GRID-GRAPH PAYS FOR INTRA-MURAL ATHLETIC AWARDS

Merchants Need No Longer Be Called on For Funds, Jones Declares

That receipts from the grid-graph this year have relieved the Athletic board of the burden of having to go to the merchants and to pass the bucket for funds to finance intra-mural athletics was the statement made by Prof. T. E. Jones, athletic director, yesterday.

"To obtain funds for intra-mural athletics has always been a hard and unpleasant task," Professor Jones said. "The money has to be obtained somehow, or the activities must be limited. Formerly, if we didn't obtain the money by other methods, the activity suffered; no sweaters were bought, and no numerals were awarded to intra-mural athletes."

Professor Jones emphasized the fact that the receipts from the grid-graph do not go to the athletic department, but to the Athletic board, which has very few means of obtaining funds.

Owned by Athletic Board
"When the grid-graph was bought, the athletic department merely made the necessary business negotiations for the Athletic board. We made the contract with the original owner to rent the use of the gymnasium until the apparatus was paid for, and as soon as we paid for it, or rather, as soon as it had paid for itself, we turned it over to the Athletic board."

"This year it has neither been necessary to pass the bucket nor charge admission to intra-mural contests, with the exception of the Freshman-Sophomore game. The Athletic board has practically no means of obtaining funds to carry on athletic activities within the walls of the school. The grid-graph has helped them out of this difficulty."

The fact that there are many campus affairs, the funds for which will be supplied by the grid-graph, unknown to most people, was mentioned by Professor Jones.

"Venetian night, the winter sport carnival, in fact nearly all other activities even remotely connected with athletics, other than intercollegiate affairs, will benefit by the use of the grid-graph," declared Professor Jones.

FRATERNITIES SEND MEMBER TO COUNCIL

Dollmyer Will Represent Badger Fraternities at New York Conference

Walker Dollmyer '24 will represent the fraternities on the Wisconsin campus at the interfraternity conference to be held at the Pennsylvania hotel, New York City, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. Mr. Dollmyer will leave Madison early Thursday morning.

All national Greek letter men are members of this conference. An interesting experiment will be made in conjunction with this year's meeting. Believing that too few college men are given the opportunity of fraternity membership, the conference has invited representatives of 550 local fraternities to meet with the national fraternities with the purpose of forming at least one new national society.

This conference will be presided over by John J. Kuhn, lawyer, a member of Delta Chi fraternity at Cornell.

PROFS RETURN FROM HISTORICAL COUNCIL

Professors Carl Russel Fish and Frederic Logan Paxon returned yesterday after attending a meeting of the historical conference council, held the past week end for the purpose of making plans for the coming historical conference, which will be held in New York during the week just following Christmas.

PRESENTS SONG SKIT AT FOLLIES DANCE

Jack Cornelius

Jack Cornelius '23, will be the principal figure in a song skit to be presented as the last act at the Haresfoot Follies dance next Friday night in Lathrop hall. A chorus of 20 tuxed dancers with canes and derbys will support him in a clever dance act to the music of Willard Sumner '24 and Cecil Brodt '23.

Tickets for the Follies dance are on sale at the University pharmacy and at Morgan Baros. for $2 each. The sale will be limited to 250.

ORDINANCE BANS POSTING OF BILLS

Students Violate City Law By Tacking Posters on Poles, Says Dean

"Complaints have been received from various sources that several of the student organizations have been posting bills on telegraph poles located in the university district," Dean Goodnight said yesterday.

"The number of postings seems to have increased instead of decreased since the complaint was made."

"According to Section 3, Chapter XX of the general ordinance, the city prohibits the posting of these bills not only on poles but on trees as well and the person or organization who violates this section may be subject to a fine of not less than $5.00 or more than $100 for each offense."

The enactment of this ordinance is explained by the fact that tacks used in posting bills are a danger to linemen who climb the pole. The men tear their clothing, injure their hands and in case their spur strikes one of the tacks, they might lose their footing and fall.

RECEPTION PLANNED FOR FOREIGN STUDENTS

A reception is to be held for foreign students of the University at the home of Pres. E. A. Birge, at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening. This is an annual affair, under the direction of the Y. M. C. A.

1927 LEADER CALLS FROSH TO DON CAPS

The least a freshman can do to show the Wisconsin spirit that we want to make a fundamental part of our college life is to wear his cap until Thanksgiving. The university does not make this tradition compulsory but the spirit of the freshman class demands that the traditions of Wisconsin be lived up to by every freshman. So I ask that every freshman make the remaining few days 100% freshman cap days.

President, Class of 1927.

5 YEAR CONTRACT DOES NOT EXPIRE UNTIL NEXT FALL

Wisconsin Will Meet Chicago Again on Stag Field In 1924

All discussion as to whether or not Wisconsin will play Chicago at Stag field next year was definitely settled in a statement made yesterday by Tom Jones, director of athletics.

"Our contract with Chicago was made for five years, commencing in the fall of 1920 and expiring next fall," Coach Jones said. "It is not yet certain that this present contract will be renewed, as there are points to be considered on both sides."

"We will consider the question carefully from all angles during the next year, but as the decision need not be made until next fall we have plenty of time in which to think it over," he continued.

The question of renewing the present agreement has caused a furor on the campus lately. The prevailing opinion seems to be that fans are growing tired of having this football classic in Chicago every year and now that Wisconsin has a stadium commodious enough to handle a large crowd the last barrier to a home and home agreement is removed.

Witte Lectures On Injunctions in Labor Disputes

The use of injunctions in labor disputes, which has formed one of the biggest problems in the relation of capital and labor, will be the topic of discussion at the meeting of the Young Men's Progressive Club. The meeting will be started in the office of the Secretary of State. In case of large attendance the organization will meet in the Governor's reception room.

The Hon. E. E. Witte, former secretary of the Industrial Commission, and now head of the Legislative Reference library, will give the main talk of the evening. Mr. Witte, who is also a lecturer in the economics department of the university, has chosen for his subject, "The Injunction in Labor Disputes."

