AMPLIFIERS WILL SCATTER PROM MUSIC IN CAPITOL

Physics Department Will Install Eight Loud-speakers
in Corridors

An extensive amplifier system will be used this year at prom to make it possible to hear the music in all parts of the capitol building. Eight large, loud-speaking horns will throw the music from the ends of the wings and into the rotunda corridors. The exact position of these horns will be decided in the test which will be given some time before prom night.

The work was at first in the hands of Prof. Max Mason of the physics department, but upon investigation he decided that the suggested sound reflectors would be impracticable and that a system of electrical amplifiers would be better. The work was then turned over to Prof. E. M. Terry also of the physics department, and the details of the plan were put in the hands of Malcolm P. Hanson, former operator of the university broadcasting station.

Use Special Horns

The music will be picked up by a delicate microphone concealed in the decorations above the orchestra. This microphone is of special air-damped type used in radio broadcasting, well adapted to this use. There will be a second microphone ready in case of trouble with the first.

A 200-foot cable will connect the microphones through a current amplifier to a sound proof room in which nine large vacuum tube amplifiers will be located. One of these will be connected directly to a loud-speaking horn in the room which duplicates the quality and volume of the other horns so that adjustments can be made from this sound proof room.

Equipment Worth $2,000

The remaining amplifiers are connected with eight loud speaking horns four of which will be located at the extreme ends of the wings, and the other four at corridors and open spaces between the wings.

The amplifiers and some of the other equipment will be furnished by the Taylor Electric company. It is valued at $2,000. The microphones are the property of the physics department and are not obtainable on the market.

"It will be an improvised outfit, but since all of the parts are of the highest quality, we expect the best results," Hanson said yesterday afternoon. "This test will determine whether similar outfits will be used at other university functions such as commencement."

WACE SPEAKS ON ANCIENT MYCENAE

Director of British School of Archaeology at Athens
Describes City

"Tomb-digging, like marriage and many other things in life, is a lottery, but a lottery well worth the purchase of a ticket," said Director Allan John Bayard Wace of the British school of archaeology at Athens, in his illustrated lecture on "Mycenae, the Wonder City" in Bascom hall yesterday.

"For the last four years we have been endeavoring to obtain material information about Mycenae. We have, in no small measure, been quite successful.

"About 2000 B. C., Mycenae began to be accredited as a great center of civilization. Shortly before 1600 B. C., it became one of the principle centers of civilization on the mainland. In 1400 B. C., when the power of Crete fell, Mycenae became exceptionally powerful under the leadership of a strong, as yet-unknown king, who built the citadel and the walls.

"The walls were built of huge blocks of conglomerate, weighing between five and six tons apiece, put together by men using nothing harder than bronze for their tools."

TO PLAY MAH JONGG AT SOCIAL HOUR TONIGHT

In spite of oncoming exams, S. G. A. will hold its regular social hour in Lathrop parlors tonight from 7 to 8 o'clock for those women who feel the need of a little recreation before starting in with the heavy work of preparation.

Hazel Weingandt '25 is in charge of activities for the evening.

In addition to the regular classes in dancing and bridge, Mah Jongg will be played.

HOUDINI EXPLAINS MYSTERY IN TALK

Peculiar Shape of "Escape King" Helps in Mystifying Public

"It is not the performer but you, yourself, who does the mystifying," said Harry Houdini, who spoke at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Music hall at the request of Prof. Joseph Jastrow, of the psychology department.

"I have the largest library in the world on mystery spiritualism," he stated, "and have attended many seances. But I have yet to see a seance take place without the participants first being put in an hysterical condition."

As an explanation of his extraordinary ability of escape, Houdini stated that his shoulders are peculiarly shaped and his legs bowed, in fact, that his entire body is very round and is shaped like a barrel. So it is easy for him to contract his muscles when tied, thereby causing the bonds to become slack.

"I fooled Theodore Roosevelt one time," said Houdini. "It was one Sunday night on board a steamer bound for Europe. Roosevelt asked me to entertain them by giving spiritual messages. I asked him to write the first question and handed him a board to write upon which had carbon paper underneath it. When Roosevelt finished writing, I asked him to fold his slip of paper so that I could not see it and place it between two blank slates which I had given him.

"As he did so, I relieved him of the board he had been writing on and hurriedly glanced at the carbon copy of the question he had unconsciously made through the board. It was then simple for me to slip my answer to his question between the slates as I tossed them up in the air, and to then open the slates and hand him the written answer.

"Roosevelt was quite impressed but the next day when he asked me if it had been real spiritualism, I answered:

"No—just hokus-pokus."

"I believe," said Houdini, "that the great successful businesses are the real magicians of the time because they mould the public's mind to suit their purpose. In like manner the professional magician must get the audience in a certain state of mind before doing even the simplest of tricks."

PROVIDE MUSIC AND LIGHTS ON SKATE RINK

"A five-piece band will furnish music at the Mendota rink from 7 to 10 o'clock, on the first Wednesday of the second semester," Gilbert Hoffman, president of the new winter sports club, said yesterday.

"In order to insure the continued success of such an experiment, an admission fee of 25 cents will be charged. If this initial night is a success, the band will be engaged for both Wednesday and Friday nights of every week.

Lights are to be put up around the rink in a day or two, according to George Martin.

WILBUR KATZ '23 WINS HARVARD SCHOLARSHIP

Wilbur Katz '23, a member of Hesperia, and of Phi Beta Kappa, has been awarded the Shelton Hale scholarship to the Harvard Law school, according to word received here today. The scholarship is one of 11 awarded annually after competitive examinations. Katz was a member of the intercollegiate debating team while in the university here. He now lives in Milwaukee.

DUES ASSESSMENT IS PROPOSED BY FRESHMAN CLASS

Motion to Pass Compulsory
Fee Rule Will Come Up
Tonight

No previous freshman class has ever had class dues, but at the meeting at 7 o'clock tonight in the Lathrop gymnasium, a motion is to be made that the present freshman class be assessed dues.

