O'SHEA IS TO SPEAK AT '25 STUDY CONVO

Frosh Will Be Told How to Work—Meeting Tomorrow

At an all-freshman convocation to be held in Music hall at 3:30 Thursday afternoon, "How to Use Your Mind" will be the title of the address to be made by Prof. Vincent O'Shea of the education department.

"The majority of freshmen do not fail because they are lazy, nor because they do not work, but because they do not know how to study," said Prof. Alfred P. Haake, who has charge of the convocation, in explaining its purpose.

Last Convo Helped

"The conference has been arranged by the department of economics to instruct students in the art of studying, and it is expected that they will derive great benefits from the meeting. A similar convocation was held last year, when many students were helped perceptibly," Prof. Haake continued.

Professor O'Shea is an authority on his subject, for he has made an extensive study for years on how to use one's intellectual capacities to the best advantage. He will present the results of his study in a way that will enable freshmen to get the most out of the time they spend preparing their assignments.

All Colleges Co-operate

Several of the larger departments of the university will follow up this convocation by amplifying what has been said with direct regard to the work in their own departments. Thus the students who attend the convocation will be equipped to get more out of their university work than those who do not.

While this is primarily an all-freshman conference, members of the sophomore and upper classes are welcome. Any student who has not had instruction of this sort will find it beneficial to attend.

Attendance is not compulsory, and no classes will be dismissed on Thursday afternoon. The convocation will last exactly 50 minutes.

GRADS TO BE MUST ARRANGE FOR THE BADGER PICTURES

Many seniors have been decidedly late in making appointments to have their pictures taken for the 1923 Badger, according to reports from the photographers. There is still a large number of seniors who have not even made their appointments. The dead line for senior pictures and summaries must come very soon because of the great amount of time required for sorting and arranging them, verifying the names, and making the cuts, all of which must be done long before the Badger goes to press.

"We don't want to leave anyone out, as has happened in former years," said Helen Kasbeer, senior editor, as she looked at the reports. Last year and in years before a great many senior pictures were omitted simply because they came in too late. Such circumstances are unpleasant for both the grad and the year-book. It must, however, be realized that the Badger cannot wait, making it necessary that appointments be made with the photographers at once and the pictures taken as soon as possible.

LARSCH HEADS FROSH TICKET

JACK LARSCH

The second frosh ticket to be announced in two days is headed by Jack Larsch, Reusselaer, Indiana. Jack is a Sigma Chi pledge, and also an Inner Gate pledge. He was on the committee for the Homecoming dance, and is a member of the freshmen swimming team. While in high school, Larsch took an active part in all school activities. He was captain of the football team in his senior year, chairman of the junior prom, and assistant captain of the basketball team. He was an active worker on the school paper, and was elected business manager of the school annual.

Besides being a member of the athletic teams, Jack was president of the school athletic association. Dramatics and glee club activities also took up quite a bit of his time. During his junior and senior year he was a member of the student senate. He was also captain of the tennis team, and manager of the baseball nine.

Beulah James, Richland, Wis., is running for vice-president on the ticket. She was elected circulation manager of the school annual in her senior year at high school, and a member of the girls' basketball team. She was also a member of the school orchestra, the Mandolin club, the Girls' Trumpet corps, the Delphian Literary society, the open debating team, and the Ukelele club. In the amateur plays given at the school, Miss James took an active part. She played the leading parts in three plays her senior year, and was elected president of Home Talent club her senior year. She is a Delta Delta Delta pledge.

Ralph Giles, Madison, is up for treasurer on the Larsch-James ticket. Giles graduated from the Madison high school last year, at which institution he was a member of the orchestra. During his junior year, he attended school in Richmond, Ind. Here he was also a member of the school orchestra, played forward on the basketball team, and was treasurer of the class. During the first semester of his junior year he attended the Evander Childs high school in New York city. He was a member of the swimming team, the orchestra, and the basketball team. He held the office of class president the

Violins Feature Ysaye Concert Says Schwinn

By WALTER K. SCHWINN

Those people who have a predominant feeling for the violin—all string instruments, in fact—were unusually happy last night at the first concert of the ninth season of the Madison Orchestral association, given by the Cincinnati-Symphony orchestra at the University gymnasium. For it was indeed a violinists' holiday. The conductor, Eugene Ysaye, is a famous violinist and the leading exponent of Franco-Belgian music; the string section was a little larger than most orchestras boast; and the entire program was built around, so it seemed, the violin and cello. The result was a program of deep beauty, feeling, and interpretation.

It was easy to discern that Ysaye spends most of his time working with the string section. A beauty of tone is there that is remarkable, surpassing almost every other orchestra that has appeared in Madison recently. The brass section and the wood-wind section are not so highly developed, for sometimes the tone came harshly and unevenly.