BADGER STAFF MUST REPORT BOOKS TODAY

Badger solicitors have been asked to turn in their subscription books today at the Union building. Team captains are also supposed to report and see that their teams have their books in. Some books have already been turned in, according to Henry Smith '25, assistant business manager of the Badger, but all the rest must be in today.

"Solicitors who have not turned in their books are holding up the entire work of the Badger," Smith said. "The books should have been turned in by the end of last week and it is impossible to make any accurate check-up of the work done while any books are out."

Foreign Flashes

BERLIN.—Dr. H. F. Albert who was asked by President Ebert to select a new cabinet has had little success in forming a new government. President Ebert's invitation to Dr. Albert has caused considerable resentment in conservative circles.

LONDON.—Great Britain is prepared to protest the seizure of the rum runner Tomako, captured outside of the three mile limit by American authorities, if the vessel proves to be a British ship.

WASHINGTON.—President Coolidge is now putting the finishing touches on his message to congress which he will deliver to that body when it assembles next week. The president is expected to back Secretary Mellon's tax reduction plan.

NOR'WESTERS COMING SAYS WEATHERMAN

Haul out the galoshes and the 'coon coat! The snow flakes which descended yesterday mean business, and from now on we'll have winter, says the weatherman. Chilly winds will sweep along Park street, and maybe there'll be snow for Thanksgiving.

Nothing like a blizzard is expected for Thursday but there is going to be snow in the air. The weatherman's forecast for Thanksgiving is colder weather but fair and clear. And p'raps the cold and snow wave traveling from Minnesota will swing across Madison.

Lake Wingra and the Tenney park lagoons have been covered with a coating of ice since the recent temperature drop, according to reports.

CRACK CADET UNIT TO MEET IN GYM

Final Organization of President's Guard Will Be Completed

The first official drill meeting of the President's guard will be held at 7:15 this evening in the gym. Although the guard membership was completed several weeks ago, no final organization has been attempted until this meeting.

Approximately 125 men have tried out, and all with a grade of over 75 will be accepted, the poorer men being under the supervision of special officers of the guard. Most of the drill this year will be confined to close order work, eliminating the special drills which were developed in former years for such functions as the Military Ball. With the special attention to manual of arms and platoon and company movements the guard can better compete with such organizations as St. John's Military academy or other R. O. T. C. units of the Big Ten schools.

Last year, the guard, with a membership of 80, presented a formal guard mount for the regular spring review of the corps, made a trip to St. John's Military Academy to compete against the crack corps there. This was the first time a military organization from Wisconsin entered an outside competition. A selected group of guardsmen presented a special drill at the Military Ball last year. This coming season plans are being completed for "competes" with several crack units, particularly a return drill against the Delafield school.

Strict enforcement of rules on attendance will be in vogue this year, and anyone breaking the rule will be dishonorably discharged.

NEWMAN DANCE HELD IN WOMAN'S BUILDING

The Newman club will give a dance Friday evening in the Badger room of the Woman's building. Plans for this dance and for the Christmas party to be given just before the holiday recess were discussed at the meeting Sunday evening. The question of selecting a new pin was brought before the meeting and it was decided that a new pin be chosen.

LESTER STUDIO PLANS COSTUMES FOR UNION VODVIL

Elaborate Sets Will Be Made By United Artists to Startle Madison

Lester, probably the best known costumers' studio in the middle west, will make costumes for Union Vodvil which will be given at the Parkway theatre on December 14 and 15, Gordon B. Wanzer '24, general chairman, announced yesterday.

"Everything will be especially designed for the show and will be brand new," Wanzer said.

Scenery will be made on a larger scale than was ever used for a theatrical production in Madison. It will be designed and constructed at the United Artists studio in Chicago.

Will Make Five Sets

"Lester is undoubtedly as well known as any costuming house in the nation," William Purnell '22, production manager, said after a week end trip to Chicago where he made contracts for costumes and scenes. "The house is known as maker of costumes for the famous Marigold Revues of Chicago, Ernie Young's production, Honey Moon, the Chicago theatrical comedy success, the Michigan opera, and Ernest Evans dancers, who showed recently in Madison, and many others."

Five full stage sets will be made for the show. They will include five cycloramas, sets encircling the entire back stage, which will be the most novel ever seen here. One, especially, which will be made entirely of black patent leather, will be the most startling stage set shown in Madison. The others will be in gold, blue, and purple.

Six drops are being made special for the show. The lighting effects will be the most ambitious ever attempted here, according to Purnell.

UNIVERSITY LAYS IN SAND SUPPLY

Service Department Prepares to Make Walks Safe This Winter

A bountiful supply of coarse sand, for the purpose of keeping the walks safe to walk on, has been received from Janesville by the University Service department in anticipation of a hard and long winter.

Last year approximately 120,000 pounds of sand were used to put on the walks to keep the students from breaking their arms, legs or necks. As a general rule about twice this amount is used during the course of the winter. The sand used last year was too fine and blew away or was carried off the walks by the feet of pedestrians. This year sand from Janesville will be used because it is coarser and will serve its purpose better.

An average of five men were kept working all day long through the winter months in keeping the walks sanded and scraped last year.

Alpha Phis Have Hot Time In Spite Of Chilly Weather

Four panic stricken members of Alpha Phi sorority, 819 Irving place, were saved from a burning death through the heroic efforts of the Madison fire department yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. No serious injuries were reported but the girls were suffering so terribly yesterday afternoon that they cut all of their classes.

"The fire was terrible. We don't know how it started; it wasn't from spontaneous combustion or from the chimney—it just started," one of the girls said yesterday.

"Four of the girls were in their rooms on the third floor and couldn't get out. Fire engines answering the call, put a ladder up the side of the building and carried the girls down. None of them were hurt, but scared. You know what I mean. No, I don't think any of them will have a nervous breakdown, but they cut all of their classes this afternoon. Yes, the house is insured. I don't know how much the damage is. Oh, it was terrible."

Engines from the North Broom street and Camp Randall stations answered the call immediately and got the fire under control. According to Chief Heyl, the damage will amount to about $10.

