FRESHMAN CLASS MEETING

'97 SELECTS A NEW CLASS
YELL.

A BADGER HISTORIAN IS CHOSEN.

Committees on Colors and Yell Appointed.

The freshmen held another enthusiastic class meeting yesterday. There was a large attendance and important business was transacted. Twelve or fifteen ladies showed their class interest and spirit by coming and were enthusiastically welcomed by the boys when they entered. Miss Grace Merrill was elected class historian. The committee appointed on yell at the last meeting reported but, the yell suggested was not accepted. After a long discussion on this subject it was finally voted to adopt a temporary yell and a new committee be appointed to compose one and publish it and the class accept it without further action. The combination light blue and golden brown were the choice for class colors. A class tax of 25 cents was levied on every member of the class. The treasurer was instructed to appoint his own assistants to help him collect this tax.

The temporary yell is:

Ki yi! Ki yi!
Ki Rickety, Yah!

U. W. '98,

Zip, Rah Rah!

Committee on new yell: Miss Vilas, Miss Griswold, Wadsworth, Parkinson and Swaty.

ADDRESS BY MR. MOODY.

Mr. Dwight L. Moody, the noted evangelist, addressed the students of the university at Library hall yesterday afternoon. A large assembly of students and others turned out to hear the speaker and the building was completely filled long before his arrival. While the audience was gathering, Mr. J. F. Jacobs, who has charge of the musical program of the Moody meetings, conducted the singing of a number of well-known gospel hymns, concluding with a solo, "Throw out the Life-line." Miss Bertha Kimball accompanying him on piano. After an earnest prayer by Mr. Moody and another excellent solo by Mr. Jacobs, all joined on singing the stirring song, "Dare to be a Daniel!" When the audience seemed to have grasped the full meaning of the matchless words, Mr. Moody entered upon the discussion of his theme. As might be supposed the subject was "Daniel."

He dwelt chiefly upon the need of such character, firmness and manhood, as was displayed by the prophet during his life. He compared the student of today entering the state university with Daniel in the training and schooling of Nebuchadnezzar. Daniel manfully resisted the temptations of this critical period, and his actions should be the model of all young men who are encountered by the trials and dangers of college life.

"One's after career is in great part dependent on the way in which these first temptations are met, and overcoming them lays the foundation of a worthy character." Mr. Moody then traced Daniel's further history through its various periods, and his wonderful power of word-painting was given full scope in picturing the many climaxes in the prophets long and eventful life.

The talk was deeply impressive and the spirit with which the last song was sung was sufficient proof of its effect. In closing, Mr. Moody urgently invited the students to be present at his lecture on the Bible at the Presbyterian church Saturday afternoon.

TWO PRIZES FOR STUDENTS.

In a small book entitled "Readings from the Book of Nature," (which can be found at Park's book store) in chapter III, page 18, is formulated a law governing matter, and establishing the line of demarkation between matter and sensation so plainly that it cannot be mistaken. If that law is sound, and based upon self-evident truths, the wave theory regarding light, heat and colors must be false in every particular.

A prize of $25.00 is offered to any student of the University of Wisconsin, without regard to class, for the best essay or argument in support of the law, and showing the effect of its application to light, heat and colors.

Also in the same book, chapter XLI, page 78, there is formulated a new theory regarding combustion, classing it as a force of nature, that acts upon matter with uniform result. A like prize of $25.00 is offered to any student of the university, for the best essay or argument in support of that theory.

Truth is best ascertained by investigation; and to stimulate investigation, and partially reward investigators, the above prizes are offered.

The prizes will be awarded on or before commencement day, 1895, by a committee appointed by President Adams for that purpose; and each prize will be paid on presentation of the award, together with a copy of the prize essay to the undersigned.

RECEPTION AT MRS. ADAMS.

A large number of guests gathered at the pleasant home of Pres. Adams yesterday afternoon to attend the reception tendered by Mrs. Adams to the ladies of the American board. The parlors were tastefully decorated with flowers of the season and all the rooms were placed at the disposal of the visitors. Mrs. Adams was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Geo. Peck, Mrs. Wm. F. Vilas and Mrs. Sarah Fairchild Conover. About 250 guests were present.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB.

The Democratic club meets tonight at the City hall. The meeting will be addressed by J. A. Elward, candidate for district attorney in this county, and by some of the members of the club.

—Miss Anna Sawyer, ex-'95, of Bos-cobel, is visiting with Miss Elizabeth Spiegelberg, '95, at Ladies' hall.

