Frank Believes Radical Control Plan Progressive

Limiting of Action Will Not Abolish Extra-Credit Penalty

By William P. Steven

The plan of scholastic discipline in which the responsibility rests with the instructor for penalties in all except major cases is a radical but progressive change for the university, President Glenn Frank said yesterday.

"Anything which moves the university in the direction of putting the relation of student and teacher more on the basis of human association, resting on the assumption that the vast majority of students have healthy minds and normal ethical standards, is a decided move in the right direction," the president declared.

Conduct Committee Is Informal

The limiting of the action of the central committee to "cases so serious as to make failure, suspension, or dismissal from the university appropriate" will not do away with the extra credit penalty, Dr. Frank said. At the same time, he did not think that it was meant that the work of administering extra credits would be left to the discretion of an individual instructor.

The committee on student conduct, action on which was postponed as special business until the January faculty meeting, is "a purely informal association with the offices of the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women of a staff of persons of somewhat more expert character to assist in cases of abnormal delinquency" in the president's mind.

King Winter Arrives in Town With Snow, Wind, and Zero Wave

Students who had begun to fear that winter might lose his way and fail to reach Wisconsin this year were relieved yesterday when Mr. Heavy Snow, advance agent, and publicity man for the northern potentate, arrived in town with a blustery wind at his back.

Mr. Snow posted various signs of winter, including banks of natural white confetti, artistically pointed articles, and delicately tinted red noses about the campus and set up permanent headquarters between the men's gymnasium and the University Y. M. C. A. He explained that Boss Winter would be along to distribute sub-zero temperatures today.

The arrival of Mr. Snow on the campus immediately following a scattering but somewhat successful barrage laid down by his rival, Mr. Fall Rain, in a desperate effort to increase the current Wisconsin pneumonia and rheumatism averages.

Mr. Snow assisted the city transportation service greatly by stalling seven street cars between Lake and Park streets last evening. "I like the climate. I think I'll stick around for quite a while," he replied when asked if he wouldn't like to move on and see some of the eastern states.

Jack Briscoe Stars In Leading Role of French Club Play

Production Given in Bascom Theater Exquisitely Chosen

By D. C.

Last evening saw the semi-annual French club play, "The Medecin Malgre Lui" hoisted onto the boards of Bascom theater and there displayed to a crowd of enthusiasts who braved zero temperatures to pack the auditorium.

The play was exquisitely chosen, and but for a few slips in staging and direction would have ranked with the best.

Jack Briscoe, playing the lead as Sgnarelle, the "mock doctor," was unquestionably the star of the farce, though he played under the handicap of having almost four times as many lines as any other individual character in the play.

Katherine Giese, playing opposite Sgnarelle, as Martine, his wife, played her part in a smooth and pleasant manner. Her excellent characterization of the French peasant was of great merit.

Excellent bits of character portrayal were given by Charles Baumann and Clarence Hertz, as Lucas and Valere, the servants. Baumann in particular sent the house into gales of laughter at times.

Jan. 6 Sanctioned As Pre-Prom Dance Date; Loraine Chosen as Site

Function Will Be Last Social Event on Semester Calendar

The student life and interest committee yesterday sanctioned Saturday, Jan. 6, as the date for the pre-prom dance.

Following the action by the committee, Frederick Jandrey, chairman of the dance, announced that the affair would be held in the Crystal ballroom of the Loraine hotel. Arrangements have been made with the management of the hotel pending the approval of the tentative date by the faculty.

The dance will be the last social event of the current semester, as the date selected is the only open weekend before the beginning of final exams.

In the future, the date of the pre-prom dance will not be selected by the prom chairman, but by the retiring sophomore president, according to a rule agreed upon yesterday by the faculty committee.

Members of the committee yesterday objected to the dance, when the request was first submitted, on the grounds that it came too late in the year. Willard Momsen, prom chairman, pointed out that if it was before the Christmas holidays the dance would conflict with fraternity parties.

Arrangements for the ticket sales, music, and special features for this year's dance, will be announced soon. Jandrey said yesterday.

Dean Nardin to Speak At Frosh Convocation

"Personal Efficiency" will be the subject of the talk of Dean F. Louise Nardin, who will speak this afternoon at the annual freshman convocation for women to be held at 4:30 o'clock in Lathrop parlors. Her talk is the first of a series of lectures that is being planned by the vocational committee of W. S. G. A. of which Miss Clara B. Flett is the faculty advisor. Later features of the year's program will be lectures on vocational subjects by members of the university faculty and outside speakers, and a two-day conference for senior women. Upper classwomen and faculty members, as well as freshman women, are invited to this afternoon's convocation.

Seniors Estimate Trust Fund Size

Schroeder Announces Three Possibilities for Choice of Class Memorial

An estimate providing that dues of $5 be assessed each senior, under consideration that the class as a whole agree on the fact that it warrants a trust fund requiring an expenditure from $1,000 to $1,400, was drawn up at the executive meeting of the senior class last night.

The class memorial is to require $1,000. Entrance into the alumni association, individually, will require an expenditure of $2 per member.

The rust fund will be used to promote further reunions of the class after graduation. This will provide a means of unifying the class in future years. The memorial will serve to perpetuate the memory of the class.

Arthur C. Anderson, class treasurer, stated that membership in the alumni association required an initial outlay of $2 per member. Membership in the association is optional, according to his statement.

President Harry Thoma announced that the sergeant-at-arms, elected to office in November, has been ruled ineligible. This will constitute one of the problems which will be presented to the class at its next meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 14, at 4:30 p. m. in the Engineering auditorium.

Other matters which will be discussed are the continuation of the alumni association, financial assessments, and other arrangements, and matters of class organization. This business was left over due to the fact that only 50 out of a class of 1,200 were present at the meeting last night.

William Schroeder, senior memorial committee chairman, suggested the following ways to dispose of the $1,000 memorial fund: That it be added to the $22,000 fund already set aside for the purchase of chimes; that it be used for furnishings in the Memorial Union building; or for the painting of an oil portrait of President Glenn Frank.

