CHOOSE RIGHT JOB, SPEAKER TELLS WOMEN

Vocational Expert Emphasizes Need for Specialized Training

"Your success will depend upon whether you are in the right kind of work," said Miss Helen Bennett, manager of the Collegiate Bureau of Occupation, Chicago, in speaking on "Vocational Opportunities" in Lathrop parlors yesterday afternoon.

"Desire to do the work should be the most important factor in determining your choice of a certain line. You can't be a success unless you really want to do the work."

Other factors which Miss Bennett said must be considered as basis for choosing the right job, are your own ability to do the work, the opportunities open in your section of the country, and your desire for service.

Special Training Essential

"Highly specialized training is essential to success in a job, also," declared Miss Bennett. "The day has passed when a person equipped only with a broad, general culture can get a good position. Good health and personality also are aids to success in any line."

"Teaching is one of the professions which is never overcrowded," continued the speaker. "It should not be entered as a last resort. One should have the gift of teaching to be a success at it."

"The field of social work has not had enough people in it for the last five years. It does not pay as well as some other occupations, but satisfaction with a job often counts for more than a large salary. There is also a tremendous demand for women in the household economics field."

"There are never enough college-trained women to fill secretarial positions. Businessmen are realizing the advantage of a college education in developing efficient workers. The salaries and chances for advancement in this field are very good."

"Library work always holds good opportunities for women, and department stores offer all kinds of positions, social, secretarial, buying, selling, and interior decorating."

Fields of Work Crowded

"Positions in labor and employment management are very limited now because business is shot to pieces. There will be little opportunity in this work for the next year or two. There is also little doing in occupational therapy and advertising."

"The people who succeed in their work are those who learn all about the subject in hand," said Miss Bennett in conclusion.

VARSITY WINS IN ASSEMBLY

Bill Forcing Law Grads to Take Bar Exam is Killed

The university Law school scored a victory in the assembly yesterday in the killing of the bill fostered by Marquette university to deprive Wisconsin law students of the diploma privilege and make them take the state bar examination.

Assemblyman Olson's motion for reconsideration of the vote of a week ago when the bill was advanced to engrossment was carried 52 to 34. On the reconsideration of the vote for engrossment the bill was killed by a vote of 49 to 39.

An hour was taken in debate before the final vote was taken. Assemblmen N. F. Lucas and F. J. Peterson led in the fight to save the bill, with Assemblmen A. E. Matheson and J. B. French leading the university forces.

"The Marquette people have the cart before the horse," said Matheson. "We should have a board that would pass on the course of studies and exempt all schools wherever they may be that fulfill certain requirements. I would pledge my support to such a measure but this bill is attacking the proposition in an entirely wrong way."

"As I said a week ago, this is class legislation that we now have," declared Peterson. "It favors a select few and the university above all other things should teach democracy."

PURPLE TAKES SWIM MEET BY SIX POINT LEAD

Rebuilt Badger Team Shows Up Well Against Northwestern

By winning the last and deciding event of the meet, the Northwestern swimming team, 1920 conference champions, defeated Wisconsin 37 to 31 at the gymnasium Friday night.

Coach Joseph C. Steinauer's rebuilt Badgers led Northwestern until the plunge event, when the Purple took the lead. With one more event to be held, Northwestern had a four point margin, but the best Wisconsin could get in the 100-yard swim was a second by Mark Bach.

The Badgers, with only four veteran swimmers in the lineup, made a strong showing against the Northwestern team, which has not lost a meet this season. Wisconsin gained eight points in the fancy diving and 220-yard breast stroke events, and won the 40-yard swim and 150-yard back stroke. The Badger squad was weak in the 220-yard swim and plunge, both of which events Northwestern took easily.

The Purple stepped into the lead with five points in the relay, but Wisconsin won the next three events, fancy diving, 40-yard swim, and 200-yard breast stroke. At this point, Northwestern scored an easy eight points in the 220-yard swim and held its slender four point lead until the end of the meet.

Northwestern won a hectic water basketball contest by a score of 4 to 0.

