute the Industrial Commission offers its services to try to prevent an open break, or affect a settlement if it has already occurred. If its services are accepted, it acts in the role of a mediator, trying to bring the parties together and to find a common basis for agreement.

INSURANCE AND FIRE MARSHAL'S DEPARTMENT

(Created by Act of Legislature March 14, 1870.).

The chief functions of the Department of Insurance are the supervision and regulation of insurance companies and insurance concerns transacting business in this state including the organization, admission and annual licensing of domestic, other states and foreign corporations, associations, societies, Lloyds and inter-insurers and their agents; valuation of policies and certificates of life insurance; filing and approval of policy forms and of the rates and reserves for life insurance companies; examinations, winding up of insolvent companies, and the making and publishing of annual reports; also the supervision of insurance companies' stock sales; collection of insurance companies' taxes and fees; review of fire insurance rates; the calculation of inheritance taxes; the management of the State Insurance Fund for public buildings and the State Life Fund for life insurance and annuities; certifying to the Secretary of State and State Treasurer a list of such cities, towns and villages as are entitled to fire department dues, and computing and distributing the fire department dues collected by the Department of Insurance.

Doing business in this state are 180 stock fire insurance companies, 103 domestic mutuals, 203 farmers' town mutual fire insurance companies, 6 foreign marine companies, 1 Lloyds, 16 fire inter-insurers, 26 legal reserve life insurance companies, and 69 fraternal. There are also 70 stock casualty companies, 24 mutual casualty companies, 6 casualty inter-insurers, and 11 assessment accident companies.

Under the provisions of section 1921, the Commissioner of Insurance is a member of the Compensation Insurance Board for the review of compensation insurance rates.

Under section 1946h, the Commissioner of Insurance is ex officio State Fire Marshal. The Fire Marshal's department is charged with investigation of fires of unknown, suspicious and incendiary origin; assisting district attorneys and other officials in the collection of evidence and in the prosecution of arson cases; collecting and compiling statistics of the state's fire losses and their causes, and furthering the work of fire prevention.

During the year 1919, 278 fires were investigated, 29 arrests were made, 10 were convicted of arson, 4 committed to the Hospital for the Insane, 2 died while their cases were pending, 8 bound over and awaiting trial, and 5 discharged after hearing on trial.

Annual Reports of both Insurance and Fire Marshal's Departments are furnished upon request.

The State Fire Fund writes all the state property and such county, city, village, school district, and library property as may apply for insurance. The fund is now carrying something over $30,000,000 fire and about the same amount of tornado insurance.

Thirteen counties, 7 school districts, and 6 cities and villages have insured their property in the fund. The rate charged is 75% of the rate charged by old line companies. The total amount now in the fund is $378,803.01. Since the State Fire Fund was created it has received $999,085.06, and has paid out in losses $610,642.48.

The State Life Fund writes all of the ordinary forms of insurance written by regularly organized insurance companies. It issued the first policies in 1913 and at the end of 1920, it had 504 policies in force, and total assets of about $85,000. The amount of insurance in force was $423,500. The fund operates without agents. The premiums are based upon the American Experience Table, and differ from the premium rates of ordinary life companies only in the fact that the expense charge in the state fund is less than in the ordinary company.

WISCONSIN NATIONAL GUARD

Due to two wars the Wisconsin National Guard is now being organized for the third time, all the guard with the exception of Troop A having been mustered out of the service in 1898 to join the Volunteer forces in the Spanish war, and in 1917 the entire guard joined the United States forces in the World war.

In 1879 the first troops, consisting of several separate companies, were officially designated National Guard. For many years prior to that these companies were known as Wisconsin Volunteer Militia, the first company known as the Green County National Guard, being mustered in at Monroe on Oct. 6, 1866, and while this company adopted as part of its name National Guard it was part of the volunteer militia. The next year companies were formed as follows: Cream City Guards, Milwaukee; Manitowoc Volunteer Militia and the Richland Center Light Artillery.

On March 29, 1879, the first battalion was organized, consisting of the Custer Rifles, Whitewater; Beloit City Guards; Janesville Guards and Bower City Rifles, Janesville, with Major William B. Britton, Janesville, commanding.

On the same date the first order relative to adopting a uniform dress for the guard was published, each company prior to that having adopted any uniform it saw fit. The order states, "For enlisted men. Full dress coat; single breasted, 'National Guard' pattern, of dark blue broadcloth, buttoning to the throat; standing collar, to hook in front at bottom, and sloping thence up and backward; with collar, sleeve and skirt 'slashed' and skirt facing of buff cloth; collar seams and edges of 'slashes' trimmed with narrow 'sautache' gold braid; three rows of 'Wisconsin state pattern' buttons on breast, nine to a row; three on each 'skirt slash', two on waist seam at back, and one on each skirt, at intersection of facings, all of 'coat size'; three 'vest size' buttons at each sleeve 'slash', and one at point of each 'collar slash'. Trousers, dark blue cloth with buff stripe one inch wide on outer seam. Cap, 'Chasseur' pattern, of dark blue cloth."

These uniforms were in turn replaced by the dark blue coat and sky blue trousers of the "fatigue"; the khaki and olive drab. The cap gave way to the campaign hat, oversea cap and helmet, for in 1882 the legislature passed an act making the uniform of the army the uniform of the Guard.

The first regiments were formed on April 26, 1882, by General Orders No. 26, reading:

"1. The recent assignment of three additional companies to the 1st Battalion, W. N. G., entitled it to a full regimental organization; it will therefore be known and designated as the 'First Regiment, Wisconsin National Guard'.

"2. The recent assignment of four additional companies to the 2nd Battalion, W. N. G., entitled it to a full regimental organization; it will therefore be known and designated as the 'Second Regiment, Wisconsin National Guard'.

"By order of the Commander in Chief.

"Chandler P. Chapman,

"Adjutant General."

The first regiment consisted of Col. William B. Britton, Janesville; Lieut. Col. H. H. McLennegan, Beloit; Major Frank M. Reed, Racine; Lieut. M. A. Newman, Janesville, adjutant; Lieut. C. E. Jones, Beloit, quartermaster; Lieut. Joseph W. Bates, Janesville, judge advocate; Major Frank M. Reed

Racine, surgeon; Capt. G. G. Chittenden, Janesville, assistant surgeon; Co. A, Janesville Guard; Co. B, Bower City Rifles, Janesville; Co. C, Custer Rifles, Whitewater; Co. D, Delavan Guards; Co. E, Beloit City Guard; Co. F, Racine Light Guard; Co. G, Garfield Guard, Racine; Co. H, Monroe City Guard.

Second Infantry, Col. Gabe Bouch, Oshkosh; Major J. H. Marston, Appleton; Lieut. W. S. Wheeler, Oshkosh, adjutant; Lieut. John Keneally, Fond du Lac, quartermaster; Lieut. Emil Baensch, Manitowoc, judge advocate; Major F. J. Wilkie, Oshkosh, surgeon; Capt. L. A. Bishop, Fond du Lac, assistant surgeon; Co. A, Manitowoc Volunteers; Co. B, Oshkosh Guard; Co. C, Evergreen City Guard, Sheboygan; Co. D, Ripon Rifles; Co. E, Fond du Lac Guard; Co. F, Oshkosh Rifles; Co. G, Appleton Light Infantry; Co. H, Prairie City Guard, Ripon; Co. I, Rankin Guards, Manitowoc.

The 3rd Battalion, consisting of the Sherman Guard, Neillsville; Governor's Guard, La Crosse; La Crosse Light Infantry and Mauston Light Guard, was organized May 2, 1881. On April 30, 1883, the 3rd Regiment was formed there being added to the 3rd Battalion the following companies: Co. E, Germania Guard, Wausau; Co. F, Gupp Guard, Portage; Co. G, Wausau Light Guard; Co. H, Ludington Guard, Menomonie; Co. I, Sparta Rifles; Co. K, Tomah Guards.

The 4th Battalion was formed in Milwaukee on April 25, 1884, consisting of the Sheridan Guard, Kosciusco Guard, South Side Turner Rifles, Lincoln Guard. Out of this battalion grew the 4th Regiment. Troop A was formed April 27, 1880, and Battery A May 11, 1885. Both of these grew into regiments at the outbreak of the World war.

When the guard was called for the Spanish war the 1st and 4th regiments of Infantry each consisted of eight companies and the 2nd and 3rd of twelve companies. Four companies of the 4th Infantry were transferred to the 1st Infantry to complete its quota. On the second call the 4th regiment was recruited to war strength and the 5th Wisconsin Infantry organized for state protection with the understanding it was to be mustered out when the former organizations returned to the guard.

When the Wisconsin Guard was reorganized in 1899 it consisted of three regiments of infantry, a separate infantry battalion (10th Separate), a battery of artillery and a troop of cavalry. Later three of the companies of the separate battalion were transferred one to each regiment of infantry to become a machine gun company. When the Guard was called out for border service in 1916 two more batteries and an additional troop of cavalry were organized, although of these three units only the latter organization went into the federal service. As the guard was "called" and not "drafted" into the federal service in 1916 it did not lose its state identity and was not mustered out of the state service.

When called into the federal service in 1917 the Wisconsin National Guard consisted of two infantry brigades (6 regiments), a regiment of cavalry, a regiment of artillery, a signal battalion, a battalion of engineers, two ambulance companies and a field hospital.

The military records show the name of one person who has been in constant touch with the Wisconsin Guard since it was first organized into regiments in 1882. In 1882 Charles King was appointed aid de camp on the staff of Governor Rusk with the rank of colonel. Since those days he has been inspector, adjutant general, instructor, advisor and friend of thousands who have worn the uniform of the Badger soldier.

Active Service

The Wisconsin National Guard or detachments of it has been called into service sixteen times in the last forty years. The State Guard was called upon for troops on three occasions.

The New Wisconsin National Guard

Based on the requirement of 800 National Guardsmen for each senator and representative, the requirement that each state must meet, the Wisconsin

National Guard has progressed further with its reorganization than any other state on Jan. 1, 1921, more than half of Wisconsin's quota having been raised and federally recognized. The recruiting of the guard was so rapid that on Feb. 3, 1920, General Orders No. 3 were issued mustering out the Wisconsin State Guard Reserve and on March 5, 1920, General Orders No. 4 mustered out the Wisconsin State Guard. These were temporary military organizations raised to meet any emergencies during the war after the National Guard had been drafted into the federal service.

As it is the desire to have the units of the new guard grouped into regiments so as to be as close as possible geographically, both to facilitate troop movements and to aid in administration, no effort was made in the initial steps of reorganization to form regiments, the various organizations being carried as separate companies. The reorganization has proceeded to a point where regiments will be formed in 1921. During the summer of 1920 the encampment consisted of provisional regiments of infantry with a provisional squadron of cavalry and part of the trains in attendance at each of the three camps at the Wisconsin Military Reservation. In these camps nearly all of the officers and noncommissioned officers were oversea veterans.

On Jan. 1, 1921, there were 37 companies of infantry, 17 troops of cavalry, 3 batteries of field artillery, 3 regimental machine guns, 3 regimental supply companies, 3 bands, 1 tank company, 3 sanitary detachments, 3 companies of the Supply train and 3 companies of the Ammunition train federally recognized with numerous other organizations nearly ready for federal inspection and muster.

The present Wisconsin National Guard consists of the following:

THE SERVICE RECOGNITION BOARD

The Service Recognition Board was created under the provisions of Chapter 452 laws of 1919, to consist of the Governor, the Adjutant General and a returned soldier to be appointed by the Governor, who appointed to fill the Board, Major William F. Lorenz, Medical Corps, Wisconsin National Guard, late commanding officer of the Field Hospital Company No. 127 of the Sanitary Train 32nd Division National Guard; the Board organized by electing General O. Holway, the Adjutant General, as chairman, and Major John G. Salsman, A. G. National Guard, late 1st Asst. Adjutant 32nd Division, as secretary.

Under the terms of this act the Board was empowered to adopt rules for the selection and procedure, and to have complete charge and control of the relief of sick, wounded or disabled soldiers, sailors, or marines during their period of convalescence and to spend on each such soldier, etc., not to exceed thirty dollars per month. The appropriation for this purpose was $500,000. The Board up to and including December 31, 1920 had allowed the claims of 1,188 men, suffering from injuries received in the service and who were not yet being paid the allowance made by the Government of the United States under the War Risk Insurance act. In all cases where the payments were made by the U. S. Government the state aid was discontinued, as also when the soldier recovered sufficiently to be self-supporting. The injuries under which men were suffering classified as follows:

Tuberculosis, 371 cases	31%
Effects of Gas, 97 cases	8%
Rheumatism, 43 cases	4%
Mental Cases, 148 cases	13%
Battle Wounds, 217 cases	18%
Other Disabilities, 312 cases	26%
Total	1,188 cases

The amount expended in this aid to December 31, 1920 was $156,109, and on that date there were 320 cases to whom this aid was being paid.

The functions of the Board were further extended by Chapter 667 laws of 1919, approved by the referendum election on September 2, 1919. This act provided for a bonus of $10 per month of service for such soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses including Red Cross nurses, who at the time of entering the service were residents of Wisconsin. The Board by this act was given complete charge and control of the general scheme of such payments, was empowered to adopt general rules, uniform throughout the state, for the distribution of the fund, the ascertainment and selection of proper beneficiaries and the amount to which beneficiaries were entitled, etc.

Under the terms of the act the Board reported to the Tax Commission an estimate of the amount required and on the payment of the taxes, the amounts collected were

Surfax	$7,365,164.55
Total	$16,098,329.02

To date of December 31, 1920, there had been paid 107,500 claims in the total amount of $14,394,842.33 and the amount of the expenses of administration, for clerk hire, postage, stationery, etc., was $75,500. Under the provisions of Section 3 Chapter 30 laws of 1920 there was transferred to the University fund income the sum of $700,000. It is estimated that before the payment of this bonus is completed, approximately 7,000 more claims will be submitted by those who are entitled to the benefits of this act.

In every case where claim for the bonus was allowed, a complete copy of each soldier's etc., discharge was made, so that when eventually all claims have been received and settled, the state will have a complete record of each soldier who entered the service during the war against Germany who was a resident of the state and whose service was credited to the state. This record in coming years will be of increasing value to the people of the state.

GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC

The objects of this order are (1) to keep green the memory of the events and associations of the Civil War; (2) to aid unfortunate comrades, and (3) to keep alive and active the spirit of patriotism. The first post was organized April 6, 1866, at Decatur, Ill. The first National Encampment was held November 20, 1866, at Indianapolis.

THE WISCONSIN DEPARTMENT

The Department of Wisconsin was organized June 7, 1866, and the first Wisconsin post was chartered at Madison, June 10, 1866. This post, now known as Lucius Fairchild, No. 11, is still active and has 106 members. Post No. 4, of Berlin, was chartered Sept. 8, 1866, and has maintained ever since an unbroken organization. It is said to be the oldest Post in existence with an unbroken record.

General James K. Proudfit was the leading spirit in the organization of the Grand Army of the Republic in Wisconsin and became the first department commander. The following is the list of all department commanders up to the present.

† Elected commander-in-chief.

The department reached its largest membership in 1889, when it was 13,944. Dec. 31, 1919, there were 163 posts, with 3,126 members.

The legislature of 1901 established in the Capitol a Grand Army Memorial Hall for the preservation of relics, and books commemorative of the war, pictures of war scenes, and portraits of men and women who did good service for our country. In the Capitol fire of February 27, 1904, this hall with all it contained was destroyed. After shifting about from place to place in the intervening years, the hall, with Grand Army Headquarters for Wisconsin, is now permanently settled in five rooms on the fourth floor of the north wing of the Capitol. It is the finest department headquarters in the United States, and is equipped and maintained by the state. Wisconsin is generous in her attitude toward her old soldiers. The library there contains about 1,600 books, 500 pamphlets and 360 pictures, and many war relics. Hosea W. Rood, Company E 12th Wisconsin infantry, is the custodian.

At the last department encampment, held at Baraboo, June 14-16, 1920, the following named officers were chosen: Commander, Walter O. Pietzsch, Baraboo; Assistant Adjutant General and Quartermaster, W. J. McKay, Madison; Senior Vice Commander, M. L. Snyder, Waukesha; Junior Vice Commander, Dennis Meidam, Appleton; Medical Director, Dr. H. R. Bird, Madison; Chaplain, Rev. A. J. Hood, Muscoda; Chief of Staff, William H. Blyton, Sparta; Patriotic Instructor, Hosea W. Rood, Madison; Judge Advocate, M. J. Briggs, Dodgeville; Chief Mustering officer, A. F. Kayser, Milwaukee; Inspector, George O. Pietzsch, Monroe; Master of Transportation, J. W. Herrington, Baraboo; Color Bearer, Henry Marston, Kilbourn.

Camp Randall Memorial Park Commission, Colonel J. A. Watrous, Milwaukee, W. J. McKay, Madison, Charles W. Netherwood, Oregon.

The next department encampment will be held at Antigo, in June 1921.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

In 1881 the society received the official recognition of the Grand Army of the Republic and then took the full title, "Woman's Relief Corps, Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic." The first national gathering was at Denver, Colorado, July 25, 1883. It was there decided that all loyal women, whether of kin to soldiers of the war or not, should be eligible to membership. Those positively in favor of admitting only women of the families of soldiers withdrew and organized the "Ladies' Loyal League," now "Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic." Department and national conventions are held at the same times and places with encampments of the Grand Army of the Republic. The objects of the society are: "To specially aid and assist the Grand Army of the Republic and to perpetuate the memory of their heroic dead. To assist such union veterans as need our help and protection, and to extend needful aid to their widows and orphans. To find them homes and employment, and assure them of sympathy and friends. To cherish and emulate the deeds of our army nurses and of all loyal women who rendered loving service to their country in her hour of peril. To inculcate lessons of patriotism and love of country among our children, and in the communities in which we live. To maintain true allegiance to the United States of America. To discountenance whatever tends to weaken loyalty, and to encourage the spread of universal liberty and equal rights to all men."

The Department of Wisconsin was organized at La Crosse, June 26, 1884. Seven local corps were there represented, and, if the records are correct, there were eleven voting members present. The order has grown steadily since then, and now has 150 corps in Wisconsin, with 8,985 members.

The present department officers elected June 14, 1920 are as follows: President, May L. Luchsinger, Monroe; Senior Vice President, Sadie Carman, Janesville; Junior Vice President, Emma Davis, Baraboo; Secretary, Lydia R. West, Monroe; Treasurer, Lillian Patterson, Platteville; Chaplain, Dora M. Welton, Oshkosh; Patriotic Instructor, Mary Liebman, Green Bay.

