WOMEN'S CONVO HONORS BADGERS BY NEW POSITION

Wisconsin Woman Will Be First Secretary of Athletic Conference

Wisconsin was awarded the newly established position of secretary-treasurer of the Athletic Conference of American College Women at the national convention of the conference held in Berkeley, Cal., April 12. A member of W. A. A. will be appointed to the position, according to Esther G. Fifield '25, president-elect of W. A. A. who, with Edith Morris '25, was a delegate to the convention.

A national treasury was established at the convention, and each college will contribute $10 annually. A definite stand was taken against women's collegiate activities. A scholastic basis qualification for team and squad members was suggested. Spalding's swimming rules will be followed. Plans for a sectional conference at the University of Illinois before the next convention were made. A report on the point system was presented in the form of a thirty minute paper read by Miss Fifield.

Founded in 1917

A. C. A. C. W. was founded at Wisconsin in 1917, when Helen Barr '17, president of W. A. A., called together representatives from colleges in the United States in which associations for women were organized. Fifty-four colleges were present at the first meeting of the national A. C. A. C. W. The second convention was held in 1920, at the University of Chicago, the third in 1921 at the University of Indiana, and the next will be held in 1927 at Cornell university.

STORES REPORT FEW FROSH CAP SALES

The spring sale of frosh headgear does not seem to be particularly flourishing. The frosh seem to be satisfied with the faded green caps that they wore last fall. A few men, whose caps were probably lost or destroyed, have purchased new ones. The Co-op reports that between seven and eight dozen have been sold by them. The toggery shop has sold about a dozen and most of the other places state that they ordered no Spring stock of the traditional freshman lid.

DENYES TO TALK ON BORNEO TRIP

Missionary to Tell of Journey Through Jungles of the Far East

Dr. J. R. Denyes, traveler and missionary for twenty years in the Far East, will speak on "The Head Hunters of Borneo" next Sunday at the Wesley Forum.

In his study of the religious rites and social customs of the native tribes of the Malay islands, Dr. Denyes traveled across the undiscovered jungle lands of the islands of Borneo, Sumatra and Celebes. With a converted head-hunter chief to guide him he crossed the island of Borneo to study the life of the tribes in the interior of the island. For many months he was out of touch with the outside world, padding up unexplored streams by night to avoid the hostile tribes. In many places he was the first white man that the natives had seen.

As a lecturer on missions and the Orient, Dr. Denyes has a national reputation. He is an authority on the social and economic conditions of the primitive tribes of the Malay islands, and is one of very few who can interpret the mystic symbols and religious rites of the tribes of the East Indies. Dr. Denyes is at present the head of the department of religious education at Lawrence college and lecturer on the religions of the Orient.

RE-SELLING OF LIT TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Because many students have come to the office and requested purchase of this month's Lit, a re-selling of the Wisconsin Literary magazine will be held Friday, Carl R. Hansen '25, business manager, announced yesterday. He stated that many students did not have an opportunity to buy at the sale just before the spring vacation on account of exams and the vacation. Tables will be placed in the principal buildings on the hill at which the magazine may be purchased.

MONROE DOCTRINE MEANING CHANGED

—FISH

History Professor Says That Doctrine is Now One of Intervention

"Within the last century the Monroe Doctrine has come to mean something diametrically opposite to its meaning in 1823," Carl Russell Fish, professor of history said in his talk on "American Foreign Relations" to the Gyro club at a dinner in the Park hotel last night. "Then it was a doctrine of non-intervention but now it is one of absolute intervention."

"The American cabinet of 1823," Professor Fish explained, "desired certain parts of America for their own country and were unwilling to be bound by any treaty with England against the Holy Alliance. Accordingly, Monroe expressed the position of the country in the doctrine that has come to bear his name, a position of absolute separation from European affairs."

"This relation of America to the Latin-American countries was changed by the action toward Cuban independence and in the matter of the Panama canal, when America came to have a legal right to protect these countries. The South American nations are somewhat antagonistic toward the United States," Professor Fish said "and all are members of the League of Nations through the fear that the fear of America may prove inconvenient to them. By the present system the American relation toward the Latin-American countries rests on force, and America is no longer an elder sister to them, but is rather the policeman with the big club."

City May Not Be Able to Police Drive After All

The question has been raised among many students whether Chief of Police Thomas Shaughnessy has any authority to prevent parking on the university drive.

Chief Shaughnessy is quoted in The Daily Cardinal of April 19 as having declared that he will send a motorcycle policeman around the drive every night to interrupt anyone who has stopped there for any other purpose than that of changing a tire or of cleaning a spark plug.

The office of the state attorney general asserts that the local police have no authority on state property unless in chasing felons or upon invitation of the state. University property, of which the drive is a part, is state owned land, but is under the direction of the university board of regents.

"To my knowledge the board of regents has not granted any authority to the local police," Maurice E. McCaffrey, secretary of the board of regents said yesterday. "The board has deputized several men of its own with police authority. Each year the board of regents votes certain police authorities over University of Wisconsin property."

