Vasiliev-Gillen Give Rare Musical Treat

"Leaves from Diary of Dead Artist" Reveals New Found Art Expression

BY M. L. B.

A unique experience was accorded the appreciative audience that heard the musical reading recital presented by Prof. A. A. Vasiliev and Prof. C. F. Gillen in Bascom theater last evening. The outstanding feature of the two-part recital was "Leaves from the Diary of a Dead Artist," read by Prof. Gillen to the accompaniment of music composed and played by Prof. Vasiliev.

A new form of artistic expression was revealed in the absolute unity of the music and the literature. Mr. Vasiliev's composition served not to embellish the text, but to interpret it. As the shifting series of colorful imaginative pictures changed, so did the musical score change tempo and spirit to heighten the illusion of actual experience.

Recital Very Successful

From plaintive poetical musings to the lyrical notes of the nightingale, from the sunset calm of a Russian garden to the ceremonial splendor of a far off cathedral, the mind and ear followed in an unbroken chain of magical fancy. Mr. Gillen and Mr. Vasiliev are to be congratulated upon formulating so unusual and successful a recital.

The first half of the recital followed the conventional concert procedure. The program consisted of two groups of piano solos by Mr. Vasiliev, first a "Nocturne" and a "Serenade" by Borodine, and "Twilight" by Cui. As an encore Mr. Vasiliev played Tchaikowsky's "All For You."

The recital was a laudable example of the "esprit de corps" of these members of the faculty in offering their talents and time for the furthering of a university project. The concert was given for the benefit of the music and art room of the Memorial union.

LAST OF '28 BADGERS AVAILABLE NEXT WEEK

One hundred and fifty 1928 Badgers remain undistributed, according to Louis B. Grambs '27, business manager. Owners will have the opportunity to get the books next Thursday afternoon between the hours of 2:30 and 5 o'clock in the Badger office located in the Union building. This will be the only chance available this semester for those who have failed to get their books. After that date, the disposal of them will be turned over to the Badger staff.

There also remains a limited supply of unsold 1928 Badgers which will be offered for sale at the same time for the price of $5.00.

Troutman Wants More Male Types

Tryouts for "He Who Gets Slapped in Progress; Clowns Needed

Tryouts for the second Wisconsin University players production of the year, "He Who Gets Slapped," a tragedy by Leonid Andreyev, will be held this afternoon at 3:30 in Bascom theater.

Prof. William C. Troutman who will direct the production, is especially anxious to have a large number of men tryout for parts in the cast of this play. The cast calls for many character actors, musical clowns, acrobats, ballet dancers, strong man, juggler, circus managers, being some of the types required.

The most difficult role in the cast will be that of Mancini, a part calling for an Italian count in a comedy role.

Tryouts for this play will be held every afternoon in the theater from 3:30 until 6 o'clock until the middle of next week when the final cast will be selected. Rehearsals will then start at once.

A change in the tryout plan will be tested for this production. Private tryouts will be given to each student in an effort to overcome self-consciousness and stage fright on the part of the contestants.

Art Work Features New Style Number of Octopus, Out Soon

The coming Style number of Octopus will be featured by an unusual amount of high class art work. Several new and extremely promising artists have been uncovered and whose work will appear in this issue.

The cover, an especially attractive four color drawing, was done by Peg Drake, a Madison girl and one of the leading college comic artists in the country.

The Magician, is the title of a startling modern decorative pen drawing by a freshman boy just arrived in this country from Jugoslavia. The drawing is in a finished European technique. The artist's name is Gyula Molnar, but he has changed it to Julius Miller to facilitate pronunciation and spelling.

According to the editors of College Humor, the art work in Octopus is the most uniformly strong of any college publication in the country. Octopus artists understand and carry out the three essentials of good humor magazine drawing: the illustrations must be funny, they must be well composed and drawn, and they must have immaculate line work.

California Professor Presents Illustrated Botany Lecture Today

Under the auspices of the department of botany, Professor E. D. Merrill of the University of California, will give an illustrated lecture this evening at 7:30 p. m. in the auditorium of the Biology building. The subject of his lecture will be, "The Correlation of Geologic History with the Geographic Distribution of Plants and Animals of Malaysia."

Professor Merrill was for a number of years director of the bureau of science in the Philippines as well as head of the botany department in the University of the Philippines and editor of the "Philippine Journal of Science." He has devoted many years to the special study of animal and plant distribution throughout China, the Philippines, Bornea, and other parts of Malaysia, and possesses a vast fund of interesting information to impart to his audience upon this subject.

Experimental College Students Just Given Ingenious Examination

The question of whether or not examinations will be given in the Experimental college was answered yesterday when the students in the college took their first quiz. The examination had been announced a week before as designed to test the thoroughness of reading of the first two weeks' assignments.

The test was in the form of a series of incomplete statements that had four or five answers tacked on the end. The student had to indicate which of the answers made a true statement. Although the examination was generally regarded as a fair one, many of the students could not make up their minds as to whether it was a mere fact-finding exam or a clever and catchy quiz. Dr. Meiklejohn had previously described the examination as "ingeniously cruel" and Mr. Saunders, one of the advisers, ventured that it might be called "cruelly ingenious."

MISS WHITE GUEST AT FROSH W. U. C. A. TEA

Miss Helen White of the department of English who has recently returned from her "Literary Pilgrimage," a conducted tour to Europe for university women, will be the guest of honor at the second of a series of teas being held for freshman women at the city Y. W. C. A. State street instead of Carroll, and Dayton, as the invitations stated.

ADVERTISING WORKERS

All prospective advertising workers are asked to sign up in the business office of the Daily Cardinal at 2:30 during the week and on Saturday from 9 to 12 o'clock.

'Varsity Out!' for Mass Meeting at 7:30 Tonight

Thistletonwaite, Crofoot, Steinauer, Hall, Samp and Others to Speak

A monster mass meeting will be called tonight on the lower campus at 7:30 o'clock by Wesley P. Bliffert '29, varsity cheer leader.

Besides the band and the cheerleaders there will be Coach Glenn Thistletonwaite, Joe Steinauer, Capt. "Toad" Crofoot, and Larry Hall, who will speak from the platform on the campus. Edward Samp '11, famous Badger grid star will be the keynote speaker of the evening.

ATTENTION! CHEERING SECTIONS!

Students in the cheering sections, G and H, and those in F and I, who are in the "W", are requested to report at the Co-op before Saturday noon to get their cane pennants. They will be told there whether to get red or white pennants.

Huge "W" Planned

Bliffert and his staff have been working hard all week to arouse "the old Wisconsin fight." The varsity cheerleader has planned a huge block "W" to hurl defiance to the invading Wolverines tomorrow afternoon. The "W" will be 32 rows high and will extend through sections F, G, H, and I.

Red and white Wisconsin pennants will furnish the coloring of the letter which will have a white background and a cardinal colored center.

MICHIGAN BAND NOT TO ACCOMPANY TEAM

The student band of Michigan university will not be able to accompany its team to Madison for Saturday's game, according to a telegram received yesterday morning by Maj. E. W. Murphy, director of Wisconsin band. The message came from the student manager of the band and expressed regret that it would not be possible for Michigan musicians to come here and added the hope that the two university bands will be able to consolidate again at next year's game.

Grecian Dramas to be Produced

Experimental College Students Present Plays Under Wolfson

As part of the work of the Experimental college, several students in it are organizing the production of "The Clouds" of Aristophanes. Insofar as is possible the technique of the ancient Greek stage will be adhered to.