Inter-fraternity Council Asks That Track Meet Remain As Before; Sends Request To Little

Report of Crowell Throws Light Upon Various Local Problems

As one of its first constructive pieces of work this fall, the Inter-fraternity council is sending a resolution today to George Little, director of athletics, requesting that the style of the interfraternity track meet to be held within the next few days be that of past years, instead of that planned by the department. A motion proposing that such a resolution be drawn up and sent to Mr. Little was unanimously passed by the council at the meeting held Tuesday night at the Chi Phi house.

The letter to Mr. Little follows:

George Little, director of athletics:

At their regular meeting held Tuesday night, delegates to the Wisconsin Interfraternity council unanimously passed a resolution opposing the adoption of the athletic department's new system of conducting the annual interfraternity track meet to be held within the next few days.

It is the opinion of the council that a track meet conducted under the proposed plan would lack much

Regents Move to Keep Alumni Organizations; Form Wingra Refuge

Arboretum Will Necessitate Purchase of 700 Acres Adjoining Nakoma

Approximately $83,000, the unpledged balance of the Tripp estate, was appropriated by the regents to aid in the establishment of an arboretum and wild life refuge on the shores of Lake Wingra with the understanding that at least an equal amount will be provided from other sources.

The arboretum proposed by Regent Michael B. Olbrich, Madison, will necessitate the purchase of 700 to 1,000 acres adjoining Lake Wingra and the Nakoma Golf course. Its boundary would run from the Verona road to the fish hatchery, and include the whole of the Lake Forest area.

Every type of shrub and tree flourishing naturally in temperate climate would be planted in the area. Wild animals would have a refuge there, and the lake makes it possible for fish, ducks, and geese to be propagated and allowed to flourish unmolested.

"Harvard university sponsors such a refuge," Mr. Olbrich said. "The college has a 250-acre tract 10 miles from the campus where it has invested a half-million dollars, and the university is now conducting a campaign for $100,000 to further its research work."

Statistics Indicate Momsen Has Failing For Dating Blondes

Will the 1929 Prom queen be a blonde or a brunette? Willard Momsen, chairman of the Prom, who is popularly supposed to have some influence in picking the queen, was forced into making a damaging admission concerning this problem yesterday. He said "Yes."

Momsen, in fact, appears to be less worried about his prom partner than almost anyone else on the campus. He really has some very handsome haberdashery for sale and the Christmas trade is simply immense.

Discreet statistics, gathered by a discreet statistician, indicate, however, that Momsen has a fatal failing for yellow hair. He insists that gentlemen really should have no preference, but facts compiled on Bill's dates for two years show that blondes outnumbered brunettes almost two to one.

Although the darker types are showing a decided gain, at present shrewd observers still believe that blondes will be blondes, and Momsen will pick one.

Dissolution of Alumni Body Is Discounted By President C. A. Byron

Financial support now being awarded the alumni records office will be continued if the work of the General Alumni association and alumni records office are combined to form a new alumni body, the board of regents voted yesterday.

The board adopted a motion offered by President Glenn Frank which declared that the regents favored a correlation of the work of the alumni records office, a university function, and the General Alumni association, a group independent from the university.

Would Bring Unification

Such a correlation would result in a unification of machinery, elimination of duplicated effort and facilities, continuity and completeness of alumni records, and strengthening of the prestige of the alumni association by every means the university is able to extend.

Plans for such correlation are to be worked out between the president of the university and the board of directors of the alumni association, the motion said.

Dissolution Discounted

The dissolution of the association was discounted by Charles A. Byron, president, in a long distance telephone interview yesterday afternoon. Mr. Byron proposed further development and strengthening of the association by making the new secretary a field man to spend his time traveling extensively over the state, organizing and stimulating alumni clubs.

Likewise, Loyal Durand, chairman of the committee appointed to select a successor for Mr. Bart E. McCormick, declared that there was no intention of disbanding the association. He, however, declared that its future ef-

Regents Plan Change In Science Hall Name

(Continued from Page One) Effectiveness depends upon the extent of co-operation it receives from the university. Eight candidates have applied for the position of alumni association secretary.

Renaming of Science Hall Asked

Plans to rename Science hall when the medical courses have been removed to the new Service Memorial building were asked by Regent John C. Schmidtmann. The building will be devoted to the geology department, according to present plans.

Mr. Schmidtmann suggested that the names of Charles F. Van Hise, prominent geologist and ex-president of the university, and T. C. Chamberlin, now professor emeritus of geology at the University of Chicago, be considered when the building is renamed.

President Van Hise was noted for his discoveries in the Devil's Lake region about the folding of rock under pressure, while Prof. Chamberlin expounded one of the principal theories held regarding the origin of the earth.

$1800 Field Worker Budget Approved

An appropriation of $1,800 to cover expenses of a field worker and publicity to stimulate enrollment in the summer session courses for workers in industry was approved by the board of regents.

Two other appropriations asked by President Frank were granted. The first, for $2,500, was to maintain and extend the work of the Wisconsin Institute on Training of Teachers. "Proving up years" after the graduation from Wisconsin were suggested by President Frank. The money will be used in supervisory service for teachers during the first two years after their graduation. The second appropriation for $1,100 was to cover certain discrepancies unprovided for in the budget.

Must Notify of Contract Bidding

A motion that all regents be notified of all contractors bidding on major construction projects at the university was carried by the board of regents after Miss Leoia Hirschman, Milwaukee, and John E. Cashman, Denmark, had voted against approving the letting of contracts for the university extension building in Milwaukee by the executive committee of the regents. J. P. Richardson, Janesville, withheld his vote on the matter.

Miss Hirschman severely criticized the Walter W. Oeflein company and the Wenzel and Henoch company, both of Milwaukee, who were named as two of the contractors of the university extension building there. She did not present evidence to substantiate her claims that the concerns were unfair to labor.

Miss Hirschman attacked the Pfeiffer Construction company when they were awarded the contract for the construction of the Memorial union. She testified against them at the senate investigation of the labor riots at the Union last spring.