SIX JUNIORS ELECTED TO ADVERTISING CLUB

At its meeting last night the Advertising club elected six juniors to membership. Those elected are Elliot Guild '25, William Rorison '25, Leonard Barry '25, J. Atkins Parker '25, Carrie Rasmussen '25 and Edna Walter '25.

Seniors Win Edge in Third Act of Campus Billboard Drama

The curtain for the third act of "The Drama of the Campus Billboard" arose in front of the Union building shortly before 8 o'clock yesterday morning while the students were wending their way to class.

Sunday the stage—or billboard—was set with the large letters "WATCH '24;" Monday it became, "WATCH '27;" and yesterday an embellishment in the way of "CATCH H——!" explained helpfully what was meant by "WATCH '27."

The play in which the senior and freshman classes are starring seemed to have reached its climax in this act. Although the younger and less experienced actors hold the leading part for the time being, the critics have ventured the opinion that the closing scenes would see the seniors most in favor and winning the greatest applause from the audience.

From the standpoint of its effectiveness on the audience, yesterday morning, the third act of the drama was singularly successful, but the decorative qualities were exceedingly lacking in anything artistic.

The wrong kind of paint was used. A sickly maroon does not at all harmonize with the more brilliant cardinal or the restful, fresh-appearing green which proved quite popular in the preceding acts. That the stage setting will be improved for any remaining acts is a foregone conclusion.

"The Drama of the Campus Billboard" is an impromptu farce being staged with the cooperation of two of the most active branches in the university. It has been prepared and directed entirely by students. The play is considered of immeasurable value in pushing forward the Memorial union drive to be conducted among the seniors during the week of May 12 to 19.

AD CLUB HEARS M'MULLEN SPEAK

"Study Plus Knowledge Plus Intelligent Application Equals Success"

That selling an article is working with the human mind, more delicate than handling quicksilver on a knife, and that successful salesmanship depends on the second syllable, the man, were the opinions of C. L. McMullen, vice-president of the Fuller and Johnson company of Madison, as expressed in an address on "How to Sell" given last night before the Advertising club at the Y. M. C. A.

"Study plus knowledge plus intelligent application equals success," said Mr. McMullen. "Study and knowledge gain for you confidence, and knowledge plus intelligent application gain for you enthusiasm, which equals pleasure. Don't try to have the job please you, you please the job."

The eight rules for success which were embodied in the talk interspersed with a wealth of personal experience, are as follows:

1. Master yourself.
2. Keep in good spirits.
3. Utilize your head more and your feet less.
4. Be honest.
5. Deal in nothing but facts.
6. Keep a positive frame of mind.
7. Talk in the language people understand.
8. Analyze every proposition.

To consider a new code of ethics in advertising for campus magazines, to develop more efficient service, and to better general make-up is the purpose of the committee which was appointed last night at the meeting of the Advertising club. Raymond Baxendall '24, Ellis Fulton '23, Robert Casterline '23, Carl Hansen '23, and Clark Hazelwood '24, and Vernon Beardsley '24, will represent various magazines, a member from the Country magazine, and one from the engineering magazine. The committee will work with Professor Gardner and Paul K. Robertson '24.

Early Rush For Canoes Indicates Busy Time—"Cap"

Captain Isabel predicts a busy season for himself and the university life boat, the "Isabel", if the number of canoists already on the lake daily is an indication of the coming season. In spite of the cold temperature of the water and the earliness of the season, "Capt" stated yesterday that there were 30 canoes on the lake Easter Sunday.

"We expect to put about 200 new canoes on the lake this summer," the captain said. "There are already 164 canoes in the boathouse that belong to students besides those that are the property of the company."

"Cap" whose full name is Thomas Isabel, earned the title of Captain sailing on the great lakes. He served for forty years receiving his life license.

PHI KAPPA TAU TO INSTALL CHAPTER

Accept Alpha Theta Pi Peti- tion; Installation Cere- monies Start Tomorrow

Phi Kappa Tau, national fraternity, the forty-third to be established on the campus, has accepted a petition from Alpha Theta Pi, local, and will install the Omega chapter of Phi Tau here, tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

Installation ceremonies include formal rites on Thursday, a formal stag banquet followed by a stag Haresfoot party on Friday evening, and a formal installation ball at the Cameo room on Saturday evening, at which guests from every fraternity on the campus and from other chapters of Phi Tau will be present.

The installation degree team will be composed of Grand President J. V. Cotton, Akron, O.; Grand Secretary R. K. Bowers, Indianapolis, Ind.; Past Grand Editor, B. K. Brown, Champaign, Ill.; Grand Councillor Dr. H. E. Hoagland, Columbus, O.; Grame O'Geran, Ann Arbor, Mich.; George J. Mecholson, Appleton, Wis.

Phi Kappa Tau fraternity was founded at Miami university, Oxford, O., in 1896 and has 25 active chapters at the present time. Alpha Theta Pi was founded at the university in the spring of 1922. The fraternity formerly occupied a house at 224 North Murray street, until it moved to its present location, 615 North Lake street.

Players Outline Plans For Annual "Comedy Night"

Plans for the second annual comedy night which will be staged Friday, May 16, in Lathrop concert room by the University Players, were outlined at the regular bi-weekly meeting of the Players last night when the three-act plays which have been chosen for presentation were announced.

