The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

Citation Index™
— as part of —
AJN
International
Nursing Index

— NOW — more precise access to the nursing literature.

This new two-in-one resource tool provides educators, students, researchers and clinicians with information not otherwise located through ordinary reference checks.

— HOW —

INI, the most comprehensive bibliographic summary of nursing literature, indexes over 200 nursing journals from the US and abroad plus more than 2,600 other professional magazines worldwide.

NCI™ takes this information a step further by listing where articles are used as references. This identifies additional current literature on the same and related topics and extends and enhances your literature search.

NCI™ is created by the Institute for Scientific Information® and presented in each quarterly issue of INI beginning in 1986.