Prior to this time the freshmen have depended on tag days to bring money enough for the carrying on of the usual class functions, but at present there is a sentiment abroad that having a regular treasury in which to depend would be the better method.

Other business of the meeting will be arrangement of plans for the ordering of the class pins.

About a month after prom, the freshman class will give a dance, according to Walter Miller, chairman of the dance committee.

Henry Herrmann, president of the class, urges every member to attend the meeting as it promises to be one of the most important of the entire year.

All Phases of Rural Occupation Touched in Annual Meeting

All the phases of the farmer's life and occupation will be discussed in the program of the "Farm and Home Week" to be held February 4 to 9 at the College of Agriculture, according to an announcement of the completed program made yesterday by Prof. K. L. Hatch, assistant director the Extension Division.

Besides the professors of the College of Agriculture many farmers and men interested in the modern farmer will give addresses and lectures during the week.

"The aim of the announced program is to give the farmer some conspicuous markers to a profitable market," Professor Hatch said in regard to the purpose of the "Farm and Home Week."

The January issue of the Wisconsin Literary magazines makes its appearance on the campus this morning. It is on sale at the stands in various university buildings and neighboring drug stores and soda grills. This month's Lit, which is a satire number, features a story by George A. Jones, entitled "Sir Galahad and the Holy Ale" and a series of sketches, "Vignettes of the Campus."

WIRE BASKETBALL RETURNS TO GYM

Wrestling Fans Will Hear Reports at Matches Tomorrow Night

While the championship basketball team is continuing its pennantward march at Chicago tomorrow night, play by play reports will be sent to the Wisconsin-Chicago wrestling match at the gymnasium via Western Union leased wire. Both the game at Chicago and the match here will begin at 8 o'clock.

E. C. Gerber '26, varsity swimmer and football player, will write the reports on the progress of the game at Bartlett gymnasium, Chicago, and a Western Union operator will send them to Madison. Joe Steinauer, varsity swimming coach, will read the reports during the intervals at the wrestling match.

A score board will be arranged in the gymnasium giving the name of the player, position and number, and the number of fouls and goals made by each man.

The regular admission charge of 50 cents will be made for the wrestling match and the reports of the basketball game will be an accommodation furnished by the athletic department under the direction of Frank Nickerson.

This is the first wrestling match of the season an one of the hardest according to Coach G. D. Hitchcock. For probably the first time in the history of the western conference a leased wire will carry reports on the progress of the game back to the rooters, and it may be the first time that such a scheme has ever been worked out in the country. Nickerson is attempting to have the leased wire reports broadcast by the local wireless station.

"This is an experiment, and if it works out we will try to secure radio returns from the basketball games at Illinois and Iowa when Wisconsin plays there later in the season," Nickerson said yesterday.

PAN-HELLENIC WILL DECIDE RUSHING RULES

ROSS DEFENDED BY LA FOLLETTE ON SENATE FLOOR

Veteran Wisconsin Leader
Takes Up Fight on Russian Question

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A defense of and reply to the charges brought against E. A. Ross, professor of sociology by Senator Lodge in regard to statements that the State department was "a nest of anti-Bolsheviks connected with the Russian aristocracy" was made by Robert M. La Follette, senior senator from Wisconsin, on the floor of the senate early this week.

Goes Into Records

That Professor Ross stands pat on the statements made in his book on Soviet Russia in 1919 was read in the senate by the Wisconsin Senator thus putting the professor's article and interview on the congressional records.

Because of this statement denouncing the state department, Professor Ross was attacked and criticized by Senator Lodge and officials of the State department.

Attacked by Lodge

"Some days ago Senator Lodge delivered a speech in the senate chamber on the subject of the recognition of the Russian government," Senator La Follette declared.

"In the course of his speech he had printed, I am very certain without delivery upon the floor, a criticism of a book written by Professor Ross of the Wisconsin university, in which it was charged by Professor Ross that anti-soviet Russians were employed in the State department.

"I listened, I think, to every word of the delivery of the Senator's speech, and had such criticism of Professor Ross been made by the Senator on the floor, I would have noticed it, and would have made some response to it at the time; but it was printed as a part of his speech, though I am very certain delivered on the floor."

FEW WOMEN JOIN ACTIVITIES HERE

Five Per Cent Reported to Be in Extra Curricula Work
By S. G. A.

That only five per cent of the women in the university participate in activities was the report made by Hazel Weingandt '25, census chairman of S. G. A. at a meeting of the board members Wednesday night.

In her report Miss Weingandt explained the new census system of this year and asked the advisability of keeping up the system.

The social chairman Helen Kingsford '24, reported on the parties given by S. G. A. this year including the Friday night dancing classes the sleigh ride and the tea for the board members. Various class parties sponsored by S. G. A. and a plan for a boat ride around Lake Mendota in the spring were announced as future events.

According to the report of Mary Devine '25, treasurer the total expenditures to date are $1,423.65, leaving $1,165.70 net cash on hand.

That there are now 100 books in the library including some of the latest novels and best essays and that these books are to be loaned out without any charge, was the report made by Miss Harriet Greene, librarian.

Lorraine Moody '24, the district chairman, announced that there were only two women who had not yet paid their dues.

PROF. ELY URGES LOWER LAND TAX

Describes Farm Conditions at Tri-State Development
Congress at Duluth

"Farmers may become virtual tenants of the state, and farm lands may become state lands unless the rapid movement in which land taxes are approximating land value is checked," Dr. Richard T. Ely, director of the Institute for Research in Land Economics and professor of economics, declared yesterday before a meeting of the Tri-State development congress at Duluth, called by the governors of Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota. Dean H. L. Russell of the college of agriculture presided at the meeting.

"The great and ever increasing load of expenditures requires an entire overhauling of our ideas of taxation. The burden is crushing," he said. "It is not difficult to find isolated cases where the taxes already are far more than equal to the rental value of the land."