The playlets are "The Trysting Place" by Booth Tarkington, "Constant Lovers" by St. John Hankin and "The Crimson Cocoon" by Ian Hay.

The cast for the three plays will be announced within the next week as well as the price of admission. Members of the club will be in complete charge of the coaching and directing.

A playlet by Alice Gertsensberg called "Overtones" which has been receiving a good deal of attention in theatrical circles lately, was read at the meeting last night following the inauguration of the newly elected officers.

CANCEL PORTER TALK BECAUSE OF ILLNESS

The lecture by George F. Porter on the erection of the Quebec bridge which was scheduled for today at 11 o'clock has been cancelled owing to the illness of Dr. Porter.

RECOMMENDATION OF SIX IS MADE BY UNION BOARD

Two Recommended and Two Unrecommended Candi- dates to Be Elected

Union board last night announced the recommendation of six men, three juniors and three sophomores, as candidates for the board election to be held May 9.

The juniors recommended are Wes Dunlap, Austin Cooper and Michael Stiver. The sophomores are James Flickenger, Paul Faust and Carl Klath.

One man from the three recommended in each class is to be elected. In addition one man from each of the two classes is to be elected as a non-recommended member of the board, making four men to be elected in all.

Many Candidates Reported

For the positions as non-recommended members there are many candidates reported to be in the field. "I know of our petitions that are being circulated and there is a possibility that there will be two more in the running shortly," a member of the Union board declared.

All junior and sophomore men are eligible to vote for the members both recommended and unrecommended from their class. All petitions must be in at the dean of men's office by 5 o'clock Friday.

Union Like Corporation

"Union board performs the same functions for the men of the university as a board of directors does for a corporation," John C. Dawson '24, president of the board, said. "When the men of the classes vote for their board members as they will on May 9 they will be performing their duties as stockholders in a great company selecting directors to look after their interests."

"The men recommended have worked faithfully for the board and are well acquainted with its activities. Some of the men who are reported to be running as non-recommended candidates have also done board work," Dawson said.

The purpose of the scholarship is to allow research work in Rome where the sources are found. Students are expected to publish the results of their investigations in archeology or history. Miss Scott expects to receive the Ph. D. degree in June. She received the B. A. and M. A. from the University of Minnesota.

MUSIC STUDENTS TO GIVE RECITAL

Violin, Piano and Vocal Pro- gram Will Be Given To- morrow in Music Hall

Advanced music students will give a violin, piano and vocal recital at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow night in Music hall. Students who will appear have been chosen from among those who have performed with credit at the weekly convocation conducted by the School of Music every Wednesday afternoon.

A mixed program will be given at the regular weekly recital at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Although these recitals are not formal concerts, but practice programs, they are open to those who wish to increase their knowledge of the great classic and modern compositions.

The concert band will give a complimentary concert for visiting high school musicians who will attend the All-Wisconsin Music contest to be held here during Music week, May 4-10. Open air concerts on the campus will be given later in the spring.

HOME-ECs APPLY SKILL AT COTTAGE

Women Turn Household Theories of Classroom Into Practice

All the ins and outs of housekeeping are taught to more than 100 women through the home-ec cottage management, Miss Bernice Dodge, instructor in the home economics department said, when interviewed yesterday.

"Juniors and seniors taking dietetics or household management," Miss Dodge sated, "are allowed to go to the cottage to make application of classroom theories. Every detail of housekeeping is attended to by the students."

"Those taking dietetics are required to cook scientifically. They must weigh the food accurately, measure its fat, protein, and carbohydrate content, and see just how much each person eats."

The household management students must do all the laundry—sheets, towels, table cloths and napkins.

"Four women go out every week," Miss Dodge declared. "Each one plans a whole day's meals. The shopping is entirely in their hands. They buy all the supplies and run the house as they wish."

The cottage is an eight room house at 444 Warren street.

PARKING SPACE OPEN BEHIND BASCOM HALL

Parking space for 105 cars is available on the cinder drive behind Bascom hall. Before vacation not more than 60 cars made use of this space, since that time about 80 have been parked in the space at one time. Traffic is heaviest in the morning, for in the afternoon the cars drive by and along the lake.

Some 982 degrees were granted by the College of Letters and Science this year.

Special Number of Octopus Not Up to Standard

By E. H. S.

Without a doubt, the first impression one receives from this month's issue of the Octy is that it is far below par. And the first impression is pretty nearly right. Take out the "far" and you're O' K. Perhaps spring is to blame for the fall. We suspect, however, that another reason is as much to blame as spring. That is, a special number is not apt to be as good as an issue which is not devoted to anything in particular because the editors try to get as much in the magazine on the subject of the special number as possible and consequently let some contributions pass that would otherwise find their places in the waste basket.

The cover—well, Mike Stiver's work is bound to please almost anyone (even the editors of the Proletarian, we suspect), but we've seen him do better things. On the whole, it is the drawings that we think fall down most in this issue, although Gunther's new feature on page 15 is a good addition and the "Wooing of Ingeborg" on 25, although obviously a feature taken over from Octy's fore-runners, Life and Judge, is excellent. It's being an imitation far from damn's it, and it is in itself one of the funniest things we've seen in Octy for some time.