The program was distinctly French, opening with Bizet's spirited overture to Patrie, which was given with splendid rhythm and swing. The symphony was Schumann's Third, the Rhenish work. Here is a piece filled with flowing melodies, rich harmonies, and a variety of feeling. It is not a complex thing, but is of the nature of a tone poem, with picture after picture unfolding itself in panorama. The middle sections, with their melodies in the wood-winds, were the finest. The brass section was at its best in this part of the program.

Mr. Ysaye's own work, a tone poem called Exile, was performed by the strings alone. It is a highly sentimental, but raised above that characteristic by a sincere depth of feeling. The harmonies were nicely blended, and the climax was reached with an easy force that was delightful.

Saint-Saens' prelude to The Deluge was one of the high spots of the evening. The violin solo, played excellently by Mr. Emil Heerman, stood out cool and clear against a rippling fall of wood-wind and a steady patter of strings pazzato. The whole theme is simple, but is given a power that has great appeal.

The program closed with the Ballet Suite from Sylvia, by Delibes. It was of the Dresden china school, and was rendered as it should be, without too much seriousness and much delicacy.

It was throughout a colorful program, filled with rich tones and mellow harmonies. It was hardly a popular program; yet withal it was music of the classic and more sober sort. Exile showed strong impressionistic tendencies, yet its harmonies were not bizarre nor displeasing. An evening of excellent music, well played.

GABBARD ENTERS RACE FOR SENATE

Letcher P. Gabbard, a graduate student in the agricultural economics, has announced his candidacy for the Student Senate. Gabbard is in his second year at the graduate school and is of mature age. He has had experience at other universities in student government affairs. While at the University of Tennessee, he was instrumental in installing the honor system. He edited the university agricultural monthly publication at that same university.

MEMORIAL TO BE DEDICATED ON SATURDAY

Ceremony Will Be Held on Lower Campus in Afternoon

All classes will be dismissed on Saturday, Nov. 5, for Dedication day of the Memorial Union drive. A parade in the afternoon to be followed by dedication ceremonies on the lower campus will be the events during the day. Canvassers will start their solicitation for $100,000 to complete the fund after the ceremonies and a Memorial Union dance in Lathrop hall in the evening will complete the event. The city drive for $100,000 will start at the same time.

Parade at 1:30

At 1:30 a procession including the university cadet corps and floats from various organizations in the university will form on State street. The line of march will be down State to the capitol, around the square, and down Langdon street to the lower campus. Plans are being made to make this one of the most impressive parades Madison has ever witnessed. Arrangements are in charge of George Hazen '23.

The dedication of the site of the new Union building will be held on the lower campus at 3 o'clock. The land for the building on Langdon street from Park street to the Y. M. C. A. has been donated by the state.

Fallows to Officiate

Bishop Samuel Fallows of Chicago will be in charge of the ceremonies. Governor John J. Blaine will speak for the state and Dean Scott H. Goodnight for the university. A salute to Wisconsin's 122 soldiers killed in the war will be fired by the cadet corps. The flags will be hoisted at the same time on a 40 foot pole to be erected on the campus. Arthur Kinnan '22 is chairman of the committee working on the ceremony.

The Memorial Union dance, Gerald Koch '23, chairman, will take place in the parlors of Lathrop hall. The price of admission, $2.50 per couple, will go toward the fund. A feature orchestra will furnish the music for the evening.

HALL WILL SPEAK AT DISARMAMENT MEET THIS NOON

Prof. A. B. Hall of the Political Science department will speak at the first of the ten minute all-university mass meetings on the subject of disarmament to be held at Music hall at 11:50 beginning today, under the auspices of the Collegiate League of Women Voters.

The league has been successful in securing as ten-minute speakers such representative men in the field of political science as Dr. C. M. Otto of the department of Philosophy, who will speak Friday noon, Nov. 4; Carl Russell Fish for Nov. 7; Dean S. H. Goodnight and Dr. C. H. Stuart for Nov. 6.

Similar meetings are being held in colleges and universities all over the country to educate public opinion preparatory to the international disarmament conference which will meet in Washington, Nov. 12.

"Patriotism of the student body ought to register as accurately in the attendance of both men and women at these meetings," said Miss Sonya Forthall.

STEENBERG TELLS OF EXPERIENCES ON HEARST STAFF

Forty-two Make Application to Join University Press Club

"Well now I'm on a Hearst paper," thought David K. Steenberg, and he began chasing the story of a Jewish hair-pulling contest by the diplomatic route of interviewing neighborhood Greek tobacco merchants and taking on the role of an attorney.