Dr. Ely believes that certain sales taxes paid day by day in small sums would be an easy burden to bear. He expressed himself as favoring the income and property taxes for a modification and readjustment in taxation. He is opposed to destructive taxes on forests and mineral lands.

McKILLOP SHOP MOVES INTO NEW LOCATION

McKillop's Portrait shop, 608 State street, has been moved to 662 State street over Lawrence's lunch room and cafeteria. The shop will not be open for business until the beginning of the second semester. The place formerly occupied by the Portrait shop is the new location for "Pete" Burns.

HOLD ORATORICAL CONTESTS SOON

League Takes Place in February

The various class oratorical contests, which will be held during February, are the stepping stones by which the Wisconsin representative reaches the annual Northern Oratorical League contest.

On April 4 the final Northern Oratorical League try-outs will be held. From this try-out one contestant will be chosen who will be sent to the inter-collegiate meet at Ann Arbor, Michigan.

The dates for the class contests are: February 19, Sophomore open contest; February 20, Junior open contest; February 19, Junior exhibition oratorical contest; February 20, Senior open contest.

Every university student is eligible to compete. One of the requisites is that the oration used must be original.

The competing states are Minnesota, Michigan, Northwestern, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin.

3,000 STUDENTS FED BY COMMONS

Plan to Install Tea Room in Lathrop Hall Next Semester

Between 2000 and 3000 persons are fed daily by the department of halls and commons, operating in the dining rooms of Barnard and Chadbourne halls and the cafeteria and soda fountain in Lathrop hall, according to Miss Mabel Little, director.

Many girls living outside of the halls take their meals regularly in the dining rooms.

All the cooking is done in the university kitchens. Approximately 12 barrels of flour are used each week in baking 1,211 loaves of bread, 630 dozen rolls, 567 pies, 156 cakes, and 294 dozen cookies. Exactly 1,736 pounds of meat are prepared during the week.

A regular tea-room is to be installed in Lathrop hall next semester.

Brief talks in appreciation of the record made by the church in the past year were given by Prof. E. H. Gardner, Prof. C. I. Corp, and Prof. E. R. Jones. The church has been without a pastor for a year, but expects the recently called pastor, the Rev. Robbins W. Barstow to take charge about April 1.

The church exceeded its $20,000 budget and carried a balance at the beginning of the year. The members adopted a budget of $25,440 for the coming year.

Daily Reports of Badger Teams

SPORT NEWS

Conference
Wire ServiceBADGER, GOPHER
PUCK TEAMS MEET
SATURDAY NIGHTBattle Royal Expected When Teams Swing Into Action

The contest between the Minnesota hockey team and Coach Blodgett's six tomorrow night at 7:30 promises to be a battle royal, if all present indications are fulfilled. Lights have been installed on the rink so that the game can be played at night.

The Gopher squad has won four preliminary tilts in convincing style down Eveleth and Hibbing, both junior colleges, and taking a brace of wins from the flashy Marquette sextet by a 1 to 0 score.

A squad composed almost entirely of veterans will invade the Badger stronghold. Capt. Pond, Higgins, Mann, Burgquist, and Schade are all seasoned players and are in top condition right now.

The Wisconsin team, on the other hand, went through its baptism of fire in great shape, and succeeded in tying the doughty Michigan in a three overtime period game 2-2.

Coach Blodgett has been working regularly with the squad and has made vast improvement in it. His right wing has been weakened by his having no right handed men to put in that position, but he expects a right hander to report next semester.

The Minnesota team, however, is one that is capable of giving a hard rub, and is looking forward to another conference championship this year. Wisconsin enters the game as the under dog, and like the under dog needs plenty of backing to win.

Wisconsin's lineup will probably be the same that faced Marquette and Michigan.

Riflemen Prepare
For Sixth Corps
Shooting Contest

Wisconsin's riflemen are preparing for the sixth corps area match, which will be shown in the first few weeks following examinations, by all senior R. O. T. C. units.

For three years the cup, donated by the officers in the sixth corps area, which includes Wisconsin, Illinois, and Michigan, has been held by Wisconsin.

"There is no reason," said Coach Shire, "why Wisconsin should not continue to hold the lead. The men who will participate in the coming match are rapidly improving since the holidays.

"The competition is keen, and last year Wisconsin came out on top by a narrow margin. With this year's team finding the bull's eye almost every shot, the chances for first place seem excellent."

TO SELECT RELAY
TEAM CANDIDATESCoaches Will Choose Runners
For Meet at Evanston
February 16

Because the inter-college track meet on Saturday is the final tryout before Wisconsin enters conference competition in the quadrangular track meet at Evanston, Feb. 16, against Chicago, Northwestern, and Ohio, Coaches T. E. Jones and Mead Burke will select candidates for the relay teams from the winners and runners-up in the 440-yard, 880-yard and one mile runs in the meet this week-end.

Valley and Hilberts appear to be the only reliable half-milers in the relay event at present, but it is hoped that the meet on Saturday will uncover more talent among the runners. Among the candidates for the two mile relay team are: Valley, Hilberts, Goers, Schutt, Lewis, Griffin, Zeischoldt, and Carter.

Besides the two mile relay team, Wisconsin will be represented in Big Ten meets by a four mile team to be selected from the distance men. Schneider, Read, Bergstreser, Sherman, Swingle, Piper, Petaja, Perry, and Cassidy loom as strong contenders for places. A medley team composed of two 440-yard dash men, one 880-yard runner, and one miler, will be selected from the speedsters in Saturday's inter-college races.

Bill Morrison and Dicker Holtz starred for the winners and Herb Opitz and George Carlson showed the most stuff for the Thetas.

The Beta Theta Pi and Theta Chi teams will play Saturday for third and fourth places in the tournament.

