Dedication

To better and to worse ❧ ❧ ❧ ❧

To fussers and to buckers ❧ ❧ ❧ ❧

To peaches and to pelicans; to the Chadbourne co-eds, sweet, serene, reliable for a Gondolier partner; to the sorority pippins, concentrated combinations of feminine niftiness, versed in changing fascinations, fair as the morning sun, but, on occasions, cold as the morning after; to the boarding house girls, bright flowerets in a waste of rubbed chintz curtains and hybridized hash ❧ ❧ ❧ ❧

To the engineers, and conversely the Y. M. C. A.

To agrics and to pharmics; to the bulge-browed
Normal products, ingesting, pesky pedagogics ❧ ❧

To the frat man with the windy breeches and the rube with half-mast dittoes ❧ ❧ ❧

To laws, laundrymen and landladies ❧ ❧

To Filippinos, the freshmen, and the faculty ❧

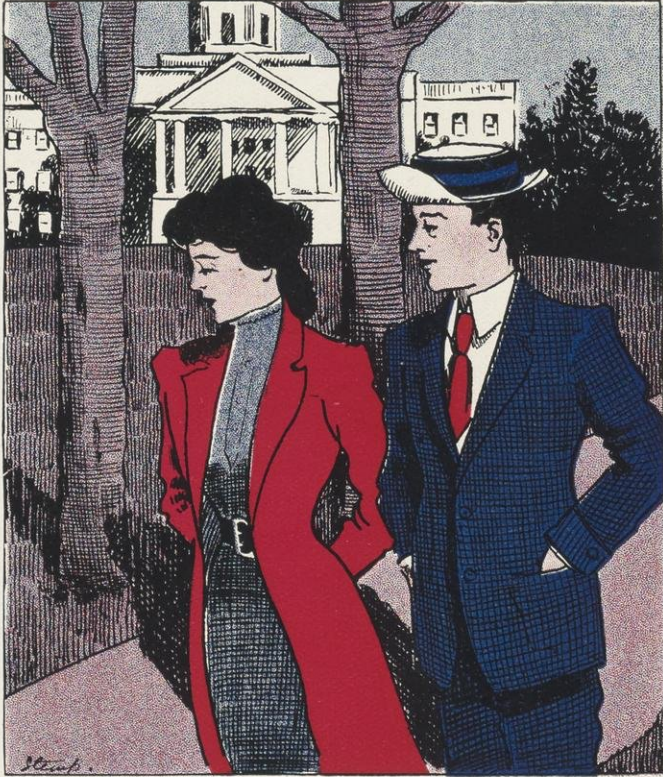

To juniors and janitors; to solemn seniors, and suffering sophomore slide-rule shovers ❧ ❧

To philosophers; domestic pie-scientists; Prof.
Parker's piano punishers; pre-medics (before taking);
post-grads; Wisconsin Academicians; the cold, calculating cusses in the commerce course ❧ ❧

To anyone we may have skipped ❧ ❧

In fact, to all the bunch and individually You; to our well-loved University, and to Madison, our pleasant home for four years, barring cons ❧ ❧

This Badger is respectfully and affectionately dedicated by ❧ ❧ ❧ The Class of 1908

Ph. D., University of Wisconsin, 1898.

Ruth Florence Allen, Phi Beta Kappa,
Assistant in Botany.

B. A., University of Wisconsin, 1905.

William Ensign Atwell,
Assistant in Business Administration.

John Earl Baker, Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Alpha Tau, Phi Beta Kappa
Assistant in Public Speaking.

Ph. B., University of Wisconsin, 1906.

Erma Mary Bashford, Kappa Gamma Delta,
Instructor in Elocution.

A. B., Ohio Wesleyan University, 1904.

Graduate of Ohio Wesleyan School of Oratory.

Elizabeth Bass,
Instructor in Physical Training.

A. B., Wellesley, 1903.

Graduate Boston Normal School of Gymnastics, 1905.

Arthur Beatty,
Instructor in English.

B. A., University of Toronto, 1893.

Ph. D., Columbia University, 1897.

†Benjamin Franklin Bennett, Phi Gamma Delta,
Student Assistant in Military Science.

†Resigned February 18, 1907.

- Frances Campbell Berkeley,
Instructor in English.
A. B., Columbia University, 1902.
A. M., Columbia University, 1904.
- Thomas Lyman Bewick,
Instructor in Physics.
Ph. B., University of Wisconsin, 1905.
- Julian Raymond Blackman, Beta Theta Pi,
Assistant in Physiology.
B. A., University of Nebraska, 1902.
M. D., Johns Hopkins University, 1906.
- Leonard Bloomfield, Phi Beta Kappa,
Assistant in German.
A. B., Harvard University, 1906.
- Eliot Boardman, Phi Beta Kappa,
Assistant in French.
A. B., Harvard University, 1904.
- Frank Kellog Brainard,
Assistant in Physics.
- Joseph Granger Brandt,
Ph. B., Assistant in Latin.
- Benjamin William Bridgman,
Assistant in Physics.
Ph. B., University of Wisconsin, 1906.
- Karl Ormand Burrer, Phi Gamma Delta,
Assistant in Physics.
B. S., Denison University, 1902.
- Robert Campbell,
B. A., Laboratory Assistant in Political Economy.
- Arthur Brooks Clawson, Sigma Chi, Sigma Xi, Acacia
Assistant in Zoology.
A. B., University of Michigan, 1904.
- Allen Lysander Colton, Phi Delta Theta,
Instructor in Physics.
Ph. B., University of Michigan, 1889.
A. B., University of Michigan, 1890.
A. M., University of Michigan, 1898.
- John Leonard Conger,
M. A., Assistant in American History.

New Members of the Faculty

Edward Burr VanVleck, Ph. D.

Edward Burr VanVleck received his elementary education at Middleton, Connecticut. From the public schools of his home city, Professor Van Vleck went to Wiebrahm Academy in Massachusetts. The Bachelor degree was obtained at Wesleyan University, Middletown, Connecticut, after four years study, from 1880 to 1884.

EDWARD BURR VANVLECK

Professor VanVleck attended Johns Hopkins University from 1885 to 1887; during the latter year he was a Fellow in Physics at that institution. Then followed three years as Instructor in Mathematics at Wesleyan University after which Professor VanVleck went abroad to study at Göttingen, Germany, where he obtained the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1893. Upon his return, Professor VanVleck was called to Wisconsin as Instructor in Mathematics continuing in that capacity up to his return to Wesleyan in 1895, where he was Assistant Professor of Mathematics until 1898. From that time up to his call to Wisconsin in 1906, as Professor of Mathematics, he acted in the same capacity at Wesleyan University.

Professor VanVleck is one of the three editors of the Transactions of the American Mathematical Society. He is also a member of both the French and German Mathematical Societies and of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Professor VanVleck belongs to the Phi Nu Theta Fraternity (Wesleyan). He was born at Middletown, Connecticut, in 1863.

Joseph Erlanger, B. S., M. D.

Joseph Erlanger was born in San Francisco, California, in the year 1874, and received his early education in the common and high schools of that city. Later he entered the University of California and was graduated from that institution in 1895 with the degree of Bachelor of Science. The next four years were devoted to the study of medicine at the Johns Hopkins Medical School. Having obtained his M. D. degree, he served as President House Officer in the Johns Hopkins Hospital for a term of one year. He was then appointed Fellow in Pathology in the Johns Hopkins University but resigned this position shortly thereafter to become Assistant in Philosophy. Between the years 1901-06 he was successively appointed Instructor, Associate and Associate Professor. The last position he resigned in order to accept the Professorship of Physiology in the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Erlanger is a member of the American Physiological Society, the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, the American Medical Association, the Dane Medical Society and the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters.

Charles Pelton Hutchins, M. D.

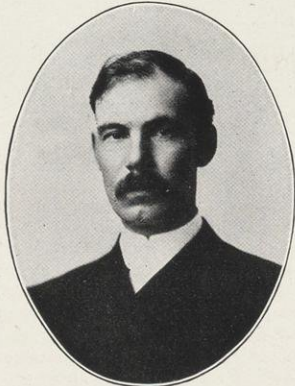

Charles Pelton Hutchins was born at Brooklyn, New York, in 1872. He attended the Adelpia Academy in Brooklyn from 1882 until 1890. From the Academy, Professor Hutchins went to Williams College, remaining there two years and then going to Columbia University, where he spent the year of 1892-93. He received the degree of M. D. at Long Island College Hospital where he studied medicine from 1894 to 1897. After graduation, Dr. Hutchins practiced medicine until 1902 when he left his practice to become Physical Director of Dickinson College, remaining in that capacity for two years. The next two years were spent in the same capacity at Dickinson Preparatory School. Dr. Hutchins was instructor in Athletics at Syracuse University from 1904 up to the time of his call to Wisconsin in 1906.

He is a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity and also of the Society of College Physical Directors.

CHARLES PELTON HUTCHINS

Edward Alsworth Ross, Ph. D.

E. A. Ross

Edward Alsworth Ross was born in Virden, Illinois, in 1866. He graduated from Coe College, Iowa, in 1886 and then studied at the University of Berlin during 1888-1889; attended Johns Hopkins University during 1890-91 where he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in 1891. During the year of 1891-92 he was Associate Professor of Economics at the University of Indiana and the following year was spent at Cornell as Associate Professor of Political Economy and Finance.

Professor Ross was Secretary of the American Economic Association and Advisory Editor of the American Journal of Sociology in 1892-93.

From 1893 to 1900 Professor Ross was engaged at Stanford University, California, as Professor of Sociology. After leaving that Institution he went to Nebraska in the same capacity. He was lecturer in Sociology at Harvard from 1902 to 1905.

Professor Ross has written many articles on Sociology and Economics for economic and sociological journals and is the author of "Honest Dollars" (1896), and "Social Control" (1901) and other similar works.

Harold C. Bradley, Ph. D.

Harold C. Bradley was born in Oakland, California, in 1878, attending the public grammar schools there until 1889. He graduated from the Berkeley High School in 1896 and then entered the University of California, taking the Classical Course.

The A. B. degree was obtained in 1900, and during the year of 1900-01 held the position of Assistant in the Chemistry Laboratory. In 1901, as a graduate student, Dr. Bradley went to Yale University, specializing in Physiological Chemistry. In 1904 he was engaged in nutrition researches under Professor Chittenden upon the United States Army diet squad. He received his Doctor of Philosophy degree from Yale in 1905. From that time up to his coming to Wisconsin in 1906, Dr. Bradley was Instructor in Physiological Chemistry in the Yale Medical School.

He is a member of the Delta Upsilon, and Sigma Xi fraternities; also of the American Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters.

Mrs. C. S. Woodward

Mrs. Cora Stranahan Woodward

Adviser of Women

Mrs. Cora Stranahan Woodward was born in Fulton, New York, and educated in the schools of her native town and in Syracuse and Cornell Universities. In 1894 she entered the service of the Department of Education of New York State and continued in its service for four years, first as Examiner in English Literature for the Regents of the University, and later in the compilation of a report of public school work in this and other countries, for the Department of Public Instruction. From her marriage in 1898 to Henry Lake Woodward, late of the New York State bar, until 1905, Mrs. Woodward was not engaged in educational work. The year previous to June 1906, when she was appointed Adviser of Women in the University of Wisconsin, was spent in travel and study of conditions of life for women students in European and American Universities.

Mrs. Woodward is a member of the Alpha Phi Fraternity.

Alfred Lewis Pinneo Dennis, Ph. D.

Alfred Lewis Pinneo Dennis was called to Wisconsin as Professor of European History, in April, 1905. In 1896 Professor Dennis was graduated from Princeton University with the A. B. degree. He was successively a student at Columbia University, Heidelberg University, Germany, and Harvard University, receiving the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Columbia in 1901. During the next three years he was, first, Instructor and then Professor of History and Political Science in Bowdoin College. The year of 1904-05 was spent as Associate Professor of History at the University of Chicago.

A. L. P. Dennis

Dr. Dennis was born in 1874 at Beirut, Syria, Ottoman Empire. His early education was obtained through tutors and at private schools both at home and abroad.

Prof. W. W. Cook, M.A., L.L.M.

Walter Wheeler Cook received his early education in the public schools of Columbus, Ohio, where he was born in 1873. The public schools of Chicago, the State Normal School at Potsdam, New York, and Rutgers College Preparatory School were also attended. Professor Cook's first year of college was spent at Rutgers; the next three years were devoted to study in Columbia College from which the degree of A.B. was obtained in 1894.

The M. A. degree was conferred in 1899 at Columbia University where Professor Cook received his L.L.M. degree in 1901. The courses at Columbia University were largely concerned with legal study, covering political science as well as public and private law.

In 1894-1895 he was Assistant in Mathematics at Columbia University and in 1895-1897 John Tyndall Fellow in Physics at that institution during which time Professor Cook studied abroad at Jena, Leipzig, and Berlin. Then from 1901 up to 1904, he was connected with the University of Nebraska as Instructor in Jurisprudence and American History, Assistant Professor of Public Law, and Professor of Law. From 1904 up to the time of his call to Wisconsin, Professor Cook was engaged as Professor of Law at the University of Missouri. As an undergraduate several prize scholarships both in Physics and Mechanics, were won at Columbia University. As a graduate, Professor Cook was awarded the Toppan prize in Comparative Constitutional Law in 1900 at Columbia.

Professor Cook is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, the Delta Kappa Epsilon, Phi Delta Phi, and the Theta Kappa Nu (honorary graduate legal) fraternities.

Edwin Bret Hart, B.S.

Edwin Bret Hart was born in 1874 on a farm near Sandusky, Ohio. He graduated from the Sandusky High School and then began his higher education at the University of Michigan, there receiving the B.S. degree in 1897. During 1900 and 1901, Professor Hart studied at Heidelberg and Marburg, Germany. Up to the time of his sojourn abroad Professor Hart held the position of Assistant Chemist for the New York Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva. Upon returning from Europe, he again became connected with the Experiment Station at Geneva as Associate Chemist, continuing in that capacity up to his call to Wisconsin in 1906.

Professor Hart has been a contributor, of well-known articles, to one of the leading German chemistry journals, and also to the Journal of the American Chemical Society, the American Chemical Journal, and the American Journal of Physiology.

E. B. HART

William David Pence, C.E.

William David Pence was born at Columbus, Indiana, in 1865. His early education was obtained at that city. From High School, Professor Pence went to the School of Civil Engineering, University of Illinois, from which he graduated in 1886. The degree of Civil Engineer was conferred in 1895.

During 1882 and up to 1886, Professor Pence was engaged in municipal, drainage, bridge and railway work. In 1886 he entered the service of the engineering department of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railroad and served in succession as Assistant Engineer of the Gulf Division, Road Master of the Galveston and Houston Division, and Resident Engineer of the Gulf Division.

Professor Pence entered the Faculty of the School of Civil Engineering of the University of Illinois and from 1892 to 1899 taught Railway Engineering branches and served in succession as Instructor, Assistant Professor and Associate Professor. In 1899 he was appointed Professor of Civil Engineering at Purdue University. For four years following 1890, Professor Pence investigated water works stand-pipe accidents, and in 1894 published serially, a history of such accidents, followed in 1895 by a supplementary record of failures and an analysis of current practice in specifications for material and workmanship. He was joint author of "A Manual of Surveying" in 1900. Since 1904, Professor Pence has been the editor of publications of the American Railway Engineering and Maintenance of way Association. From 1905 and up to his call to Wisconsin in 1906, he served as a member of the Commission on the Reclamation of the Kankakee Marsh Region. Professor Pence is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Western Society of Engineers, the Western Railway Club and the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education.

In connection with instructional work at the University, Professor Pence also serves as Engineer for the Wisconsin State Board of Assessment and Railroad Commission of Wisconsin.

Henry Cullen Adams

A Brief Account of His Life and Public Services

By Dean W. A. Henry

Henry Cullen Adams was born in Verona, Oneida County, New York, November 28, 1850, and came with his parents to Wisconsin the following year. In his veins flowed the blood of the statesmen Adams and Webster. He received his education at the Albion Academy and the University of Wisconsin. For a number of years he was engaged in dairying and fruit growing at Madison. He served as a member of the state assembly in 1883 and 1885. From 1887 to 1889 he was engaged in the work of the Wisconsin farmers' institutes. He served as president of the Wisconsin State Dairymen's Association, and as secretary of the State Horticultural Society. In 1888 he was appointed Superintendent of Public Property, and from 1895 to 1902 he filled the office of State Dairy and Food Commissioner. In this position he accomplished a great work for the dairy and pure food interests, and secured a training which later proved eminently useful to the whole nation. He was elected to Congress in 1902, and re-elected in 1904.

Mr. Adams' extensive public service was a fitting preparation for his brilliant though brief career in Congress. A speaker of unusual power, he expressed his thoughts logically, clothing them with the fewest, simplest words possible, always fitly chosen. He never repeated ideas or words, his short, telling sentences following one another rapidly, and in splendid arrangement. In debate, where he especially shone, he accorded his opponents the most courteous treatment; no matter how strained the contest, there was never anything personal.

The happy combination of these qualities, so valuable to a legislator, coupled with his extensive knowledge of agriculture and a broad grasp of affairs generally, early attracted the attention and won the friendship of his associates in the House of Representatives. In that great deliberative body probably no man ever gained friends more rapidly than did Henry Cullen Adams. The rush of pregnant events pushed him into prominence, and his short congressional career was one continuous triumph.

Mr. Adams' greatest work was securing for the experiment stations established under the Hatch Act of 1887, an increase in income aggregating $700,000 annually for higher agricultural research. This measure he introduced and passed single-handed in the short period of three sessions at Congress—an almost unequaled accomplishment.

All his life Mr. Adams was an invalid. Sickness drove him from the State University before he completed his course; spectrelike, it haunted his every project. How he survived year after year, and accomplished so much useful, lasting work, is a mystery to all who knew him intimately. He seemed to exist on will power, a splendid example of the supremacy of mind over matter.

The measures brought to issue in the first session of the fifty-ninth Congress, were among the most important ever considered by that body. In this strenuous campaign, Mr. Adams was in the very front of the battle. He studied the New Mexico-Arizona statehood problem on the ground itself, and sided with the "insurgents,"—and they won. One of the most important pieces of legislation ever before Congress was the pure food bill. Here Mr. Adams' experience as Dairy and Food Commissioner of Wisconsin served a splendid purpose. His familiarity with the subject, the statesmanlike manner of treating every topic under consideration, coupled with generous helpfulness to others, caused his counsel to be sought by many and regarded by all. At each turn of this strenuous contest he was in the very fore with the leaders. All these weighty events were solely and surely sapping his small reserve of strength, though he held on with a persistency that surprised all. During this time his mental powers expanded rapidly. Opportunity and ambition reached full fruition.