The summaries follow:

CITY CHURCHES TO CONDUCT SPECIAL RELIGIOUS MEET

Prominent Clergymen Will Be In Madison During Conference

Specially conducted institutes, under the direction of the various churches which are interesting themselves in the all-university Religious conference March 4, 5, and 6, will be a particular feature of the conference. These institutes, to be held Saturday at 10:00 and 2:30 will be under the direction of the city churches and will be conducted by prominent denominational clergymen.

The other work of the conference, which is for every student in the university and for as many of the Madison people as are interested in the work, will take the form of six big meetings to be held in Lathrop and Music halls. Sherwood Eddy will be the speaker at the all-university convocation in Lathrop gymnasium Friday afternoon at 3:30. This is the opening meeting of the conference and will be followed on Friday night by another meeting in Lathrop.

Separate Meets on Saturday

Saturday night there will be separate meetings for men and women in Lathrop and Music halls. Sherwood Eddy will talk to the men at the Music hall meeting and Mrs. Eddy will talk to the women. Sherwood Eddy will address the Sunday afternoon and Sunday evening meetings in Lathrop.

While the general meetings will be the outstanding features of the conference it is felt by the committee that the institutes will fill a particular need in the convention. The institutes are designed to fill in the gaps between the general work done by the massmeetings and to provide a means of discussing the particular phases of religious thought and activity that the larger meetings will not provide for.

BADGERS MEET MAROONS IN DECISIVE TILT

Wisconsin Still Has Chance to Tie for First Place

PROBABLE LINEUP

Wisconsin	Chicago
Taylor	F. Birkhoff
J. Williams	F. Vollmer
Ceaser	C. Halladay
R. Williams	G. Crisler
Frogner-Tebell	G. McGuire

Whether the Badger basketball five will be able to avenge its defeat at the hands of Chicago early in the season will be decided tonight when Coach Meanwell's men meet the Maroons on the armory floor.

The game is especially important because one more defeat would eliminate Wisconsin from title consideration. Both Illinois and Indiana are very apt to lose two more games; so, if Wisconsin can finish the season with eight victories, there is a chance for a triple tie for first place.

Maroons Are Strong

Chicago, however, has a strong team, and, after their three recent defeats, are about due to show some of their last year form. Coach Stagg has four men back from last year's conference champion squad, and they can boast of three of the 10 best shots in the conference.

Chicago has a team composed of five individual stars, while Wisconsin can boast of no scintillating stars. The Badgers, however, have been defeating teams that have completely baffled Chicago. That is the reason why spectators are inclined to favor Wisconsin in tonight's game.

The men have had a good chance to rest up from their strenuous five day trip, as Dr. Meanwell has given them only two regular practices. A great deal of time has been devoted to the shooting end of the game, as that was the only department in which they were weak at Illinois. The passing game has been so perfect that even Illinois' six foot team could not break it up.

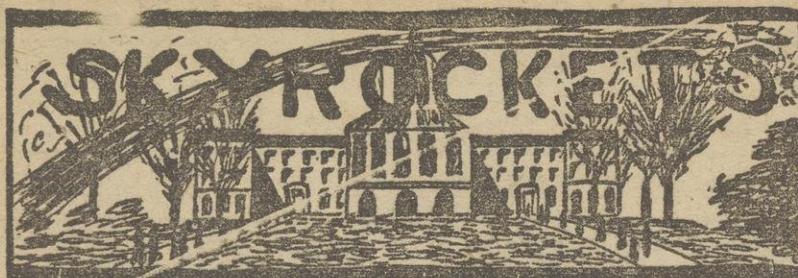

HARESFOOT SEEKS ATTRACTIVE DESIGN FOR SCORE COVER

Attractive designs are wanted by the Haresfoot club to be used as the covers of the score book of "Miss 'Quita" to be published by the club this year. This is the first time in five years that Haresfoot has published such a book for their annual musical comedy production.

Those who submit designs are asked to bear in mind the nature of the play and make the cover appropriate to the Mexican setting. There are character parts of Mexican generals, vampires, a drunken American adventurer, and a negro hangman.

The score book will contain all the music and lyrics used in the show, cast of characters, synopsis of the play, and a complete history of the Haresfoot club. Not only will the design chosen be used for the cover of the score book, but also for all the posters that will be placed throughout the seven cities that "Miss 'Quita" plays in its tour of Illinois and Wisconsin.

