APPLETON HIGH WINS STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS GUESTS OF "W" CLUB

Coaches and Players Congratulate Athletes on Tournament Play

Thirty-five members of the "W" Club were hosts at a banquet given in honor of the athletes of the visiting high school basketball teams at the city Y.M.C.A. last evening following the final game of the tournament between Appleton and Menominee.

Director of Athletics T. E. Jones acted as toastmaster and in opening the program congratulated the teams and the coaches upon the fine spirit of sportsmanship which had characterized the tournament games, and to which a large part of the success of the affair was due.

Captain Taylor Talks

Captain "Cop" Taylor of the varsity basketball team extended a hearty welcome to the high school players. Captain Taylor outlined briefly what Wisconsin could do for its students in an athletic way, and showed how it was possible for every high school student to enter the university.

Dr. W. E. Meanwell gave an interesting talk on the position of Wisconsin in the collegiate athletic world. Coach Meanwell praised the quality of basketball which the teams had displayed during the tournament and paid a special tribute to Coach Tubbs of the Superior team for his excellent judgment in refusing to play an injured man.

Major Wood of the University Cadet Corps talked on the benefits of athletics in the development of a military system in the United States. Major Wood was formerly an athlete and coach at West Point and expressed his admiration of the high plane upon which athletics were conducted at Wisconsin.

Captain "Red" Weston spoke on general athletics at Wisconsin, but in addition to showing the high school visitors what Wisconsin stood for in athletics, "Red" told of the greatness of the university in other respects.

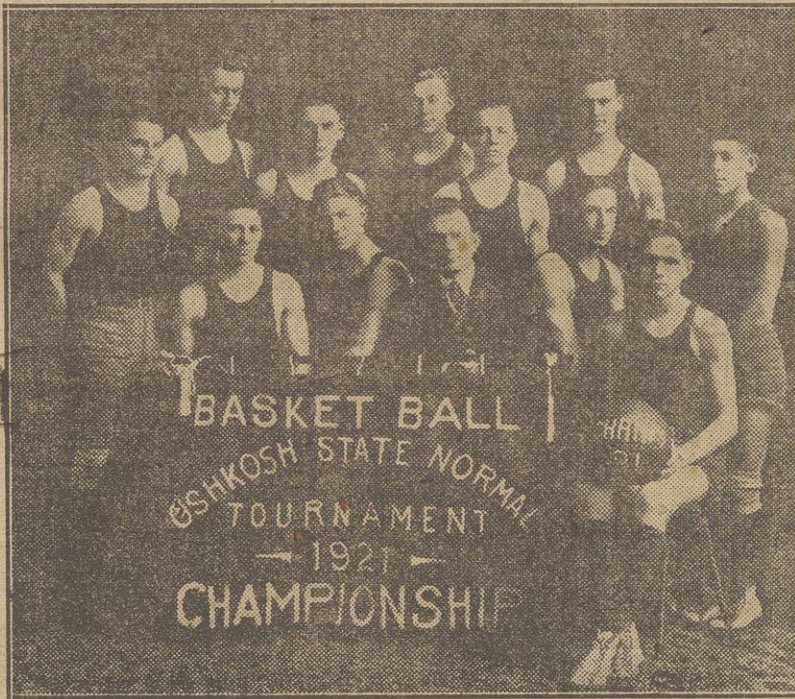

Old "W" Men Speak

Doctor Harper and Mr. Parkinson, former Badger athletes back in the '80s and '90s were among the oldest "W" wearers at the banquet and talked briefly upon Wisconsin athletics. Among the other speakers on the program were Fred Young, who officiated in the tournament games, and Secretary Chamberlain of the Wisconsin Intercollegiate Athletic association.

Following the program of speakers the winning teams were awarded their trophies and cups. The champion, Appleton high school five received the beautiful loving cup given by the tournament together with a fine cup which was presented by the Milwaukee Journal. Members of this team were also given gold basketballs.

Menominee and Waukesha high schools, winners of second and third places were presented with cups and silver basketballs. Jacobson of Appleton, Olson of Menominee, and Christoff of Waukesha were awarded gold watches for being the outstanding forward, center and guard, respectively, in the tournament.

DANGER!!

Athletic Department Warns Canoeists to Take No Chances on Lake

The Indian chieftain who, when forced by white settlers to depart from the shores of his beloved lake, evoked a curse that Mendota should each year claim a white victim in revenge, must have had in mind such a spring as this, when the bright sunshine and balmy air tempt the canoeist.

Students are warned at this time of the danger of premature boating. The danger now is particularly great due to the intense coldness of the water, and should a boat upset in the lake, it would probably mean death to the occupants.

The Life Saving station is being put in readiness for the season's work and the department of physical education hopes that the public will realize the danger of going on the water until it is in a position to render assistance if needed.

"Keep off the water until such time as boating can be a pleasure to you and no anxiety to your friends," is the athletic department's official warning.

ENGINEERS TAKE COLLEGE CONTESTS

The Engineers, with a total of 51 points, won the Intercollegiate track meet held in the gymnasium annex yesterday afternoon. The Commerce men finished second with 23 points, the Agrics third with 15, and Letters and Science fourth with 14 points.

The Engineers won all four of the events held on Thursday afternoon, and all except the dash and the low hurdles in the concluding events yesterday. The Commerce team won both of these, with the Engineers second.

The high individual point winners were: G. Kinsey, 14 points; M. Stone, Commerce captain, 10 points; W. Sherman, Letters and Science captain, 8 points; Nohr, 8 points. Other men who won their college insignia were: Yost, Gibson, Powell, Hamann, Otto, Rossmeissel, Taylor, and Wade.

CHICAGO RABBI TO SPEAK TO JEWISH STUDENTS TONIGHT

Rabbi, Felix Levy, of Chicago will preside at the services of the Jewish Student association at the regular bi-weekly meeting in the Women's building at 7:30 tonight. Although the exact title of his sermon has not been announced he will continue the discussion of Judaism which he started at a meeting of the association when he spoke here last semester.

Upon his arrival at 5:30 this afternoon Dr. Levy will be entertained at dinner at the Capitol hotel by a group of members of the J. S. A. who were formerly members of Rabbi Levy's congregation in Chicago. The services will be augmented tonight by several special selections from the newly organized choir.

WISCONSIN "LIT" TO BE SOLD TUESDAY

The Wisconsin Literary magazine will be on sale on Tuesday morning at tables in all the important buildings on the campus, and at news stands in Madison, from Wingra Park to the station. Mail subscribers will receive their copies at the same time, it is promised.

MENOMONIE DEFEATED BY 14-12 SCORE

Result in Doubt Until Last —Both Teams Fight Desperately

Battling furiously until on the verge of physical exhaustion, the Appleton high school basketball team fought its way to a state championship on the armory floor last night by defeating Menomonie high 14 to 12.

The Menomonie team stubbornly resisted every point made by their opponents and several times during the final period Setter's long baskets put his team into the lead, only to have the opposing forwards renew their efforts and even up the count. Olson, Menomonie center, put up a game fight, feeding Setter consistently and continually breaking up the vicious Appleton offense.

Madison Wins Consolation

By virtue of a 27 to 9 victory over Elmwood, the Madison high school team won consolation honors in the tournament.

