He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, honorary scientific fraternity, American Philosophical society and American Psychological association.

President Meiklejohn will arrive today and will be entertained at the home of Prof. F. G. Sharp during his stay. He will leave here to go to Nebraska, where he will speak Saturday night.

LOBECK WILL CONDUCT GEOLOGY TOUR IN JUNE

A student tour to the Rocky mountains will be conducted this summer by Dr. Armin Kohl Lobeck, assistant professor of geology. The tour will be for the purpose of acquainting students with geological formations and phenomena that can be studied advantageously only on the ground itself.

The trip will start on June 9 from Chicago and will terminate on July 4. This is the second year that the trip has been held and many students from various states in the country have already signed up.

Geysers, glaciers, mesas and many other interesting geological phenomena will be observed by the students who will travel approximately 1000 miles by auto in addition to the railroad trip.

Frosh to Meet Juniors in Women's Baseball Tourney

The freshmen will come up against the juniors in the first round of the women's inter-class outdoor baseball tournament which is to be played at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at Camp Randall.

The games will continue until Thursday, May 24, when the juniors and seniors will clash in the final scheduled contest.

The final game to decide any claim to the title which will be necessary will be played off Field day, Saturday, May 26, as a part of the special program which is being arranged for that day.

CRUCIBLE ELECTIONS

Crucible, honorary junior women's organization announce the initiation of the following members: Margaret Campbell, Alice Corl, Alice Cummings, Mary Devine, Esther Fifield, Dorothy Haskins, Clara Hertzberg, Dorothy John, Ruth Klingler, Margaret Meyer, Lina Norman, Jean Palica, Helen Robinson, Ann Smith, Elizabeth Stolte, Marion Streng.

PROGRAM FOR 1923 SWINGOUT IS CUT SHORT

The Program of events at the senior swingout will be shorter than in previous years according to the announcement made by Janet Marshall '24, general co-chairman yesterday.

The university band will play during the marching figures. When the women all reach the top of the upper campus the torch of office will be handed over to the new president of Blue Dragon, senior women's class organization. The various class organizations will sing their special songs and physical education students will give a short maypole dance, on the upper campus before the rows of seniors.

Mortar Board, honorary junior women's organization, will be announced as the final part of the program of events.

The Girl's Glee club will not sing as they have done in former years as it is very difficult for them to be heard by all of the scattered onlookers, and the program should be kept as short as possible to permit people to go to the Inter-frat sing and the Dance Drama," said Janet Marshall.

There will be a very important meeting at 12:45 Friday in the S. G. A. office for all of the committee chairmen.

STUDENT COURT DOES NOT ACT

Will Hold Public Session Tomorrow For Cap Violators

The Student court took no action at the meeting in the Law building last night on the green cap case. It was to have been a test case of the court's power to make freshmen wear the green caps.

A public court session will be held tomorrow night at the Law building to try 3 of the 12 freshmen who have been reported by the Sophomore tradition committee for violating the green cap tradition.

Landon L. Chapman '26, had been notified to appear last night and explain why he had not been wearing the cap. He stated that he has 32 credits and was a freshman last year and wore the cap in the fall. No action was taken by the court on the case.

After the meeting Chapman was approached by Max Brackett '25, chairman of the Sophomore tradition committee and was told that he was registered as a freshman. Brackett claimed that Chapman was registered yesterday morning as a freshman and when asked last week why he did not wear the cap Chapman did not inform him that he was a sophomore now.

"The Sophomore tradition committee and the Student could could use a little more judgement. I had 32 credits at the beginning of this semester. The Sophomore tradition committee might remember that everyone who wears 1926 numeral is not a freshman; some are sophomores," Chapman said after the court had adjourned.

Chapman said he attended River Falls Normal last year and was allowed 17 credits for his work.

Lawrence Hart '24 attorney for the frosh made the following motion:

"I move that the Senate be required to bring to court next Thursday night all minutes pertaining to the green caps for public inspection and leave them here until the investigation is over."

WOMEN'S TENNIS TEAMS PICKED THRU TOURNEY

Women's class teams in tennis will be picked Friday. The four winners in each of the elimination tournaments and the two winners of freshman an sophomore for singles championship.

Only four seniors entered the elimination tournament. GREEN BUTTON GIVES BANQUET

The Green Button banquet will be held tonight at 6:00 in the Woman's building. Following the banquet there will be several short talks. Mrs. C. B. Flett will be the principal speaker. Mary Devine '25 will speak on "The S. G. A." and Edith Morris '26 will talk on "Athletics."

A short business meeting will be conducted to nominate two candidates for the officers of the sophomore class. One nomination has already been made by the standing committee.

All of the freshman girls are urged to attend. Tickets will be sold at the Woman's building just preceding the banquet.

ROSS CHARGES SUPPRESSION OF VITAL NEWS

"There is a noticeable suppression or real news in the columns of our leading dailies," maintained Prof. questionable policies in the profession, before members of the Press club last night.

Because such a large amount of capital is needed to put out the modern newspaper and because the tendency is to cater tremendously to the advertiser, the newspaper of today is coming into the hands of business men, rather than professional newspaper men, is the theory Dr. Ross advanced as to the cause for the evident suppression of real news.

"In the last 50 years the proportion of advertising has expanded from 40 to 70 per cent. With business men as owners, it is felt that the advertiser must be catered to at all costs, for the advertisers are the bountiful source of income.

"The result is that criticism inevitably falls on the heads of the non-advertising classes like farmers, and teachers. It is safe to pick their political and economic ideas to pieces, because they have no advertising patronage to be courted."