ROOD INJURED ON ENGINEERING TRIP

Inspection Journeys Successful Except For Accident to Professor

Prof. J. T. Rood received slight injuries on the head and hands when the special car for the engineering inspection trip of eastern industrial plants was struck by a projection from a passing train. No one else was injured.

Both the eastern and Milwaukee-Chicago inspection trips were very successful according to the professors in charge with the exception of the accident to Professor Rood.

The Milwaukee-Chicago division plants in Milwaukee, Kenosha, Waukegan, Chicago, Buffington, Ind., and Gary. The trip was very successful and entertaining according to Prof. J. R. Price.

"Six professors and 118 students made the trip. Our receptions were very good indeed everywhere. The Public Service company in Milwaukee and the Western Electric company in Chicago provided us with exceptional entertainment. We were gone for one complete week," Professor Price said yesterday afternoon.

Prof. J. T. Rood and A. H. Aagard were in charge of the 34 students who visited Detroit, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, and Gary. The following plants were visited: Burroughs Adding Machine, Ford Motors, Detroit Edison, Queenston and Ontario hydraulic plants, Carborundum company, International Paper, Shredded Wheat, Niagara Falls Bethlehem steel, Westinghouse E. and M., National Tube, Willard Storage Battery and Illinois Steel.

"Our trip through the east was very satisfactory indeed. We had very good weather and received a wonderful reception at all the plants visited, many of them furnishing us with free lunches. Wednesday noon we were at the broadcasting station of the Westinghouse company in Pittsburgh. A Lafayette graduate in charge of the station had us open the noon radio program by singing "On Wisconsin" and yelling the locomotive. Again that night we sang "On Wisconsin", "Varsity" and "If You Want To Be A Badger" and gave many yells. This was broadcasted all over the United States," Professor Rood stated yesterday.

"A smoker was held in our honor at the Ft. Pitt Hotel in Pittsburgh on Wednesday. Mr. M. E. Skinner, president of the Alumni association there and son of Prof. G. S. Skinner of the university was our host. Friday noon the Big Ten club of Cleveland entertained us with a luncheon."

Practically all of the students who made the trip attended the Wisconsin-Chicago game as they were in Chicago on the last lap of their inspection. The students lived in a special pullman all of the time they were gone. The special car took them to each city as soon as they were ready to go.

EXTENDED PROGRAM OFFERED WRITERS

Speeches, Discussions, Vaudeville, and a Dance Will Occupy the Journalists

The program for the fourth annual Central Interscholastic Press association convention to be held here this week end was announced yesterday by Prof. E. M. Johnson, director of the convention. Talks by men prominent in the journalistic field, helpful round table discussions, and plenty of entertainment is included.

Among the principal speakers will be Morton Gibbons-Neff, advertising manager of the Dill and Collins Paper company of Philadelphia, Pa.; Dr. John G. Fowlkes of the university; Fred L. McCleneghan, of the Rockford Illustrating company, and Dr. W. G. Bleyer, director of the course in journalism.

The convention will open at 10 o'clock Friday morning in the auditorium of the Biology building with short addresses by Gov. John J. Blaine, Pres. E. A. Birge and Dr. Bleyer to welcome the thousand junior journalists from all parts of the country. The delegates will then make a tour of the State Historical museum where they will examine a special exhibit showing the growth and development of American newspapers.

A general convocation will be held at 1 o'clock at Music Hall. Dr. Fowlkes will speak on "The Place of the High School Publication in the Life of the School." At 2:15 o'clock a group picture of the convention delegates will be taken in front of the library.

Round table discussions dealing with practical journalistic problems which confront editors will be held from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon and from 10 to 12 Saturday morning. These will be led by students active on campus publications, faculty members and outsiders prominent in journalistic work. AUTO CRASH KEEPS TIMM FROM CLASS

Injuries Received While Driving to Chicago Are Not Permanent

Injuries sustained in an auto accident near Janesville last Saturday morning prevented Arthur Timm '25, from attending classes yesterday.

Dr. Bleyer will speak in his stead.

A business meeting for one delegate from each school will be held at 1 o'clock at the Biology building and the closing convocation will be held at 1:30 in Music hall.

day. Timm's eye was badly cut but indications are that his sight will not be permanently impaired.

The car in which Timm was riding was driven by Ralph Giles '25, and was headed for the Chicago game. Other occupants were Melvin Luther '22, Ralph Stelting '26, and Howard Hilberlein '27. Luther also suffered minor bruises and cuts, but the other three members of the party were uninjured.

Timm and Luther were treated at a Janesville hospital and returned to Madison Saturday noon. The others continued their trip to Chicago by train and returned Sunday.

The car in which the men, all of whom are members of Theta Chi fraternity, was a Dodge touring car. It turned over as Giles was attempting to turn a corner. The automobile was badly damaged and was left at Janesville for repairs.

The close of the conference football season Saturday marked the end of what is probably the Big Ten's most successful year.

Two teams, Illinois and Michigan, are tied for honors, neither having been defeated, while four more, Chicago, Minnesota, Iowa and Indiana, won half or more of their games.

Six teams appeared strong enough, at the start of the season, to make a bid for first place, and of these all save Wisconsin finished above the halfway mark. The Badgers, playing the four strongest teams in the conference, lost three games by a few points each, the biggest margin being that of ten points secured by Illinois. With a veteran eleven back next year, thoroughly coached in Ryan's style of play, Wisconsin should develop a formidable team.

The announcement of the mythical Cardinal all-conference team will be made in Thursday's issue. The difficult task of choosing eleven men representative, each in his position, of the conference's best talent will lie in the competent hands of Harry Barsantee, sports editor, and Orie Wernecke, columnist.

Both men are well fitted for the task since they have seen the conference's most formidable teams in action. Not only has Sports Editor Barsantee seen Indiana, Minnesota, Michigan, Illinois and Chicago play, but he also made a special trip to Iowa City for the purpose of witnessing the powerful Iowa eleven clash with the Wolverines.

Orie Wernecke, founder and writer of Grid Graphs has not only seen a number of the conference's best teams in action but has also kept fans posted on the latest dope through his column. He knows a lot of football and is well qualified to collaborate with Barsantee in picking the mythical eleven.