FRANK HOLDS NEW PLAN PROGRESSIVE

(Continued from Page One) a policeman out of the teacher, President Frank believes. Rather it is "a step in the direction of putting the relation of the students and teacher more on the basis of human association than of the police court."

The all-university study commission which will continue the investigation of student discipline is a standing committee. Additional appointments to this group to facilitate the work in investigating the general discipline problem may be announced at the January faculty meeting, Pres. Frank indicated. The group has been empowered to investigate five phases of the general discipline problem:

Five Phases To Investigate

1. Whether a uniform procedure in the conduct of examination is desirable, and to what extent it now obtains in the university.

2. What successful methods of disciplinary procedure are employed in other universities.

3. What changes in the conduct of courses or in instructional technique would give promise of securing greater honesty in scholastic work.

4. What factors beyond the control of the instructional staff are influential in producing the existing conditions.

5. Whether anything can be done to develop among the student body a more direct and general recognition of the moral aspects of student dishonesty.

The Cardinal report of the faculty action yesterday morning was incorrect in reporting that records would be kept of any action taken by the instructor and filed without names in the departmental office. This paragraph was stricken from the plan by an amendment in the faculty meeting.

LITTLE ASKED TO LEAVE TRACK MEET AS BEFORE

(Continued from Page 1) of the spirit of competition which would otherwise be present, and that it would also be undesirable because of its involved nature and complicated method of scoring.

The difficulties encountered in the dormitory runs and in the interfraternity cross country race held earlier this fall are indicative of those which seem inevitable should the meet be held under the department's new plan.

The council further believes that only a slightly larger number of men would engage in the meet under such a system, because a few certain athletes from a fraternity might compete each night during the duration of the meet, while under the old plan different men of necessity had to be entered in the different events. For this reason, the council feels that it will hinder rather than help your "athletics for all" program.

The fraternities are outspoken in their appreciation of the work you have done toward advancing interfraternity athletics in the university and are eager to give you their whole-hearted support on your program. But they also feel entitled to make criticisms when criticism seems due, because who but those fraternities engage in the competitions?

Theta Chi Beats Winter and Theta Xi for Title

Long Pass, Paul to Reinke,
Scores Champion-Making
Touchdown

By H. D.

A blinding blizzard, the Theta Chi's and the Theta Xi's all engaged in a fight with each other for supremacy yesterday at Camp Randall, and when the contest had ended it was found that the Theta Chi's had cast aside the fury of both of their foes to win the fraternity touch football title, 6-0.

The blizzard had no chance of winning the touch football title, but that was not a barrier to its offensive attack. Covering the field with banks of snow, bringing annoying wind, and permeating the air with blinding snowflakes, the storm made things as unpleasant as possible. And the inevitable results of such weather on the precarious game was some thoroughly uninteresting action.

Long Pass Scores

Theta Chi made the winning touchdown by virtue of a long pass from Paul, fullback, to Reinke, right end, who proceeded to pick his way (without snowshoes) to the Theta Xi one-yard line, where he was either caught in the deep snow or tackled by one of the Theta Xi brothers. Following this bold assault, which netted the winning team 35 yards, three attempts to put the ball over on end runs failed, and they resorted to a successful trick play which was nothing more or less than a fake end run. As the bewildered Theta Xi's discovered some few moments later, the play was a pass from Paul to Brotz for an absolutely unmolested touchdown.

Fear Losing Ball

By this time the main fear of the game was that the ball would be lost in the rapidly massing snow. But the keen eyes of the players prevented that possibility.

Following the touchdown, Theta Chi decided not to fight the wind on a kick for the extra point, and made an attempt to get the ball over the line with a pass from Paul to Burke, but it failed.

Theta Chi outplayed its opponents (including the blizzard) from the start of the game to the finish. The entire contest revolved about who could make the greatest gains with the wind. During the first period when the wind was with Theta Xi, they succeeded in making their one and only first down.

Theta Chi's Start Rush

During the second period, the wind was rooting for Theta Chi, and that team succeeded in totalling four first downs. And the most disconcerting part of these four downs were that they came in close succession. But no score was made in the second period, and the somewhat emaciated ball remained in the center of the field for the greater part of the time.

Not counting the touchdown made by the Theta Chi's they had their opponents defeated on first downs. But as usual with a team which is losing in the last quarter, the Theta Xi's, who were not suffering from an inferiority complex, made an audacious attempt, with the aid of several long passes, to score, but it all came to naught when these long passes were continually intercepted by Theta Chi brothers. And thus the contest between the two touch football teams closed what has been the most remarkable and successful touch football season ever held at Wisconsin.

Lineups: Theta Chi—Dahlman, le; Reinke, re; Florez, c; Burke, c; Brotz, q; Beck, lh; Edwards, rh; and Paul, f. Theta Xi—Hanson, rfh; Smith, lh; Weathers, q; Kanalz, f; Bert, re; O'Neil, le; and Olwell, c.

SOPHS BATTLE FOR INDIANA CAGE TEAM

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Dec. 7—The closest fight in the history of Indiana university basketball is being staged for positions in the starting lineup against Franklin here Saturday night. Although Beckner, Muncie, forward; Correll, Bloomington, guard; and Wells, La Porte, guard, are standbys from last year's team they are having a difficult time holding on to any regular place.

Beckner's job is being contested for by a band of young sophomores who are of untried material but who are determined to edge the veteran out of a job. Reinhardt, Racine, Wis., the little, husky football halfback, is one of the candidates for forward. Cooper, North Vernon; Replogle, Muncie,

HERE'S the DOPE

It's really too bad that there ain't no Santa Claus. He would enjoy this weather so much.

If you have heard "The bear went over the mountain," you have an excellent idea of what happened when we attempted to get to the bottom of the schedule mystery. In fact, you probably have a better idea than we have ourselves.

Three venerable and honored members of the coaching profession have placed their pates together and picked a masterpiece among All-American teams. The three v. and h. m. are Knute Rockne, who draws his salary from the University of Notre Dame; T. A. D. Jones, who has just asked Yale university to accept his resignation; and Glenn Scobell Warner, alias "Pop," one of the more prominent Leland Stanford university faculty members. Their team includes four Pacific coast men, three eastern men, three middle western men, and one southerner.