Anyone who desires to have further information in regard to making the design that they wish to submit, is asked by the committee to get in touch with Norbert Markup, B. 2991, or Horace Carver, B. 3818, immediately. All designs that are made must be in the Haresfoot office not later than Wednesday, March 9.

Gilbert K. Chesterton is to be here shortly to study our university. He will get his impressions of the American college fraternity at the Sig Chi house. Now we eskew, is that fair? Still, John Price, the shining literary head of the Sigs, by virtue of his inclinations and pursuits will be most delectable to the tastes of Gilbert K.

ODE TO INSOMNIA

Do you know any person infesting this school,
That, if you had your way, you would knock for a gool;
Some impossible yokel with head full of cracks,
Who you'd cheerfully crock with with a hammer or axe—
Or, if such wasn't handy, with some other tool?

Have you had an instructor tres absent in mind
Leave no work for the lesson tomorrow assigned,
When some bird with a stock more of nerve than of sense proclaims of the shortsight (blast his d—ned pestilence);
And you long to chastise him severely behind?

Know you some individual case of idiocy mild,
A superior thinker (at least so self-styled),
Who is harping for aye on some bolshevile cant
Or on free loving doctrine is ready to rant;
Who with you e'en for hanging is unreconciled?

Now the feminine offenders we've intentionally missed, Though 'twould be rankest folly to deny they exist. It's our chivalrous sense that's developed so strong, Else we'd express our wish that they live not too long; For each day twenty necks do we mentally twist.

NOW the above rhythm is original and we defy any instructor, however skilled, to analyze its peculiarities. The verse may not de-

JEAN JUSTER TO LEAD MUSIC OF HARESFOOT SHOW

Calls for Musicians to Play in Orchestra for "Miss 'Quita"

Jean Juster has again been chosen to lead the Haresfoot orchestra that will make a tour of seven cities in Illinois and Wisconsin with the twenty-third annual production, "Miss 'Quita." There are a number of openings left in the orchestra to be filled within the next week, and Juster desires all men who play an instrument to come out. This is Juster's second year conducting the orchestra and he claims that he will have the best orchestra this year that the Haresfoot club has ever taken with their show.

Last year on the trip with "Mary's Lamb" the orchestra was a feature of every performance and in addition played at several banquets at prominent Milwaukee hotel's. Applications for the orchestra will be received at the Haresfoot office, third floor, Union building today.

Cast and chorus tryouts for "Miss 'Quita" are continuing through the end of the week. Chorus tryouts will be held this afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. at 2 o'clock. Cast tryouts will take place according to personal notices sent by the club.

We must remark that the object of this verse is not to fill space since it is very hard to write. Now, no come-backs to the effect that it is also very hard to read. That is taking advantage.

ARCHAEOLOGISTS COMPARE NOTES ON EXCAVATIONS

American Oriental Society Holds First Convention Meet in Libe

That many wonderful discoveries made through excavations in Babylonia, Egypt, and South Africa are not only an indication of the progress which has been made in determining the civilization prevalent in antiquity, but are also an indication of the possibilities for further research, was brought out by the speakers who addressed the American Oriental society yesterday afternoon in the Historical library.

Professors Ira M. Price of the University of Chicago, D. D. Luckenbill, and Dr. T. George Allen of the University of Chicago, and Prof. M. Rostovtzeff of the University of Wisconsin, and the Rev. J. L. Astrup, of Natal, South Africa, addressed the meeting which was the first session of their meeting here.

The functions of various officers in the temple of Ningirsu, an ancient Babylonian edifice, as translated by Professor Price from a column in the temple, and the similarity of these offices to the offices to the administrative offices of today was the subject of Professor Price's address.

A number of interesting Babylonian antiquities acquired by the Chicago Expedition to the Near East which included some rare old stones, inscribed tablets, pieces of sculpture and the famous cylinder prism of Sennacherib which aided greatly in the translation of certain passages which were indistinct on the replica of the prism were described by Professor Luckenbill.

"The Ruins of Rhodesia" was the title of a paper read by the Rev. Mr. Astrup about the excavations which have been taking place in South Africa and which have resulted in the conception of many theories regarding the kind of people who inhabited Africa thousands of years ago.