Speaking before the University Press club at the regular fortnightly meeting in the dining room at Lathrop hall last night, David Steenberg '23, told in an intimate style his experiences and impressions as a cub reporter on the Milwaukee Wisconsin News last summer.

"I thought the hair pulling story was a good one, but the editor squelched my enthusiasm by ordering me to give my dope to a rewrite man to get up. Then I had a few days' trial at getting pictures of people and on a commercial run I met an old Wisconsin man who told me lots of jokes, but no news."

What people talk about at dinner, was a feature column that he drew as penance for getting "scooped" but that was offset by an extra edition occasioned by his telephoned report of a threatened milk famine. A report of the anti-vice crusade, local drownings, shootings and auto smash up, which involved amateur detective work, lead

CHICAGO AND OHIO PREPARE FOR BIG FIGHT

Saturday's Game Will Drop One as Title Contender

Knowing that the conflict next Saturday will mean elimination for one of them, the Chicago and Ohio State elevens are literally "working their heads off" to be in the best of shape for what may be the greatest western game of the year. If the Maroons beat Ohio, the Wisconsin-Chicago contest to be played on November 19 will probably surpass Saturday's struggle, but no other scheduled game can develop more interest than these two.

Chicago in Condition
Although it was supposed to have reached the peak of its game when it met Princeton, Chicago maintained its championship form by walloping Colorado 35 to 0, on Saturday. A practice game like this was exactly what was needed to keep the Chicagoans on edge for their battle with Ohio. Coach A. Alonzo Stagg was content with giving his regulars a short workout during the hour of play, and then injecting a flock of substitutes to roll up the big score. Because the Maroons have three sets of backfield men, each equally good, Colorado was unable to gain any advantage by the frequent shifts in the "Old Man's" lineup.

Ohio Won Last
In the game last year, Ohio State squeezed out a bare 7 to 6 victory over Chicago. Maroon followers will ever claim that it was a fluke victory, as will most of the teams which were beaten by the Buckeyes last year. The narrow, lucky, and last-minute wins were distinctly counter-balanced by a poor showing in the inter-sectional game with the University of California. While it is doubtful if any conference team could have beaten the "Golden State" athletes many feel that Wisconsin would have put up a better fight than did the hapless defenders of western superiority. It is safe to say that not a team in the Big Ten conference will pull for the Ohioans to beat Chicago at Stagg field Saturday.

Both teams have veteran lines. Spiers, Trott, and Captain "Truck" Meyers are a trio of high-class forwards on the Ohio State team. King, new center sensation, Captain "Chuck" McGuire, Crisler, Strohmeier, and Redmon are linemen that were instrumental in upsetting Princeton by a 9 to 0 score when the Maroons went east. Chicago appears to have the edge in backfield material, with "Bobby" Cole and Milton Romney able to run the team in big-league fashion.

Chicago and Ohio State have clean records, each having won two games this season. One will be eliminated in the coming battle, which will leave the winner to battle with Wisconsin and Iowa for a Big Ten championship in this year of wonderful teams.

Friends university, Wichita, Kan. had a football team. It won seven out of eight games in 1920. Not so friendly, wot?

Heidelberg university is not in Germany, but in Tiffin, Ohio. Its grid squad won seven and lost two games last year.

C. M. Pollock, Wisconsin, is eligible to referee Big Ten games.

WISCONSIN MAY LOSE HER STARS TO THE GOPHERS

"We may never see our darling boys again," is the refrain which Badger football enthusiasts will sing if a University of Minnesota petition goes through.

When Gopher fans heard their eleven took a 35 to 0 walloping, it is said students circulated a petition to exchange teams of Wisconsin and Minnesota. "Fair exchange is no robbery" declare the northerners, "you take our team, we'll take yours. You don't even need to bother about sending the men back to Minneapolis for their extra pair of socks. Minnesota fans probably figured that an Oss on crutches was worth a Williams on wheels. If Williams' playing on Saturday was any criterion, he could have been hampered by six 16-pound shots tied to his legs and still have pulled off those sensational runs.

Because Minnesota was so badly beaten by the Badgers, an additional clause will be added to the petition by Coach "Doc" Williams. It provides for handcuffs for Wisconsin backfield men. Their feet are also to be tied as for a three-legged race. Linesmen will have to count "100" out loud before they charge or go down under punts, and "Rollie" Williams will have to wear colored streamers to permit the Gopher tacklers to identify him. When a tackler touches the streamers, he will shout "It" and Williams will have to stop.

Reformers in other Big Ten schools are working up a plan to serve a warrant on Wisconsin for assault and battery. Jack Dempsey was summoned on this charge after he had knocked Carpentier into the Land of Nod, and Wisconsin may meet the same dastardly plan. Badger players will plead temporary insanity. They claim that no Wisconsin team has ever met the Gophers yet without going "nuts" over a chance to beat them.