How little we laymen know about football is demonstrated by the fact that Warner, Jones, and Rockne placed Bettencourt, St. Mary's college, at center on their team. This department offers a cash prize of $3.67 to anyone who can honestly say that they ever heard of Bettencourt before or who can give the exact location of St. Mary's college. Giggle that away. You'd never guess it—St. Mary's is at Oakland, Calif.

The funniest part of the whole thing is that Charlesworth, Yale, picked by Grantland Rice and numerous other noted pickers as the greatest center in the country, was relegated to the honorable mention list. Since Jones undoubtedly recommended the Yale men to be included, this seems to show that coaches and experts may differ widely in their opinions.

The boys also playfully prefaced their selection by stating that Bruce Caldwell, ineligible Yale athlete, was the best football player in the country this season. Which are strong words.

If you want an interpretation of the way that team was picked, here. Two Yale men, (Tad Jones coached Yale and he was in a position to know that these sons of Auld Eli were positively the best to be had) two Southern California, one St. Mary's, and one Washington man. (Pop Warner's Stanford team didn't do so much this season, that must mean that all of the other coast teams were exceptionally powerful.) One Notre Dame man. ("Who's pickin' this team, anyway? John Smith's name goes on there or my name isn't Knute Rockne.") Oosterbaan and Joesting from the Western conference. (They couldn't get away from it.) Nash from Georgia. (Georgia beat Yale, they must have had an All-American to do it.)

All that is mere preliminary to the announcement of a real all-star team. It's the all-university football team, made up of players from fraternity tackle football elevens. Pitchers and everythin'. Hold your hats, boys, it's coming.

At Iowa they have a basketball player named Plunkett. We are referring his name to the Association of Wise Crack Producers in the hope that something can be made of it.

—C. D. A.

Starr, Anderson; and Sprunger, Fort Wayne, are others who have a chance of getting in the starting aggregation. McCracken, Monrovia, end on the football team; Leonard, Rochester; and Farmer, Bloomington, are the outstanding candidates for center. McCracken does not have the experience of the other two, and for this reason may be a late regular.

Dad Vail, Veteran Crew Coach, Spends Time in Infirmary

While the lake is gradually freezing, and the crew has been driven to indoor work upon the annex barges, Harry E. "Dad" Vail, crew coach, finds himself reposing in the infirmary with little chance of being released before the Christmas holidays.

Coach Vail was confined to the infirmary Nov. 17, where an examination disclosed that he was afflicted with yellow jaundice, and would be confined to bed for some time.

Cheers Invalids

"Dad" has become the favorite of all the student patients at the infirmary and his daily "Well, son, how are you today?" is becoming well nigh indispensable to the bedridden shutins.

Now that the football season is over and several prospective varsity men have reported for practice, Coach Vail feels that he is losing valuable time in rounding his men into necessary crew condition and is becoming the most impatient patient at the infirmary.

During the absence of Coach Vail, the work on the oars is being supervised by Oscar Teckmeyer, assistant crew coach, but as "Dad" remarked to one of his visitors, "I'm used to the outdoors, and this business of being inside and on a bed most of the time is getting my goat. I'll sure be glad to get out and be with the fellows once more."

Sigma Chi, Alpha Chi Rho,
Theta Xi Score Big Victories

Numerous signs of improvement appeared in the interfraternity basketball games Tuesday as Triangle, Sigma Chi, Theta Xi, Acacia, Phi Beta Delta, and Alpha Chi Rho scored victories.

Powerful teamwork enabled Sigma Chi to walk away from Lambda Chi Alpha like Charlie Paddock walking away from a cripple. Heuer, Sigma Nu, produced a good strong-man act by scoring all but two of his team's points. Summary scores follow:

Theta Xi's 20, Phi Kappa Tau 6

The Theta Xi's, supported by a number of last year's veterans, defeated the Phi Tau's in a grueling test. The Phi Tau's fought gamely but were outclassed by their heavier opponents. Lineups: Phi Kappa Tau—Conrad, Perry, Kastein, Arne, Sikes, Rusch, and Jones. Theta Xi—Wiswal, O'Neil, Smith, Burke, Hanson, Olwell, and Kelly.

Acacia 9, Delta Sigma Pi 5

The Acacia's defeated Delta Sigma Pi in a fast offensive battle. They were leading by one basket at the half. Lineups: Acacia—Fox, Davis, Adams, Morrow, Simester, Kelly, and Crane. Delta Sigma Pi—Sidney, Trine, Davis, Wiesner, Renke, Maecher, Kuenkler, and Henke.

Phi Pi Phi 9, Phi Beta Delta 11

Phi Beta Delta, led by Goodman who sunk three baskets, won from the Phi Pi Phi's. Lineups: Phi Beta Delta—Wagner, Kahn, Goodman, Meadows, Harris, Vogel, Pitsley,

Chi Omegas, Kappas to Play
Important Cage Game Today

Today's schedule of women's intramural basketball games includes three important matches which will determine the first place winners in the three respective groups. The winners of these games will be entered in the final elimination contest between the various group winners, together with Phi Mu, Coranto, and Alpha Gamma Delta, which won the championships in their respective groups.

Chi Omega will play Kappa Gamma to determine the first place winner in group 1 at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon in the church gym. Both teams have shown up well in previous games and the match between them today will undoubtedly be closely contested.

Championship Games

At 4:30 o'clock in the church gym there will be a game between Theta Phi Alpha and the Tri Delt's for the championship in group 10. The Tri Delt's have proved themselves to be unusually powerful but it is certain

Games Yesterday

The All-American Cubs won by default yesterday afternoon from the 1203 West Dayton team.

Delta Zeta defeated the Medics in their match yesterday afternoon with very little difficulty, the final score being 24 to 2. Lineups: Delta Zeta—Howell, Cudworth, Mills, Weller, Holmgren, and McKenzie. Medics—Lotwin, Gleerup, Eoyer, Iglauder, Rouesche, and Petty.