"The Story of an Egyptian Politician" set forth the military career, religion, foreign relations, home life and death and burial of an Egyptian as told by himself on an inscribed tablet.

"The Ancient Land System" was the subject of Professor Rostovtzeff's address. General discussion ensued between each speech.

CROWDED LABS HINDER WORK IN CHEMISTRY

2,440 Students Are Using Equipment Designed
For 1,854

A total of 2,440 chemistry and pharmacy students in the university are now doing their experiment work in laboratories equipped for 1,854 students, and in a building erected for the needs of a department about half its present size. Growing demands for chemistry work for commerce and agricultural students and the increased number of students who are specializing in chemistry, since the close of the war, will add at least 400 to the total next year.

Effective laboratory work is thus hampered by crowding, essential courses have been thrown out, and boxes are being used instead of lockers for student apparatus, greatly increasing hazards and expense to students. The danger of fire and of personal injury to students is greatly increased by crowding them together at the work desks. The breakage of glassware, for which students must pay, is materially increased by the lack of lockers.

This condition in one of the most essential departments of the state university is the reason behind the urgent need, set forth by the Regents, for the immediate erection of another wing for the Chemistry building.

When the last addition to the Chemistry building was erected in 1913, the building was equipped for 1,754 students. This year about 2,200 chemistry students and 250 pharmacy students are working in it. That at least 2,515 students will desire to study chemistry and more than 250 will study pharmacy next year seems certain from present indications. The pinch this year is in providing for elementary students; next year the difficulty will concern advanced work as these students progress.

Research work by members of the faculty is seriously crippled this year because laboratory space for this work has been devoted to students. But few of the instructors and assistants have office room, and many are deferring their research and graduate work because there is no place for them to work.

MILITARY BALL TO BE RUN ON BUDGET

Money Saved Will be Spent on Decorations and Orchestra

In order to keep an accurate check on the financing of the 1921 Military ball, an adequate budget system, necessitating the use of requisitions signed by the general chairman, has been adopted.

The aim of this system is to bring about the most economical expenditures in the less important committees and apply the saving thus made to the decorations and music. Every committee chairman will be held strictly to his apportionment by the budget and must accomplish the best result in the most economical manner.

The plan to be used is a result of the statements and budgets of the eight previous Military balls. Accurate records of all receipts and disbursements will be kept, and the double entry system of recording all accounts will be used. This will insure a correct presentation of the financial status at all times and will render a correct balance sheet.

Captain, Newton L. Bowers '22, financial chairman of the 1920 Military ball, has been appointed to the same position this year. His two Fraternities will hereafter get their decorations of greens from trees raised by the university for that specific purpose, it was learned last night at a meeting of the Inter-fraternity conference. The university has already planted a number of trees for this purpose.

The conference went on record as desirous of cooperating with the Park and Pleasure Drive association in preserving the beauty of Madison's drives and parks. The meeting was the result of the recent arrest of two students, who were charged with mutilating trees in order to get decorations for their fraternity houses.

Ernest N. Warner, president of the Park and Pleasure Drive association, gave a talk on the work of the organization. Earl Hardy, member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, is president of the Inter-fraternity conference.

Huber Measure Gets Unanimous Vote From State Affairs Body

The Huber mothers' pension bill was unanimously recommended for passage following a hearing by the senate state affairs committee Thursday afternoon. The bill provides for abolishing the $40 maximum now in the law.

Judge A. C. Hoppmann was in charge of the hearing in behalf of the friends of the bill. Judge Hoppmann told of the numerous occasions on which he had been unable to give any relief to mothers of large families under the law because the $40 maximum was inadequate.

Others who appeared in favor of the bill were Mrs. Edith E. Hoyt, Mrs. John S. Donald, a member of the Dane county Child Welfare board, Mrs. William Kittle, Mrs. Flora Hopkins, Miss Jeanette Davis, secretary of the Madison Public Welfare association, Mrs. L. M. Hobbins, Mrs. Ledwith of the Women's Progressive association, and John J. Handley of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor. No one appeared against the bill.