Professor Ross supported all his assertions with the returns of the research investigations he has been making. He cited concrete examples of how cleverly the country were hypocritically laying for public feeling, while actually engaged in a strong backing of capitalism.

AGRIC-HOME EC PICNIC TO BE HELD TONIGHT

"On account of the rain yesterday the Agric-Home Ec picnic was postponed until this afternoon. The original plans for the picnic will be carried out, as they were planned, this afternoon," said Ernest Callenbach '24, who is in charge of games for the occasion.

The picnic will be held at the Ramier farm. Red arrows will be posted along the lake shore to guide the picnickers from Agricultural hall to the farm. There will be three parties, one leaving at 3:30 o'clock, another at 4:30 o'clock, and the third at 5:30 o'clock. There will be games and races and prizes will be awarded to the winners of each race.

After the races the picnickers will assemble around a camp fire for a picnic feed.

Band Men Too Busy to Give Us Usual Thursday Concert

The university bands will not give their usual concert on the campus Thursday evening because of the participation of the men in many other activities this week. The band will play for the Military inspection Friday afternoon, and at the Horse Show Saturday afternoon.

ELECT BUTTS MANAGING EDITOR, PLEWKE BUSINESS MANAGER OF DAILY CARDINAL FOR 1923-24

"Cap" Isabel Says Cardinal is Ready For Action Again

"We are repairing the Cardinal which was damaged in the recent storm, putting a new door on the boathouse, and generally straightening up, so that we will be prepared to serve the canoists efficiently when fair weather shall once again tempt them out," announced "Cap" Isabel today.

S.G.A. COLLECTS OLD CLOTHING

Sacks Distributed to Women's Houses For Friendship Relief

A drive for old clothes to be sent to the Student Friendship headquarters will be conducted by S. G. A. Large sacks will be distributed to the board members of every woman's house at the regular board meeting tonight.

Mary Atwood '26 is the general chairman in charge of the drive, with Hazel Weingandt '25 as assistant in the work.

The sacks are to be filled with old clothes and odds and ends by the women in the individual houses. They will be collected June 13 and sent to Milwaukee to the state headquarters of the Student Friendship association on a large truck.

In Milwaukee the clothes will all be re-sorted and packed again to be sent to the needy students in the foreign countries where the Student Friendship association has distributing points.

The bags will not be collected until after most of the students have left Madison, and thus the women will be able to save all of the old clothes which they would not take home for the bags.

This is the first year that the campaign has been conducted on a large organized system, although a certain number of the sacks were filled here last year and sent to the headquarters in Milwaukee.

Any old clothes will be accepted, as well as knick-knacks which might be of use either to the students themselves or in selling for cash to be sent over.

Houses which do not receive their bags tonight may obtain them from the S. G. A. office for the next several days. Accounts will be kept, and every house is supposed to fill one before the close of school when the bags will be collected.

Several large sacks will be kept in the S. G. A. office for women who live in town or in unorganized houses to bring old clothes to.

SOPHOMORES TO HAZE DELINQUENT FRESHMEN

Freshmen are protected from all hazing if they wear green caps on the street at all times; if they do not congregate in front of the university buildings or near the Lincoln memorial; if they do not smoke on the campus.

"If these traditions are disregarded, the sophomores are permitted to indulge in the various forms of hazing without interference. It is hoped, however, that the loyalty of the freshman class can be appealed to without resorting to extreme measures," Lewellyn Cole, sophomore member of the student senate, said yesterday.

The entire sophomore class is urged to co-operate with the committee which consists of the following: Max Brackett, John Bergstresser, Jack Harris, Hugo Murray, Dal Tally, Carl Miller, Arthur Wienke, Stuart Strong, David Wheeler, Robert Salesbury, Ray Moore and Phil Neiderman. Anyone observing laxity on the part of the freshman may report it to any of the members of the committee and the case will be investigated.

Announce New Staff Next Week

Porter F. Butts '24 was elected managing editor and Walter H. Plewke '24 was elected business manager of The Daily Cardinal for the academic year 1923-24 by the Cardinal Board of Control yesterday noon.

Appointments to other staff positions on next year's Cardinal will be made next week.

Butts and Plewke will represent The Cardinal at the third annual convention of the Western Conference Editorial association which meets May 25 and 26 at Chicago and Northwestern universities jointly.

Butts is completing his third year of active work on the editorial staff of The Cardinal. He served as reporter during his entire freshman year and as night editor last year and the first semester this year, giving up night work the first of the second semester to assume new duties as director of the editorial page. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and his home is in Springfield, Ill.

Plewke began work on the advertising staff of The Cardinal at the beginning of his sophomore year and served as associate advertising manager the second semester. This year he acted as advertising manager for one semester and at present is associate business manager. He is a member of Delta Phi Epsilon fraternity and his home is in Avlon.

VARSITY FOUR TO GIVE LAST SING OF YEAR

The last concert of the Varsity quartette in which the original members will sing will be given at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, at the open air theater.

The concert will be a sunset serenade, and has been timed to start just as the sun is setting. The program will consist entirely of love songs. Some of them will be comic; some will be compositions and arrangements by the quartette.

"If you can't sing yourself, bring her over and let us serenade her for you," suggests Thomas Dartnell '23, one of the members of the group.

This is the second annual sunset serenade which has been given by these singers. Although the majority of the group will graduate, the tradition will probably be continued by future quartettes. The graduating members of the group are:

Tom Dartnell, Whitford Huff, and Christopher Hendra. Robert Nethercut, pianist, will remain in school, as will Noel Stearns grad. Mr. Stern is first tenor and director of the quartette.