"ON WISCONSIN"

1. Adoption of a system for Fraternity Rushing.
2. Betterment of student Self-Government.
3. Success to the Experimental College.
4. Athletics for all.

Orientation and Rushing

AT THEIR REGULAR monthly meeting last Monday afternoon, members of the faculty passed a plan providing for a "freshmen week" before the opening of the fall semester. This period, which will start with frosh registration on Wednesday, Sept. 19, is set aside as time during which newcomers to Wisconsin may become acquainted with the university and with the campus. The plan is similar to those successfully adopted at several other colleges and state universities.

In commenting on this period of orientation, one member of the faculty declared that it will practically demand that some restriction of fraternity rushing be imposed by the university during the four freshman days. It will be impossible to allow rushing during this period, and either an agreement between the fraternities or a definite faculty-imposed rule will have to be made.

The Interfraternity Council is herewith given another argument for adopting some plan for fraternity rushing. And this argument is perhaps more impelling than many of the others, for the faculty threatens to impose some restraint of its own should the greeks fail to do anything of their own accord. If the Council is as self-respecting this year as it hopes to be, such an imposition would indeed be a heavy blow.

We are pleased to see the faculty taking this step, because, if nothing more, it should at least prick the Council into activity. It seems assured that no rushing will be allowed during the period of orientation, calling for at least a brief period of deferment. In the Daily Cardinal questionnaires which were answered, it was proved that each fraternity on the campus expends a large amount of time and money on early rushing. Freshmen week will eliminate these useless expenditures.

Freshman week, besides being a benefit to the fraternities, will be of great value to the individual frosh. In the past, a man coming to Wisconsin was rushed off his feet and pledged before he had time to formulate his opinion about the university and about frats. Under the new system, he will have an opportunity to consider carefully the various problems which will confront him, and will be able to make his decisions more intelligently and sanely than ever before.

The period of orientation ordained by the faculty is a sure move toward a safe and sane fall for next year.

Teacher Spank!

YOUNG LADIES attending the University of Indiana henceforth will not be permitted to go riding with a young man unless they are accompanied by their mother or father or have a prescription of one kind or another from the office of the Dean of Women. This, my children, is the one sure way to safeguard the morals of our younger generation. At some of these terrible universities, boys and girls (the brazen hussies) go joyriding by themselves, sometimes, even, one boy and one girl take a ride without another couple present in the automobile. And this, my children, is a practice which converts an institution which permits it into nothing less than a training school for Houses of Correction. For surely, no persons at the giddy age of twenty or thereabouts have sufficient intelligence to govern their own conduct. But, thank goodness, there are many conscientious universities like Indiana where young men and women are placed in a hermetically sealed hothouse and have their precious morals sheathed in red woolens. Let us support them!

Why Disband?

A RUMOR STARTED by a news story published in the Wisconsin State Journal last Monday evening declares that the university Alumni Association is on the verge of disbanding itself. Whether this report is true or merely another instance of a Madison newspaper blundering into campus affairs about which it knows nothing seems conjectural—even the officers of the organization remain in the dark on the matter, with the exception of the State Journal's article.

It is true that the secretary of the association, Bart E. McCormick, has tendered his resignation, but that hardly makes the body defunct. There are also stray rumors to the effect that the university and the alumni themselves have not received full benefit from the organization, but the validity and scope of these criticisms is questionable. Matters will be definitely settled at the alumni meeting to be held in Milwaukee Saturday afternoon.

In any problem of this nature, one might ask just what the association can accomplish and what it has accomplished in the past. Is such an organization on the scale of a small town's high school alumni association which holds a dance in conjunction with the graduating exercises once a year or is it of a wider scope and capable of performing more valuable services?

The average graduate has a certain amount of sentiment for his college days and his university throughout life, and naturally is pleased to hear from his Alma Mater occasionally. This is one of the functions of the Wisconsin association; through the Alumni magazine it keeps the Badger grads in constant touch with the major happenings at the university. Its adjunct, the alumni records office, performs many various services which are of unquestionable value. But it is probable that these two institutions might continue to function even if the association were disbanded.

The Alumni Association provides a number of other services, of course, which undoubtedly prove of value to its members. Whether or not these services are worthy of the continuance of the organization will be decided by prominent graduates in Milwaukee Saturday. It is a question which merits the utmost of attention, because the Alumni Association is not a body which can lightly be discarded without considering the cost of such a move to the university and to the alumni group.

The University Calendar

IN THE FACE OF opposition from prominent members of the faculty which discouraged the circulating of a petition among the student body, dates for Christmas vacation remain unchanged. Which means that classes will be dismissed Wednesday, December 21, and begin on Thursday morning, December 6.

This vacation, as well as all other dates in the university year, is determined by the university calendar which is arranged five years in advance. This calendar states, for instance, that if Christmas day shall come on a Sunday vacation shall start on the noon of the preceding Wednesday, et cetera. Naturally, these dates cannot be changed without a great deal of confusion both to the student body and to the faculty. This fact was demonstrated last year, when the holiday recess was changed by petition.

Occasions arise that make the dates so definitely laid down in the calendar inconvenient or undesirable. This year, for example, three week-ends and three or four additional days might have been included in the Christmas vacation had the calendar been more flexible. For this reason, it seems that some other method might well be adopted to plan the yearly schedule.

University bulletins must be made out at the beginning of the year, and for this reason it seems impossible that any changes can be made in the immediate future. But the faculty might note the disadvantages of the existing system and begin casting about for a remedy.

When You Were a Freshman

December 8

THREE YEARS AGO

December 8, 1924, being a Monday, no Daily Cardinal was published.

TWO YEARS AGO

Preceding his speech in Music hall Thursday evening, former Governor William T. Sweet of Colorado, who is coming here to speak on the World Court under the auspices of the university Y. M. C. A. will be entertained at a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. building.

A blizzard swept through Madison last night in the personage of the North Dakota Aggie basketball team and froze the Wisconsin basketball five by a 16 to 11 score.