Illinois clearly had the best balanced and smoothest running machine in the Midwest, as victories over Nebraska, Butler and the Mississippi Aggies, as well as five conference teams, clearly show. Graduation will claim several of their best men but Zuppke still has Grange, Britton and other letter men to form the nucleus of his 1924 eleven.

Lady Luck stepped in and gave the Wolverines a much needed shove that landed them in the first berth. A study of their games with Iowa and Wisconsin show that the Yostmen won apparently by a margin of luck, victories.

A post season game between Illinois and Michigan is impossible according to conference rules but it is possible that these teams will meet next year. Illinois is anxious for such an encounter and it would be a game that would go far to decide next year's winner, as both schools turn out consistently good teams.

The Wolverines showed one quality that is essential to a winning team, that is the capacity to overcome big obstacles and still maintain a fighting spirit that will turn the trick. With Uteritz, Vandervoort, Blott and Steele out of the Minnesota game Michigan entered the fray as the under dog but pulled together in great style and took

SPLASHES FROM THE GYM TANK

The varsity-freshman swimming meet to be held tonight has been postponed until next week on account of the Chicago Symphony concert to be held in the gymnasium. The meeting will probably be held next Tuesday night, says Steinauer.

Taking advantage of the extra week's practice the postponement will give, both the regulars and the frosh are stretching their work-out periods in hopes of getting in top form for the annual meet.

Steinauer has one of the best frosh teams this year he has had in several years and looks for close results when the final addition of points is made. Steinauer will decide after the meet next Tuesday just whom he will keep on the freshman squad.

Wisconsin will be certain to have Chicago and Minnesota here in dual swimming meets this year, announces Coach "Joe" Steinauer, who will leave Friday for Chicago for a meeting of conference swimming coaches. Wisconsin swimmers will go to Indiana for a meet, and competition may be arranged with Michigan, Iowa and Illinois. Northwestern may not appear on the schedule this year. The conference meet will be held at the University of Chicago about the middle of March.

Several teams, among them Iowa and Northwestern, were considerably handicapped by too strenuous schedules. Each team played six conference games without any time to organize and recuperate in between. Northwestern is considered taking a smaller and better arranged schedule next year, while it is doubtful whether Iowa continues to play six Big Ten games.

The Hawks started with one of the best teams in the conference but were inundated by the rush of Illini attack. A fluke touchdown robbed them of victory in the Michigan game after they had made a wonderful struggle against odds. Minnesota was evidently playing over its head against Iowa and contributed another step to the downfall of Coach Jones' eleven.

The dark horse of the conference, Minnesota, failed to come up to the expectations of pre-season dopesters. The Gophers failed to break a 0 to 0 tie with Wisconsin and later fell before Yost's sturdy Wolverines. Led by Capt. Martineau the Northmen threatened defeat to each of their opponents, but failed to connect in the pinches and were relegated to the realms of the might have beens.

Coach Spaulding loses the services of the mighty Martineau this year but has some consolation in the fact that he uncovered two of the best backfield men in the conference in Lidberg and Graham. The latter was knocked out in the first period of the Michigan game and his absence seemed to prove the undoing of the Gopher assault.

Indiana completed a comparatively successful season with two wins and two losses to its credit. Although the Hoosiers played a rather inferior brand of ball they were fortunate enough to trim Northwestern and Purdue. The Purple fell more as the result of a lucky break than by good ball, while Purdue battled the Hoosiers on fairly even terms.

When a man's down everyone takes a kick at him and the same is true of football teams. The luckless Northwestern eleven went through the entire season without registering a single victory, although in several cases it was beaten by the narrowest imaginable margin.

Hancock, of Iowa, probably robbed the Purple of a win when he intercepted a pass on his own goal line in the last few minutes of play. The Evanstonians put up a scrappy battle and looked better at the end of this game than at any other time during the year.

There will be a meeting of the executive committee of the Board of Regents here Friday. The board will meet on December 5.

Fundamentals

Wisconsin has the most promising looking aggregation of first year basketball men that Coach George Levis has seen in eleven years of experience with college floor teams, the Badger freshman mentor stated yesterday.

"I have never seen as many good men out at one time before," he said. "We have been working since Oct. 10, largely on the fundamentals of the game and have been helped very much by having good material and equipment to work with."

The squad has been cut from 160 to about 30 men who will be used in open practice next week Tuesday and Friday with the Varsity. The squad will be divided into three groups of ten each and all may see service against the regulars.

The rest of this week the freshmen will work on plays to be used in regular scrimmage, getting some of the finer points of team play worked up to the point where they can cause the regulars some worry in the workouts.

Complete uniforms will be issued next week to twenty five members of the squad.

In a dual match between Wisconsin and Northwestern rifle teams, held Saturday at Evanston, the Badger riflemen came out 39 points to the good.

This is the second year in which Wisconsin's rifle team has defeated Northwestern. If the team continues in its present stride, it is very possible that they will again take the intercollegiate championship.

The following week will be spent in preparing for a match with Ripon to be held here Saturday.

PRESS CLUB TO HOLD INITIATION IN LATHROP

Formal initiation of Press club members will be held at 5:30 o'clock tonight in the S. G. A. room of Lathrop hall.

Following a cafeteria supper for old and new members initiation will take place. Each initiate must submit some piece of original writing, humorous or serious, prose or poetry.

Orders for Press club pins may be given to Jerome Bjerke '26 at this meeting. Tickets for the Press club frolic on Friday evening will also be sold.

LAST OF FAKE MONEY
COMES INTO MADISON

The First National Bank reported yesterday that the counterfeit bills passed in the city during the past week, have stopped coming. The last of the bills came in Friday. They were all easily detected, as they were slightly smaller than the regular bills, were made of poorer paper, were all tens. The government detectives have not as yet found the persons guilty, and are still at work on the case.

AFTER SEASON
GRID CHATTER

"Shorty" Barr '23 is playing just as good football now as he did when he was Wisconsin's star quarterback. He is a strong point-gainer for the Racine Horlick Legion professional football team, a member of the National Professional Football league, and made the touchdown which won a game with the Chicago Cardinals Sunday in Chicago.