The play will be directed by Victor Wolfson, one of the students in the Experimental college. Mr. Wolfson has acted in productions of the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York City. There is, as yet, no definite date for the showing of the play. When the cast thinks that they have reached a sufficient degree of excellence, they will set a date and a place.

"The Clouds" is a satire on Socrates and his disciples and was read by Experimental college students in connection with their study of the "Four Socratic Dialogues." The cast is as follows: Socrates, Arthur Frisch; Strepsiades, David Conoley, Pheidippides, Edward Rose, Pasias, Neal Kuehne, Amynias, Fred Thomas, and others.

CARDINAL ASSIGNMENTS

Cardinal assignments will be given out from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m. on Saturdays starting Oct. 15. This will enable reporters to get their material written before noon. All reporters who have signed up for Saturday work will be expected.

"Beat Michigan!" is Keynote of Spirited Program for Game

"Beat Michigan!"

Catching up the phrase that is throbbing throughout the university, the program for the Badger-Wolverine game has gone to press to make its appearance at Camp Randall, Saturday afternoon, an hour before the two elevens engage in what promises to be a classic struggle.

From the flaming, spirited cover drawn by John Alcott '28, to the twenty-fourth page, the program is chuck full of Wisconsin fight, action pictures, and interesting data on the opposing teams.

The names, numbers, weight, and years of varsity experience of all the members of the Wisconsin and Michigan squads, the probable lineups, a scoring card, the new rules, the songs and cheers of both universities—are all contained in a complete program.

Articles on the athletic directors, George E. Little of Wisconsin and Fielding H. Yost of Michigan; and on the coaches, Glenn F. Thistletonwaite of Wisconsin and Elton "Tad" Wieman of Michigan, are a few more of its interesting features.

To the 40,000 or more spectators at this annual clash of wits and brawn between the Badger and the Wolverine, the magazine will be an aid to enjoying and understanding the game.

Badger Spirit Increases As Game Nears

White Paint and Cheer Leaders Much in Evidence

"Yump on Yost!"

The men sure painted the town white the night before last! If names were to be revealed they would doubtless be hailed as the greatest outdoor decorators ever produced by the campus.

Then at the lunch hour, a semi-phantom of the gridiron concealed himself within the Union building, talked to the men, pleaded with the girls, yelled encouragement, begged for spirit. And as the formerly languid crowd heeded its way toward Bascom, the distant shrills of the megaphone still echoed and sent quivering thrills up their backs.

Even sophisticated Greeks that had ceased to be aroused since their "bib and tucker" days, could be heard heatedly discussing the approaching tests. Feminine indignation was awakened—"Why I should say Michigan won't win." Graceful French heels stamped the side walk impatiently as some one in the crowd stubbornly upheld a pessimistic attitude.

The Cardinal staff itself was a decoration of freedom from the "jinx" that has attached itself to the Badger teams. The front page blazed defiance—it will continue to do so until Gilbert, Oosterbaan, and company, deflate their pet football, and limp to the side lines.

The fun will continue today—at noon, voices will repeat their pleases, white paint will greet those who walk, and even car drivers will have their attention diverted by "Beat Michigan" signs instead of stop signals.

In the evening by the moonlight just when the grey waves of the lake disappear from view and when the feminine world usually holds sway, men will forget their promises to call at 8:15, and will be listening to speakers, cheering them lustily, developing hoarse throats from shrieking "Beat Michigan, Yump on Yost!"

EAST SIDE DELIVERY

Students living on the East Side of Madison can now be assured of delivery of their Cardinals the same morning of publication by a new arrangement whereby these copies are mailed from Station A.

Will Run for Senior Class President on Same Ticket

BY R. F. G.

Campus politics took another step into the limelight last night when a group of seniors met and, with harmony as the watchword, nominated two candidates for president. Mr. Edwin Crofoot and Mr. Harry Thoma; one vice president, Miss Mary Louise Campbell; one secretary, Miss Jo Barker; one treasurer, Mr. Arthur Anderson; and one sergeant at arms, Mr. William Clark.

The 60 veterans of three political campaigns who were at the meeting included such men as Mr. Jack Cavanaugh, Mr. Bev Murphy, Mr. Ed Larkin, and Mr. Jack Wilson. These famous political bosses of the past gave it out that they were sick and tired of campaigning and things like that, so they passed a resolution that there would be no campaigning for the senior presidency.

Harmony Prevails

The meeting started with a speech on harmony by chairman Gil Smith. Then someone else made a speech on harmony and nominated Mr. Crofoot. This was followed by another speech on harmony and the nomination of Mr. Thoma.

Mr. Thoma was then sent into the great outdoors so that he could be discussed without shame by the politicians. Mr. Crofoot was not present so he didn't know that they were going to talk about him. While Mr. Thoma was absent, Mr. Ed Larkin rose and warned the assembled seniors that there was a dark horse planning to take the field. Mr. Larkin denied that he was going to back this new candidate if he ran.

Then in spite of the dire predictions of one Mr. Cavanaugh, the group decided that if one of the presidential candidates got a three-fourths majority that everyone should support him.

No Majority Reached

Balloting proceeded after Mr. Gil Smith had made another speech on harmony and as neither Mr. Crofoot or Mr. Thoma had a three-fourths majority, it was decided that the group would support both men. The ballots stood 40 for Mr. Crofoot and 20 for Mr. Thoma.

Miss Mary Lou Campbell was nominated vice president, following another harmony speech by the chairman or somebody in which it was stated that "Political campaigns tear people apart."

Elect Barker Secretary

Miss Jo Barker was elected secretary on the pseudo-ticket. Mr. Jack Wilson suggested that Mr. Arthur Anderson would be a good treasurer and he was placed on the ticket as such. Mr. William Clark, president of the class last year, filled out the list as sergeant at arms.

The elections were followed by a series of harmony speeches and a resolution against campaigning. The majority of the ex-bosses seemed well satisfied with the double threat ticket, although Mr. Jack Cavanaugh could be heard making pessimistic remarks to Mr. Gil Smith after the meeting. Mr. Ed Larkin vanished and could not be interviewed about the identity of his dark horse.

Senator Blaine Praises Memory of Late Federation Founder

Dedication of a memorial to the late Senator Henry Krumrey, founder and first president of the Wisconsin Cheese Producers' federation, drew 300 persons to Agriculture hall yesterday afternoon. The meeting was not held outside as planned because of inclement weather.

The memorial consists of a bronze tablet on the side of a huge boulder. This boulder is placed directly west of the dairy building, only a short distance from the road that leads to Mendota drive.

Senator Blaine emphasized that if Henry Krumery were alive today, he would not be content to rest on his past achievements, but he would labor unceasingly to promote interests of farmers not only by the formation of co-operative groups, but by demanding legislation that would equalize the tariff burden, of which the farmers are bearing the brunt.

Mr. Lacher concluded the exercises in Agriculture hall with a sketch of the life of Senator Krumery. The meeting then went to the site of the memorial where Dean Russell made a short talk before it was unveiled by grandchildren of the founder.

A similar memorial will be unveiled on the federation grounds at Plymouth, Sunday.

JOURNALISM HELPED BY WOMEN'S WORK

"Journalism is a fitting profession for women, and women are fitted for journalism." This is the opinion of Mrs. J. C. Mack of Newton, Kansas. Mrs. Mack is the daughter of Noble Prentiss, former editor of the Kansas City Star. She is recognized as a very capable journalist by others in the field.

In speaking of women's qualifications for this profession, Mrs. Mack said that they were better spellers than men, and more careful in their grammar. Women look out for details, and observe the four 'W's'—why, where, what, and who. Women also have good memories, and can give a human interest touch to a story, that a man could not.