ONE YEAR AGO

In addition to approving the student petition for advanced dates of the Christmas vacation, the faculty elected two of its members of the disciplinary committee and passed favorably up on the recommendation of the graduate committee for a changed summer session schedule for graduate students at the meeting held Monday afternoon.

Late yesterday, the condition of Francis H. Tratt, 22, junior in the College of Engineering, who Monday evening attempted suicide, was reported as "very good," by the physician in charge at the Wisconsin General hospital.

Carl Sandburg Recital Here Pleases Critic

One of Those Interviews Which Are Never Published

"I have never spoken to an audience," said Carl Sandburg, noted verse portrayer of the great Middle West, "with any idea of gaining applause."

"I appreciated very much the generous applause," remarked Mr. Sandburg some minutes later.

Mr. Sandburg, to whom interviewers are as so many garter snakes, had just finished his recital, under the auspices of the Arden Club, and was standing outside of the stage entrance to Music Hall, a glittering tumbler in one hand and a large glass water pitcher in the other.

"Do you know," said the noted exponent of banal mannerisms, taking from his inner pocket a weathered object, suspiciously resembling a cigar, "I was astounded at the number of sweet blonde darlings in the audience this evening. I don't believe that I have ever spoken before such a galaxy of beauties. Strange to say, however, I saw no red heads among those present."

"My dear," he said, turning suddenly to the president of the Arden Club—let us draw the cloak of kindly anonymity across her haggard, harried face—who was standing conveniently near, "Do you think you could get me another glass of water?"

"Another?" she gasped. "Why, you've just had four." Mr. Sandburg then explained that it was time that he took his "medicine." Taking from his pocket a small bottle containing an oily, pinkish hue, suspiciously reminiscent of cod-liver oil spiked with Grenadine, he carefully measured out a spoonful into the tumbler and abruptly swallowed it. With a wry grimace he reached for another cigar, or whatever they were—his initial attempt having dropped to the floor.

"Now, Mr. Sandburg," began the genial hostess, oozing personality with every syllable, and trying awfully hard to be helpful, "What would you like to eat before going to bed tonight? Would you like a sandwich and coffee?"

"No, thank you," was the quick retort. "Just some lettuce and a glass of milk. Do you think that we could get into an ice box?"

Upon being assured that this would be an easy matter Mr. Sandburg's mind was apparently at rest. But this snatch of conversation gave the alert interviewer the very lead that he wished.

"You are a vegetarian, Mr. Sandburg?" he queried.

The noted poet warily deigned to answer the question. "I feel very tired," he said. "You don't mind if I take a short nap here, do you?" He gestured with his still unlighted cigar at a bench of the treacherous folding variety standing against a nearby wall.

Without waiting for assent, and too quickly for any timely warning, he flung himself full length on the bench and with dire result. Crash! Guitar, cigar, bench, and Sandburg, as well as a handful of spare stogies, mixed in a free-for-all on the floor. Scrambling to his feet after this bumptious bit of low comedy, and with muttered apologies, the visiting dignitary made a hasty attempt to retrieve his dignity and cigars. In covering up his embarrassment, Mr. Sandburg, the poet with the kindly leer, snorted once or twice and coughed up a handful of rather mutilated tobacco.

Brief glimpses such as this, into the life of the intellectual aristocracy make it easy for one to visualize the gigantic fertile mind which gives birth to such brain children—as the Rootabaga Stories.

"Sorry," he said shamefacedly. "But I lost control temporarily. Let's be getting on."

Aghast at such an abrupt ending to the conference, the interviewer followed mutely to the waiting cab.

"Mr. Sandburg," he began falteringly, "Isn't there something that you can give me that I can make into a story?"

"Young man," tolerantly beamed the sage, "If what you already have won't make a story you'll never make a journalist." So saying he stepped into the waiting Yellow and sped off.

The interviewer stumbled blindly into the blizzard. . . .

Now I ask you man to man—you be Frank and I'll be Earnest—what's a man to do? Such pecksniffery!

I have been used to seeing temperamental actresses tear their hair upon noticing a woman with a red hat in the audience. Used to hearing authors swear violently when the soup arrived cold. But this! Too much.

Now that we have completely disillusioned you as to Sandburg, the man, let us add that every word of the above actually happened. Believe it or not.

PINKERTON

Pinkie arrived with his tale of woe last night and it seemed that no worthier purpose could be applied to this space than the above.

Far be it from me to shrink to mere peccadilloes, but Mr. Sandburg's recital was dreary as the 39 articles of religion and false as pewter medals. May he double his book sales!

This will probably cause no little smoke and perhaps a spark or two, but as the Japanese so quaintly say, "It can't be helped, if it can't be helped."

Now that you have been such good children you may have this for dessert:

"What's that thing on the back of your neck?"

"That's a freckle!"

"That's funny. It's the first time that I ever saw a freckle walk."

You can get drunk on water—just as well as on land.

Adams Hall Contest

Brilliant playing in the second half of every game featured the basketball efforts of Adams hall men on the Wisconsin High floor. The scores were comparatively close due to the fact that the players have not become acquainted with each other's style of play.

Although Brazil furnishes the world with its carbonadoes, or black diamonds, that need not deter us from seeking them in this country. A few are said to have been picked up in Pike county, Arkansas, where brilliants are also being mined to a limited degree, and gems up to six and a half karats have been found. Single diamonds, white crystals, have been Appalachian range, in Virginia, North and along the path of the glacial drift picked up along the eastern base of the and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, in Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio. It weighed twenty-three and three quarter karats.

Students Building

According to plans now being considered, an international house at the University of Washington will soon become a reality. The new building will not only house many of the students, but will provide social and recreational diversities and study rooms for university students from all countries represented on the campus.

"A diffusion of foreign students whose manners, thoughts and customs are distinct from those of America, into western universities and colleges, has served to broaden the sympathy and understanding, evoke tolerance and widen the horizon of education by contact with foreign students who are destined to become leaders of their country," declared Dean Thompson.