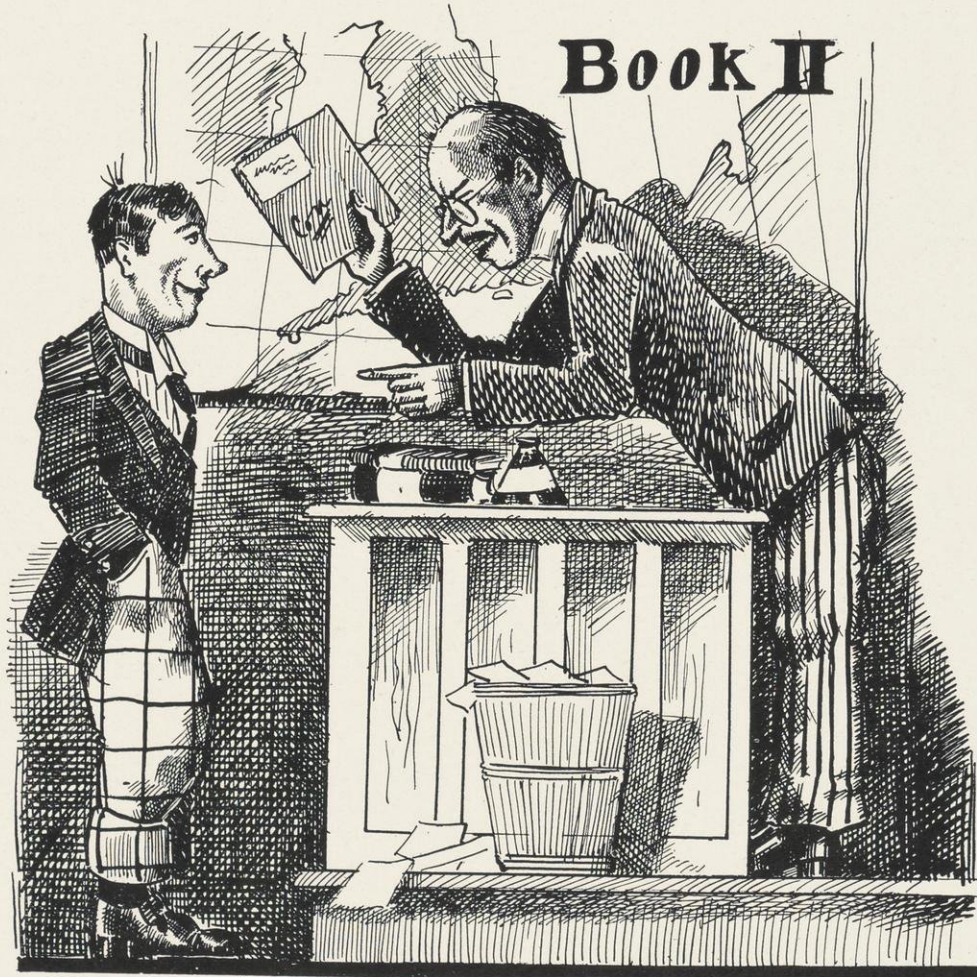

And then, as though there had not already been enough in this historic session, there came near its close, the herculean contest between the packers and the President over the meat inspection bill. Complications and differences multiplied and grew until there seemed no way of bringing harmony among the opposing factions. In an hour when the clashing interests were wrought to the highest pitch and chaos reigned, he brought the President and the packers together, and once more the people had won.

With the finish of the great congressional drama, in which he had played such a brilliant part, he left the national capital for his Wisconsin home—but it was too late, and on the way his light went out. With his going there passed one of the most useful men that had ever stood on the floor of Congress. Had he been spared to carry on the work he loved so well, he would have been advanced, without doubt, to the chairmanship of the Agricultural Committee of the House. Here his keen discernment, his broad powers, his deep appreciation of agriculture, would have made him a still greater power for good in national legislation. As we enumerate the richness of his attainment during the three short years of his national public service, I am sure all will agree that in his going American agriculture lost the most loyal and helpful friend it ever had in the halls of Congress.

As of another, so it may be said of Henry Cullen Adams—"He too gave his life for his country."

CLASSES

College Traditions

“Therefore be it resolved by the class of 1855 of the University of Wisconsin, that the following rules shall govern the conduct and action of all freshmen at the University, excepting such as shall have made the football or other athletic teams, or won a ‘W.’

“1. No freshman shall smoke a pipe or be seen to carry a pipe when on the street or outdoors within the city of Madison.

“2. No freshman shall carry a cane or walking stick at any time unless such cane or stick is necessary because of injuries making it impossible for him to walk without the aid of such cane or stick.

“3. No freshman shall wear any derby or stiff hat whatever during the year until May 1, save only upon ‘prom’ night.

“4. No freshman or sophomore shall under any circumstances whatever sit upon the fence in front of the gym. This rule applies to all freshmen and sophomores without exception.”

Adopted by the Student Conference Committee, 1906:

FIRST—That persons going to or coming from regularly advertised meetings of organizations connected with the university shall not be interfered with.

SECOND—That respect shall be paid to the orders of holders of property regarding trespassing upon same.

THIRD—That whenever any of the following designated upper-classmen shall interfere with a hazing episode, because in their judgment such hazing is going too far, their interference shall be respected by the under-classmen; and any failure on the part of the latter so to do shall be disciplined by the upper classes.

1910 now kneel and listen
To the oracle of men!
Fate declares that you are worthless
Death awaits you, 1910

Freshies fly back to your fathers,
Run you rowdy rumdum mokes,
Excretion foul and filthy,
Sizzles as old satan stokes,
Hot and hotter grows his hot-house,
Mean and meaner is his mien,
Evil egg-bespattered freshmen,
Num skulls never were so green.

Mushheads, mickies, mammas' tootsies,
Uncouth, ugly, useless he's,
Senseless, soaks, so sad and sloppy,
Turn your tails; take to the trees!

Direful doom o'erhangs dull dunces
In Mendota's icy brine;
Each and every brainless freshy
Will be drowned by 1909

Comments on "The Rush"

Cardinal, Oct. 26, 1906

As Others See Us

The following item appeared in the New York World of October 4.

"BILLIES" FOR CLASS RUSH

Madison, Wis., Oct. 3.—While President Van Hise, of the University of Wisconsin, is seeking to lay a restraining hand on the annual freshman-sophomore class rush, there is every indication that the scrimmage tomorrow will be marked by record breaking roughness and stunts which may lead to serious injuries if not checked early in the day.

The freshmen are determined to "show the sops up," and with this end in mind are to have 1,000 small but dangerous clubs or billies.

The plan, it is said, is to conceal the clubs until victory seems to be swinging in the direction of the sops. Then they are to be used most effectively.

23 FOR YOU

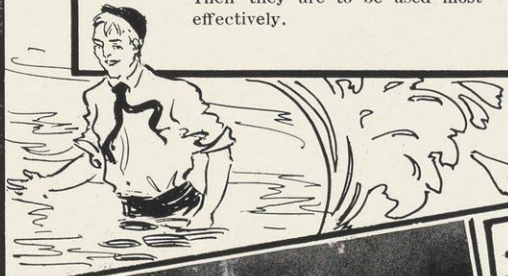

Fattened fools for fearful slaughter,
Hearken, hearken, 1909

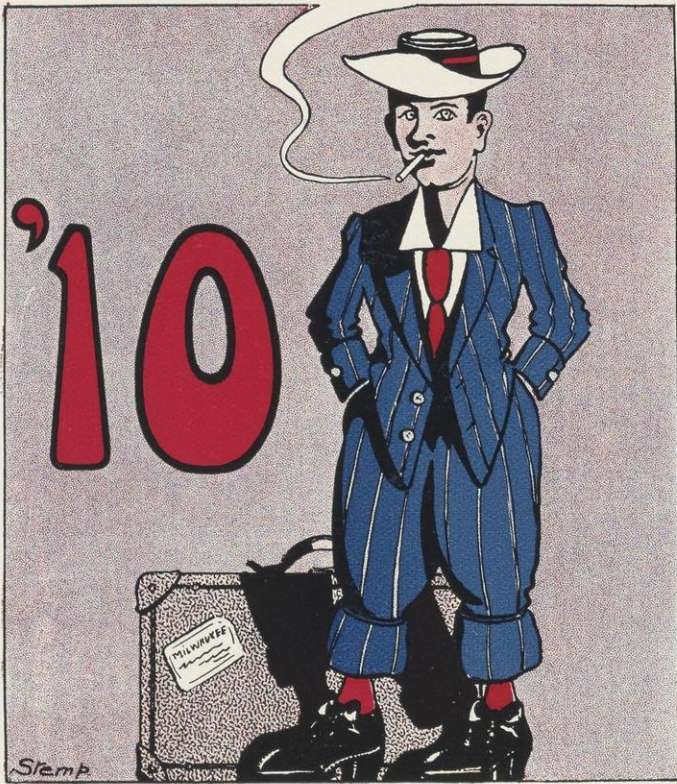

We have heard your foolish boasts, and your simple childish drool, but we guess you'll have to SHOW US Ere you try to run the school.

YOUR RECKONING APPROACHES

Back you weaklings to the coal mine! back to SUN-DAY SCHOOL! arise, get you back to forests vernal, till you grow to be our size. Be not SIM- IAN with the buzz saw; let the CYCLONE go its way; it is now no case of spouting—one thing's left for you, it's spray. Pray for courage when in HADES, you're not men enough for Heaven, and beware our diresome

FOOT-BALL

Review of the Football Season of 1906

The football season of 1906 had a greater significance in Wisconsin's athletic history than might at first be recognized. For the first time in many years the Cardinal team entered upon its work with no possible hope of winning the Western Championship, since by the ruling of the faculty no games were to be played with the big teams of Chicago, Michigan or Minnesota. But the players this year were fighting not so much for their own glory as to save the honor and prestige of the illustrious line that had gone before. They were struggling to keep old Wisconsin her well-earned title to a place among the best teams of the west.

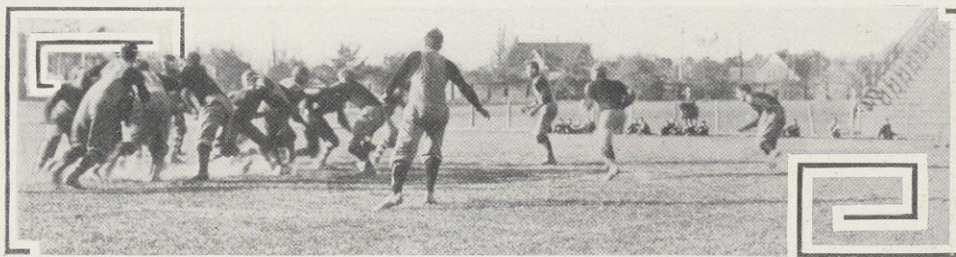

With the gloomiest prospects we began our task. The reform wave had shattered Wisconsin's athletic hopes. But three "W" men were back—Clark, Johnson and myself, and only a few others of last year's squad returned. Our hopes were centered in the 1909 champion Freshman team. The squad was hardly half as large as in former years. To make matters worse many of the promising players were barred by "cons." With this disheartening outlook Dr. Hutchins bravely tackled the situation. The task was a hard one. The material was new and light while the time for preparation before our first game was very short. The new rules were as yet untried and much of the play was to be, of necessity, experimental. Through Dr. Hutchins's unceasing and energetic efforts the available material was developed into a football team. These opening days were anxious ones at Wisconsin. It was easily seen that, under the circumstance our schedule of "small" games was going to be a very hard one.

On October 13th Lawrence came to Madison conscious of our situation and determined to win. Lawrence had had five weeks of practice, Wisconsin but two. With only a few simple plays, and these not perfected, Wisconsin went into the game, and only by sheer force of her fighting qualities landed a victory. When Lawrence received the ball on our four-yard line after the failure of our forward pass, we faced the most critical situation known in the football history of Wisconsin. Had they succeeded in putting the ball over, our lone touch-down would have been tied. Then, with a successful try at goal—we shudder to think of the result. Once, twice, three times we held, and Wisconsin was saved. The game was won but the showing was far from satisfactory and gloom filled the Wisconsin camp. The next week was marked by considerable improvement. On October 20th we met the University of North Dakota, a better team than Lawrence, downing them by a score of 10 to 0. In this game, however, we suffered the loss of our speedy halfback, Rudolph Soukup, who was taken to the hospital with a broken leg. He had been our mainstay in the backfield and his loss to the team at this time seemed most disastrous.

MILLER

During the two weeks preceding the Iowa game the team was subjected to work of the hardest description. At Dr. Hutchins's request Dr. McCarthy, Earl Driver and Arne Lerum came out to assist in the coaching. New plays were thrashed out and the team work smoothed up. It was a new team that lined up against Iowa on November 3rd. Fumbles and misplay on the part of Wisconsin and fierce fighting on the part of the Hawkeyes made things look bad for us during the fore part of the game, the first half ending 4 to 0 in favor of the visitors. In the second half Wisconsin came back with the old spirit to do or die. Maddened at the thought of defeat, the Badgers swept the Iowa team off its feet, scoring three touchdowns. Messmer made two of the goals. Clark's punting and Springer's generalship, as well as the fine work of both men in running back punts, are especially deserving of praise. The evening after the Iowa game is one we football men of 1906 will long remember. The demonstrations of student enthusiasm had filled our hearts with gladness. We knew the student body was back of us and that the old Wisconsin spirit was not dead. We had played our first "big" game and won. For the first time we had been put to the test and were enabled to feel that confidence in ourselves necessary to success.

CLARK

On November 10th we met our most formidable rival, Illinois, at Champaign. We were greatly handicapped by the loss of Frank who was confined to the hospital by injuries received in practice two days before the game. Curtin, however, who was shifted to his position, proved an efficient end. The game developed into a punting contest in which Clark did good execution. His long twisting kicks repeatedly eluded the Illinois backs, bounding upon the ground as the Wisconsin ends came down the field. In the first half Rogers gave us the lead by scooping a bounding punt and sprinting for a touchdown. Early in the second half Messmer continued the lead by a kick from placement. Illinois scored a touchdown after receiving the ball from a fumble on our twenty-yard line. The Badgers made up for this one touchdown by adding six more points, and the game ended Wisconsin 16, Illinois 6. Springer showed good generalship and again starred with Clark in handling punts. Johnson and Stiehm also did work well worthy of mention.

Confidence reigned pretty generally at Wisconsin in regard to the last game. The fact that it was not unwarranted was demonstrated on November 17th when we defeated Purdue 29 to 5. Wisconsin started with a rush, scoring in less than three minutes of play. The game was ours from the start. Purdue's one score was not the result of straight football, but came of a fumble and a long run. Clark's work was brilliant as ever in spite of his injuries received in the Illinois game. Johnson, who had before proven a stronghold at right tackle, repeatedly broke up Purdue's plays and scored two of our five touchdowns. Miller starred on defence, and carried the ball for consistent gains. The work of Stiehm

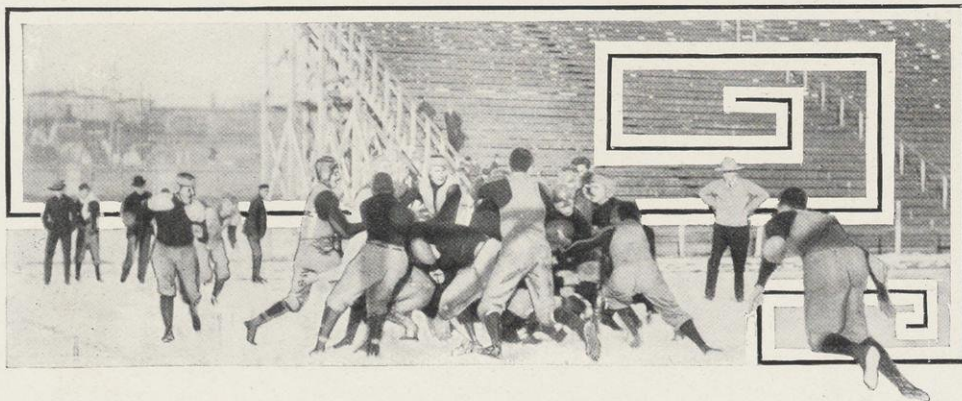

WISCONSIN VS. LAWRENCE

and Messmer also well deserves comment. Rogers, Curtin, Howard and Bleyer showed true metal, playing with that dash and vim so characteristic of Badger warriors.

The winning of our games against five minor colleges may not seem of any momentous consequence. By her complete list of victories Wisconsin holds no championship and has not even defined her rank among the western colleges. Nevertheless we have had a most successful season, the success being not in what we have gained, but in what we have not lost. We have helped to carry Wisconsin through a great crisis. Even though the reform controversy has not yet subsided we have passed through its most crucial period. Football has been retained at Wisconsin and our college spirit and interest in athletics have been kept alive. This season closes the intercollegiate football career of Clark, Johnson, Bleyer, Curtin and myself. We look back upon our last season's work with satisfaction, feeling that all has been accomplished that was possible under the circumstances. In the past the hope of our winning the big championship has always inspired our teams to their greatest achievements. Without that source of inspiration, with but a scanty amount of material, with an outlook in every way dismal, we practiced, trained and battled, that as a reward it might be said of us that we did our best. Truthfully we can say we did our best. While we have not enhanced the glory of Wisconsin's athletic achievements, we have at least not detracted from her honor. We leave intact to our successors the rich legacy of Wisconsin prestige. We have demonstrated that even with a crippled and inexperienced team we do not belong in the same category as Iowa, Illinois and Purdue. We do not request our names to be written along with those of O'Dea, Driver, Karel, Curtis, Larson, Cochems, Bertke, Findlay, Vanderboom, Remp and the rest of their line, we only ask that it may be said that we have engraved a little deeper upon the escutcheon of our alma mater those fine old words,

"There are no Quitters in Wisconsin"

The Team

Captain Gelbach

Captain Gelbach, who led the Badgers through their successful season last year is a veteran of the game. Before coming to the University, Gelbach played on the strong Lancaster High School team, where he learned the rudiments of football. In 1903 he was a member of the Freshman team which won the western championship; in 1904 he was substitute guard on the regulars, and since then he has been a strong man on the Varsity. Captain Gelbach is not what would be called a brilliant player, but he can always be trusted to take care of his own position. He is in no sense a grand stand man, and he has never thrilled the rooters with any sensational feats. But when it is up to him to do a thing, he generally does it. Chicago, in 1904, on third down had only a yard to go for a touchdown, and tried to make the distance over Gelbach. The big guard broke through and stopped the Maroon charge before it ever got to the scrimmage line. In the same way he single handed saved Wisconsin from the disgrace of having Lawrence cross her goal line in the memorable opening game last year. All through his football career, Captain Gelbach has been known as a steady, consistent, strong and earnest player.

GELBACH

"Socky"

SOUKUP

At Wisconsin the name spells speed, strength, enthusiasm and downright grit. It's the name of a fellow who doesn't know when he's licked.

Soukup came from Sturgeon Bay High School where he had played four years at end and half-back. He entered late in the season in his freshman year, but was almost immediately singled out by Coach Driver to play full-back on the Freshman team and during the rest of that season played in every game. His speed and strength were at once noticeable and the old idea of his high school teammates sprung up among the Varsity men,—“You can't kill him; he'll be back for more.” In his Sophomore year “Socky” played sub-end on the Varsity and gained the experience in football that is so necessary to make the transition from High School to College football. His light weight counted against him under the old rules but when, with the adoption of the new system of play, the cry went out for fast men, for the speed first and always, all followers of the Wisconsin team knew that Soukup would fill a place on the team and fill it well.