CO-OPERATIVE ASSOCIATION

DIRECTORS FOR THE COMING YEAR.

FOUR HUNDRED AND FIFTY MEMBERS.

Flourishing Condition of the Association.

The Co-operative association held its annual business meeting at three o'clock yesterday afternoon in Library hall. W. R. Graves is business manager. Directors from the different classes were elected as follows: From the faculty Professors Freeman, Birge and Mack. Graduate student, Mr. Libby, Fallows in History. From the Law School: George E. Williams, '95; senior law, R. E. Smith; junior law, H. H. Ross; sophomore, L. R. Clauson.

President Elward's term expired yesterday. His successor will be chosen soon by the board of directors. The association is in a flourishing condition. The business manager reports four hundred and fifty active members.

THE CHORAL UNION.

We have received the following from President Adams in regard to the Choral Union for this year:

The Madison Choral union purposes during the current year to give two concerts, one in January and one in May. The earlier will be Hayden's oratorio of the Creation, and will be similar in character to the concert given in May last. All singers of Madison, including especially university professors and students, who are interested in oratorio music are earnestly invited to become members of the union. The rehearsals will be on Monday evenings at 7:30 o'clock in Library hall.

C. K. Adams,
President of Choral Union.

BIBLICAL ATHLETIC STUDIES.

Professor Elsom is conducting a Students' Bible study club at the Baptist church every Sunday at 12 m. The club has taken up "Athletic Studies" from the old book and the following topics will be discussed at future meetings:

Oct. 14. The Old Athlete at Horeb.—1 Kings XIX.: 8-18.

Oct. 21. He Runs His Last Race in a Chariot.—2 Kings II.: 1-12.

Oct. 28. A New Athlete Enters the Field.—2 Kings II.: 13-25.

Nov. 4.—Some Lessons About a Man Who Had the Finest Physique on Record—Absalom.—2 Samuel XIV.: 25-28; XVIII.: 9-18.

Nov. 11. A Very Sick Man Physically.—2 Kings V.: 1-14.

Nov. 18. David's Accurate Aim with His Strong Right Arm.—1 Samuel XVII.: 37-54.

Nov. 25. Great Athlete on a Small Island.—Acts XIII.: 1-13.

Dec. 2. The Same in a Large City.—Acts XVII.: 22-34.

Dec. 9. The Same Athlete Badly Handicapped.—Acts XXVII.: 14-26.

Dec. 16. Last Words of a Victorious Gladiator.—2 Timothy IV.: 1-18.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

Philomathia held only a short business meeting last evening. Several new members were voted into the society. Only a little more business of importance was transacted and the meeting adjourned to allow its members to hear the address by Dr. Storrs at the Congregational church. The literary program which was arranged for last night was put over for two weeks. W. D. Maloney, '96, was elected Badger historian and W. L. Bolton, '96, vice president.

There was a rousing meeting and every chair filled at Athena hall last evening. Much life and vigor was thrown into both debates by the members. The first debate, "Resolved, that contract prison should be abolished," was led by Lockney and Classen, and decided for the negative. The second debate, "Resolved, that an income tax of $600 should be adopted," was decided for the affirmative. Copeland and Dorr leading. There were several members received into the society.

There was a small attendance at Hesperia last night, but those there spent a profitable evening. Owing to a misunderstanding, but half the members were present, so the society decided to excuse those who wished to attend services at the Congregational church, postpone the regular program one week, and have an impromptu debate for the evening.

The question, Resolved, that giving the negro the right to vote, was for the best interests of the United States, was ably lead in the affirmative by Amazeen and in the negative by H. Case. The jury decided against the enfranchisement of the negro. After the initiation of two new members, the society adjourned.

The U. W. Engineers' club met in Science hall last night. This was the first meeting at which a regular program was carried out and, considering the limited time for preparation, the result was highly satisfactory. Eleven engineering magazines were reviewed in five minute discussions by different members. After the conclusion of the program, Prof. J. D. Mack gave a general review of the evening's work, concluding with a few words on the progress of engineering. He congratulated the club on the spirit with which they had taken hold of the work and predicted a successful future. Owing to some misunderstanding, the Civil Engineers have so far held off from joining the club, and it is still an open question whether they may not organize a society of their own. It is reported on good authority that the upper classmen engineers will soon follow the example set by the sophomores. This is certainly a move in the right direction and just what the college of engineering has long needed.