Conference elevens are not worrying, however. They are going ahead with their work and some tough contests can be expected when Wisconsin lines up against Michigan on November 12, and Chicago on November 19 for the last games of the year.

Defeats Upset Eastern Claims of Superiority

Football followers in the East seem to be getting more surprises this year than they expected. Teams from other parts of the country have grown tired of hearing of Eastern supremacy and are rapidly proving that the easterners are no longer the leaders. This fact was brought out rather forcibly last Saturday when the team representing Center college defeated Harvard by a score of 6 to 0.

"Bo" Stars
"Bo" McMillan, all-American half back last year, was the star whose consistently brilliant playing was responsible to a very great extent for the victory. In the second period of the game, on a fake play, he carried the ball 35 yards over the goal. While Bartlett failed to kick goal, the additional point was never needed, for the Kentuckians broke up every attempt that the Crimson made to gain ground.

In the third quarter, Harvard opened up with an aerial attack that looked for a time as though it might produce results, but the spurt was only temporary. Harvard presented a strong lineup in the fourth quarter in a last desperate attempt to stave off defeat, but luck was against her, and when the final whistle blew the Crimson record of no defeats in five years was broken.

East vs. West
The Maroon victory over Princeton, combined with that of Center college over Harvard, will make it possible to compare the strength of the eastern champs with those of the west as soon as the pennant winners of the Big Ten conference and the Big Ten conferences are decided.

The other games that were played in the East ran fairly true to form. Yale, by virtue of a 38 to 7 victory over Brown, proved that it was a powerful eleven this year, and that it must be seriously considered as a championship claimant. The Bears have any number of men available, who, as the substitutes, made two touchdowns in the final quarter of the game.

Princeton hit its real stride for the first time this year when Virginia was taken into camp by a 34 to 0 score. Now that Lourie and Garrity are back into the game, the Tigers may finish up in a fastidious manner in the games against Harvard and Yale.

Penn State was victorious over Georgia Tech in the third inter-sectional clash of the season. The famed shift employed by the southern champions looked good during the first quarter, but "Killy" Killinger, nine-letter star, solved the situation and incidentally added a touchdown by receiving a kick-off and racing 90 yards for a touchdown.

Cornell forced the battered Dartmouth eleven further into the cellar by beating them 50 to 7.

WEATHER SLOWS TENNIS TOURNAY

Either Treadwell or Fanning seem the best bet for the winner of the tennis tournament. Due to the wet weather, there have been no matches played this past week-end.

The men remaining in the race for single championship are Barwig, Fanning, Bennett, Tredwell, Stebbins, Suhm, and Wright. These men are requested to play off the matches scheduled for them by the end of this week, so that the semi-finals can then be arranged.

No games in the doubles have been played lately, either. As things now stand, Bennett and Hentzen have to play Rector and Barwig. The winners of this match will meet Moulding and Wright, in the semi-finals. Tredwell and Gotfredson will play Erdman and Evans in the semi-finals. Coach Linden wants all of these matches played off as soon as possible.

FRESHMEN GET SET TO MEET SOPH ELEVEN

Lack of Substitutes is Handicap to Class of 1924

Freshman and Sophomore class football teams are finishing off their training for their annual game, which will be played on Saturday at Camp Randall. The exact time of the struggle has not yet been decided upon, but this will be announced later on in the week. As there will be no other attractions on Saturday, a large crowd is expected to be present when the rival classes go into action. The proceeds of this game will be used to send the freshman and all-American squads to Chicago for the Chicago-Varsity game on November 19. Both of these squads have been turning out faithfully all season to give the varsity scrimmage and the Chicago trip will be in the way of a reward for their services.

Frosh Look Good
Coach "Keg" Driver, of the freshman squad, has a likely looking squad ready to go into the game Saturday and will have 26 fast men ready to go in, besides those who have not yet made the first string squad. Substitutes are available for every position on the team, and they are in excellent condition for the game. The regulars have been playing together all season and although injury has taken away several first string men, Coach Driver has enough men to fill the shoes of the departed stars.

In scrimmage against the varsity the freshmen have shown class and many of the men on the squad this year are slated for a trial with the Varsity next year. The following are the first string men in the various positions: Centers, Koch, and Techemeyer; guards, Allard, Tuttle, Smedal, and Stangel; tackles, Harmon, Kingston, Techemeyer, and Collins; ends, Rippe, Pulaski, Diebra, Klencker; quarters, Graham, Millman, and Carter; left half backs, Nolte, Millman, and Peterson; right half backs, Harris, Arnett, and O'Brien; full backs, Radke, Peed and Miller. Besides (Continued on Page 8)

EAST AND WEST TO CLASH AGAIN IN GRID BATTLE

One of the most important inter-sectional games of the year will be contested when Notre Dame goes east to meet West Point on the soldiers' camp grounds next Saturday. It will be another test for a western eleven against the eastern style of play, and because both teams are representative of their section, the game will be watched with interest by exponents of both styles of play.