The prediction was fulfilled, for Soukup's work from the first was of the highest order. When Lawrence threatened the defeat of the Varsity in the opening game of the season, Soukup saved the school by a sensational dash around left end for a 30-yard run and a touch-down. Again in the North Dakota game, he scored the only touchdown of the game by a brilliant dodging run around the end. Shortly after in repeating the play, he was getting clear of the end when a Dakota man broke through and brought him down and the accident occurred.

The general feeling of gloom that followed was well expressed by the remark: “He's the last man we wanted to loose.”

Among those who followed Soukup's work in the first two games, there is little doubt that he would have made the All-Western team at half-back by a unanimous vote.

JOHNSON

STIEHM AND SPRINGER

Stiehm

"Stiehm is as big as a box-car and moves like a mail train. When he hits there's a wreck and he is never among the unclaimed dead." This description of the big center comes mainly from opposing centers, who usually have to shade their eyes to see the top of his head.

Stiehm played on the Fort Atkinson team during the years when that high school repeatedly had teams with good claims to the State Championship. In his first year in the Varsity, he played center on "Keg" Driver's 1909 prodigies who won the All-Freshman Championship of the West. As freshman center, Stiehm was frequently pitted against the great "Dick" Remp in practice, and there learned much of the good football that any Big Four center must know.

During the first part of the past season Stiehm did not appear for practice, but when once out, immediately made the center position. In the Illinois and Purdue games, he showed fine form and outplayed his man from whistle to whistle. His work was clean-cut and fast and was marked by exhibitions of head work that show him to be already a master hand in his position. With two years more to go, barring discipline committees, Stiehm should leave a record that would put him in a class with Remp or Skow.

Springer

"Ernie" Springer is essentially a Wisconsin product. Born and raised in the atmosphere of Badgerdom, he has been a conspicuous figure in high school and university athletics in Wisconsin for the past five years. Not only in football, but in track and field athletics, Springer has shown himself to be a star.

Springer's early football experience was gained at the Milwaukee East Division High School, where for three years he held down the quarterback and halfback positions on one of the strongest high school teams contending for the state championship. He entered the University of Wisconsin in the fall of 1905 with the '09 class, and while he played no football in his freshman year he established his reputation as an athlete of marked ability by setting a new record in the pole-vault for the University. When the call for candidates for the 1906 football team was issued, Springer was among the many "unknowns" to respond, and when the Varsity team finished its season unbeaten for the first time since the championship year of 1901, he had established himself among the "never-to-be-forgotten" who have worn the mole-skin for old Wisconsin. His opportunity came in the game against Iowa. The manner in which "Ernie" took hold of the team in the second half, with the score 4 to 0 in Iowa's favor, and against what seemed to the laymen, insurmountable odds, pulled a victory out for Wisconsin, will remain indelibly impressed upon the minds of all who witnessed the game. The three touchdowns following in rapid succession his entrance into the game, will stand forever as a monument to his prowess and ability as a football player. His subsequent performances in the Illinois and Purdue games have stamped him as one of the grittiest, pluckiest, nerviest and headiest field-generals that ever wore a cleated boot on Camp Randall gridiron.

Messmer

Messmer, the husky left tackle of the 1906 Varsity team entered with the 1909 Engineers from east Division High School, Milwaukee. On the Freshman team Coach Driver used him at tackle and fullback, alternately, and he made good at both places.

But the Varsity team lacked tackles this year and as soon as the real practice was on, the wise ones picked "Mess" as a fixture in the line. And they were right, for he was an ideal tackle in many ways. Imagine a man of 180 pounds, endowed with the strength of four and so constructed as to have never experienced the sensation of fear and you have Messmer, the tackle. When the other team bucked his side of the line he stopped the play before it reached the line of scrimmage, and when his own team punted he knifed through and so quick was his start that he was frequently down the field as soon as the ends. The men about him had absolute confidence in his ability to play his position and when in a dark place in the game, they sought inspiration, it was he who cheered them on and filled them with the enthusiasm that works for victory and can not be denied.

MESSMER

Clark

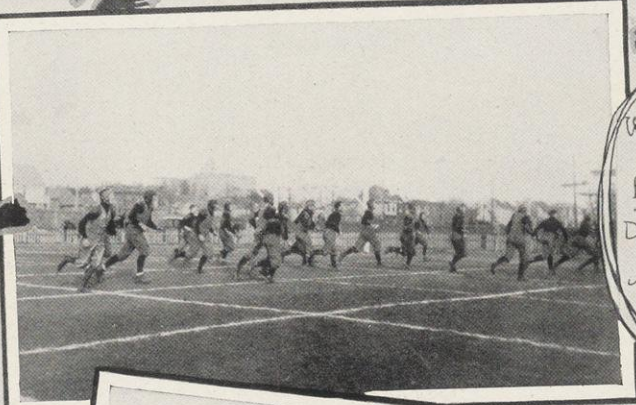

"Cody" Clark, the half-back, is known to every Wisconsin student. For four years he has been on the squad and fighting all the time. Part of the time weight counted against him and he didn't make the team, but he was always in the running and always displayed a spirit that few men possess. "Cody" fought as hard on the second team as he did on the first and he never once "lay down."

Clark's opportunity to show his stuff came finally last fall. The handicap against lighter men was removed and the dodging halfback became the deciding factor in every game. "Cody" came out as usual loaded with fight. Placed at halfback, he showed to the full the value of his long experience and never failed to inspire the other fellows by his own exhibitions of determination and grit. His work in the second half of the Iowa game will live long in the minds of those who saw it, for it showed his ability to rise to an emergency and play the game alone while the rest of the team was recovering from the depression of the first half's virtual defeat. Brushing the tackle or slipping the end he went, and every step he took counted. He saw openings where none seemed to exist and twice went clear to the line with the ball for touchdowns. Again in the Illinois game when no one else could make the distance it would be "Cody's" ball and then first down again. Some call this game his best, and all say that every game he played was played as well as any halfback could have played it.

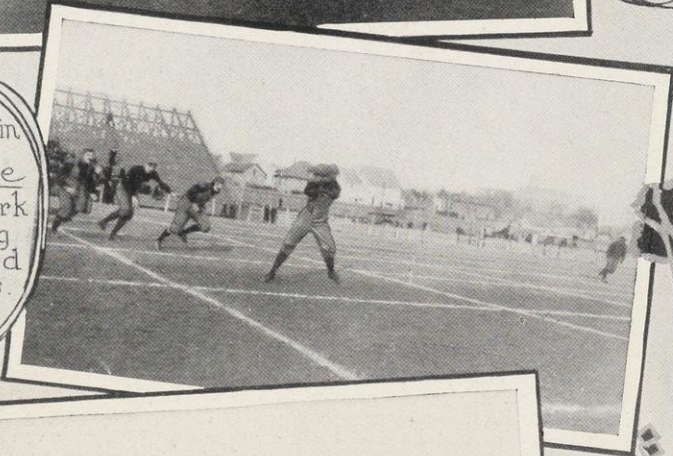

By a practically unanimous choice, Clark was awarded a position on the All-Western team as left half-back.

Miller

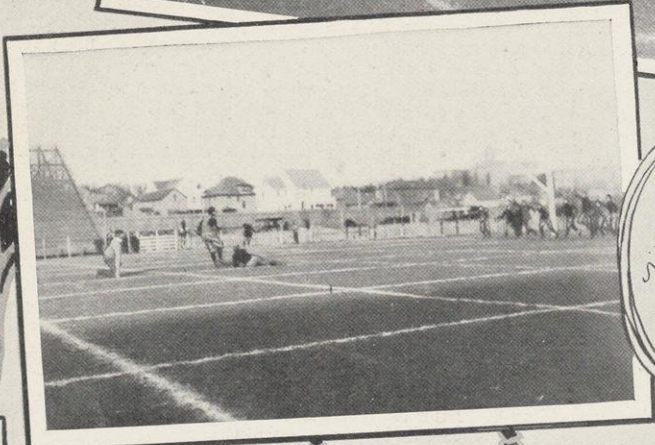

Charlie Miller also received his early football training on the La Crosse High School team and entered the Varsity with the class of 1908. On his class team he made good at fullback and tackle but did not come out for the Varsity until last season. During the first of the season he was kept at full-back and played a strong consistent game, but it was not until the Illinois game, when he was placed at halfback that he found himself. After the game there was no doubt as to where he belonged. Fast and shifty and using his head all the time, he knows an opening when he sees it and when started for it, his 180 pounds of muscle and his unusual strength enable him to stagger for the distance with anything less than the whole team on his back.

With another year left to play, Miller should go a great distance at half-back and those who know his working capacity say that the All-Western will not be too good for him. As a mark of the estimation and confidence in which his teammates hold him, he was elected captain of the 1907 team.

ZEISLER

MILLER

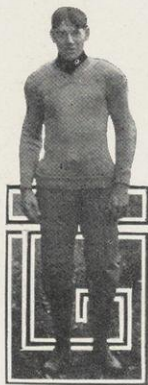

CLARK

Zeisler

The fellows call him "Cy," abbreviated from Zeisler or cyclone; after watching him through a game, you wonder which. He played his first football in La Crosse, the home of old "Dick" Remp, and "Cy" there became aware of the fact that there's a whole lot of skill required to play any position on a good team. He's been putting that knowledge into practice too, ever since he first struck the gridiron with the other fellows under him and a strong feature of his play is, that he uses his head all the time and for something besides a receiver of bruises.

In his Freshman and sophomore years, Zeisler played with the 1908 team at center and never failed to outplay his man, no matter how big he was. Until his Junior year, however, "Cy" did not try out for the Varsity. When he came out for the first team last fall his light weight made it impossible to put him at center and he was therefore tried in the backfield. In his new position, he had to learn the game all over but he kept at it, and before the end of the season was playing a strong offensive and an almost perfect defensive game. "Cy" is one of the few men who have won the football "W" while weighing less than 160 pounds.

Rogers

ROGERS

During his two years in college athletics, Rogers has been in the foremost rank in football, basketball and class baseball. Starting with but average natural ability, he has attained his athletic prominence by hard and consistent training.

"Biddy" was active in athletics at Portage High School where he was captain of the football and basketball teams in his senior year. Entering the Varsity with the class of 1909, he tried out for the Freshman team and played a hard consistent game at end during the whole season. When the call was issued for men for the 1906 Varsity team, Rogers was generally conceded an end position from his previous years' work and he fully justified the expectations of the rooters. During the whole season he played this most difficult position in the new game with singular success. Playing a steady waiting game on trick plays he was seldom drawn in and so was always on the spot when the runner appeared. When he dives for a runner he is like old Bill Abbott, "if he gets his man, he lays him out and he always gets him." Rogers possesses in a strong degree what Walter Camp calls the greatest quality of an end, that of always being where the ball is and always after it.

Frank

Among the many of Earl Driver's 1905 Freshman team who made good on the Varsity this fall was "Art" Frank. A year ago when the call for Freshman candidates was issued, Frank joined the squad and received his first lessons in football. During his preparatory course he represented the Milwaukee Academy on its basketball team and in track work, but football was not played there. That "Art" was determined to learn the game was evidenced by his regular attendance and attention at practice and he soon secured his position at right end and played there through every game on the Freshman schedule.

With the change of rules this fall the chances for a light man to make the Varsity were increased, and "Art" with his 160 pounds landed right end again, showing the same attention to practice and training as the year before. His work has never been brilliant nor of the "grand stand" type, but in all his games he played consistent football. The long double passes between "Art" and "Cody" Clark were always successful and some of us will remember the North Dakota game for a long time for that very reason. A few days before the Illinois game last fall he injured his back and was kept out the rest of the season, but before that time "Art" earned his "W" and in the next two years we can count on him as an important factor on Varsity teams.

FRANK

Bleyer

Bleyer is the type of player who earns his "W" by hard persistent work. Carrying nearly 200 pounds of weight, such men lack the speed of the lighter men and are therefore played in the line positions where the individual style of play must be entirely sacrificed for the more successful team work. The ideal line man is merely a cog in a great machine bearing his share and a little more of the crushing strain of guard or center position, and is never seen in the open play that leads the grandstand to pick 90 per cent of its heroes from the back field and ends. But ask the men of the team about such men and they will laud them as the backbone of the whole structure. Bleyer plays as he works, silently and earnestly. He fills his position and outplays his man but is never sensational. His idea is to do his work, let the rest do theirs, and always be back in position when the whistle blows. He is of the type that coaches long for; a steady trainer and a serious minded worker.

Bleyer comes from Milwaukee East Division and has been on the Varsity squad for three years.

BLEYER

Curtin

Joe waited until his senior year before coming out for the Varsity, and thus the team lost three years service of a clever and speedy player. Curtin took his prep work in football under Dr. McCarthy in the Madison High School, and like all of McCarthy's men, he knows the game from A to Z.

In the early part of last season he fought with several others for the vacant half-back position, but when after Frank's injury he was put in at end, he cinched the place in the first game.

Curtin's work in basketball must have been of great benefit to him because no one who played on Camp Randall in the past season could judge a forward pass more accurately and recover the ball with a longer gain than he. On defense he played steadily and during a season characterized by shifting trick plays was never once drawn in or deceived by the starting of a play. He was quick at getting down the field, and when there, tackled his man so hard and squarely that he seldom failed to get him. Altogether, his one season's work placed him high among the list of ends in the West for the season of 1906.

Dittman

"Ditt" is another 1908 man from La Crosse who made good on the Varsity this year. The past season was "Tubby's" first on the "big" squad although he had won distinction by the way he played in the Freshman-Sophomore tie game of the previous year. His style is essentially that of a tackle. Given a man shifty enough to play college basketball and weighing 185 pounds, and you have a tackle who is hard to beat. His work in the Illinois game gave probably the best example of his ability to measure his man and then outplay him. He went around him and over him smashing up plays and blocking punts until his much-vaunted opponent was fairly begging for help. Dittman has another year of play and critics predict freely that, backed by his late gained experience, he will make even his own past work look like a "game of checkers in a home for retired spinsters."

DITTMAN

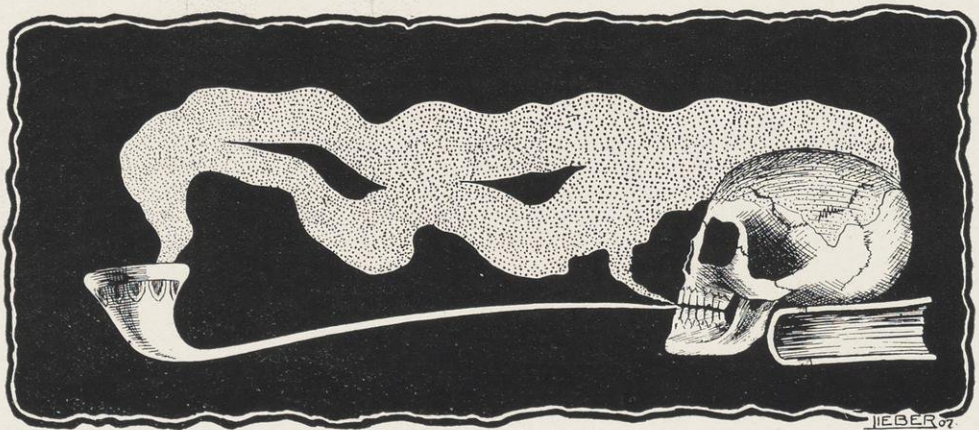

Howard

Howard entered Wisconsin from Beloit Academy where he left an enviable record as an athlete. During his first year he played tackle on the star 1909 Freshman team and held down the job for the whole season. His work there was at once noticeable and he was picked early in the season as a candidate for the 1906 Varsity team.

On the Varsity Howard was moved to the backfield and there played at full back. In the Illinois game where he played practically throughout the whole game, he showed best his ability as a line-bucking fullback. Called upon repeatedly to carry the ball, he never failed to gain and his defensive work did much to guard the Wisconsin goal from the attack of the beefy Illinoisans. Again in the Purdue game, he was in condition and in a game which called for few line plays, and he showed his versatility by playing a strong game at full back in a medley of forward passes, shifts, and trick plays. Howard has two years more to play in Varsity football and his weight and fighting spirit will make him a man to be reckoned with by the opposing teams in the seasons of 1907 and 1908.

Boating at Wisconsin

CAPT. BURLING

To be asked to review the boating season at Wisconsin for the Badger is quite an honor, and one that I thoroughly appreciate; but when I call to mind the illustrious line of reviewers who have preceded me in previous Badgers, I have grave doubts about my ability to "go one better," and with my fellow contributors to this annual endeavor to make it the best edition up to date, which I presume is the motto of all Badger Boards. There is, however, a grain of comfort in the fact that comparatively I am much better off than the unfortunate reviewer of the future, who will be expected to still make it the "best ever" as he dubiously surveys a pile of Badgers, the collective altitude of which is only equalled by the dome of Main Hall.

Limited space will only permit a brief review of the past season, although the temptation is well nigh irresistible to tarry awhile with that gallant crew of 1895. Featherweights as University crews go—only averaging 153 pounds and rowing two miles on Lake Minnetonka, Minnesota, in 10 minutes 23 seconds, a record which still stands after a little more than a decade. And to pass on to the unbeaten crew of 1896, the pioneer of Wisconsin eastern invasion. To recall the famous 1899 crew, Wisconsin's first four-mile crew which was coached by Mr. Curran McConville, and the 1903 Freshman crew which has the distinction of being the first and only winning class crew in the boating history of Wisconsin. To contemplate sadly the gradual fall from her hard fought for place of honor, in the leading division at Poughkeepsie to the ignoble trailing of 1904 and 1905. So I must confine myself to the fortunes of the '09 class crew, and the grim determination and fierce resolve of the unfortunate 1906 Varsity squad, which has again started Wisconsin forward to a place among the leaders.

I have said that a good Freshman crew invariably improves the Varsity crew, and it is to the '09 Freshmen that the University crew is indebted for their improved showing over the past two years. With all due respect to the 1903 Freshman crew, I must admit that the '09 crew is absolutely the best class crew that I have coached, and the reason why is not hard to explain. It is that I got the opportunity for which I had been vainly striving for years at Wisconsin, viz: time to coach the Freshmen in the fall.

ON THE HUDSON

This Freshman crew turned out an unusual lot of candidates and as their work progressed they developed a splendid "esprit de corps" which made the work of coaching easier than usual.

It is a significant fact that six of the men who rowed in the shell on November 28th, 1905—the last row of the fall season—were included in the boat at the Poughkeepsie race, and all of the eight men rowed on the water in the fall. There is splendid Varsity material in this crew, and I fully expect to hear of them helping old Wisconsin to still further improve her Varsity standing at Poughkeepsie.