The Syracuse university football team may play the University of Southern California team Christmas day in California, according to Syracuse officials. The California team is the champion of the Pacific coast, hile Syracuse has just returned from Lincoln, Neb., where it trimmed the Nebraska team Saturday.

Here are some of the feats accomplished by the captains of the Minnesota and Michigan teams last Saturday. The game marked the end of the college foot ball careers of both Kipke and Martineau.

Kipke gained 16 yards in scrimmage and was thrown for one one-yard loss. Martineau gained 40 yards in scrimmage, was thrown for one 11-yard loss and on four occasions was thrown for one-yard losses.

Kipke intercepted two Minnesota passes, besides receiving one pass from Vick for a net gain of 10 yards. Martineau intercepted two Michigan passes, returning one seven yards and the other five.

Martineau threw all of Minnesota's nine passes. Seven grounded, two were intercepted. Kipke threw no passes; the nine Michigan attempts, three of which were completed, were all thrown by Vick.

Kipke punted for an average of 42 yards. Martineau's punting average was 31.3 yards. Neither captain was substituted during the game.

The statistics of the Harvard-Yale game indicate the effect of the slippery, muddy field had in retarding play and in forcing both sides to punt. There were 54 punts. Yale aggregated 1,095 yards and Harvard 1,042 yards.

Exhibition

With a half dozen amateur swimming stars and with a score or more who are equally as good slated to appear in this year's exhibition given by Dolphin club next Friday and Saturday night in the Lathrop hall pool, there is every reason for its being a better exhibition than ever before.

Former stars of the Milwaukee Athletic club who are team-mates in the club here are Marcella Steele '27, Miriam Wallaeger '27, Rhoda Koch '25, and Lois Barry '25. The Illinois Athletic club has developed Elna Mygdal '26, while the far west sends Ernestine Renzel '27.

Miss Steele was the state champion for the breast stroke in 1922,

POOR FORM FAILS TO SHAKE BURKE'S
FAITH IN TEAMLooks For Fleet Cross Country
Team Next Year

Although Wisconsin's harriers started the season auspiciously and failed to end up exactly the same way, Coach Mead Burke isn't laboring under any great disappointment.

The Badger runners beat Minnesota and Chicago at the beginning of the season and then took a lacing at the hands of Michigan, but this was expected since the Maize and Blue had the same bunch of men this season that they had last year.

The only place that the Badgers did not come up to dope was at the Ohio meet where they took third place. Illinois won second place by the narrow margin of one point, but this prevents the five Wisconsin runners from being awarded W's since the rules state that a team has to make either first or second place before its members may be awarded letters. Even third place is not so bad considering that there were ten schools represented at the meet.

Coach Burke's disappointment at the squad's showing, if he has any, is considerably assuaged by the thought of what next year will bring. Michigan loses every man of this year's squad except one; Chicago will have a fairly good team, and so will Minnesota but Wisconsin defeated both of them this season. Ohio will have a very good team, but the Badgers and the Buckeyes do not meet since the meets held this year will be duplicated again next year.

Wisconsin loses Finkle, Vallely and Read, of this year's squad, but Piper, Bergstresser, Swingle, Sherman, Perry, Schutt, and Lister—all good men—will be back. These men were on the squad this year, and in addition to them Butz and Link, who were ineligible, will be set for next season.

There will be a number of excellent men from the present frosh squad that will be ready for competition next season also. Captain Petaja, Shafer, Kubly, Dennes, Hardy, Marshall, Gaudyski and Chuka are a bunch of great frosh runners and they will all be back.

Coach Burke is exceedingly well satisfied with the prospects of 1924. "I am getting tired of second and third places," he said, "and next year I don't think I will need to worry about where my bunch will finish."

while the Misses Wallaeger and Koch held the Central A. A. U. championships for the 50 and 100 yards respectively, the same year. Miss Barry was the national champion for 500 yards in 1921.

Illinois state honors have been won by Miss Mygdal with her breast stroke. Miss Renzel was the all round champion for Northern California in 1920.

In addition to these stars there are any number of lesser luminaries equally proficient.

Saturday afternoon the members of the club will stage an invitational performance for the girl representatives to the C. I. P. A. convention to be held here this coming week end.

CONGRATULATIONS, JACK

In the election of the football captain, no petty politics are played; no favoritism is shown; merit and only merit is considered. To be elected to the coveted position, a man must work and strive and fight hard from the day he enters the football field. Long consistent hours of grinding at the same old thing, unending sacrifice of personal desires and pleasures, and rigorous training are the qualifications to be met. Jack Harris has met them and met them well. For three long years he has worked hard. He has given to his school all that he could. The least that it could do for him would be to grant him his well-earned captaincy and this it has done. His brilliant and untiring work on the field show him to be fully fitted for the position. To him are accorded the loyal support and the commendations of the student body.

THINKING

In a recent news item, a certain professor on the hill was quoted as saying that students should learn to think. With the reading of it, there came recollections of previous articles from similar sources telling of student inability to think and of student willingness to accept the second-hand thoughts of others without original work on their own part. Upon first thought, the individual is tempted to treat these items in a sarcastic and sceptical manner, and as if they were direct insults upon all students in general. But with second thought a new attitude is taken, and one begins to wonder if students do even one per cent of the thinking which they should do.

College is primarily thought of as a place where young men and women may absorb ideas from textbooks, or in other words, to acquire the second-hand ideas of the men and women who have preceded them and such is the course followed. This in itself is well and good but does not constitute the summum bonum of an education. All of this is undoubtedly recognized and believed by everyone, but headed only by a few. Any individual with some degree of mentality may open and learn the contents of a textbook without doing a bit of original thinking on the subject. Genuine, original, constructive thinking is a slow, laborious and difficult process, and it is naturally and humanly for this reason avoided. The individual, the student, is inclined to under-rate his own thoughts knowing that with his limited education and lack of experience there is little possibility of them being of worth, or at best, even equivalent to those he can obtain with less effort from others. And so original thinking is neglected, even though it is not the thoughts derived but the habit and the ability to think that is of paramount value.