Notre Dame has one of the hardest driving outfits in the history of the institution. The backs are speedy, hit hard, and rarely fail to gain. The line is composed of veterans who have learned to produce a rough, battling game under the tutelage of Coach Knute Rockne. Army easily defeated Susquehanna, 53 to 0, in its last game. Notre Dame took a 28 to 7 struggle from the strong Indiana eleven.

One defeat blots the Indianans' record. Iowa handed them a 10 to 7 beating in the first big game for the two teams. It was a hard battle for Notre Dame to lose, and the eleven will strive to maintain its prestige of former years by "taking" Army next Saturday.

Notre Dame has always had an edge over the soldier team, and western fans are hoping that this year is no exception, for with East holding two victories over Wabash and Indiana to the West's win over Princeton, a chance to even up the score will be lost if the Hoosiers go

THE COUNCIL OF FORTY

The Council of Forty will meet tonight at 7:15 in the Green room, Y. M. C. A.

THE DISARMAMENT MASS MEETING

THE disarmament question has now become a world-wide issue that no nation dare ignore. The conference called next week in Washington will see assembled representatives of all the leading nations of the world.

It is doubtful if the question will be settled at that time. Even if some definite agreement on limitation is reached, the matter will be far from settled. Opponents of the plan believe it to be too visionary, at least for present needs. All admit, however, that not far in the future we may hope for limitation if not disarmament.

That the question will be repeatedly faced during the next decade is certain. The youth of today will be the men of tomorrow who must face this problem. How many who are now in college will soon be actively concerned in the development of some solution providing for disarmament.

When that time comes we should be prepared to meet it with logical and well formed views. It is not a subject that can be hastily disposed of, nor can we afford to neglect or delay its consideration.

To discuss this question from its various angles and to interpret for us the attitude taken by the leading nations of the world, arrangements have been made by university officials for a series of disarmament mass meetings.

Interesting and forceful speakers have consented to talk on this issue. The hour of 11:50 P. M. has been chosen so as to provide for a maximum attendance. Few have classes at that hour and relatively few will be unable to attend because of other conflicts.

Those that are interested should be able to hear at least one of the discussions on the subject. Whether cynic or idealist, radical or conservative, the question should at least be worthy of interest.

It is an opportunity worth taking advantage of. Opinions hastily or cursorily formed may be entirely changed after the thorough examination into the subject which these discussions will permit.

Professor A. B. Hall will lead the first disarmament mass meeting Wednesday at 11:50 in Music hall. The auditorium should be crowded, for it is a happy combination of a vital question and an interesting and forceful speaker.

AN OPEN FORUM

THE recent refusal of university officials to permit the use of the gymnasium for Professor Scott Nearing's lecture has the more clearly demonstrated the great of an open forum at the university.

Similar action in the past has prevented students from hearing lectures that are admitted elsewhere. Such actions have caused ill will to the university and considerable criticism among the students.

The great need for an open forum is manifest. At present the gymnasium is the nearest approach to such a platform. Lack of capacity and lack of permission to use it for certain occasions has shown the utter futility of the gymnasium as an open forum. Some speakers are prohibited from giving their lectures because they are too "radical." Others are prohibited because their lectures are of a sectarian nature.

Whether reactionary or radical, visionary or ultra-conservative, Christian Scientist, Catholic, or Protestant, there would be little likelihood of college students being harmed by hearing them.

Most of the students have minds of their own and are abundantly able to separate the chaff from the grain, the dross from the gold. They compose a critical audience and are thoroughly competent to judge for themselves the merits of a lecture and of a man.

An open forum where such advantages will be accorded them is provided for in the Union Memorial building. The main advantage of the Union Memorial as an open forum will be that it will be largely a student building and available at all times for worthy student activities.

At present during the basketball season the gymnasium is not available. That difficulty as well as others should be largely eliminated by having the Union Memorial.

WOMEN AND THE UNION

The splendid spirit shown by the women in the activities preliminary to the opening of the Memorial Union campaign is a challenge to the men. The women have attended the salesmanship classes with remarkable faithfulness. They have evinced an interest that exceeds all expectations. They are going out to sell life memberships in the Union.

They will forget the discourtesies which many of them had to undergo in the recent Home coming button sale and in the Badger drive. They are looking to the greater good. The men will do well to catch up with the women in loyalty.