Too much credit for the championship cannot be given to the star Appleton forwards, Jacobson and Breise. When the second period was only half over, Jacobson received an injury which would ordinarily have retired him from the game. The plucky forward, however, went back into the game, and on sheer nerve, tossed the basket which brought victory to his team. Breise made 10 out of his team's 14 points, entitling him to all-state consideration.

The first points that either team made were via the free throw route. Both teams formed strong defenses that forced their opponents to resort almost entirely to long shots. Before the half was up, however, Breise and Setter each managed to slip in a basket. Breise had a greater number of free throw chances and the half ended Appleton 6, Menomonie 8.

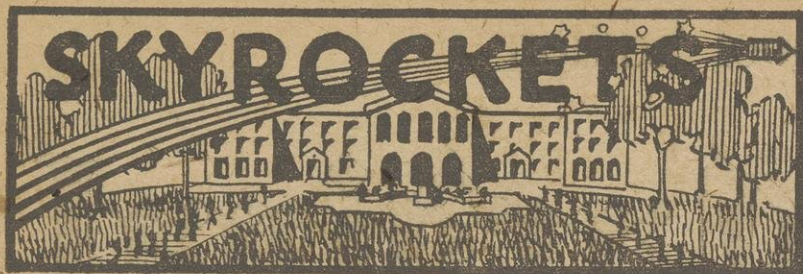

Both Teams Lead

Menomonie began the second half with a rush, and baskets by Setter and Olson soon gave them the lead. From that time on, it was either team's game. Five minutes before the game ended, Setter tossed a basket which again gave his team the lead, and it looked as though Appleton would not catch up. Roach, who had been replaced by Courtney, was again put in, and the Appleton boys commenced a spurt which ended only with the final whistle.

The Madison team did not play the brand of ball that it did against Superior, but fought hard. In the second they proceeded to pile up a large lead. The Elmwood boys put up a hard fight throughout the game; executing some clever of-

EASTER CLOTHIERS

Now the spring-time breezes blow,
Bearing divers kinds of woe,
And sundry plagues.
Such as grippe and colds and sneezes,
Tiny views of lady's kneeses,
And their laigs.

I saw them yesterday,
As they passed along the way
In garments brief;
Some curved out and some curved in,
Some were fat and some were thin,
Beyond belief.

It is pleasant to behold,
Limbs like Venus' of old,
Or Minerva's.
But from sights like those which greet
Weary eyes on Langdon street,
Lord, preserve us.

And if I should ever chance,
To be found without my pants,
On the street,
Let my neighbors laugh as loud,
As I do at the funny crowd
Of dames I meet.

THE HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

SCORES of high school students visited the university during the tournament just ended. We enjoyed their stay with us. We appreciated their skill and their enthusiasm for athletics. We hope that their sojourn here was pleasant.

When they complete their school work back home we invite their earnest consideration to attendance at this university. No educational institution in the country offers a wider scope for splendid training than the University of Wisconsin. If anyone doubts this let him put it to the test.

EASTER

TODAY a great portion of the world is commemorating the age-old hope of unending life.

The best thought of men in every period of history has accepted immortality as a fact. Pagan philosophers have written and found that the hope of everlasting life was founded on reason. Every religion has proclaimed that the grave is not the goal of man. The revolutionary discoveries of science have not uprooted this hope from the hearts of men.

From the earliest times man has given witness to his faith in immortality at this season of the year. The miracle of spring has always impressed him with the truth of his belief in the future life. He has seen the flowers wither and die in the chill blasts of autumn and winter and he has seen them blossom forth in renewness of life with the coming of spring. This has all seemed symbolical of new life for the soul after the body has returned to dust.

Now another Easter time has come. Once more people are to reaffirm their trust in the imperishability of the human soul. As long as this custom is preserved and its true spirit maintained no one need fear for the safety of society and the ultimate triumph of right in the world.

HALL SPEAKS AT PHILO BANQUET

A brilliant address by Prof. A. B. Hall and short speeches by prominent alumni featured the jubilee banquet given by Philomathia Literary Society last night at the Hotel Belmont.

Prof Hall urged the Philomathians to fight for an intelligent electorate, for national as opposed to provincial interests, and the duties rather than the rights alone of citizenship.

The alumni who spoke were Al Ries, John Sanborn, and Emerson Ela.

The banquet was held in celebration of Philo's victory over Hesperia in the recent joint debate.

ATHLETICS FOR ALL IS AIM OF DEPARTMENT

Wisconsin Idea is to Breed True Sportsmanship in Competition

The promoting of a broad, comprehensive program of physical education and the encouraging of the ideals of true sportsmanship have been the primary purposes of Wisconsin's athletic department.

The department requires a fixed amount of gymnasium work of freshmen and sophomores; but, in addition, it aims to give every male student the opportunity to take part in team sports and derive the broadening and disciplinary value that team play affords. Competition in intra-mural sports is open to all, and any student may try for the varsity squads.

Physical training is taking a place of rapidly increasing importance in the college curriculum. The war emphasized the need and value of good, healthy bodies; so, to the end of contributing to the health, vigor, and good physical habits of the students, the athletic department has followed a policy of providing facilities, incentive, and opportunity for every student to secure at least one hour's physical activity daily.

High Ideals

Wisconsin has long had the reputation of maintaining the highest ideals of sportsmanship. The incident of Arlie Mucks '17, World's champion discus thrower, giving up a first place medal to an opponent who, after beating Mucks in the shot put, was disqualified in the event is one example of the self-denials Wisconsin men will make for the sake of good sportsmanship.

The men realize that athletic success does not consist in victory only. Each man learns to be good loser. Above all the men are taught to cherish good sportsmanship and fair play—the real worth of athletics. These ideals are shared by the students as well as the players. The Varsity toast is sung after defeat with as much fervor as after victory.

Varsity is Feared

Every Wisconsin team has been feared in the Big Ten conference; they are feared now; and the time will probably never come when Wisconsin teams are not feared. One thing besides sportsmanship Wisconsin stresses. It aims to develop young men who will fight to the finish, and who will realize that a contest is never ended until the last blast of the whistle sounds. The famous last-half comebacks of Wisconsin teams are due to such training.

Wisconsin welcomes high school men athletically inclined, and likes to see them choose Wisconsin as the place for their future development. Wisconsin has, however, never been what is known as a procuring institution. Good athletic material is welcome, but coaches do not seek out athletes for the purpose of exploiting their ability in the interest of the university's athletic name.