Either we have lost all our ability to read poetry or else we are right when we say that some of the verse, especially that hidden among the advertisements is pretty bad. The verse in the main part of the book, on the other hand is for the most part very good. We are thinking particularly of J. E. D.'s pieces. Take a look at the first page in the book proper, page 13, and don't miss the south-east corner of page 17. This fellow Ragson has something to offer as has his perspiring—pardon, mean inspiring reporter.

Oh yes, we're forgetting to mention Dickey's dogs—only this time it's Bailey's—on 23 and Gretchen Gilbert's page. But then, it's taken more or less for granted that Gretchen Gilbert is a real artist.

That's about all, we believe; but there's always one thing to be said.—that Octy will fall a long, long way before it will become dull and uninteresting, for it, like its college contemporaries, has that youthful pep about it which is always a joy to sad hearts.

Madison Dealers to Decorate For Spring Style Show

Madison shops dealing in women's riding togs will vie with one another in displaying their most attractive spring and summer habits for the style show which is to be a part of the 1924 Spring Horse show to be held May 24.

Each shop has its professional window trimmer who is making elaborate plans to have a stunning window display. Their efforts, combined with ideas from the East, promise to result in displays that will catch the eyes of all.

The Window Trimmers association will meet Thursday night to decide whether the displays will be arranged by the association or by the individual firms.

"It is our desire to co-operate with the Horse Show committees in order to have the best and the most worth while display in the arena and in the windows," said John Fay, president of the association.

ILLINOIS CONTESTIntercollege Competition Planned to Furnish Workouts
For Frosh Eight

Rain Saturday robbed the Badger nine of an opportunity to fatten up its percentage column at the expense of Northwestern, as postponed games are not allowed to be played off under the present conference ruling.

Worse, it is keeping Coach Lowman's men from some much needed practice in preparation for the Illinois tilt here Saturday, and is making the already none too good field even worse.

Twelve hours a day of good old Sol would do more than any other thing to put Wisconsin's team in shape for a successful season, as a flying start goes a long way in carrying a team through an entire season.

Team Hits Better

With a team composed almost exclusively of green, untried men, the coach has a big task confronting him in the building of a successful combination. The team is hitting a little better than it did last year, but the men are without actual experience for the most part, and it remains for a scathing baptism of fire to show what they will do in the pinches.

The infield, where most of the knotty crises arise, looks good enough in practice, but the men haven't as yet acquired the instinctive action that comes only with experience. The coach has to go over points time after time, drilling them into the men until it will become second nature to do a certain thing at a certain time.

The pitching staff is better than last year's but it is built around two men, Christianson and Johnson, both of whom have played varsity ball previously. Capt. Eddie Aschenbrener rates as one of the best catchers in the Big Ten, and is a big asset.

Illini Here Saturday

Ability to slug the ball is a prerequisite to a winning college team, and the coach is developing some fairly effective hitters. It may be another story, though, when they run up against some of the conference aces, and until then the offensive strength of the team can only be estimated.

Illinois, who plays here this Saturday, is one of the strongest conference teams, and this is really one of Wisconsin's crucial games. If the boys come through this tilt they will look like possible champs. If not, they will have to put up an awful battle to stay in the first rank.

SOL SHINES; FROSH

BALL SQUAD WORKS

"Old Sol" again smiled upon the baseball diamond and the frosh pastimers were able to resume practice after a two day lay off. Coach Comebacker put his men through a stiff batting practice. Several of the yearling club artists showed real ability in swatting the old horsehide about the lot. Intensive practice is billed for the remainder of the week and by the week-end Coach Comebacker hopes to have squad cut down to a manageable size. The pitching staff will be the hardest to select as there is a large supply of proficient twirlers.

IN GREEK SCHEDULE

In the first day's battle of the new interfraternity baseball schedule the Square and Compass nine nosed out the Phi Mu Delta team 7 to 6; the T. K. E. passtimers whitewashed the Alpha Chi Sigma crew 9 to 0; and the Lambda Chis came out on the long end of a 14 to 2 score in their game with the Chi Upsilon team. The Theta Deltas won from the Alpha Deltas, 12 to 1. The game was called at the end of the third inning on account of darkness.

Base Ball vs. Base Bawl

I see some western college teams
Hereafter will not use base schemes
Nor bawls in baseball games. All are Assured that "razzing" will be far
Removed from contests. No re-

To the opposing nine, with barks
And yells from bawling mob

Spectators, each with leather

Nine men will play against nine

And not nine thousand—maybe up and working out all of the kinks in the muscles which have developed during the winter months. Then Coach Ryan took charge of the backs and the ends and gave them a stiff drill in passing and also in receiving passes. Assistant Coach Traynor put the line men through a series of positions and also gave them something on blocking. Coach Ryan is very well pleased with the outlook for the coming season. "This year, if ever, we need a big response to our calls for men," he said. "Anybody can see that if he will only look over our schedule for next year. We want much material to work with and all of last year's varsity men must also turn out."