ARTISTS PLAN MEETING SOON

Oregon, Ill., Will Entertain
Landscape Men June
2 and 3

Arrangements are being made for the annual meeting of the Friends of Our Native Landscape which will be held at Oregon, Illinois, near the city of Rockford on June 3, according to Professor F. A. Aust, secretary, who has just received an invitation from the Illinois chapter for a joint meeting with that body. Oregon, Illinois, is about seventeen miles southeast of Rockford and about ninety miles from Madison.

It is customary for the Illinois and Wisconsin chapters to hold an annual joint meeting in the summer and to alternate such meetings between the two states. At these meetings a two-day program is usually carried out including a pageant or outdoor play, addresses and other features. The Wisconsin chapter numbers about one hundred members. Former Secretary of State John S. Donald is president. Jens Jensen, well known Chicago landscape architect, is president of the Illinois chapter and the organizer of the society, whose objects are the preservation of the natural landscape beauties, wild plant and animal life, and local history. The Wisconsin chapter was instrumental in having passed by the present legislature the law to protect the American lotus from the destruction which has threatened it the last few years. A large delegation from Wisconsin is expected to attend this year's meeting.

U. of Illinois Conducts Drive to Complete Stadium

University of Illinois students are conducting a "pay up" campaign to accelerate the paying of student pledges, and another drive is being put on to reach alumni subscribers in order that the money may be obtained to complete the seats in the Illinois memorial stadium for the Illinois-Chicago game, Nov. 3.

The last obstacle in the path was cleared away last week when the drainage to the playing field was connected and the miniature lake which has covered the field was drained away. Just a little more excavating remains to complete the cut for the gridiron before the work of constructing the battleground will begin.

The stadium is already a show place, and is visited by hundreds of persons every Sunday.

N. W. Road Official Assails La Follette On Call For Rail Parley

—CHICAGO—The purpose of the call for a national transportation conference in Chicago recently issued by Sen. La Follette and other Progressives in congress and a number of governors, was questioned today by F. W. Sargent, general solicitor for the Northwestern road in an address.

Mr. Sargent declared that some of the men signing the call for the government "have been chiefly responsible for inflaming the public mind against constructive measures that would produce efficiency in operation and reduction in rates."

He asserted that the chief factor in the present prosperity has been the enormous expenditures of the railroads for equipment and supplies.

About 220 pupils from 106 Wisconsin high schools competed.

CINDER MEN TO MEET ILLINOIS TEAM FRIDAY

Opponents Have Defeated Michigan

Wisconsin will encounter a near conference championship team in track next Friday when the Badger cinder men take on the strong Illinois squad on the enemy field.

The Illini humbled the Micsigan team recently by an 80 to 55 count best in the Big Ten conference in the minds of track fans. The Michigan team has been doped throughout the year to win the and the surprising defeat at the hands of the Illinois men was entirely unexpected.

Do Not Hope For Win

While Badger coaches have little hope of winning from the Illini, they are resolved to make a strong showing. Two consecutive wins over Chicago and Minnesota in the conference race have heralded the Badgers as dangerous foes for any team to meet. Should the Wisconsin men score 50 points against Illinois they will have performed creditably, according to Assistant Coach Mead Burke.

A squad of 28 men will make the trip to Urbana in addition to a manager and two coaches. Practically the same team which represented Wisconsin against Chicago and Minnesota will be on the field against Illinois.

Good in Weights

Wisconsin showed up better in the weight events last Saturday than they have done during the entire season. With Tom Nichols and Van Ells working well in the weights, and Stehr good for a place in the pave in almost any meet, the weight events are fairly well taken care of.

Wisconsin's sure scores will come in the runs if men in all other departments fail. The two milers, one milers, and half milers have all succeeded in scoring slams in either the Chicago meet or the Minnesota meet, and they are sure to count points against Illinois despite the fact that they will face much stiffer competition than they have met before.

Captain Spetz and Johnson will uphold the sprint department of the meet. They are both dependable and it will take some fast men to finish ahead of them.

With Platten, Donohue, and Tuhtar all going above the 6 foot mark in the high jump, the Illinois jumpers will work to count heavily in the meet.

The following men will make the trip to Illinois: Spetz, Johnson, Tuhtar, Hilberts, Ramsay, Valley, Rossmeissel, Schneider, Bergstresser, Tschudy, Wade, Newell, Muzzy, Schneider, Donohue, Platten, Hammann, Krieger, Nichols, Van Ells, Stehr, Manager Mead, Coaches Jones and Burke, and one of the following men: Gilbreath, Kroehn, Schmidt or Tomlinson.

BADGER FROSH IN LAST MEET THIS SATURDAY

After humbling the Iowa freshmen last week the Wisconsin track yearlings will attempt to hang another scalp on their tentpole this afternoon when they meet the Michigan frosh in a telegraphic meet.

The meet will be an uphill fight for Wisconsin, as the Wolverines have an exceptionally strong team this year and are confident of winning the meet.

In the contest against Iowa last week, the entire yearling force was not on the job, but all the stars will be on deck for the meet.

Mc Andrews and Cassidy should be the mainstays of the Badger frosh team. Cassidy took first place in the mile and the half mile against Iowa last week, the entire yearling force was not on the job, but all the stars will be on deck today for the meet.

Mc Andrews and Cassidy should be the mainstays of the Badger frosh team. Cassidy took first place in the mile and the half mile against Iowa last week, while Mc Andrews featured with excellent work in the sprints. Cassidy will have to face Reinke, fast W. in miler in the meet.

GOLF TEAM TO MEET PURPLE

Lineup is Uncertain as New Men Perfect Their Games

The varsity golf team will engage in its second match of the season next Friday when the Northwestern team comes to Madison. The match is to be held on the Maple Bluff links, and will be played in two shifts. Thirty-six holes are to constitute the length of the course, 18 holes being played in the morning and 18 in the afternoon.