WASHINGTON — Agreeing to house amendments, the senate committee completed today passage of the annual postoffice appropriation bill and sent it to the president. It carries approximately $570,000,000. The senate agreed to the house allotment of $2,250,000 for trans-continental air mail service.

A SPLENDID MOVE

YESTERDAY the assembly of the legislature laid to rest the bill requiring graduates of the university law school to pass the state bar examination before admission to the bar. The vote for indefinite postponement stood 49 to 39.

This action is a source of deep gratification to the university. It is a vote of confidence in the standards set by the law school and an assurance that these standards will not descend to mere coaching for passing a bar examination.

The legislature has taken a wise step in upholding the dignity of the law school supported and maintained by the people of Wisconsin.

FUNDAMENTALS AND HIGHER EDUCATION

THE periodicals and newspapers are filled with articles that reflect the tremendous readjustments being made as the nation faces a new era in its history. Far-reaching developments are taking place in industry, politics, international relations, and every other phase of social life.

It is impossible for education to escape the influence of forces that are making for change and adaptation to new conditions. The direction which these changes takes in the field of higher education is a question that recommends itself to the serious attention of university students because these students will have a voice in determining new forces and new tendencies.

It is a time for searching after fundamentals.

What is a university? What ultimate purpose should a university accomplish? What is the type of education which a university should foster?

These questions are important no less than the question of grades and standards which is now being discussed up one side and down the other.

In recent years two hostile camps have arisen, dividing over the question of making education a preparation for a job or preparation for life. Up to date, in many parts of the country, the tide of battle has been in favor of the utilitarians. So marked has the victory been in some instances that universities are regarded as business colleges of advanced standing or else a machine into which a captain of industry drops his coin and out comes a foreman, made to order.

This tendency has run riot. It has gone to the same extravagant extreme that was evident when education served only the leisured class. Woe to this country if its universities are annexed by banks, traction companies, and soap factories.

In this readjustment time, a happy medium between these extremes must be found and adhered to. The ideal of true culture must be maintained, not for the few but for all. No university should allow a student to graduate from any college—agricultural, engineering, or commerce—without some intimacy with philosophy, language, history, and literature.

Such must be the guiding principles of the universities if they are to continue to lead the world and not be led by the world.

THE UNION BOARD

THE Union Board is giving a series of dances that bid fair to be a distinct asset to the social life of the university. Lathrop parlors is the place. Saturday night is the time, 9 o'clock to be more definite.

The floor at Lathrop is one of the best around these parts. The music is of a high order. An air of informality and congeniality pervades these affairs. Everybody has a good time. The dances are not run for profit.

They will continue probably throughout the remainder of the year. Remember the time and place when making that date.

USE TINY MACHINE IN MOVIE TRYOUTS

A small projecting machine is the latest addition to the equipment of the Varsity Movie. It is used to project the films which are being taken in the final tryouts.

The mirrored screen upon which these reels are thrown consists of a rectangular section upon the walls of the room sufficiently covered with whitewash. Here the many antics of the Co-Ediths are vividly portrayed to the critical eyes of the movie staff.

The little camera was installed for the purpose of telling more accurately the filming possibilities of the campus phenomena.

Communications

To the Editor of The Cardinal:

In a recent issue of the Wisconsin State Journal there appears a letter which had previously been published in the Cardinal, and the gist of it seems to be that there is no reason why Wisconsin, like V. M. I., could not have all of its exams conducted under the honor system, except that the faculty of the university is so durned walkative that our profs just wouldn't give up their guard duty, "pacing up and down the floor, trying to detect any one with his eye any place other than his paper."

I might tell the writer of that letter that there is one other reason, which he evidently lost sight of, namely, the students at Wisconsin generally do not want the honor system. They have not yet reached that point of self-respect and pride in honor where one "rebels," as Mr. Peebles does, against "the establishment of a guard."

Now, mark you, I do not say that Wisconsin students are less honorable than those at institutions where the honor system is in operation. But we must remember that its operation has given the best results only at institutions where it had been installed so long ago that it has become an integral part of the life of the institution and its most sacred tradition.

That is why it was possible, as Mr. Peebles tells us, a senior at V. M. I. "was reported for cribbing by his own room-mate."