One way of checking on the extent of student thinking is the ascertainment of the percentage of students taking part in outside activities. Outside activities unlike curricular work require no following of a set form nor of precedents, but thrive upon new ideas and conceptions, and require individual initiative and constructiveness that comes only from original thought and desire to progress. A perusal of the Badgers shows that of the vast numbers of students that graduate, less than ten per cent of them are engaged in outside activities, and of this ten per cent, only a small number by consistent hard work and self-development fit themselves for a position of leadership. They are the thinkers and their ranks are thin. Desire for personal pleasures and social life and natural human inertia make individual thinking a rare art!

WORDS

Not many years ago, less than a century, printed matter of all kinds, save the Bible and the calendar, was a relatively rare thing in the individual's life. The individual who possessed two or three books was considered exceedingly fortunate and there were not many of the common people who possessed them. There is no better illustration of this fact than Lincoln's endeavors to obtain books. But the individual of today who does not possess books and have access to any number of all kinds is not known. There is nothing more common than printed matter in the present day.

Books, magazines, and papers are rolling out of the press every day of the week in uncountable numbers. According to the Department of Commerce, two million tons of newsprint are used yearly, or about four billion pounds. Approximately four hundred thousand words to the pound are printed, making a total of sixteen hundred trillion words. Also according to the Department of Commerce, about one million tons of "book paper" are used annually for books and magazines and similar publications, each pound bearing after publication about one hundred thousand words. This brings the total up to about two hundred trillion words, making the total of printed words per year fully one quadrillion, eight hundred trillion, a figure beyond all human comprehension. These words, in print so small that there are sixty to the linear foot, stretched out in a string would extend for six billion miles. An individual who undertook to read all these words for a single year would have to remain on the job without a moments cessation for a little over forty-five million years. The average daily quota is about sixty thousand words for all of the reading age. —Yes, yes, but why go on. The student who is assigned forty thousand words a week to read considers himself outraged. Printed words are now so common that they no longer are valued by the individual, but with them has come the state of enlightenment so familiar to all. Their part in the making of progress is as great as their numbers.

Other Editors Say—

CURRENT EVENTS AND THE STUDENT

A university is an institution from which knowledge is disseminated—knowledge that by broadening the viewpoint of the students, enables him to take his place better in the world of affairs.

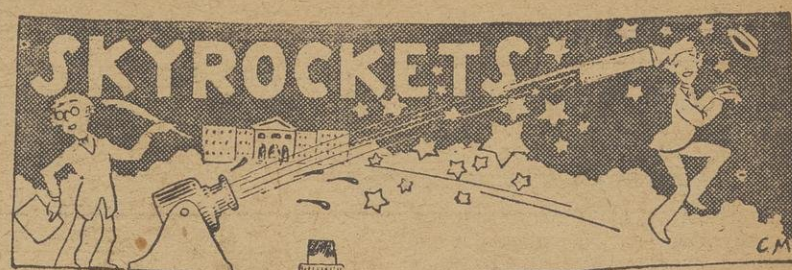

His education, then, should consist not alone of the study of past events, nor of the thoughts and conclusions of great minds who have finished their course in the world, but it should include, as well, a liberal education in the accomplishments of his contemporaries, the progress of world events that take place under his own eyes—current events, in other words.

We would be the last to depreciate the value of that mass of knowledge so laboriously collected through the ages past; it goes without saying that current events cannot be understood or interpreted at all without a secure grounding in history, literature and the philosophy of the ancients.

But the fact remains that it is a world of today that we live in and vote in and conduct our business in. Today, with our complicated forms of living and of government, which necessitates the participation of every loyal citizen, an acquaintance with the affairs of the present day world is essential for the successful individual participation in those affairs.

That a knowledge of current events is lacking in the modern student is a well-known fact to anyone who comes in contact with the student. That it is the fault of the educational system in the greater part of our colleges is not so well-established. Nothing prevents an inquiring mind from seeking out these facts from day to day, in the journals and magazines which are surely accessible to everyone—nothing, according to the students themselves, except the lack of time. Few men and women in school today take the time necessary for a comprehensive study of the world's news day by day. Probably not one student in fifty could give even a brief accurate account of the Oklahoma disturbance, or the ambassadorial vacancies of the United States or the controversy following President Coolidge's appointment of Kellogg to fill one of them.

Perhaps it would help if more time were taken in the class-room in discussion of current news. Certain it is that it would help vastly if the student would take the time, from other activities, if necessary, to read the news intensively, rather than extensively, every day. Good citizenship is, after all, badly needed today. —Minnesota Daily.

Now that the Chicago game and the sorority chapter meetings at the Strand are over, and the student body eagerly hastens to resume its work, we should like to announce that there are but 23 days left until Xmas vacation.

Therefore, take the books down off the shelf, dust them carefully, turn them over knowingly, and put them back.

Incidentally, it may occur to you to prepare financially for the fourteen days' assault on freedom, we offer to you free of charge these valuable suggestions guaranteed to swell your fussing fund.

FOR MEN ONLY

1. Attend class yourself and save the expense of a proxy.
2. Quit matching pennies—you can fuss a woman a long time on twenty five cents.
3. Use your roommate's toothpaste if you're not doing it already.
4. Hide your own razor blades and advise your roommate to wear bigger shoes.
5. Swear off smoking and start bumming your own.

LADIES' NIGHT

1. Have an affair—it pays for the meals.
2. Cut your own fingernails, they probably need it anyway.
3. If you run out of powder, use Gold Dust. You'll be surprised at the change.
4. Avoid long walks from the country—saves shoe leather and keeps down the appetite.
5. Eat fish, it makes for brains.

If you've got brains, you won't need money.

THE TIMES TOO

Editor, The Cardinal:
Wisconsin men and women will not soon forget the action of the Capital Times Wednesday night in circulating an extra with the story of a liquor seizure, headed by glaring streamer reading, "Police Seize Student Liquor." In the first place, that statement was wholly unsubstantiated by any facts brought out in the story. The Times makes its surmise thus:

"The fact that this car drove right into the student quarter after coming to Madison tends to show that the load was intended for students."