The next department convention for Wisconsin will be at Antigo, in June, 1921.

LADIES OF THE GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC

This society of loyal and patriotic women is said to have had its origin in Portland, Maine, in 1867, under the name of the Loyal Ladies League. The first organized Department was that of New Jersey, 1881, with eight subordinate Leagues. Mrs. Carrie M. Burge, of Vineland, was the first Department President. The following were the stated objects of the order:

"To unite with loyalty, love for one another; to practice precepts of true fraternity of feeling toward all the sisters of our order, thus emulating the spirit that unites our fathers, husbands and brothers; to honor the memory of our fallen heroes; to perpetuate and keep forever sacred Memorial Day; to assist the Grand Army of the Republic in its high and holy mission—aid, encourage and sympathize with them in their noble work of charity; to extend needful aid to members in time of sickness and distress; to aid sick soldiers, sailors and marines, and do all in our power to alleviate suffering."

Eligibility to membership required an applicant to be of good moral character, and the mother or wife, sister or daughter of an honorably discharged soldier, sailor or marine who served in the Union Army during the Civil War of 1861-65. These requirements differed from those of the Woman's Relief Corps, which organization decided at its national convention in Denver, in 1883, to admit to membership any loyal woman of worthy character.

The Wisconsin department was organized in 1893. The names of the officers elected at Baraboo, June 15, 1920, are as follows: President, Mrs. Hannah Barnes, Wauwatosa; Senior Vice President, Mrs. Cora Drake, Antigo; Junior Vice President, Mrs. Anna Cota, Oconto Falls; Secretary, Mrs. Almira Gill, Milwaukee; Treasurer, Mrs. Jessie Barlass, Janesville; Chaplain, Mrs. May Howieson, Chippewa Falls; Patriotic Instructor, Mrs. Amanda Fessler, Ashland.

The next department meeting will be held at Antigo, in June, 1921.

THE SONS OF VETERANS

One of the most active organizations auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic is the Sons of Veterans of the United States of America. The order was established Nov. 12, 1881, at Pittsburg, Pa., and it has grown rapidly. It is based upon the following principles:

(1) A firm belief and trust in Almighty God, and a realization that under His beneficent guidance the free institutions of our land, consecrated by the services and blood of our fathers, have been preserved, and the integrity and life of the nation maintained.

(2) True allegiance to the government of the United States, based upon a respect for, and devotion and fidelity to, its constitution and laws, manifested by discountenancing anything that may tend to weaken loyalty, incite to insurrection, treason or rebellion, or in any way impair the efficiency and permanency of our national union.

Objects.—To keep green the memories of our fathers and their sacrifices for the maintenance of the Union; to aid the members of the Grand Army of the Republic in caring for disabled and helpless veterans; to extend aid and protection to their widows and orphans; to perpetuate the memory and history of their heroic dead, and maintain the proper observance of Memorial Day; to aid and assist worthy and needy members of our order; to inculcate patriotism and love of country, not alone among our members, but among all people of our land; and to spread and sustain the doctrine of equal rights, universal liberty and justice to all.

Membership.—Members must be at least eighteen years old, and the sons of deceased or honorably discharged Union soldiers. The sons of members of the order are eligible to membership on becoming twenty-one years of age.

The following named officers of the department were elected at Baraboo, June 15, 1920: Commander, Jesse T. Drake, Antigo; Senior Vice Commander, Oscar Doppler, Baraboo; Junior Vice Commander, G. W. Green, Altoona; Secretary-Treasurer, Valentine Stoddard, Stoughton; Chaplain, Rev. W. W. Moore, Eau Claire; Patriotic Instructor, Professor G. M. Palmer, Superior.

The next department meeting will be held in June, 1921, at Antigo.

LADIES' AUXILIARY TO THE SONS OF VETERANS

DEPARTMENT OF WISCONSIN.

The object of this Auxiliary is to aid the Sons of Veterans in the work to which they are pledged, especially to foster the spirit of patriotism in the young.

The following named officers were elected June 15, 1920: President, Mrs. Ada B. Carr, Fond du Lac; Vice President, Mrs. Catharine Ryan, Prairie du Chien; Secretary, Alvina Hulsman, Fond du Lac; Treasurer, Lou Hartman, Milwaukee; Chaplain, Mrs. Etna Jackson, Plymouth; Patriotic Instructor, Ida Hazen, La Crosse. The next meeting will be held at Antigo, in June, 1921.

DAUGHTERS OF THE GRAND ARMY

DEPARTMENT OF WISCONSIN.

This society has for its objects: (1) To be helpful in every possible way to the old comrades; (2) To furnish relief to needy veterans and their families; (3) To teach patriotism in every practicable way.

The following named department officers were chosen at the department meeting at Baraboo, June 15, 1920: Commander, Mrs. Lucretia Biles, Racine; Senior Vice Commander, Mrs. Bertha Smithback, Madison; Junior Vice Commander, Miss Margaret Beattie, Stoughton; Quartermaster, Mrs. Mae Dunn, Milwaukee; Chaplain, Mrs. Emma Steffen, Madison; Patriotic Instructor, Mrs. Mary McGill, Kenosha.

Their next department meeting will be held in June, 1921, at Antigo.

STATE PENSION AGENCY

The state of Wisconsin has by law constituted the adjutant general— at present Orlando Howay—state agent for pensions. He will, upon application, supply free necessary blanks for applications and evidence in all classes of pensions; will give advice and all possible assistance in procuring evidence; will file copies of testimony and perform all the various offices of pension attorney for all soldiers or their heirs residing in Wisconsin free of charge, regardless of the branch of service or organization to which the applicant was attached.

Since this free state pension agency was established in 1889, 18,326 claims have been filed with the adjutant general, over 18,116 of which have been adjudicated and more than 95 per cent successfully prosecuted.

AMERICAN LEGION

The American Legion is an organization of American veterans of the war against Germany.

The purposes of the organization are stated in the preamble to the constitution adopted by the first national convention held in Minneapolis, Minnesota, on November 10, 11, and 12, 1919.

For God and Country, we associate ourselves together for the following purposes:

"To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to maintain law and order; to foster and perpetrate a one-hundred-percent Americanism; to preserve the memories and incidents of our association in the Great War; to inculcate a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation; to combat the autocracy of both the classes and the masses; to make right the master of might; to promote peace and good will on earth; to safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy; to consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness."

Membership

"The constitution of The American Legion provides for active membership only. There is no honorary membership in the Legion. The following are eligible to membership:

"1. Men and women who served honorably in any branch of the Army, Navy or Marine Corps for any length of time between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918.

"2. Men and women who served in the naval, military or air forces of any nation associated with the United States in the war, provided that at the time of their entry into this service they were American citizens, and that they have resumed their American citizenship by the time they apply for membership in the Legion, and did receive upon discharge an Honorable Discharge or its equivalent."

Women's Auxiliary

Provision was made for the organization of a women's auxiliary at the convention held in Minneapolis, Minnesota in 1919.

State Organizations

Each state constitutes a department of the American Legion.

The department of Wisconsin held its annual convention at Green Bay on June 29-30, 1920.

The following are the department officers elected for duty during the current year.

Commander, C. J. Pendill, Kenosha.

Vice Commander, J. S. Askew, Milwaukee.

Adjutant, R. M. Gibson, Wisconsin Rapids.

Finance officer, R. M. Rieser, Superior.

Master-at-Arms, Oakley Parkhill, Abbotsford.

Chaplain, Rev. Leo P. Johnson, Madison.

THE PRINTING BOARD

Everything that is printed and paid for by the state of Wisconsin must pass through the hands of the State Printing Board acting under the provisions of Chapter 35 of the Revised Statutes of 1919. As at present constituted the board consists of three members, the Governor and Superintendent of Public Property, ex officio, and an editor of Public printing, who is appointed by the Governor, for a term of two years. John J. Blaine, Governor, J. J. Morrissey, Superintendent of Public Property and David Atwood, Editor of Public Printing, constitute the present board.

Chapter 35 clearly defines the duties and powers of this board and from the smallest calling card to the largest volume the state publishes, the Revised Statutes, everything passes through the board before it reaches the printers who work on a two-year contract at prices fixed by the legislature. All printing bills are audited by this board before being passed to the state audit in the secretary of state's office.

The printing Board also purchases all paper used by the state for its various activities and pays all bills from its revolving fund collecting from the various departments by monthly transfers of funds in the office of the secretary of state.

When the fact that during the two-year period from July 1, 1918, to July 1, 1920, the total amount of state printing handled through this board totalled $394,293.61, is considered, the value of the department to the state can be appreciated. Beside the regular board, an Auditor, E. F. Gibbs, who has been with the board for 9 years, and a head proof reader, R. S. Harrison, with five office assistants are employed throughout the year.

The Blue Book is one of the publications for which the board is directly responsible under the law. Reports of all departments of the state, the various university bulletins and monthly and semi-monthly departmental magazines form the bulk of the work handled, although every two years the legislative printing, revised statutes, session laws and election notices swell the total of the work handled.

During the past year practically all publications have been printed on Wisconsin manufactured paper, but few grades of special made paper not manufactured in the state being purchased for any purpose.

PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

This department was organized in December, 1919, in accordance with the provisions of the Mulberger law, Sections 1569—1 to 1569—22. W. Stanley Smith, of Ashland, is the Prohibition Commissioner since February 17, 1921.

The appropriation of but $15,000 for administration, limited the force to but four men and a stenographer, and it became evident at once that this small force could in no sense police the state, but considerable progress was made in the first year because of the clause in the law which makes it "the duty of all district attorneys, sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, constables and other executive law enforcement officers to aid and assist said prohibition commissioner or his deputies in the enforcement of the provisions of this act."

During the first year of the administration of the law, 1920, a large number of convictions were secured for its violation, resulting in the collection of approximately $40,000 in fines, nearly three times what it cost the state for the maintenance of the department and enforcement of the law. This was accomplished with a minimum of friction. There has been no criticism that the law was unduly drastic or its administration unjust and at the referendum election in September 1920 the law was endorsed by approximately a 3 to 1 vote after having been approved by both the "wets" and the "drys."

As the work of the Commission became better known better co-operation was secured with the local enforcement officers and better results obtained.

The result of the first year of prohibition enforcement, demonstrated that with a larger force the department would be self-sustaining, and with the co-operation of the local officers continued and strengthened, great strides could be made in the enforcement of the law.

The "outlaw" liquor traffic with which the Commission has to deal is of two kinds, the sale of distillery or bonded whiskey, and the homemade or "moon shine" liquor. While any law-defying element is great danger to the state, the "moonshine" traffic is also a grave menace to health. It is made very largely by recent immigrants, mostly aliens, in filthy basements or outbuildings. The operators of the illicit stills have only a rudimentary knowledge of "aging" their product, and serious illness and even death may result from its use.

Realizing that law enforcement is largely a matter of public sentiment in the various communities, the commission has kept in mind the educational side of the work. By interviewing officers and prominent citizens, writing for the press and by public addresses the Commissioner and his deputies have endeavored in every way possible to secure the support and cooperation of those societies and individuals who are striving for patriotic citizenship and law enforcement.

RAILROAD COMMISSION

The Railroad Commission as an organization is not, as many suppose, a modern institution. The first Commission in this state was established in 1874 and consisted of three members appointed by the Governor for three year terms. The creation of the Commission grew out of the so-called Granger Legislation which swept over the western states in the early seventies. In addition to creating the Commission, the Legislature by statute fixed railway rates and freight classifications.

In 1876, the Commission was changed to one member appointed for two years and in 1881 it was made an elective office and was continued until 1905 when the present Railroad Commission law was enacted, providing for three members appointed for six years, one term expiring every two years.

In 1907, there was added to the jurisdiction of the Railroad Commission the regulation of rates and service of public utilities in the state, and a small measure of control was given over stock and bond issues of utilities.

In 1911, the stock and bond law was strengthened, toll bridges were made public utilities and the first water power law enacted. In 1913 the first Blue Sky Law was passed placing the sale of investment securities under the regulation of the Railroad Commission. In 1915 jitneys were declared common carriers and placed under the jurisdiction of the Railroad Commission and the first comprehensive water power law was enacted. In 1919, the present law regulating the sale of investment securities was passed, and in 1920, jurisdiction was conferred upon the Commission to regulate rents in the City of Milwaukee.

On June 30, 1920, there were under the jurisdiction of the Railroad Commission 8,000 miles of steam railroads, 324 electric utilities, 35 gas, 147 water, 25 street railway, 12 heating, 8 toll bridge and 982 telephone utilities.

In the administration of the Railroad Law the Commission is called upon—

(a) To determine freight rates, adjudicate claims for overcharge, pass upon demurrage charges and rules, switching charges and regulations, and to make freight classifications.

(b) To require improved station facilities, regulate passenger service, control the manner of crossing highways and other lines of railroad, approve bridge plans, approve station sites, require right-of-way fences, and to pass upon certain operating conditions such as the number of men in a train crew and the conditions of service.

In the administration of the Public Utility Law the Commission is called upon—

(a) To fix rates of light, heat, water power and telephone companies and toll bridges.

(b) To pass upon the character and quality of service, to require that service be given where it is unjustly refused, to pass upon rules under which service is given, to pass upon the reasonableness of municipal ordinances affecting utilities, to require the installation of meters and govern the ownership thereof, to inquire into the method of keeping the accounts and the business management, to govern the interference of the lines of utilities with one another, and to approve the manner of construction of lines.

In administering the Water Power law the Commission is obliged to investigate alleged obstructions in navigable water, to control the level and flow of waters and to grant permits or franchises to the applicants to construct dams in streams, or to change the height of existing dams.

In the administration of the Stock and Bond law the Railroad Commission is required to control the issuance of securities of public service corporations, which task includes both railroads and utilities. No security maturing in more than one year from the date thereof and which becomes a lien against the property of a public service corporation can be issued without the approval of the commission.

In the administration of the Blue Sky Law the Commission is required to examine the applications of companies and brokers desiring to sell securities in this state, to make analyses of the financial reports, and to issue to the applicants permits to sell securities if the Commission shall determine that the proposed plan of business of the company issuing the securities is not unlawful, unfair, unjust or inequitable and that the company intends to fairly and honestly transact its business and that the securities which it is proposed to issue or sell, and the methods to be used in their sale are not such as in the opinion of the Commission would work a fraud upon the purchaser.

In addition to the above the Commission administers the so-called jitney law, publishes a railroad map of the state, and publishes annual reports of the decisions of the Commission.

The number of formal cases handled by the Commission has shown a progressive increase as indicated by the following table:

For the six months ended December 31, 1918.....	216
For the six months ended June 30, 1919.....	295
For the six months ended December 31, 1919.....	405
For the six months ended June 30, 1920.....	506

In spite of being handicapped by the lack of adequate staff personnel, decisions rendered have kept pace with new cases filed. There were 278 open cases on the docket July 1, 1918 and 285 open on June 30, 1920, an increase of only 7 for the two-year period. Of the pending cases, 154, or more than half, were filed since May 1.

During the month of June, 1920, there were 93 cases set for hearing, which compares with only 406 set for the entire year 1916. There has been no suspension of hearings during the months of July and August, as was formerly the practice. While no prediction can be made for the future, it is hoped that the peak has been reached. However, any present decrease in the number of utility cases arising were more than offset by the increase in railroad cases that followed the resumption on September 1, 1920 of full private control and operation. Moreover, as soon as market conditions begin to show a downward tendency there will be an increase in utility cases involving decreases in rates.

The questions brought before the Commission cover a wide range of subjects and arise from every part of the state. Their diversity is shown by the following partial list of the character of complaints handled. Complaints involving steam railways involve right-of-way fences, farm crossings, drainage, car shortage, depot facilities, condition of stock yards, stopping of trains, delayed shipments, demurrage charges, damage claims, freight overcharge claims, spur tracks, switching service, telephones in depots, crossing protection. Complaints against utilities include refusals of service, overcharge on bills, classification of consumers, street-car transfers, extension of mains, adequacy of water supply, interruption of service, physical connection between telephone exchanges, night service for telephones, discontinuance of service, and many others.

REAL ESTATE BROKERS BOARD

CHAPTER 656, LAWS OF 1919.

The Real Estate Brokers Board is vested with powers to grant licenses to real estate brokers and real estate salesmen; to receive, consider, and investigate complaints made against any real estate broker or salesman, or may make any necessary investigation on its own motion, and may revoke any license issued if after due investigation and after a public hearing or hearings held before it, or before any member of said board, or before any duly authorized employee whose report the board shall have adopted, the board shall determine that the holder of such license;

- a. Made a material misstatement in the application for such license; or,
- b. Has been guilty of fraud or fraudulent practices; or,
- c. Has demonstrated untrustworthiness or incompetency to act as real estate broker in such manner as to safeguard the interests of the public; or,

"Real estate broker" means any person, firm, or corporation, who, for another, and for commission money or other thing of value:

- a. Sells, exchanges, buys or rents, or offers or attempts to negotiate a sale, exchange, purchase or rental of any interest or estate in real estate;
- or,

- b. Collects or offers or attempts to collect rent for real estate; or,
- c. Negotiates or offers or attempts to negotiate a loan secured or to be secured by mortgage or other transfer of, or incumbrance on real estate.

A real estate salesman is an employee of a licensed real estate broker.

The term "real estate broker" does not include:

- a. Receivers, trustees, administrators, executors, guardians, or other persons appointed by or acting under the judgment or order of any court; or,
- b. Public officers while performing their official duties; or,
- c. Any bank, trust company, building and loan association, or any land mortgage or farm loan association organized under the laws of this state or of the United States when engaged in the transaction of business within the scope of its corporate powers as provided by law.

Any person desiring to act as a real estate broker or real estate salesman shall file with the board an application for a license therefor.

The board receives no appropriation from the state but is supported by license fees from applicants. A license issued by the board entitles the holder to act as a real estate broker, or if the application is for a real estate salesman's license, to act as a real estate salesman, in this state up to and including the thirty-first day of December in the year in which it was issued. The action of the board in refusing to grant a license or in revoking a license hereunder is subject to review by writ of certiorari brought in the circuit for Dane County, but the action of the board shall stand until otherwise directed by said court or by the Supreme Court of the state upon appeal.

Three members appointed by the governor constitute the board and the director of immigration in the state department of agriculture is required by the law to act as secretary.