The Varsity crew may be well and aptly named the "Unfortunates," for never did a crew try harder, nor train more conscientiously and maintain a cheerful disposition in the face of misfortune than this ill-fated crew of 1906. This crew is a fair sample of the rowing problem that a coach has occasionally to wrestle with. The material was fair, and some of it excellent, but unfortunately in equine parlance they "did not hitch."

The personnel was being constantly changed, and when the order was at last determined, the crew was rowing well and their progress was encouraging; but their ill luck remained with them to the end. "The last straw" arrived when Hine, the regular No. 7, ruptured a ligament and had to be taken from the boat four that is, distance from the regatta site—late opening of the lake, and uncertain water when the ice is all out. These cannot be overcome, and Wisconsin must continue to compete with these disadvantages always confronting her, but efforts should be made to procure a suitable coaching launch, without which coaching efficiency is much impaired and the crews cannot be expected to work up to their capabilities. Wisconsin has a chance to win in spite of her natural disadvantages but she must have coaching equipment equal at least to that of her rivals.

Wisconsin boating men, after a little more than a decade of earnest endeavor among you, I respectfully take my leave. There have been days when the trials would have taxed the patience of a Saint, and there have also been others when the effulgence of a Saint's halo would have had a hardy competitor in the radiance beaming from the joyous countenance of the coach. The "tout-ensemble," however, will always be a happy remembrance, and for Wisconsin's sake I hope that you will extend to my successor that same hearty co-operation which it has always been my privilege to enjoy. You have taken defeat manfully and victory modestly, and that is the reason why Wisconsin oarsmen are popular even among their rivals. Such a reputation is ample compensation after the work of a decade.

ANDREW M. O'DEA.

days before the regatta. In spite of continued misfortune the crew did well, and they have no reason to be ashamed of their efforts. "They came, they saw," and while they did not conquer, still they left a good impression as sportsmen and gentlemen, and Poughkeepsie will be glad to see them again.

Wisconsin is, of course, handicapped by location—

Class Baseball at Wisconsin in 1906

The opening of the baseball season of 1906 at Wisconsin, disclosed the fact that the University of Wisconsin, for the first time within the memory of the oldest students, was not to be represented by a Varsity team. So the baseball fans who had been whetting their baseball appetites through the entire winter in anticipation of the coming summer's sport, with a sigh of resignation sank back into their seats to watch the class teams fight it out.

On paper the Senior Law Team, champions of the year before, showed all the class and looked like a sure thing. With the team of 1905 intact and the addition of a few likely candidates they looked amply able to repeat the performance of the preceding year.

Among the other teams the Senior and Freshman Engineers and the "Agrics" looked formidable, while the Commerce, Middle Laws, Junior Laws and Junior Engineers were the "dark horses."

The first game of the schedule saw the Senior Laws and the School of Commerce in opposite corners and the old story of David and Goliath was reacted, only there were nine Davids and nine slings, and Goliath, although badly beaten, was able to retire with banners trailing. From that game until the end of the schedule it was a battle between these two teams for the flag, the School of Commerce winning steadily and seeming unbeatable, the Senior Laws always winning, yet always one game behind. Finally the Freshmen Engineers held the mighty to a tie, the score being the best of the season: one and one. This was the beginning of the end, and from there on it was one continuous route for the Commerce team and they finally finished way back in the ruck. The opportunity for the Laws to make good had come and the way they did it is now class history. Their first defeat was their last and they finished with the grand total of seven victories and one defeat, making a percentage of 87.5. And, by the way, it may not come amiss to any in passing that we of the winning team, although we searched diligently for the promised banner, were never able to find it.

Since the close of the season I have noticed several articles to the effect that the lack of a Varsity team did not hurt the sport and that it flourished stronger than ever and that more players were out, etc., etc. It seems to me that this is all wrong both in theory and in fact. Isn't it a fact, that had Wisconsin been represented by a Varsity team the pick of the class teams would have been out for the Varsity? The class teams would have existed and always have existed side by side with the Varsity. Now as it required nine men to make a team regardless of quality, doesn't it seem reasonable to assume that if the best of the class teams were taken by the Varsity, their places would be filled by others and those very others the ones that need the game?

The Class teams are allright in their way and I would be the last to deny that fact, but Wisconsin needs the higher incentive of a Varsity team in baseball just as she needs the higher incentive of a scholarship in educational branches. What the scholarship is to the student the Varsity is to the athlete.

WILLIAM E. WAGENER,

Captain Senior Laws, 1906.

Review of the Track Season of 1906

Probably never before in the history of Wisconsin was athletics more "up in the air"—to use a slang expression—than in the school year 1905-6. It was a period of wholesale purification of athletics, a time when the stigma of professionalism could be no longer endured at Wisconsin; and, be it said to the credit of those who have the welfare of this university at heart, that they did what they thought best for all concerned, and, although the measures they took seemed severe at the time, present indications are that everything will result for the best. The time of the upheaval, however, was just at the commencement of the track season, and everything seemed to go wrong.

At the beginning of the year, the outlook for the track team was especially bright. More than the usual number of preparatory school stars had entered the university, and Dr. Alvin Kraenzlein, several times intercollegiate champion and holder of three world's records, was engaged as our coach. Shortly after the Christmas vacation, about eighty men responded to "Doc's" call, and commenced training. For several weeks the work progressed finely; when suddenly the athletic situation came to a crisis. Wisconsin headed the reform movement, and, backed by the faculties of Chicago and Michigan, undertook to reorganize athletics on a purer basis and incorporate several other reforms.

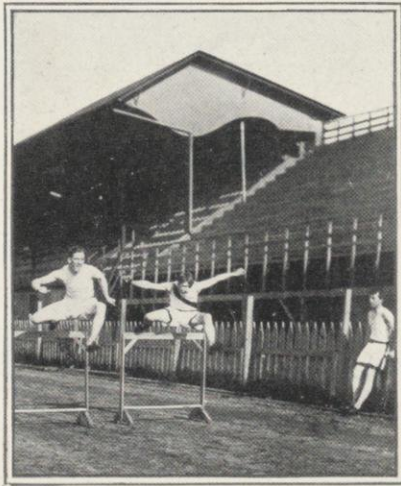

Without any explanation, but doubtless believing that Wisconsin's immediate prospects were ruined by the upheaval which we were undergoing, Dr. Kraenzlein resigned. Following closely upon his resignation, came the middle west—there being representatives from all the leading universities and colleges competing either for their alma mater or a Y. M. C. A. Wisconsin, with its eight men—every one of whom scored—won twice as many points as Chicago, but was unable to overcome the lead which the Central Y. M. C. A. secured the first evening. Parsons, running from scratch, thrice equaled the world's record in the 60 yard handicap dash. Springer created a new university record by vaulting 11 feet in the pole vault, and Waller equaled the world's record in the 60 yard low hurdles. The Chicago relay team consisting of Taylor, Merriam, Barker and Quigley, won the open mile relay from the Wisconsin team—Parsons, Woodward, Rideout and Waller—in 3 minutes 27 and 2-5 seconds, but was subsequently disqualified by the referee, owing to a foul committed by Taylor. Some three months later, a counter-foul was claimed on Wisconsin, and we were given two days' notice to meet a Maroon relay team at Chicago. The men, however, had broken training and could not be gotten together; as a consequence Chicago took possession of the cup.

Shortly after this meet, Mr. Downer's resignation went into effect and Mr. Emmett Angell, a member of the Physical Training staff was appointed temporary graduate manager and coach of the Track Team. Mr. Angell had had considerable experience in training men for athletic teams and much credit is given him for the manner in which he took charge of the work.

As time passed after the first purging of athletics, our prospects began to look brighter. Accordingly, a dual meet was scheduled with both Chicago and Minnesota, in addition to the Conference. In view of the fact that only two dual meets were arranged for, the Athletic Board decided to grant a "W" to any man who won eight points outside of the Conference.

The first outdoor Field Day was an Inter-Fraternity—Inter-Class meet. Parsons was timed 9 and 4-5 seconds for the "hundred"—which time, if correct, was remarkable for the day. No other especially brilliant records were made. The Sophomores won the greatest number of points, the Fresh-news that Mr. George Downer, the graduate manager and temporary coach of the track team would sever his connection with the university. About the same time, rumors became prevalent that none of the teams were to be provided with coaches or allowed to participate in intercollegiate contests. Not knowing just what would be the result of the so-called "reform movement," and not wishing to lose a year of eligibility by taking part in an indoor meet, the track team decided to cancel the indoor meet scheduled with Michigan on March 17th.

The first and only indoor meet was held in the gymnasium on March 10th. No phenomenal performances occurred, but it was notable that the Sophomores, who won the meet, scored all three places in the half and mile races. Delta Upsilon, for the third successive year won the Inter-Fraternity Relay Race. Alpha Delta Phi finished a good second.

The annual Charity Meet given by the New Illinois Athletic Club was held in the Chicago Coliseum on the evenings of March 27th and 28th. The meet was not an intercollegiate contest, so in representing the Varsity, the men would not lose a year's eligibility. Next to the conference, this meet was undoubtedly the largest and most successful of its kind in the

in the three weight events, and only permitted Minnesota to take second in the hammer throw. Myers surprised the rooters considerably by beating Greaves in the half mile, an event in which the preceding year the Gopher captain had taken third place in the Conference. Van Derzee repeated his Chicago performance by winning the broad jump. A relay race was scheduled to be run off, but, for a number of reasons we wished to forfeit it. Minnesota considered us unsportsmanlike, so a volunteer team consisting of Mueller, Hueffner, Myers and Rideout were obliged to beat men and Seniors being second and third respectively. Delta Upsilon won the greatest number of points of the fraternities and, for the first time in three years, lost the relay race to Sigma Chi.

May 12th, the day of the meet with Chicago, was very cold and a strong wind was blowing against the men on the finish. As a result no good records were made, with the exception of the quarter mile in which Merriam and Taylor of Chicago ran a dead heat in 51 and 1-5 seconds. The 100 yard dash went in the exceptionally slow time of 11 seconds, the slowest time registered by collegians on Marshall field for years. Blankenagel was a dark horse in the mile run, and beat Anderson [C], a freshman, fully twenty yards. Wisconsin secured nearly as many points as Chicago in the track events, but was very weak in the field events, and, as a result, the Maroons won by a score of 80 to 46.

One week later, we retrieved our defeat by winning decisively over Minnesota—the result being 69½ to 47½ points. The Gophers started out auspiciously, winning the first three events. The Badgers, however, came home with eight points to their credit in the quarter mile, and the hoodoo was so badly broken that Minnesota only won two more firsts. Messmer and Howard did star work them about a hundred yards in order to prove once more that "all the quitters have left Wisconsin."

Finally, on June 2nd, came the Conference, the largest meet of the year in the west, and the event for which we had been training since the beginning of the new year. Wisconsin had more than its usual share of bad luck. Up in the frigid climate of Minnesota, some of the men had caught hard colds which although a small matter in themselves, threw several men completely out of condition; and Parsons, joint holder of the world's record in the 100 yard dash, who had finally cleared up his scholastic record, was kept out of the meet because of a misunderstanding between Dean Turneure and Prof. Adams, the Faculty representative of the Conference Committee.

Although only winning fourth place, Wisconsin beat her old rival, Illinois, who had tied us the preceding year. Myers, in the half mile did what was expected of him and won third. He was coming strong at the finish, and had he not delayed his sprint too long, he might have forced Ramey and Coe of Michigan to better their time of 1 minute 58 2-5 seconds. Messmer upset calculations somewhat by winning third in the discus throw, hurling the missile 125 feet 6 1/4 inches. The quarter mile was won by Merriam of Chicago in 50 seconds. Waller led for 300 yards, but was unable to maintain the lead and finished second. Rideout surprised most of the rooters by sprinting at the finish, and won the coveted "W". Garrels of Michigan won the low hurdles in 25 1-5 seconds, with Waller second.

In glancing over this review, one will not be greatly impressed with the wonderful work of the track team, for the work could not justly be called "wonderful"; yet, taking into consideration the various handicaps we were under, and knowing that there was no stigma of professionalism attached to any member of the team, we offer no apologies. Each man trained as hard as was possible, he seemed pervaded with a "Do it for Wisconsin spirit," and when he lost, he only regretted that he could do no better for his University. And now, looking forward, we see great possibilities open to Wisconsin. Our new aim is to get the greatest possible good out of athletics, not to "win at any cost." And if, in carrying out this aim, we arrive at our former position—that of leader of western athletics—we will feel doubly proud of our Alma Mater, knowing, as we do, that she took the initiative in the new movement.

The Season 1906-07

The basketball season of 1906-07 opened with every prospect of a good team, as we had every man of last year's team except Bush with us again. As most of our men were playing football up to Thanksgiving, we could not start practice until rather late in the season, which together with the fact that we had only two days to get into condition after the Christmas recess for our game with Columbia, accounts in a great measure for our severe defeat by them.

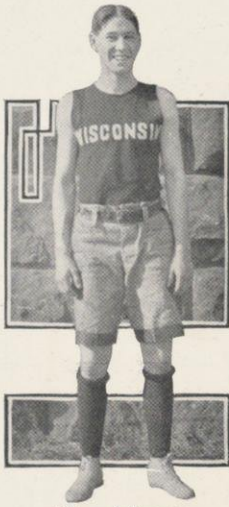

CAPT. SCRIBNER

Our first League game was played with Minnesota at Minneapolis. This was only five days after the Columbia game, but we were already playing better ball, as the close score indicates. In fact we really made one more point than Minnesota, but four of our field baskets were not allowed. In the Southern trip, a week later, we brought our League standing up to 500 per cent., by winning two out of the three games played. With the season half over, Wisconsin stood in third place, and our chances were not very bright. But in the home games Wisconsin defeated Illinois, Nebraska, Chicago, Minnesota, and Purdue, all by decisive scores.

At this time there was no team in the West

"ART" FRANK

"BIDDY" ROGERS

which could defeat us and Wisconsin undoubtedly ended the season with a Championship team. During the season we made more points and threw more field-baskets than any other team. It might also be mentioned that every Wisconsin man was picked by at least one critic for the All-Western. It was acknowledged by all that we had the best defense in the West, both of our guards playing wonderfully fast ball. Curtin especially developed fast in the latter part of the season, making seven field baskets in the last three games, against his opponents two.

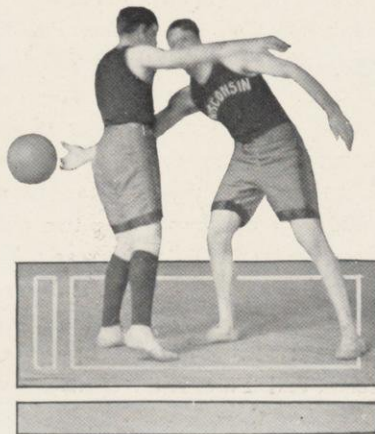

JOE CURTIN

The interest in basket ball was never so strong as it has been the past year. Not only were there more men trying for the Varsity and class teams than ever before, but in the Chicago, Minnesota, and Columbia games the crowds were the largest we have ever had. The enthusiasm was particularly noticeable in contrast to the interest shown two years ago, when basketball was first started here. The rapid advance of the sport at Wisconsin is largely due to the good work of Coach Angell who has once given us a Championship, once second place, and this year tied for first.

GYM TEAM

Wisconsin has always been represented by good gymnastic teams since the formation of the Western Intercollegiate Gymnastic Association, in March, 1902. Out of the five meets which have been held, Wisconsin has won three, losing in 1904 and 1907 to Minnesota. Twice we have been fortunate enough to develop the winner of the allround individual championship. The interest in gymnastics has very materially increased since the athletic board decided to recognize the team by giving point winners a "W" modified by the letters G. T. Seibel, Blaine, Davila and Zeidlhack were fortunate enough to gain these insignia in the meet two years ago when Wisconsin took every first place except one and most of the seconds. In the meet held at Chicago two years ago, we scored 40 points against only 26 by all of the other colleges entered. Last year Chicago withdrew its invitation to hold the meet about three weeks before the date scheduled for holding it. This was a great disappointment to Wisconsin, as our team was strong and had been working faithfully. This year we were handicapped by the loss of some of our best gymnasts and with a team of comparatively new men we succeeded in getting second place, with $19\frac{1}{2}$ points; Minnesota leading us by $5\frac{1}{2}$ points with 25, Nebraska a close third with 16, and Chicago trailing way behind with only $2\frac{1}{2}$ points. The action of the Athletic Board in giving the modified "W" to point winners, and the official "W" to the All Western Champion has done much to stimulate a very legitimate and attractive intercollegiate sport.

Review of the Tennis Season of 1906

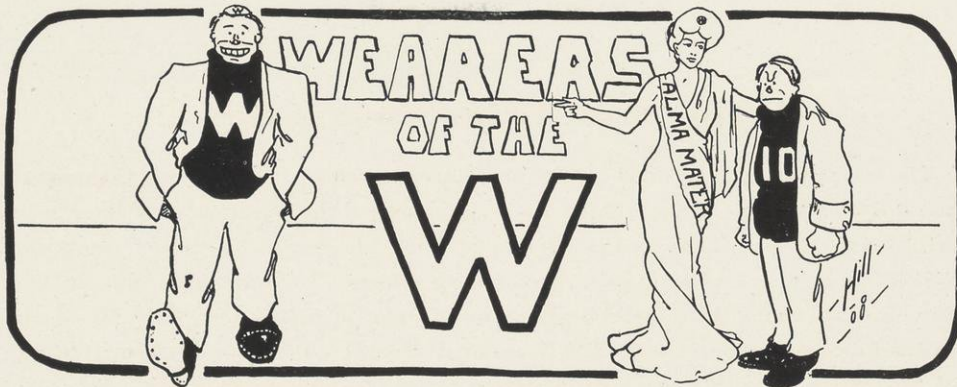

The tennis situation for 1906 looked very promising when the Executive Committee of the Board of Regents at their March meeting authorized the construction of three permanent tennis courts. These courts were to be built adjacent to the faculty courts on University Avenue, at a cost of about five hundred dollars. Unfortunately, however, the courts were not built during the Spring term on account of delays, the blame for which it is difficult to fix upon anyone. The two courts which were used by the Association in 1905 were not available, the one being destroyed by grading and the other being reclaimed by the Women's Tennis Association. There were therefore no courts for the general student body, but the Faculty Association generously tendered the use of their courts for mornings to the team.

Conditions being thus, no home tournament was held, and the team was practically the one of the previous year, only Green being substituted for L. Broenniman, who graduated. This selection was made on the basis of last year's tournament and on the excellent summer work of Green. The team got in much good practice and was in good trim for the Intercollegiate which began Monday, May 28, in Chicago.

The showing made by the team in Chicago was very gratifying, particularly that of Loesch. Loesch reached the finals in singles after defeating successively McQuilken of Cornell College, Iowa, Garnett of Chicago, and Cogswell of Iowa. The match with Garnett was probably the best in the whole tournament. Loesch defeated the last year's champion only after a hard struggle. In the finals Loesch lost out to Hayes of Cornell College, Iowa, the Middle Western Champion. This was also a very close match and the result was not certain until the last point had been played. Loesch won his "W" by reaching the finals. Rehm won his first match, but lost his second to Hayes, not however, before he had taken a set from the champion. In doubles the Wisconsin team defeated Illinois only to lose to the Cornell College team. This tournament was the most successful ever held by the Western Intercollegiate Tennis Association. Loesch was elected president of the Association for the ensuing year.