Mrs. Mack further said that the flapper type was not fitted for journalism, nor for any other profession, and because a flapper lacks dignity, she does not make a good newspaper woman.

Mrs. Mack pointed out that she was making these statements from the angle of "Women in Journalism" and not from any wish to discredit the men in the profession.

All-Americans, Freshmen, Phy-Ed and Intramural Teams in League

BY HAROLD DUBINSKY

Wisconsin's recently organized Quadrangular football league was successfully inaugurated Thursday afternoon when the "Embryo Coaches," a team composed of freshmen from the four year course in physical education, triumphed over George Little's "Dragoons" composed of Intramural football stars by a score of 6-0.

The dedication of the infant league was by no means gentle. To the contrary it was a vigorous tackling football game, climaxed only when two successive teams of Embryo coaches finally battered the less numerous and gradually weakening Intramural team into a stubborn submission and scored a single touchdown in the third quarter a twenty yard run by Derbyshire, brilliant quarterback on the Phy-Ed team.

This was the first game of the new league which is to be composed of four teams: All-Americans, Freshman, Phy-Ed, and Intramural teams. There were no crowded stands to encourage the plunging and blocking athletes. No enthusiastic cheer leaders to lead the spectators in moral support. These men fought for supremacy before a small assemblage of true football enthusiasts. They battled, not for the cheers of the assemblage, but for the pure spirit of victory and supremacy.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY OFF WITH FAST MATCHES

Women's intramurals are getting under way with the most auspicious of omens, the weather man not having succeeded in foiling any of the matches, of either the horseshoe or hockey tournaments.

Phi Mu's Lose

Yesterday afternoon the opening game of the hockey tournament was run off between the Phi Mu's and 248 Langdon. According to Miss Marcia Winn, instructor in physical education who witnessed the game, the playing was especially good, the teams being evenly matched. The match resulted in a 3 to 0 victory for the 248 Langdon team.

The All Americans lost their match by default to Beta Sigma Omicron.

The hockey tournament will be continued tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock with the playing off of three games on the women's field at Camp Randall.

Play Horseshoes Today

Eight horseshoe matches, which promise to be especially interesting due to the fact that every team has already played at least once before, will be run off at 3:30 and 4:30 o'clock this afternoon on the Lathrop courts.

The horseshoe schedule for today follows:

3:30 Matches

Chi Omega vs. Tri Delt.
Kappa Delta vs. Sigma.
Grads vs. Green Lantern.
Alpha Gamma Delta vs. Gamma.
Phi Beta.

4:30 Matches

Alpha Chi Omega vs. Beta Sigma Omicron.
Alpha Delta Pi vs. Barnard.
Phi Mu vs. Alpha Epsilon Phi.
Alpha Omicron Pi vs. Phi Omega Pi.

VARSITY BASEBALL

All candidates for varsity baseball report to the gym this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

MOVIES SAFE FOR AMERICAN WOMEN

NEW YORK—Aimed at making the movies safe for the American moron, and so for the rest of the public, a resolution embodying a list of "won't" for producers was offered today by Louis B. Mayer of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, at the opening session of the Trade Practice conference called by the federal trade commission.

It was resolved that special care be exercised in the movie portrayal of theft, robbery, safe cracking and dynamiting of trains, mines, buildings, etc., "having in mind the effect which a too detailed description of these may have upon the moron."

Among other "won'ts" which Mayer, speaking for the 45 companies comprising the motion picture producers and distributors of America, Inc., asked the conference to adopt, were the film dissemination of profanity, portrayal of nudity, traffic in drugs, ridicule of the clergy, offense to any nation, race or creed, arson, use of firearms, technique of murder, methods of smuggling and sedition.

STOP MICHIGAN!

Intaramurals

Greek Games Today

Alpha Tau Omega vs. Pi Kappa Alpha, Intramural field No. 2-3:30.
Phi Kappa vs. Theta Chi, Intramural field No. 2-4:30.

Beta Theta Pi vs. Sigma Chi, intramural field No. 1-3:30.
Phi Kappa Sigma vs. Theta Xi, Intramural field No. 1-4:30.

Beta Kappa vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon, South field-3:30.
Phi Kappa Psi vs. Theta Delta Chi, South field-4:30.

Twelve Games Today

Twelve fraternity touch football sevens will swing into action this afternoon on Intramural field and South field in the third round of the touch football chase.

The A. T. O's will tangle with the redoubtable Pi K. A. crew this afternoon on Intramural field. The A. T. O's have not appeared in action thus far this season, but they are conceded a bare chance to upset the Pi K. A.'s, who defeated the Phi Kaps 19-0 last Saturday.

Theta Chi will have a battle on its hands this afternoon against Phi Kappa at 4:30 on Intramural field. Theta Chi defeated Delta Upsilon 13-0 last Saturday, while Phi Kappa succumbed to Pi Kappa Alpha. Both teams have an excellent passing attack, and the team completing the most passes should win.

Sig Chi Favored

The Sig Chis will run up against the Betas at 3:30 on Intramural field. On the basis of both teams' showing in the first round Sigma Chi should come out victorious. The Sig Chis defeated the Phi Kappa Sigs 6-0 last Saturday, while the Betas downed the Delta Sigma Taus by a 7-3 score. The Betas will have to watch closely Don Derbyshire, star Sig Chi fullback.

The powerful Theta Xi seven will meet the Phi Kappa Sigs at 4:30 on Intramural field. The Theta Xi's defeated Delta Sigma Tau Sunday morning in a 6-0 game, while the Phi Kappa Sigs fell before Sigma Chi Saturday. The Theta Xi passing offensive is strengthened greatly by the presence of Hank Kowalczyk and Clem Wiswell in the backfield.

Evenly Matched

The game between Beta Kappa and Sigma Alpha Epsilon this afternoon on South field at 3:30 is a toss up. Beta Kappa displayed a great deal of potential strength in their tie game with Farm House last Saturday, while the S. A. E.'s downed the Phi Psi's in their postponed game last Monday.

The Phi Psi's and the Theta Delt's will meet in the 4:30 game on South field. Both teams have yet to score a victory this season, and the contest should be a furious one to determine who will remain in the cellar. The Phi Psi's lost to the S. A. E.'s while the Theta Delt's lost to Farm House.

Play Postponed Game

Phi Kappa Tau will play Triangle this afternoon in a postponed game. Phi Kappa Tau has two wins in its two starts this season and should win from Triangle, who lost Sunday to Kappa Sigma.

Training Table Tips

Come, fellows, let us defeat our opponents.

* * *

Figured mathematically, 32 hours now remain before all we loyal Badgers out for sure whether we've got anything to cheer about or not. The expense is terrible, ain't it?

Seeking always to give our readers second-hand information on first-hand subjects, we submit the following carefully studied report on the zoological background of Saturday's game:

Wolverine — a meat-eating animal which raises its own fur-coat and holds forth as one of the ritzier members of the weasel family.

Scientists have nick-named it gulo luscus after the best approved scientific manner. The Wolverine measures about two and one-half feet in length and is built too close to the ground to be considered graceful. For voracity, cunning, and habitual unsociability,

Michigan Squad of Thirty-Two Arrives Today

Wolverines in Good Shape for Coming Battle; Plan
Surprise Offensive

BY HERBERT E. VEDDER

Sports Editor of Michigan Daily
ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 13—Michigan's Varsity football squad went through its final workout preliminary to the opening Conference game of the season this afternoon and will entrain for Madison at 11:52 tonight with a squad of 40 men.