Let us ALL build a home for Wisconsin spirit.

VARSITY AD CLUB

A retail selling plan including suggestive selling, and community sales day, was suggested as a means of restoring confidence to the business world by J. A. Hall, director of the educational division of the Associated Advertising clubs of the world, at a joint meeting of the city and university advertising clubs held last night.

"National advertising will not be effective," declared Mr. Hall, "unless we make the clerk in the retail store realize his place in the complete circle of marketing and make him learn his merchandise so thoroughly that he will be able to tell prospective customers the selling points of practically every article in the store."

SEATS SELL FAST FOR THE MICHIGAN
GAME ON NOV. 12

Reservations for about 10,000 seats have already been received for the Michigan game, according to the department of physical education. All $3 seats have been sold.

Because both Wisconsin and Michigan won last Saturday the crowd at the Michigan game will equal that of the Homecoming game," said T. E. Jones, chairman of the department.

The order in which the tickets are received will decide the order in which they are filled and the position of the seats, the same as was done with Homecoming orders. Four tickets per person is the maximum. Many Michigan alumni are located in Wisconsin and these will also swell the attendance.

Chicago game tickets will be sold on open sale only. They will be put on sale four days before the game and no student is entitled to more than two tickets.

One side of Stagg field, comprising 6,000 seats, have been reserved at the Chicago game for Wisconsin students and people of Madison. The prices range from $1 to $5, according to the position of the seats. The lowest price seats are back of the goal line. The price increases by half dollars as the location nears the center of the field. The $5 seats are the boxes.

The North-South game promises to be interesting to all backers of South Division for to date South has not been beaten and if she can weather Saturday's encounter, will have the city title within easy grasp. In the evening a Homecoming dance has been arranged for at the high school gymnasium.

Several of Wisconsin's athletic stars were onetime heroes at South Division and at least three of them will be in Milwaukee to take part in their high school homecoming on Saturday. They are Mike Knapp, Arlie Schardt, and "Shorty" Barr. Many others, of the high school's heroes, such as "Hank" Gillo, Calgate; "Ev" Milton, Transylvania; "Jawn" Milton, California; "Morrie" Reuter, Marquette; "Baarney" Traynor, Colgate; "Barney" Potratz, Middlebury; and "Pope" Stoddard, Milwaukee Normal, will also be on hand.

OBSERVATORY WILL WELCOME VISITORS

The observatory will be open to the public Wednesday, Nov. 2, at 8 p. m. when any one who wishes may look at the stars through the proper instruments.

What the telescope will be pointed at will be determined by the character of the night. If the evening is clear, the nebula lyra, a faint, cloudlike, self-luminous mass resembling a ring of smoke will be visible; but if the night is partly cloudy, the nebula lyra will not be distinguishable and Prof. G. C. Comstock will focus the telescope on the planet Uranus or on a double star.

"Very few planets are visible at the present time," says Professor Comstock, "due to the fact that they are now in the morning sky. There is no moon, and Jupiter and Saturn are both out of sight.

"Throughout the year the planets and the moon change in appearance, but the stars always remain the same."

AT THE ORPHEUM

Laura Pierpont, formerly co-starred with Taylor Granville, appears on Thursday's bill at the Orpheum in a new sketch of unique construction. In it Miss Pierpont portrays four distinct characters. She is said to give a careful and artistic delineation of each. "The Guiding Star" is the title and the author is Edgar Allen Wolff, who has given many good playlets to the vaudeville stage.

Of revolutions Central America has had its share and more. One of these upheavals caused the exile of Senor Zelaya from Nicaragua. The deposed president has a son who found his way into vaudeville by way of recuperating his fortunes. A fine musician, Don Alfonso Zelaya has won success by his individual talent and merit. This is his first appearance at the Orpheum.

Other good acts are found in the Orpheum's shows for the four days. Frazer and Peck, superfine gymnasts, are booked for a trampoline exhibition which is sure to be diverting. Ed. and Berdie Conrad sing nicely and Art Reat and her Brother entertain musically in a unique manner. Swan and Swan will have a dancing act. Pathe News and Aesop's Fables, complete the program. Edn Skelto and his concert orchestra will also be an important feature.

Three performances of the present vaudeville bill are scheduled for today, a matinee at 3 o'clock and two shows tonight starting at 7:15 and 9 o'clock. The bill contains several offerings of interest, from wire walking to circus clowning.

AT THE STRAND

Constance Binney in her latest Realart picture "The Case of Becky" will be shown at the Strand theater for four days starting today.

Briefly the story is that of a young girl, Dorothy Stone, who is under the hypnotic influence of Balzamo, a circus fakir. Terrorized by his cruelty she runs away and is harbored by a kindly woman and her son, John. Being in need of medical care they call in Dr. Emerson, widely known for his research along psychological lines.