Dogs Use Campus For Playground; Venture
Into Classes at Times

While the University of Wisconsin campus is used by the students for studying, it is used quite differently by domestic animals, namely dogs. During classes, before classes and between classes all colors, sizes, types and pedigrees of dogs are romping over the lawns and sidewalks of the campus. They bark, run, play and fight together and cause much amusement among the students.

Often, so earnest are they in their playing or fighting that they become mixed up with students and then feminine shrieks and masculine guffaws issue from the inevitable mess. A fight always brings spectators and bets, and classes are usually forgotten until a definite decision has been made by one of the combatants. Particularly humorous is the seeing a huge great Dane, who roams about the campus, being chased by some ferocious insignificant cur. The Dane always runs regardless of the size, color or anything else which his molester may possess.

One of the pastimes of the students individually is to persuade some unsuspecting dog into a class and disrupt the morale of the class and the instructor's amiability.

Some of the dogs are habitual campus hounds and are recognized three or four times a week but the majority are only there a few times and then they never appear again. Perhaps they are persuaded to attend a medic class or a zoological class and the department acquires them for specimens.

American Youth
Has Zest, Vigor

"English Younger Generation Lacks Pep," Miss Ledeboer

Englishmen resemble Easterners more than any other type of Americans in society, Miss Julia A. Ledeboer, London, who is doing research work in geology at the university here, believes that the West and South are far more hospitable than the East or her own England.

The World war, which wrought radical changes everywhere, has not left English society unaffected. Only in exceedingly rigid circles do chaperones exist any longer, and the young girls are entirely at liberty to make their own engagements for parties.

"The American youth," Miss Ledeboer declared, "is the very personification of zest and vigor in comparison to the English younger generation. Such a condition is perhaps the most cruel thing the war did to the future of English society."

That the men do the serving of tea, both to the host and guests, is a surprising fact, and according to Miss Ledeboer, the men are very attentive to the women, quiet, formal bows replace our jovial handshaking, although in conversation, full names aren't used a great deal except in introductions.

Ohio Frosh Rate High In Health

This Year's Class Is Best
In Decade, Doctor's Data Shows

This year's freshman class at Ohio State university has the distinction of being the best class physically in a decade, according to Dr. J. H. Nichols, head of the men's department of physical education at the university. Of 2,525 only one man in 24 is sufficiently outstanding physically to be put in Class A, the highest group, as compared with one in 10 a year ago, but approximately 86 per cent of those examined landed in Class B, as against 78 per cent last fall. There were also fewer, proportionately, in Classes C and D, the lowest grades.

The number of men greatly overweight or excessively underweight also was less than last fall. 1.3 per cent of the men examined were found to be 20 per cent or more overweight as against 2.4 per cent of the men last fall. Similarly, 1.75 per cent were 20 per cent or more overweight as compared with 2.3 per cent of last year's group.

The results of the examination, Dr. Nichols added, show clearly that the campaign of health education by various agencies in recent years is beginning to bear fruit. The present class, he said, "is better developed, has a better appearance, and shows better nutrition than any in recent years."

od of rushing used at his school, and I found, by comparison, that co-operation was poorer here at Wisconsin than it is in most schools."

Crowell said that Dartmouth has a powerful Interfraternity council which has the support of the faculty, and which imposes heavy penalties upon violators of interfraternity rules.

"At Penn State," he pointed out, "in case of rule violation by a fraternity, the council notifies the national office, and publishes a report of the violation in the school paper.

"At Leland Stanford university each fraternity posts a bond of $500 from which fines, if any, are deducted. This, he said, has proven very successful, according to the representative from that school.

"There was also a discussion of fraternity finance and cooperative buying which may interest our council at a later date."

Vatican Choirs Will Sing Here

Raffaele Casimiri Directs 60 Notable Singers in Madison, Dec. 12

A great musical treat and privilege is being accorded the American people in the appearance again on this side of the Atlantic of the Vatican choirs, which are scheduled for a concert in the auditorium of Central High school on next Monday, Dec. 12. Those fortunate enough to have heard these world-famed choirs in Rome appreciate what the tour means.

The Vatican choirs consist of 60 notable singers from the Sistine chapel, St. Peter's basilica, the Pontifical Conservatory of Higher Sacred Music, and St. John Lateran. They are the only official singing organization bearing the approval and benediction of the pope. They gave their first concert on this present tour at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York City.

Aside from the keen expectancy aroused by such a striking departure from precedent, never before had these famous choirs sung outside of Rome. The gifted maestro, Raffaele Casimiri, canon of St. John Lateran, will direct this matchless organization. Every member of the Vatican choirs was selected by Msgr. Casimiri, one of the youngest men ever associated with musical developments of the vatican.

DR. FOX WOULD BAR 100,000 STUDENTS

This does not mean that a boy who plans to enter the business world should not go to college if he is willing to study. But if he has been dazzled by the glamor of college life

OPEN a tidy red tin of Prince Albert and give your olfactory nerve a treat. Never have you met an aroma that had so much come-and-get-it. Some fragrance, Fellows. And that's just a starter. Load up and light up. . . .

Cool as final exams. Sweet as passing. Mild as cafe au lait—mild, but with that rich, full-bodied flavor that bangs your smoke-gong right on the nose on every fire-up. You'll like this long-burning Prince Albert in the bowl of a pipe. And how!

One of the first things you notice about P.A. is that it never bites your tongue or parches your throat, no matter how wide you open the smoke-throttle. It is one tobacco that never wears out its welcome. You can stoke and smoke to your heart's content, with P.A. for packing. Get some Prince Albert now and get going!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidor, and pound crystal glass humidor with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bits and trash removed by the Prince Albert process.

Badgers Seventh on Science Roll

Wisconsin Ninety-Second in Doctor of Science Degrees Conferred

Wisconsin ranks seventh among the states in the number of its native sons whose names appear for the first time in the third and fourth editions of the Biographical Directory of American Men of Science.

In the current number of "Science" a statistical article compiled by J. McKeen Cattell from the fourth edition of the directory, which will be published this month, states that of the 601 men whose names have been placed in the directory since 1910, Wisconsin has produced 24. States ranking above her are New York, 67; Ohio, 49; Massachusetts, 48; Illinois, 45; Pennsylvania, 41; and Iowa, 27.