The Chi Phi's defeated the Alpha Sigma team 14 to 10 yesterday and the Sigma Nu's triumphed over the Delta Upsilon cagers 11 to 8. By virtue of a win over Alpha Theta Pi the Dekes will play the Sigma Nu five today to decide which team will play the Chi Phi's for the consolation cup Saturday.

The time at which the games Saturday and today will be played has not been definitely decided but those in charge of the tournament will telephone to the different teams when they shall report.

The consolation division in the inter-fraternity basketball tourney has some good teams in it yet. The games are being played off tonight and tomorrow night.

An upset occurred, when the Sig Chis "socked" the Betas in water-basketball Tuesday. Right now it looks as though the Theta Xis will trim the Sig Chis and play the Lambda Chis for the wet flag.

Only one conference game tonight—Ohio State vs. Indiana at Bloomington. Indiana is due to come back and trim the Buckeyes on their home floor. The Hoosiers have had some tough luck and bad breaks. Their standing at present, in no way indicates the strength of the team.

Three Wisconsin teams will be in action this week-end. The wrestlers and basketball teams against Chicago, and the pucksters against Minnesota. May we be as successful as we were last week-end.

The track meet to be held in the annex ought to be one of the best that Wisconsin has had in a long time. Mead Burke and Coach Jones will get a good line on prospects for winning a track championship for Wisconsin.

State Fair Body May Pay
Cattle Exhibit Freight

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The management of the Wisconsin state fair is considering a suggestion from the Wisconsin Holstein associations in connection with the showing of county Holstein show herds at the 1924 state fair here.

In addition to a substantial prize now in sight, it is suggested that an additional award be made based on the number of miles traveled by herds to the fair. This, it is said, will insure the freight bill and leave the counties on an equal expense footing for competition in all open classes and groups and in the county herd division. No definite action on the last named plan has been taken by the fair board.

Colder Temperature Due
Here By Friday, Report

Another cold wave is on its way to Madison, the weather bureau officials reported Thursday morning. Snow is probably Thursday night and Friday, the forecast states. The cold will not be severe, according to present indications, and the mercury will not go much below zero.

Alpha Phi Leads
Sorority Bowlers;
Alpha Chi is Second

In the inter-sorority bowling contests among the sororities of the campus the Alpha Omicron Phi team is in the lead. Alpha Chi is in second place and Alpha Delta Pi is the third highest team. Second and third places will be bowled off today.

The teams that rolled last night are:

Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Xi Delta; Kappa Delta, Delta Zeta; Alpha Chi, Alpha Omicron Phi; Phi Omega Pi, Alpha Gamma Delta; Phi Mu, Kappa Alpha Zeta.

The highest team score bowled so far is 704 and Lucille Larson with 207 holds the highest individual score.

HANDBALL TOURNNEY
SET FOR FACULTYSchlatter Arranges Competition to Begin Monday For Grads and Teachers

Men of the faculty and post graduates, attention! Coach Schlatter has arranged a hand ball tournament to begin Monday which will be open to all faculty members and post graduates. All those who wish to enter the tourney may do so by signing up on the bill board outside of Coach Schlatter's office on the third floor landing of the gymnasium either today or tomorrow.

The games will be played on the courts on the third floor of the gym. The hand ball followers of the faculty have been using the courts continually since the beginning of winter so it is expected that much interest will be shown in the coming tournament.

If enough men sign up, the elimination system of play will be used; if only a few turn out, however, a round-robin schedule will be arranged.

Coach Schlatter asks all the post grads and faculty members that know the game to "come out and make it interesting."

Platteville Eye Clinic

BADGERS NERVOUS,
MAROONS SHOW
WINNING STREAKSpooner May Not Play in Tilt
With Chicago Saturday Night

After a two week's rest from competition, the Badger cage team once more steps into conference competition tomorrow night with a game against Chicago.

The Maroons, doped as the under dogs during the earlier part of the season, have launched out into a winning streak, and fans are dubious over the outcome of the game.

Doc Spooner, who was out of the Indiana game here two weeks ago with a wrenched knee, is still on the bench, and it is doubtful if the Badger scoring ace will see play in the Chicago tilt. Spooner has been working regularly with the squad, but Coach Meanwell does not plan on using him against Chicago.

Wisconsin's fortnight respite from competition has been well spent in smoothing out wrinkles which showed up in early season games.

Indiana, twice vanquished by the Badgers by the smallest margins was defeated by Chicago recently in one of the biggest upsets of the early season dope. Comparative scores indicate that the Badgers and the Maroons are about on a par.

The combination Meanwell will use is a bit uncertain with Spooner out of the game. Barwig may be used at a guard position with Diebold, and it is possible that a new combination will be used.

AUST SPEAKS BEFORE
ARTS AND CRAFTS CLUB

That America developed its individuality to the greatest point during the time of Lincoln was the statement made by Prof. F. A. Aust, in the department of horticulture speaking before the Arts and Crafts club on "Landscape Gardening" on Wednesday night.

"As in the history of Greece, strong individualism was developed in the pioneer. As a result of the people being thrust into the Persian war, a strong type of unity was shown," said Professor Aust.

This individuality was developed in America first by the Civil War, and later by the World War, Professor Aust believes. He declares that in the last two years, a search for variety has been evidenced.

EDUCATION IN A WEEK

For many years the state of Wisconsin has been a leader in all sorts of agriculture, from dairy products to the raising of crops, and its university has played an important role in securing a nation-wide reputation for the state in this line. On both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts the university is famed for its College of Agriculture. And rightly so.

One of the chief features offered by the College of Agriculture is the week's course given between the first and second semesters for the benefit of farmers who can spare only a short time away from their business. It is an annual affair, Farmers' week, and to it has been added this year a new feature. Courses are also being offered to the farmers' wives and the title has been changed to Farmers and Home-makers' week. The home economics department will give instruction to the women.