The license fee for real estate brokers is $10.00; for real estate salesmen $5.00.

EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT

THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

I. Historical Sketch

In February, 1919, The University of Wisconsin commemorated the seventyeth anniversary of its first recitation—a preparatory class which met with Professor John W. Sterling as teacher, in a building on the site of the present Madison high school. With the next college year Chancellor Lathrop assumed the duties of head of an organized college. North Hall, the first college building, was occupied in the fall of 1851, South Hall in 1855, University (Now Bascom) Hall in 1860.

The early history of the University is that of a small institution struggling to meet pioneer conditions, political, social, and educational. The civil war took nearly all of its students and almost extinguished its little income, which had come wholly from the proceeds of federal grants and from student fees. In 1866 the legislature reorganized the University and its modern development begins with that date.

The first appropriation from the state was made in 1867—an annual grant of about $7,000 to replace income lost to the University by earlier acts of the legislature. The first building erected by the state was authorized in 1870, when a grant of $50,000 was made to build a hall for women—now called Chadbourne Hall, after the president who secured the appropriation.

In the half century since 1870 numerous buildings have been erected, whose present inventory value exceeds $4,000,000. The first mill-tax for the support of the University—1/10 mill, then yielding about $40,000—was granted in 1876. This has ever since been the chief source of income for the operation of the University at Madison. The rate was raised to 1/8 mill in 1883 and reached by various additions 17/40 mill, at which rate it stood in 1900. It was fixed at 2/7 mill in 1905, on a new valuation of property, and raised to 3/8 mill in 1911, where it remained until 1920. In 1919-20, the tax yielded about $1,526,000. The University requested from the special session of 1920 an increase to an amount equal to 5/8 mill, corresponding to appropriations granted by that session. A bill was passed raising such a sum by a surtax on incomes, but the measure was vetoed.

The regents began the organization of the University in 1848 on the proceeds of the original university land grant of two townships from the federal government; this was the sole source of public support for the university until the state accepted the federal land grant of the Morrill Act passed by Congress in 1862. These lands have all been sold and the income from the united fund amounts to only about $25,000 annually. Direct grants of money from the United States began in 1887 with the Hatch fund of $15,000 annually, for the agricultural experiment station. Additional grants have increased the funds designated for this purpose to $55,000; and the University is also receiving nearly $130,000 from the federal government for agricultural extension and vocational education. All of these direct grants of federal money, amounting to $185,000, go for experimental work in agriculture and for agricultural extension, etc.; besides these the University receives $25,000 from the second Morrill Act of 1890, which is available for teaching.

The receipts from students have increased from about $7,000 in 1870 to nearly $956,000 in 1920. Of the latter sum about $430,000 is for room-rent, board, and laboratory fees in repayment of cost of chemicals, etc. The income from farm sales, etc.—about $400 in 1870—was more than $250,000 in 1919-20.

The number of students in regular college courses has increased at a singularly uniform rate. There were less than 150 in 1870, 324 in 1880, and the number has somewhat more than doubled every ten years since that time, reaching 7,294 in 1919-20—a rate of growth far exceeding that of the population of the state. In the same year there were also 3,749 summer session and short-course students and 13,124 students enrolled in correspondence courses.

The successive presidents since 1866 and a few of the notable features of their administrations are as follows:

Paul A. Chadbourne, 1867-1870; reorganization of University; courses in law, agriculture, and engineering started; building of Ladies (Chadbourne) Hall; grant of $7,000 annually for general expenses.

John H. Twombly, 1871-1874; grant of state tax of $10,000 annually.

John Bascom, 1874-1887; great educational and financial advances: 1/10 mill grant, 1876; raised to 1/8 mill, 1883; appropriation for Science Hall, 1875; Assembly (now Music) Hall, built 1879; coeducation fully established; pharmacy course started, 1883; short course in agriculture, 1885; first farmers' institute, 1885; summer school for teachers, 1887; preparatory work given up, 1881; college students in 1887, 505; Science Hall burned December, 1884, and replaced by group of buildings, not completed until after 1887.

Thomas C. Chamberlin, 1881-1892; internal reorganization of University on present basis; regular graduate instruction begun; first Ph.D. granted, 1892; rapid growth in college students, reaching 1,092 in 1892; university extension begun, 1890; completion and equipment of buildings replacing old Science Hall; grant of 1/10 mill for six years, 1891, to be used for buildings; Hiram Smith Hall, 1892.

Charles K. Adams, 1892-1902; development of the institution along university lines; organization of graduate study carried out; summer session of University begun, 1899; course in commerce, 1900; numerous buildings, chief among them the Library for Historical and University libraries, the finest building erected by the state except the new capitol; also gymnasium, 1893, law building, 1894, engineering building, 1900; additions to income by various grants, reaching a total of 17/40 mill; regular college students, 2,600 in 1902.

Charles R. Van Hise, 1903-1918; great growth and rapid development of University in all directions; university extension made important part of university work, beginning with special grant of $20,000 annually in 1907, now over $900,000 besides fees; agricultural extension greatly developed; branch agricultural stations established; two years of medical school begun in 1907; graduate school organized with dean; organization of courses in journalism, chemistry, and training of teachers; mill tax of 2/7 mill in 1905, increased to 3/8 mill in 1911; many buildings erected chief among these Agricultural Hall, 1904, followed by six other major buildings for agriculture; chemistry building, 1905; Lathrop Hall, 1909; Barnard Hall, 1912; biology building, 1912; Wisconsin High School, 1914; physics—economics building, 1918; regular college students over 5,000 in 1916-17, decreasing in following years of war.

Edward A. Birge, since December 4, 1918; authorization of four-year medical course by legislature of 1919; establishment of Wisconsin General Hospital by special session of 1920 and appropriation for its erection; educational opportunities (soldier bonus) act of 1919, bringing over 1,300 students, former soldiers to the University and about 2,100 for correspondence and extension study; regular college students 7,294 in 1919-20.

II. The Present University

The preceding sketch shows very partially and imperfectly how the University has developed in less than three quarters of a century from a small college, teaching to a few students the learning of the standard undergraduate course, into an institution so great and so complex that a mere enumeration of its activities would fill pages. It also appears that most of this development has come in the last half century and with increasing rapidity as the years have passed. It is not possible to give a picture of activities so numerous and so widely distributed; they can only receive a general classification and enumeration. Such a statement is necessarily misleading in some ways, for it implies that the various classes of activities are separated in fact as they are in the list whereas they are all going on at the same time and are cooperating in a most intricate fashion.

The total cost of operating the University in 1919-20 was about $3,481,000; only about one-half of this sum comes from taxes, as will appear later in this account. The operation budget of the current year, 1920-21, is about twenty per cent larger, owing to necessary increases of salaries as well as to larger cost of labor and materials. This increase was made possible by the appropriations granted by the special session of the legislature in 1920.

1. Work for the state at large independent of students at Madison.

A. University extension, including correspondence study, in which more than 13,000 students are registered; the department of debating and public discussion; the department of group and community service, including lectures, visual instruction, municipal information and health; medical extension; the maintenance of local centers for organization and teaching in Milwaukee, Oshkosh, La Crosse, Superior, Eau Claire, and Wausau. The total cost of this work is over $330,000.

B. Agricultural extension. Here belong boys' and girls' clubs; county agricultural representatives (now in fifty counties); farmers' institutes; land clearing; dairy tests; home demonstration agents; home economics extension. Besides the numerous persons wholly employed in these enterprises, many others give part time regularly to this type of work. Its total gross cost is estimated at $341,000.

C. Specific investigations of direct economic importance. These include the agricultural experiment station; the branch experiment stations (Ashland, Marshfield, Spooner, Hancock, Coddington); demonstration stations (Douglas County, Rusk County); state laboratory of hygiene; pharmaceutical experiment station; the Forest Products laboratory (chiefly maintained by the federal government); also experimental work in engineering and medicine. The total cost of this class of work may be estimated at about $263,000, of which about $229,000 are for agriculture.

It appears therefore that gross expenditures aggregating about $934,000 for annual operation in 1919-20 are of a kind which are in general independent of the number of students at Madison. If to this sum were added the fair proportion of cost of general administration and of operation of physical plant the sum would be nearly one-third of the total annual expenditures for operation.

2. Work directly or indirectly for students at Madison.

A. Operation and maintenance of general administrative and business offices for president, regents, registrar, purchasing agent bursar, accountant, editor, etc. The total cost of these in 1919-20 was about $136,000.

B. Operation and maintenance of physical plant. This is the operation and upkeep of buildings and grounds at Madison; heat, light, janitors, ordinary repairs, care of roads, etc. The total cost in 1919-20 was about $408,000, of which about $100,000 was for maintenance. This sum includes this type of expenditure on all buildings at Madison whether used for teaching or for purposes listed under heading 1.

C. Care for students' welfare, including dormitories, and commons ($216,000); student health, infirmary and clinic, athletic exercises, games, and sports; social affairs, dean of men and dean of women. Some of these activities, like athletics and clinic, grade into teaching so that exact estimates of cost are impossible. The total cost is not far from $370,000, of which sum about $316,000 come from receipts or dormitories, cafeteria, games, health insurance, etc.

D. Teaching, including research directly associated with departments whose main object is teaching. This is the great central function of the University, including graduate, undergraduate, short course, and summer instruction. Over 11,000 students registered for these courses in 1919-20, and nearly 1,200 students completed courses leading to degrees or certificates.

This work is administered in five great divisions, the college of letters and science, engineering, and agriculture, and the schools of law and medicine. The graduate school includes the graduate work of all these divisions, and the summer session has also its own organization for that part of the work of each college which is given in summer. The teaching in each of the larger main divisions of the University is organized into courses, like those in commerce or education or civil engineering, where the work leads to definite occupations or professions. It is everywhere organized into departments for purposes of administration and also for general education, so that a student who is not seeking a definite preparation for a specific profession may select a major study from some department.

There are ten definite courses associated with the college of letters and science, chemistry, commerce, journalism, pharmacy, teaching, library work, music, manual arts, physical education, and the course for normal school graduates. These special courses had about 2,250 students in 1919-23; while the general course, leading to the B. A. degree, contained about 2,650. In engineering there are five courses, civil, mechanical, electrical, chemical, and mining engineering. There were 1,119 students of engineering in 1919-20. In agriculture there are included the long course in agriculture (561 students) and home economics (273 students); and there are also the two-year course (108 students) and the short courses in agriculture (536 students). The law school (179 students) and the medical school (142 students) are not further subdivided.

There are important activities associated with these divisions of teaching and research. Chief of these is the general library with its branches and the special libraries associated with various colleges and schools. These cost for operation about $37,000 and for books about $27,000.

Most of the research in these divisions of the University is done by teachers who give to classes the number of hours standard in universities and this research can not be separated from teaching. There are also certain special provisions for research not of a directly economic and practical kind, and therefore not named before. Such is the Washburn Observatory, and such are the research professorships in physics and applied botany. Some of the special research work in agriculture is also of this type, like that on foods, in genetics, etc. The cost of these activities may be estimated at about $39,000.

If we deduct from the gross operation budget of the University for 1919-20 ($3,481,000) the sums here estimated as used for other purposes, we have left a sum approximating $1,680,000 as the cost of departmental teaching for the 11,000 students registered in full year and shorter courses. In this teaching is included the cost of college administration, labor, supplies, apparatus, laboratories, etc.; there is also included the cost of research not specifically assigned but carried on coordinately with teaching.

It has already been stated that only part of this gross sum for operation—nearly $3,500,000—comes from taxes raised in the state of Wisconsin. In 1919-20 the total receipts of the University for all purposes, including receipts for operation and more than $200,000 for maintenance and capital, were as follows: Approximately $956,000 came from students, $50,000 from interest, more than $209,000 from the federal government, over $80,000 from gifts, and $485,000 from sales, lectures, games, etc. These items aggregate $1,780,000, leaving as the state's contribution $1,926,000 of the grand total of receipts approximating $3,707,000, or somewhat over fifty per cent. The amount contributed by the state to the operation budget in 1919-20 would therefore be a little more than one-half of the total sum.

Two striking facts appear from this story: First, the steady and rapid growth of the University as a teaching institution at Madison. This development is shown by the increase both in the number of students and in the kinds of teaching. It is shown especially by the addition in recent years of numerous professional, technical, and semi-technical courses called out by the needs of modern society. The second and even more significant fact is the enormous development of work done for the state at large, including extension teaching of persons not otherwise members of the University, often carried on in cities other than Madison; experimental work for the general advancement of the state especially along the lines of health and of agriculture; and agencies for making the results of experiment and research effective in practical affairs.

These facts show the intimate relation which has grown up between the modern university and the modern state and the great extent and variety of the service which the University performs for society. It is clear that the demand of society for such service is rapidly increasing; but it is also true—and the fact ought never to be overlooked—that along with the evolution of these new functions there has been a parallel growth and advancement of those more general types of education which have always been the duty of a university.

STATE SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION

The office of State Superintendent of Public Instruction was established by Section 1, Article X of the Constitution when the state was admitted into the Union in 1848, said section reading as follows:

Section 1: "The supervision of public instruction shall be vested in a state superintendent and such other officers as the legislature shall direct; and their qualification, powers, duties and compensation shall be prescribed by law. The state superintendent shall be chosen by the qualified electors of the state at the same time and in the same manner as members of the supreme court, and shall hold his office for four years from the succeeding first Monday in July * * *

Section 2 provides a permanent source of income for the support of the public schools.

Section 3 reads as follows:

"The legislature shall provide by law for the establishment of district schools which shall be as nearly uniform as practicable and such schools shall be free and without charge for tuition to all children between the ages of 4 and 20 years and no sectarian instruction shall be allowed therein."

The first superintendent of public instruction, Elazer Root, served from January 1, 1849 to January 5, 1852. Up to the present time there have been seventeen superintendents placed in charge of the educational work of this state.

The state superintendent was formerly elected at the general election with the other state officers. The original section was amended as quoted above by a vote of the people at the general election held November 4, 1902. The purpose of this amendment was—

First, to give the state superintendent a salary equivalent to that granted to other state officers (the salary as originally voted was $1200 per annum).

Second, to take the office out of partisan politics by having the election held at the same time that judges of the supreme and other courts of the state were elected.

Third, to increase the term of office so that it might become attractive to persons who were leaders in educational work.

The proposition of electing county superintendents at the judicial or spring election in order that that office might also be freed from partisanship campaign and partisan influence, became a part of the statute in 1905. The removal of the administration of school affairs from political influence and fixing the qualifications of superintendents and others having general administration of educational activities was a most profitable step.

In the early history of this state the office of state superintendent of public instruction could not make itself felt to any large extent owing to the fact that the first laws relating to the management of the school were quite involved and the different parts of the machinery provided for carrying out the educational activities of the state were inefficiently correlated. The state superintendent in addition to his salary, was allowed for the purpose of carrying on the administration from his office, the sum of from $450 to $650 per year for help and incidental expenses. The office of county superintendent was not provided for until 1860. Previous to that time the local school officers were permitted to be directed by an officer known as a Town Superintendent. In many instances this officer was incapable, because of lack of academic qualifications, of influencing the schools to their advantage during this pioneer period.

The statistics of those days show that in some cases the state superintendent could not secure reports from several counties showing the school conditions. School terms were short, varying from three to seven or eight months during the year. In cases where there were three terms, spring, fall and winter, during the year, three different teachers were frequently chosen. The school accommodations were of the crudest kind.

The whole number of schoolhouses in the state in 1852 was 1,730; the number erected that year was 221; of the whole number in the state, 66 were of brick, 74 of stone, 778 of logs, and 112 of frame, 1369 were destitute of outline maps for the study of geography, and 610 had no blackboards. There were 90,000 children out of a school population of 125,000 enrolled in these schools. The population of the state was then less than 350,000. It is now 2,631,000. The increase in the school population in 1852 was 13,442. The increase for the year ending June 30, 1920, 10,275. There were in 1852 no high schools. Many of the more thickly settled points maintained private academies for the purpose of giving instruction to those who desired knowledge further than might then be obtained in the public schools under the crude conditions.

It is somewhat curious to note that the state superintendent of that day was asking, in no mistaken terms, for better school accommodations in the way of better heating, better lighting, better seating, better outbuildings, etc. Every superintendent from that time has been working for the betterment of these conditions and notwithstanding all the efforts, and in many cases the heartiest cooperation of the people, there is yet large room for improvement in the matters of health and comfort for the school children of this state.

The election of county superintendent in 1860 in place of the town superintendent brought the office of state superintendent into a position where its influence could be felt. The statutes gave him full authority to command the school boards, the town clerks, and county superintendents in the matter of making reports and fixing, to a certain extent at least, the qualifications demanded of school teachers under a uniform certification law.

The present efficient school system of the state practically had its beginning in 1860.

The historical notes are given for the purpose of calling attention to the evolution of Wisconsin's system of education.

School Attendance

Irregularity of attendance upon schools is the most serious hindrance to good school work. Failure of a few pupils to attend school regularly and take part in the regular class work delays the progress of every child and usually takes the teacher's time to coach the delinquent pupil if he is to be kept in his grade. Some idea of the waste of effort and money may be realized from the statements taken from the reports of city and county superintendents on file in the office of the state superintendent of schools.

The average daily attendance of the enrollment for the year ending June 30, 1919 is given for rural one-room schools	72%
State graded schools	80%
Grades below high schools (Counties)	82%
Grades below high schools (Cities under City Supt.)	82%
High schools (Not in cities under City Supt.)	88%
High schools in cities under City Supt.	86%

This shows that the one-room school had all of the pupils enrolled present but 6 months; the average state graded school of nine months conducted school but seven and one-third months for all of its enrollment, and for all of the schools under county superintendents there was a daily attendance of but 75 pupils out of every 100. This means that one-fourth of the money disbursed for the school work in the counties was not given an opportunity to produce results. The use of the buildings, apparatus, fuel, and the salaries of the teacher go on whether children are present or not.

County School Board Conventions

One hundred conventions, attended by some 20,000 school officers and teachers and organized by county superintendents, have been attended and addressed by one or more of the members of the state superintendent's staff. Live topics pertaining to educational activities have been presented and discussed and immeasurable legal questions asked by school officers and teachers have been answered. Questions bearing on school buildings and equipment, school sanitation, teachers' qualifications, compulsory attendance and consolidation of school districts and transportation have been the ones showing the most interest.