That Northwestern has a good team this year is shown by her defeat over Michigan last week. With even breaks, the Badger golfers should give a credible showing, as the men are in better condition this week than they were last Saturday.

Whether the lineup for the coming match will be the same as last week is still an uncertainty, as several other men who have been practicing diligently are now showing better form than they did during the early part of the season. If they continue to improve, they are certain of getting a chance to play on the team before the season progresses much farther.

Although the team lost its first match of the season, the men are in no way discouraged, as they were unable to get in as much practice as they should have to condition themselves. Every member of the team is an experienced golfer, and with a reasonable amount of practice it is safe to predict that they will give a good showing in the remaining matches of the season.

LOWMAN POINTS TEAM TO GAME WITH THE ILLINI

Call Off Game With Northwestern

For the second time this season the weather man beat the Badger baseball outfit out of what would have undoubtedly been victories, when the game with Northwestern booked for yesterday afternoon had to be called after the Purple team arrived in Madison.

While Northwestern goes strong at times and has one of the best pitchers in the Conference in Chuck Palmer, the Badgers are going good now and should have turned in a win. The second game with Indiana had to be called off earlier in the season, taking another victory out of Wisconsin's hands. As these games cannot be played off later according to Conference ruling, it keeps the Cardinal down in the percentage column a great deal.

Coach Lowman will now point his team toward the game with Illinois at Urbana Saturday. Illinois has been going under in the last few games. Ohio State practically put them out of the Big Ten race by defeating them 1 to 0 in a game at Urbana Monday. The Buckeyes score came in the sixth inning when left fielder, Ollie Klee of football fame, made a clean steal of home. The game was called in the seventh inning when the drizzle of the afternoon broke into a downpour. The game was a pitcher's dual between Wally Roettger of the Indians and Hoge Workman of Ohio.

With the remainder of the week left to perfect the work of his men, Lowman should be able to show Carl Lundgren's squad as hard a contest as they underwent here. If the breaks go for Wisconsin this time in stead of against them, the Badgers should bring home another scalp.

Illinois has an experienced team but seems to lack the punch to win at times. They play a consistent game, but when more than consistency is called for, they fall down. The Indians have just two more games to play, the Wisconsin game and a return match with Michigan.

Michigan is just stepping into their schedule and have six more games to play. The most critical contest of the schedule is against Ohio State at Columbus on May 26. The Badgers get another crack at Michigan on the home lot and revenge is sweet.

With Iowa, Minnesota, and Illinois on the downgrade, the pennant appears to lie between Ohio State and Michigan. Each team has six games ahead of them. The Buckeyes have a well balanced team with a real pitcher to do their tossing in the person of Harry "Hoge" Workman.

NET TEAM IS WORKING HARD

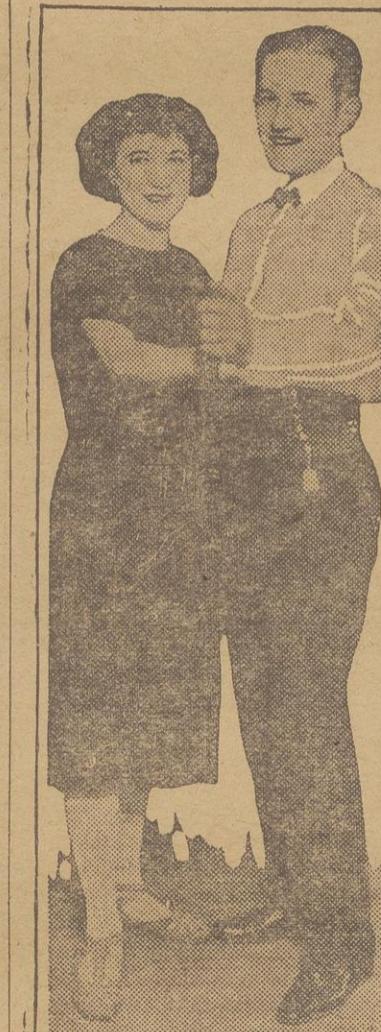

Two More Conference Matches to Be Played This Week-end

With two more conference matches on the tennis schedule before the close of the season, Coach Linden is working his men hard so that the team will be in the best possible condition for the remaining frays. The team will start on their road trip this week-end, meeting Northwestern on Saturday, and Michigan on Monday. The results of these two matches will serve as a means of predicting what chance the team will have in the conference tournament at Chicago starting May 24.

The loss to Chicago last week in no way indicates that the men are going stale, as Chicago has the best team in the conference. The Badger net men gave the Maroons one of the hardest matches of the season and the outcome was not determined until the last set had been played.

With men like Wilson and Frankenstein on the team, the Maroons really have the class of the conference. Both of them are players of championship ability, and they are certain of placing at or near the top in the conference tournament. Tredwell made Wilson go the limit before the latter was able to win, and in the doubles match, Aageson and Tredwell also gave Wilson and Frankenstein some close competition.

Refused To Reconsider Official Paper Bill

The assembly today refused to reconsider the vote by which it killed the bill, last week, to make the Superior Telegram the official state paper in place of The Capital Times. Reconsideration was asked by Assemblyman Eber. The assembly followed Mr. Lindahl's advice and refused to reconsider.

STATISTICS SAY TEBELL LEADS BADGER TEAM

"Fightin' Gus" Makes Six Hits

"Fightin' Gus" Tebell, third-sacker on the Wisconsin baseball team, is leading the squad in hitting, according to statistics compiled on the five Conference games played thus far.