A dual meet was also held with Chicago University, which was, however, not finished. Loesch defeated Garnett and Green defeated Wickes of Chicago. Herdegen lost to Hart, and Herdegen and Green lost to Hart and Wickes. The meet therefore stood 2 to 2.

PRIZE TRANSLATIONS OF HORACE

Otium divos rogat in patenti—

When dark upon the wide Aegean deep
The black clouds hide the bright moon's kindly rays,
When no star shows, when wild doth rage the storm,
Unto the Gods for peace the sailor prays.

For peace doth Thrace, war-maddened Thrace, implore;
For peace the Mede, with quiver graced, doth sigh;
But, Grosphus, peace, not gems nor purple bright,
Not gold, nor aught of earthly store can buy.

For not the hoards of wealth by kings amassed,
Nor yet the consul's lictor, with his might,
Can from the mind those hateful cares dispel
That flit about the lacquered ceilings bright.

Though scant the silver on his frugal board,
And small though his estate, yet happily
Lives he whose slumbers light and tranquil are,— Whose heart from fears and anxious care is free.

In life's short span why strive so much to win?
Why leave our own for climes 'neath warmer skies?
What exile ever doth himself elude,
Though far from friends and fatherland he flies?

For carking Care the brass-bound ship ascends,
And with the troops of horsemen rides abreast;
More swift than flying stag, or than the wind
That drives the darkling storm clouds from the west.

A heart that with the present is content
Disdains to care about the future's woes,
And tempers with a smile life's bitterness—
That naught is fully blest full well he knows.

Untimely death bore off Achilles famed;
Unending life wears out Tithonus old;
And that which Fortune hath denied to thee,
Mayhap the coming hour for me doth hold.

For thee Sicilian flocks and heifers low,
For thee doth neigh the mare, for harness born,
With purest wool twice purpled in rich dye
From Libya's shore dost thou thyself adorn.

To me a rustic hearth and acres few
Fate gave, and then did add a gift more rare—
The dainty spirit of the Grecian Muse—
While for the crowd she bade me have no care.

—Clara Margaret Cronin, '09.

A Social Climber

HE was very raw and green—painfully so to all who passed him on his way up the hill. When he passed the old library hall he stopped to gaze at the clock tower, and to compare the time with that of his dollar “turnip.” He gazed in wondering awe at the group of students on the steps of the Law Building, and hurried by, blushing furiously, when they began the well-worn “hip-hip” to the time of his heavy boots. His trousers were small for him, and short and much wrinkled, looking (as was indeed the truth) as tho they had never seen creases since the day they left the “general store” in Sun Prairie.

His first thrill of envious ambition was occasioned by the remark of one co-ed to another as a tall youth in “peg-top” trousers passed them. “He’s the grandest fellow; he always wears such perfectly darling clothes. Honestly, I’ve got an awful crush on him just to look at him. I don’t know him at all, but you can always tell pretty much whether a man’s any fun, by his clothes. O, for Heaven’s sake, look at it! It must be a short-horn sure. Will you see that tie! O, girls, that’s the richest thing yet!”

He caught their amused glances focused beneath his chin, and put up his hand. There was the tie Cousin Mattie Blodgett had given him for his birthday. Yes, it was very red, but he had considered it quite “sporty” in Sun Prairie, and that the green polka dots added quite a lively touch. Now for the first time he doubted Cousin Mattie’s artistic taste.

He went into the class-room, and the campus vagabond, a nondescript cur, dodged in between his legs. After a stroll around the room, with tentative offers of friendship to various students, the dog settled himself beneath the freshman’s seat. There he yawned at intervals so audibly and with such marked ennui that the lecturer was unable to ignore it.

“Take that dog out of here, and don’t bring him in again,” he said sternly to the freshman. Overcome with mortification that anyone should think that disreputable mongrel his dog, but unable to offer an explanation, he got up and dragged the yapping beast into the hall and down the stairs.

This was the first appearance of “Si” Jones of Sun Prairie at the Varsity. It was not long before he learned a new and vast respect for his mother’s judgment in giving him “Clarence” as a middle name. Whereas he formerly signed himself “Josiah C. Jones,” he now found an acute pleasure in scrawling “J. Clarence Jones” on the fly-leaves of his text-books. He learned not to say he was “going to school at Madison.” O, how he scorned those days when he knew not how to boast, “Yes, I’m attending the Varsity; pretty rum old place, too. It’s plenty good enough for yours truly, J. C. J.”

He joined the Y. M. C. A. at the solicitation of a friendly young man who offered him an invitation one morning as he stood reading bulletins in the rotunda. At first he was delighted; he found the Association Hall a very welcome place to go to when he was lonely in his little stall of a bed-room. There he met others who, like himself, were new, and awkward, and unacquainted. There, also were always one or two of the older men of the Association who showed a flattering interest in his affairs and pursuits, and drew him into the social entertainments and study classes. Later he found it rather fashionable among the wide-trousered set whom his asperations led him to ape, to view lightly these serious young men of the association, considering them dull and prosy and too “goody-goody.” So he quietly dropped from the membership list, and formed a habit of making slightly sneering jests about its endeavors to “rope in” the young bucks of the college community.

He saw the bowling lists in the Cardinal were those of fraternity teams, so he haunted the alleys, renewing a proficiency he had gained as a village "sport," in the hope of attracting the attention of some of the "frat" men by his frequent "ten-strikes," and (oh, much hoped conclusion!) being "rushed." He would be the happiest, proudest fellow on the campus if only he might wear a bunch of Greek letters in a jeweled pin on his vest.

For a while he saved money on his board by getting his meals in his room or at cheap restaurants down town, choosing those where he would not be likely to be seen going and coming by the "swells" whose good opinion he craved. With the money thus saved from the parental allowance, he added, little by little, ultra-fashionable articles to his wardrobe. The "peg-tops" came first, with a coat cut in a beautiful wide flare at the hips, low shoes with flopping ribbon ties, light spats, a white wool sweater vest with very shiny brass buttons, a leather fob with his class numerals in brass, and a lavender tie. He wore these new glories one at a time at first, and accustomed himself to an air of total unconsciousness,—a gay carelessness that seemingly did not "give a rip" whether he muddied his new spats or not. Nevertheless he grew much daintier in his habits, and learned to guard against a grease spot as against a deadly enemy. His seeming unconsciousness was but a mask for an intense vigilance for the opinions of those about him. He heard every least remark of criticism or comment, as in the days when he had been awakened to the painful lack in his attire. Now (joy ineffable!) he sometimes heard some group of girls whisper—after he had passed in the library,—or remark on the street, "There goes that dandy fellow again. Isn't he the dearest thing you ever saw?"

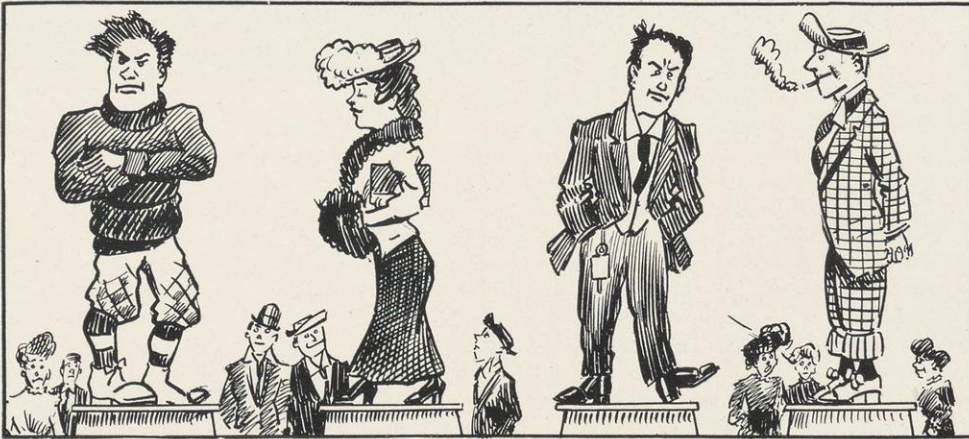

At drill his consciousness of the becoming uniform was an able assistance in keeping him very erect and alert, and always present—and thus he won promotion and final place on the rolls of the Scabbard and Blade. That was a proud day when he was welcomed to the society on the same footing as the Greek letter men.

One noon when he returned to his room his landlady handed him a telegram. He tore it open with trembling fingers and read "Check for $500 at State Bank for you. Letter follows. Pa."

"It's the old man's patent, by Gee!" A sudden dazed feeling compelled him to sit down on the stairs. The landlady's solicitous "I wouldn't feel so bad about it; maybe they're not so sick" (a random guess) brought him to himself.

From that day "Clarence" Jones was known as the most fashionably dressed college sport in town. The first check was soon gone, but there was more where it came from. He was an excellent judge of pretty girls, and the little Beta Beta Beta that he took to the Prom was the most striking young woman there. When he finally bought a brindled bull that could whip any dog in the Latin quarter, it was decided that he had "made good", and the Hi Hitem High's ceased to hesitate. They had just lost their dog; here was a chance to get the finest scrapper on the campus. They voted him in, and he had realized his highest ambition. He was a frat man. He had climbed to the top!

A dreary place this town would be
Were there no students in it.
How would Fifth Ward Election look,
Were there no students here to win it.

"Cody" Clark

II YI! YI! YI! YI! Back! Back! Make way for "Cody," the cowboy wonder in this intellectual sanctuary of ours. Watch him crash, smash, dash through Iowa's line like a clown through a paper hoop. See his big sombrero at the circus as he lassos Japan. Follow him down the street inspiring with awe the open-mouthed freshmen—their ideal on the campus, their hero in the game. We all occupy a pew in the Universitate Wisconsinensis, but "Cody" has a front seat.

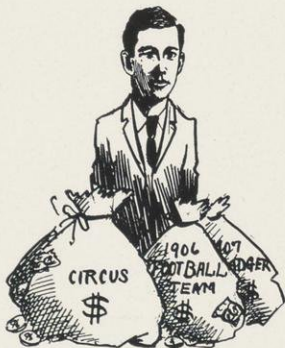

Ralph Hetzel

IN all things was he great and much respected,
 In football, oratory and the crew;
 He financed well the Sphinx; in him was vested
 The building of a house for Delta U.
 His latest, greatest venture brings no credit,
 Although his fame bids fair to live eternal,
 For one full year essayed to edit
 Our daily, advertising, yellow journal.

Allen Hibbard

TO manage is this man's delight,
 To chase about from morn till night.
 He's never found at home.
 He likes to boss some other boy,
 One Delta Gamma is his joy;
 He makes his date by phone.
 The football team he managed well,
 His circus too was something swell,
 As all who saw it said.
 "The way," quoth he, "to make a name
 Is not by graft, but bid for fame
 By WORKING with your head."

Anita Koenen

SAY, she could bowl!
 Why, bless your soul,
 She once rolled ninety-eight!
 Pi Beta Phi of course was high
 And so they think she's great.
 In basket ball,
 At Chadbourne Hall,
 She has an envied name;
 She risks her bones and loses combs,
 But plays a winning game.
 Her English themes
 (Romantic dreams)
 Are raptures so they say—
 Like Charlotte Braeme of nickel fame,
 Or dear old Bertha Clay.

"Cudge" Hannan

A celebrated windjammer, insurgent and knocker, born at 23 Knox St., Windy City. As a youth he was a conductor on a street car, and became accustomed to telling people where to get off at. Later, he became the author of much advisory literature typified by his two greatest works, "Prom Management" and "The A. B. C. of Running a University." His smooth personality made him a model leader in mob movements. During a speech he fell from a stump and strained his voice; soon after he died of a broken heart. His death was regretted by many, especially by those who were regular judges of his debates. These unfortunate men were forced to seek another source of remunerative employment.

"Ned" Jones

(Student?)

YES, "Ned" is all this and then some, plus an ambition to place the Cardinal on a higher (?) plane. "Ned" carries an unparalleled number of fifths on and about, up and down the "hill," and many a story is told of him, e. g.

'Twas at the Naval Ball in March,
 Jones took a maiden fair,
 And when the last ragtime was played,
 Forgot he bro't her there.

She waited coyly by the stair
 Beneath the torrents' dome,
 And finally when hope had fled
 John Hickey took her home.

Cora Case Hinkley

MISS Hinkley is the acknowledged leader of the literary women of Wisconsin at the present time. She first sprang into prominence through her "Wheeler and Wilson" story in the Lit of '04 and since that time her witty sketches have been green and fertile oases in the sterile, desert stretches of the Wisconsin Lit. Miss Hinkley writes chiefly of the loves of the secret society element, and her sketches teem with active human interest. In private life Miss Hinkley is an unassuming member of Pi Phi, a timid reserved little miss with a pompadour and the wistful expression of true feminine genius. Her conversation is witty and vivacious, bordering often on the jolly. She is a devoted student of Marie Corelli, Henrik Ibsen and Ella Wheeler Wilcox. "My great ambition," says Miss Hinkley, "is to contribute to the 'Black Cat'."

Bill Gesell

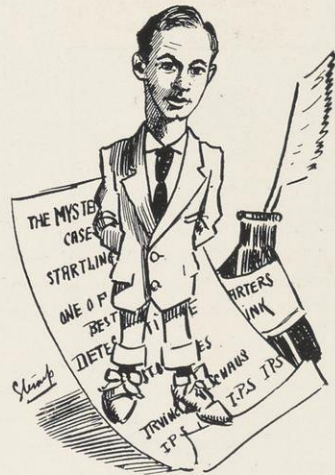

ADVOCATE of the strenuous life, bowed down with fifths (a faculty standard of measure), a reviewer of the Black Cat and often inspired by its mew. Organizer, under the direction of Miss Federle, of the University of Wisconsin Bachelor's Club.

Bill's Slogan: "Early to bed,
Early to rise,
Makes me healthy, wealthy and wise."

Irving P. Schaus

MR. SCHAUS is the laziest man at Wisconsin outside of the faculty. Aside from this he has many other distinct and varied talents. As a writer Mr. Schaus has borne the cardinal badge of courage. His dialogues are as immortal as those of Hope, though perhaps not quite so widely immortalized. Mr. Schaus can conceive situations that would have confounded Poe. He can unravel mysteries like Jacques Futrelle or Anna Katherine Greene. Moreover as a base ball pitcher Pete is no slouch. For years he has stood in the box and wielded the brush for the Sphinx in her annual spring whitewash of the Daily Cardinal. Pete is a little slow on the start. His opportunities may slide first and steal second but he'll nail them at last on the home plate.

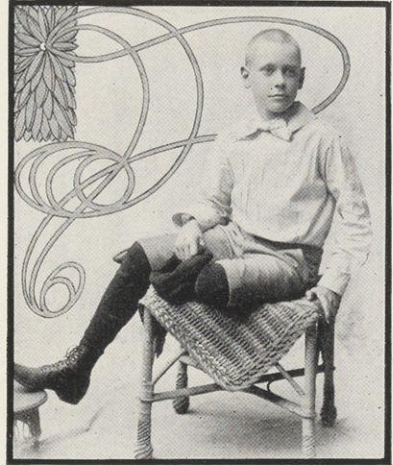

Dorothea Moll

LONG before her histrionic ability in the Junior Ex. made the Pythian representative look like Professor Dodge at a skat tournament, Miss Moll was known to members of the International Club as an entertainer of no mean ability. Many a time her impassioned rendering of "Kate Shelley" and "Fireman Jack" had melted the little brown bosoms of the Filipino contingent and brought them to their feet in profound and tearful reverence. Long before Miss Moll's sudden debut as an orator made Alfred Bushnell's heart skip three successive, anxious beats her prowess was well known to Castalia, whose cohorts were swayed like reeds before her eloquence. Miss Moll is a born leader.

There is room at the top, and she knows it. Consequently, she has taken the freight elevator with a flying start.

HERE you see a picture of our own dear Harry Montgomery. Who would have thought it possible for such an innocent child to develop into such a social lion and leader of the Smart Set. The transformation is almost complete and it is only by careful study that a hint of his future traits can be discovered. Look how carelessly he has his legs crossed and how nice he has his hair parted. They tell us that even at this immature age he was an awful fusser and always used to divide his all-day-sucker with some fair damsel.

Harry tells us that he is engaged and has cut out all fussing. Someone has even caught him in the act of walking up the hill with his eyes demurely turned to the ground so as to avoid speaking to all the Co-eds. No, Harry, we won't believe it of you.

"Gene" Scott

WHY not Miss Scott among the lot
Of folks whom people know?
For she can act; the truth in fact
She IS Red Domino.

Blushing maid or newly mated,
Sweet sixteen or antiquated,
Cultured, unsophisticated,—
She can play the role.
Not without some hesitation,
Not without some peroration,
But the critics call it SOUL.

"Who," I asked, "shall move the setting?
For this actress, Genevieve?
Who shall be the stage director?"
— And the critics answered, "Steve".

Edith Swenson

SAY, isn't she cute in that cardinal suit
On the campus or out at the game?
Wherever you are you may see from afar
That cardinal mantle aflame.

She's a rooter, you know, and chuck full of go,
With infinite talent to use
For the Badger ("Prosit!"), the Sphinx and the Lit,
She's the kind we are sorry to lose.

Bill Bailey

BILL Bailey will surely get there,
If just by his light wavy hair,
He is brim full of fun
Mixed with many a pun,
And his heart's never laden with care.

Alfred Bechlem

LANDED in Plymouth in '82,
(Plymouth, Wisconsin, you understand)
A staunch old Puritan through and through,
In every good work he had a hand.
In 1903 he came to the U,
Rowed every year on a varsity crew.
A pretty good record I think, don't you,
And a pretty good fellow, although 'tis true,
One awful fault he had, they say,
He was a strict Y. M. C. A.

Hetty Murchison

LITTLE Miss Hetty waltzes so pretty,
That dozens are waiting a chance
To cut out her steady—
Joe, Asa or Freddy—
And take this fair maid to a dance.
Little Miss Hetty is charming and pretty
And dainty and chic and petite;
But the secret of all
Is that, since she is small,
She is graceful and light on her feet.

“Jimmie”

HERE is one of our four hundred;
 Take a look and see it's Jim.
 Many learned folks have wondered
 Just what work best suited him.
 He's the focus of sweet glances
 Which he both receives and gives.
 Fussing, farming, going to dances—
 What a double life he lives!

“Balt” Richter

First to the barber chair,
 First to take a dare,
 First to the lake when the ice isn't there.

“John”

COLIGNON'S a steward and great politician,
 Who on every machine is a worthy addition.
 He can dope up the hash
 Without fear of detection;
 He can reap in the cash;
 He can turn an election,
 And in many odd ways serves a multiple mission.