Consolidation of Districts and Transportation

Consolidation, while an unusually live topic, makes headway very slowly. The two things that cause this are the location of the site for the consolidated schoolhouse, and the problem of transportation, for it is evident that consolidation cannot be carried out efficiently without transportation. But why the centralizing of school interests should be more difficult in many parts of Wisconsin than in Ohio, Indiana, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Iowa and many other states is puzzling.

For the year ending June 30, 1918, Indiana reports as follows after centralizing the school interests 18 years:

Number schools closed	2,363
Number children transported	57,059
Number vehicles used	4,193
Average monthly salary paid to drivers	55.30
(The district owns the vehicles—usually auto busses.)
Average distance pupils ride (one way)	4½ mi.
Average time of pupils on the road (one way)	1 hr.
Average number of pupils per conveyance	14
Average cost of conveying each pupil per day26c

The number of consolidated centralized schools in Wisconsin is at present about 103, and the general verdict of the patrons and teachers is practically unanimous in favor of the plan. Increased regularity of attendance, improved health and interest in school work and home work on the part of the children and better gradation of pupils and more time for giving individual attention to pupils by the teacher are some of the wholesome results because centralizing school interests in most cases brings into being a state graded school. The average number of classes to be heard daily by a teacher in a one-room school having the eight grades is 22, about 10 minutes for each class. Are we getting full value for our investment in maintaining 6,648 one-room schools?

The following table is worthy of most serious study. The cost per pupil in teachers' wages alone can be quickly determined for each one of the 47 districts and also the total cost of maintenance. These districts are all in one county having less than 131 school districts with a population of 20,000 and an assessed valuation of more than $58,000,000. Let this table talk big business and consolidation to the reader.

The following table is given in order that the public may know the place occupied by Wisconsin when measured by the efficiency of the teachers and the school system of the state when determined by the results in overcoming illiteracy. This report from the United States Census Bureau regards as illiterate, persons over ten years of age who are unable to write regardless of some ability to read.

The table when read from right to left will show the gradual progress of the different states for a period of forty years.

The accompanying table is taken from what is commonly known as the Ayres' Report issued by the Division of Education of the Russell Sage Foundation located in New York city. This report has formed a basis for wide discussion and much erroneous conclusion. When analyzed and understood, however, it becomes clear that this report in no way touches upon or discusses school systems of the different states from the standpoint of efficiency in overcoming illiteracy, but that it is based solely on the comparative regularity of attendance at school and the amount of money expended by each state for school purposes. There can be no just cause for criticism of the Wisconsin system of schools or the administration of our educational activities. A system that will place a state twelfth in the list of states in sixty years with a less expenditure of money than is expended by many other states is not likely to be deemed inefficient or poorly administered.

The comparative standing of the several states as copied from the Ayres' Report and based upon the following ten points:

1. Per cent of school population attending public school daily.
2. Average days attended by each child of school age.
3. Average number of days schools were kept open.
4. Per cent that high school attendance was of total attendance.
5. Per cent that boys were of girls in high school.
6. Average annual expenditure per child attending.

7. Average annual expenditure per child of school age.
8. Average annual expenditure per teacher employed.
9. Expenditure per pupil for purposes other than teachers' salaries.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

(By Edward A. Fitzpatrick)

The State Board of Education was organized to promote cooperation and coordination among the State educational agencies. The Board consists of five members appointed by the Governor for five year terms, with representatives of the Board of Normal Regents, the Board of University Regents, and the State Board of Vocational Education. The Governor and the Superintendent of Schools are ex officio members of the board. The members of the Board are:

Herman Grotphorst, Baraboo (Lawyer)
Charles L. Hill, Rosendale (Breeder of Guernsey cattle)
Ellen C. Sabin, Milwaukee (President, Milwaukee Downer College)
Edward J. Dempsey, Oshkosh (Lawyer)
Theodore M. Hammond, Milwaukee (Publisher)
W. R. Graves, Prairie du Chien (Lawyer)
John H. McQuaid, Milwaukee
F. J. Sensenbrenner, Neenah (Vice-President of Kimberly-Clark Paper Company)
Hon. John J. Blaine, Governor (ex officio)
John Callahan, State Superintendent (ex officio)

Prior to the organization of the Board, the heads of many of our educational institutions spent a considerable part of their time during the legislative session at Madison because they felt that it was necessary to stay on the job during that time in order that their institutions might be adequately financed. Budget-making in those days was largely a matter of the lobbying methods of the heads of educational institutions. Every form of lobbying in legislative halls and in hotels around the capitol square had been resorted to in efforts to influence legislation. Requests for funds were made to the legislature, as was quite natural from the point of view of the local institution. Individual schools have gone in and played their own game without the knowledge or the approval of the administrative Board charged with their administration. This financial situation created antagonism among the educational institutions. Educational antagonism developed because the creation of new educational agencies was regarded as infringement upon existing educational agencies.

In January, 1919, when the present secretary of the State Board of Education took office, an agreement was drawn up as follows:

"1. The several state officers, commissions and boards shall cooperate in the performance and execution of state work and shall interchange such data, reports and other information, and, by proper arrangements between the officers, commissions and boards directly interested, shall interchange such services of employes, or shall so jointly employ or make such assignments of employes as the best interests of the public service require. All interchanges of services and joint employments and assignments of employes for particular work shall be consistent with the qualifications and principal duties of such employes [Section 14.65, (1)].

"2. Whenever the employe of any state officer, commission or board is assigned or required hereunder to perform services for any other such officer, commission or board, such employe is vested with all powers and may enjoy all privileges necessary to perform the duties and execute the functions imposed upon and delegated to him and may perform such services and exercise such powers in the same manner, to the same extent and with like effect as though regularly appointed therefor. [Section 14.65 (2)].

"3. Whenever the state board of education is considering problems affecting an educational officer or board, such officer or board may furnish the assistance of such persons as the state board of education requests or such officer or board may designate, specially qualified persons to assist it in the particular problems under consideration, providing that the assignment to the state board of education of such persons does not interfere materially with their regular duties.

"4. Whenever the state board of education is considering problems of general educational interest or of new fields of work, the state educational boards or officers may furnish the assistance of specially qualified persons as the state board of education may request, providing that the assignment to the state board of education of such persons does not interfere materially with their regular duties.

"5. The secretary of the state board of education shall make definite arrangements as to time with the proper administrative officer or board for the service of such persons designated or assigned to cooperate with it so as to interfere in the least possible degree with the regular duties of such persons.

"6. The state board of education may pay such actual and necessary expenses as are incident to assignments or designations under this agreement.

"7. Each officer, commission and board shall keep a record of all work done for or in cooperation with other officers, commissions and boards under this section and shall make a report thereof to the state chief engineer in such form and at such times as may be prescribed in rules and regulations formulated by the state chief engineer and the state civil service commission after consultation with the state officers, commissions and boards, and approved by the Governor. [See Section 14.65 (4) and (3)]."

This agreement was signed by all the educational agencies of the State except one. In the organization of the State Board of Education an effort was made to carry over into education an efficient business organization of school administration. The organization as it is now developing is a type of organization that is used in all business permeated by the public service motive and expending as much money as the state educational system is spending. That organization is roughly this:

A number of operating agencies. Each of these agencies is charged with the efficiency of operation of their plant or department. Connected with the general office of such a business is a group of men who are not responsible for the operation of individual departments, but who have an interest in the whole business—promote cooperation among departments, study special problems, and make suggestions in cooperation with department heads for the improvement of departments.

Exactly this principle is the principle underlying the present administration of the state educational machinery. Responsibility for supervising educational institutions and schools is vested in various boards and officers as follows: State Superintendent of Public Instruction; State Board of Vocational Education; State Board of Normal Regents; Board of University Regents; and the Wisconsin Mining School Board.

The purposes to be achieved in this form of administration of the State Board of Education are as follows:

1. To present to the legislature budget estimates which will represent a state view of the educational problem and not merely a local view—and yet sympathetically regarding educational interests.
2. To approve annually detailed annual budgets carrying out the legislative intent as expressed in the lump sum appropriations.
3. To secure the best available information to serve as a basis for an educational policy which will offer the widest possible educational opportunity to the people of the state for the funds expended.

4. To make unnecessary and to prevent an unseemly scramble for legislative funds, and lobbying in the interest of special legislation for particular schools or parts of the educational system.
5. To keep educational institutions from unduly expanding their functions, prevent duplication of work adequately provided for in other institutions, and promote harmony in the educational system and single-minded devotion to the entire educational interests of the state.

The character of the duties assigned to the State Board of Education is not of a kind to promote popularity. The duty of saying "no" to educational institutions is not a pleasant one. It would be much easier for the State Board of Education, and it would be tremendously popular, if it would accede to all the requests of the educational institutions about the State. These requests may be all right and are all right in many cases when viewed solely from the standpoint of the particular institution from which the request comes. But when viewed in the light of the whole educational system it becomes bad public policy, and it is the duty of the State Board of Education to say so. If a normal school wants to train engineers it may be all right to provide this additional local educational facility. But if it injures the main function for which normal schools exist, and if the State University is adequately providing such training, then such a movement on the part of normal schools ought to be definitely prohibited.

The legislative duties assigned to the State Board of Education are stated in terms of financial policy and budget-making. But the State Board of Education has found that the policy of educational drift which has characterized our educational administration, makes a financial policy unintelligent and wasteful. It is felt, therefore, that the imperative need of the State is an educational policy and an educational program. The State Board of Education has formulated such an educational program in its bulletin on "Wisconsin Looking Forward". The essential points in that program are to make possible supervision and administration of schools in the country at least as effective as the cities now have; to provide better teaching for the rural schools; to provide for a better financial policy for city school administration through the organization of practically independent school districts in cities.

Another fundamental need in the state is a thorough-going revision of our certification laws so that we may get better teachers everywhere. Some policy ought to underlie our method of distributing state aid to schools and providing capital funds for education. We ought to have a better compulsory education law and a more vigorous enforcement of it. We need a program for physical education in the State. We need some way to meet the increasing pressure upon the University and upon normal schools for college training through a system of junior colleges.

These are some of the elements embodied in the educational program of the State Board of Education. A copy of the complete program may be had by any citizen upon application.

Supplementing this program of education for the regular public schools is a comprehensive program for the vocational schools embodying also a program of adult education, the rehabilitation of the industrially handicapped, and a state-wide system of technical education. The detailed recommendations on this subject will be made public in the survey of the vocational schools made by the State Board of Education.

The Educational Bonus Law

Eight hundred eleven thousand, five hundred eighty dollars was paid to former service men under the Educational Bonus Law during the first year of the administration of that law, and 4,893 students were assigned under this law for the full-time educational opportunity in the State, while 1,183 students were assigned to correspondence. Special classes were organized in Accounting, Law, Corporate Organization, Shop Mathematics, and Shop Drawing for special students in Milwaukee, Racine, and West Bend.

The Educational Bonus Law, originally conceived by Senator Ray J. Nye, of Superior, vetoed in its original form by the Governor, re-introduced and passed by a practically unanimous vote at a special session called particularly for that purpose by Gov. Philipp, has been one of the most beneficial laws passed by a Wisconsin legislature. It has practically immediately reached the purpose for which it was organized in helping men who were willing to give their lives for their country, to better educational opportunity. The number of men reached by the law during the first year of its administration is indicated in the foregoing statistics. The spirit of the law has been carried out thoroughly in its administration. The investigation upon which the final law was based was made by the State Board of Education, a special report was made to the Governor and to the Legislature, and the recommendations of that report became the law. The legislature was very anxious, indeed, as indicated by amendments submitted during the consideration of the bill, to have the law liberally construed, and to give the benefit of the law to every bona fide resident of Wisconsin whom it was intended to reach. In carrying out this intention of the law, the State Board of Education has construed very liberally the provisions of the law. Some illustrations of this may be pointed out.

A student who, just before the War, was attending a college outside of the State and desired to resume his studies in that college, was permitted to do so.

Graduate students in out-of-state institutions who had well advanced pieces of research work under way were permitted to continue their work.

Soldiers who had returned from the War and had immediately entered institutions outside the State were permitted to continue in those institutions under the provision of the law, and to receive the educational bonus.

These are types of cases where men who could not attend institutions within the State without serious loss of time and serious loss of work well under way, were allowed to attend out-of-state institutions and receive the educational bonus.

The question of attendance came in, particularly attendance at evening schools and partial attendance. The Board was as liberal as could well be and still protect the integrity of the law. For the educational institutions it made the standard the public educational institutions and passed the following very reasonable regulation:

"The minimum number of hours that shall be required for regular attendance at any educational institution for any course of instruction shall be the requirements of the full time standard day courses in such institutions, but the standard shall not be less than the similar requirements of the public educational institution."

Many young men who had been injured in the War wanted to attend school but because of their injury could not carry even the liberal requirement stated in the rule for minimum attendance. For such persons and for those who had become ill since, a rule was made providing that whenever the clinical department of an educational institution or a school physician certified that a student could not maintain this schedule because of an operation or other physical disability, the educational institution may accept a reduced program as full-time attendance for such period as is necessary, provided such student is giving his time exclusively to school work.

There were many ex-service men who had just ninety days of service and who would have been excluded from the law if the term "three months" had been literally interpreted. But the State Board of Education ruled that, as usual in military administration, ninety days of service would be accepted as the equivalent of three months and thus were a number of men admitted to the benefits of the law.

Another type of case was the man who had definitely enlisted prior to November 1, had held himself in readiness to go, and was not called until subsequent to November 1—November 2, 3, 11, or thereafter. This was particularly true in the case of some nurses. These persons were admitted to the benefits of the law in accordance with the legislative mandate.

One of the most perplexing questions in the whole administration of the law was the question of the residence of the men claiming the benefits of the law. The State Board of Education took each case on its merits and made a detailed investigation of all facts affecting a person's residence, and decided the case, not on the basis of any particular military requirement, but on the basis of all the facts regarding the individual. This is substantially in accord with the decision of the courts regarding residence under soldier bonus acts recently made.

Ex-service men have been assigned to 157 educational institutions in Wisconsin for the all-day educational opportunity provided by the law, for which they receive $30 a month for each month they are in regular attendance. This educational opportunity is open to the ex-service men for a period of four years or thirty-six months. The schools having the largest number of students assigned to them are the University of Wisconsin with 2,113, the Milwaukee School of Engineering with 633, and the Marquette University with 155. The largest number of students assigned to a State Normal School is to the Milwaukee Normal School—123. The largest number assigned to a private college is to Lawrence College—101 students. The largest number of students assigned to a continuation school is to the Central Continuation School at Milwaukee—90. The largest number assigned to a high school is 40, to the high schools of Milwaukee.

Students have been assigned for the full-time educational opportunity to 123 out-of-state institutions. The largest number of students assigned to any outside institution is 31 to the University of Minnesota. To most of these institutions only one student has been assigned. Out-of-state institutions, excluding Minnesota, having the largest number of students assigned to them are as follows: Northwestern University, 20; University of Chicago, 19; Mooseheart School, 18; Harvard Law School, 15. The 395 students attending out-of-state institutions have been assigned to study every kind of subject: Aeronautics, architecture, chiropractic, commercial art, consular service, fisheries, optometry, osteopathy, interior decorating, horticulture, railroad signal construction, and printing. The largest number of students attending out-of-state institutions were assigned for the following subjects: Architecture, 35; chiropractic, 16; veterinary science, 14; commercial art, 13; osteopathy, 11; watchmaking, 10.

There was organized in Milwaukee, to meet a special demand for engineering and commercial work, a Milwaukee branch of the University. The net cost of the administration of this school for all items was $8,917.77. Eleven hundred eighty-three students have been assigned for correspondence work, and 1,072 students actually began work and have completed 6,445 lessons. These subjects cover everything from commercial correspondence, contracts, federal income tax, industrial management and marketing problems, to carpenters' and printers' arithmetic, practical course in concrete, mediaeval history, practical calculus, pharmacy, and practical sociology.

The State Board of Education makes two additional recommendations based on its experience with this law during the past year. The first is for a more extensive provision for adult education for persons who have not had during their youth or otherwise the formal educational requirement admitting them to higher educational institutions. If such persons cannot enter the University as adult specials, then the State ought to provide a special adult school to fit such persons for the full benefits of University education, or to provide such special training as they need.

The second recommendation is for the appointment of a professor of architecture at the University to provide training in this subject. More students enter out-of-state institutions under the Educational Bonus Law because the State does not provide instruction in architecture than for any other subject. The Board of Examiners of Architects and the Committee of the Engineering Society of Wisconsin both make a similar recommendation.

The situation during the present year is that just as many people are taking the full-time educational opportunity as last year and the number of students taking correspondence is increasing. More special classes are being organized this year than last, and they are more widely distributed over the State. Last year special interest was centered in the effort at West Bend to organize a school in cooperation with the American Legion. Through the splendid efforts of the Commander of the Legion Post, D. J. Kenney, a school was organized that provided educational instruction for ex-service men under the Educational Bonus Law, and also wider educational opportunities for others.

A similar experiment is being tried this year at Superior under the immediate supervision of Professor Whealdon of the Superior Normal School, and with the stimulating assistance of Senator Nye and Commissioner A. D. S. Gillette of the City Commission. It looks as if this might ultimately be the beginning of a junior college in Superior with a special evening instruction.

DEPARTMENT OF VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Cities Maintaining Vocational Schools

Forty-seven cities maintain vocational schools at present: Antigo, Appleton, Ashland, Beaver Dam, Beloit, Chippewa Falls, Cudahy, Eau Claire, Edgerton, Fond du Lac, Fort Atkinson, Green Bay, Janesville, Kaukauna, Kenosha, La Crosse, Madison, Manitowoc, Marinette, Marshfield, Menasha, Menomonie, Merrill, Milwaukee, Monroe, Neenah, New London, North Milwaukee, Oconto, Oshkosh, Portage, Port Washington, Racine, Rhinelander, Sheboygan, South Milwaukee, Stevens Point, Stoughton, Superior, Two Rivers, Washburn, Watertown, Waukesha, Wausau, West Allis, West Bend, and Wisconsin Rapids. This represents an increase of sixteen cities during the past two years.

Classification of Schools

The work carried on in the above cities consists of trade and industrial education and home economics. Practically all the cities maintain both these fields. The day classes consist of part-time and all day students. Practically every city maintains part time day classes where the students attend eight hours a week being employed during the remainder of the week. All day classes where the students attend full time every day are maintained in only a few cities of the state and consist mainly of commercial students. Evening classes for those over sixteen years of age are maintained in practically all the cities above mentioned.