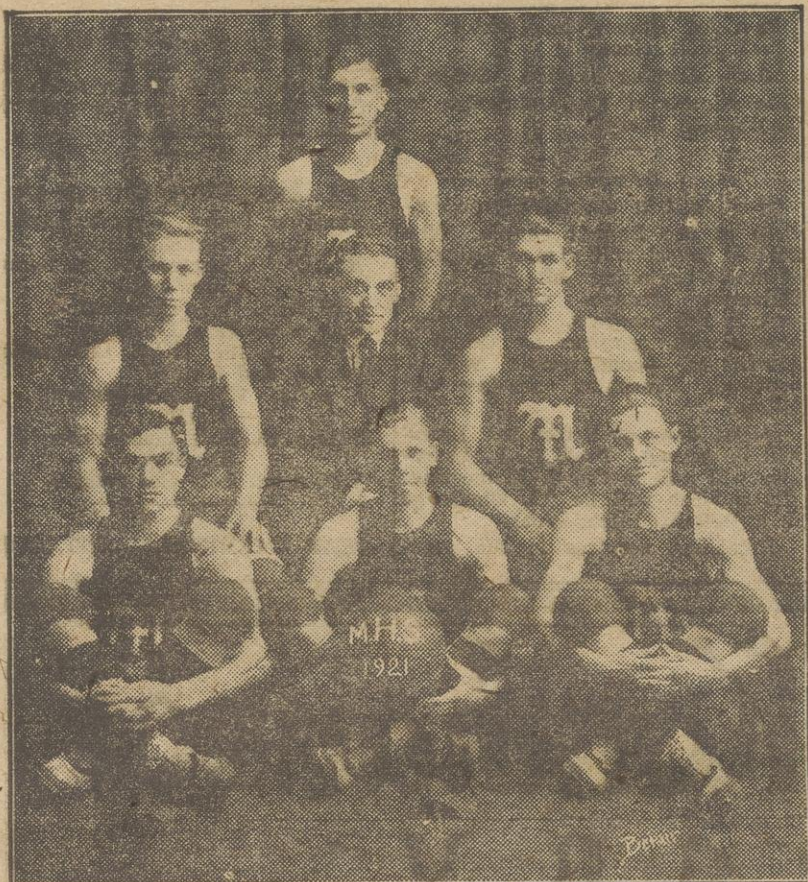

STUDENT SENATE TO SEND DELEGATES TO BIG CONFERENCES

It was voted to send a delegate from the student senate to both the Eastern and the Southern Conferences on Student Affairs at the extraordinary session of the Senate Saturday noon.

Thomas Coxon '22 will attend the Eastern conference, which will be held April 15 - 16 at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. David Lacey '21, president of the senate, will attend the Southern conference April 7-8-9 at Columbia, Missouri. These conferences are for the purpose of discussing and exchanging views relating to Student activities.

Dale Merrick '22 and Lee McCandless '23 were appointed to the joint government committee. Thomas Coxon '22 was made Chairman of the athletic committee, and Malcolm McCartney was appointed in the same committee.

MEDIC COURSE OF FOUR YEARS OPENS IN 1923

New General Hospital Will Make Possible Clinical Practice

The university's four year course in medicine will soon replace the present two year course which has made it necessary for medical students to go elsewhere to complete the last two years of professional training. In 1912 the third year of the medical course will be given and in 1924 the fourth year, so that students starting in as freshmen now are assured of the opportunity of completing the two years of pre-medical training and also the four years of technical training in Wisconsin university.

The new four year course in medicine will be one of the finest in the country. It is made possible by the new Wisconsin State General hospital, now under construction on the university campus, where students will be able to do their last two years of clinical work.

Extensive Equipment Planned.

The new hospital will cost about $1,200,000, of which $800,000 will be expended on construction and $400,000 on equipment and furnishings. It is to be six stories high and will contain three hundred beds. The first floor will include a large waiting room, thirty-four examination rooms, the hospital record room, pharmacy, kitchen and store rooms, the nurse's ward and X-ray laboratories. Each ward will have a sun porch and on the roof there will be an open garden where patients may exercise.

Students will serve as internes and assistants, and the specialists on the staff will also serve on the medical school faculty so that theory and practice will be combined. All possible facilities for handling state cases will be installed.

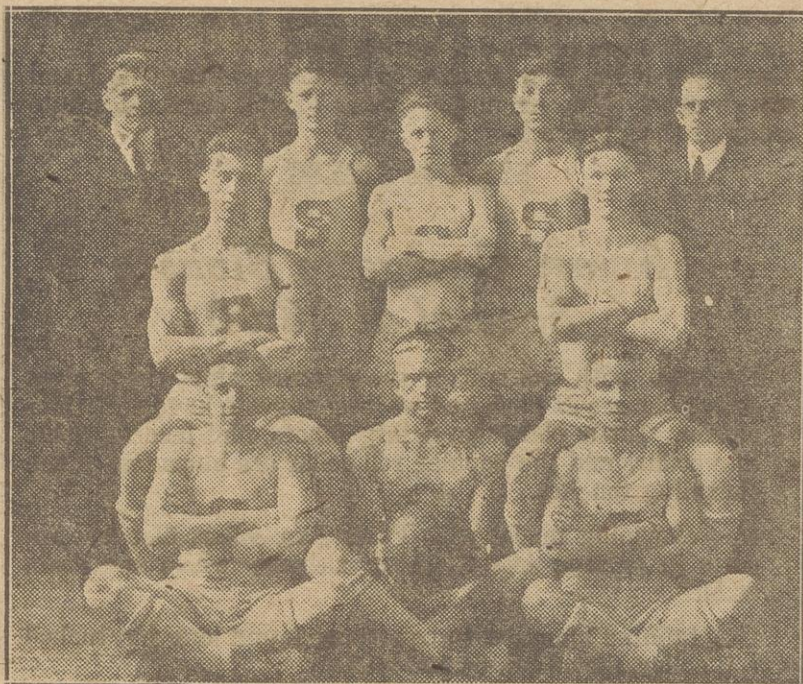

The university plans to graduate 75 doctors each year. Wisconsin needs 125 new doctors a year in order to keep the required number in the state.

WEATHER

The highest temperature within the past 24 hours as 54 at 3 p. m. and the lowest, 34 at 7 a. m. Sun sets at 6:17.

Winds and rain accompany a barometric depression that is crossing the Great Lakes. Thunder storms will probably develop in this disturbance during the day. Much colder weather follows in western Canada. The thermometer fell to 8 below zero in the Saskatchewan Valley this morning.

Radiantly Individual are the Newer Spring Modes

Spring's Most Distinctive Hats

In all the world of fashion, nothing can assume the importance of the new Spring Hat—so well surrounded by traditions and prestige. Styles change, names change, the "bonnet" becomes a "hat," the "hat" a "chapeaux," but the importance of new headgear is steadfast and consistent.

This year there is no hard and set rule as to the shape one wears—other than that it is becoming—but trimmings must be placed flat on the hat in some way or other, never being allowed to jut out at right angles. A marked preference to lace is being shown—and it is used in dozens of beautiful ways.

Easter Hats $8.00 to $25.00

Suits in the Newer Fashions

The variety of suit styles make it impossible for a woman to be fitted unbecomingly if she studies her type at all. Skirts are universally short, plain, some slightly circular—but the coats to these skirts have an entirely different story to tell: of Directorie coats, of ripple-tail, flared coats, of tailored coats, of box coats—navy blue and pewter grey predominates.

$22.50 to $125.00

Many Capes Among Spring Wraps

Strictly cape lines, which are exceedingly graceful and youthful are seen in the new wraps for spring. The cape and cape coat are in a friendly combat for supremacy. Regardless of beauty of line, beauty of fabric and trimming, or beauty of style, one outstanding feature of the new wraps is their undeniable practicability.

$18.50 to $125.00

Newer Spring Frocks Radiate Smartness

Smartness and simplicity are the keynotes of the new Spring Dresses. The simplicity of new spring frocks displays all the effectiveness of the new spring fabric. The vogue of the long, slender line features in both cloth and silk dresses. Flowers and cockades of silk ribbon decorate many of the silk frocks.