Tebell has rapped out six hits, including one double and one triple, for a grand average of .353. The Badger player has been at the plate 17 times in five games. He has scored three runs himself, besides driving in several others. Gus started in as a reserve member of the pitching staff this season, but Coach Guy Lowman converted him into a third-sacker and there Tebell has stayed. He was substitute catcher last year and played in the outfield during the 1921 season.

Four members of the Wisconsin squad have touched the charmed .300 mark. Hully Holm follows Tebell with a mark of .312. He has clouted out 5 hits, three of which were concentrated in the Indiana game. Becker, with a mark of .333 resulting from four safe bingles, and pitcher Bill Johnson, with an average of .300, are the other slugging bambinos.

Capt. Rollie Williams is in charge of the cellar gang. The leader has failed to rap a safe one in 12 trips to the plate. He has managed to score one run. Williams got two walks in the Minnesota game and the old eye is beginning to get a line on the seams once again.

Servatius, right fielder, has connected for a pair of triples and double in his journeys to the rubber. Tebell is the only other player to crash a double. Dugan, Holm, Tebell, and Aschenbrenner, with two, are credited with three-ply swats, and Holm is the solitary home-run hitter. Although Holm is no Ty Cobb on the bases, he has pilfered three sackers, one more than Gus Tebell, his closest rival.

Servatius, Williams, and Aschenbrenner are the only others to beat the catcher's throw.

IRON CROSS ELECTIONS

Appearing silently in the night, the emblem of Iron Cross yesterday hung from Bascom hall facade, marking by molten inscription, E. A. Ross in his discussion of the recognition of a university for a band of men who through their apprenticeship of three years of undergraduate experience have held high the ideals of their school. Seven men, who in the year to come will be the leaders of student activity, have, for their evidence of ability, perseverance, and definite purpose been honored by election to some of the big newspapers of the senior society.

In the midst of a myriad of honor societies, Iron Cross stands a peer, as an organization whose highest ideal is the development of leadership in worth-while undergraduate activities along with the pre-eminent consideration of love and service to Wisconsin. The few men who have been selected for this recognition have given of their best in talent and work; their sacrifice has been great, their personal reward small. The highest honor the school can give falls upon them, its champions.

Recognition, the deep applause of men, is a mere bagatelle compared to the actual labor and devotion these honored have shown, but in their service is indicated the progress and activity of this miniature community, and some small measure of acknowledgement is their due. These men are now juniors and, in their present position of intimate acquaintance with affairs here, are expected next year to renew that acquaintance with improved ideas, a larger university perspective, and the comforting knowledge of the school's approbation.

It is the spirit of the new members of Iron Cross which will interpret the problems to arise next year. From their service will grow the society's ultimate goal of a greater and more complete Wisconsin fellowship in which absolute sacrifice for the larger good will be prevailing rule. Wisconsin, the university, congratulates the new members of Iron Cross and in this recognition anticipates a perpetuation of service through school and life.

SIDELIGHTS ON GAS

It takes no brilliant mind to point out that university life today is more complex than that of a decade ago. Perhaps the most insistent of the present indications of this complexity is the evil-smelling pedestrian-imperiling and quiet-shattering automobile, which not content to disturb the even tenor of the business world's existence, has invaded the imagined sanctity of the college and university.

As an evident factor of student existence the automobile does present problems which, although foreign to prototypes of just a few years back, nevertheless have been editorialized upon and exhorted about until the very mention of the subject become trite. Both pedestrian and driver, however, have a mutual position of consideration to seek in the successful solving of motor conditions.

On the side of the pedestrian, the danger and peril of jaywalking is most prevalent. Regardless of the speed a car is traveling, and regardless of the knowledge and condition of the driver the person who crosses a street in the middle of a block or who idles kitty-corner across intersections places himself in a defenseless position for personal injury. A new commandment might well be written, "He who jay-walketh, is a fool, and hath no come-back."

The man who walks the street often does not consider the man in the car who, under more or less of a constant strain, has much more to consider than the one job of watching out for careless pedestrians. The man on foot as a rule has all of his faculties free to concentrate upon the single idea of avoidance of the approaching wheels.

It is true of course, that the burden of watchfulness in the matter of accidents and improvement of motive conditions upon the campus rests with the driver. Whether the car be Ford, Fiat, or Franklin, the responsibility is present in equal degree.

The most numerous of all automobile accidents develop of course, from excessive speed. The present spring has brought an evident increase in the reckless rate at which 8 o'clock are made via the State and Langdon street thoroughfares. Like the chronic occurrence of lake disasters, automobile accidents are all too prevalent. If some preliminary warning, no matter how over-worked, will prevent any catastrophe the effort is rewarded.

A tendency toward recklessness is also persistent in the daily parade of cars which climbs the hill. To see how close two cars can pass, to turn a corner on two wheels, to skid past a hesitant street car may have its temporary thrill but it has its disastrous end. This phase of modern automobiling is inexcusable and beyond reason.

The present extensive use of the automobile for transportation to and from classes has brought the necessity of a systematic parking arrangement on the hill. The guide who is employed to keep the system straight and who points out the vacant places, should be confidently obeyed. Confusion for the whole is avoided by the minute care of the individual.

The city, too, can aid the motorist's predicament. Some of the pavements in the vicinity of the university are in a condition of superlative roughness. The block on Langdon street from Park to Lake street is poor contrast to an otherwise good pavement and is a menace to safety—do car perfection.

The entire question is one of cooperation. When the motrist will become sane in his use of a car, when the pedestrian will watch his step, and when the city of Madison will consider the necessity of good pavement, the entire automobile situation will be improved.

Octy Makes Title Good and Passes Gloriously Out

By P. F. B.