Vocational Agriculture

In addition to the fields of trade and industrial education, and home economics, there is the field of vocational agriculture. At the present time there are twenty-six schools of vocational agriculture in the state under the supervision of the department of vocational education. This list is made up mainly of county schools of agriculture and high schools giving agricultural courses. The following schools gave vocational courses during the past year under the supervision of the State Board of Vocational Education:

County Schools in Agriculture—Dunn County, La Crosse County, Marinette County, Milwaukee County, Racine County, Wood County.

Teachers Training

In addition to the state aid which is distributed to vocational work, the state receives aid from the federal government for trades and industry and home economics and agriculture. Federal aid for teacher training in these three fields is also received. The Stout Institute, Menomonie, has been designated as the institution to train teachers of trade and industrial classes, and the University of Wisconsin has been designated as the institution to train teachers of home economics and agriculture. In addition to the teacher training done at the above institutions, the State Board of Vocational Education, through summer schools, teacher training conferences, and special courses conducted by the state staff has accomplished considerable in the way of teacher training.

Americanization

Americanization programs have received particular attention in nearly all cities. Classes in English for foreigners have aided the foreigner in learning the language of this country. The vocational schools have, however, extended help to the foreigner in many ways besides teaching him to read, write and speak the English language. An earnest effort has been made in many cities to organize the Americanization work in such a way as to give these people a realization of what America really means to a good citizen. Clubs and societies have been formed and the aid of existing clubs and associations solicited for the purpose of extending the work of the school into the homes and factories. Realizing that the home is the real place which must be Americanized, much work has been done with the women through cooking, sewing, home nursing, home management, and like classes. Classes for this work have been carried on in the afternoon and brought as close to the homes of those attending as possible. Many schools have employed women who spend part of their time visiting the homes and planning the development of Americanization classes. Some cities have employed a woman for full time on Americanization work.

Supervision

For the purpose of supervising and developing the vocational work, the state has been divided into three districts in charge of the following supervisors: W. F. Faulkes, E. E. Gunn, Jr., and A. R. Graham who are also the supervisors for trades and industries. The supervision of vocational home economics is in charge of Miss Margaret Johnston and the vocational agriculture is in charge of G. W. Gehrand.

FATHER CLAUDE ALLOUEZ, that intrepid Jesuit, sent out by the Intendent of New France to bring the Cross to the savages of the Northwest, established at La Pointe on Lake Superior in the fall of 1665, the first white man's settlement in what is now the state of Wisconsin. Before William Penn made his treaty with the Indians that he might establish his city of Philadelphia, before the first colonists arrived to settle the present city of Charleston, South Carolina, religious services were held, a chapel built and a little colony established in this far western country. Four years later this same priest arrived at La Baye (Green Bay) and established the second settlement, almost on the same site where another Frenchman, Jean Nicolet, in the autumn of 1634, garbed as a Chinese Manderin, had landed expecting to meet the natives of the long sought for Chinese empire, the first white man to step on the soil of what is now Wisconsin.

FIRST STATE CAPITOL AT BELMONT

From these two settlements, established many months journey from New France, came the first touch of the civilization of the old world to the natives living in the interior of the new. For the first hundred and sixty years of its existence this country was under the domination of three kingdoms, one state and was a part of four different territories.

First Spain claimed by discovery, then France, whose missionaries, Jesuit and Franciscan, taught the native Indians Christianity. With them came the Courier du bois—those adventuresome Frenchmen who made the long journey from Quebec and Montreal, in frail canoes and skiffs, living among the Indians, marrying with them, traders and adventurers, explorers not settlers, following the streams from Green Bay, the Fox to the Portage into the Wisconsin and thence to the Mississippi, always moving, here today and gone tomorrow, leaving their imprint on the natives they came in contact with.

Ninety-three years the Lilies of France waved in the breezes. Years during which the natives of many Wisconsin Indian tribes, Menomonies, Chippewas, Winnebagoes, Sacs and Foxes, Pottowatomies, Miamies, Kickapoos, Illinois, Hurons or Wyandottes, Ottoways, Sioux and the fabled Mascoutins, who disappeared after leaving this country, swallowed up by some other tribe, learned of the White Man's God and the priests and explorers constituted the white settlers.

There were De La Salle, Tonti, Father Marquette, Father Menard, and others of these French gentlemen and priests who endured the hardships and dangers of these early times who followed De Langlade, the French half breed, who gathered together his war party of northwestern Indians to aid the French king in his wars against the English. De Langlade who led the Wisconsin savages in the fatal ambush to Braddock, to the fighting around Ft. George on Lake Champlain, to the defense of Montreal and Quebec in the French and Indian wars.

The peace which followed gave the vast colony of New France in America to the English King and the red-coated soldiers of Great Britain appeared, the music of the "Roast Beef of Merry England" sounding where the soft "chansons" of the French voyageurs had been heard. The Jesuits and Franciscans vanished and in their stead came the English trader and the opening of the land to actual settlers. The flag of St. George floated over the Forts at Green Bay and at Prairie du Chien, and the Indians transferred their allegiance willingly.

From 1763 to 1794, thirty-one years, these Wisconsin Indians were loyal to their new masters, and journeyed down into the Ohio valley and further east to take part in the war against the struggling Thirteen Colonies who were fighting for their liberty.

Then came the cession of this vast Northwestern country to the colonies and Virginia claimed sovereignty of all this western country. Later the Ordinance of 1787 made Wisconsin a part of Ohio Territory for three years. In the years from 1800 until 1809, it was a part of Indiana. From 1809 until 1818, it was the northern part of Illinois. It was part of Michigan territory from 1818 until 1836.

In 1836, the area now constituting the present states of Iowa, Minnesota and portions of North and South Dakota was organized as the territory of Wisconsin. In 1838, the territory of Iowa was organized from that portion lying west of the Mississippi leaving what are now the Eastern and Northwestern portions of Minnesota still included in the territory of Wisconsin.

It was on July 4th, 1836, following the Winnebago war, when Zachary Taylor, later President of the United States and Jefferson Davis who became President of the Confederate States, had both served as army officers here; also the Black Hawk War which ended fear of Indian dangers, that the territory of Wisconsin was formally organized at Mineral Point with much eclat with General Dodge as Governor. The opening of the lead regions in the Southwestern portion of the state, the settlements at Green Bay, Milwaukee, along the lake shore and in the southern portion, gave the state a population of between twenty-five to thirty thousand.

The first session of the legislature was held at Belmont, the building occupied for this momentous event being preserved today as one of the state's historical relics. It was in this building that Judge James Duane Doty, a judge of the western district, so extolled the virtues and qualifications of the paper city of Madison, that it was selected as the territorial capital. A capital without a single resident, a waste of land and marsh and scrub oaks but with the natural beauties of the four lakes.

It was on June 10th, 1837, that the workmen arrived in Madison to erect the first capitol building. A structure that was built of native timbers and rock hewn from what is now Maple Bluff and towed across lake Mendota to Madison. Two other buildings followed the first to meet the needs of the growing community, the third being destroyed by fire in 1904, and now comes the modern masterpiece of architecture costing $7,000,000 and known as the handsomest state capitol in the world. A building that is inspected by sixty odd thousand visitors yearly. From the meagre property of territorial days of the thirties, today the great State of Wisconsin owns and controls state institutions worth millions a valuation table of which is found on the following page.

* No record of incorporation as a village, probably from town to city government.

² Incorporated as City of Superior by special act of legislature, 1858, but did not organize as a city. Incorporated as village 1887 and as city 1889. Became second class city with censuses of 1910, held by Attorney General it remains such unless changed by action of city council.

³ Incorporated as village of Eau Claire City, 1867. Changed to Eau Claire in 1872.

⁵ Incorporated as village of Prairieville 1846, changed to Waukesha in 1847.

⁶ Incorporated as Ahnapee in 1879, changed to Algoma in 1897.

⁷ Known as Adams village until 1852 when name was changed to Baraboo.

⁸ West De Pere incorporated as a village in 1870, name changed to Nicolet in 1883 and again to West De Pere in 1887. Annexed to De Pere in 1890.

¹⁰ Incorporated as village of Lake Mills in 1852, name changed to Tyrhenna in 1866 and back to Lake Mills in 1867.

LAND DRAINAGE IN WISCONSIN

E. R. Jones, Chairman Department of Agricultural Engineering, Univ. of Wis.

About 7,000,000 acres in Wisconsin is or has been too wet for profitable farming. This is one-fifth of the area of the state. The percentage of land needing drainage is highest in the central part of the Wisconsin River Valley. The percentage is least in the southwestern one-sixth of the state where the residual topography affords good drainage.

The census of 1920 shows that 813,569 acres have been organized into drainage projects where landowners cooperated under Wisconsin laws in the construction of outlet drains. It is probable that 100,000 acres more were organized under the old town ditch law, but whose records were poorly kept or have been lost.

The drainage district law (Chapter 557 Laws of 1919) was first enacted in 1905. In 1919 it was simplified. On that year also the Farm Drainage Law (Chapter 446) was enacted to take the place of the old town ditch law.

In recent years farmers desiring to organize for the construction of outlet drains have looked to the College of Agriculture for guidance. In 1915, the legislature required the College to report on the feasibility of all projects proposed. The laws of 1919 added certain police powers to this educational work and made the State Chief Engineer responsible for it. The college, as a feature of its extension work, places its reports and recommendations at the disposal of the State Chief Engineer.

From July 1, 1919 to January 1, 1921, applications were made for reports on 66 organizations. Twelve reports were in preparation at the end of that period and 54 were completed, of which 6 were unfavorable. These six projects were dropped upon advice of the State Chief Engineer. The 48 feasible projects consist of two drainage districts and 46 farm "drainages" aggregating 111,090 acres, at an estimated cost of $904,680.

The drainage organization acts through a board of three men under the jurisdiction of the county or circuit courts. It puts in only the main outlet drains, leaving the farmers to put in their own supplemental drains. The outlet drains are paid for by a special drainage tax levied against the wet land benefited. There are no available state or federal funds for land drainage.

The outlet drains installed by the organization are either open ditches or big tile. The smaller of the open ditches are 8 feet deep, 4 feet wide at the bottom and 20 feet wide at the top. The larger are over 100 feet wide and over 12 feet deep. Tile from 8 inches to 48 inches in diameter are being used, and they are replacing the smaller open ditches. On many of the wet lands the farmers have to lay lines of 5-inch tile from 4 to 5 feet deep and from 4 to 8 rods apart to complete the drainage so that cultivation is safe on wet years.

The marsh soils are commonly rich in nitrogen but poor in phosphorus and potash. With proper drainage, fertilization and management these soils are among the most valuable in the State, raising excellent crops of timothy and alsike, rye, flax and, where temperature permits, corn.

APPENDIX

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

UNANIMOUSLY PASSED BY THE CONGRESS OF THE THIRTEEN
UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, JULY 4, 1776*

When in the Course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the Powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these Colonies; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

* The following text and its appended historical note are reprinted from the United States Revised Statutes, 2d ed., 1878.

He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their Public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative Powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Laws for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands.

He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary Powers.

He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither swarms of Officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our legislature.

He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil Power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a Jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their acts of pretended Legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock Trial, from Punishment for any murders which they should commit on the Inhabitants of these States:

For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our Consent:

For depriving us in many cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury:

For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended offenses:

For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighboring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these Colonies:

For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Government:

For suspending our own Legislature, and declaring themselves invested with Power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War Against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is at this time transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of Cruelty & perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the executioners of their friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare, is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these Oppressions We have Petitioned for Redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated Petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free People.

Nor have We been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which, would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be Free and Independent States; that they are Absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of right do. And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the Protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.

(Signed)

JOHN HANCOCK.

And by the delegates from New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Connecticut, Rhode Island, etc., New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia.

CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES

PREAMBLE.

We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

ARTICLE I.

SECTION 1. All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

SECTION 2. The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several States, and the electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislature.

No person shall be a Representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

*[Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons.] The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of Representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one Representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three, Massachusetts eight, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations one, Connecticut five, New York six, New Jersey four, Pennsylvania eight, Delaware one, Maryland six, Virginia ten, North Carolina five, South Carolina five, Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the representation from any State, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The House of Representatives shall choose their Speaker and other officers; and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SECTION 3. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes.

* The clause included in brackets is amended by the fourteenth amendment, second section.

The seats of the Senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any state, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments [until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.]

No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

The Vice President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided.

The Senate shall choose their own officers, and also a President pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside: And no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law.

SECTION 4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each State by the legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing Senators.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

SECTION 5. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Neither house, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

SECTION 6. The Senators and Representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the Treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same; and for any speech or debate in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No Senator or Representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof should have been increased during such time; and no person holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

SECTION 7. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives; but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered; and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

SECTION 8. The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts and provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States; but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States:

To borrow money on the credit of the United States;

To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes;

To establish a uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States;

To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures;

To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States;

To establish post offices and post roads;

To promote the progress of science and useful arts by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;

To constitute tribunals inferior to the Supreme Court;

To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offenses against the law of nations;

To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;

To raise and support armies, but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years;

To provide and maintain a navy;

To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces;

To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions;

To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the States respectively, the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia according to the discipline prescribed by Congress;

To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States, and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings; and

To make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

SECTION 9. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.

No capitation, or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration hereinbefore directed to be taken.

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any State.

No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over those of another: nor shall vessels bound to, or from, one State, be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in another.

No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States: And no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign State.

SECTION 10. No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make anything but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

No state shall, without the consent of the Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any State on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the Treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and control of the Congress.

No state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops, or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

SECTION 1. The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice President, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

Each state shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress: but no Senator or Representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

[*The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately choose by ballot one of them for President; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said House shall in like manner choose the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors shall be the Vice President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the Senate shall choose from them by ballot the Vice President.]

The Congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

No person except a natural born citizen or a citizen of the United States, at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice President, and Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the President and Vice President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services, a compensation, which shall be neither increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected, and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

SECTION 2. The President shall be commander in chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the Supreme Court, and all other officers of the United States, whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law; but the Congress may by law vest the appointment of such inferior officers, as they think proper, in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

SECTION 3. He shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both Houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them, with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

SECTION 4. The President, Vice President and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office, on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

ARTICLE III.

SECTION 1. The judicial power of the United States, shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services a compensation which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

SECTION 2. The Judicial power shall extend to all cases, in law and equity, arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more states; between a state and citizens of another State; between citizens of different States; between citizens of the same State claiming lands under grants of different States, and between a State, or the citizens thereof, and foreign States, citizens or subjects.

In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a State shall be party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions, and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crime shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

SECTION 3. Treason against the United States, shall consist only in levying war against them, or, in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act or on confession in open court.

The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture except during the life of the person attained.

ARTICLE IV.

SECTION 1. Full faith and credit shall be given in each State to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SECTION 2. The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

A person charged in any State with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another State, shall on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime.

No person held to service or labor in one State, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

SECTION 3. New States may be admitted by the Congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State; nor any State be formed by the junction of two or more States or parts of States without the consent of the legislatures of the States concerned as well as of the Congress.

The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

SECTION 4. The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and on application of the legislature, or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened) against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

The Congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress; provided that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth classes in the ninth section of the first article; and that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate.

ARTICLE VI.

All debts contracted and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this Constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution, as under the Confederation.

This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Senators and Representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several State legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation, to support this Constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

The ratification of the conventions of nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the States so ratifying the same.

Done in convention by the unanimous consent of the States present the seventeenth day of September in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven and of the Independence of the United States of America the twelfth. In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names,

ARTICLE II.

(Effective Dec. 15, 1791)

A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed.

ARTICLE III.

(Effective Dec. 15, 1791)

No soldier shall, in time of peace be quartered in any house, without the consent of the owner, nor in time of war, but in a manner to be prescribed by law.

ARTICLE IV.

(Effective Dec. 15, 1791)

The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.

ARTICLE V.

(Effective Dec. 15, 1791)

No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life and limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

ARTICLE VI.

(Effective Dec. 15, 1791)

In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation, to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

ARTICLE VII.

(Effective Dec. 15, 1791)

In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury, shall be otherwise re-examined in any court of the United States, than according to rules of the common law.

ARTICLE VIII.

(Effective Dec. 15, 1791)

Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

ARTICLE IX.

ARTICLE XII.

(Effective Sept. 25, 1804)

The electors shall meet in their respective States and vote by ballot for President and Vice President, one of whom, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves; they shall name in their ballots the person voted for as President, and in distinct ballots the person voted for as Vice President and they shall make distinct lists of all persons voted for as President, and of all persons voted for as Vice President, and of the number of votes for each, which lists they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate;—the President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted;—the person having the greatest number of votes for President, shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed; and if no person have such majority, then from the persons having the highest numbers not exceeding three on the list of those voted for as President, the House of Representatives shall choose immediately, by ballot, the President. But in choosing the President, the vote shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. And if the House of Representatives shall not choose a President whenever the right of choice shall devolve upon them, before the fourth day of March next following, then the Vice President shall act as President, as in the case of the death or other constitutional disability of the President.

The person having the greatest number of votes as Vice President, shall be the Vice President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed, and if no person have a majority, then from the two highest numbers on the list, the Senate shall choose the Vice President; a quorum for the purpose shall consist of two-thirds of the whole number of Senators, and a majority of the whole number shall be necessary to a choice. But no person constitutionally ineligible to the office of President shall be eligible to that of Vice President of the United States.

ARTICLE XIII.

(Effective Dec. 18, 1865)

SECTION 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

SECTION 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

ARTICLE XIV.

(Effective July 28, 1868)

SECTION 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

SECTION 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several States according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice President of the United States, Representative in Congress, the executive and judicial officers of a State, or the members of the Legislature thereof, is denied to any of the male inhabitants of such state, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion, or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male citizens twenty-one years of age in such State.

SECTION 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath, as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof. But Congress may by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

SECTION 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.

SECTION 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

ARTICLE XV.

(Effective March 30, 1870)

SECTION 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of race, color, or previous condition of servitude.

SECTION 2. The Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

ARTICLE XVI.

(Effective Feb. 25, 1913)

The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several States, and without regard to any census or enumeration.

ARTICLE XVII.

(Effective May 31, 1913)

The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote. The electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislatures.