Mr. Cattell's study shows, among other facts, that many of the distinguished scientists born in the north central and western states were trained in the east. The situation for Wisconsin is, that while 24 of the younger group just added to the directory were born in this state, but 18 of the 601 newly listed were granted the doctor's degree by the University of Wisconsin. Not all those granted the degree by the state university were natives of the state.

Mr. Cattell points out, however, that increasing numbers are taking their academic training in the state universities.

"The seven eastern universities," he comments, "which prior to 1910 had conferred nearly three-quarters of all the degrees (doctorates in science), in 1926 conferred fewer than seven state universities of the central states and California."

In 1926, according to date given in the article, the University of Wisconsin was second in the number of doctorates in science conferred, with 53. Chicago led with 78.

Most of the scientific men still are working in the universities, but the proportion is declining, Mr. Cattell finds. Of the newcomers in the forthcoming edition of the directory, 60.7 per cent hold academic positions, as compared with 73.8 per cent of those in the directory of 1910. In the mean time increasing numbers of scientists have been joining research institutions, industrial research laboratories, and government technical staffs.

The University of Wisconsin ranks ninth among universities in the number of distinguished scientists on its staff. It is exceeded by Harvard, Chicago, Columbia, Yale, California, Johns Hopkins, Cornell, and Michigan. Exact numbers of eminent scientific men in university faculties are not given by Mr. Cattell for universities with less than 40, in which category Wisconsin falls.

activity to the time of the crime. Sun spots produce an enormous quantity of electrons that cause strong magnetic disturbances. These electrons also cause notable volitional centers, rendering him in a certain sense irresponsible for his actions."

Orient Attends Student Conv

Speakers Will Assemble
From All Parts of World

Among the speakers at the Detroit Student convention, Dec. 27 to Jan. 1, are several from China, the hot spot of the Orient today. Henry Hodgkin is a British missionary, a well known Quaker who served in China with the Y. M. C. A., later under his own Friends Foreign Mission association, and more recently as secretary of the National Christian council.

Fracis Wei, a cultured Cantonese, is president of the Central China Christian university. He entered Boone School at Wuchang for its educational advantages, determined not to be influenced by the foreign missionaries. Before he finished there, however, he found beauty in the teachings of Jesus, and an answer to questions which his keen mind had been asking. He came to Harvard for post-graduate study.

Returning to China as a member of the Boone school faculty, he became president of the Central China Christian Education association. In October, 1926, Mr. Wei became acting president of Boone university. It was his influence that kept the students loyal when the school opened and during the trying days that followed.

Later a teacher endeavored to make Boone a center of communist propaganda. Mr. Wei was approached in an effort to win him over to the scheme. His loyalty was unwavering, and he became the victim of deep laid plots. Fleeing for his life, he went to Hankow. Even there enemies were waiting for an opportunity to kill him at sight.

When he left for Shanghai, a false telegram to the local police authorities followed him, announcing that he was a dangerous communist. One of his fellow passengers on the boat to Shanghai was Dr. Sherman, who was astonished to see Mr. Wei led off by the police. Through the efforts of Dr. Sherman, investigation was begun at once. Mr. Wei was kept in a dark cell over the night, expecting to be called out and executed at any moment. On the next morning he was given a hearing, and although there was nothing against him except the uncertified telegram, the best that could be done for him was to get his release on bond. On June 22nd, he was released. Mr. Wei is now in London, in preparation for future work in China.

Other speakers there are from many countries. From the Philippines comes Dr. Frank G. Laubach, a keen-minded sociologist and psychologist, who for the past 12 years has been in educational work in Manila.

Akintunde B. Dipsolu, a graduate of Talladega college and seminary, and now studying in the University of Chicago, is from Nigeria, British West Africa. He and Roy Akagi, who is a secretary of the Friendly Relations committee of the Y. M. C. A. with special reference to Japanese students, are but two of a large number of national Christian leaders who will be present for the convention. Mr. Agaki is returning from a visit in Japan, just in time for the convention.

An outstanding speaker on race relations from the negro point of view will be Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard university in Washington, D. C.

Richard Roberts, a pastor of the United Church in Canada, who has been much in demand at student conferences, will be present at Detroit. Other speakers include John R. Mott, of the World's Student Christian Federation; Reinhold Niebuhr, of Detroit, well known for his writings; Robert E. Speer, recently returned from travel in the Orient; Sherwood Eddy, who has given much of his time to student work in the Y. M. C. A.; Stanley High, now in America after a tour of the mission fields of Africa and Asia; Albert W. Beaven, of Rochester, and others.

Prof. Sharp Collects Posters of Political Parties in England

A collection of political party posters of England has been made by Professor Walter Sharpe, of the Political Science department of the university. They are posters which were put out by the Conservatives, Liberals and Labor expounding their stand on some parliamentary issue during the past two years. They are being used by Prof. Sharpe in his class on Comparative Government of England.

Their chief interest is in the manner in which they appeal to the people. The cartoons and printing are artistic and attractive and the coloring excellent. They differ greatly from those used in the country as the citizens of the United States are campaigned only at definite times, and political issues before congress receive only the publicity of the press, whereas in England an election may occur at any time and important political issues pending before parliament are always approved or disapproved by a multitude of party posters.

In speaking of party campaigning Prof. Sharpe stated that he attended a garden party held by the Unionists or Conservatives in Scotland last August, which was held for the purpose of obtaining supporters. The party was held at the estate of a wealthy aristocrat and had all the characteristics of a social function. All the political parties hold similar gatherings throughout the summer months to keep their ranks intact and to add new members. Political policies are also discussed and adopted at such assemblies.

BADGER TO CONTINUE HILL CAMPAIGN TODAY

Because of the flood of last minute sales that swamped the solicitors yesterday, the 1929 Badger will continue its campaign on the hill today. The drive was to close last night, and the time was extended because of numerous demands that could not be met.