It is a splendid thing thus to provide the farmers of the state an opportunity to come to Madison to acquire information on their profession and to see the institution in operation. Students whose fathers are farmers are requested to write home and urge their parents to come to Madison for the short course. It is difficult for farmers to get away at either Home-coming or Inter-club time and this event makes it possible for them to pay the university a visit during the academic year.

Men of national reputation will be on hand to provide instruction and many valuable courses will be given. The staff of the College of Agriculture and the home economics department will give daily lectures also. From coming as it does at the end of the week will provide pleasant diversion for those parents who wish to see Wisconsin's social event.

It is a splendid institution, this short-course, and is another reason for the reputation that the College of Agriculture possesses.

A HINT FOR EXAMINERS

The majority of students, when they are taking an examination, keep a watch in front of them in order that they may portion the time for each question accordingly. For the benefit of those students who have smashed their watches, however, the instructors in charge of the examinations usually call out the time at intervals of fifteen minutes or so.

It would seem that these instructors can never have taken an examination. There are enough disturbing influences in an examination without having this added one of suddenly being interrupted with "The time is now 9:45" sounded off in a loud voice. The writer perhaps is scribbling away furiously when this interruption breaks in upon his train of thoughts. The question, which he has answered in his mind, leaves him completely, and, instead, "The time is now 9:45" rings through his head, again and again, and he can not for the life of him turn his attention to the more serious matter in hand. Perhaps there are a few students who are not bothered in this way, but the majority of them are seriously affected and have trouble returning to the examination.

One or two instructors, evidently realizing the annoyance caused to students by this practice of calling off the time have devised another system which seems more considerate. If the figure of a clock is drawn on the black board as time moves on the hands can be moved by erasing and rewriting to conform to it. With such a system the student can consult the clock at his convenience and not have his train of thoughts interrupted by loud bellowing of "The time is now 9:45."

Other Editors Say—

BOOTLEGGING NOTES

The question of selling notes has come up again at Harvard, and Dean Greenough, considerably perturbed, has branded the purveyors of outlines and review notes as "intellectual bootleggers." An history instructor has raised the question by giving warning that anyone caught selling notes would be subjected to disciplinary action from the Dean, and the Dean has even hinted at possible expulsion.

The instructor, of course, padded his remarks with the usual platitudinous piffle about the student chiefly injuring himself by using such notes, about college being "a place to develop mental muscle," and about the necessity of public opinion quelling the review notes evil. All of which, be it noted, amounts—with all respect—to a rather shabby bit of reasoning, and reasoning which seems likely to have not the least effect upon Harvard undergraduates or anyone else. Outlines sell by the tens and hundreds in Hanover, too, and they seem likely to continue to sell just so long as factual courses predominate and memorizing makes or breaks a student scholastically.

If college teachers and administrators are opposed to outlines and notes, the way to do away with them is to make them unnecessary. And the way to make them unnecessary is to insist upon examinations being the test of a student's thinking rather than his ability to cram facts. This is no appeal for fewer facts. One must be very stupid indeed who thinks that factual knowledge should be minimized. But it must be stressed that the test of a student's ability and knowledge comes not from his mastery of the facts—usually a temporary mastery—but his ability to use them in discussion, in writing, and in doing creative work of his own thinking. This observation sounds so elementary that one cannot understand why there should be any complaint about outlines and reviews. Are outlines and reviews evils? Then make the courses which seem to require them alive with the application of fact and with original and vigorous thinking. Then watch outlines disappear.—The Dartmouth.

SOMETIMES BEST MAN LOSES

(By Recoil)

On one of the gym handball courts recently, there was a lively game between two Chinese students and two native-borns. Damn exciting. For the Orientals, naturally good anyway, had been practicing several times a week since September, while their opponents were old-time junior champions of a Chicago athletic club. Toward the end of the contest it began to look bad for the champions; shot after shot came sailing either close to the floor, or way back within a few inches or so of the end line, making it almost impossible to recover.

"Over the line," called Champ. No. 1 after the third oft hesel ong shots. As they went forward to serve he winked slyly and whispered to Champ No. 2, "Watch those 'longs'. Don't let 'em get by with anything."

No.2 nodded, and the game progressed. A moment later, the Chinese again earned the serve but, strange to say, none of their 'longs' were effective thereafter, though the men placing them have a reputation for accuracy in just those shots. Now, it became a round of Slam .. Bang .. "No good—outside." The Americans up. Slam .. Bang .. The ball dancing, out of reach, near the side-line. The Chinese, hardly looking, "Good- Gosh!" Again, Slam .. Bang .. "Good!" Then finally, when the scoring rally of the Americans had accomplished its purpose, "You win. Thank you."

As the native-borns walked away, one of them remarked, "Some of these dizzy Chinks get fair in some sport, develop swell-head, and think they're every bit as good as a white man."

"Don't know their place," agreed his friend. Over in a far corner of the gym the Chinese chatted slowly and deliberately as they put on their bathrobes:

"Fine game."

"Sure."

"American boy got pretty wink."

"Sure."

Both laughed.

G'mawnnin'.

And no apologies to the Southern Club or anybody else.

All we can say is that they ruin more than that. But if ours isn't down on time when we call, we shall just go away and leave her flat—mean to say her apartment and come back in half an hour, well knowing what to expect.

SASSIETY

But her paw was in the hall.

The Lit also refused this as a Hot Pome.

There's none so great
As the girl who smashed
My good prom date.

Say do you know who I am.

I GAVE MY HEART

I gave my heart to a woman—
I gave it her, branch and root,
She bruised, she wrung, she tortured,
She cast it under foot.
Under her feet she cast it.
She trampled it where it fell
She broke it all to pieces
And each was a clot to hell.
There in the rain and the sun-shine
They lay and mouldered long
And each when again she viewed them
Had turned to a living song.

Here's one, that is displayed very prominently on one of the streets bounding the Harvard University.

As she'd sit there and feed me those damnable lies.