FIELD DAY POSTPONED.

On account of the unfavorable weather the field day which was to have taken place this afternoon, was postponed until Wednesday of next week.

We have had considerable complaint lately in regard to the daily newspapers at the University library. It seems that there are a certain few who make it a practice to monopolize the stand during that portion of the day when the papers are in most demand. Now these papers are paid for by individual subscriptions from the student body and doubtless all who subscribed did so with the understanding that they were to be at their free disposal. The practice is certainly a most pernicious one and ought to be stopped at once.

Probably few students know what a large collection of old university literature the state historical society possesses. It consists of programs of concerts, field days, base ball score cards and advertisements in general running back to 1860. The society aims to secure everything of this nature possible. Students would confer a favor upon them if they presented all their old programs to the librarians instead of destroying them as their old programs, etc., to the library is usually the case. U. W. students may examine this extensive collection whenever they wish at the library.

Among our exchanges we have noticed an inconsistency which perhaps deserves comment. The Aegis, which is published every two weeks, calls itself a bi-weekly. The Red and Blue of the University of Pennsylvania also published every two weeks calls itself a bi-monthly, while the Earl-hamite of Earlham college, Indiana, published at like intervals is a semi-monthly. Again the Scarlet and Black of Iowa college published twice a week is a semi-weekly, and the Vidette Reporter, Iowa City, three times a week, a tri-weekly. We would suggest that perhaps the question could best be avoided by doing as the Wesleyan Argus does which calls itself a fortnightly.

The Eleven plays its second game Monday with Purdue at Lafayette and the result will be looked forward to with a great deal of interest. We can hardly make an estimate of the eleven's work from last Saturday's game but after the Purdue game we will know better where we stand. Two years ago we were badly defeated by Purdue and last year we beat them by a score of 36-30. Purdue has always been regarded as about on a par with Minnesota and a game between the two would be very interesting. We have heard little of Purdue's prospects this year, but for that matter it is too early to know much about the standing of any team but they will have the advantage of their home grounds and Balliet's training in Monday's game.

The game is to be played much earlier than we have ever played them before—earlier in fact than we have often played any very important game. From the schedule of our games it will be seen that Purdue is about the only team we meet this year that there is any reason to doubt the result of the game and it is too bad that a later date could not have been arranged. As it is however we will meet them Monday and we can only wish for the most successful outcome.

THE AEGIS.

The third number of the Aegis made its appearance this morning. It contains prose articles by Charles Floyd McClure, entitled "Sketches" and "The Chap, the Censor and the Nine Spot." A new non de plume which makes its appearance in this number as "Juste Melieu," contributes two articles, "Uncle Robert and Aunt Chole" and "Genus." Two prizes of $25 each are offered by Simeon Mills, particulars of which will be found in another column. There are a number of good editorials in this number.

DR. STORRS' ADDRESS.

The annual address last evening by President R. S. Storrs, of Brooklyn, was one of the most eloquent and scholarly discourses to which the citizens of Madison have ever had the pleasure of listening. The church was crowded with an intellectual audience which frequently applauded the beautiful flights of oratory and charming figures of speech used by the speaker. He said in part:

"My aim is a very simple one in this discourse. It is not to present new and elaborate arguments, but it is to gather up the impressions left upon my mind by these meetings. As I listened to the annual sermon I could not but think of that great missionary, Paul. It is natural to trace great events back to their origin. With St. Paul began the great work of missions. I suppose that to the skeptical minds of Paul's time the instrument placed in his hands seemed a trivial thing—In what you have seen in me and in what I shall appear to thee. It takes a christian, sensitive conscience to appreciate the beauty of Christ's life. A destiny to be developed and a gloom to be meted out after life were new doctrines in Paul's time. Paul taught the way of life not by painful penitence, not by the sacrifice of children, but by the kingly way, the Godly way. He never waited to discuss but taught what he knew as a man who has the conviction of truth. The missionary carries his message the same way—he knows, for God is with him and he carries conviction in his words. Thus it was that the instrument was great enough for the work. It carried a subtle, mystical influence. It convicted and converted.