Quite a few of last year's squad men were out this afternoon. Some of them were Captain Harris, Williams, Nelson, Doyle, Harmon, Stipek, Opitz, Walker, Stone, Carlson and Blackman. The men were lined up and put through a short signal and play drill, mainly to get used to the feel of the ball.

Practice will be held daily from now on, and the aspirants will be drilled in every part of the game. Besides Coaches Ryan and Traynor, Coach Hitchcock, varsity wrestling coach, will be out on the field to help develop the eleven that will represent Wisconsin next year in one of the hardest schedules that any conference school has attempted for some time.

TO HOLD TRYOUTS FOR
W. A. A. TANK HONORS

The annual tryouts for swimming honors, which give 50 points toward W. A. A., will be held in Lathrop pool Wednesday, April 30, at 7:30 o'clock, and the following week, May 7, at the same time. Girls wishing to try out should sign up on the bulletin board in Lathrop as soon as possible.

The average swimmer should have no difficulty in passing these tests, as there is no set time for each event. The five required events are:

1. Four times around the tank with one stroke; twice around the tank with another stroke; twice around the tank with still another stroke; one length of the tank with the back stroke; jumping in the tank with clothes on, taking off the clothes, and swimming once around the tank.

From the following list, a choice of two out of four is required:

Tread water two minutes, without the use of the hands; life saving; any three dives; dive for two objects on the bottom of the tank; swim 40 feet under water (done separately).

FRATERNITY TENNIS
MEN MEET TODAY TO FIX SCHEDULES

All fraternity tennis representatives are requested to meet this noon in the trophy room of the gym at 12:45 o'clock to arrange schedules for the interfraternity tennis leagues which are due to begin action the latter part of this week.

The $3 entry fee will be collected at this time. Representatives must have this fee with them, for schedules will include only those teams that have paid. This precaution is taken so that play may be started without delay.

Twenty-four fraternities have signed for tennis thus far. Four round-robin leagues will be formed from this number; the leaders in each to play an elimination match for the title later in the season.

Vault, Broad Jump, Shot
Put, and Dashes

To select the tracksters who will represent Wisconsin in the Drake relay games at Des Moines, Iowa, Saturday, final tryouts will be held at Camp Randall today.

Wisconsin will enter the 440-yard and 880-yard sprint relay races, one-mile relay and four-mile relay runs, in addition to the pole vault, broad jump, shot put, and dash events in the individual competition.

The runners who will compete in the quarter-mile and half-mile relay team will be chosen from the following tracksters:

Harry A. McAn '25, who won the 100-yard dash event in the Ohio State relays at Columbus, Ohio, '26, Robert Krohn '24, Stanley J. McGiveran '26, and Harry Hill '25.

Although the one-mile relay team composed of Gilbert J. Smith '26, Bert M. Hilberts '25, Herbert A. Flueck '25, and Kenneth R. Kennedy '26, won this event in the Ohio State relays, it is possible that Gordon D. Lewis '25 or Harry Hill '25, may be substituted in the Drake games.

For the four-mile relay team, which finished second in the Kansas relays at Lawrence, Kas., last Saturday, Clayton G. Cassidy '26, John L. Bergstresser '25, Earl E. Schneider '24, Lloyd M. Valley '25, George A. Piper '25, and John C. Read '24, are the most likely candidates.

LONG, EASY ROWS
IS CREW PROGRAM
IN FIRST TRIALSDay of Sunshine Needed;
Team's Batting Ability
Better Than Last Year

With a light wind barely ruffling the surface of Lake Mendota six crews took the water yesterday. The varsity and three freshman eights were on the lake for more than an hour.

Long easy rows were the program for the afternoon. "Dad" Vail followed the varsity in the Isabel coaching his men from the boat using a megaphone to give his instructions. As to prospects of developing a fast winning crew Vail is still pessimistic, declaring that he feels keenly a lack of plentiful material.

Colleges to Row

The freshmen crews under Don Newcomb L I are getting their first workouts in the shells and show a lack of experience in handling their oars. The intercollege plan will be used again this year in freshman rowing. The colleges will each be represented as far as possible by a crew composed of men from those colleges.

These crews will work together all season and will compete in races against each other. This furnishes one of the few opportunities the frosh will have to race actually.

Fair weather and a calm lake have favored the crew greatly since the breaking of the ice and the long workouts are coming at a time when they are most essential, according to Vail.

BURKHARDT WINS $10
MUSIC CONTEST PRIZE

Boyd A. Burkhardt '26 won the $10 offered by the University music shop for the person who could come the nearest to guessing what instruments are played in the record "Blue Blues." Burkhardt's guess was correct and the instruments used are the kazoo, banjo, water goblet and comb.

William Hammann '24, or Elmer C. Krieger '25, will compete in the pole vault; LaVern W. Muzzy '25 will enter the broad jump; Harry McAndrews '25 will participate in the dashes, while Leo B. Harmon '25 or Wayne Limberg '26 will represent Wisconsin in the weigh events.

No Badger tracksters will participate in the Penn relays at Philadelphia Saturday, according to information given out at the gymnasium yesterday afternoon.