POSTER CONTEST FOR PROM CLOSES

Stiver Announces That Contributions Must Be in By 3:30 Today

The poster contest for the 1925 prom will close at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon according to Mike Stiver '25, chairman of the art committee for Junior prom.

All posters that are to be submitted in the contest must be delivered by that hour to the art laboratory on the second floor of the machine shop building, where the judges will pick the winner.

"The posters submitted this year are far the best that have been submitted for any prom in the past," Stiver said yesterday afternoon. "Approximately 25 posters have been sent in and they show a great deal of originality and conscious effort on the part of the artists."

The winning poster will be placed on exhibition in the Chocolate shop and the second prize winner will be placed in the window of the University pharmacy. The rest of the posters will be placed in conspicuous windows on State street.

The judges for the contest are Prof. Wm. H. Varnum, Arthur Colt and Miss Della Wilson all of the art department.

Pathologists Use Hot Water Cure to Check "Black Leg"

Plant pathologists at the College of Agriculture here have just announced the success of the use of plain hot water in the control of black leg, an infectious disease of cabbage which for many years has caused serious losses in the cabbage growing districts of the state.

"It has been a sticker," according to R. E. Vaughn of the state agricultural experiment station staff. "The corrosive sublimate treatment which we used for black rot and recommended for black leg was not entirely satisfactory. Now we find that seed immersed for 30 minutes in water kept at 122 degrees Fahrenheit is free from both infections. But the hot water also reduced the germination."

"Plump and healthy see stand the treatment much better than poor seed, and there is no doubt but that the advantages gained in freeing the seed from the diseases overbalance the reduced germination."

Marquette Prom Includes Dances And Vaudeville Act

The Marquette university prom dates will be February 27, 28 and 29, later than any other year in the history of the university.

An all-university vaudeville program the first in two years, will be a feature of Marquette's prom, according to a decision made by the junior class officers.

Harold V. Schoenecker, Milwaukee, junior class president in the college of arts and science, is prom chairman. Plans are being made to open the prom with the formal dance in the Marquette gymnasium on the night of February 27.

The prom vaudeville which will be promoted by the Harlequin club will be held at the Pabst theatre on the following night, while the prom festivities will close February 29 with the annual informal dance in the gymnasium.

Queen Decides to Wear Midget Watch on Finger Prom Night

With prom drawing nearer and nearer feminine interest is turning to the matter of the leading lady's gown and the ways in which she is going to wear her combination watch presented to her by the Gamm jewelry company.

The watch may be worn as a wrist or a finger or pendant watch. It is made of white gold, and is only half the size of a postage stamp. In fact, it is so small that it can be completely enveloped in a two cent stamp.

"I think," said Betty Stolte, who will lead prom with chairman Cliff Nolte, "that I shall wear the watch as a pendant Thursday. It's a beauty, all right. The night of the prom I shall wear it as a ring watch and Saturday night as a wrist watch. Sunday too, I think I shall wear it on my wrist."

The midget timepiece was on display in Gamm's show window before Christmas.

More than 1,400 graduating students marched in the Commencement parade at the University of Wisconsin last June.

Eight Wisconsin libraries hired students just graduated from the Wisconsin Library school this year.

ITHACA, N. Y.—The Cornell Mandolin and Glee clubs, for the thirtieth year made their annual Christmas tour. Sixty members made the trip.

No more shiny nose

—with VELV, the new cream that prevents shine!

"Is my nose shiny?"

At dinner, at the theater, in the middle of a dance—time and again this disturbing little thought creeps in, to mar your enjoyment! A dab of powder and the shine is off—for just a few moments. But how often you have wished for something to keep it off!

Now you have your wish, a new beauty discovery—Velv, the cream that prevents shine!

Applied to the nose with the tips of the fingers, it disappears instantly, leaving the skin soft, smooth, beautiful—and without a trace of shine!

The effect lasts for hours. Many women find it necessary to use the cream only once or twice a day.

Velv acts as a gentle astringent, for shiny nose is caused, you know, by perspiration and excretions of oil from the pores. It is delightfully cool and fragrant, and may be used on the most delicate skin without harm. And it makes a perfect base for powder.

A 35c tube of Velv will last for several weeks. You will find it at all drug stores and in all toilet goods departments.

Black Oxen is One of Year's Best Pictures

"BLACK OXEN"
Presented at the Strand.
Featuring Corinne Griffith and Conway Tearle.

By HIT and MISS
The years like black oxen tread
the world, and God, their herdsman goads them on behind" is the tragic theme of Gertrude Atherton's interesting novel which has been pictured realistically.

For a change this picture follows
the book closely, and the producers seem to have realized that the usual apparently optimistic ending would not have fitted in this case.
They have relied upon the author's judgement instead of their own scenario writers.

Madam Z. Zattiny, a character who is both very hard to portray and very hard to represent in appearances and actions, is admirably taken by Corinne Griffith. At once beautiful and with the wisdom of the ages as a guide for her love making she, of course, causes a fure in New York and captures all of the eligible, and before-considered ineligible, men of New York.

The theme, pertaining to the scientific methods of restoring youth, is timely and presents many situations which are different, radically so, from the usual movie of today.

Leap year tactics in love making were vividly presented by the flapper who was energetically in love with the author. The latter tried to make it evident that he regarded her as only a boring youngster. She would not be daunted—we defy any modern co-ed, regardless of the stories told about them in the modern journalistic scoops, to utilize any such perfected system.

The ending was dramatic and satisfying—besides being the only one that could reasonably have followed the tragic love which the book portrays. Throughout the theme of the entire book we felt this motif and the picture was very successful in bringing out the same feeling of inevitable fate.

It is one of the year's best pictures; we recommend it highly.

Women Cram For Finals in Study Hall at Lathrop

For the benefit of women who want a suitable place to study, S.
G. A. has opened a study hall in Lathrop hall. The room is directly across the hall from the Y. W. C.
A. rooms of the main floor.