$25.00 to $125.00

Smart Georgette Blouses Special at $6.50

For wear with the suit or the separate skirt these ultra smart blouses of flesh and white georgette have a distinct charm. Little plaitings, dainty jabots, filet inserts, Peter Pan collars and the popular roll collar are but a few of the charming touches.

One charming model with Peter Pan collar, filet lace inserts in guimpe effect, short sleeves, white and flesh, $6.50.

A tailored blouse with square neck and long pin tucked roll collar, filet edge, $6.50.

Roll collar and pleated jabot, edged with val lace are the features of one model—flesh and white, $6.50.

MULTI-APPEAL CAN BE FOUND IN JOURNALISM

College Trained Journalist Has Open Way to Many Positions

Because of the broad course and practical experience to be obtained in the study of journalism and because it is a really live subject, this course should appeal to many freshmen, both men and women upon their choosing a vocation," says Prof. W. G. Bleyer head of the department of journalism.

A large number of fields are open to students who have completed the course in journalism. Not only newspaper, magazine and advertising positions are open to the graduate but he is well prepared to enter other business, and science.

Course gives leeway.

The comparatively small number of credits which must be obtained in journalism classes gives the student opportunity to take many other subjects in which he is interested and which will help in his career. Only 24 of the 120 hours required for graduation need be obtained in journalistic subjects.

In journalistic fields many different kinds of work are open to the young man or woman. The most important are newspaper work, magazine work, advertising and work on journals and bulletins.

News editors, department editors, critics, copyreaders, telegraph editors, special correspondents, managers of news bureaus and syndicates, foreign correspondents and editors of state papers, are some of the positions which are available to graduates of the course in journalism.

nalism, positions which have been filled in the past by graduates of this school.

In magazine work, positions as publishers, assistant editors, staff writers or free lance writers of special feature articles and fiction, department editors and manuscript readers may be obtained.

Advertising Important

Solicitors of newspaper and magazine advertising, or for advertising agencies, advertising managers for department stores, newspapers and big mail order houses and advertisement writers, find their early training in a course of journalism.

Agricultural bulletins and journals and similar professional organs need men and women with an understanding of the principles of journalism.

With an understanding of the underlying principles of newspapers and magazines, people are more competent to take positions on the business staffs if this line of work appeals to them.

Practical work on the two Madison daily papers, as well as on the Daily Cardinal, and membership in journalism clubs such as the Press club and the Advertising club where prominent speakers address the members on journalistic subjects are available to the student in the course of Journalism.

Five Renditions of Cantata by Choir

A large audience attended the sacred concert given in observance of Good Friday last night by the vested student choir of the University Methodist church at the Wesley foundation building. Du Bois' production, "The Seven Last Words," were finely rendered by the choir, which consisted of Bernard Huebner, Reuben Brown, Josephine Darin and Winnifred Collier. The same music was sung at the First Congregational church, which was also packed to capacity.

Attractions at the Theaters for This Week

STRAND CALENDAR

Sunday, Monday, Tuesday—Bebe Daniels in "She Couldn't Help It," also Fatty Arbuckle in "Out West."

Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday—Douglas Fairbanks in "The Nut," also Booth Tarkington comedy "Edgar's Hamlet."

Bebe Daniels in "She Couldn't Help It," will be shown at the Strand for three days, starting today. Her role is that of an orphan girl, inmate of a dreary "Home," who is adopted by a group of thieves, who plan to train her up in the way no girl ought to go. She is deeply touched by their kindness to her, and repays them with a passionate loyalty and devotion. Under skillful tutelage she becomes an extremely clever pickpocket, and thrills to their warm praise. Her thieving is not immoral, but simply un-moral, for her sense of right and wrong has never been developed, and her unawakened conscience bothers her with no pricking. She is proud of her skill because it wins praise from those she loves. She enters a new world one day, however, when the police are hot on her trail and she is forced to make her escape by hopping uninvited into the first vehicle that she sees, which happens to be an old-fashioned carriage belonging to a gentle bishop. When this worthy divine joins her, she pretends to be mentally unbalanced, babbling about "that horrid school" and calling the surprised old gentleman "Daddy" until he is utterly distracted. In despair of learning the identity of this fair intruder, who, he is certain, is suffering the effects of over-study, he takes her to the home of a prominent woman of his diocese, noted alike for her charitable works and her convivial husband. The good lady gladly assumes responsibility for the strange guest, but Nance, the girl, is almost flabbergasted when she learns that her host is the very man she had been robbing not an hour before. In fact, the diamond ornament which he had bought to "square" a recent "business" trip to Cuba is in the girl's pocket at that instant! Truly, she had jumped out of the frying pan into the fire when she invited herself to ride in the bishop's carriage. Through these new acquaintances, however, the girl finds a new mode of life, with romance and regeneration. She does carry over enough of her thieving instinct to steal another girl's lover, but the other girl was such a cat that you are able to forgive Nance that minor offense, which was her last, in the stealing line, we feel certain, for her young man was a most successful one and the future looms rich and rosy for them when we begin to paw around for our hats and umbrellas during the final close-up. Fatty Arbuckle in "Out West," will be the added feature attraction.

COMING TO THE ORPHEUM

Today—Colour Gems; Hunting & Frances; John R. Gordon & Co.; Thos. Potter Dunn; Gilbert & Saul; Davis & Pelley; Kinograms.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday—Leona La Mar; Lane & Morgan; Louis Hart's Dream; Hazel Harrington & Co.; Rosa Claire; Garcinetti Brothers; Kinograms; Topics of the Day.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday—Leona La Mar; William Mandell & Co.; Belle Montrose; Mr. Valentine Vox; Jewell & Raymond; Gillett; Kinograms.

There will be three vaudeville performances at the Orpheum today, a matinee at 3 o'clock and the regular two performances in the evening starting at 7:15 and 9 p. m. Colour Gems, a study in light color and form. Tony Hunting and Corinne Frances in the comedy "The Flower Srop"; John R. Gordon & company, in the playlet "Meatless Days"; Thos. Potter Dunn, vocal dialects; Gilbert and Saul, Davis and Pelley and Kinogram pictures making up the bill.

New Show Monday Night

Special Easter attractions are announced for the Orpheum vaudeville bill for the first three days of the week, starting Monday night, when Leona La Mar, the girl with the thousand eyes, who possesses the power to read one's thoughts—clearly, truthfully and rapidly, will headline the six act bill which will include George Land Tom Morgan in "Listen My," a combination of singing, acting and conversation; Louis Hs. Dream, of "Jack and the Beanstalk," and "The Giant-Killer"; Hazel Harrington and company, the playlet "Pairs Repaired," as Claire, the 1950 girl in "Lang Ahead," Garcinetti Brothers, a European Novelty, and Kinograms and Topics of the Day picture. At the Wednesday matinee, M. La Mar will hold a reception one stage and answer all questions for the ladies present.

BROADWAY JINGLES

Sparkling comedienne, musical and a company of 18 people who are REAL ACTORS and SINGERS is what Manager St. Pierre is offering the Majestic theater, starting today. Of course, girls who are pretty and vivacious make up the majority in this organization—and there is novelty and sensational features in almost every bill. The company has now been together for a long time and has a big line of successes, every one of which is sure fire. The chorus is fascinatingly costumed and every bill is properly presented. Usual first run comedies and News Reel complete the program.