FOOLS FATE

Three young men, two of whom could not swim a stroke and one of whom had made three tank records at a recent meet, stepped into a 16 foot sail canoe one murky afternoon and shoved off from the pier for a few hours of pleasure. They raised the sail and glided away over the waters.

One of them had the nerve to suggest that they had no life-preservers and that it might be a good idea if they returned to secure the missing essentials to their safety. But he was laughed out of scorn by the other two. As they sailed the sky darkened and the wind rose so that they sped over the water like a flash.

Suddenly a flash of lightning struck across the sky. They looked about and found that most of the canoes on the lake were already heading toward the shore. But on they sailed

In a few minutes the lake was practically cleared of craft when the university warning whistle blew announcing an approaching storm. But on they sailed.

They not only continued to sail, but they made straight for the middle of the lake. The warning whistle blew again. But on they sailed, and very happy people they were.

Then the rain began to fall and they finally turned the canoe toward the shore. But they had not gone more than 100 yards before a wave struck their craft with a terrific blow.

That was all there was to it. After the upset, two heads appeared on the surface, the heads of those two who had never swam a stroke in their lives. Knowing their companion upon whom they had depended had gone down with a cramp they lost their nerve, became panicky left the canoe and plunged away for shore, a mile or so away.

When the speedy Isabel arrived on the scene a couple of minutes after the accident had occurred, all that the pilot could find was overturned canoe and three little circle of air bubbles.

ELEANORA DUSE

In the hurry and turmoil of life we moderns sometimes pause to pay honor to the dead. The death of a statesman causes us to lower our flags, whether it be the stars and stripes, the union jack or what. But the death of a statesman should cause no more concern than that of a great artist, of an actress. One of the greatest artists of modern times, perhaps one of the greatest actresses of all times, has just died. We Americans who have just been having the privilege of seeing her can well imagine how her death may be affecting her countrymen. Perhaps Italy is more moved by the death of Eleanora Duse than it would be by the death of its ruler. She is a national heroine with the Italians, and well may she be. Those of us who saw her on her tour this year know what an artist the world has lost.

ACROSS THE SEAS

Educators will tell you that one of the finest methods of securing information and general knowledge is to be found in travel. This statement sounds like a hackneyed platitude, but it is frequently overlooked in the run of things. The most serious difficulty connected with obtaining an education by traveling is the expense attached thereto. Few students can afford to spend a summer abroad; they would spend as much money in those brief three months as they spend in an ordinary year at the university.

When it is made possible for them to cut down their expenses by at least half, however, they find with pleasure that they are enabled to add travel to their former method of securing an education. We do not propose to serve as an advertising agency for a steamship company, but we can not help saying that extremely low rates of transportation bring three months of European travel within easy reach of the average student.

But this innovation of the trans-Atlantic steamship company is not the only thing which makes it possible for students with moderate funds to turn to the old country to ramble through the cathedral towns of England where powerful bishops held forth over their subject congregations centuries ago; to tramp through the Lake Region musing with the shades of Wordsworth and DeQuincey; to loiter about the streets of Paris, climbing the height of Montmartre to look down upon that city of revolutions and turmoil but now a city of beauty; to follow the trail of Hannibal over the Alps; to browse in the libraries of all the continent, than which there are none greater. The advantage which the exchange rate of currency gives American tourists is a large factor in making it possible for students to go to Europe. If they are willing to pocket their pride, moreover, and seek out hotels which are inexpensive (and there are many good ones to be found) they will find that their expenses are being cut even more.

In fact, it is quite possible to spend ten weeks in Europe on $500, very comfortably too, and without doing a stroke of work along the way. It can be done for much less; indeed for practically nothing, as those who have worked their way through Europe will tell you.

Now that vacation is drawing near the problem of what to do during the summer presents itself to every student. For some it may be automatically solved. But for others there are three solutions: work (physical or mental,) loafing, and travel. They are all within the reach of any normal student.

Other Editors Say—

THE MODERN CO-ED

As a result of the unrestrained attack on the American college woman made a few weeks ago by the president of Roanoke college, and subsequently taken up by others who have evidently a desire to destroy any good illusions that may still exist, we have a situation which demands the support of those who cannot and will not be blinded to what is good in the co-eds of today.

As far as Purdue is concerned, such attacks as those made by the aforementioned president of Roanoke college, are utterly groundless, and entirely ridiculous. We may pride ourselves on certain phases of the situation here. As was stated before in these columns, we have no way of knowing just what conditions may exist at Roanoke college.

However, when it becomes necessary for Pan-Hellenic Councils and Student Council to vote their confidence in the women who are so mercilessly attacked, and this without guile or false motive, it is time for all colleges to take steps in the suppression of the damning publicity.

The cry from Roanoke college was taken up all over the country—spread in newspapers from coast to coast, and reflected in the best known weekly and monthly periodicals of the day. The result has been as thoroughly disgusting as might be expected.

Growing from a criticism of co-eds, the criticism to be directed against college students in general. We read that our ways, our aims, and our ideals are entirely wrong. That we take nothing seriously. That life is a great succession of hilarity.