Dorothy suddenly becomes a saucy, impish little witch, who insists that she is not Dorothy but Becky. Dr. Emerson diagnoses her case as one of peculiar dual personality, the subject going from one consciousness into another from no apparent cause. This greatly distresses John, who has fallen in love with the little ward.

The climax comes when Dr. Emerson is confronted by Balzamo. A thrilling hypnotic duel takes place between the men, something probably never before seen on the screen.

Motion pictures of the "Hobo Parade," the "Homecoming Game," and other university events will be the added feature attraction. There will also be shown a Pathe study in natural colors and a Hal Roach comedy.

Make Plans for 1922 State Road Program

Wisconsin's road building program for 1922 was discussed by Gov. Blaine and the state highway commission here late yesterday. Plans were made for spending the $15,000,000 which the commission expects will be available for construction the coming year.

This amount is nearly $9,000,000 less than the past season, when $24,000,000 was put into new roads, and maintenance of those already built. Cheaper construction costs for 1922 are expected to make possible the building of a new mileage almost up to that of 1921.

Gov. Blaine has always been an advocate of a complete system of highways such as has been mapped out by the state commission, and is known to be favorable to the program of A. R. Hirst, chief state highway engineer who has directed the road building work of Wisconsin since 1909.

Third Music Memory Contest

(A movement to acquaint Madison with the best music, through a contest in naming selections from hearing them. Open to everyone without fee or restrictions.)

Seventh Selection—For week beginning Oct. 30.

Rakoczy March, by Hector Berlioz, Born 1803 near Lyon, France; died 1869 at Paris.

Color and Music

Are colors associated with sounds? Some people find vivid relations between apparently widely different sensations. They say a trumpet call sounds red, for example; or a mauve velvet suggests the tone of a flute.

Some such ideas of the association of one sensation with another are at the root of the frequent musical use of the term tone-color. It is an extension of this idea which has led to so-called program music, or the attempt to attach definite meanings to musical tones. Berlioz was the first pronounced colorist in music, and the greatest advocate of program music. His Rakoczy March is an excellent example of strong musical coloring.

A Tempestuous Life

Hector Berlioz (pronounced bare-ly-ohs) is the romantic school personified. His passionate love for nature, its phantastic extravagance, its unrestrained emotional exuberance are, one may say, his by birth-right. His mother was a highly hysterical woman, whose personal influence on Hector's career was anything but a happy one. Nor was his career happy. His story is one unbroken series of struggles with adverse circumstances, such as poverty, hostility, jealousy, and downright ill-fortune, of empty triumphs and heart-breaking disappointments amid domestic and public griefs of every sort. In part he was to blame for his tragedy, for he was intractable and undisciplined, and raised up powerful enemies for himself. Moreover, the deficiencies of his early musical training prevented him from ever attaining during his lifetime the great popular success for which his soul thirsted with an agonizing intensity.

A Great Genius

Yet he was a great musical genius and no composer has ever written more spontaneous force or more vehement and volcanic energy. His imagination always seemed at white heat, and when aroused he could cover pages of complex orchestration with such stupendous rapidity that he was forced to invent a system of short hand to keep pace with his own ideas. He is often compared to Victor Hugo for his immense creative power, his exceptional gifts of oratory, and his ability to range at will over the entire gamut of human passion.

Berlioz As a Colorist

As master of orchestration his claim to the first rank is incontestable. His work marks a new era in this respect, and has been the guide of every composer since; and as a brilliant and audacious colorist, he may fairly claim his place among the immortals. Also he is one of the first composers to understand the value of massing musical sound, and some of his great works are today virtually beyond performance because of the tremendous scoring.

Origin of the Rakoczy March

Perhaps the most widely known of all his works is the cantata. The Damnation of Faust, consisting of a series of scenes suggested by Goethe's great dramatic poem. It was in the first scene of this work that Berlioz utilized the national Hungarian Rakocsy (pronounced Rah-ko'-tsee) march. This march has been known to history since 1705, and derives its name from a national Hungarian figure with whom it was a favorite. When Berlioz visited Budapest in the year 1846, in order to give a concert of his own works, he planned as a special surprise to play the national march in his own orchestration. The result was an unexampled personal triumph, and induced Berlioz—who was always pressed for time—to transfer to first scene of his Damnation of Faust to Hungary, so that he could bring in this march. It is introduced at the point where Faust, in the Hungarian plain, sees the Hungarian army marching past. The Composition Analyzed