The Octopus today takes "passing out" for its humor theme and, whether purposely or by chance, presents a book that comes naively near to symbolizing the theme page by page. Octy passes out progressively.

Beginning with enchanting cover, Jordan ad, frontispiece, and keynote verse, the Passing Out Octopus, like a Big Ben alarm releasing itself from newly wound spring tension, slowly runs its course of fun and fitful pictures until it peters out along back in the 30 pages for another year to bring new life and a strong staff's rewinding.

But we like it.

If today's Octopus passes out within itself, it passes from good to less good. Seldom has it produced a book so replete with pages in which one can find delectable food for one's laugh apparatus,—that is, unless one's on a laugh diet.

Mueller and his peregrine panorama are with us in the semblance of "What Summer Did For Caperville." It's wonderful what fascination one of these abortions with its illimitable license can hold for a person.

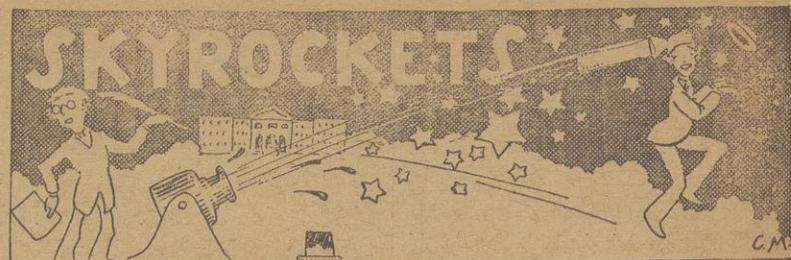

In its verse, prose and drawing Octy besieges us with sentimentalism, a rather unusual trick for our ordinarily flippant crackster. But considering its theme in hand and the fact that it is a one—and only perpetration the deed may be excused.

The exchanges persist in being good to the overshadowing of our home town talent. But, championing the Octopus, it must be said that no humor book in itself can be the equal of the cream of all the others. The best in the Octopus gives the best in other magazines a merry chase.

To get more of the best, Octy openly and rather plaintively appeals for humor helpers. It carefully prints the names of all contributors to encourage the use of the wit and pen. For the sake of the Octopus and Wisconsin humor standards, we hope the list will be speedily lengthened.

Before we, too, "pass out," it is fitting and proper to note that in this, its fourth year, the Octopus has completed its task of taking on a big aspect and removing itself from the neophyte class. Its physical makeup is all that could be asked. Its plentiful national ads alleviate the pangs of provincialism. Humor content has taken leaps toward the better.

The passing out of the Octopus represents a glorious fourth year. May there be many more.

MADISON has just two seasons August and winter.

"But what happens," queried the Freshest Frosh (We hate to use Bob Snyder's name) "when an airplane's engine stops in mid-air?"

"That's exactly the trouble," replied the long-suffering Major. "At this moment there are thirteen airmen in this country whose engines have stopped; and there they are, a mile in the air, starving to death."

"I have a dummy little fog. I bought him when he puz a wup."

He sits all day on his lind hegs And holds his lont freggs up, And tags his little wail.

IX. FATHER WILLIAM, THE PHILIP PAPER GUMMA
"You have aged Father William," the young man said, "And the years sap your mind's peerless puissance; While your manner is losing that je ne sais quoi— Don't you think at your age it's a nuisance?"

"I indulge yet in baseball," the Phi Beta declared;

"I don't see why you think me a relic.

While for Skyrockets, I find I still have

A verve popocatapetlic."

"Witness the Power of the Press," said Dave, the Despair of the Daffydiils, pointing to the new creature in his trou.

THIS IDEA IS "VELVET"—AGED IN THE WOOD

The evidence against Anthony seems to be that he held a lot of good hands, mostly queens—but sometimes he got the deuce. I suppose if she got fresh, he'd poker.

"What's new?" I asked the girl in the record store.

"Barney Google runnin' wild with you? What shall I do? Nothin' but!" she mourned; and I was two blocks down the street before I realized she'd just been answering my question.

"Column right," said the C. C. student when his book balanced exactly.

Column Right!
Books and things—cabbages—
Kings—as penciled by Ever Sharp

There are four or five university or college songs which stand out in the life of the undergraduates as being his favorites. Only last week when we happened to be at Champaign this fact was brought home to us and also the fact that the one song which seems to enjoy the greatest popularity of this sort is "Lord Geoffrey Amherst."

During the short visit of 24 hours we heard this song three of four times. At Wisconsin one can walk through the Latin quarter almost any evening a little after six o'clock and heard Lord Jeff ring in almost any fraternity house.

So it is everywhere that students congregate.

During the War it was our own "On Wisconsin" that seemed to be the most popular among universities and colleges from coast to coast. And now we of this university think with pride on that piece which urged the Yankees on through the months of war, on forced marches, at parties in London or Paris, or even on the field of battle itself.

Now, that the doughboys have returned, they still carry that tune with them if they are graduates or students of this or any other institution of higher learning. And even those who have never been beyond high school but who learned "On Wisconsin" abroad still thrill to its notes.

There are two other songs of this sort which have become almost as well known: "Old Nassau" and "Fair Harvard". They are both a little older than either of the other two and they have both seen greater popularity than they enjoy now.

WELL SWEAR TO THIS

Another Infant: Where'd you meet Sheba?

Scotty: Oh, she sits next to my chair at the barber shop.

ALICE IN BLUNDERLAND

"The time has come," the student said,

"To think of everything; Of summer pleasures (some're not) And why we have no Spring."

"This summer you can travel round Or climb up mountains steep; Or even come to summer school And spend your days in sleep.