Thirty-four players are included on the list while Coaches Wieman, Kipke, and Brown, Director Yost, Trainer Hoyt and Harry Tillotson, business manager of the Athletic association, complete the Wolverine party.

The players making the trip include Captain Oosterbaan, Hoffman, Gilbert, Babcock, Baer, Boden, Bovard, Greenwald, Fuller, Grinnell, Harrigan, Gabel, Geistert, Taylor, Heston, Poorman, Poe, Miller, Gembris, Nicholson, Thisted, Palmeroli, Pommerring, Puckelwartz, Rich, Schoenfeld, Weber, Domhoff, Whittle, Walder, Robbins, McBride, Nyland, and Cragin.

Take Easy Drill

Today's practice consisted of a signal drill and light work on defense against a dummy Wisconsin team while yesterday's practice consisted mainly of work on an offense.

Offense Secret

What type of offense the Wolverines will employ still lies a deep, dark secret. It is probable, however, that Michigan will rely on her running attack for most of the gains with the pass coming into play mainly as a scoring play.

Need Puckelwartz

To how great extent the pass will be used will depend largely upon whether Puckelwartz is in the game. Puckelwartz is the best passer on the squad though Gilbert and Hoffman are also proficient in this department. Puckelwartz has been practicing with the squad all week and if his hand is knit sufficiently, will start. In all likelihood he will see part of the game if he is not in at the opening whistle.

The running attack has been building up steadily with off tackle plays and short end runs its principal features. An occasional long end run or buck is mixed in now and then, but not used as a general thing. Last Saturday Rich plunged over from the three yard line to make the second touchdown, this being something unusual in the Michigan attack.

Gilbert Good

Louis Gilbert, center cog in the Wolverine machine, is back in good shape following his ankle injury last Saturday, and is expected to play a big part in the game. He is a good passer, and runs with proverbial "snake hips" in addition to being the kicking mainstay. He punts and kicks goals from placement as well.

Backfield Fast

In Babcock and Hoffman, Coach Wieman has two mighty fast little backs. They weigh 157 and 149 pounds respectively. Rich, 180 pounds being the heaviest man in the backfield, the regular quartet average only 162 lbs. Hoffman stars as a passer and pass receiver while Babcock's main suit is in skirting the ends.

As to the line, Capt. Benny Oosterbaan needs no introductions as an end. Taylor, sophomore star, is back in shape again now so the ends will be more than well taken care of. Bovard, sophomore center, will be playing his first varsity football, but Baer, and Palmeroli, guards and Gabel, tackle, have all seen plenty of competition.

its equal is hard to find, even if one wanted to. Because of its ravenous appetite, the wolverine is colloquially known as the "glutton." By the merest coincidence, the full-grown animal has 38 teeth. Remember, Michigan 38, Wisconsin 0 in 1926.

Badger—also carnivorous and likewise fur-bearing. Hangs its hat in the Melinae family home, and is somewhat distantly associated with the weasels. Your well-built badger has just enough leg to keep him from scraping bottom, and is quite apparently constructed for service. He is noted for great strength, courage and cunning and used frequently to whip three times his weight in dogs when required to do so by the old English amusement of badger-baiting.

Dope Sheet at 'Dad' Morgan's Shows Wisconsin Men Favor Michigan Win

BY BERNARD J. DUFFY

Dopesters of football, 100 of them, University of Wisconsin men students, predict that Michigan will beat Wisconsin Saturday at Camp Randall. The vote is 46 to 44, ten men calling it a tie. The score, taking the average, will be Michigan 11, Wisconsin 9 1-2.

Naturally this score doesn't mean that Michigan will win by any such unusual score, but indicates that these 100 Wisconsin football fans concede Michigan to be a point or two better than their own gridiron warriors. This is somewhat surprising for there seems to be a spirit of optimism, an undercurrent of an approaching triumph, prevailing on the campus, after having the Cardinal trampled in the dirt the past several years.

It is the opinion of most of these dopesters that Michigan will win by one or two touchdowns instead of one or two points, as the average shows, but there is an almost equal number who think that Wisconsin will win by one touchdown and maybe two. There are few decisive scores either way, the two extremes being Wisconsin 25, Michigan 0, and Michigan 28, Wisconsin 0.

This seems to indicate that the game will not be a track meet or a basketball game as the contest of last year might be classed when the Maize and Blue ran and passed Bennie to Bennie) its way to 38 points while holding the Cardinal scoreless. Michigan is supposedly weak this year, and it is safe to say that the two ancient rivals will battle on even terms, which however, is said not to weaken Wisconsin's football prestige. Most of the so-called experts pick Michigan to win as usual.

The opinion of these Wisconsin students may be taken as honest for with money at stake, (uh-huh, there is a catch to it, we aren't an inquiring reporter after all), it is needless to say that sentiment wouldn't interfere with some extra cash. This census was taken at "Dad" Morgan's place on State street where most of the "experts," not pool hall, of course, hang out. One card board with 136 scores has already been filled out and the second is going fast. Not all of these predictions were considered for some men had more than one choice of a score. In this case the first one was considered to be the dopester's (or guessers, as you prefer), best bet, which may or may not be the case.

In this kind of a "game" there are many unusual scores, because the winner does not desire to share his prize with five or ten others. All or none is apparently the motto of many. This, however, should not affect the choosing of the winning team.

It is interesting to note that as the time of the game approaches, the pendulum is gradually swinging toward a Michigan victory. The first of the 25 guesses on the board read 19 for Wisconsin and 6 for Michigan, while the last of the hundred showed a strong Michigan prevalence.

The writer predicts: Michigan 19, Wisconsin 6. (Kindly withhold the ripe vegetables.) Anyway, here's hoping I'm wrong.

FROSH BASKETEERS LEARN FUNDAMENTALS

The freshman basketball squad, which originally numbered over 200, has been cut to seventy-five men. These men are working three times a week, learning the mysterious particulars of the "Meanwell system" under the coaching of Les Gage and Rollie Barnum.

The style of basketball played here is different from that employed by other schools in the fact that the Badger cagers are the pioneers in revolutionary types of basketball play. The short pass game originated here, and each year the Badgers have a new variation to the already famous and often copied "system."

There is much fine material for a strong Frosh team. Among the more better known are: Ed Kowariski, Cicero; Mike Rondenella, Cicero; Wendall Baker, Kansas City; Fred Peters, LaCrosse; James Blaul, Musatine; Delmar Anderson, Milwaukee; Peter Schaid, Lebanon, Ind.; Charles Clough of Plymouth, Ind.; William Lusby, of Chicago; Jack Kindall, Shelbyville, Ind.; Robert Burke, South Bend; Emmett Bass, Shelbyville; Peter Urbick, Kenosha; Jacob Schmidt, Milwaukee; Fred Fisher, Adrian; Wilson Milbrandt, Monticello; Leroy Jay, Aurora; Frank Weaver, Riverside, Ill.; Darrell House, Shelbyville; Harold Uttoft, Tyler, Minn.; Charles Elkington, Madison; Edward Marsh, Waupun; Edward Conrad, Antigo; John Tufts, Cedar Rapids; Charles Otis, Madison; and Frank Ley, Woodlawn, Pa.

Football Team

Looks Good in Final Workout

New Plays Depended upon for Yardage; Hold Signal Drill Today

The Badger football team went through its last scrimmage before the Michigan game, last night at Camp Randall and put in two hours of hard work. The team looked plenty good.

Still somewhat doubtful upon the new plays given to them, the squad gave over almost an hour to the running and perfecting of them. It is upon these unknown plays, that the team is expected to gain yardage when it is needed, and smoothness in them is necessary.