When vacancies happen in the representation of any State in the Senate, the executive authority of such State shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, That the legislature of any State may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointment until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

This amendment shall not be so construed as to affect the election or term of any Senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the Constitution.

ARTICLE XVIII.

(Ratified Jan. 11, 1919. Effective Jan. 16, 1920)

"SECTION 1. After one year from the ratification of this article the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

"SECTION 2. The Congress and the several States shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

"SECTION 3. This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of the several States, as provided in the Constitution, within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the States by the Congress."

ARTICLE XIX.

(Effective Aug. 26, 1920)

The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex.

Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF WISCONSIN

PREAMBLE.

Preamble. We, the people of Wisconsin, grateful to Almighty God for our freedom, in order to secure its blessings, form a more perfect government, insure domestic tranquility and promote the general welfare, do establish this constitution.

ARTICLE I.

DECLARATION OF RIGHTS.

Equality of rights. SECTION 1. All men are born equally free and independent, and have certain inherent rights; among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.

Slavery prohibited. SECTION 2. There shall be neither slavery, nor involuntary servitude in this state, otherwise than for the punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.

Liberty of speech; libel. SECTION 3. Every person may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right, and no laws shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press. In all criminal prosecutions or indictments for libel, the truth may be given in evidence, and if it shall appear to the jury that the matter charged as libelous be true, and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted; and the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the fact.

Right to assemble and petition. SECTION 4. The right of the people peaceably to assemble, to consult for the common good, and to petition the government, or any department thereof, shall never be abridged.

Trial by jury. SECTION 5. The right of trial by jury shall remain inviolate, and shall extend to all cases at law without regard to the amount in controversy; but a jury trial may be waived by the parties in all cases in the manner prescribed by law.

Bail; punishments. SECTION 6. Excessive bail shall not be required, nor shall excessive fines be imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted.

Rights of accused. SECTION 7. In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to be heard by himself and counsel; to demand the nature and cause of the accusation against him; to meet the witnesses face to face; to have compulsory process to compel the attendance of witnesses in his behalf; and in prosecutions by indictment, or information, to a speedy public trial by an impartial jury of the county or district wherein the offense shall have been committed; which county or district shall have been previously ascertained by law.

Prosecutions; second jeopardy; bail; habeas corpus. SECTION 8. (As amended November, 1870.) No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense without due process of law, and no person for the same offense shall be put twice in jeopardy of punishment, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself. All persons shall, before conviction, be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses when the proof is evident or the presumption great; and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended unless when, in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.

Remedy for wrongs. SECTION 9. Every person is entitled to a certain remedy in the laws for all injuries or wrongs which he may receive in his person, property or character; he ought to obtain justice freely, and without being obliged to purchase it, completely and without denial, promptly and without delay, conformably to the laws.

Treason. SECTION 10. Treason against the state shall consist only in levying war against the same, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

Searches and seizures. SECTION 11. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated; and no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the persons or things to be seized.

Bill of attainder; ex post facto law; obligation of contracts. SECTION 12. No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, nor any law impairing the obligation of contracts, shall ever be passed, and no conviction shall work corruption of blood or forfeiture of estate.

Compensation for private property. SECTION 13. The property of no person shall be taken for public use without just compensation therefor.

Lands allodial; tenures; leases and fines. SECTION 14. All lands within the state are declared to be allodial, and feudal tenures are prohibited. Leases and grants of agricultural land for a longer term, than fifteen years in which rent or service of any kind shall be reserved, and all fines and like restraints upon alienation reserved in any grant of land, hereafter made, are declared to be void.

Equal rights for aliens and citizens. SECTION 15. No distinction shall ever be made by law between resident aliens and citizens, in reference to the possession, enjoyment or descent of property.

Imprisonment for debt. SECTION 16. No person shall be imprisoned for debt arising out of or founded on a contract, expressed or implied.

Exemption of property. SECTION 17. The privilege of the debtor to enjoy the necessary comforts of life shall be recognized by wholesome laws, exempting a reasonable amount of property from seizure or sale for the payment of any debt or liability hereafter contracted.

Freedom of worship; liberty of conscience; public funds for religious purposes. SECTION 18. The right of every man to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of his own conscience shall never be infringed; nor shall any man be compelled to attend, erect or support any place of worship, or to maintain any ministry, against his consent; nor shall any control of, or interference with, the rights of conscience be permitted, or any preference be given by law to any religious establishments or modes of worship; nor shall any money be drawn from the treasury, for the benefit of religious societies, or religious or theological seminaries.

Religious test. SECTION 19. No religious test shall ever be required as a qualification for any office of public trust under the state, and no person shall be rendered incompetent to give evidence in any court of law or equity in consequence of his opinions on the subject of religion.

Military and civil power. SECTION 20. The military shall be in strict subordination to the civil power.

Writs of error. SECTION 21. Writs of error shall never be prohibited by law.

Maintenance of free government. SECTION 22. The blessings of a free government can only be maintained by a firm adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, frugality and virtue, and by frequent recurrence to fundamental principles.

ARTICLE II.

BOUNDARIES.

State boundaries. SECTION 1. It is hereby ordained and declared that the state of Wisconsin doth consent and accept of the boundaries prescribed in the act of congress entitled "An act to enable the people of Wisconsin territory to form a constitution and state government, and for the admission of such state into the Union," approved August sixth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, to wit: Beginning at the northeast corner of the state of Illinois—that is to say, at a point in the center of Lake Michigan where the line of forty-two degrees and thirty minutes of north latitude crosses the same; thence running with the boundary line of the state of Michigan, through Lake Michigan, Green Bay, to the mouth of the Menominee river; thence up the channel of the said river to the Brule river; thence up said last-mentioned river to Lake Brule; thence along the southern shore of Lake Brule, in a direct line to the center of the channel between Middle and South Islands in the Lake of the Desert; thence in a direct line to the headwaters of the Montreal river, as marked upon the survey made by Captain Cramm; thence down the main channel of the Montreal river to the middle of Lake Superior; thence through the center of Lake Superior to the mouth of the St. Louis river; thence up the main channel of said river to the first rapids in the same, above the Indian village, according to Nicollet's map; thence due south to the main branch of the River St. Croix; thence down the main channel of said river to the Mississippi; thence down the center of the main channel of that river to the northwest corner of the state of Illinois; thence due east with the northern boundary of the state of Illinois to the place of beginning, as established by "An act to enable the people of the Illinois territory to form a constitution and state government, and for the admission of such state into the Union on an equal footing with the original states," approved April 18th, 1818. [Provided, however, that the following alteration of the aforesaid boundary be and hereby is proposed to the congress of the United States as the preference of the state of Wisconsin, and if the same shall be assented and agreed to by the congress of the United States, then the same shall be and forever remain obligatory on the state of Wisconsin, viz.: Leaving the aforesaid boundary line at the foot of the rapids of the St. Louis river; thence in a direct line, bearing southwesterly, to the mouth of the Iskodewabo, or Rum river, where the same empties into the Mississippi river; thence down the main channel of the said Mississippi river as prescribed in the aforesaid boundary.¹]

Enabling act accepted. SECTION 2. The propositions contained in the act of congress are hereby accepted, ratified and confirmed, and shall remain irrevocable without the consent of the United States; and it is hereby ordained that this state shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil within the same by the United States, nor with any regulations congress may find necessary for securing the title in such soil to bona fide purchasers thereof; and no tax shall be imposed on land the property of the United States; and in no case shall nonresident proprietors be taxed higher than residents. Provided, that nothing in this constitution, or in the act of congress aforesaid, shall in any manner prejudice or affect the right of the state of Wisconsin to five hundred thousand acres of land granted to said state, and to be hereafter selected and located by and under the act of congress entitled "An act to appropriate the proceeds of the sales of the public lands, and grant pre-emption rights," approved September fourth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-one.

ARTICLE III.

SUFFRAGE.

Who are electors. SECTION 1. (As amended November, 1882.) Every male person, of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, belonging to either of the following classes, who shall have resided in the state for one year next preceding any election, and in the election district where he offers to vote such time as may be prescribed by the legislature, not exceeding thirty days, shall be deemed a qualified elector at such election:

1. Citizens of the United States.

2. (As amended November, 1908.) Persons of foreign birth who, prior to the first day of December, A. D. 1908, shall have declared their intentions to become citizens conformable to the laws of the United States on the subject of naturalization, provided that the rights hereby granted to such persons shall cease on the first day of December, A. D. 1912.

3. Persons of Indian blood, who have once been declared by law of congress to be citizens of the United States, any subsequent law of congress to the contrary notwithstanding.

4. Civilized persons, of Indian descent, not members of any tribe; provided, that the legislature may at any time extend, by law, the right of suffrage to persons not herein enumerated; but no such law shall be in force until the same shall have been submitted to a vote of the people at a general election, and approved by a majority of all the votes cast at such election; and provided further, that in incorporated cities and villages the legislature may provide for the registration of electors, and prescribe proper rules and regulations therefor.

Who not electors. SECTION 2. No person under guardianship, non compos mentis or insane shall be qualified to vote at any election; nor shall any person convicted of treason or felony be qualified to vote at any election unless restored to civil rights.

Votes to be by ballot. SECTION 3. All votes shall be given by ballot except for such township officers as may by law be directed or allowed to be otherwise chosen.

Residence not lost, when. SECTION 4. No person shall be deemed to have lost his residence in this state by reason of his absence on business of the United States or of this state.

Who not residents. SECTION 5. No soldier, seaman or marine in the army or navy of the United States shall be deemed a resident of this state in consequence of being stationed within the same.

Exclusion from suffrage. SECTION 6. Laws may be passed excluding from the right of suffrage all persons who have been or may be convicted of bribery or larceny, or of any infamous crime, and depriving every person who shall make or become directly or indirectly interested in any bet or wager depending upon the result of any election from the right to vote at such election.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE.

Legislative power. SECTION 1. The legislative power shall be vested in a senate and assembly.

Senate and assembly. SECTION 2. The number of the members of the assembly shall never be less than fifty-four nor more than one hundred. The senate shall consist of a number not more than one-third nor less than one-fourth of the number of the members of the assembly.

Apportionment. SECTION 3. (As amended November, 1910.) At their first session after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the legislature shall apportion and district anew the members of the senate and assembly, according to the number of inhabitants, excluding Indians not taxed, and soldiers and officers of the United States army and navy.

Members, how chosen. SECTION 4. (As amended November, 1881.) The members of the assembly shall be chosen biennially, by single districts, on the Tuesday succeeding the first Monday of November after the adoption of this amendment, by the qualified electors of the several districts, such districts to be bounded by county, precinct, town or ward lines, to consist of contiguous territory and be in as compact form as practicable.

Senators, how chosen. SECTION 5. (As amended November, 1881.) The senators shall be elected by single districts of convenient contiguous territory, at the same time and in the same manner as members of the assembly are required to be chosen; and no assembly district shall be divided in the formation of a senate district. The senate districts shall be numbered in the regular series, and the senators shall be chosen alternately from the odd and even-numbered districts. The senators elected or holding over at the time of the adoption of this amendment shall continue in office till their successors are duly elected and qualified; and after the adoption of this amendment all senators shall be chosen for the term of four years.

Qualifications of members. SECTION 6. No person shall be eligible to the legislature who shall not have resided one year within the state, and be a qualified elector in the district which he may be chosen to represent.

Returns of members; quorum; adjournment. SECTION 7. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members; and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business, but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may compel the attendance of absent members in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

Rules; contempts; expulsion. SECTION 8. Each house may determine the rules of its own proceedings, punish for contempt and disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds of all the members elected, expel a member; but no member shall be expelled a second time for the same cause.

Officers. SECTION 9. Each house shall choose its own officers, and the senate shall choose a temporary president when the lieutenant governor shall not attend as president or shall act as governor.

Journals; open doors; adjournments. SECTION 10. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings and publish the same, except such parts as require secrecy. The doors of each house shall be kept open except when the public welfare shall require secrecy. Neither house shall, without consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days.

Meeting of legislature. SECTION 11. (As amended November, 1881.) The legislature shall meet at the seat of government at such time as shall be provided by law, once in two years, and no oftener, unless convened by the governor in special session, and when so convened no business shall be transacted except as shall be necessary to accomplish the special purposes for which it was convened.

Ineligibility to office. SECTION 12. No member of the legislature shall, during the term for which he was elected, be appointed or elected to any civil office in the state which shall have been created, or the emoluments of which shall have been increased, during the term for which he was elected.

Who ineligible. SECTION 13. No person being a member of congress, or holding any military or civil office under the United States, shall be eligible to a seat in the legislature; and if any person shall, after his election as a member of the legislature, be elected to congress, or be appointed to any office, civil or military, under the government of the United States, his acceptance thereof shall vacate his seat.

Filling vacancies. SECTION 14. The governor shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies as may occur in either house of the legislature.

Exemption from arrest. SECTION 15. Members of the legislature shall in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest; nor shall they be subject to any civil process during the session of the legislature, nor for fifteen days next before the commencement and after the termination of each session.

Privilege in debate. SECTION 16. No member of the legislature shall be liable in any civil action, or criminal prosecution whatever, for words spoken in debate.

Style of laws. SECTION 17. The style of the laws of the state shall be "The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows;" and no law shall be enacted except by bill.

Title of private bills. SECTION 18. No private or local bill which may be passed by the legislature shall embrace more than one subject, and that shall be expressed in the title.

Where bills may originate. SECTION 19. Any bill may originate in either house of the legislature, and a bill passed by one house may be amended by the other.

Yeas and nays. SECTION 20. The yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the request of one-sixth of those present, be entered on the journal.

Compensation of members. SECTION 21. (As amended November, 1881.) Each member of the legislature shall receive for his services for and during a regular session the sum of five hundred dollars, and ten cents for every mile he shall travel in going to and returning from the place of meeting of the legislature on the most usual route. In case of an extra session of the legislature, no additional compensation shall be allowed to any member thereof, either directly or indirectly, except for mileage, to be computed at the same rate as for a regular session. No stationery, newspapers, postage or other perquisites, except the salary and mileage above provided, shall be received from the state by any member of the legislature for his services or in any other manner as such member.

Powers may be conferred upon supervisors. SECTION 22. The legislature may confer upon the boards of supervisors of the several counties of the state such powers of a local, legislative and administrative character as they shall from time to time prescribe.

Uniform town and county government. SECTION 23. The legislature shall establish but one system of town and county government, which shall be as nearly uniform as practicable.

Lotteries and divorces. SECTION 24. The legislature shall never authorize any lottery, or grant any divorce.

Contracts for stationery and printing. SECTION 25. The legislature shall provide by law that all stationery required for the use of the state, and all printing authorized and required by them to be done for their use, or for the state, shall be let by contract to the lowest bidder, but the legislature may establish a maximum price; no member of the legislature or other state officer shall be interested, either directly or indirectly, in any such contract.

Extra compensation. SECTION 26. The legislature shall never grant any extra compensation to any public officer, agent, servant or contractor, after the services shall have been rendered or the contract entered into; nor shall the compensation of any public officer be increased or diminished during his term of office.

Suits against state. SECTION 27. The legislature shall direct by law in what manner and in what courts suits may be brought against the state.

Oath of office. SECTION 28. Members of the legislature, and all officers, executive and judicial, except such inferior officers as may be by law exempted, shall, before they enter upon the duties of their respective offices, take and subscribe an oath or affirmation to support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of Wisconsin, and faithfully to discharge the duties of their respective offices to the best of their ability.

Militia. SECTION 29. The legislature shall determine what persons shall constitute the militia of the state, and may provide for organizing and disciplining the same in such manner as shall be prescribed by law.

Elections by legislature. SECTION 30. In all elections to be made by the legislature the members thereof shall vote viva voce, and their votes shall be entered on the journal.

Special legislation prohibited. SECTION 31. (Created November, 1871; amended November, 1892.) The legislature is prohibited from enacting any special or private laws in the following cases: 1st. For changing the name of persons or constituting one person the heir at law of another. 2d. For laying out, opening or altering highways, except in cases of state roads extending into more than one county, and military roads to aid in the construction of which lands may be granted by congress. 3d. For authorizing persons to keep ferries across streams at points wholly within this state. 4th. For authorizing the sale or mortgage of real or personal property of minors or others under disability. 5th. For locating or changing any county seat. 6th. For assessment or collection of taxes or for extending the time for the collection thereof. 7th. For granting corporate powers or privileges, except to cities. 8th. For authorizing the apportionment of any part of the school fund. 9th. For incorporating any city, town or village, or to amend the charter thereof.

General laws must be enacted. SECTION 32. (Created November, 1871.) The legislature shall provide general laws for the transaction of any business that may be prohibited by section thirty-one of this article, and all such laws shall be uniform in their operation throughout the state.

ARTICLE V.

EXECUTIVE.

Executive power; term of office. SECTION 1. The executive power shall be vested in a governor, who shall hold his office for two years; a lieutenant governor shall be elected at the same time and for the same term.

Eligibility. SECTION 2. No person except a citizen of the United States and a qualified elector of the state shall be eligible to the office of governor or lieutenant governor.

Governor and lieutenant governor, election of. SECTION 3. The governor and lieutenant governor shall be elected by the qualified electors of the state at the times and places of choosing members of the legislature. The persons respectively having the highest number of votes for governor and lieutenant governor shall be elected; but in case two or more shall have an equal and the highest number of votes for governor or lieutenant governor, the two houses of the legislature, at its next annual [biennial] session shall forthwith, by joint ballot, choose one of the persons so having an equal and the highest number of votes for governor or lieutenant governor. The returns of election for governor and lieutenant governor shall be made in such manner as shall be provided by law.

Powers of executive. SECTION 4. The governor shall be commander in chief of the military and naval forces of the state. He shall have power to convene the legislature on extraordinary occasions, and in case of invasion, or danger from the prevalence of contagious disease at the seat of government, he may convene them at any other suitable place within the state. He shall communicate to the legislature, at every session, the condition of the state, and recommend such matters to them for their consideration as he may deem expedient. He shall transact all necessary business with the officers of the government, civil and military. He shall expedite all such measures as may be resolved upon by the legislature, and shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

Compensation of governor. SECTION 5. (As amended November, 1869.) The governor shall receive, during his continuance in office, an annual compensation of five thousand dollars, which shall be in full for all traveling or other expenses incident to his duties.