AT THE FULLER TODAY

The picturesque scenes in the Fanchon and Marco "Satires of 1920," which will be seen at the Fuller theater today and tomorrow, attracted much attention during the engagement in Chicago. The attraction proved a strong magnet for two months, and might have remained much longer, but had to give place to other bookings, the bugbear of many a good show. The scenic equipment of the show is of a new order, and brings a dash of the west to the east, and the effect is new and very pleasing.

The cast, headed by Fanchon and Marco, graceful dancers with magnetic personalities, comprises: Nelson and Chain, with Arthur West, Al Wohlman, and John Sheehan as other comic aids; Eva Clark, prima donna soprano, with a notable coloratura voice; Muriel Stryker, classic dancer, and a chorus of two known far and wide as the "sun-kissed peaches" of California.

COMING WEEK AT GRAND.

Patrons of the Grand have a genuine treat in store for, beginning today and continuing through the entire week, the management presents Charles Chaplin and Jackie Coogan in "The Kid." As a comedy this picture is a positive winner; as a dramatic production it ranks high. It is a six reel story, the first of the kind in which Chaplin has ever been seen. He takes the part of a foster father in "The Kid." In the picture Chaplin has deserted buffoonery and has launched out in a serio-comic story that will make you laugh one minute and cry the next.

"The Kid" contains some of the most pathetic scenes ever filmed, having to do with the separation by the authorities of Charley and the kid on the grounds that Charley is not a fit guardian for him. The kid of course bursts into tears at the order which means the separation of the two pals.

In order to accommodate as many adults as possible today, children, unaccompanied by parents, will not be admitted. The first show will start one hour earlier than usual, beginning at 1 o'clock.

746 ACRES, 12 BUILDINGS IN AG COLLEGE

Course Gives Broad and Technical Training in Farming

The College of Agriculture with 938 students enrolled in the long course and 614 students enrolled in special courses, has grown since its establishment in 1890 to be one of the most important factors on the university campus.

Its experimental farms cover 746 acres, on which carefully selected herds and flocks are maintained for study purposes. There are 12 buildings in the Agricultural college group in addition to a large number of barns and sheds to house the cattle, cows, sheep, swine, horses and poultry.

Farmers Need Training.

Dean H. L. Russell, head of the college, summed up the advantages of the agricultural course when he said, "The war very conclusively demonstrated that the importance of trained minds in agriculture is just as great as in any other line of business in order to compete with present conditions. The farmer must know how to apply science, which is necessary to prevent disease, just as much in agriculture is in anything else."

The course serves a two-fold purpose; it gives a broad general training and furnishes specific technical knowledge of agriculture. Chemistry is fundamental in agriculture, and it is necessary for a student to take 18 credits in that subject before graduation. Of the 135 credits necessary for graduation, one fourth must be obtained in the humanistic courses, one third in pure science, one third in agriculture and the rest in electives.

Ag Journalism

The course in agricultural journalism is rapidly growing because of the importance of advertisements and sales letters sent out by the present day farmer. This course had 13 students when it was established in 1918, but it now has 85.

The middle course in agriculture is designed for students who have a high school training but who cannot spend more than two years at the University, and who expect to return to the farm. One full year of farm experience is required before a student can enter the second year of this course.

PERRY URGES $500 U. W. FEE

Bill Would Increase Non- resident Tuition Dues at University

Assemblyman Clark M. Perry, Oshkosh, has drafted a bill to increase the non-resident fees of students at University of Wisconsin from about 125 to $500. It is too late to have the bill introduced from the floor and Assemblyman Perry is attempting to have the measure offered through a committee. Attention of Assemblyman Perry, prompting the introduction of the measure, was called to a statement recently made by a Wisconsin educator to the effect that out of the several thousand students at university 2,006 are non-residents as compared with 4,998 students from this state. The same statement declared that 1,353 of the state students are registered from Dane county. It is the opinion of Mr. Perry that as the outside attendance has increased so rapidly larger tuition fee should be paid to meet the cost of education.

One of the sharp fights of the senate next week will be over the Bennett Bill placing the cost of grade crossing construction upon the railroads. This bill has been recommended for indefinite postponement by the corporations committee of the senate by a 6 to 1 vote. The same measure was introduced in upper house two years ago and lacked one vote of passing. Sen. Bennett declares that grade crossing accidents are multiplying in Wisconsin and that the toll of human life from this source alone has become appalling. His bill provides for the gradual separation of the more dangerous grade crossings of the state.

The main speech in favor of the crossings bill will be made by Sen. Bennett when the bill comes up for consideration probably on Wednesday. He declares that now that freight rates are on national basis under Esch-Cummins law the cost of this construction would fall upon the nation and not upon Wisconsin alone. The principle argument against the bill will probably be made by Sen. Geo. B. Skogmo, River Falls, and Sen. Buck, Racine.

It will probably be necessary to redraft the dry enforcement bill which passed the assembly and which is now pending before the senate committee on state affairs. This committee is said to be 5 to 2 in opposition to the Matheson bill in its present form. W. Stanley Smith, prohibition commissioner, has presented an argument to the committee asking for a number of amendments. It is probable that it may be necessary for the committee to draft a new bill. The Cook amendment which was rejected in the house will be incorporated by the senate committee. This amendment strikes from the bill the provision which gives a prohibition deputy the right to interpellate any person and to cast them in jail for contempt for failure to answer any of the questions. Some of the lawyers claim that this provision might invalidate the entire act. It is now certain that the bill will be revamped and will have to go back to the assembly for further consideration.

RAISE MONEY FOR BERKELEY TRIP

A total of $850 has been raised at the University of Washington toward paying the expenses of the freshman crew to Berkeley in April by the sale of paddles in the freshman "Send 'em South" campaign. Paddles authorized by President Henry Suzzallo were auctioned off and sold for $15.40.

LEARN TO DRIVE MOTOR TRUCKS

Instruction in the driving of motor trucks was begun last week for students in the field artillery at the Ohio State University. Instruction is given in the driving of Packard trucks, a White reconnaissance car, and five-ton tractors. In addition to truck driving, the men are learning to make topographical sketches of the campus.

SPECIAL MUSIC MARKS EASTER

200 Carollers to Sing On Streets; Churches Have Programs

More than 200 carollers of Easter songs will wander about the streets Sunday morning bringing messages of joy to Madison's shut-ins and others who care to display the signal calling for them. The custom of carolling at Easter time was established last year by the Community Music club, composed of students. Among the places to be visited are the hospitals, the jail, the sanitarium and a list of private dwellings where sick people live.

The singers will start out in groups at 6:30 in the morning in automobiles provided by the Kiwanis club, and will return to the Lincoln statue on University hill at 7:45 where they will sing in a chorus.

Special organ and vocal music, Easter lilies and white altar candles will make an appropriate setting for the celebration of Easter morn in most of Madison's churches Sunday.

Holy communion will be held in those churches not observing this service on Food Friday.

A sunrise service at 6:30 o'clock will be conducted at Plymouth Congregational church and several other Protestant churches will hold two services Sunday morning.

There will be special musical programs in observance of The Resurrection at Christ Presbyterian, St. Andrew's Episcopal, Luther Memorial, First Baptist and the Catholic churches.