As a whole the team showed marked improvement in the running off of these plays, and should be able to use them advantageously against Michigan. As a last reminder of them before the game, and to make sure that the team is playing their signals correctly, Coach Thistilwaite will take the boys into the Stadium this afternoon, and in a secret practice, allow them to make final check upon their offensive game.

Punting again came in for some consideration last night and Crofoot and Rebholz bore the brunt of the time devoted to the kicking game. Both men are punters capable, with any luck at all, of averaging around 40 yards, and perhaps more. Crofoot looks somewhat the better of the two, and will probably draw the assignment since it appears as if Rebholz will not start the game.

Bob Sykes, the latest edition to the line since his ineligibility was cleared up, seems to be the most promising prospect for place-kicking. He has been going through a daily workout at this job, and seems to have acquired the knack of putting the ball between the goal posts in rather neat style. If necessary, Crofoot may be called upon to perform this duty, and Rose may also see service along this line.

The frosh teams again bore the attack of the varsity last night, and if only Michigan would perform their plays with the same results that the frosh carried them out, all would be well for the Badgers.

The varsity went against the freshmen, who decked again in the blue colored sweaters of Michigan, endeavored to work the Wolverine aerial plays against them, but to little avail.

The first team has been rapidly improving in their forward pass defense, and broke up the majority of passes sent against them. The Michigan line plays also failed to gain much ground for the freshman, while the varsity, during the short while that it was allowed to take the offensive, performed to perfection against the yearlings.

"Bo" Cuisiner drew the halfback assignment over Joe Kressey for the majority of the practice last night. The little fellow showed a marked aptitude for breaking up forward passes, and in addition to this does

Campus Brand Politics

FROM VARIOUS sources about the Big Ten circuit, come incessant rumblings of dirty work prevalent in student politics. Since some of our clippings may prove interesting to local Tammany, we publish them below.

The Indiana Daily Student editorializes in the following manner on budding promoters who seem to be preparing themselves for entrance into the state politics of Indiana:

"The depths to which some students will stoop has been seen. The crookedness which results from the inordinate struggle for class offices has been shown.

With such a start, what will be the case in other elections which will come throughout the rest of the year? Irregularities have been committed in other elections before. Does it follow that all elections this year are to witness this utter unscrupulousness that has marked the class elections so early in the year?

If such follows, then it seems that the rules should be changed to prevent such action—or all elections should be abolished. The latter course is a radical one, and such action would be an admission that the student body is not capable of organizing and governing itself. This certainly would be a disgrace.

And yet, thoughts of what already has happened, with the year not a month old, make such a conclusion not unreasonable.

Shame it is that a handful of unprincipled men have brought the disgrace on the student body that they have. Utter disenfranchisement might be one remedy in their case."

According to news reports, they have been having a gay time down at Indiana. The "corruption," as outlined by the Indiana Daily Student last week, consisted mainly of the following incidents:

Nine of 12 signatures of a nominating petition filed in the sophomore election were forgeries.

The nominee for sophomore president was expelled from school two days before the election, while the nominee for treasurer never entered the university.

Check of credits of all candidates revealed that a nominee for senior treasurer was not a senior; a nominee for junior president was not a junior; a nominee for sophomore president was not a sophomore.

Several persons having obtained 12 signatures to a proposed slate of freshman officers, proceeded to erase the names of nominees and substitute a different slate without consulting petition signers.

Conditions at the University of Illinois are little better, though seemingly less touched with graft and forgery. In the senior election, the old line party, which had remained supreme for some 20 years, was defeated by a new "Independent" group after a bitter campaign. The editor of the Illini, who seemed to have been slightly partisan, commented in this tone on the event:

"Once upon a time a little boy in a tenement neighborhood set out for a walk. And the little boy, so the story goes, had three pennies; subsequently he met several of his little friends from the district, and because the little boy had three pennies, his friends gathered around him as a sort of body guard. Thus a gang was formed.

For a long time the little boy with the three pennies walked about the streets of the home neighborhood and lorded it over all the other children of the place. Because the little boy with the three pennies had a gang to support him.

Of a sudden, however, there appeared down the street another little boy. And this other little boy had his gang, too, but he had no three pennies. And the first little boy with his gang attempted to push the other little boy off the sidewalk. But the other little boy resisted, even though the first little boy did have three pennies.

A battle ensued, and loud was the cry of shrill, little voices in the heat of the childish battle between the two gangs. But it so happened that the first little boy and his little boy friends were outfought by the other little boy and his little boy friends. And, sad to state, during the fight, the three pennies which the first little boy was holding so tight in his tiny fist fell upon the walk, and it so happened that the other little boy picked them up.

And so, when the ragamuffins had finished with their little battle, the first little boy did not have his three pennies any more. And the other little boy strutted off down the street with his gang—and the three pennies.

And all the little girls in the neighborhood were glad, because they did not like the first little boy, but they did like the other little boy."

The Illini editor also compliments "Milt" Cook, winning candidate, in a similar satiric vein, saying:

The student body rose up and demanded freedom, and "Milt" has answered their call. He is leading the way out of the political muck. Every Illinois man now has a fair chance. A democratic administration is in sight, and the students may rest assured that appointative positions will be widely and unpolitically distributed. Who would have the audacity to think that the representative of an organization like the "Independent" party, which was motivated by the highest of ideals, would compromise himself by making political concessions.

We understand that "things are going on" out at Nebraska, too. In fact, corruption is so prevalent that faculty members have been requested to watch the voting booths.

Blue Laws at Michigan

A SEVERE form of collegiate paternalism seems to have spread itself like a blanket over the University of Michigan campus this fall. The Wolverine faculty has succumbed to the governmental dictatorial mania which is sweeping our official academicians like wildfire. The outbreak of this contagious rash at Michigan has resulted in a ban on student automobiles, abolition of fraternity dances on football week-ends, and in stringent enforcement of the prohibition act.

If the faculty persists in laying down its paternal rulings, we would not be surprised to hear soon that each and every Michigan student is compelled to don red woolens on the first of November; or to learn that the faculty has placed a ban on mince pie—for mince pie, like automobiles and bad liquor and dances following football games, often proves harmful. The popularity of this attitude on the part of Michigan's faculty is evidenced by the large drop in the university's freshman enrollment this year.

But the Michigan student is not totally submissive. At a recent meeting of the Wolverine Interfraternity council, a resolution was passed stating that the body is opposed to the present automobile regulation, and suggests that all upperclassmen who are scholastically eligible be allowed to drive cars. The same organization (which seems a bit more active than the corresponding one on this campus) also voted to draw up a statement expressing disapproval of the ruling prohibiting fraternity dances after football games. In the discussion preceding this motion, the opinion was expressed by several councilmen that this ban on dances served no good purposes and deprived both the students and alumni of the fraternities of a legitimate opportunity to engage in a traditional recreation.

The Michigan student council has also fallen in line against this prohibition of student automobiles, declaring the complete ban to be "unduly restrictive and unjust to the great majority of students." In its first issue of the year, Michigan's student newspaper declared editorially that "The Daily regards the continuation of the present total ban an injustice against the great majority of students, when a moderate ruling such as that of last year may be enforced by efficient administrative officers such as the university has now engaged."

The Daily Cardinal is completely in sympathy with the Michigan student revolt, and hopes that their appeals to the board of regents will not be ineffective. If they succeed in overthrowing some of the rulings the faculty has imposed upon them, they will set an example by which officials of other institutions may profit.

Readers' Say So

IS THIS POSSIBLE?