The writer of this letter, like Mr. Peebles, has been at an honor system school, in fact in the same town of Lexington, Va., where is situated the Virginia Military Institute. Every bit of college literature that came into my hands during the first week after matriculation spoke of the honor system. During that same week we had two massmeetings, and student speakers discussed with religious solemnity every possible phase of the honor system. The writer recalls the remarkable impression produced upon his freshman mind. How, after prating glibly as a high school orator about democracy and ideals, he saw himself for the first time face to face with an ideal, which not merely invited rhetoric but actually forced itself into one's entire being.

I could go on to enumerate many instances of the workings of the honor system at Washington and Lee university and the University of Virginia (both of which I have attended) which would inspire you with a new faith in those thoughtless fellows and girls who crib at this university, because after all they are of the same clay as the students in the institutions I mentioned. I do not blame Mr. Peebles for preferring the honor system "and self-government" to being watched, but I do blame him for ignorance of the general sentiment at Wisconsin. Evidently, his contact with Virginians has brought him to trace his own ancestry to Robert E. Lee, so that he only knows the sentiment of the faculty. My own humble lineage has permitted me to have an occasional discussion with various groups of students, and their attitude is ridiculous.

It might interest Mr. Peebles to know that the writer of this letter attempted to give quizzes in the classes he teaches without "pacing the floor," having first explained the honor system he wanted to introduce. Those who felt offended at the word "ridiculous" above would perhaps care to know that he was asked by his own students to return to "guard duty."

It is indeed ridiculous to hear large numbers of students join in the condemnation of profs as soon as someone touches the subject of "guarding at exams" when only a moment before they had been arguing that you can't work the honor system successfully here, contending that the majority will cheat, and that those who won't cheat will never report the others.

I want to say in conclusion that I am writing this letter in no other capacity than that of a student. I have chosen Wisconsin as the institution from which I am to get my academic degree, because of the esteem in which it is held throughout our own country and even in foreign lands. As a student of the University of Wisconsin, then, I hate to admit that I cannot be trusted here on my honor, while I could at Washington and Lee and the University of Virginia, but Mr. Peebles and myself seem to be in the small minority. What we must do, however, Mr. Peebles, is not call the faculty names for watching the students, but convince the latter that, given the proper atmosphere, there will be no need for watching.

BOOST THE BAND

Editor of The Daily Cardinal:

Announcements of a concert to be given by the First University band on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the armory made their appearance on the campus yesterday.

Just how much these announcements mean to the average student is very doubtful. But to anyone knowing of the big job that the band has before it and of the great degree of accomplishment attained by it under the able leadership of Major Morphy, they mean a great deal.

It is a safe bet that Wisconsin has one of the best, if not the best, college bands in the United States. But what's the use of a delicate dish if nobody eats it? The students have not yet appreciated the concerts rendered by the band. If this same band would give a concert under the name of the Champaign Symphony band, the armory wouldn't hold all those willing to pay $2 to hear it, but as it is, the students don't respond at the nominal admission of 25 and 35 cents.

The bally-hooing at football games is not a fair sample of what the band does. One must have heard one of these concerts before passing judgment on the band and that is just where the student body has fallen down.

Sunday's concert will offer an opportunity for these offenders to redeem themselves.

DEBATE DECISION AT LIT SOCIETY FAVORS SOVIETS

Bergerman is Elected President of Athenae For This Semester

Debate decisions at literary society meetings last night favored recognition of Soviet Russia and opposed the adoption of the short ballot for Wisconsin.

The affirmative won a debate on recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States at a meeting of Agricultural Literary society last night. This question will be debated in a triangle meet with Michigan and Illinois in March.

Parliamentary drill was conducted by Laurence H. McKay, grad, Prof. William A. Sumner of the Agricultural Journalism department was judge and critic.

Athenae Elects Bergerman
Melbourne Bergerman '22 was elected president of Athenae for the present period at a meeting of the society last night. Other officers elected were Ralph Spence '22, vice-president; Abraham Kaufman '22, secretary; Sidney Charney '24, censor; and Edgar J. Smith '24, recording scribe.