Reprieves and pardons. SECTION 6. The governor shall have power to grant reprieves, commutations and pardons, after conviction, for all offenses except treason and cases of impeachment, upon such conditions and with such restrictions and limitations as he may think proper, subject to such regulations as may be provided by law relative to the manner of applying for pardons. Upon conviction for treason he shall have the power to suspend the execution of the sentence until the case shall be reported to the legislature at its next meeting, when the legislature shall either pardon, or commute the sentence, direct the execution of the sentence, or grant a further reprieve. He shall annually [biennially] communicate to the legislature each case of reprieve, commutation or pardon granted, stating the name of the convict, the crime of which he was convicted, the sentence and its date, and the date of the commutation, pardon or reprieve, with his reasons for granting the same.

Lieutenant governor, when to act as governor. SECTION 7. In case of the impeachment of the governor, or his removal from office, death, inability from mental or physical disease, resignation or absence from the state, the powers and duties of the office shall devolve upon the lieutenant governor for the residue of the term or until the governor, absent or impeached, shall have returned, or the disability shall cease. But when the governor shall, with the consent of the legislature, be out of the state in time of war, at the head of the military force thereof, he shall continue commander in chief of the military force of the state.

Lieutenant governor president of senate; when secretary of state to be governor. SECTION 8. The lieutenant governor shall be president of the senate, but shall have only a casting vote therein. If, during a vacancy in the office of governor, the lieutenant governor shall be impeached, displaced, resign, die, or from mental or physical disease become incapable of performing the duties of his office, or be absent from the state, the secretary of state shall act as governor until the vacancy shall be filled or the disability shall cease.

His compensation. SECTION 9. (As amended November, 1869.) The lieutenant governor shall receive during his continuance in office an annual compensation of one thousand dollars.

Governor to approve bills; proceedings on veto. SECTION 10. (As amended November, 1908.) Every bill which shall have passed the legislature shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor; if he approve, he shall sign it, but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large upon the journal and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the members present shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of the members present it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the members voting for or against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor within six days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law unless the legislature shall, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

ARTICLE VI.

ADMINISTRATIVE.

Administrative officers, who, and how elected. SECTION 1. There shall be chosen by the qualified electors of the state, at the times and places of choosing the members of the legislature, a secretary of state, treasurer and attorney-general, who shall severally hold their offices for the term of two years.

Secretary of state; duties, compensation. SECTION 2. The secretary of state shall keep a fair record of the official acts of the legislature and executive department of the state, and shall, when required, lay the same and all matters relative thereto before either branch of the legislature. He shall be ex officio auditor, and shall perform such other duties as shall be assigned him by law. He shall receive as a compensation for his services yearly such sum as shall be provided by law, and shall keep his office at the seat of government.

Treasurer and attorney-general. SECTION 3. The powers, duties and compensation of the treasurer and attorney-general shall be prescribed by law.

County officers; election, terms and removal of. SECTION 4. (As amended November, 1882.) Sheriffs, coroners, registers of deeds, district attorneys, and all other county officers except judicial officers, shall be chosen by the electors of the respective counties once in every two years. Sheriffs shall hold no other office, and be ineligible for two years next succeeding the termination of their offices; they may be required by law to renew their security from time to time, and in default of giving such new security their office shall be deemed vacant; but the county shall never be made responsible for the acts of the sheriff. The governor may remove any officer in this section mentioned, giving to such a copy of the charges against him and an opportunity of being heard in his defense. All vacancies shall be filled by appointment, and the person appointed to fill a vacancy shall hold only for the unexpired portion of the term to which he shall be appointed and until his successor shall be elected and qualified.

ARTICLE VII.

JUDICIARY.

Court of impeachment. SECTION 1. The court for the trial of impeachments shall be composed of the senate. The house of representatives shall have the power of impeaching all civil officers of this state for corrupt conduct in office, or for crimes and misdemeanors; but a majority of all the members elected shall concur in an impeachment. On the trial of an impeachment against the governor, the lieutenant governor shall not act as a member of the court. No judicial officer shall exercise his office, after he shall have been impeached, until his acquittal. Before the trial of an impeachment the members of the court shall take an oath or affirmation truly and impartially to try the impeachment according to evidence; and no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present. Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, or removal from office and disqualification to hold any office of honor, profit or trust under the state; but the party impeached shall be liable to indictment, trial and punishment according to law.

Judicial power, where vested. SECTION 2. The judicial power of this state, both as to matters of law and equity, shall be vested in a supreme court, circuit courts, courts of probate, and in justices of the peace. The legislature may also vest such jurisdiction as shall be deemed necessary in municipal courts, and shall have power to establish inferior courts in the several counties, with limited civil and criminal jurisdiction. Provided, that the jurisdiction which may be vested in municipal courts shall not exceed in their respective municipalities that of circuit courts in their respective circuits as prescribed in this constitution; and that the legislature shall provide as well for the election of judges of the municipal courts as of the judges of inferior courts, by the qualified electors of the respective jurisdictions. The term of office of the judges of the said municipal and inferior courts shall not be longer than that of the judges of the circuit courts.

Supreme court, jurisdiction of. SECTION 3. The supreme court, except in cases otherwise provided in this constitution, shall have appellate jurisdiction only, which shall be coextensive with the state; but in no case removed to the supreme court shall a trial by jury be allowed. The supreme court shall have a general superintending control over all inferior courts; it shall have power to issue writs of habeas corpus, mandamus, injunction, quo warranto, certiorari, and other original and remedial writs, and to hear and determine the same.

Supreme court, how constituted. SECTION 1 [4]. (As amended November, 1877; April, 1889 and November, 1903.¹) The chief justice and associate justices of the supreme court shall be severally known as the justices of said court, with the same terms of office of ten years respectively as now provided. The supreme court shall consist of seven justices, any four of whom shall be a quorum, to be elected as now provided, not more than one each year. The justice having been longest a continuous member of said court, or in case two or more such senior justices shall have served for the same length of time, then the one whose commission first expires shall be ex officio, the chief justice.

Judicial circuits. SECTION 5. The state shall be divided into five judicial circuits, to be composed as follows: The first circuit shall comprise the counties of Racine, Walworth, Rock and Green; the second circuit, the counties of Milwaukee, Waukesha, Jefferson and Dane; the third circuit, the counties of Washington, Dodge, Columbia, Marquette, Sauk and Portage; the fourth circuit, the counties [of] Brown, Manitowoc, Sheboygan, Fond du Lac, Winnebago and Calumet; and the fifth circuit shall comprise the counties of Iowa, La Fayette, Grant, Crawford and St. Croix; and the county of Richland shall be attached to Iowa, the county of Chippewa to the county of Crawford, and the county of La Pointe to the county of St. Croix, for judicial purposes, until otherwise provided by the legislature.

Alteration of circuits. SECTION 6. The legislature may alter the limits or increase the number of circuits, making them as compact and convenient as practicable, and bounding them by county lines; but no such alteration or increase shall have the effect to remove a judge from office. In case of an increase of circuits, the judge or judges shall be elected as provided in this constitution and receive a salary of not less than that herein provided for judges of the circuit court.

Election of judges. SECTION 7. (As amended April, 1897.) For each circuit there shall be chosen by the qualified electors thereof one circuit judge, except that in any circuit composed of one county only, which county shall contain a population, according to the last state or United States census, of one hundred thousand inhabitants or over, the legislature may, from time to time, authorize additional circuit judges to be chosen. Every circuit judge shall reside in the circuit from which he is elected, and shall hold his office for such term and receive such compensation as the legislature shall prescribe.

Circuit courts, jurisdiction of. SECTION 8. The circuit courts shall have original jurisdiction in all matters civil and criminal within this state, not excepted in this constitution, and not hereafter prohibited by law; and appellate jurisdiction from all inferior courts and tribunals, and a supervisory control over the same. They shall also have the power to issue writs of habeas corpus, mandamus, injunction, quo warranto, certiorari, and all other writs necessary to carry into effect their orders, judgments and decrees, and give them a general control over inferior courts and jurisdictions.

Elections and vacancies. SECTION 9. When a vacancy shall happen in the office of judge of the supreme or circuit courts, such vacancy shall be filled by an appointment of the governor, which shall continue until a successor is elected and qualified; and when elected such successor shall hold his office the residue of the unexpired term. There shall be no election for a judge or judges at any general election for state or county officers, nor within thirty days either before or after such election.

Salaries of judges; to hold no other office. SECTION 10. (As amended November, 1912.¹) Each of the judges of the supreme and circuit courts shall receive a salary, payable at such time as the legislature shall fix, of not less than one thousand five hundred dollars annually; they shall receive no fees of office, or other compensation than their salary; they shall hold no office of public trust except a judicial office, during the term for which they are respectively elected, and all votes for either of them for any office, except a judicial office, given by the legislature or the people, shall be void. No person shall be eligible to the office of judge who shall not at the time of his election, be a citizen of the United States and have attained the age of twenty-five years, and be a qualified elector within the jurisdiction for which he may be chosen.

Terms of courts; change of judges. SECTION 11. The supreme court shall hold at least one term annually, at the seat of government of the state, at such time as shall be provided by law. And the legislature may provide for holding other terms and at other places when they may deem it necessary. A circuit court shall be held at least twice in each year in each county of this state organized for judicial purposes. The judges of the circuit court may hold courts for each other, and shall do so when required by law.

Clerks of circuit and supreme courts. SECTION 12. (As amended November, 1882.) There shall be a clerk of the circuit court chosen in each county organized for judicial purposes by the qualified electors thereof, who shall hold his office for two years, subject to removal as shall be provided by law; in case of a vacancy, the judge of the circuit court shall have power to appoint a clerk until the vacancy shall be filled by an election; the clerk thus elected or appointed shall give such security as the legislature may require. The supreme court shall appoint its own clerk, and a clerk of the circuit court may be appointed a clerk of the supreme court.

Removal of judges. SECTION 13. Any judge of the supreme or circuit court may be removed from office by address of both houses of the legislature, if two-thirds of all the members elected to each house concur therein, but no removal shall be made by virtue of this section unless the judge complained of shall have been served with a copy of the charges against him, as the ground of address, and shall have had an opportunity of being heard in his defense. On the question of removal the ayes and noes shall be entered on the journals.

Judges of probate. SECTION 14. There shall be chosen in each county, by the qualified electors thereof, a judge of probate, who shall hold his office for two years and until his successor shall be elected and qualified, and whose jurisdiction, powers and duties shall be prescribed by law. Provided, however, that the legislature shall have power to abolish the office of judge of probate in any county, and to confer probate powers upon such inferior courts as may be established in said county.

Justices of the peace, election and term. SECTION 15. The electors of the several towns at their annual town meeting, and the electors of cities and villages at their charter elections, shall, in such manner as the legislature may direct, elect justices of the peace, whose term of office shall be for two years and until their successors in office shall be elected and qualified. In case of an election to fill a vacancy occurring before the expiration of a full term, the justice elected shall hold for the residue of the unexpired term. Their number and classification shall be regulated by law. And the tenure of two years shall in no wise interfere with the classification in the first instance. The justices thus elected shall have such civil and criminal jurisdiction as shall be prescribed by law.

Tribunals of conciliation. SECTION 16. The legislature shall pass laws for the regulation of tribunals of conciliation, defining their powers and duties. Such tribunals may be established in and for any township, and shall have power to render judgment to be obligatory on the parties when they shall voluntarily submit their matter in difference to arbitration, and agree to abide the judgment or assent thereto in writing.

Style of writs; indictments. SECTION 17. The style of all writs and process shall be, "The state of Wisconsin;" all criminal prosecutions shall be carried on in the name and by the authority of the same, and all indictments shall conclude against the peace and dignity of the state.

Tax on civil suits. SECTION 18. The legislature shall impose a tax on all civil suits commenced or prosecuted in the municipal, inferior or circuit courts, which shall constitute a fund to be applied toward the payment of the salary of judges.

Testimony in suits in equity. SECTION 19. The testimony in causes in equity shall be taken in like manner as in cases at law, and the office of master in chancery is hereby prohibited.

Rights of suitors. SECTION 20. Any suitor, in any court of this state, shall have the right to prosecute or defend his suit either in his own proper person, or by an attorney or agent of his choice.

Publication of laws. SECTION 21. The legislature shall provide by law for the speedy publication of all statute laws, and of such judicial decisions, made within the state, as may be deemed expedient. And no general law shall be in force until published.

Commissioners to revise code, etc. SECTION 22. The legislature, at its first session after the adoption of this constitution, shall provide for the appointment of three commissioners, whose duty it shall be to inquire into, revise and simplify the rules of practice, pleadings, forms and proceedings, and arrange a system adapted to the courts of record of this state, and report the same to the legislature, subject to their modification and adoption; and such commission shall terminate upon the rendering of the report, unless otherwise provided by law.

Court commissioners. SECTION 23. The legislature may provide for the appointment of one or more persons in each organized county, and may vest in such persons such judicial powers as shall be prescribed by law. Provided, that said power shall not exceed that of a judge of a circuit-court at chambers.

ARTICLE VIII.

FINANCE.

Taxation uniform; income taxes. SECTION 1. (As amended November, 1908.) The rule of taxation shall be uniform, and taxes shall be levied upon such property as the legislature shall prescribe. Taxes may also be imposed on incomes, privileges and occupations, which taxes may be graduated and progressive, and reasonable exemptions may be provided.

Appropriation of money. SECTION 2. (As amended November, 1877.) No money shall be paid out of the treasury except in pursuance of an appropriation by law. No appropriation shall be made for the payment of any claim against the state except claims of the United States and judgments, unless filed within six years after the claim accrued.

Credit of state, loan of. SECTION 3. The credit of the state shall never be given, or loaned, in aid of any individual, association or corporation.

Contracting debts. SECTION 4. The state shall never contract any public debt except in the cases and manner herein provided.

Annual tax, levy of. SECTION 5. The legislature shall provide for an annual tax sufficient to defray the estimated expenses of the state for each year; and whenever the expenses of any year shall exceed the income, the legislature shall provide for levying a tax for the ensuing year, sufficient, with other sources of income, to pay the deficiency as well as the estimated expenses of such ensuing year.

Limitations on public debt. SECTION 6. For the purpose of defraying extraordinary expenditures the state may contract public debts (but such debts shall never in the aggregate exceed one hundred thousand dollars). Every such debt shall be authorized by law, for some purpose or purposes to be distinctly specified therein; and the vote of a majority of all the members elected to each house, to be taken by yeas and nays, shall be necessary to the passage of such law; and every such law shall provide for levying an annual tax sufficient to pay the annual interest of such debt and the principal within five years from the passage of such law, and shall specially appropriate the proceeds of such taxes to the payment of such principal and interest; and such appropriation shall not be repealed, nor the taxes be postponed or diminished, until the principal and interest of such debt shall have been wholly paid.

State may borrow money. SECTION 7. The legislature may also borrow money to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or defend the state in time of war; but the money thus raised shall be applied exclusively to the object for which the loan was authorized, or to the repayment of the debt thereby created.

Vote on passage of fiscal bills. SECTION 8. On the passage in either house of the legislature of any law which imposes, continues or renews a tax, or creates a debt or charge, or makes, continues or renews an appropriation of public or trust money, or releases, discharges or commutes a claim or demand of the state, the question shall be taken by yeas and nays, which shall be duly entered on the journal; and three-fifths of all the members elected to such house shall in all such cases be required to constitute a quorum therein.

Evidences of debt. SECTION 9. No scrip, certificate, or other evidence of state debt whatsoever, shall be issued except for such debts as are authorized by the sixth and seventh sections of this article.

Internal improvements. SECTION 10. The state shall never contract any debt for works of internal improvement, or be a party in carrying on such works; but whenever grants of land or other property shall have been made to the state, especially dedicated by the grant to particular works of internal improvement, the state may carry on such particular works, and shall devote thereto the avails of such grants, and may pledge or appropriate the revenues derived from such works in aid of their completion. (Added November, 1908.) Provided that the state may appropriate money in the treasury or to be thereafter raised by taxation for the construction or improvement of public highways.

ARTICLE IX.

EMINENT DOMAIN AND PROPERTY OF THE STATE.

Jurisdiction on rivers and lakes; navigable waters. SECTION 1. The state shall have concurrent jurisdiction on all rivers and lakes bordering on this state so far as such rivers or lakes shall form a common boundary to the state and any other state or territory now or hereafter to be formed, and bounded by the same; and the river Mississippi and the navigable waters leading into the Mississippi and St. Lawrence, and the carrying places between the same, shall be common highways and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of the state as to the citizens of the United States, without any tax, impost or duty therefor.

Territorial property. SECTION 2. The title to all lands and other property which have accrued to the territory of Wisconsin by grant, gift, purchase, forfeiture, escheat or otherwise shall vest in the state of Wisconsin.

Property in lands. SECTION 3. The people of the state, in their right of sovereignty, are declared to possess the ultimate property in and to all lands within the jurisdiction of the state; and all lands the title to which shall fail from a defect of heirs shall revert or escheat to the people.

ARTICLE X.

EDUCATION.

Duties and compensation of state superintendent. SECTION 1. (As amended November, 1902.) The supervision of public instruction shall be vested in a state superintendent and such other officers as the legislature shall direct; and their qualifications, powers, duties and compensation shall be prescribed by law. The state superintendent shall be chosen by the qualified electors of the state at the same time and in the same manner as members of the supreme court, and shall hold his office for four years from the succeeding first Monday in July. The state superintendent chosen at the general election in November, 1902, shall hold and continue in his office until the first Monday in July, 1905, and his successor shall be chosen at the time of the judicial election in April, 1905. The term of office, time and manner of electing or appointing all other officers of supervision of public instruction shall be fixed by law.

School fund; interest of, how applied. SECTION 2. The proceeds of all lands that have been or hereafter may be granted by the United States to this state for educational purpose (except the lands heretofore granted for the purposes of a university), and all moneys and the clear proceeds of all property that may accrue to the state by forfeiture or escheat, and all moneys which may be paid as an equivalent for exemption from military duty; and the clear proceeds of all fines collected in the several counties for any breach of the penal laws, and all moneys arising from any grant to the state where the purposes of such grant are not specified, and the five hundred thousand acres of land to which the state is entitled by the provisions of an act of congress, entitled "An act to appropriate the proceeds of the sales of the public lands and to grant preemption rights," approved the fourth day of September, one thousand eight hundred and forty-one; and also the five per centum of the net proceeds of the public lands to which the state shall become entitled on her admission into the Union (if congress shall consent to such appropriation of the two grants last mentioned), shall be set apart as a separate fund to be called "the school fund," the interest of which and all other revenues derived from the school lands shall be exclusively applied to the following objects, to wit:

1. To the support and maintenance of common schools in each school district, and the purchase of suitable libraries and apparatus therefor.