After a few bars of trumpet calls, forte (loud), the main theme begins, piano (soft), a vigorous marching strain in eight bars, which are repeated. The second theme is of similar character, but with a dotted figure and a transition to the first bars of theme I. This material is used in a short development, after which comes theme III in the key of A, a melodious air of descending character with a triplet figure as accompaniment. A few bars of crashing chords are followed by a development pianissimo based on the first theme, which followed by a development pianissimo based on the first theme, which begins in the lower register and climbs steadily in pitch and volume, until the full power of an immense orchestra is thrown into the restatement of the original theme, on which the composer plays with masterly skill in a splendid final passage. The very spirit of martial valor is in this stirring music. Even the most prosaic listener can easily imagine that he hears horses prancing and trumpets blaring; and that he sees the sun shining on glittering trappings with pennons and banners waving. Liszt has, in his Fifteenth Hungarian Rhapsody, presented a brilliant transcription for piano of the Rakocsy March.

No Further Cut in Bread Prices Here

"Milwaukee bakers have yet to come down in prices before they can compete with Madison bakers," said the managers of several local baking firms.

This statement follows the announcement by the president of the Milwaukee Master Bakers' association that bread prices in Milwaukee will be cut 10 per cent.

Not only have local merchants lower prices now than those to prevail in Milwaukee following the 10 per cent reduction.

PRINCE STARTING SECOND JOURNEY ABOUT THE GLOBE

The Prince of Wales and the British dreadnaught Renown, on which he has embarked.

The Prince of Wales, home but a short time from his first trip to many parts of the globe, has left England for India—his first stop on another globe-trotting jaunt. His visit to India at this time of unrest there is another indication of the prince's popularity and fearlessness. British leaders point out the heir to Britain's throne will visit Canada and possibly the U. S. during his trip.

first semester. Giles was chosen to head the cadet corps of all high schools in the state of New York. He is a pledge of the Theta Chi fraternity.

Jane Truesdale, a graduate of the Scott high school, Toledo, Ohio, is running for secretary on the ticket. She is a Pi Beta Phi pledge. While in high school she was a member of the literary society, president of the debating team, a member of the girls' basketball team, committee chairman on the junior prom, a member of Periclean, a school dramatic society, and a committee chairman in charge of the senior banquet. She also took an active part in all the plays given by the high school.

Paul K. Ray, Chicago, is up for position as sergeant-at-arms on the ticket. Ray took an active part in high school activities, mainly in dramatics and debating. He was also a member of the school literary society.

FROSH MAKE READY FOR SOPHS

these men, there are many more who are turning out and who will be available if they are needed on Saturday.

Coach Guy B. Lowman of the sophomore squad will have a more difficult job than Coach Driver in providing his men into a workable combination. Besides being at a disadvantage in regard to team work, the sophomores will lack substitutes, when they trot on to the field on Saturday. However, in spite of the handicaps before them, the sophomores will put up a scrap on Saturday before bowing to their opponents. They have been turning out regularly for the past two weeks and Coach Lowman gave them several plays in addition to their regular formations, last evening, so that they will have a few things up their sleeves when they need them Saturday.

Many of the sophs have been playing on the all-American squad this season but others of them have not been out for football since last spring; but with all of these handicaps, they will go into the game with good prospects of victory. Among the regulars on Coach Lowman's eleven are: Hendricks and Echweiller, two fast tackles. The former is a good man who has had experience on the Fresh squad last year. Echweiller has been turning out with the all-Americans this season.

At guard, Leibenstein and Paige are the two most likely candidates, both of whom have had experience on the freshman team last season. Schlatter, another husky guard, is slated to break into the game although he is handicapped by lack of experience. At end, Craig and Carlson will be the two kingpins. The former was elected captain in place of Ben Pearse, who was taken up to the Varsity last week. Pearse is a center with good prospects and Coach Richards decided to give him a tryout in fast company. He may get a chance to get in the game if Richards will allow him to leave the Varsity for the rest of the week. Carlson was injured early in the season while trying out for the Varsity and will be relegated to the sophs for the battle. The center of the line will be guarded by Altan, in case Captain Pearse does not play.

Sarii, and Roberts, two light but fast men will hold down the half-back positions; both have had experience but are too light for Varsity work. Stoll will play fullback and Barries will call 'em from quarter.

In addition to the sophomore-freshman game, the athletic department will run a special wire out to Camp Randall and will give a detailed play by play account of the Ohio State-Chicago game, which will be played at the same time. This game is one of the crucial contests of the season and upon its outcome Wisconsin will base her chances for the championship. Iowa and Minnesota are also mixing on Saturday and this game will be followed by the crowd from Randall, although the Ohio-Chicago game will be given the most publicity.

Each year the freshmen-sophomore game attracts greater interest among the student body and Tom E. Jones, physical director of the university, expects a large crowd out and is preparing to handle it in an efficient manner.