Editor the Daily Cardinal:

A well-known firm, specializing in student supplies, has been exhibiting varied forms of containers for students' spirits. This famous organization, run by certain members of the university faculty, believes in, no doubt, the "making of hay while the sun shines," for, while there seems to be a certain amount of drinking on the campus, this firm has been kind-hearted enough to give a part of a front show case to the cause, and has a display of attractive receptacles for multi-colored beverages.

LIKES PLATFORM

Editor the Daily Cardinal:

Please accept my congratulations upon your editorial policy. Item four will be the cause of some unpopularity, but stick to your guns; there are some of us with you.

—Katherine Jackson '29 (ex. '24).

Don't—read this column, dear reader, but wait until tomorrow, for then Benito will be here. He is very funny.

Speaking of Benito, I asked a girl once if she'd like to have a date with him, and she said no, for she thought that would be Benito.

And now, as the butcher said, "May I present the worst of the week?" It a incipit Garabaldi.

At the Lecture
Primus: "Say, is this course a pipe?"
Secundus: "Sure, if you've got a drag."

It is the day after the big party, and she says, "Darling, how are you this morning?" "Really," says he, "I cannot discuss it."

"Oh, oh! say the dog fanciers hereabouts, 'why this race prejudice?'

Apropos of nothing at all, here en- deith the first sheet of my typewriter paper.

And here beginneth the second.

On thinking over the implications embodied in a certain gag above, I should like to say that the drug-stores are passing up a new source of business, and they don't know it. For instance, you can now buy a drink to settle your stomach, or a bromide, or a pep-maker, and so on. But one thing is missing—no store has yet taken to selling at the popular price of five cents (5c) a copy a shot of Blisterine. Imagine the big lines there would be at the fountains on the heavy nights if this were done. We may yet see ads in the Deet such as this: "Before—and After—that date: A dash of Blisterine."

"It may be down, but it's not yet out," said the Frosh as he waxed furious on his moustache.

Young ladies, attention: I don't suppose—you'll ever propose—to superimpose—a pair of silk hose—upon your wee toes—when you have got a cold in the nose!

Vive La France!

I have an honest-to-goodness French room-mate, and every now and then we talk about our various national institutions. Last night it was girls. He said, "But do you never kiss the girls here in America?" "Never, never, never," says I, duly shocked, "until we are engaged to them." "Is it permitted to kiss your wife here?" "Certainement," says I.

"Yes, indeed. But in this country, do you not kiss a girl when you take her home?" "Ah, no," said I, "never. And in France?" "Ah, mon cher," he comes back in his charming French manner, "it is the first thing to do."

Thee if you can thy thith without lithping: Thynthethith ith the anti-thethith of analythith.

An article in the Deet says that the Regents have accepted a fund "for the beautification of cheese factory grounds throughout the state." Whey! Cheese 'n crackers! Our great institution is going in for the higher aesthetic of the unsung cow. When I get rich I'm going to see that every room in the "Y" gets a copy of Maxfield Parrish's "Garden of Allah." That's for the higher aesthetic of the well-sung "bull," if you get what I mean.

Another thing I noticed in the Deet was that it is going to publish all the details of campus politics. What delectable revelations are to come. And yet I predict that there will be no Teapot Dome scandal, despite the fact that many of our campus leaders are often well oiled.

Speaking of Teapots, there will be a little tempest brewing in one of these culinary implements at the Arden House tomorrow afternoon from 4:30 to 6:00 P. M. Argon, Benito and myself will be there. Hero worshippers take note.

Time flies, and I become philosophical. You know, there's nothing to writing one of these columns—all you have to do is waste the afternoon looking out of the window wondering if the people who read this will suspect that you are as dumb as you really are. If they do, then they're smarter than you are, and if they don't, then all you can say is that they're just as dumb as you are. But hold! If they laugh, they are dumber. Now the cat's out of the bag—that is, if Argon doesn't sew up the sack before it gets to you.

Well, as my little Swedish girl friend said when she saw the sign "Beat Michigan," Dot's Yost vat ay tank ve vill do.

In case you don't know it, Yumpon Yost.

Professor Thinks College Women Preserve Best University Traditions

"Democracy has swamped the colleges and under its influence college men are becoming more and more a type—the salesman type," is the statement of a professor of a well known college, who occasionally writes for some of the better magazines." But there is one force that moves to counter this. The women in general, develop into individuals. I do not pretend to say whether their opposition is conscious or merely instinctive—but if hereafter our colleges are to preserve any of the spirit that was lovely and admirable in the past, I am disposed to believe that the 'co-eds,' those irresponsible and over dressed young nitwits, will save it unassisted.

"The college man lives up to the type that has been created for him by the humorous magazines in that he seems perpetually bored. The excitements and ecstasies of the intellectual life are not for him. He has no hunger for those impractical, breathless, dizzy wisdoms that add stature to the soul. But the women whether selfconsciously or not, are really interested in living by the higher centers of the brain. Education retains for them and, for them there is still some delight to be had in the pursuit of intellectual ends which can never, by any conceivable means be turned into commissions. The sex is proverbially curious—and curiosity is no poor synonym for intelligence. And no doubt another proverbial attribute, stubbornness is responsible for the other virtue that remains to be dealt with. Skepticism seems to be indispensable for education, but the college man neither possesses it himself nor respects its possession in others. He relies on the honesty of the institution that accepts his tuition; surely no professor would accept any money for saying something that was not true. A text book cannot lie, and a professor will not.

"Logic, evidence, experimentation, and verification are all very well, no doubt, but an economic waste of time. In a pinch, I would undertake to convince a class of men of nearly anything by merely repeating many times that it was so because I said it was so. One does not teach women in that way. One painstakingly examines the facts, goes over the evidence, caulk the seams of one's logic, and in every respect prepares oneself for intelligent opposition. It may be the devilish obstinacy, of the sex. No doubt, it is, but whatever its place in the ultimate synthesis of wisdom, it is the beginning of knowledge."

Union for All Says Kluckhohn

Concert Series Presented by University Will Cost
$15,000

"It is the student body and not an individual organization which is really responsible for the concerts presented upon the University campus each year," according to Clyde Kluckhohn '28, president of the Wisconsin Union who yesterday explained the machinery of government for the concert project.

The Wisconsin Union, he said, was originally chartered to "minister to the welfare of the men students of the university." This charter was granted by the student senate. Within the meaning of this clause, concerts seemed to fall, and each year more ambitious recitals and programs were arranged for. Thus it is that this year the Union has contracts for great artists, which however, so expensive that the cost of the winter series will be close to $15,000.

"The Union concerts are self supporting, but the prices are so carefully scaled that every effort is made to bring them to the lowest price level possible. If there does happen to be any small profit at the end of the year, it is turned over to the Memorial Union Building fund," explained Edwin Fronk '29, treasurer of the Union yesterday.

All of the members of the Union Board yesterday expressed themselves as feeling that it is important that students of the university are in themselves the sponsors of these student concerts, and therefore should be the one to support them. The Union Board, they claimed, is only the student body's elected administrative head.

The concert series for this season is announced to include The English Singers, Madame Luella Melius, Feodor Chaliapin, and Ignace Paderewski. The season tickets are now on sale for these concerts at Hook Brothers Music Store, corner of State Street and the Capitol Park. The tickets sell for $6.50, $8.00, $9.00.

Flett, assistant deans of women, Mrs. Marvin B. Rosemberg and Mrs. Herbert Brockhausen.

Lawyer's Career Hard for Women

Dean at Michigan Comments on Legal Ambitions of Modern Portias

"For a woman the career of a lawyer is a hard one," says Dean Bates of the Law School of the University of Michigan. "Out of five seniors graduating in June, 1927, only two have positions with legal firms. The reason for this is that most legal firms prefer a man to a woman because they claim a pretty young woman will distract the attention of the young men in the office and social engagements do not belong in a law firm."