"It's hard to know just what to plan Vacations come so quick."

The Faculty said only,

"Holidays are spread too thick."

"You've worked for your diploma, Senior;

In a week or two you'll get it."

The Faculty said nothing but

"Give him another credit."

THIS ONE IS POPULAR

"Is your decision final?" mourned the young man, holding the glittering solitaire higher, in a last hope that she might relent. "You still say no? Can't you reconsider?"

"No," she said with evident regret. "I have decided. I cannot take it."

And sadly the man put the ring back in the velvet show-case, and turned to wait on the man who wanted a new crystal on his watch.

Cosmo, this time: "He took me apart, and borrowed five dollars."

Well, in such a touching situation we cannot blame him for going all to pieces.

"Is McGrath athletic?"

"Yes, he once went to classes three days running."

"What do you know about that?" said the prof as he sprang a new question in an exam.

"Do your folks know I'm coming home with you?"

"They ought to; I argued with them for an hour about it."

Well, anyway, all Rhodes lead to Oxford.

LORENZO de MEDICI.

It is in the East that these two songs and known especially well; one practically never hears them on the campus of a mid-western university.

Probably when the campus sing takes place within a week or so these four pieces will find the most favor among the college songs. Others of their kind may be re-enacted, but they will probably remain

PRES. VAN HISE HONORED JUNE 3

Large Rock at Ableman to Bear Tablet to Him

A large mass of quartzite rock, known as the Van Hise rock, will be dedicated on June 3 at Ableman, Wisconsin, to the memory of Charles R. Van Hise, former president of the University of Wisconsin and eminent geologist. A tablet marking the site will be placed upon the rock.

Judge E. Ray Steven, president of the State Historical society, will preside. C. K. Leith, head of the geological department of the University of Wisconsin, John S. Donald, head of the Friends of Our Native Landscape, W. O. Hotchkiss, state geologist, Joseph Schaefer, secretary of the State Historical society and Harry L. Russell, dean of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, will assist in the ceremonies.

The inscription on the tablet will read as follows:

"The material of this rock was sand on the sea bottom and as since hardened into quartzite. It was tilted to the present position by a slow earth movement, and then separated from the adjacent cliff by erosion. The vertical light and dark bands represent the original layers. The inclined cracks in the dark layer were caused by the readjustment in the layers during the tilting.

"This rock is pictured in geology text books as a type illustrating important principles of structural geology and has been a point of special interest to many investigators in geology visiting this region. Pres. Charles R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin was one of the first and foremost of these."

"Love is the Fulfilling of the Law," is the title of the winning essay written by Miss Small. The essay follows:

"A dream fell softly down, enveloping all in mist—I walked the streets of ancient Egypt. Looming tall before me stretched the city, dark and still save where a group of slaves yelled boisterously at some coarse jest. From a courtyard came the sound of rusty hinges, and a slave led out an ass, decrepit, worn, and old, unfit for further service. The wine-crazed group broke out with savage shouts, as welcoming a new diversion. Snatching each a clod or fragment of a rock, they swarmed like bees, and stoned the poor dumb brute until his breath was choked and he lay grasping on the street. Then each slave went his way; the beast was left to die alone. Long I stood in silence. Then the torches (now forgotten by the careless slaves) flared and flickered out, and all was dark.

"The dawn's first streaks appeared, and fell upon a scene of Roman life. The arena spread before my eyes, a straining void, but waiting to drink up the blood of life that flowed from the defeated. Above it, not yet softened by the gentler doctrines of the Christ, sat the nobles, and beside them, each his lady. A murmur ran among the crowds. "The lions sleep; they will not fight." A moment, and the people all were tense;—and then a loud explosion rent the air. The lions, mad with pain and scorching burns, were roused, and made to enter in the ring and battle to the death. The people cheered, but I,—I crept away, and slipped into oblivion.

"I traveled in a city of today. Each street was filled with dripping men, all cursing, in their way, the dismal sleet. I turned into a street where lived the richer folk, who now were basking in their furs and warmth, and minded not the bitter wind that blew for those without. Almost against my will I paused beneath a tree, and watched the scene. A starving dog lay huddled close before a door, his pleading eyes turned ever down, for fear. The slight frame trembled in the icy winds. A woman cried, "The dirty thing," and flung him down into the gutter, where he crouched and moaned in misery. A man passed down the street, and kicked the dog a little to the side. The poor thing lay, despised alike by man and beast, and yet, 'twas only man who persecuted him. I thought. The scene grew faint, and was no more.

"The dream was vanished, I awoke, and thought upon the visions I had seen. "Which did most wrong of all the three?" I asked myself.—"The slaves, who, ignorant of all but how to eat, scarce know obedience, and much less the gentler arts of being kind? or the Romans, they whose very life was strength in deeds of war, who breathed in atmosphere of martial sounds, who reckoned virtue by ability to fight, who deemed it noble sport to witness battles? or yet the people of the modern world, who pride themselves on being civilized, but practice kindness only for themselves, forgetting it when some dumb animal should come their way? Who did most wrong,—the slaves, half-savage still; the Romans, finding joy in bloody games;—or Christian people, who profess to be examples to the others of the world?"

"Cannot each one decide these questions for himself? Cannot each one take to his heart their meaning? For then the purpose of the dream shall be fulfilled, and then the vision had not been in vain."

Governor Tax Bill In Danger

Blaine Has Not Enough Votes In The Senate To Put Bill Through

Gov. Laine today was gathering his forces for the supreme test of the present legislative session tomorrow, when his administration income tax bill will come to a vote in the senate.

