The libraries provide public access to a wide range of material, including online exhibits, digitized collections, archival finding aids, our catalog, online articles, and a growing range of materials in many media.

When possible, we provide rights information in catalog records, finding aids, and other metadata that accompanies collections or items. However, it is always the user's obligation to evaluate copyright and rights issues in light of their own use.

They Had a Fire From a Smoking Contest

One time there was an elderly couple who had a house. They had with them two girls who were their grandchildren. Now it came time to sleep so their grandmother undressed them and had them climb up to their beds. She was smoking while she was making up the beds and she dropped a spark on their beds. Then she went back down to have a smoking contest with the old man. After a while the old man got sleepy and said, "Now I guess I should go to bed."

So he undressed and in a little bit put on his bedclothes. Then he climbed up and he noticed it was full of smoke upstairs. So right away he threw himself on the bed and then yelled and said, "Quickly, bring up some water!"

He was bending over the bed when the old woman appeared holding a dipper full of water. He got upset and said, "What can be done with that amount of water you have?"

So then she got angry and right there his tobacco pouch was hanging and about that time she dropped her skirt and threw the water at his rear end.