"Then, too, many firms have calls for lawyers who must go into the sordid parts of the cities where to be unarmed is endangering life, and to send a woman to such places is impossible of course. The best opportunities for women are with legal firms who deal with land contracts and manage estates. There are opportunities for women in legal aid also. A woman has few chances for success working independently. Even Judge Florence E. Allen, of the Ohio Supreme Court, never attained marked success practicing law."

"In regard to the best students, we find in the Law school that men and women are equal. In the Literary college the women, who study harder than the men, average higher, while in the Law school both study equally hard and have practically the same averages.

"Mrs. Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, who is in charge of enforcement of prohibition, is an outstanding example of a woman's ability in law. I have had some experience in a law office here in Ann Arbor and while I intend eventually to have my own office, I shall probably work for a while with a legal firm for the valuable experience I shall gain."

Do You Dare Bet

As You Think....

On the matter of costume you'll wear tomorrow? Of course, you will. And you'll win!

Wisconsin co-eds know their style just as well as the Badger team knows its football. If Madison is a style center for men it's the cradle of styles for the college girl.

The University girl here has a unique and very becoming individuality of dress. Fifth Avenue may feature its matinee mode; but Madison stresses its football fashions.

Of first importance is one's coat. It must not only be warm . . . it is necessarily have an "air" of Campus or Bois. The fur coat may be muskrat . . . a Tomboy raccoon . . . a sportsy pony . . . or numerous other furs. But it must be lightweight . . . straight line . . . rimmed with shawl, Johnny, or novelty collar.

The topcoat rates high this fall. To combat English fogs, . . . so like our own in long spring and fall . . . a new fabric was created by English manufacturers. A springy tweed to give most warmth with least weight . . . practically moisture-proof, dust-proof, and wrinkle-proof, of which Shagmoore coats are made.

Prices—$29.50 to $69.50

If you wear a trim velveteen blouse or a clever sweater under your toecap tomorrow, you'll feel comfy in the knowledge of its cozy warmth and your escort's approval.

Price—$3.50 to $10.50

Trefousse kidskin gloves to keep hands stylishly warm, are made of the finest of French manufacturers. They look . . . and feel . . . wear all one would expect, knowing their maker.

For the dance tonight or tomorrow evening, you'll want a new dress.

If it's formal, there are metallic brocades with lovely blue or rose tinges. Crisp taffeta makes you feel "partyish" as a little girl. Sophisticated satin or velvet . . . transparent or chiffon . . . make you feel as Parisian, but for more elegant than any of Monsieur Lucien Le-long or Jean Patou.

Prices—$29.50 to $69.50

If the frock fits a bit too snugly, you'll be surprised what a difference a girdle or coreslette makes!

Prices—$1.65 to $10

To go with this gay apparel, Dancing Chiffon hose have been especially created. Transparent as a moonbeam, they have been designed by the Allen A company in answer to requests of girls who love dancing . . . even until dawn! The invisible lisle inner-foot within the sheer silken hose makes the stocking wear and wear . . . time after time . . . in spite of its exquisite fineness.

Price—$1.75

THEATRES

BY H. B.

Since the first production of John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln," which will be presented for one performance only at Bascom theater tomorrow night, many persons distinguished in the world of art and letters have seen the play and voiced their opinions in regard to it.

Not the least among these is Arnold Bennett, who said when questioned about his interpretation of the success of the play, "Why is 'Abraham Lincoln' a success? Here are a few answers to this question: Because the author has a deep practical knowledge of the subject; because he had the wit to select for his hero one of the world's greatest and finest characters; because he had the audacity to select a gigantic theme, and to handle it with simplicity; because he had the courage of his artistic and moral convictions, and also because he has a genuine dramatic gift."

This combination of reasons undoubtedly answers the question. At any rate, others of the series of biographical dramas written by Mr. Drinkwater have not been successes, either from the point of view of the box-office or considered as dramatic literature, and each has been lacking in one of the essentials named by Mr. Bennett. But "Abraham Lincoln" has been in high favor from the start, and continues its travels this season under the auspices of the Redpath Lyceum bureau.

The company which is to appear in the play here is composed of 12 members, who will interpret the 27 parts written into the play. All of these persons have New York experience or have appeared in the better road shows.

Eustace Wyatt, who will play the title part, is well known as an actor. Among his notable appearances were those with George Arliss in "Old English," with Florence Reed, and with the Theater Guild of New York. One member of the cast played with the original New York company of "Abraham Lincoln." He is Chas. Fleming.

Henry Buckler, who will play the parts of White, the messenger, Curtis, Booth, and the orderly, appeared with Alice Brady in her last great success, "The Bride of the Lamb."

Percy Bollinger has acted with Peggy Wood, and Augustus Collette, who will play the parts of Seward and Mallins, has played in "Polly Preferred," "The Gorilla," and "The Circle."

Beatrice Garin, who plays Susan, recently appeared with Basil Sidney in "Hamlet" in modern dress.

CAMPAIGN TO CURB
DRINKING STARTED

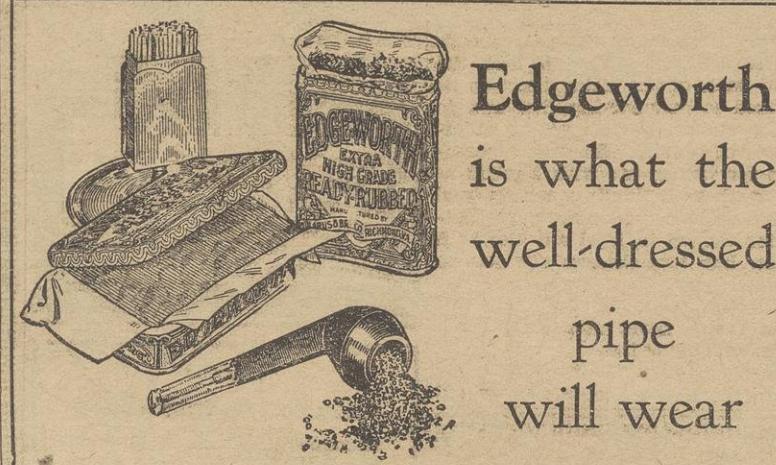

Although no appeal has been made by the University of Wisconsin officials, a drive by federal, state and city authorities will be waged against liquor law violators on and about the university campus during the weekend celebration in connection with the Wisconsin-Michigan game.

Instructions were given by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Seymour Lowman that all prohibition officials were to cooperate with the educational heads in order to prevent bootlegging and drinking on the campus.

Inasmuch as the Shields farm was reported a favorite resort of campus drinkers, it is believed that the arrest last week of "Pat" Shields and the confiscation of more than 2,000 gallons of wine may have been a result of this campaign.

Study Divorce Clubs Advised

Man and Wife Must be 50-50
Partners, Speaker
Says

"Doll house apartments," birth control and divorce to the contrary, there will always be homes and there will always be children according to Mrs. Maggie W. Barry, College Station, Tex., chairman of the department of the American home of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who was the principal speaker at the opening of the convention of the state federation in the Milwaukee auditorium, Tuesday afternoon.

"The home is here to stay, because it is a fundamental family institution," said Mrs. Barry. "However, the home will never achieve the highest degree of usefulness until we become more than merely conscious of the fundamental that homemaking is a partnership job between a man and a woman, and that man must make a spiritual and social contribution in addition to serving in the capacity of breadwinner."