William L. Fitzgerald

WILLIAM Lennox Fitzgerald has said: “I consider myself the most consistent loafer in the university.” Tres bien! We agree with William Lennox. Each day monsieur may be seen taking his morning constitutional, his afternoon ramble and his evening stroll, occasionally alone but more frequently with D.G. accompaniment. Examinations?

Helen Hunter

(Miss Hunter in the Libe)

A FLOATING veil (see Mona Trail)
 Her shapely head adorning,
 Like busts of old Italian Saints
 Or Sary Gamp in mourning.

All wreathed in smiles across the aisles
 One sees her fair face gleaming
 And where she stirs her veil and furs
 Go far behind her streaming.

The social whirl, this daring girl
 Attempts to keep in tow,
 While Elder strives with Bollenbeck
 To see who'll be her—Oh,

What makes her study so? I guess
 She's bucking for her M. R. S.

Ruby Hildebrand

(My Valentine)

FAIR foot-light nymph with azure eyes,
 Too sweet for us to eulogize,
 Pray, tell your secret for success.
 We clayly clods can never guess
 Just why it is you're all the rage
 As you come tripping on the stage.
 Your tender glance and mien so sweet
 Make men fall prostrate at your feet.
 We love your lips and eyes so true,
 But most of all we love just you.

Susan Armstrong

HOW shall I describe that premiere? As she advanced demurely to the footlights, in that simple Baker's Chocolate costume, the house rose to her, despite wild calls of "down in front" from Weeny Gugler and Joe Davis. She swept her eyes radiant, like two diamond shoe buttons, over the spell-bound audience—and chills and fever ran Australian pursuit races up and down their spinal columns. She swayed them like Benny Snow's sympathetic pendulums. She laughed, and Bill Cairns unknicked enough to almost smile. She sat pedalling the Primitive Puritan sewing machine, pensively humming "Kick on the Door," and Lester Levisee sighed appreciatively, like a pop-corn roaster. She started erect; Garret, her love, crush of her inmost soul, was gone, GONE—even NOW, he might be getting his. As Rose, wringing out her hands, told the audience how she felt about it. Squee Timlin clung to the brass rail and wept like a little child, so that people in the balcony below put up umbrellas.

The last scene drew to a close, Garret and Rose reunited, looked into each other's eyes. Slowly Rose, shyly yielding, swayed into closer juxtaposition. Then Prof. Sharp broke the spell with a wild cry of "cheese it;" he leaped over the footlights to the ropes, and the curtain dropped chastely over the imminent clinch. The social committee was vindicated.

I saw her again as 256 enthusiastic Johnnies led by the the Phi Psi chapter closed around the stage door. Like a queen she waved them away, amid the silent approval of the flourishing Susan Armstrong—Lemon Association. It was then I realized how We, the old U. W., were entertaining an actress unawares, who had Bernhardt bluffed to a passe shine and Duse looking like a deuce in the discard.

That's all I can write about Susan;
 It isn't so very amusin',
 But when thoughts of a girl
 Makes your intellects whirl,
 B'gosh, it's confounded confusin'.

Frank Bennett

OF all the fairies at the Prom,
Above all others she did soar;
And as for gowns it was a peach—
The gown that his

Elvira wore.

He treats her well and often too,
Her stern commands he does adore;
For well Frank knows 'twould never do
That he should get

Elvira sore.

He visits oft the Kappa house,
And leaving, tarries at the door,
And as a parting word he asks
When he can see

Elvira More.

The Fable of Hop and Pete

“Hop” and his pal by the name of Rehm
Managed the Prom and the Junior machine;
The machine didn’t run to Prexy’s delight,
And Rehm departed from town in the night.

Riddle: Why is Rehm like a cat?

Madson on “Love”

“LOVE!” said Madson, in a prodigious voice, “love!—it is the materialization of a nondescript activity or enterprise of the heart. Just as I say, it is nondescript. One feels it, expresses it, but cannot describe it. It is nondescript, as I say. It is much like life—our spirit, you know. We see its results, its spatial manifestations, but never it itself. It is shapeless, invisible, and therefore nondescript. You see that, don’t you? Probably, I’m a little too ingenious; let me illustrate. Take the wind, for example. We can’t see it, can we? But we know it’s present, all around us. What we do see, though, are its effects, its results. Them we can describe. But as for the wind itself, it is indescribable—nondescript—perspicacious, eh?”

“Yes,” I nodded; “but,” earnestly, “how about the effects or results, as you call them, of this love? How do you describe that?”

“Well,” the senator responded broadly, “let us take an effect—I’m familiar with a - kiss - say.”

“Yes,” I said solicitously.

“Pretty” Murdock

GAME WARDEN and military man who flourished under the dictatorship of H. C. Duke. His famous Memoirs, “Private to Captain in a Day” should be in every paper covered library. His memorable address to the target detachment before inspection by a U. S. Officer began thus: “H’ll, fellows do it right, I don’t know a rap about drilling!” Thrice was he offered membership to the Y. M. C. A., and thrice he did refuse. The great endeavor of his life is to make his name synonymous with that of Jesse James.

Ben Davis

THE stalwart Cap. of the varsity crews,
Cheerful and big and fat;
His temper both sunny and hard to lose,
A grin like the Cheshire cat.

A lion among the ladies,
A mouse in his own esteem,
A fusser at Kehl’s and Keeley’s,
A boozier—on chocolate cream.

The darling of all the co-eds,
The idol of all the men:—
The U will be long in finding Another such man as Ben.

Charles Knight

A versatile philosopher, farmer, and ball player who flourished at the U. W. from 1903 to 1907. He also became a bowler of no small note, having received his early training with a large wooden spoon and a two quart bowl of mush. Though a straight, square, all-round man, he made his greatest hit in ball playing. In May 1907, he died on base, much to the regret of his many admirers.

Geo. St. George

J E. WILDER of Wilder & Co., wholesale leather dealers, has a son, George, at the University of Wisconsin.

Last Monday Mr. Wilder received a short note from his son. It was substantially as follows:

"Dear Father:— Too busy to write. Am still pursuing my studies faithfully.

Geo."

With a smile the elder Wilder scratches off this encouraging reply to his laconic son:

"Dear Geo.:—Good work. Glad you are still persuing your studies, but do you think there is any possibility of your ever catching up with them?"

(Cribbed from the Chicago Record-Herald)

Father."

Jerome Coe

IN days of old, so we are told,
 The knight rode through the land
 To rescue ladies in distress and lend a helping hand.
 In just that way, e'en yet today
 The fusser struts about,
 To walk with co-eds, hand in hand, when moon and stars are out,
 This modern knight,—this maids' delight,
 Each one of us doth know
 A magnate of the Cardinal whose name is Fusser Coe.

Bob Lea

WE like the boy, despite his faults,
 Because he rowed upon our crews;
 Though somewhat candid in his speech
 He isn't fast; he doesn't booze.
 'Twas in the East, he got his name,
 "The Solace of the Kappa Mu's."

"Squee" Timlin

A promising Law is our Tim
 Who can bat a ball over the Gym.
 He's a vice-president
 With a scholarly bent;
 But to be a great judge is Tim's whim.

"Deac" Kimball

THEY call him "our fair unkissed,"
 But they have made a mistake I wist,
 For that little pink cheek,
 If it only could speak,
 Wouldn't 'plain of the kisses missed.

Bashful he?—Well you can't tell me,
 For I went on that mandolin trip, you see,
 And he flirted so
 With the second row
 Of Downer girls at Milwaukee.

Each Sunday he goes out to speak
 To a faithful few at Willow Creek;
 And lo, he has a saintly face,
 He is the Chi Psi's saving grace,
 And that is why he is known as "Deac."

"Fat" Stanley

STANLEY? Yes, he's that fat man with the curly hair the little German pipe, the fratty-looking raiment and the loud voice. Talks in the key of G with both feet on the loud pedal and all stops out. Plays in the band and tells the fellows stories? That's the man. You've seen him? Yes, and if you live anywhere south of University Avenue you've heard him—or rather, his saxophone. Ask people within six blocks of 212 Park Street and they'll swear (yes, you'll have to stop them swearing) that they've heard of Stanley. Stanley is a scion of Lawrence. Decided to finish at the varsity. Yes, there are redeeming features about Stanley.

Alma Bertles

DOWN at the Annex at half past ten,
 I saw her dance with the Sigma Chis;
 And they but a few of the many men
 Who sue for the smiles from her merry eyes.

I went next morn to my eight o'clock,
 (That young professor on her is daft)
 She sat in front in that smart green frock,
 The girls all whispered, "Watch her graft!"

I saw her still on the Hill at ten,
 At three o'clock in the Libe she sat,
 And chewed the cap of her fountain pen
 O'er two old volumes, thick and fat.

That night she went to a dance at Kehl's,
 The favored man was a young Psi U,
 And this is a fact which I feel is true:—

It isn't only in wit and looks
 That the secret charm of this girl is found;
 She loves to dance but she loves her books,
 And more than this she is all around.

"Wid" Stephenson

HE waved me to a vacant spot on the trunk, which I shared with a dress shirt—typifying Steve, the fusser—and a gross of check books, done up with hay wire—typifying Steve, the universal manager. "Pleased to see you—you've got twenty-one dollars and eight cents coming—if you don't cut out that low comedy at rehearsal it's the tall tamaracks for yours—yes, me and Hutchins—I can swing fifty-two barb votes and eight sororities—certainly I'll take the job. What's it like?" I gasped feebly in reply, till suddenly I realized that his latter remarks were being aimed at both phones and a long distance. Meanwhile, his right hand composed crew come-alongs-for-moneyed-alumni, while his left constructed a poster:

All X X X X Cast—
The Bug-house Case.
How long did she smoke?
How long? Budlong!
Rah! Rah! Cary!

In one of his inspirational pauses he began to run a rubber stamp built into his overshoe; his disengaged foot twiddled anxiously a moment and then curled up and went to sleep. Suddenly glancing at his desk schedule, he stopped. "7:13—breathing space." He breathed.

Then, opening for an instant a Saratoga trunk full of pipes—meerscham, bull-dog, daschshund and Parky—he became beatified, and made a noise like a connoisseur. I was poising my pencil, when Wid, darting a glance at the schedule, seized twelve papers, a mileage book, a cady and a music roll; scribbled: "Gone, 7:22-7:29 ring up S 2591, B 268—Wid;" slid down the banister and vanished into the night. As I doggedly collected myself and papers, came a long distance call: "Excuse me—busy—Wid—Goodbye."

BILL Lieber, posing decoratively on the spot of the Engineering steps that he had worn smooth by four years occupation, looked on us with pessimistic repulsion. His level brows contracted above his classic beak, which bore proudly the marks of honorable usage—that spot of patrician purple where the exploding emery wheel hit. "Summary," he said, scorning us. "Half speed reverse for yours. Bah."

But it was only when we had collected Bill's record from the college and county archives that we tumbled to the full peck-measure of his abnegation.

We publish all the censor will let us, herewith:

Bill Lieber, T. B. II.

When Jimmy Comes Out of the West

THIS isn't a flattering likeness
Of a smiling young heir to a throne,
It's a sketch of the little kid brother,
Who is waiting my coming out home.

IT'S almost a year since I came here,
But I hope to be back with him soon—
With Jimmy, far out in Montana,
When school work is over in June.

VERY often he scribbles a letter
'Bout things out at home on the range,
With smudgy round symbols for letters,
In a diction decidedly strange.

BUT I love to decipher the contents,
Then lean back and smoke as I muse,
And build airy castles for Jimmy,
In settings of radiant hues.

I PICTURE a knight of the present,
When Jimmy comes out of the West.
A fellow both able and willing
To hold his own ground with the best.

AND this is that glorious future,—
The one leading thought in my dream,
I want him to come to Wisconsin
And make a good man for the team.

Perfectly Natural

Mr. S —, (in elocution).—Really, Miss Bashford, I can't speak like that. Why, I feel just like a fool!

Miss Bashford (kindly).—Go right ahead, you're doing splendidly. All we can ask is that you be perfectly natural.

Since the short sleeved waists have come into vogue among the Co-eds visiting the Libe, we see considerably more of the young ladies.—Did.

Three of a Kind

The boy dealt out the dog-eared deck,
A poker game is on.
The youth is but a mental wreck,
A lost and wayward son.

He grasps his cards; his bloodshot eyes
Are fearful to behold
As with expectant hope he tries
To win the other's gold.

They ante, bet, and all show down,
He wins the golden pile.
A three of a kind you often find,
Will help once in a while.

When you leave this place and a good suit case
As all that's left to you,
Perhaps you'll find that three of a kind
Will sometimes help out too.

A little learning is a dangerous thing.
So thought the Freshman when he left last spring.

HOW TO GROW HORIZONTAL

Wouldn't you like to add from two to five feet to your diameter. To be broad enough for people to squat on in a crowd. To earn money as a walking bulletin board. It is entirely possible for you to expand without beer advertisements. Write us, stating number of fifths, eight o'clocks, etc.

Address "TUBBY" WHEELOCK, Pres.

U. W. Water Wagon Co. Sphinx Bldg., Lit City

I WILL MAKE YOU PRESIDENT

Member of Y. M. (or W.) C. A. Cabinet, S. G. A. night watch, Student Representative to Faculty, Discipline Committee, etc. References such as William Volkman, Esq., will be furnished with pleasure if accompanied with price. Great opportunity for the would-be-ambitious. Consult me.

THE ads of PUNK have been expurgated by the censor. There is no longer any danger, "the faculty may read them (as well as the State Journal)."

THERE are jokes that make you laugh;
There are jokes that make you groan;
But the jokes that seem most funny
Are the jokes that are your own.

VERY seldom is it open for the rushee to decide,
When they're lined up at the station, in which turnout they should ride.

SOME give according to their means; some according to their meanness.—Revised by the Commodore of the crew.

THEY say "there is no rest for the wicked."
Let us proclaim that the Badger Board is now resting peaceably.

WHAT'S in a name! That which we here have writ,
By any other name would sound as Punk.

I back 'em up, these men who kick
When fees and books are fifty bones;
We helpless "studes" are stepping stones
For wily profs who get rich quick.

THE Y. M. C. A. is to be complimented on the tranquility with which it bears so many undeserved slams. It turns one cheek after the other so that its cheek confronts us everywhere. A chosen few tread the straight paths laid out by the Y. M. C. A., but more are found around its alleys.

MONEY cannot buy the good will and respect of your fellows. This you must earn.

WHEN rumor whispers low, "He's fast,"
The prof replies, "I'll can."

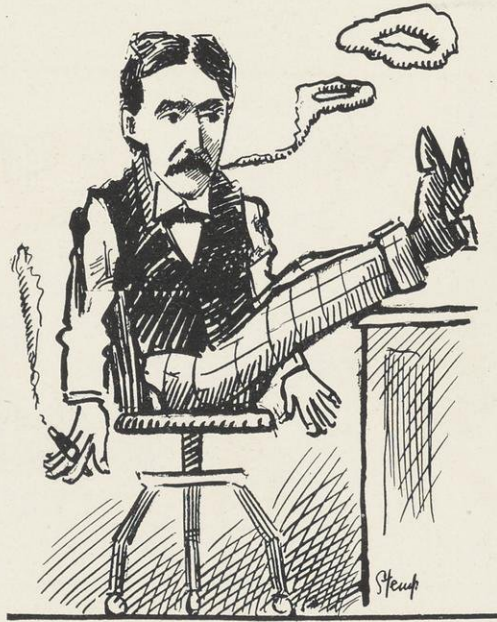

DID you ever realize that much of "College Spirit" and the U Rah Rah element in life is often a weak excuse for laziness.

HE'S a grind, whoever he be,
If he bucks 'till two or sometimes three.

YOU cannot deceive your intellectual superiors very long, but nevertheless a bunch of smooth bluffs will often reap in several X's before the profs get Y's.

IT'S a poor "turndown" that doesn't work both ways.—Revision by the Co-ed.

The sadest are Chadbourne's — "We close at ten."

Everybody Works But Elsom

(Illustrated Song)

EVERYBODY works but Elsom,
 He thinks work's a joke;
 Sitting with feet on the table,
 Blowing out rings of smoke.
 Angell runs the Gym class;
 Hutchins makes things hum;
 Everybody works around here,
 But Doc Elsom * * *

EVERYBODY works but Elsom;
 We envy his old hide,
 He doesn't do an erg of work,
 But puff Havana's Pride.
 Henry tends the showers,
 And works till six o'clock.
 What man has a lunch around here?
 Why! Our old Doc.

Lost to sight and memory dear—EX'S—by most of us.

Dr. Frost—Pulverizing bacteria is rather small business.

In the lexicon of Sunny Pyre there is no such word as "Fail."

The Blues!

The sky today was overcast;
 The heavens seemed to frown,
 Miss Milberstedt was on the hill,
 And she was dressed in brown!

Twelve o'clock! The bell,
 Ten minutes ere they go,
 They do not pause, to say farewell
 To Benny Snow.

Two Soliloquies

By the Frog

Shears, busy shears! we frogs know what they mean,
 As we succumb to frightful vivisection.
 Sharp scalpels too, slice up with edges keen
 Our cringing bodies in this cruel dissection.
 The thrummings of our hearts at last subside;
 Each dying fibre writhes in agony.
 We die the death that countless others died,
 As with our dying gasps we curse Biology

By the Quack Scientist

A few abhor the job,
 But I am not afraid
 To vivisect a frog
 And see just how he's made.
 I open up his chest
 And see his lungs inflate.
 I watch his food digest
 And guess at what he ate.
 I then pluck out h's heart
 And scrape off all the meat;
 But this is just a start
 To make the work complete.
 It's just like sticking hogs;
 Gee! but this is fun
 And when you spoil a frog
 You kill another one.

Dedicated to the Libe Cup

HELD by a chain to a white marble wall,
Like Andromeda prior to Persins's call,
Hangs a tarnished lead cup in a bare spacious hall.

YOUTHs and fair maids often go there to flirt,
And sip brackish water which sometimes will squirt,
If it strikes the cup right, on your clean bosom shirt.

THE chain is quite short so the tall men must go
To the floor, on their knees, or the water won't flow
Down their necks, which quite often appear as below.

IT makes a man look like a thing quite insane
To drink in this way in a cultured domain:
Dear Regents, cough up! don't be tight with your chain.

"No," returned a voluble personage in spectacles, "Dickinson's last theme criticism floored him completely—pedantic sesquipedalianism."

Madison, The Fussers' Paradise

“SAY!” exclaimed Watty Greenblatt, sub-editor of the Cardinal. “You certainly are a wonder, Mabel; how did you think of it? Why, it will take like wild-fire with the ‘American’ editor!”

Mabel Johns fairly glowed with gratification at his praise and with enthusiasm for her subject.

“Madison, The Fussers’ Paradise,” she repeated. “I thought that would make a good subject for a Sunday special. And I do so want to write something splendid. Journalism is such perfectly grand work anyway, and I want Prof. Briar to give me a good mark in the course this semester, ‘specially as I’m the only girl in the class.”