Consoling fact! We often think that too when we study into the early stretches.

If a defense of the modern co-ed were considered necessary here it would be advisable for our ruling councils to duplicate the action of the Pan-Hellenic Council at DePauw, which has recently voted unanimously to oppose the spread of false scandal about college women. The action is to be commended.

Fortunately, however, we have no insistent demand at present for such resolutions. And frankly, though the press dins and cries the fall of the educational world about us, we will feel that the truth is missing from the reports.

The predilection of some of the main offenders to criticize is causing a college group to retaliate with righteous wrath. The matter is for the colleges to settle.—Purdue Exponent.

The Reader's Say-So

DID IDEALISM PROMPT WITHDRAWAL

Editor, The Cardinal:
Having attended the recent meeting of the Social Science club, and read some of the publicity given the several who have withdrawn from the club supposedly because of what happened at that meeting, I, along with a number of others, am in a position to suspect that there was something aside from idealism that prompted such withdrawal.

After a bit of discussion a motion was presented and passed. The club would seek the cooperation of the Young Men's Progressive club, etc. for the calling of a public meeting for the purpose of gaining significant support to an anti-militaristic movement. One of the leading dissenters presented that motion; other dissenters helped pass it.

Now they turn their backs to the club, have their little closed meetings, and dedicate themselves to "the establishment of a new social order." They have made it clear that they do not wish to cooperate with larger numbers.

One is tempted to believe that their sincerity should not be questioned. Perhaps, it should. When a person claims such a motive for action as the alleviation of abuses that are a part of western civilization, he should naturally cooperate with others to be effective in serving the cause. But when one would satisfy his ego he will naturally be repulsive, even to those who share his ideals, and gain the glories of persecution, admiration, and envy.

But one cannot show or feel disrespect for the dissenters. They have merely confused idealism and the will to serve with egoism and the will to publicity.

Don't persecute them, gang. Let them alone and they will come back to the surface.

PREVENTING WAR BIG EXPERIENCE

Editor, The Cardinal:

Much attention is being given to the problem of war-prevention. We do well, young and old, to be concerned about it. None of us can change the relation of cause and effect. We can escape the effect only as we avoid the cause. When we have completely analyzed the reasons why there has been no war for a hundred years between the United States and Great Britain, then we shall begin to understand how war may be prevented.

This hundred years of peace between two great nationh was not due to the absence of the materials of war nor to the lack of the ordinary occasions of war. It was due to the deliberate election upon the part of the national leaders of each country to avoid the use of words or actions which experience has taught mankind inevitably produce war.

War can be prevented in no other way; and, therefore, will never be preventable until all nations actually abstain from those acts toward each other which constitute the cause of war.

POULTRY CLUB TO HOLD EGG SHOW

Prizes to Be Awarded ; Contest of High School Judges is Feature

The Badger Poultry club will hold its fifth annual show on May 1, 2, and 3.

The purpose of this show is to give students first hand information concerning the grading or standardization of eggs. It also gives poultry keepers an opportunity to note how their eggs compare with the eggs of their competitors and with the general run of ungraded eggs appearing on the market. Various valuable prizes donated by concerns handling poultry supplies and produce are awarded to the winners.

Five classes in which eggs are shown include commercial class, open to all poultry keepers; demonstration farm class, open to poultry keepers under the supervision of Prof. J. B. Hayes of the poultry department; experiment station class, open to agricultural colleges and experiment stations of the United States; high school class, open to students of all high schools in Wisconsin; and the student class, open to students of the University of Wisconsin.

There is a high school judging contest held in connection with the egg show. This is for the purpose of instructing future poultry keepers of Wisconsin in the increasingly important problem of grading eggs.

Texas University Prom is Purely Feminine Affair

AUSTIN, Texas.—Co-eds at the University of Texas will have a chance to demonstrate their idea of how an escort should treat a date when junior girls at the university favor the senior girls with their annual junior prom on April 22. Engagements for this affair have been made, in some cases, months in advance, and gentlemen friends of the escorts have been requested to furnish dress suits, tuxedos, and high hats for the girls to wear on that occasion. The affair will be held in the university gymnasium.

For many years, the Junior prom has been a tradition of the university. The costumes of the junior girls are usually white skirts, white shoes, and stockings, and dress coat, shirts, and vests. There will be elaborate programs, and one of the best university orchestra will furnish the music.

The "mannish" escorts will omit no detail in giving the impression of perfect beaux. Corsage bouquets will be sent to the senior girls, and the elegantly dressed "gentlemen" will call for them and escort them home after the dance is over. There will be the regular number of chaperones, and probably maids chosen from the freshman and sophomore classes will carefully take charge of the wraps and check the impressive, borrowed hats. The University boys will be dateless for the evening, and will have to observe the festivities from the outside.

L. Harrington of the Wisconsin conservation commission, will talk on "Keeping Fire Out of Wisconsin Forests."

The program is broadcasted at 7:30 o'clock on a wave length of 360 meters.

Tests of firebrick lining for heating boilers and of water softeners were recently conducted by engineering students.