A pretty piece of news coloring, but really not so skillfully done. Even a Hearst newspaper would have exhibited much more technique. At least, it is a nice, juicy bit of scandal; too juicy, in fact, to hold for a regular edition.

The result, of course, needs no prediction. All eyes are now focused upon the University of Wisconsin as a booze resort which must be cleaned up. At least, that is the way we have been getting it. Now comes the latest. An auto load of liquor is seized, and found to be put up in pint flasks. It was taken in the University district, so it must be for the students. What could be simpler than that? So!—instead of cleaning up, those abandoned university students have just been importing more liquor. That is the psychological effect that extra, with its grossly misleading streamer, is bound to have.

No one will deny, I think, that some drinking does take place among some students at the University of Wisconsin. To deny it would be to deny that the institution includes more than 7,000 persons, widely varying in habits and in principles as any other large group in our society is bound to vary. A few will always be found who have no regard for law, or morality, or whatever you choose to call it.

The practices of these persons have already brought plenty of ugly publicity to the University; and now, out of the thread of a carload of bootleg liquor is woven a tale of

Williams Man is Guest at Smoker At Prexy's House

Prof. W. W. McLaren of the department of economics of Williams college was the speaker and guest of honor at a smoker last night at the home of Pres. E. A. Birge. Professor McLaren spoke on the Institute of Politics of which he is the executive secretary. Many members of the faculty were present.

Prof. Frederick A. Ogg of the department of political science was in charge of arrangements. He has attended meetings of this body and gave a brief explanation of its work.

"Round table discussions are held every day during the four or five weeks during which the institute is in session at Williamstown, Mass." Professor Ogg said. "Eminent speakers address the meetings on various phases of international relations."

MADISON MAN FOUND DEAD IN PARK HOTEL

Willard L. Fuller, 27, one of the star athletes at the Madison high school, was found dead in a room at the Park hotel about noon yesterday. A post mortem examination will probably be ordered by Coroner Joseph Stephenson to determine the cause of death.

"Liquor ring supplying rum to U. W. men". This is fair neither to the students of the University nor to the readers of the newspaper which issued the extra.

The editorial columns of the Times for Monday, Nov. 19, speaking of Eckersall, the Tribune, and their relation to Wisconsin contained this statement, "There are thousands of boobs in Wisconsin who have been buying and supporting the very institution that never overlooks an opportunity to rim Wisconsin."

How much is the Capital Times helping Wisconsin by a synthetic tale of liquor imported for students? Is a man really innocent until he is proven guilty—or is it the other way?

FOREIGN, LOCAL NEWSVERSATILITY AND
PEP WIN PRAISE
FOR ELSIE JANIS

By E. H. S.

Elsie Janis, bubbling over with honest-to-goodness American pep as usual, appeared before a small audience at the Central high school auditorium last night. Gay, tragic—only once and then whimsically so parodying such types as Ethel Barrymore and Will Rogers, graceful and yet, when she wished, most ungainly, vivacious, informal, she carried her audience with her, after playing Sunday night at the packed Chicago auditorium.

The first group of character songs we liked the best. Her voice may be weak, but it was pleasantly so and brought out well her negro, Spanish, cockney and American pieces which comprised the first set. As for her dancing, she is almost a second Marilyn Miller, partly because she does that kind of dancing well and partly because she seems to have such a glorious time doing it.

Since she was practically brought up in France, she knows something of French temperament and carried off her French group amusingly. We had thought that we had heard the last of the great American composition, "Yes, We Have No Bananas,"—had thought so and blessed providence. We were disappointed, then, when she chose that piece for her medium in taking off American actors. But it served her purpose excellently, especially in the parody of Will Rogers, George M. Cohen and Sam Bernard. She does this sort of thing so much better than her contemporary, Fannie Bryce.

Our one criticism is that, like Ted Lewis, she appeared too little. The saxophonist allows his colleagues too much time. So it was with Miss Janis; we would have liked to have seen her more.

Walter Verne, one of the actresses three assistants, lead off the program with some splendid singing. His baritone voice was clear and full of volume. We could have seen less of the violinist and not minded. His acrobatic stunts finally broke his bow and his accompanist took his place excellently.

It is too bad that so few Madisonians and students took this opportunity to see the girl who kept up the spirits of the Yankee soldiers and made things a little merry in France. Those who did see her, however, enjoyed her immensely, according to their enthusiasm.

"TO THE LAST MAN"

Featuring Lois Wilson and Richard Dix.

Produced by Paramount.

Presented at the Majestic.

By SAPPY

We have a decided weakness for Western pictures and we liked "To the Last Man." Many people might say that it is a little bit overdone, that the plot is weak and all that, but we maintain that the picture is worth seeing and more than that, it is good.

The story is taken from Zane Grey's novel, and the novel is followed fairly closely at least as closely as a movie should or can follow a novel. It is the story of a family feud, like the kind waged in the West and South about half a century ago. It is a story filled with excitement and pathos grippingly portrayed. There might be a little too much shooting, but is always appropriate and necessary for the action to move along.

The acting is good. Lois Wilson as Ellen Jorth is excellent. She seems to be a sincere actress, who takes her work seriously. Richard Dix as the hero, Jean Isbel, puts his part across splendidly also, and the rest of the cast fits well into the play. Special mention should be made of the photography. For a change it is more than good, and all kinds of new tricks in close-ups and other difficult photography are used.

"STEADFAST HEART"

Presented at the Parkway.

Produced by Distinctive Pictures.
Featuring Margurite Courtot, Joe Striker.

From the story by Clarence Budington Kelland in Colliers.

By C. P. G.

The story is fine, as are all of Kellands, and fine in his way, not just wishy-washy and easy sailing for the hero, but fine in a worthwhile way that leaves you something to think about afterwards. The story is built around the struggles of a boy, living in a small town, who has the misfortunes of having a thief for a father and of committing an accidental murder. The editor of the local paper takes the boy to live with him.