A check-up of the upper house indicates that the Blaine bill is in jeopardy. Its passage is very doubtful. The only way in which the administration measure can secure approval of the senate, in the opinion of Blaine supporters, is through the aid of several stalwart votes. An effort is being made to line up several conservatives.

It has been assumed that the three Socialist senators might hold the balance of power on the matter of tax reform. It is estimated now, however, that even should they be won over by the adoption of their amendments, the governor's bill at the present time can be conceded only sixteen votes, less than the needed majority.

Senators E. T. Ridgway, Elkhorn and Senator Titus, Fond du Lac, have announced that they will not support any tax measure which repeals the personal property offset clause of the present law. That Senator Herman J. Severson, Iola, author of another big income tax bill, also will vote against the governor's measure, is generally conceded. Senators Herman Bilgrien, Iron Ridge, and George Studenmeyer, Portage, have been listed as "doubtful." Granting that they will be swung into line at the last minute, there will be only twelve or thirteen Progressive votes.

Even friends of the governor point out that if the three Socialists could be won over by the votes of other Progressives who have been on the fence would then be lost and nothing would be gained.

The most vital amendments to the Blaine bill were offered by Socialist senators. Senator J. J. Hirsch offered an amendment under which the apportionment of income taxes collected under the Blaine bill would remain as at present. This would return seventy per cent of the money to the locality, twenty per cent to the county and ten per cent to the state. Socialists say that this would allay Milwaukee's objection to the bill and would return to the city $500,000 more annually than the Blaine bill.

The governor's measure would return about thirty-three per cent of the income tax collections to the localities. Students of the Blaine bill say that the Hirsch amendment could not be adopted without throwing the whole proposition out of gear. The only way to repeal mill taxes and surtaxes would be to leave the income tax money apportionment as proposed, they say.

Another Socialist amendment offered by Senator Walter Polakowski would repeal the personal property offset provision of the income tax law. The Blaine bill would repeal five-sixth of the offsets. The Polakowski amendment would only serve, it is said, to turn certain Progressives now on the doubtful list against the bill.

On the other hand, Senator Henry Rothe, Fennimore, went to the other extreme when he offered an amendment providing that the personal property offset clause shall be restored entirely.

"And it doesn't run in our family," either," they both chimed in.

Many Witnesses Are Called At Inquest In Stevens Point Death

STEVENS POINT — Calling of more than a dozen witnesses at an inquest at the Portage county court house here yesterday, marked the first step in the investigation being conducted to probe the death of Garland Dae Nish who was killed almost instantly Saturday night when the machine which he was driving collided with another car at a downtown street intersection.

Selma Nygard, 18, Mt. Horeb,

It seems that Sam and Kathryn just naturally like calculation problems. The problems given as a test were simple addition and subtraction problems and did not involve higher mathematics.

Sam lowered the state record by two minutes. He solved 145 problems with 2,660 chances for errors in 23 minutes and 20 seconds with only eight errors. Kathryn tied for sixth place, but had fewer errors.

who is attending the state normal here, and another girl, Gwendolyn Vanuser, 18, Eleva, Wis., were occupants of the car driven by Mac Nish Saturday night. Charles Worth, round house foreman of the Soo road here was the driver of the car which collided with Mac Nish's auto.

ROSS WRITES NEW TEXT

Sociology Professor Collects Material in Mexico
For Book

"It was very exciting indeed to spend an evening talking with the Archbishop of Mexico, and then the next day to lunch with several revolutionary chiefs who had attempted to kill the same Archbishop several years ago." This was the statement made by Professor E. R. Ross of the sociology department in explaining how he collected the material for his new book, "The Social Revolution in Mexico," which has just been published.

Prof. Ross spent only 11 weeks in Mexico gathering material for his new book, and while there he studied carefully the conditions of that country. "I talked with the Governor, the judges, ministers, missionaries, teachers, and with everyone whose opinions were at all valuable," said Prof. Ross. "Being able to speak Spanish, and supposedly very innocent, I was very privileged, and was allowed to visit the factories, schools, and universities unhindered."

Three chapters of Prof. Ross's book deal with the land question, which is one of the most important ones in Mexico today. Other chapters deal with the labor conditions and the church in Mexico. Prof. Ross in his chapter on the diseases of that country states that their greatest sickness is a desipal of all real work. The startling fact is brought out that there is not one savings bank in all of Mexico, due to the great popularity of the lotteries.

"Pulque, an alcoholic drink, is another terrible disease in Mexico, but I believe that prohibition is not very far away, for they realize the dangers of alcoholism. The revolution has cleared away many of the old abuses, however, and it is hoped that Mexico will now build herself up to a state of continual peace," declared Prof. Ross.

The other book published at the same time by Ross is a text called "Outlines of Sociology." It contains two-thirds of the matter of the larger text now used, and is intended for high schools, colleges and normal schools in which the course is given for only one semester.

The texts published by Prof. Ross and Prof. J. L. Gillen here are used by one-half of all the students studying sociology in the United States.

More than 2,000 bleacher seats will be erected on the lower campus by the military department. The seats will be put up on the State street side and will extend the entire length of the campus. There will also be a parking space reserved for automobiles.

The ticket sale will be handled by means of a tag arrangement, each person paying the 25 cents admission will receive a tag and will have full privilege of the stands. Cadets will act as special police during the event.

Prizes for the different events will be silver cups. No subscription of merchants for donations is being undertaken, the prizes to be bought entirely with the gate receipts.

Many late entries are being received daily and great interest is being shown in the inter-sorority riding contest. Each sorority is entitled to enter one contestant, and this event is expected to be the premier of the day.

Besides the inter-sorority event, there will be a great variety of open and military events. A three-gaited open event will be held for both men and women.