INFORMATION? THE LIBE HAS VOLUMES OF IT

Is Home of Reference Books, Pamphlets and Newspaper Files

The library of the University, besides being the most beautiful building, architecturally, on the campus, is one of the finest equipped of all university libraries. It is only excelled by the libraries of the older Eastern universities such as Yale and Harvard.

Access to 276,000 volumes and 50,000 pamphlets of the library proper is not only offered students but by applying at the Historical library desk which is in the same room as the university desk, they can secure the use of 218,000 volumes and 227,000 pamphlets. Various colleges have libraries of their own such as the law school, which has 30,000 volumes, the Agricultural college which has 18,500 volumes, and the engineering library.

Open Shelves and Catalogues
The walls of the great reading room on second floor of the building are lined with reference books to which the student may have immediate access. All other books are secured by filling out call cards by means of the catalogue system. No matter upon what subject the student desires information whether it be on conic sections in geometry, or the rise of the Gothic architecture in a Fine Arts course he is certain to find the desired information at the library. The unusually great scope of Wisconsin reference material enables the student to secure the broadest possible conception of the material he is studying.

The library.
One of the finest collections of original manuscripts concerning the history of the Mississippi valley to be obtained anywhere in the country is found in Wisconsin's library. The first secretary of the historical association spent years in collecting manuscripts concerning Daniel Boone, papers on the Lewis and Clark expedition and material concerning George Rogers Clark. When Theodore Roosevelt was writing his book "The Winning of the West" he found this material to be a valuable aid.

Excellent Paper File

On the first floor in the document rooms are a collection of newspapers, the second most complete collection in the United States. Here the student may study the earliest extant newspapers of the English language; he may study the early colonial papers, the blanket sheets, and he may likewise get access to the bound volumes of all the great newspapers in the country. Certain restrictions are placed upon the use of this material.

The theses of the graduating students which are bound from year to year form an excellent field for reference work. As they cover wide varieties of subjects and involve a considerable amount of research work they form a not insignificant source of information.

MISSION WORKER TO GIVE ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON INDIA

William Waide, who has been engaged in mission work in India for over seven years, will give an illustrated lecture on India at the weekly Christian Endeavor service at Christ Presbyterian church to-night at 6:30 o'clock.

It will be missionary night and the missionary committee of the society will have charge of the program. A social hour, beginning at 5:30, during which refreshments will be served, will precede the prayer meeting.

Mr. Waide and his wife will entertain the young people with a number of Indian songs which they will sing in the native Indian dialect.

Head of University Exposition

The general chairman of the University Exposition to be held April 21 - 23 is William B. Florea '21 New York, N. Y. He was appointed to this position by the Union board, which was given general oversight over the Exposition by the faculty. Approximately 750 committee people are working under him directly or under one of his two assistant chairmen in carrying out the plans for the big affair.

Florea is a member of Iron Cross, Artus, Beta Theta Pi, and Inner Gate. He was associate business manager of the 1921 Badger, chairman of the finance committee for the 1921 Prom, and chairman of the finance committee for the Junior class of 1921. He was also assistant chairman of the 1920 Homecoming, and is now treasurer of the senior class and a member of the Union board.

APPLETON 16, WAUKESHA 6
Appleton defeated Waukesha in the semi-final game yesterday morning by a score of 16 to 6. Although Waukesha fought hard, she was not able to penetrate the Appleton defense, and the first half ended with Appleton on the long end of an 8 to 0 score.

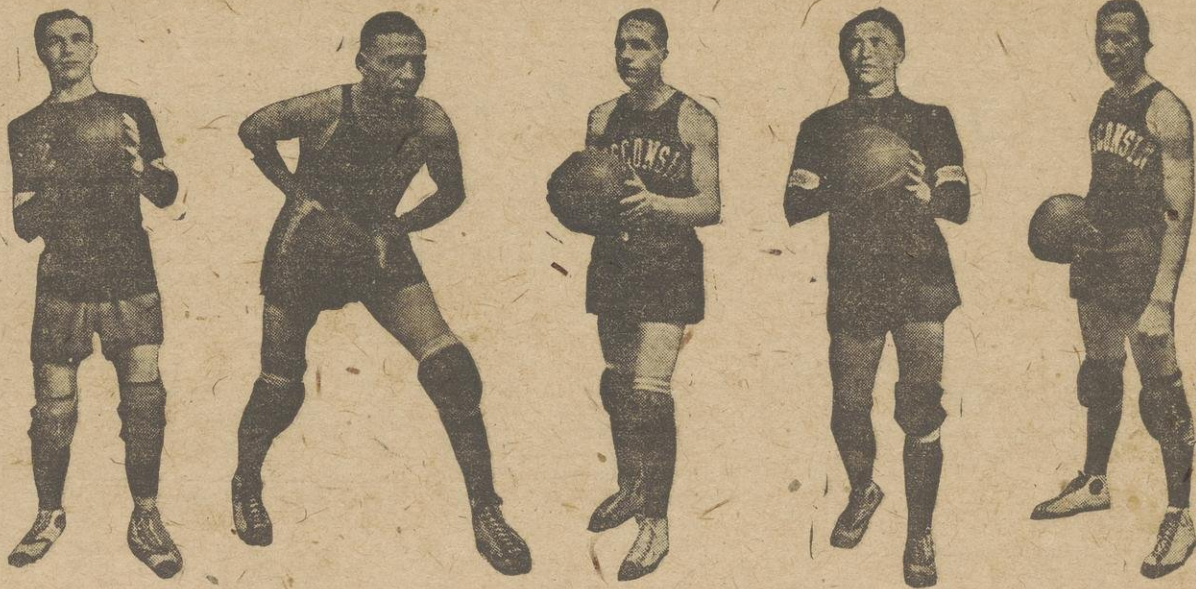

Southcott, Waukesha's star center, failed to hit his stride during the game. Jacobson played his usual brilliant game at forward, caging three field goals and a free throw. Breise opposite forward, also played a great game, showing coolness and equalling Jacobson in the number of points made.

semi-final game of the consolation series and put the Rhinelander team out of the running. The final score was 17 to 10.

The strain of a tournament was too much for the light Rhinelander team and their playing did not approach the showing made in former games. Elmwood, on the other hand, profited by her rest of yesterday and displayed a speedy offense and an iron clad defense.

Bohn of Rhinelander continued his good record by caging three of the five baskets made by his team.

DEBATING AND ORATORY LEAD AT WISCONSIN

Revival of Interest in Forensics Features Success on Platform

To high school students interested in debating and oratory Wisconsin offers the chance to gain premier honors in all branches of intercollegiate and campus forensic activities.

Control of forensic contests is lodged in the Forensic Board composed entirely of students elected by the school at large and the literary societies. This board works in conjunction with the department of speech which, it is well to note, is the first department in any university in the United States covering all phases of speech training.

The N. O. L. The Northern Oratorical League Contest is the most important intercollegiate event in which Wisconsin takes part. It started in 1890, when delegates from Wisconsin, Northwestern, Oberlin, and Michigan gathered at Ann Arbor to form an association for promoting interest in public speaking in the colleges of the Northwest. These schools became charter members and Iowa State University was admitted in 1891.