She cast up her big blue eyes at him from under a fair, fluffy pompadour, and he responded heartily, “Oh, you’ll get a good mark all right when you hand in this beaut! It’s an inspiration of genius. How would it do to take kodak pictures for illustrations, showing all the cozy corners on the campus — ”

“The Spoon-holder,” she suggested, “And Lover’s Lane — — —”

“And the Observatory,” he added “Ever been up to see the stars, Mabel?” No, she had never been there, and he persuaded her that, if she was to write about the opportunities which the University offers young couples, she should not miss a starlight visit to the Observatory. Accordingly they planned to go the following Wednesday night.

“Let’s go down on the drive now and hunt up some more of Cupid’s haunts,” he urged. Delighted that he manifested such a hearty interest in her theme, and grateful for his assistance, she agreed with alacrity, and they wandered down the road through the trees toward the lake.

“I think I’m very lucky, getting expert advice like this,” she said, looking up at him with her habitual hero-worship air. He stared at her a moment in consternation. Then he remembered that she was only a freshman from Oskalusa, and she couldn’t possibly know his long string of “crushes” of the three years past. He concluded, rightly, that she alluded to his experience in newspaper work, on the Cardinal and as correspondent for the Sheboygan Telegram. He breathed a quick sigh of relief, and proceeded to point out the spots hallowed in the memories of all girls who go forth from college with solitaires on their left hands (and of many who go away without that trophy).

“Here’s a place that used to be lots jollier before they cut the road through,” he said, as he seated her on the circular bench about a great tree near Dean Henry’s house. He was careful that she should sit on the spot where his own initials and those of “P. L. M.,” the fair Phyllis of Stoughton, were intertwined. That was an old affair, for she had been one of his first.

“Can you carve fancy letters?” she asked, and of course he produced his knife and placed her initials and his own within a very plump and lop-sided heart. She blushed rosily, and arose, declaring they really must hurry if they were going to get back to the Hall in time to get into the dining room.

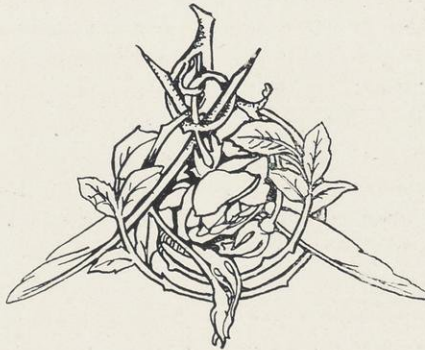

There were many afternoons when they strolled along the shady walks, or drove through neighboring woods and between fields and hills. There were also soft spring evenings when they drifted on the lake, watching the colors fade from the western sky and the lights come out along the shore like myriad fireflies. Sometimes they were in his canoe, but more often they chose a row boat; for he was wise in his experience, and knew that a man hasn't half a chance in a little, tippy canoe, to "fuss" properly. Also, an important consideration, paddling looks so much easier than rowing that one doesn't get full credit for the muscle used. Being human and a man, he was anxious she should admire his strength as she did his intellect.

One evening, shortly before commencement, they took a boat across Monona to Esther Beach, where there was an informal hop in the pavilion. He refused to exchange dances that night, saying he felt selfish and wanted a straight program. She made no objection, and they strolled out, between dances, and found an empty swing hidden among the trees. There they swayed to and fro, keeping time to the waltz the orchestra played.

"Mabel," he ventured finally, tightening the arm which held her in the swing. "Don't you think that it would be rather like selling heart history if we sent that story to the American?"

She laid her head on his shoulder with a happy little laugh.

"Watty," she whispered, "I never meant to!"

Canoe Song

Stroke of paddle and water's whirl,
Gliding through a mist of pearl;
Early morn, or evening gray,—
Dawn or dark of an autumn day:
These are the joys of Mendota's shore;
These the delights that my heart longs for.
Swift my barque as the flight of a bird,
Cutting the dark unseen, unheard;
Stars above, and stars below
Quickly come, too quickly go.
Sunset, twilight, dawn, and day—
Late October,—early May,—
Ah, if only the whole year through
I might live in my canoe!

A Literary Criticism in Disguise

Before the Christian era, which occurred immediately subsequent to the reformation in University life, all students, according to the Archbishop of a neighboring diocese, were pagans. Our story takes place in this far off pagan time which differs greatly from the present Christian age when every student is a future professor, and when every professor is a future saint.

The same was not laid in the capital city of the state; it took place in the royal seat of the gods, Mt. Olympus, which as all men know, is situated in the cloud mountains far above the blue waters of Lake Mendota.

The council of the gods, in convocation assembled, had decided to deal stringently with all English instructors who, because of their innate tendencies, had become inimical to the public welfare. For these professors of English had been wandering aimlessly over the surface of the earth committing many foolish acts and diverse absurdities, as this particular species of the genus magistri is wont to do. And therefore the father of the gods spoke thus to the winged messenger of the celestials.

"Go thou over the length and breadth of the land and gather together all the professors of English thereof. When thou hast done this, lead them to that great institution on the shores of the silvery lake and confine them within the limits thereof."

"Thy will be done," said the swift footed messenger, who straightway flew down to the earth. Thereupon the king of the gods dismissed his council and retired to rest. The darkness came and the star lanterns were lit by the celestial watchers. Silence followed, broken only by the creak of a secret gate and the stealthy tread of the Goddess of Love bound on her nightly journey to the earth.

The darkness dimmed; Aurora drew aside the curtains of night, and the sun god drove his milk white horses across the dome of the sky. Thereupon the father of men looked down upon the earth; his brow darkened, and he wrathfully called:

"Send Mercury to me straightway," and when the messenger, trembling in every limb, appeared the king spake thus:

"What great error hast thou committed? Thou hast placed these itinerant professors of English in the institution situated upon the south, instead of on the north shore of Lake Mendota."

At this the messenger was dumbfounded and for some time no words passed the barrier of his teeth. At last he thus spoke:

"Oh sire, I could not have so greatly erred, if I had not carried out thy command in the darkness."

"Get thee hence," quoth the king. "Thou hast done irreparable harm to the students and I do not doubt that Bacchus, their patron god, will be exceeding wroth with thee."

Dean Henry to the Agrix

YE call me Dean, and ye do well to call him Dean who for twenty-six long years has met every shape of honest man and has never found his peer. If there be one among you who can say that ever in public meeting or in private lobby I lost my rectitude, let him stand forth and say it. (Deathlike silence) And yet—I was not always thus (tears), a politician amongst politicians. My ancestors came from old Ohio and settled amid the peach orchards and alfalfa fields. Then I came to Wisconsin to study myxomycetes. That was before I began my pig experiment. O! Wisconsin! Wisconsin!! thou hast been a tender nurse to me. Ay! thou hast transformed me from a farmer into an agriculturist! I have for many years struggled to upbuild the Short Course which you now see in glowing splendor. (Applause and whistling).

How I Became a Fusser

THIS choice bit of narrative was extracted by stealth from Sletten's diary, now guarded more diligently than the Golden Apples of the Hesperides or the apple of his eye.

- OCT. 13, '05—Today my eyes were dazzled and my heart yielded for the first time to feminine enchantment. I met her in the Libe; She dropped a pencil and I picked it up. Then She smiled and spoke to me kindly. I am happy tonight.
- OCT. 14, '05—Today I passed Her on the street, but She did not see me though I stood up very straight. If She was jollyng me yesterday—well She's too rare a riddle to give up.
- OCT. 15, '05—Sunday. Fortune favors the Fusser. I met Her at Christian Endeavor and took Her home. When She said I might call I ran all the way home to tell my roommate about Her.
- OCT. 16, '05—Was overjoyed to receive a letter addressed in handwriting like Hers but it proved to be a train schedule. Went to see Her in the evening and asked Her to go to the Hop. Within five (5) days, I must learn to dance.
- OCT. 17, '05—Told my friends of my future happiness and arranged a full program for the Hop. Also took my first dancing lesson from Prof. Kehl. He made me step around a little chalk parallelogram to the count of one, two, three. I did it quite grac fully, I think.

- OCT. 18, '05—Rose early and practiced my "one, two, three" till breakfast. Cut morning classes and practiced in the handball court. Took another lesson at Kehl's with three awkward fellows. It cost me a quarter. Gee! dancing is expensive.
- OCT. 19, '05—Practiced at frequent intervals during the day. Discovered the tackling dummy in the gym and enjoyed a delightful waltz with it to my own whistling. Took another lesson at Kehl's and staid to the pig race. Some of the Mollies wouldn't dance with me. Dog gone them!
- OCT. 20, '05—Practiced the two-step in the corridors of Main Hall. Took another lesson after which I went to a town dance. All the maidens, especially the little foxy ones, looked up to me. Tomorrow comes the Hop and I can't dance. Things look desperate. The thought makes my eyes shed bitter tears.
- OCT. 21, '05—Obtained a book on dancing and etiquette and got some fussers to coach me as I practiced the various stunts of bowing, posing and the like. Also filled some small cards with items for conversation. Bucked up on the weather forecast, squeezed into my regimentals and started out.

(At this point the plagiarism was detected and the diary has since been kept in an inaccessible Sanctum Sanctorum far from the sight of the inquisitive and unappreciative student body).

Good Manners and Good Form

WILLIAM J. BOLLENBECK

Written in consultation with Mrs. Woodward and Miss Bass. Answers given to all general questions on social etiquette.

How shall I invite a young lady to attend the Prom with me?

Yours in trepidation,
CLAUDIUS HOPKINS.

Good form demands that you proceed with great formality. Hire a cab and drive to her chapter house. Bear the invitation up the front steps on a tea tray. Deliver your invitation and your card to the chaperone who shall in turn have it countersigned by the young lady's parents. Back down the front steps into your cab. You must not call before Saturday night. Never use the telephone for such a message—there might be someone on the line.

Should I follow a young man caller to the doorway and help him on with his coat?

Perplexedly,
REGA BODDEN.

Heavens, no! Take leave of him in the drawing room and let him manage his own coat. Then too, under no circumstances must you offer to find his hat until he has signified his intention of going.

Should I ever escort a young lady to the Majestic?

Queriously,
FERDINAND VON BARTLETT.

A Varsity girl? Never. It's too far.

How should a young lady announce an engagement?

Curiously,
GRACE DAVISON.

A good way would be with a megaphone. Good form, however, demands a dinner.

Should a sorority girl study in the reading room of the library?

Interestedly,
BESSIE HASTINGS.

Society is doing much to discourage this pernicious practice. If you must read or study there, do not be too assiduous. Good form demands that you take time to be entertaining to your friends.

None but the "Goods" deride the "Fair."

CRAMMING maketh a full man;
Stabbing maketh a shrewd man;
Flunking maketh a dull man;
But cribbing maketh a con'd man.

Roped In?

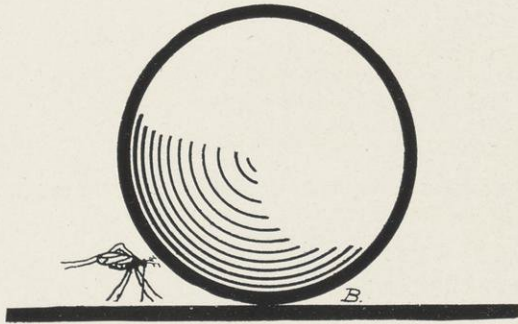

Prof. Giese—What was the misfortune of the widow of Charles I. of England?
Helen Flint—Her husband died, I suppose.

THERE once was a spinster named Sue
Whom we love for she cons very few.
You can get through her course
Without using a horse.
I think she's pure Sterling, don't you?

THERE once was a shepherd named Franque,
Who's a much greater man than Dean Hanque;
But don't tell him his sheep
Never pay for their keep.
Beware! For Franque's a blanque cranque.

A mosquito was just run over by a ball at the bowling alley; he bled terribly.

"What's this, a fairy tale?"
"No, just an alley-gory."

A BAD CRUSH

How dare you!

THEY were seated in a cab, "Does that draught strike you?" he asked. Different from the ordinary "gallant" who is wont to offer his coat in such an emergency, this young man conceived the novel idea of utilizing the lap-robe. He succeeded in making it shield his "fair-one" from the cold blasts of the night by draping it over the little window directly over the seat. She was just about to nestle back when she felt—could it be true! such audacity! "Why Mr. S—how dare you!" was on the tip of her tongue—when she felt not his arm but merely a fold in the lap-robe.

DOUBT that the faculty's alive,
Doubt that the hill is steep,
Doubt that here we must work to thrive
But never doubt the Prom was cheap!

He passeth best, who crammeth best,
All things, both small and big;
He passeth highest who can sit,
And dig, and dig, and dig.

IT is true that segregation
Is advanced by Alpha Phi—
But 'twould prove a tribulation
To the prof of S. A. E.

Professor Kerr—Pardon me, Mr. Hood, but you are reading Miss Van Slyke's part of the dialogue. But, it is quite proper to take a young lady's part sometimes, is it not?

The Pilgrims were our pious forefathers who first landed on their knees and then on the aborigines—Professor Ross.

Sweet are the co-eds of the varsity!

GUARANTEE OF PURITY

Dr. C. R. Van Hise, the originator of the Student Conference declares on oath: "This is not an institution for children or the feeble minded but the congested environment in which we subsist has long demanded the panacea which I originated. The Student Conference is as necessary for the U. W. as onions to veil Columbia Cafe hash or as outside reading assignments for the lazy prof. The Student Conference is not a secret concoction and I wish the truth revealed. It contains two per cent of pure student thoughts with traces of Fraterodium (last year Dave Bogue kicked over the traces), and 98 per cent Prexy. I guarantee it harmless, dilute, and free from scum.

Signed and sworn by me this 31st day of February, 1907.

Dr. C. R. Van Hise.

Buck Grunert, Notably Public.

IT SAVED PAPA'S LIFE

Papa had just swallowed one of the Sphinx's poor jokes and was choking when I told him about the Student Conference. He roared loudly and was saved from death. The Student Conference is a life saver.

O. I. C.

E. Leonard (Poet ex-officio). Kind friend, may I ask by what muse you are most often inspired?

H. C. Hopson—Well, to tell the truth, I must admit that the Kappa Mus influence me considerably.

The Student Conference Symphony

To sleep and not snore; to feign intelligence and wisdom; to diagnose rather than cure, suggest rather than do; to reform, rejuvenate, rehash, and readjust athletics and reject championships; to spy, detect, and hang around; to can the good old times, pickle advising alumni, and preserve purity and pink eyed piety; to tinker with a big dinner and cough up tin after it; to increase senior summaries; to put a class "lid" on the freshman and a general lid on the university: this is our symphony.

The Student Conference sleeps while you work.

Practical Rules for Cribbing.

Cribbing is an art, so to succeed develop artfulness. "Lawless" Tormey will soon establish a professional art school. Sit in the middle of the room and you'll not be cornered easily. Borrow or steal an honest look. Consult Dr. Elsom for facial culture and learn how to be two faced and shame faced. Work your prof before exam. Work, work, be not afraid. Inquire at "Pete" Rehm's employment bureau. Such men as "Art" Kissling and "Cy" Montgomery have thus worked their way through college. Take Angell's course in fencing if you wish to foil your man. When through take up your crib and walk.

It made a Woman of Me.

Read the miraculous change in Miss Ferdie Bartlett's life. She says: "Until the Junior horse play, I felt like a blind person without hands, i. e., it was impossible for me to feel well. A member of the Student Conference urged me to try a case of Budlong. I did and found myself in the cast and not an outcast of society. My work all became a matter of play. I acted different than ever before, I became a woman with all of a woman's charming attributes, I suddenly became popular. O, I am so thankful that my attention was directed toward the Budlong case. Many of my friends bought boxes. I cannot praise the Student Conference and the Junior Play too much, especially the great feature in the second act. This was a pipe, not my own, but

Yours as ever,

MISS FERDIE BARTLETT
alias Phyllis LeMoyne, Stoughton.

—ooo—

In all the world there is no remedy like the Student Conference.

The Student Conference brings joy and sunshine to faculty and students.

KREY ASTROLOGY.

Born under Cancer, the sign of the Krey fish, hence naturally crabbed. Hopelessly material, self-opinionated, calculating and imperturbable. Have a taste for literary work when it smacks of the commercial. Will make an excellent teacher if you can control yourself. Beware of the Normalite who teaches history.

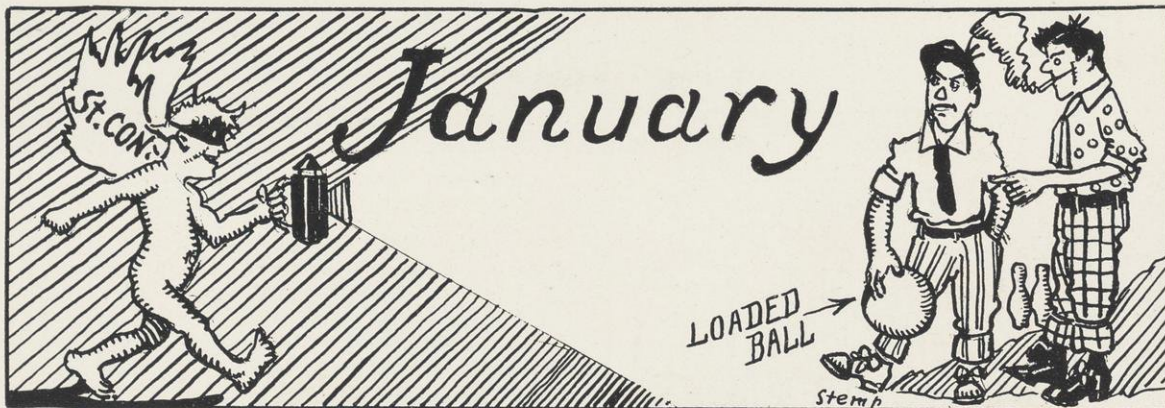

A Terrible "Case."

How would you like to look like this? See how Paul Johnson looks and how badly he is cut up about it. He is high strung, still his heart bears only a half-tone. Paul's is a sad case. He writes:

"My first symptom was Pal fever accompanied by a flat flabby purse. Heart itch and fondness for sweets followed. In my worst stages I frequented the jeweler's and though I always prized the baseball diamond, still I never shall stoop to base stealing. Publish my letter as a warning to others. Mine is a wretched life.

Heartbroken,

PAUL.

Chronology of the Year

Explanatory

Calculations in this almanac are based on 8 o'clock, a dern mean time, observed (at a distance) by Billy Fitz. Solar time by Sol Levitan. Evenings in Sum Time, figured on her fingers (third finger specially) by Miss Vena Cava Brunk. Astronomical data taken by Oscar F. Gayton; checked by Louise Myers, looking through telescope with him—allowance made for upper limb around equatorial zone, pairallax and contraction.

September 25.—Unveiling of Prof. Angell's whiskers.

September 26.—Registration day—awful crushes in registrar's office also in Sigma Alpha Phi Epsilon house.

September 27.—First "stude" writes home for money.

October 1.—Band practice commences; 3 suicides in neighborhood.

October 2.—Prof. Angell poses for stained glass window.

November 3.—Boelsing hires Mr. Charles E. Ambler for wooden Indian.