TELLS OF ASIA IN ADDRESS TO ORIENTAL MEET

Professor Lyberger Foresees
Complete Expulsion of European Control

"The Four Quadrants of Asia" was the subject of Prof. A. H. Lyberger's address in his presidential address before the American Oriental society last night. Tracing oriental history from earliest times down to the present, he completely summarized the history of the Orient in its relation to the geographic division of the continent.

A debate on the advantage of the short ballot in Wisconsin was won by the negative. Araham Kaufman '22 gave a talk on "The Press: Its Evils and Remedies."

Juniors were requested to prepare original speeches for "Junior Dec night," March 11. The junior presenting the best speech will represent Athenae at an inter-society meet, the winner of this meet to represent Wisconsin at the Northern Oratorical league meet. Freshmen were asked to prepare declamations to be delivered at "Frosh Dec night."

Literary societies will hold no meetings next Friday because of the Religious conference.

Dean G. C. Sellery welcomed the members of the society in a short address in which he pointed out that the work of the society was to develop a unity in oriental history and relate it to the present.

Bringing his summary up to the present, Professor Lyberger showed that Asia is gradually developing a national spirit which will probably result in a complete expulsion of European control from Asia. During the World war the oriental countries came to realize the necessity of holding aloof from European chonic troubles. According to Professor Lyberger, another war like the last world war would be sufficient to bring about complete expulsion of European powers from Asia.

At present, three quadrants, the eastern, southern, and western, which include Japan, China, India, the Malay peninsula and south-western Asia are nearly free from European control. England has little to say in India, and it appears that Turkey will ultimately control most if not all of south-western Asia, which includes Armenia. The French in Malay peninsula may ultimately be expelled by the Japs.

"Multiplication of population is the greatest problem of civilization," said Professor Lyberger. It was the cause of the last war and would be the cause of a war with Japan. Although a large percentage of those born die in childhood, the population is rapidly increasing

MUGGED!

Use Bertillion Methods on Stanford Frosh to Prevent Confusion and fraud

A precedent was established at Stanford university Monday, when students assembled to register for the winter quarter. As the freshmen filed into the office of the lower division, they were "mugged" individually by an official photographer. Hereafter, students registering at Stanford will have their pictures taken as part of the registration for purposes of identification when necessary.

From now on there will be a file of freshman photographs in the keeping of the registrar. The new addition to the registration formula will do away with any confusion in the matter of securing past scholarship records and prevent scholarship frauds.

Much rivalry has cropped out between the commerce men and the engineers, and Coach Fred Schlatter expects that the meet will be very close. College insignia will be awarded to the members of the dimming team and the men who capture their events.

AT THE GRAND

One of the many features and thrills in "The Man Who Dared," the latest William Fox production starring William Russell at the Grand theater is the felling of a giant tree in the heart of the California redwoods forest, where the exteriors of the production were staged.

The vast lumber camps of the Union Lumber company at Fort Bragg, Cal., were used by Director Emmett J. Flynn in taking the scenes. William Russell chopped down one of the biggest trees in the forest. It stood 260 feet in height and its base was 21 feet in diameter. Clyde De Vinna, the cameraman, photographed the falling tree, but not without considerable peril, as he had his camera set nearer than the lumberjacks considered safe.

Big Jim O'Kane William Russell has one of the strongest roles in his career. He will be seen as typical lumberjack with the strength of a giant and a heart to match. Eileen Percy, a charming actress of stellar talent, plays opposite Russell, and advance reports state that she gives a delightfully clever performance.

AT THE ORPHEUM

Good, but not so good as the first half of the week, the Orpheum has three acts that win lots of favor.

The first act is perhaps the best. Miss Ward, an attractive girl with several pretty though saucy abbreviated dresses, and her partner, Dooley, sing, dance, throw the lariat, and do trick bicycle riding. Miss Barber, a plump lady, and Jackson, an elongated piece of manhood, have some patter and songs that do as much to get their bit across.

"The Man Hunt," is a bedroom farce that has the same complications and same climax that such affairs never do actually have.

Rucker and Winifred, two ebony hued entertainers, offer some international comedy in the way of rapid repartee between a Chinese chop suey vendor and a willful Ethiopian.

Miss Briscoe and Rauh pull a few good jokes and sing several songs.

The "Aeroplane Girls" have a novelty trapeze act.