The University of Chicago came in in 1893 and the University of Minnesota in 1899. In 1908 Chicago withdrew and Illinois was elected to fill the vacancy. Membership in the league is limited to seven schools. The withdrawal of Oberlin in 1918 created a vacancy which will be filled this year.

On February 22, 1901, Hon. Frank O. Lowden of Chicago, gave the league securities which yield annually $175. One hundred and fifty dollars of the interest from the endowment fund is placed as follows: At the annual contest the student receiving first honor is awarded $100, and the one receiving second honors, $50. These awards are known as the Lowden testimonials. The remaining $25 are placed in a sinking fund, the interest accruing from which may in time be used to increase the testimonial by equal amounts.

During the years in which the contest has been held, Wisconsin has won three firsts and ten seconds. Wisconsin men who have taken first place are: Max Loeb, 1905, Charles C. Pearce, 1909 and Alvin C. Reis, 1913. Among those who have taken second place are J. F. A. Pyre, Herbert H. Jacobs, Alonzo R. Smith, Rodney A. Edwards, Robert Wild, Clarence E. McCartney, Edgar E. Robinson, Fred Merk, Howard M. Jones and Gladys Borchers.

Sterling Tracy of Memphis, Tenn., a junior in the college of letters and science, and one of the best orators and debaters ever developed at the university, is Wisconsin's representative in the contest this year which will be held at the University of Iowa on May 6.

Varsity Debates The regular intercollegiate debating activities are conducted with other conference universities, Wisconsin maintaining four three-men teams. The university's record of wins in these contests outnumbers its losses.

The members of the 1921 squad are: B. W. Allin, Thomas Amlie, Charles D. Assovsky, Ralph Axley, Melbourn Bergerman, L. W. Hall, Herbert Kraege, A. C. Inman, W. Morse, I. A. Perstein, and Sterling Tracy.

Wisconsin has a chapter of Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary forensic fraternity, to which all persons who represent the entire university in intercollegiate contests are eligible for election. As a further reward, intercollegiate debaters and orators, receive the Vilas "W" medal a "W" certificate from the forensic board which lists all contests in which the student has participated, and is presented at graduation. In addition, intercollegiate debaters and orators are exempt from writing theses.

There are at present six literary societies on the campus. Athenae, Philomathia, Hesperia, Agricultural Literary society, Pythia and Castalia, which act as a nucleus for furnishing material for the intercollegiate teams and give valuable training in parliamentary procedure to many hundreds of student members. Several of these organizations have been in existence for more than a half century, and the societies active at this time are the survivors of such organizations which have flourished at one time or another since Civil war days.

Joint Debate. The joint debate which was, and in the minds of some still is the ranking forensic contest of the year, is an annual event which takes place between two of the three men's literary societies. The first joint debate was held in the chapel in 1867 between Hesperia and Athenae. At first it was held between the two existing societies, but with the appearance of new societies the custom has grown up of having the winning society debate against the third society the following year. The debate this year between Hesperia and Philomathia, was won by Philomathia, which will meet Athenae in the joint debate next year.

Some of the states greatest men including ex-Governor McGovern, Burr W. Jones, of the Wisconsin Supreme court, Henry Cochems, Milwaukee attorney, and Alvin C. Ries, legal advisor to the state marketing commission have been joint debaters.

A joint debate of almost equal importance takes place annually between the girls' literary society, Pythia and Castalia.

Forensics at Wisconsin have staged a remarkable comeback in the last two or three years as has recently been evidenced by capacity turnouts at all of the contests. At the present negotiations are under way to send a debating team composed of three of the members of this year's debating squad to the Pacific coast.

LAST NIGHT'S MIXER REAL MOVIE AFFAIR

Stars Mingle With Property
Chasers—Lee McCandless
Presents Farce

Very much a movie affair was the Varsity Movie mixer held in Lathrop gymnasium last night. A 10 piece orchestra headed by Lute Holman began to move at 9 o'clock; feet moved, couples moved, and the original state of estrangement quickly moved to one of certain acquaintance.

The entire Movie cast, from star to property man was present in force, and kept things moving and people mixing. Assisting were Maj. and Mrs. John S. Wood, Dean and Mrs. S. H. Goodnight, and Dean and Mrs. F. W. Roe.

Moved to laughter and almost to tears were the mixer-goers when Lee McCandless '23 gave, during intermission, his particular interpretation of "Levinsky at the Wedding". Then at 12 the moving ceased; and the Movie mixer committee, Thomas Tredwell '23 and Washburn

ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT PLANS BIG DISPLAY FOR UNIVERSITY EXPOSITION

"The economics department will have an elaborate display of charts in the University Exposition," said Charles Assovsky '21, chairman of the committee on economics, in explaining what kind of an exhibition had been planned.

"There will be a chart to show the growth of the department, and another depicting its relation to the state. A third chart will illustrate the radiating influence of the department throughout the United States, by means of the prominent workers and the professors placed from the University of Wisconsin.

"Other charts of especial interest will illustrate the distribution of wealth in the United States, a budget for the average family of five, and one showing where a check travels from the time it is made out until it arrives at the bank upon which it is drawn."

The exhibition will also contain a display of the books written by the members of the department. Among others will be a copy of Prof. R. T. Ely's "Outlines of Economics," printed with raised letters for the use of the blind.

One side of the economics booth, which will be 10x20 feet, will be given over to the sociology department. The main feature here will be an optical display of social service work done in the community. "There will be a pantomime portrayal of family conditions before and after the social service worker takes them in hand," declares Miss Clark, of the Associated Charities, who has this section in charge.

The rest of the sociology department, which is under the direction of W. R. Tylor, instructor in the department, will contain charts showing the growth of the department, and the distribution of graduates working throughout the country. There will also be an analysis of what Prof. J. L. Gillin's class in social case work is doing, and statistics showing the cost of crime and pauperism in the state.

While the comparatively modern study of economics is to be on display, the ancient study of the classic will not be neglected in the exposition. A booth of 10x10 feet will contain charts showing the influence of Greek and Latin on the Romance languages and their use in the terminology of the sciences.

"There will be an especially striking chart, occupying one whole wall, emphasizing the effect of the classics on English," said Dorothy Latta '21, chairman of the committee on classics. "The exhibit will also contain a display of reproductions of the treasures found at Mycenae. Another reproduction will be of a ninth century manuscript of Horace."

The botany department plans to fill most of its booth with living plants surrounding a fountain, instead of resorting to charts entirely.

"Most of the plants will be tropical ones from the greenhouse," said H. F. Copeland '21, chairman of the botany committee. "There will also be some experiments in plant physiology. We are planning to grow a series of plants without the proper food value to show the effect. There will also be pictures, and one or two charts on general botany."

Easter Bonnets May Stay Home Tomorrow

Easter bonnets, new spring suits and boots will quietly remain at home Sunday, unless the predictions of the weather man prove false. He says: "showers and thunder storms, strong shifting winds." The old winter coat, hanging beside the new spring wrap in milady's closet, will grin a malicious grin at its neighbor, as it is once more drawn forth, and the pretty Easter hat droops dismally.

JOURNALISM ACTIVITIES RANK NEXT TO SPORTS AT WISCONSIN

Students Get Practical Experience on Many Publications

In the field of extra-curricular interests at Wisconsin, journalistic activities rank second only in importance and scope, to varsity major and minor sports. In addition to the practical work required of students in the course of journalism, the established student publications present opportunities to hundreds of students in practical publication experience.