December 3.—Joint Debate, Castalia vs. Pythia—"Resolved, that Kabo is lots preferable to La Vida."

January 18.—Phi Deltas reported to have bowled 423½. Incredulous excitement.

January 24.—Eva Cooper squares the circle (for she's a jolly good Fellow—rah, Eva!)

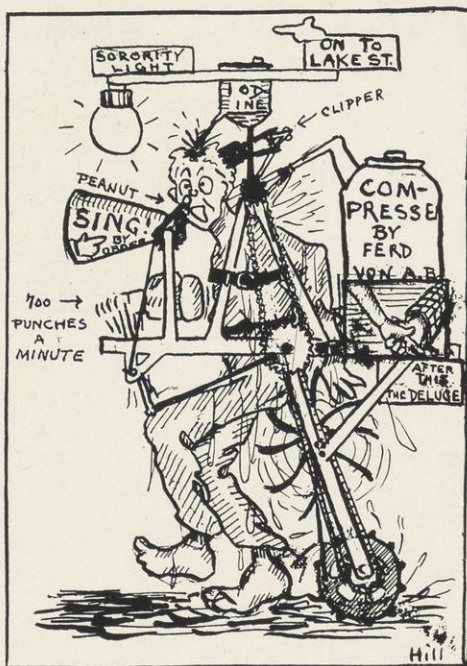

January 25.—Toke Riley circles the Square.

February 10.—State Journal is respectable (Sunday—no issue).

March 17.—St. Pat's Day—Prof. Kind wears orange socks.

March 18. Cora Hinkley in Dreutzer Sonata.

The Jewish Thanksgiving begins week after February 15, 132nd year of U. S. Independence. First year of Hedwig Federle's independence. 78th year of Dean Birge's Fedora. 4th year of Ruth Goe's mono-feathered lid.

WHY SUFFER EXCESS IN HAZING?

Try Harper's great discovery, painless and startling. The hazing machine was designed by Duffy, the master machinist of the Student Conference. The turning of the wheels by Prof. Turner marked a great revolution in Wisconsin. Think of the heartrending atrocities of last fall! How Rapps Thompson and Pfiffner suffered humiliation in the hands of Witte and Stiehm. Reform came. Necessity was the mother-in-law of this invention. The automatic hazer is warranted not to kill in less than 24 minutes. It is simple, anyone can see through it, yet is absolutely painless. Made in all the latest varsity styles. Send for catalogue.

DUFFY HARPER.

The Great Spirit planted the Student Conference.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

NEVER go into the tank from the ladder; there are divers ways which are better.

TO find the capacity of a stein, multiply the number of draughts required to empty it by two. This will give capacity in gallons.

NEVER turn out the light in the parlor. That is not a bright thing to do.

DON'T criticise the U. W. Band. It is composed of men of note.

IF you must be a tank don't get too full or your friends won't be able to bail you out.

CHOOSE a house where the landlady's daughters are industrious, accommodating and homely.

PAY for room and board in advance, never in counterfeit.

REMEMBER that landladies never have confidence in rumors.

NEVER nail your register open.

CALL sausage "meat" and the aqueous suspension of chalk dust "cream." Never ask for more than one spoon unless you pay over $3.50 per.

TURN out your light before you play the cornet. Neighbors seldom like that kind of brass but they can't see where to shoot if you take the above precaution.

NEVER ask more than four guests to Sunday "chicken" dinner, since few hens have over four necks, and the other bones are scraped of meat before being served.

The Student Conference is harmless.

The Great Poultry Food

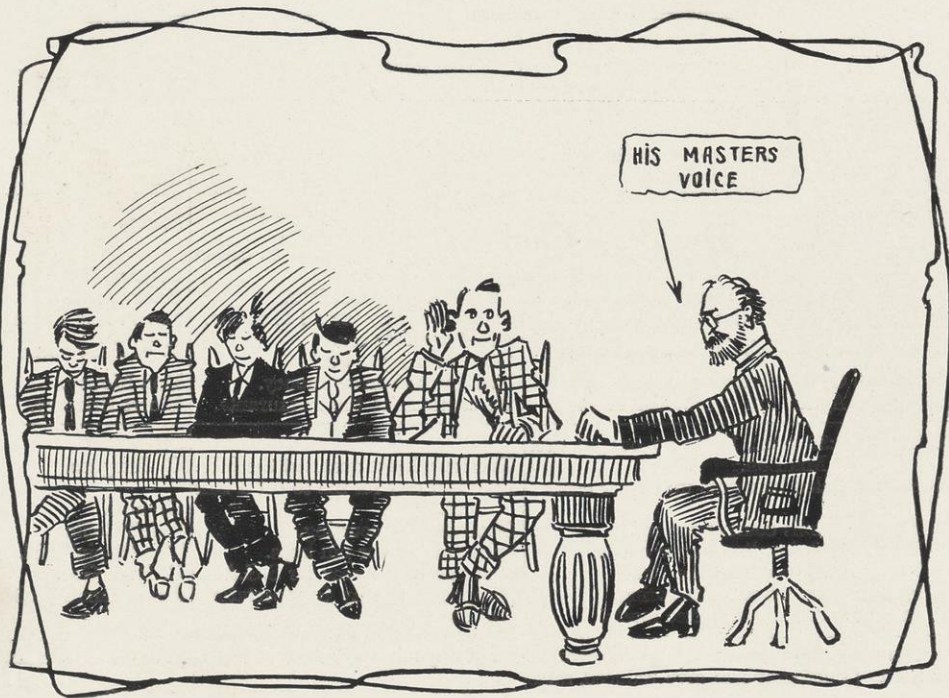

APTLY CALLED "KNOCKING" IN "POUND" PACKAGES

Read what CUDGE HANNAN says: Your poultry food gives results; I tried it on the U. W. faculty. The first day they were chicken-hearted but the next day they were all laying for me. I then gave the lay members double dose and they pursued me in re-lays. I could see the whites of their Ei and they were yoked together in a Varsity shell. The faculty pecked on me more than I expected. Cousins ate some by mistake and became coxcomb,—by George.

Opinion of 1st egg—"Rotten."
Opinion of 2nd egg—"Preserve me."

DR. HUTCHINS' REFORMATIVE

Nothing is impossible to Dr. Hutchins,
the Master Specialist

Chronic athletics and football debility disappear under my magic treatment. My Reformative is as pure as the Madison milk supply. Get new nerve and strengthen your heart. I make strong tissues out of weak tissue paper material and develop weak backs into strong fullbacks, which cure that former painful feeling in the side-lines. Men of Wisconsin! you need not come to me, I will come to you.

The All-University Luncheon

Reckless were we then and rash,
Often we regret the deed,
Beaten out of dad's good cash,
Buncoed for a ten-cent feed.

Read what two good dimes will buy,
Yet we paid a buck a plate,

The Press Club

CONSTITUTION AND BY-PRODUCTS

1. The purpose of this society shall be to eat one big dinner at Keeley's, for which the members shall pay one dollar per plate; for extra. This banquet shall be modeled after the newsboys' dinners given Christmas by the Salvation Army. After the pi (joke: n. b. printers' pie, q. v.) several journalists of reputation will speak; also the editor of the STATE JOURNAL.

2. The purpose of this society shall be, incidentally, to promote journalistic genius and other forlorn hopes at the University of Wisconsin.

3. New members shall be collected, excuse us, elected whenever a majority of the officers shall have exhausted their credit at the Pal.

4. Membership shall be exclusive; being limited to persons connected with, sympathizing with or subscribing to, any university publication from the STUDENT FARMER down to the LIT; any person who may, can or might be interested in any newspaper, blotting-paper, book, pamphlet or anything else coming under second class mail matter; anyone who can stenog or typewrite; anyone who ever carried a paper route; anyone who ever got A on a theme; anyone of reasonably sound mind who can, tries to, or would like to, write fact, fiction, squirrel themes, cardinal editorials or ads.

5. A quorum to do business shall consist of two-thirds of the members present.

6. Meetings shall be postponed bi-weekly. (Club motto: Say au revoir, but not bi-weekly).

7. DUTIES OF OFFICERS. The president shall hold the gavel and make a noise like Horace Greeley.

The Vice-President shall hold the gavel when the President wants to go fussing.

The Treasurer shall hold everything else that's loose; his most onerous duty shall be to keep the list of delinquent dues.

The Secretary shall watch closely, and if anything really happens in a Press Club meeting, shall record it in the family Bible.

The librarian shall cherish the club library; the same consisting of an 1898 check-book with no entries, and an incomplete file of last year's CARDINAL.

The Executive Committee shall look intelligent as is possible under the circumstances; and eat what is left after the annual banquet.

PRESENT OFFICERS

President—Ned Jones, of the CANDYBALL.

Vice-President—Brice Ennis, of the SATURDAY EVENING POST.

Treasurer—Jeremiah Coe, managing editor of the CANDYBALL.

Secretary—Miss Elsa B. Castendyck, of the COLLEGE COW.

CATCHER

Librarian refuses to give his name; says he's trying to live it down.

Executive Committee, Censor, S'g't-in-Arms, Guardian of Manners and Morals, etc., etc., etc., William J. Bollenbeck, of the LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

A Feat

Doc Harper—The Chinese bound the feet of their women.

L. Weed [aside] (regarding Anse Anson's feet)—Anse never bound his feet, they have always been boundless.

Do you belong to the Cardinal?
Roehl—No, the Cardinal belongs to me

“Open your mouth and shut your eyes.”
Was the good advice of an ancient dub.
But “shut your mouth and open your eyes”
Is what he'd said if he'd seen our grub.
—Chadbourne.

ST. PETE looked out,
Then raised a shout,
And open flung the portals;
“Go bring a harp,
Professor Sharp
Has come to the immortals!”
They led him to the Hall of Saints,
They strewed his path with palm;
They placed a crown upon his head
And laved his feet with balm;
Then wrote in words of living light:
“The Purist of the Prom.”

Prof. Whitson—Will some one loan me his text book? (Budinsky graft seeking Normalite rushes up with book).

Prof. W.—I'm much obliged, Budinsky, but
I find that-er-the leaves aren't cut.
Budinsky murmured “I'll be divelled.”
And then he slowly, sadly, shrivelled.

An “Owed” to Bill

Billy was my classmate; Billy was my friend;
Billy was a fellow who was always glad to lend:
Billy had so many bills which certainly looked good,
That just before the Junior Prom I borrowed all I could.

One day since then we met again, he asked me for the dough.
I'd signed some crew subscriptions and was bankrupt long ago;
I told him not to worry but to call in by and by;
He said my explanation would hardly satisfy.

When later on I got a con and had to leave the U,
I managed to forget old Bill and all my debit too;
He never has forgotten me but if he ever will,
On memory's wall is written all that I once owed to Bill.

A Toast to the Men of Wisconsin

HERE, friends, I give you a toast,
A toast to be drunk with a cheer!
A toast to the men of Wisconsin,
To be drunk with a rousing cheer!
Not that they've won the emblem
On the gridiron, track or crew,
And not for persuasive debating,
Will I pledge them this toast with you.
Not that they hold high honors,
Which classes or scholarship give,
Not for that will we cry "Health to them!
Strength to them, long may they live!"

But here's to men who can see,
In the life which they daily live,
The mastery, strength and power,
Which work and high purpose give.
To men who can claim as their own,
The standard Wisconsin holds dear,
That broad outlook, true vision of life,
With sway divine holds their course clear.
To such, friends, I pledge you a toast
A toast to be drunk with a cheer!
A toast to the men of Wisconsin
To be drunk with a rousing cheer!

"Wisconsin Crew Song"

THE crews are not kept on a single dollar,
But to make up the budget by which they go
To the Hudson River down East to row,
We need the mazuma of every scholar.
—Sung By The Collector.

In Alpha Gamma Delta
An odor fills the air,
The pungent smell of moth balls
Is wafted everywhere:
Miss Gaynor's awful busy,
And all the house is hers,
For on this April morning
She starts to pack her furs.

To M. S. S.

This Prof. is an excellent vir,
To Seniors et Juniors he's dear,
When his desk is before him
Satisfaction comes o'er him:
He inspires all the Frenchmen with fear.

Shoes of gum will help some. (See Boardman's "Quiz Conducting Made Easy.")

In the French department, ponies are Shank's horses. There are many who ride.

The jobs that grafters gain and keep,
Are not obtained without a fight,
While their unconscious victims sleep,
They sit up planning through the night.

Curl while the iron is hot.

“Seeing Madison” Through a Megaphone

THE building on your left is Chadbourne Hall, an institution for the feminine feeble-minded, who call themselves “The Single Blessedness Sticks.”

The next building there is Library Hall, the loudest building in the world. It shelters daily one hundred students, not one of whom has a muffler on.

This is the Lower Campus; those trained, stuffed moulseys are the Wisconsin tin-soldiers. The one leading them is Col. Underwood. He’s the only original moulsey in the bunch.

Those men running from the Gym in white doll-rags are called “Veiled Veni.” Those last two have Venus beat by a mile.

This is State Street, the financial center of the city. It is very quiet and few crimes are committed here. Occasionally when the boys set ’em up at Ferdie’s they murder tunes along this street.

This, ladies and gents, is the famous “New Colonial Hall” where the Kappa Mu Sorority holds its weekly dance. The Kappa Mu’s are nifty beef-pounders and potato-mashers. They are also somewhat given to other mashings.

That fearful noise you hear inside is the Intersorority Bowling League scrapping. We will spend some little time here. Those croquet-balls are used here by the girls for bowling-balls.

That hole in the floor there in front of Alley No. 7 is where a co-ed dropped her ball. That girl over on the right is a senior. She is adding up her score on her fingers. No, she doesn’t know much about mathematics. She majored in English.

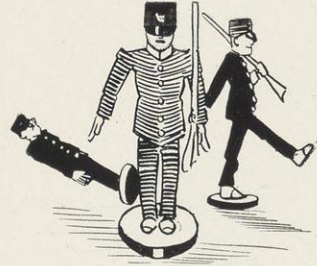

Those two over there are indulging in a friendly discussion. Yes, that’s hair on the floor. They have these purely good-natured hair pulling contests after each game.

That girl straddling Alley No. 4 and swinging her ball is suffering from a slight misconception. She thinks she’s playing croquet and is aiming for the stake.

The girl on Alley No. 3 is sticking out her tongue at Prof. Kehl, because he called a foul on her.

That noise is the clapping of the spectators. They are members of the same sorority as the winning team. They are clapping because the rival team is beaten. Oh, no, the defeated team never congratulates the winning team. That would be a breach of sorority etiquette.

The winning team will now go to the Pal for lunch on the sorority. This ends the tour. All out.

In Waukesha

A little town,—

Its lakes and springs of wide renown,
Its bottled products pure,—
Exists a sanitarium
Where girls are weaned from chewing gum;
'Tis called the Keeley Cure.

In Madison

The student town,

No sanitarium is found;
But you’ll agree, I’m sure,
When every day’s a Sunday
From Tuesday until Monday,
We need a Keeley Cure.

Finis

With faces grim, with eyes grown dim,
With fingers all crippled and sore,
We write these lines, turn down our steins
And close the sanctum door.
We've worked like mad for every ad
From air compressors to pills;
We've done our best—Heaven give us rest
And cash to pay the bills.

Alma Mater Student Styles

ASK a Fellow Student whose clothes please your eye and chances are that he's an "Alma Mater Dresser"—divorced from his tailor—for the very reason that prompted you to question him. Student Styles are the Supreme Court on fashion. The Alma Mater mark in them is your guide. Scarcely a city on the map where they're not to be had

In less than four years this bank has built up resources amounting to over

$3,500,000.00

THIS GROWTH IS DUE TO

- FIRST: The policy, which is broad, yet sufficiently conservative to insure safety.*
- SECOND: The adopting of modern methods which facilitate the dispatch of business.*
- THIRD: Progressiveness of management and its willingness to promote the interest of depositors.*

These, together with stability, are what have made so many satisfied depositors

A request from interested buyers will bring our interesting brochure, "In Witness Whereof"

Why is the Marlin Repeating Shotgun, Model No. 17, the best low-priced repeating shotgun in the world?

By making this gun with a solid frame and a straight grip stock a number of parts have been eliminated. The result is a stronger, simpler, cleaner gun than any other repeating model and a very much less costly one.

The exclusively Marlin solid top and side ejection are features of Model 17 and to these famous Marlin ideas are added the new double extractor and a two-piece safety recoil block—devices which repeating shotgun users will welcome.

The Marlin breech block and working parts are cut from solid drop forgings. The barrel of special rolled steel is bored for both smokeless powder and black. The guaranteed Marlin pattern of 325 pellets with 1¼ oz. No. 8 shot in a 30 in. circle at 40 yards is maintained in Model 17.

When the ducks come rushing in among the decoys or the grouse roar off through the dead leaves you cannot be armed with a better, quicker, harder-hitting gun than the Marlin Model 17.

It is a first-class quail gun. For woodcock, snipe, prairie chickens, sharp tail grouse or any other bird shooting it is unsurpassed.

Its records at the traps are wonderful.

There are many other valuable Marlin ideas included in every Marlin gun. Send six cents in stamps for our handsome catalog, which explains all and contains much other valuable information.

GRADUATES

Do you know that we are making clothes for particular men in nearly every state in the Union? These men are nearly all graduates from our University. ¶ They all say they can not get any such clothes anywhere, and in most all cases clothes are made without "try on." ¶ If we have not already gotten your measurements, better leave them with us before you go, as you may want to order a good suit some day. We'll make it and do it right to run a laundry that will please our patrons. That's our business. We are not afraid to tell why it is that we find this business so easy. We run it to suit you—that's only right—you pay the money—that's your business—all the same there are lots of laundries where you pay the money and get all the trouble. Because we take the trouble, is why we are getting so large in a business way.

WE FIND IT EASY

Northwestern University Medical School

(CHICAGO MEDICAL COLLEGE)

DR. N. S. DAVIS, Dean

This medical school is centrally located, convenient to large hospitals, affording abundance of clinical material. The laboratories and lecture rooms are commodious, well lighted and generously supplied with all modern appliances, to aid in carrying on in the most effective manner, the study of medicine.

The full course consists of four years, eight months each, beginning October 2nd.

The classes are divided into small sections, thus affording to students better opportunities, or the advantages of individual instruction. This feature, as well as a graded curriculum, characterize the work in all the departments.

The ability of the men who graduate from this school, as well as the character and thoroughness of the work given here, is evidenced by the success of our graduates in the examinations given by the different State Boards. Out of the 135 graduates of the class of 1905 who were examined by the various State Boards in the United States during the last year, only one failed.

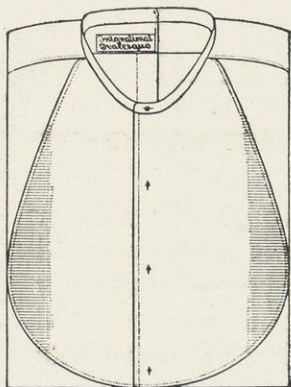

After January 1st, 1908, the entrance requirements will be advanced to one year of college work in chemistry, physics, biology and modern languages.