So far, few women have taken advantage of this opportunity for undisturbed study, but it is hoped that some of those who find the library crowded will come here.

"It may be because the women
think the room is noisy," said Lois Jacobs, president of S. G. A., "but the same rules that are used in the library apply here. The room is the upstairs cafeteria, at the south end of the hall."

The study room will seat more than 50. It is opened every night from 7 until 10 o'clock.

Katz lives in Milwaukee. The

Good Shows Booked For Exam Period

By SAPPY

While studying for exams, one cannot think much of going to shows, but then, in the evenings, when all the work is over, and when one needs some rest, a show is the right thing, and the Madison theaters are going to do their share to make us forget our troubles,
since comedy will prevail.

Strand—This theatre, for the first part of the week will present
the First National Attraction
"Temporary Husbands", a whirling mix-up comedy of a young girl who marries an old man for his money and then finds out that it isn't such an old man after all. The cast will be all stars, including Sidney Chaplin, Owen Moore and others.
For the second part of the week,
the Strand will feature Colleen Moore of "Flaming Youth" fame in
"Painted Lips" assisted by Ben Lyn, Anna Q. Nilsson, Bull Montana and others.

Majestic—The Majestic fill feature, for the whole week, Tom Moore, Raymond Hatton, and Edith Roberts in "Big Brother" a Paramount picture written by Rex Beach.

Madison—Also for the whole week, this theater will show Reginald Denny in "Sporting Youth" a sparkling comedy filled with thrills and excitement of automobile races, areoplane rides and all the other things to make a show a thriller.

Parkway—The Parkway will have some big doings next week.
From Sunday to Friday, the screen version of "The Acquittal" the famous Cohan and Harris dramatic success will be shown, starring Claire Windsor and Norman Kerry. On Friday evening, the Madison audiences will be able to see Florence Macbeth and her concert company in the Opera "The Secret of Suzanne," a delightful light opera, sung in English. For Saturday matinee and night, the Parkway booked the well known comic tragedy of married life "The First Year," which, while it is a tragedy to the other fellow, to you it is an uproarious, hilarious comedy.

Orpheum—For the first half of the week, "The funniest thing in the world" will be presented, as Eddie says. It is "The Wager", an afterpiece of the actors of the four previous acts. For the first half of the week, the Orpheum has also booked the amous actor Owen Mc-Givney. For the second half of the week, the Orph will feature Harry Waiman and his musical debutantes consisting of a seven-piece orchestra of girls.

Farmers May Face Red Clover Seed Shortage

Possibility of a shortage of red clover seed in Wisconsin during the coming year is reported in a statement by J. D. Jones, Jr., state commissioner of agriculture Thursday.
A conference on the situation was held here a few days ago, at which problems on supply of domestic seed and advisability of recommending the use of certain foreign seeds were discussed.

Up Stage Bits

BY TORMENTOR

Without doubt one of the best things here this season was the presentation of the Duncan Sisters
at the Parkway, last night.

Tormentor felt just if he wanted to get out and play balloon with the girls when they had their large veil which filled so nicely with air,
but the courageous abandon of Zenobia was not present so he squelched his desires.

The muses forbid that "Two Puffs on the Speakaphone" should ever come to know Zen.

Zenobia just received a letter from one of her Pi Phi sisters, which tells some interesting things regarding Wisconsin people on the stage. Consistent with her character she obediently turned the letter over to Tormentor. We learn:

Agnes Samuels under the name of Kathryn Mulholland has been all season with the Theater Guild.

Fred Bickel under the name of Fredric March is back with the "Zeno" company.

Esther Guerrini '22 has finished her studies and is doing stock work in New York.

Ralph Scheinpfug '23 under the name of Ralph MacBane and Kay Strotz '17, (a Kappa) are both carry good parts in the new Pirandello play, "Henry the IV" which Brock Pemberton is producing.

Quite a Wisconsin production is
"Mr. Pitt" which has been on Broadway for several weeks. The play is by Zona Gale '95 and Mildred Miller '22, (a Theta) has a very good part in it.

To show the kind of a girl Zenobia is:— She thought that the best laugh in the Curtain Club's "Fanny's First Play"
was Professor Showerman's
very evident "heavies".

It has been long since Tormentor enjoyed anything any more than the Shaw Play as presented, however.

Mrs. Jane Fowlkes, gave a most understandable and moving interpretation of the part of the young girl just breaking loose, and albeit she didn't quite look the part, her work was perhaps the most enjoyable.

Miss Ochsner, approached the nearest to professional ease in her work. But didn't you think she was a little too effervescent? She slightly overdid the type.

Film Burns Up But Substitute is Good

"IN SEARCH OF A THRILL"
Featuring Viola Dana.
Presented at the Majestic.

By TED

Owing to an accident to the film shown the first part of the week, the Majestic, from Wednesday to Saturday, is showing Viola Dana in a picture called "In Search of a Thrill"; but in spite of its name the picture is not very thrilling. It is full of Apaches and Parisian toughnuts, and has one fight in an Apache den, but yet it is not very exciting.

It has, however, Viola Dana and Warner Baxter who help it out a lot. We have always been a little bit partial to Miss Dana, not so much because she is a great actress (though she does do pretty good work), but because of her eyes which photograph in a particularly nice way. But even though they are beautiful eyes, and we like to see them, we wish she would not make up her lashes so that they look like a lot of young negroes tooth-picks stuck into her eye-lids.
The effect from a distance is not so bad but the close ups show terribly. On the other hand her make up as an Apache girl and her change of character is excellent. So good, in fact, that she is almost unrecognizable.

Miss Dana is well supported by Warner Baxter as the author, and Robert Schable as Tommy who proposes to her daily as a matter of course.

The story is one that you need not let worry you. It furnishes sufficient entertainment to keep the picture moving along, but does not hurry itself any. Nor is it so obscure that you can see through it even in the first reel. Nevertheless the picture is worth a good minus,
so we will give it 86 per cent.