In addition to the Daily Cardinal, the Octopus, the Alumni Magazine, and the Athletic Bulletin, the four main academic departments of the university are represented by special magazines. The College of Letters and Science fosters the Wisconsin Literary Magazine; the College of Engineering the Wisconsin Engineer; the College of Agriculture, the Country Magazine and the Course in Commerce, the Commerce Magazine. All of these publications are edited and published by students, and positions are open to those who are interested and best qualified to conduct the work involved.

A brief analysis of the various university publications follows:

The Wisconsin Octopus

The Wisconsin Octopus is designed to represent the humorous side of college life. The Octopus makes its appearance on the campus each month. It was founded last year by Lowell Ragatz, Marie Bodden and Maurice Field, and was evolved from the Awk, the satire sheet which had a spectacular career on the hill for a number of years. The Octopus is edited this year by Fred Sperry, Henry C. Dennis, Rodney Welsh, and Hubert F. Townsend. Willard Rendall is business manager. The Octopus bids fair to occupy a leading place in the world of college humorous publications.

The Commerce Magazine

The Commerce Magazine, one of the most recent of student publications, is an enterprising, prosperous publication with an efficient staff of editors and a large group of business hustlers who manage to secure a large quantity of advertising. The Commerce Magazine is published monthly and is edited by Lloyd Strobe and managed by William G. Fischer.

The Literary Magazine

The Wisconsin Literary Magazine makes an effort to secure and publish each month the best written work accomplished by students in the College of Letters and Science. The magazine is edited by a board of editors which is presided over by Paul V. Gangelin, and is managed by A. J. Fehrenbach. Students who have exceptional ability to write essays, short stories, poems and special feature articles on subjects of general interest, are invited to send their work to the "Lit."

The Country Magazine

The Fourth Estate has efficient representation in College of Agriculture through the Country Magazine. This magazine, which publishes a variety of interesting and helpful articles upon various phases of agriculture, also covers the department of Home Economics. The Country Magazine is edited by John Pinney and managed by Helmer Casperson.

The Wisconsin Engineer

The material published by the Engineer for the most part is of a technical nature and of particular interest to students in the College of Engineering. It is edited by Willard Kates and managed by J. B. Hamblen.

The Athletic Review

The Athletic Review, a revival of the Athletic Bulletin, is confined to the interests of the Department of Physical Education. This publication has a wide circulation throughout the state. Allard Frogner is editor of the Review, and Wesley Travers business manager.

The News Sheet

The Y. M. C. A. News Sheet is a monthly publication devoted to the religious activities on the campus.

It is conducted by a board of editors composed of Robert Reynolds, Thomas Dartnell, and Dwight Dunlap.

The Badger

The year book, the Badger, is a gigantic enterprise employing scores of students in the editorial and business departments. The Badger has established the reputation of being the "world's greatest college year book." The editor of the 1922 Badger is Thomas Coxon, and the business manager Clarence F. Rasmussen.

The Daily Cardinal

The Daily Cardinal was founded in 1892 by W. W. Young and W. T. Saucerman, and has had an uninterrupted record of success for 29 years. In 1910, the Wisconsin News, founded by Edwin Kohl, Marshfield, was established as an evening competitor of the Cardinal. The News had a brief and spectacular career, and was merged with the Cardinal in 1912.

The Cardinal offers an opportunity to students in the course in journalism, as well as students, an opportunity for practical publication work. Scores of students are engaged each day in the production of the Cardinal, which has a circulation of more than 3,000 copies. The Cardinal is edited by Carson F. Lyman, managing editor, and Marion Goodwin, woman's editor. Corrington Gill is business manager.

Following is the list of the editors since the Cardinal was founded in 1893:

- 1892—W. W. Young, W. T. Saucerman.
- 1892-93—M. C. Douglas, C. C. Case, W. T. Saucerman.
- 1893-94—W. G. Bleyer, E. J. Henning.
- 1894-95—W. T. Arndt, W. L. Woodward.
- 1895-96—J. B. Sanborn, J. S. Lyon.
- 1896-97—E. H. Kronshage, C. E. Allen; F. V. Cornish, Albert Hedler.
- 1897-98—Charles H. Becker, C. F. Hagemann.
- 1898-99—Robert Wild, S. W. Smith.
- 1899-1900—Herbert W. Davis, Theodore W. Brazeau, Charles F. Hagemann, William S. Kies.

Railway Stations Are Burned in Ireland

DUBLIN—A series of attacks was made Friday on seven stations of the Northern Counties railway in Antrim. All of the stations were burned. Forces in Northwest Ulster today have orders to fire promptly at gunmen.

20-YEAR GROWTH NETS BIG BOOST FOR COMMERCE

Twenty years ago the Course in Commerce was opened and 85 students enrolled. In the 1920-21 academic year 1,413 students were registered. This course which has come to be the most popular one at the university, was created to train young men who desire to enter business careers, especially in such fields as domestic and foreign commerce and banking or branches of public service in which a knowledge of business is essential.

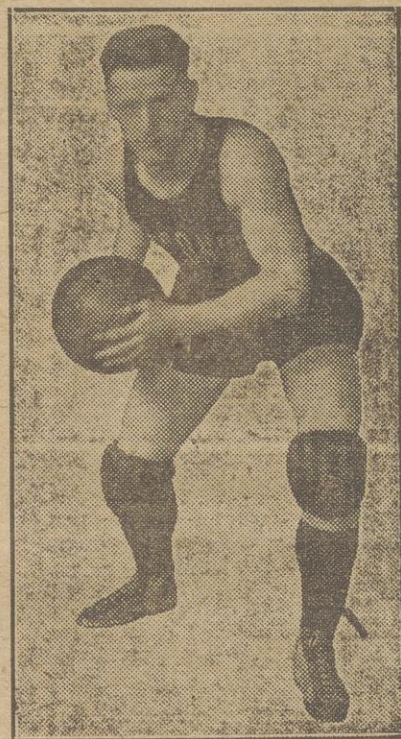

The modern business man needs training of the highest order, combined with a knowledge of the mathematical, physical, and social sciences, and of their application to commerce and industry. In addition he needs a thorough command of his mother tongue and of at least one modern foreign language. Justification of this belief is found in the magnitude, complexity, and rapidly changing character of the modern industrial and commercial processes, and in the unfitness of the traditional college course properly to equip a man for the most efficient work in these fields. It was with this idea in mind that the founders of the course originated the Course in Commerce.

Wide Variety of Subjects.

A total of 132 credits is required for graduation in the course. Among these must be included credits in modern foreign languages sufficient to aggregate together with those acquired in high school not less than 32, of which not less than 8 may be offered in any one language. Not less than 30 credits may be offered in the field of economics.

The studies of the course may be classified under the following heads: preliminary studies, which are regarded as essential in a liberal education and as a necessary foundation for more specialized courses pursued later on; professional studies, which include a group of courses designed to teach students to understand and actually perform various processes common to all branches of businesses; and a number of other groups designed to promote specialization in certain fields. In the first group are included courses in accounting, auditing, salesmanship, advertising, credits and collections and marketing methods. The special groups include everything in the commercial line that the student might be interested.

Badger Teams's Star Running Guard

ROLAND F. WILLIAMS '23