The delegates of the various chapters and the national officers will be the guests of Eta (Wisconsin) chapter during their stay in Madison. There will be a two or three day business session, and a number of social affairs culminating in a formal banquet and the installation of the national officers, whose term is for two years.

Delta Phi Delta aims to establish high standards in scholarship as well as high ideals in art, and to further this end publishes its own magazine "The Palette." In addition, the fraternity maintains a traveling art exhibit composed entirely of the work of members of the various chapters. Yellow Cab

The Steel Pullman of Taxi Service

There are some folks who think that any automobile equipped with a taximeter or a "for hire" sign is a taxicab.

Not so long ago that may have been true, but today YELLOW CABS are a specialized vehicle, as different from the ordinary motor car as a modern steel Pullman car is different from a wooden railroad coach.

Aside from their comfort, YELLOW CABS are the strongest and safest taxicabs that money and experience can build.

Beneath the staunch ash ribbed body which will resist an impact of many tons, is a massive steel frame whose channels are six inches deep and one-quarter inch thick.

YELLOW CAB wheels are specially designed steel discs which cannot collapse under the most terrific side thrust.

Even the running boards of a YELLOW CAB protect the rider. They are built of boiler-plate steel, bolted directly to the frame, serving as side fenders.

And most important of all for your comfort and safety, are YELLOW CAB rubber shock insulators, which prevent vibration, side-sway and annoying squeaks and rattles.

A truly specialized vehicle, such as YELLOW CAB, is only another evidence of organized responsibility, which has been created for this city a transportation service which can be patronized with complete confidence that we are able and willing to carry out our every promise to the public.

JONES TO OUTLINE GOLF SQUAD WORK

Prelims For Varsity to Be Held at Maple Bluff Links

Coach Jones will outline the work to be done by the golf squad in the next two weeks at a meeting to be held in the trophy room of the gymnasium at 12:45 o'clock today. All golf enthusiasts are expected to be there.

A proposition will be presented at this meeting by Coach Joe Steinauer which the Blackhawk Country club is making to all freshmen and those golfers who will be eliminated from the varsity squad, whereby they will have an opportunity to play and practice.

Preliminary tryouts for the varsity squad will be held this week end at Maple Bluff links. From the 40 or 50 men trying out about a dozen will be selected to compose the squad.

"At present we are not sure of the strength of the team," said Captain Bock. "Albert Stegeman is the only varsity man left from last year beside myself; but there is much promising material among those left from last year's squad and freshmen golfers."

Varsity practice will start this week Tuesday so that the team will be in the best of condition when they meet Illinois May 3 and Northwestern at Northwestern May 5 on a week-end trip. Illinois was last year's golf champion and a hard match is predicted. Rial Rolfe, Illinois captain elect for this year, was last year's conference individual champion.

A three-day School of Citizenship for women voters was held by the University last summer.

Quietness Marks Birthday of Noted Wisconsin Alumnus

Quietness marked the observation of the birthday yesterday of Wisconsin's great alumnus, the late John Muir '97, United States explorer and naturalist, in honor of whom Muir Knoll was named. He was born April 21, 1838.

His life was adventurous, varied and solitary. His greatest contributions were made to geology and botany. After leaving the university, he traveled alone in eastern and southern United States and Canada. He took long canoe voyages in Alaska, and traveled and studied in almost every country on the globe.

Besides making valuable discoveries in the realm of plant life and in geology, John Muir went in search of the lost DeLong expedition to the Arctic on the steamer "Corwin" in 1880.

He has published many articles and some books of great charm. One of the most illuminating books of boyhood may be found in his book called "My Boyhood and Youth."

Alpha Zeta Offers Medal to Winner of Essay Contest

A gold medal will be awarded to the winner of the essay contest of Alpha Zeta which closes May 1. Opportunities for winning the contest are very good as few manuscripts have been turned in up to date, according to J. C. Read '24.

All students of the College of Agriculture are eligible to compete in the contest except active members of Alpha Zeta. All essays should be turned in to J. C. Read '24, S. H. Matteson '24 or John Reinhold '24.

Subjects for the contestants to choose from are: (1) Improving rural life to make it more attractive to the farm youth. (2) Why the farmer moves to the city and the effect on rural economic conditions. (3) How this agricultural college can increase the scope of its usefulness to the farmer. (4) Why the agricultural long course graduates do not return to the farm.

Clothes for Young Men

Why we guarantee our clothes to you as wearer

Our guarantee to the wearer is the simplest way we know to emphasize the high quality of our clothes, and relieve the mind of a "Doubting Thomas." The cost to us of guaranteeing our product is so trivial as to really be an insignificant item in our costs, even though abuse of this liberal policy is apparent from time to time.

After years of record, the guarantee has proven to be a silent compliment to our standard of workmanship, selection of all wool fabrics, fit and genuine service given by the product made by us. We take full responsibility because our clothes are made of materials to justify confidence and our tailors follow our exacting specifications in converting raw materials to a beautifully finished garment. Everyone recognizes that the product we make will wear out sometime, but when more value and satisfaction than dollars paid has been realized, the public is the fairest jury a manufacturer can enlist, it seems from our years of record.

We, therefore, confidently guarantee our product.