There is also a comedy, which doesn't amount to much. It has two laughs, or perhaps two and a half, though we have forgotten just what they were about now.

TWO STUDENTS INHERIT ESTATE OF $70,000

Bertrand H. Doyon '25, and his sister Dorothy M. Doyon '27, are heirs to an estate of $70,000 left by their mother, Mrs. Marie M. Doyon, who died December 24. Mrs. Doyon died without a will. Her personal property was equally divided between the son and daughter.

As Professor Carl Russell Fish, said, "Warner, was corking". And so were R. A. Young as Juggins, C. L. Fernberg, who fitted this part and Smiley Blanton, who had the necessary rapidity and force.

And now for exams. (Luckily Tormentor has no members of the Curtain club). Zen and Tormentor will break out next in the Prom Cardinal.

Houdini Mystifies Orph Audience in Excellent Bill

By ONE ON THE AISLE

Houdini, the incomparable, again
mystified his audience at the Orpheum last night. Every act was among the best presented in Madison in months, and the bill is one worth seeing. It was a hot show.
Hazel Goff and Bobby

They play all kinds of wonderful music on a xylophone and a trumpet. The act has punch, and Bobby is a keen looking girl.
Kirk Collier Co.

Radio troubles—A novel beginning to one of the best tight-ropes walking acts we've ever seen. Comedy, as well as skill, make this act
a knockout.

Emil Demarest

Emil plays the piano with ease and skill. He plays every kind of music, sometimes sitting down, sometimes on his head. The audience went wild over him.

Houdini.

There is only one Houdini, and he can't be beat. Last night he escaped from a box prepared by employes of the French Battery. It took time, but he accomplished the feat. We take off our hats to Mr.
Houdini.

Max Theilon Troupe

excellent balancing work.

Demarest and Collette

William Demarest is a brother to Emil. Estelle Collette and Demarest play some good string music, and get across with their snappy lines. Emil has his part in making the act a success. Good clean nonsense that the audience likes.

ture.

ment between Princeton, Harvard,

Yale Newspaper Asks U. S. Sale of Liquor

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Backed by a referendum vote of students and faculty which recently declared for a national policy involving the sale of light wines and beer, the Yale Daily News, the oldest American college daily newspaper, on Wednesday came out for government sale of liquor and asserted that the Volstead act was a failure.

In the recent straw vote at Yale,
out of 2,272 votes cast, only 655
were in sympathy with the present dry law.

MIDDLE CLASS IS SHRINKING IN SIZE

—ROSS

Professors Conduct Intensive Study of Birth Rate in America

The middle class of the United States is now committing slow suicide. Unless a third more babies are born into this class it will have shrunk within a century to half its present number while the nation as a whole will be twice as populous as it is now. So Prof. E. A. Ross of the sociology department and Ray E. Baber, assistant professor of sociology in the University of Illinois declare in an article in the February number of the Century magazine.

There is no danger of population shortage, the article states, for we fill two cradles for every coffin. What is to be worried about is the quality of that population.

The foreign element of our population is producing nearly twice as many as the native, to the future make-up of America. Even if aliens were barred, watchful eyes would be needed on the fibre of the people, for a quarter of one generation is parent to about one half of the next. That is, the most fruitful one fourth of a people will produce nearly as many children as the remaining three fourth and "what if this fateful fourth should include most of the pinheads and oafs!" they exclaim.

The university during the last two years has aided in an extensive investigation of the change in size of families between couples of the present generation and their parents, and the article of the two professors is based on the most complete collection of actual facts on this subject ever compiled in America.

Birge Uses Lake Mendota For Temperature Study

Heat equivalent to that produced by 1,345,000 tons of anthracite coal is absorbed by Lake Mendota annually during its change from winter to summer temperatures.

This fact is among the many which have been ascertained by President Birge during a study of lakes and their temperatures which has covered a long period of years. President Birge is considered an eminent authority on this subject both in America and in Europe, where experts on lakes base much of their work on the principles set forth by him as the result of his observations.

Several articles have been written by President Birge on this subject, among which are two bulletins reprinted from the transactions of the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences Arts and Letters. They are "The Heat Budgets of American and European Lakes" and "The Work of the Wind in Warming a Lake." It is understood that a book along similar lines is being prepared by him, and is about ready for publication. He has worked in conjunction with Chancey Juday, of the geological and natural history survey.

Lake Mendota, particularly, has been the source of many of the findings made by President Birge. The computation regarding the huge amount of coal (about 27,000 carloads of fifty tons each) that would be necessary to produce heat equal to that absorbed by Mendota annually followed his calculation of the heat budget of the lake. The term "heat budget" was coined by President Birge to describe the amount of heat necessary to change the lake from its lowest to its highest temperatures, and is now in general use by scientists.

Complicated formulas, understandable only by scientific minds, have developed by him during his experiments, and it is probable that no other man in this country, at least, possesses an equal knowledge of lake temperatures.

Foreign Students Like Wisconsin, 'Y' Secretary Asserts

"Foreign students like the University of Wisconsin," declared Frederick E. Wolf, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. "The relation between them and other students is very good, I believe. Many of the foreign men have spoken to me of the excellent spirit which prevails upon our campus."

"I am in favor of doing everything we can to bring all students of the university closer together and to overcome any foolish prejudices that may exist between them. Some universities have a special dean for foreign students and although this has been suggested for Wisconsin, thus far no definite action has been taken concerning it. A number of the students themselves, I think, prefer the present arrangement to any change."

Closely related to Mr. Wolf's view is a plan for the organization of discussion groups, which the Y. M. C. A. is inaugurating for the second semester.

"We hope to have from 40 to 60 of these groups on the campus in a short while," explained Mr. Wolf, "and are encouraging each fraternity and rooming-house to establish one."

The plan provides that the leaders of each group meet every Friday at luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. building, where a university professor will speak upon subjects that will come before the groups at their next meeting.