Mario Majeroni plays the kind-hearted editor in a convincing way, and Joe Depew plays the boy. He is encouraged in his fights, pugilistic and spiritual by a black haired little miss, who is acted on the screen by Miriam Battista. Public opinion is so strong against the lad that he leaves to grow up in a more favorable atmosphere.

He returns and after overcoming various obstacles, meets and marries his boyhood sweetheart. Joe Striker is a very handsome young man and Marguerite Courtot is the sweetheart. Why Striker has not been featured before is a wonder to us. He is, as said above, handsome, and he manages to appear human, which to us is one of the biggest virtues an actor can have.

Mention must also be made of the Seattle Harmony Kings, who put on some mean music. I'm not enough of a music critic to explain why it was good, but I liked it and I know the crowd gave it a great reception and called them back for an encore.

"LONG LIVE THE KING"

Presented at the Madison.

Featuring Jackie Coogan.

Produced by Metro.

By MONITOR

The great Jackie Coogan grows greater day by day. In this latest effort of his, aided by capable directing, a fine supporting cast, and splendid settings, he offers a picture which not only surpasses by far any other in which he has appeared (excepting, of course "The Kid"), but which is one of the few really good productions of the past year.

"Long Live the King" is a magnificent performance. The story by Mary Roberts Rhinehart is a little improbable and cumbersome for the movies but this of course is necessary to give the child wonder a role such as he has here. And Jackie certainly does take advantage of it. Never has his gift of mimicry, or his ability to change emotions, or of arousing tears or laughter been better displayed. The picture, in spite of its intricate plot and gorgeous pageantry, rests solely upon the sturdy shoulders of little Jackie Coogan, and his work is more than adequate. It is superb.

A Whirlwind Musical Production

Up Stage Bits

BY TORMENTOR

The seat sale for "Mixed Marriage" is now open. Better buy now, drama fans.

Elsie Janis shows no sign of going back to the farm after her year in gay Paree.

Union Vodvil will be one of the most pretentious in years in matter of costume and scenery. There will be five special cycloramas, a special patent leather number, and the costumes will be done by easter.

During the Chicago week end by the way, Tormentor visited Lester's studios and looked over the latest radium invention which Lester has perfected and which he will put out for this year's Haresfoot show.

The wonderful part of Lester's radium numbers is that he gets color effects—red, blue, yellow, green,—rather than a mere phosphorescent glow.

The Haresfoot show will be the first college musical comedy club to have a complete chorus radium number. The show will indeed "Twinkle Twinkle."

There is rumor that the Wisconsin players will take the Prom play on the road. Tormentor feels that this will be a great thing for the school and for dramatics but it does seem peculiar that women are not allowed to participate in Union Vodvil but will be permitted to go out of town on a road trip.

in for praise. Victor Schertingzer who directed it, deserves especial credit for intelligent handling of the complicated details in so vast a production; Only the mob scenes seem a little weak, and this is probably because one unconsciously compares them with scenes in "Robin Hood." Upon the latter picture the idea of a good many others are being patterned, and "Long Live the King" is in this category.

Little need be said of the supporting characters. The work of all from the aged chancellor to the American boy is practically flawless.

"Kentucky Days"
Is Average Show

"KENTUCKY DAYS"

Presented at the Strand.

Featuring Dustin Farnum.

"Kentucky Days" belongs to that large class of pictures called average. Though the plot is old, the play is compensated by the rather unusual setting, and the creditable acting of Dustin Farnum.

In this picture Dustin Farnum is cast as the master of a Kentucky mansion, and he makes a proud, strong hero. There is the usual triangle: the trusting husband, the weak wife, and the treacherous best friend, who in this case, cousin to the hero. Completely at the end of his resources, the husband goes to California (it's a forty-niner picture) and returns, in two years, to find his mother dead, and his wife supposedly in love with his cousin. Thereupon come a succession of thrills: a pistol duel, in which the cousin is disposed of, a fire, and a long and arduous journey across the prairie. There is a remarkable sand-storm on this trip, vivid and realistic.

Perhaps the principle merits of "Kentucky Days" are to be found in its photography and costuming. The scenes are beautiful and truly southern in atmosphere. The costumes are charming, and embellish the action. A little comedy, a little tragedy, a little pride, a little expiation, are brightened by colonial pillars, numerous slaves, and weather-beaten caravans. It's really not bad.

BARR TWINS PUT ON BEST PART OF
WEEK'S ORPH BILL

By SHEVIE

The Barr twins put on by far the best act at the Orph this week. Al- extraordinary, most of the acts are though the rest of the bill is not pretty fair.

"Bits of Art"

Rapidly painted, but very picturesque, landscapes, accompanying sentimental songs.

William Elbs

An astounding performance in ventriloquism.

"Two Sharps and a Flat"

Sounds like a discord, but the Transfield sisters bring out some pretty good harmony.

Bert Baker and company

In "Prevarication." The farciest farce we have seen for some time. Rather too silly to be called good.

Joe Rome and Lou Gaut

"When Extremes Meet" is mis-named. There is only one extreme, extremely rotten.

Barr Twins

In one of the best novelty dance acts this season. Pretty costumes—pretty girls—pretty good.

there is a cartoon comedy and a regular comedy "Why Pay Rent"—a spook affair—which is amusing.

Never flunks
—this lifetime friend

A TRUE friend is a staunch one—always reliable. Men who bought their Rubberset Shaving Brushes way back in 1888, when we first started, still find them the same reliable friends each morning.

Rubbersets are always ready to whip up a big, speedy lather that works down to the very roots of the hair—holding each erect, easy to cut.

Gripped in rubber—

There is reason for Rubberset's remarkable service. Every Rubberset bristle is gripped everlastingly in hard rubber—it can't come out, get mixed with the lather—hinder shaving.

Just for added certainty, Rubberset Brushes are guaranteed—unconditionally. The bristles stay in. Each brush makes good—or we do. Get this prime essential to a clean, cool shave... today... at any store on the campus. Made by Rubberset Company, Newark, N. J., U. S. A.