COLLEGE SERVANTS
AT WELLESLEY ARE GIVEN EDUCATION

The housemaids of Wellesley college have a curriculum of their own that makes for a college within a college.

The servants have been found to rival their sister students of the undergraduate body in their thirst for knowledge and thirty-five are enrolled in courses that vary from piano-forte instruction to commercial training.

One waitress who has exhausted a high school geometry book in a few months is preparing with independent study for admission to the college itself, bent on obtaining a degree. Her instructors say she is well advanced toward her ambition of exchanging the cap of service for the academic gown.

BLAINE TALKS AT DINNER OF SERVICE MEN

Governor Pledges to Sup- port Ex-soldiers in Every Way

"Handicaps sometimes make for success," declared Governor John J. Blaine last night in addressing 225 members of the Gun and Blade club and the Fort Sheridan association assembled in banquet at the Park hotel. President Edward A. Birge, Charles W. Sylvester, Chicago, district vocational officer, and Capt. Myron E. Adams, Chicago, also spoke. Edison M. Boerkex '22, president of the club, was toastmaster.

"Determination to win on the battlefield is the advantage which the disabled service man, if properly trained, may successfully compete in life," Governor Blaine continued, in speaking to the largest organized group of disabled service men in Wisconsin. "I pledge my support to back the service man in every way possible.

Sylvester Speaks
Charles W. Sylvester, vocational officer of the federal board district composed of Wisconsin, Illinois, and Michigan, declared that every dollar of the government was backing the disabled service man. The United States faces the greatest task in educating service men of any other nation," he said, "because of the 70,000 men who are now in training in colleges and universities."

That the educational training for federal board students at the University of Wisconsin, was far above the average of other institutions, was indicated by Mr. Sylvester. "If all training was going ahead as successfully as it is in Wisconsin, I would have little to worry about," he declared. "A certificate will be issued to every man by the government upon the completion of his training."

President Edward A. Birge spoke briefly on the necessity of balancing the technical education with other studies. "The thing that will limit your success in life will not be along your specialized training, but along some other line."

Capt. Myron E. Adams, Chicago, manager of the Fort Sheridan association, exhorted the men to use their war training to battle through life. "The reason for the success of the American troops," he asserted, "was that they were trained for victory. 'Cheer up, help up, and never give up,' is the word that I bring to you."

An Orpheum party was held by the members following the banquet. The music was furnished by the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

LETZ QUARTET TO BE HEARD HERE EARLY IN MARCH

Will Present Program of Chamber Music in Music
Hall

The Letz quartet of New York will be heard here in program of chamber music at Music hall March 10. This organization ranks as one of the premier string quartets of New York. It is to some extent an outgrowth of the famous Kneisel quartet of which Mr. Letz has long been an important member.

Not only in New York but in other important musical centers the Letz players have fallen heir to the highest standing and wide popularity of the Kneisel and the majority of the music clubs and chamber music societies which formerly had the Kneisel quartet, now have the Letz quartet as an annual occurrence.

In New York city alone it is already booked for twenty concerts for next season. In addition to its regular subscription period of three concerts in the Aeolian hall, six programs will be given for the New York Educational alliance, three for the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, two at Columbia University and one for the Beethoven society series.

CHINESE WILL GIVE PROGRAM SUNDAY NIGHT

The Chinese students of the university will give a Chinese program Presbyterian Christian Endeavor society on Sunday night.

The meeting is to start at 5:30 o'clock with instrumental and vocal music by the Chinese students after which they will give an exhibition of the famous game of shuttlecock. Mr. Chao will cook a Chinese dish for the evening refreshment.

The speakers of the evening will treat upon the economic condition in China, the aims of the Chinese students for their life when they return to their native country, and the program of Christian activity is taking place in China.

All are welcome to come and meet the Chinese students.

Commended by Outlook

The New York "Outlook" says of the Letz quartet: "The Letz quartet is a natural successor of the Kneisel quartet and has remained true to the standards this organization set. Standard set in American Chamber music at a time when we had fewer groups of high attainment and less established tradition than you have now."

The Letz quartet is being brought here by the University School of Music. Tickets can be secured at Dr. C. H. Mills' office in the Music school.