"This church, as well as every other in this state, in this country, in all the world came from this missionary spirit. They all rest on that embassy of Paul. Perfected saints do not march in brigades. When men criticize the church we should think of this fact. Our christian homes are another evidence of this missionary spirit. There were no such homes during the time of Greece or Rome. The home comes with all its beauty, with all its blessings, with all its delights from the foreign missions. All institutions of charity and culture rests on this power of Christ. All great and good things come from the gospel and they will not nor cannot be found anywhere else. It is never until we come to that sweet love of Christ that all is illuminated and uplifted. Great affection and celestial love have their sources in this same font. God's love extends to all animate and inanimate things. The flower is beautiful because it is fashioned by the hand of God; the stellar arch is wonderful because ordained by the almighty. Life becomes serious but not sad when illuminated by this love while graves are but the shaded portals of paradise and the highway of life abounds in pathways leading to heaven.

"What appeal does this missionary meeting make to us. It at least makes an appeal to our gratitude. Surely we ought to return, for all that has been done for us by blood and tears, a little help for these missionaries who are going to foreign lands. The kingdom of God is to come by individual instruction. So if we would benefit our community, benefit other nations, benefit our brothers we will help scatter this instrument given to Paul. The life of the church is threatened now by prosperity as it never was by poverty. It totters in its steps by a plethora of wealth; it has lost its strength; its muscles are weakened by luxury. The modern convert needs to be regenerated in purse and mind, from the top of his head to the soles of his boots in order that when he goes out into the world he shall not again become indifferent. When I think of the great sacrifice missionaries make when they leave their cultured and comfortable homes to go among an uncivilized people to spread the word of God and how I do no more than pay my 50 cents or a dollar to aid the work I feel unworthy of the shadiest corner of heaven. It is the costly offering that brings us nearer the throne and it is the liberal giver who merits and receives God's blessings."

PEOPLE WELL-KNOWN.

son, which is to retail at $5, is being got out in the government printing office for the post office department. The new issue includes one and two dollar stamps as well.

Senator Sherman in an interview declares his opposition to the popular election of senators, and he goes on to make this interesting personal observation:—"This is my last term in the senate. I am 71 now. My term isn't out until 1899. So you see I will be quite an old man by that time. I will then have been the longest in service of any man. I went into the senate in 1861, having previously served three terms in the house. If I serve until 1899 I will have been longer in continuous service than even Senator Benton."

Miss Milbrey Watterson and William Alonzo Miller were married at noon Thursday at the home of the bride's parents, Editor and Mrs. Watterson, in Louisville, Ky. The house was simply and beautifully decorated in rose and green, but in the reception-room, where the bridal party took breakfast, the decorations were all in white. The bride wore a magnificent gown of white satin duchesse and her veil of point lace, the gift of her relative, Bishop Watterson, was fastened to the hair by a cluster of orange blossoms. At the conclusion of the ceremony the breakfast was served, and later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Miller left for Washington and the east.

OLD IRONSIDES.

Ay, tear her tattered ensign down!
Long has it waved on high,
And many an eye has danced to see
That banner in the sky;
Beneath it rung the battle shout
And burst the cannon's roar;
The meteor of the ocean air
Shall sweep the clouds no more!

Her deck, once red with heroe's blood,
Where knelt the vanquished foe,
When winds were hurrying o'er the flood,
And waves were white below,
No more shall feel the victor's tread,
Or know the conquered knee;
The harpies of the shore shall pluck
The eagle of the sea!

Oh, better that her shattered hulk
Should sink beneath the wave!
Her thunders shook the mighty deep
And there should be her grave;
Nail to her mast her holy flag,
Set every threadbare sail,
And give her to the god of storms,
The lightning and the gale!
—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

MUSIC BY THE POUND.

Always up with the times, allowing no one to outdo or even compete with them for originality or enterprise, Warner's Music Store is the first in this country to initiate the sale of music by the pound.

Beginning today you can buy sheet music of standard size, many popular favorites, songs and instrumental pieces for 50 cents a pound. This does not apply to copyright music, or publications upon which a royalty is paid.

A REVOLUTION IN THE SYSTEM OF "SHOPPING."

Within a very short time, the methods of trading or shopping have been completely revolutionized. The present style of buying on the partial payment or installment plan, was at first confined to real estate and homes.
Now it embraces every known trade and industry. From the kitchen to the parlor, and the cellar to the garret, you can buy everything on weekly or monthly payments. Even the shoes on your feet and the hat you wear. It is not generally known among the young people, however, that by the judicious investing of their "pin money," (say seven cents a day), or 50 cents a week,
buys a first class Bohman Mandolin,
or Capital Banjo at Warner's Music Store, 27 W. Main street.
Everything in the musical line sold on the installment plan, or rented. 50 cents a week buys an organ. $1.00 a week buys a piano.