Let Each Do His Job

"When I say that homemaking is a partnership job, I'm not speaking of a 50-50 division of the family income," she said. "It is up to the man and woman to decide what that partnership shall be and what each shall contribute. If it is found that a man can do the cooking, and the wife practice medicine, society has no right to decry that partnership."

Touching on the question of divorce, Mrs. Barry characterized it as a "symptom" of something wrong in the social order.

"A doctor doesn't treat symptoms, but causes," she added. "We must do the same with our social problems."

Partner With Community

Mrs. Barry believes that the partnership of homemaking is now extending into a partnership with the community.

"The home is no longer an isolated unit," she said. "It is inextricably bound up with the social, economics and political ideals and practices of our people."

The convention, which will close Thursday, has brought to the city delegates from nearly 400 federated clubs, representing a total membership of more than 20,000. The convening of the group here is in the nature of a homecoming, for it was in Milwaukee in 1896 that the federation was organized. Only two previous conventions were held here, in 1908 and 1916.

The delegates were welcomed on behalf of the city by Mayor Hoan and Mrs. C. P. Hobson, president of the county federation. The response was given by Mrs. Charles S. Morris, Berlin, Wis., founder of the organization. Reports of officers and committee chairmen featured the business of the afternoon.

Tells of Growth

Mrs. Edward H. Hammett, Sheboygan, state president, told of the steady growth of the federation and urged rural expansion as a practical aim. She added that an even balance between cultural and civic work was maintained by the federated clubs last year and asked the active support of each member in bringing the federation and individual club to its highest efficiency through active co-operation.

"It is our hope that every club will return to its work with determination to make of itself a center of culture and a source of civic pride and be recognized in the community it represents," she said.

State officers of the federation were entertained at a dinner at the Hotel Pfister Monday night at the county federation. More than 100 women, including presidents of local clubs and committee chairmen, attended. Mrs. Hobson was toastmaster.

Mrs. Morris spoke on "Mothering Thousands."

"Federation has taught us all to value women for what they are rather than for what they have," said Mrs. Morris. "Our organization has never pursued birth control tactics—it has always been willing to welcome the smallest of rural clubs as well as the largest and most influential of city clubs.

"I am wondering if it is not time that we in Wisconsin do not take hold of one task and put it through. If I could leave one thought with the organization, it is that we do all in our power to help establish the principle of arbitration for the settlement of international disputes."

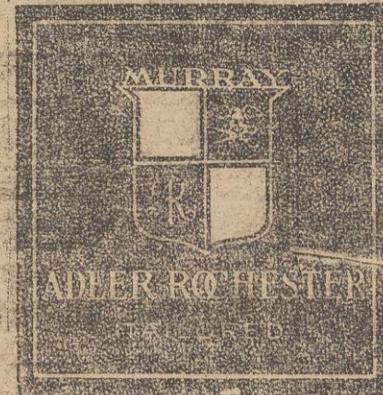

Word was received today by the literary magazine that one of the poems printed in its June issue was reprinted in the poetry section of the Dial. The poem is written by Kwei Chen, a Chinese student here, and is one of a series of his poems which the Lit has published.

Princeton Plans Student Council

Last Body Resigned Because of University Anti-Automobile Ruling

Effecting a sudden break from a tradition of twenty years, Princeton University is to have a Student Council composed of members taken from the four undergraduate classes. The previous custom has been to have only Seniors on the board.

Elections for the Council are to be held today when three seniors, two juniors and two sophomores will be chosen. Those elected will appoint two more seniors, another junior and one freshman. This will bring the number of the council to eleven, giving every class one or more representatives.

As the Freshman class is not considered properly organized until the completion of its first half-year, members of that class will not be allowed to vote. All upper-classmen, however, are entitled to cast their ballots at the election.

It will be remembered that the Princeton senior class council resigned in a body last spring because of a ban on campus automobiles. The resignation followed the unheeded protests of the entire student body that the edit be repealed by the university officials.

According to present plans, the Council is intended to govern student affairs for a period of one year, after which a new election will take place. There is no ruling against reelecting a student to the council. It has not been stated whether this present system is merely being tried or whether the officials intend to make it a permanent institution on the campus.

The plan, although an innovation at Princeton, is not original to the Jersey university, being in common favor throughout the Middle-Western colleges. In many cases, such as the University of Illinois, freshmen are not eligible to be elected to this board. Frequently the presidents of the upper classes are automatically admitted to the student council.

200 are Enrolled in Music Course

Increased Interest Shown in Music by Students from "Hill"

The greatest growth and expansion of the University School of Music in the history of the institution was compiled for this semester, and by the evidenced this week both by records addition of new courses, new facilities, and new instructors.

Outstanding among these figures are the increases shown in enrollment. Records from the past summer session show a 50 per cent increase over the registration a year before, while the present semester's mark is 13 per cent above last year's.

Even more noteworthy than this, however, is the increasing tendency of students majoring in courses other than music to choose musical subjects as electives. Scores of these students were turned away this year for lack of facilities. Over one-fourth the harmony classes are composed of "Mill" students. Prof. Charles H. Mills' course in music appreciation has an enrollment of nearly 200, and many additional students are enrolled in history of music, pageantry, and composition courses.

The bands and orchestra, under the direction of Major E. W. Murphy, are also enlarged this year, the number of tryouts far exceeding past records. Four string quartettes, the wood-wind ensemble, and a clarinet quintette have been developed by Major Murphy. A new course in the survey of music, given by Louise Carpenter, Lockwood and a new phase of public school survey work under Prof. E. B. Gordon, have been added.

The organization of work permitting actual teaching experiences in class and practice piano instruction has also been completed and placed under the supervision of Prof. Leland A. Coon.

Announcement has been made, too, of the purchase of a new practice organ, to be installed sometime in the semester, and of the addition of a new stop to the Music Hall organ.

CHURCH OBJECTS, SAY BARBER WILL NOT BOB

ELWOOD, Ind.—Alonzo Webb, veteran barber, active worker in the Pilgrim Holiness church, has posted notices in his shop that he will no longer bob women's hair. He declared a brother in the church, in his testimony, said God had showed him that it was wrong for Webb to bob hair. "The Bible says, 'If eating meat offend thee brother I will eat no meat,'" said Webb. "My desire is for peace and harmony in the church."

MICHIGAN OFFERING WOMEN'S DENTISTRY

There are 26 women enrolled in the course of oral hygiene offered in the School of Dentistry at the University of Michigan this year. This is a comparatively new department having been offered only since 1921. It prepares women to assist licensed dentists.

The course consists in one year of work. During the first four to six weeks the women must attend classes both morning and afternoon. Later on the students attend classes only in the morning, working in the clinic in the afternoon. Before they take up this work however they must learn the technic thoroughly and buy both instruments and uniforms. The girls gain this technic by practicing on dummies.

After the student is proficient enough she is moved to the clinic and practices on the school children from surrounding towns, and the patients who come to the school.

The course follows that of a dentists', except that it is more condensed and more simple. Graduates are fitted to enter the office of a dentist, work under a board of health, do public school work, or assist in any municipal institution. The admission to the school is the same as in the School of Letters and Science. Accredited graduate nurses however may take the work in one semester if they enter for the first semesters' work.

Between Halves

"Touchdown No. 3"

THE GAME became so exciting and the afternoon warmer, so the Smartest-Girl-on-the-Campus slipped off her coat. There was a murmur of "where do you suppose she got it?", for she was wearing a fetching two-piece knitted costume of softest blue jersey with bandings of silver and darker blue. It was really different, and so becoming. Knitted two-piece and three-piece suits of jersey or rabbits' fur, $17.50 to $39.50.