2. The residue shall be appropriated to the support and maintenance of academies and normal schools, and suitable libraries and apparatus therefor.

District schools; tuition; sectarian instruction. SECTION 3. The legislature shall provide by law for the establishment of district schools, which shall be as nearly uniform as practicable; and such schools shall be free and without charge for tuition to all children between the ages of four and twenty years; and no sectarian instruction shall be allowed therein.

Annual school tax. SECTION 4. Each town and city shall be required to raise by tax, annually, for the support of common schools therein, a sum not less than one-half the amount received by such town or city respectively for school purposes from the income of the school fund.

Income of school fund. SECTION 5. Provision shall be made by law for the distribution of the income of the school fund among the several towns and cities of the state for the support of common schools therein, in some just proportion to the number of children and youth resident therein between the ages of four and twenty years, and no appropriation shall be made from the school fund to any city or town for the year in which said city or town shall fail to raise such tax; nor to any school district for the year in which a school shall not be maintained at least three months.

State university. SECTION 6. Provision shall be made by law for the establishment of a state university at or near the seat of state government, and for connecting with the same, from time to time, such colleges in different parts of the state as the interests of education may require. The proceeds of all lands that have been or may hereafter be granted by the United States to the state for the support of a university shall be and remain a perpetual fund to be called "the university fund," the interest of which shall be appropriated to the support of the state university, and no sectarian instruction shall be allowed in such university.

Commissioners of school and university lands. SECTION 7. The secretary of state, treasurer and attorney-general shall constitute a board of commissioners for the sale of the school and university lands and for the investment of the funds arising therefrom. Any two of said commissioners shall be a quorum for the transaction of all business pertaining to the duties of their office.

Lands, how sold; payment. SECTION 8. Provision shall be made by law for the sale of all school and university lands after they shall have been appraised; and when any portion of such lands shall be sold and the purchase money shall not be paid at the time of the sale, the commissioners shall take security by mortgage upon the land sold for the sum remaining unpaid, with seven per cent interest thereon, payable annually at the office of the treasurer. The commissioners shall be authorized to execute a good and sufficient conveyance to all purchasers of such lands, and to discharge any mortgages taken as security, when the sum due thereon shall have been paid. The commissioners shall have power to withhold from sale any portion of such lands when they shall deem it expedient, and shall invest all moneys arising from the sale of such lands, as well as all other university and school funds, in such manner as the legislature shall provide, and shall give such security for the faithful performance of their duties as may be required by law.

ARTICLE XI.

CORPORATIONS.

How formed; repeal of laws. SECTION 1. Corporations without banking powers or privileges may be formed under general laws, but shall not be created by special act, except for municipal purposes, and in cases where, in the judgment of the legislature, the objects of the corporation cannot be attained under general laws. All general laws or special acts enacted under the provisions of this section may be altered or repealed by the legislature at any time after their passage.

Property, taking of by municipality. SECTION 2. No municipal corporation shall take private property for public use, against the consent of the owner, without the necessity thereof being first established by the verdict of a jury.

Municipalities and their indebtedness. SECTION 3. (As amended November, 1874, and November, 1912.) It shall be the duty of the legislature, and they are hereby empowered, to provide for the organization of cities and incorporated villages, and to restrict their power of taxation, assessment, borrowing money, contracting debts and loaning their credit, so as to prevent abuses in assessments and taxation, and in contracting debts by such municipal corporations. No county, city, town, village, school district, or other municipal corporation shall be allowed to become indebted in any manner or for any purpose to any amount, including existing indebtedness, in the aggregate exceeding five per centum on the value of the taxable property therein, to be ascertained by the last assessment for state and county taxes previous to the incurring of such indebtedness. Any county, city, town, village, school district, or other municipal corporation incurring any indebtedness as aforesaid, shall, before or at the time of doing so, provide for the collection of a direct annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such debt as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal thereof within twenty years from the time of contracting the same; except that when such indebtedness is incurred in the acquisition of lands by cities, or by counties having a population of one hundred fifty thousand or over, for public municipal purposes, or for the permanent improvement thereof, the city or county incurring the same shall, before or at the time of so doing, provide for the collection of a direct annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such debt as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal thereof within a period not exceeding fifty years from the time of contracting the same.

Acquisition of lands by the state. SECTION 3a. (Added November, 1912.) The state or any of its cities may acquire by gift, purchase, or condemnation lands for establishing, laying out, widening, enlarging, extending, and maintaining memorial grounds, streets, squares, parkways, boulevards, parks, playgrounds, sites for public buildings, and reservations in and about and along and leading to any or all of the same; and after the establishment, layout, and completion of such improvements, may convey any such real estate thus acquired and not necessary for such improvements, with reservations concerning the future use and occupation of such real estate, so as to protect such public works and improvements, and their environs, and to preserve the view, appearance, light, air, and usefulness of such public works.

Authorizing a general banking law. SECTION 4. (Substituted for former sections 4 and 5, November, 1902.) The legislature shall have power to enact a general banking law for the creation of banks, and for the regulation and supervision of the banking business, provided that the vote of two-thirds of all the members elected to each house, to be taken by yeas and nays, be in favor of the passage of such law.

ARTICLE XII.

AMENDMENTS.

How proposed, submitted and adopted. SECTION 1. Any amendment or amendments to this constitution may be proposed in either house of the legislature, and if the same shall be agreed to by a majority of the members elected to each of the two houses, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be entered on their journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election, and shall be published for three months previous to the time of holding such election; and if, in the legislature so next chosen, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each house, then it shall be the duty of the legislature to submit such proposed amendment or amendments to the people in such manner and at such time as the legislature shall prescribe; and if the people shall approve and ratify such amendment or amendments by a majority of the electors voting thereon, such amendment or amendments shall become part of the constitution; provided, that if more than one amendment be submitted they shall be submitted in such manner that the people may vote for or against such amendments separately.

Constitutional convention. SECTION 2. If at any time a majority of the senate and assembly shall deem it necessary to call a convention to revise or change this constitution, they shall recommend to the electors to vote for or against a convention at the next election for members of the legislature. And if it shall appear that a majority of the electors voting thereon have voted for a convention, the legislature shall, at its next session, provide for calling such convention.

ARTICLE XIII.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS.

Political year; elections. SECTION 1. (As amended November, 1882.) The political year for the state of Wisconsin shall commence on the first Monday in January in each year, and the general election shall be holden on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday in November. The first general election for all state and county officers, except judicial officers, after the adoption of this amendment shall be holden in the year A. D. 1884, and thereafter the general election shall be held biennially. All state, county or other officers elected at the general election in the year 1881, and whose term of office would otherwise expire on the first Monday of January in the year 1884, shall hold, and continue in such offices respectively until the first Monday in January in the year 1885.

Duelists disqualified as electors, etc. SECTION 2. Any inhabitant of this state who may hereafter be engaged, either directly or indirectly, in a duel, either as principal or accessory, shall forever be disqualified as an elector, and from holding any office under the constitution and laws of this state, and may be punished in such other manner as shall be prescribed by law.

Who ineligible to office. SECTION 3. No member of congress, nor any person holding any office of profit or trust under the United States (postmasters excepted) or under any foreign power, no person convicted of any infamous crime in any court within the United States, and no person being a defaulter to the United States or to this state, or to any county or town therein, or to any state or territory within the United States, shall be eligible to any office of trust, profit or honor in this state.

Great seal. SECTION 4. It shall be the duty of the legislature to provide a great seal for the state, which shall be kept by the secretary of state, and all official acts of the governor, his approbation of the laws excepted, shall be thereby authenticated.

Residents on Indian lands, where may vote. SECTION 5. All persons residing upon Indian lands, within any county of the state, and qualified to exercise the right of suffrage under this constitution, shall be entitled to vote at the polls which may be held nearest their residence, for state, United States or county officers. Provided, that no person shall vote for county officers out of the county in which he resides.

Legislative officers. SECTION 6. The elective officers of the legislature, other than the presiding officers, shall be a chief clerk and a sergeant at arms, to be elected by each house.

Division of counties. SECTION 7. No county with an area of nine hundred square miles or less shall be divided or have any part stricken therefrom without submitting the question to a vote of the people of the county, nor unless a majority of all the legal voters of the county voting on the question shall vote for the same.

County seats. SECTION 8. No county seat shall be removed until the point to which it is proposed to be removed shall be fixed by law, and a majority of the voters of the county voting on the question shall have voted in favor of its removal to such point.

Election of officers. SECTION 9. All county officers whose election or appointment is not provided for by this constitution shall be elected by the electors of the respective counties, or appointed by the boards of supervisors or other county authorities, as the legislature shall direct. All city, town and village officers whose election or appointment is not provided for by this constitution shall be elected by the electors of such cities, towns and villages, or of some division thereof, or appointed by such authorities thereof as the legislature shall designate for that purpose. All other officers whose election or appointment is not provided for by this constitution, and all officers whose offices may hereafter be created by law, shall be elected by the people or appointed, as the legislature may direct.

Vacancies in offices. SECTION 10. The legislature may declare the cases in which any office shall be deemed vacant, and also the manner of filling the vacancy, where no provision is made for that purpose in this constitution.

Free passes forbidden. SECTION 11. (Added November, 1902.) No person, association, copartnership, or corporation, shall promise, offer, or give, for any purpose, to any political committee, or any member or employe thereof, to any candidate for, or incumbent of any office or position under the constitution or laws, or under any ordinance of any town or municipality, of this state, or to any person at the request or for the advantage of all or any of them, any free pass or frank, or any privilege withheld from any person, for the traveling accommodation or transportation of any person or property, or the transmission of any message or communication.

No political committee, and no member or employe thereof, no candidate for and no incumbent of any office or position under the constitution or laws, or under any ordinance of any town or municipality of this state, shall ask for, or accept, from any person, association, copartnership, or corporation, or use, in any manner, or for any purpose, any free pass or frank, or any privilege withheld from any person, for the traveling accommodation or transportation of any person or property, or the transmission of any message or communication.

Any violation of any of the above provisions shall be bribery and punished as provided by law, and if any officer or any member of the legislature be guilty thereof, his office shall become vacant.

No person within the purview of this act shall be privileged from testifying in relation to anything therein prohibited; and no person having so testified shall be liable to any prosecution or punishment for any offense concerning which he was required to give his testimony or produce any documentary evidence.

The railroad commissioner and his deputy in the discharge of duty are excepted from the provisions of this amendment.

ARTICLE XIV.

SCHEDULE.

Effect of change of government. SECTION 1. That no inconvenience may arise by reason of a change from a territorial to a permanent state government, it is declared that all rights, actions, prosecutions, judgments, claims and contracts, as well of individuals as of bodies corporate, shall continue as if no such change had taken place; and all process which may be issued under the authority of the territory of Wisconsin previous to its admission into the union of the United States shall be as valid as if issued in the name of the state.

Territorial laws. SECTION 2. All laws now in force in the territory of Wisconsin which are not repugnant to this constitution shall remain in force until they expire by their own limitation or be altered or repealed by the legislature.

Fines to accrue to state. SECTION 3. All fines, penalties or forfeitures accruing to the territory of Wisconsin shall inure to the use of the state.

Rights of action and prosecutions. SECTION 4. All recognizances heretofore taken, or which may be taken before the change from territorial to a permanent state government, shall remain valid, and shall pass to and may be prosecuted in the name of the state; and all bonds executed to the governor of the territory, or to any other officer or court in his or their official capacity, shall pass to the governor or state authority and their successors in office, for the uses therein respectively expressed, and may be sued for and recovered accordingly; and all the estate, or property, real, personal or mixed, and all judgments, bonds, specialties, choses in action and claims or debts of whatsoever description of the territory of Wisconsin, shall inure to and vest in the state of Wisconsin, and may be sued for and recovered in the same manner and to the same extent by the state of Wisconsin as the same could have been by the territory of Wisconsin. All criminal prosecutions and penal actions which may have arisen, or which may arise before the change from a territorial to a state government, and which shall then be pending, shall be prosecuted to judgment and execution in the name of the state. All offenses committed against the laws of the territory of Wisconsin before the change from a territorial to a state government, and which shall not be prosecuted before such change, may be prosecuted in the name and by the authority of the state of Wisconsin with like effect as though such change had not taken place; and all penalties incurred shall remain the same as if this constitution had not been adopted. All actions at law and suits in equity which may be pending in any of the courts of the territory of Wisconsin at the time of the change from a territorial to a state government may be continued and transferred to any court of the state which shall have jurisdiction of the subject matter thereof.

Officers to hold. SECTION 5. All officers, civil and military, now holding their offices under the authority of the United States or of the territory of Wisconsin shall continue to hold and exercise their respective offices until they shall be superseded by the authority of the state.

Seat of government. SECTION 6. The first session of the legislature of the state of Wisconsin shall commence on the first Monday in June next, and shall be held at the village of Madison, which shall be and remain the seat of government until otherwise provided by law.

County officers to hold. SECTION 7. All county, precinct and township officers shall continue to hold their respective offices, unless removed by the competent authority, until the legislature shall, in conformity with the provisions of this constitution, provide for the holding of elections to fill such offices respectively.

Copy of constitution for president. SECTION 8. The president of this convention shall, immediately after its adjournment, cause a fair copy of this constitution, together with a copy of the act of the legislature of this territory, entitled "An act in relation to the formation of a state government in Wisconsin, and to change the time of holding the annual session of the legislature," approved October 27, 1847, providing for the calling of this convention, and also a copy of so much of the last census of this territory as exhibits the number of its inhabitants to be forwarded to the president of the United States to be laid before the congress of the United States at its present session.

Vote on constitution; election of officers. SECTION 9. This constitution shall be submitted at an election to be held on the second Monday in March next, for ratification or rejection, to all white male persons of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, who shall then be residents of this territory and citizens of the United States, or shall have declared their intention to become such in conformity with the laws of congress on the subject of naturalization; and all persons having such qualifications shall be entitled to vote for or against the adoption of this constitution, and for all officers first elected under it. And if the constitution be ratified by the said electors it shall become the constitution of the state of Wisconsin. On such of the ballots as are for the constitution shall be written or printed the word "yes," and on such as are against the constitution the word "no." The election shall be conducted in the manner now prescribed by law, and the returns made by the clerks of the boards of supervisors or county commissioners (as the case may be) to the governor of the territory at any time before the tenth day of April next. And in the event of the ratification of this constitution by a majority of all the votes given, it shall be the duty of the governor of this territory to make proclamation of the same, and to transmit a digest of the returns to the senate and assembly of the state on the first day of their session. An election shall be held for governor, lieutenant governor, treasurer, attorney-general, members of the state legislature, and members of congress, on the second Monday of May next; and no other or further notice of such election shall be required.¹

First election; returns. SECTION 11. The several elections provided for in this article shall be conducted according to the existing laws of the territory; provided, that no elector shall be entitled to vote except in the town, ward or precinct where he resides. The returns of election for senators and members of assembly shall be transmitted to the clerk of the board of supervisors or county commissioners, as the case may be; and the votes shall be canvassed and certificates of election issued as now provided by law. In the first senatorial district the returns of the election for senator shall be made to the proper officer in the county of Brown; in the second senatorial district to the proper officer in the county of Columbia; in the third senatorial district to the proper officer in the county of Crawford; in the fourth senatorial district to the proper officer in the county of Fond du Lac; and in the fifth senatorial district to the proper officer in the county of Iowa. The returns of election for state officers and members of congress shall be certified and transmitted to the speaker of the assembly, at the seat of government, in the same manner as the vote for delegate to congress are required to be certified and returned by the laws of the territory of Wisconsin, to the secretary of said territory, and in such time that they may be received on the first Monday in June next; and as soon as the legislature shall be organized the speaker of the assembly and the president of the senate shall, in the presence of both houses, examine the returns and declare who are duly elected to fill the several offices hereinbefore mentioned, and give to each of the persons elected a certificate of his election.¹

Common law in force. SECTION 13. Such parts of the common law as are now in force in the territory of Wisconsin, not inconsistent with this constitution, shall be and continue part of the law of this state until altered or suspended by the legislature.

Officers, when to enter on duties. SECTION 14. The senators first elected in the even-numbered senate districts, the governor, lieutenant governor and other state officers first elected under this constitution, shall enter upon the duties of their respective offices on the first Monday of June next, and shall continue in office for one year from the first Monday of January next; the senators first elected in the odd-numbered senate districts, and the members of the assembly first elected, shall enter upon their duties respectively on the first Monday of June next, and shall continue in office until the first Monday in January next.

Oath of office. SECTION 15. The oath of office may be administered by any judge or justice of the peace until the legislature shall otherwise direct.

We, the undersigned, members of the convention to form a constitution for the state of Wisconsin, to be submitted to the people thereof for their ratification or rejection, do hereby certify that the foregoing is the constitution adopted by the convention.

In testimony whereof, we have hereunto set our hands at Madison, the first day of February, A. D. eighteen hundred and forty-eight.

MORGAN L. MARTIN,

REAPPORTIONMENT

One of the most important bills passed by the Legislature of 1921 was No. 477, S., making a reapportionment of the Senate and Assembly districts of the state which takes effect April 21, 1922. The joint committee of the Senate and Assembly reapportioned the state according to the Federal census of 1920, making many drastic changes in the make-up of the various districts. The total number of members of the Assembly remains one hundred as prescribed in the constitution and the Senate will have its thirty-three members as usual.

One of the most drastic changes was in Milwaukee County where one Assembly district was added by the reapportionment of the nineteen it had formerly had. In this same county the number of state senators was changed from six to seven members adding one to their former list.

The committee did nothing relative to the reapportionment of the Congressional districts of the state, Congress not having acted on the matter and should they add an extra Congressional district to Wisconsin such a Congressman would be elected at large and the 1923 Legislature would be called upon to reapportion these Congressional districts.

The provisions of chapter 470 are as follows:

The counties of Ashland, Barron, Bayfield, Calumet, Chippewa, Clark, Columbia, Crawford, Door, Dunn, Eau Claire, Green, Iowa, Jackson, Jefferson, Juneau, Kewaunee, La Fayette, Langlade, Lincoln, Marinette, Monroe, Oconto, Ozaukee, Pierce, Polk, Portage, Price, Richland, St. Croix, Sauk, Shawano, Taylor, Trempealeau, Vernon, Wauworth, Washington, Waupaca and Wood shall each constitute an assembly district.
