STUDENT SENATOR INTRODUCES ACT RESTRICTING KEYS

Resolution Not Suggested By Honorary Society; Seering For Movement

Contrary to an opinion prevalent on the campus yesterday, members of the student senate announced last night that the resolution in regard to the promiscuous awarding of keys by campus organizations was not presented by an honor fraternity but was brought up by a senator on his own initiative. It has been generally known for some time that such a fraternity intended to bring the matter before the senate but it had not been formally introduced Wednesday night.

For several weeks there has been a movement on foot on the part of honor societies to take steps toward reserving the right to award keys to those organizations which base their selection on scholastic standing but no definite action has been taken as yet.

Seering for Restriction

The matter also had been mentioned at the mid-west student conference last week at Knoxville, Tenn. Harold A. Seering '24, president of the senate stated. The opinion of a majority of the delegates was that keys should be awarded only to members of honorary scholastic societies.

"I am heartily in favor of restricting the wholesale broadcasting of keys as signs of recognition for service in a campus organization," Seering declared. "The result of such a practice has been that a key has been reduced to the ordinary level of a meaningless pin, and the average student does not think of a key as being worthy of any special merit."

Action not Retroactive

It is not the intention of the resolution to prohibit those organizations which already have awarded keys for service this year from carrying out their plans, Seering explained, but rather to prevent the practice from becoming too general. He pointed out that the resolution does not take effect until next fall.

Fraternities whose practice it is to permit graduate members to wear keys do not come under the provisions of the resolutions inasmuch as they are not strictly campus organizations under the jurisdiction of any self governing body.

BADGER READY BY JUNE 1--FULTON

Late Spring Events Retard Annual; It Will Be Timely, Editor Says

The "On Wisconsin" Badger will be ready for distribution June 1, according to a report given yesterday by Ellis Fulton '25, editor in chief.

"The late opening of school delayed all the more important events this spring and so necessitated a later publication in order to make it a timely book," Fulton said.

Among the events of this spring will be a complete set of pictures from the Haresfoot show. The scenic material in the annual will be 16 pages of night scenes of different buildings on the campus. There will be eight pages of the class aces with an unusual arrangement.

A complete index of all the people whose names will appear in the book is being compiled at present and will be the last form to go to the printers.

The printer is now turning out 216 pages forms a day and sending them to the Brock Engraving company and Rankin the binders in Chicago. More than half the book is already printed and the remainder is now either in the hands of the printer, or is ready to go to him.

Eight Cops Invade Sig Nu House; But Only Inspect Piers

When eight policemen drove up to the Sigma Nu house and climbed out. Cardinal reporters got all set for a front page story. Policemen seldom invade the Latin quarter in such numbers unless trouble, and very serious trouble is up.

Breathless, the reporters waited for developments. They saw the blue coated figures go up onto the porch and engage in emphatic conversation with the brothers.

Just as they were ready for hand cuffs and pistols, they saw the policemen, all eight of them, turn and walk away. The Sigma Nu's must have convinced them of their innocence. But the whole thing was explained in a very few minutes by one of the brothers.

"Aldermen inspecting the ward," he said. "Wanted to look over the pier and general conditions. And so the exciting incident came to a calm close.

MUSIC WINNERS TO GIVE CONCERT

Wisconsin High School Students in Contest Are Given Banquet Tonight

A concert by winning groups of the first all-Wisconsin high school music contest at 7:30 o'clock in Music hall will follow the banquet to be given in honor of the contestants by the members of Gyro, Rotary, Optimists, Knights of Columbus, Kiwanis, and Lions clubs at the Luther Memorial church at 6 o'clock this evening.

At least 510 persons will be present at the banquet including 446 high school musicians, 15 directors of music organizations, and 49 members of Madison men's clubs.

Dr. Charles H. Mills, director of the School of Music will give the address of welcome. A short talk will be given by Edward A. Birge, professor of music at the University of Indiana, who is the sole judge of the contest events.

Representatives of campus music societies will also speak. Lois Jacobs '24, will represent Mu Phi Epsilon, honorary music sorority, Oscar Christianson '24 will speak for Sinfonia, honorary music fraternity and Aagot Borge of the School of Music faculty will represent Sigma Alpha Iota, professional music sorority.

The three organizations have dominated a Wisconsin high school music championship trophy to be awarded to the school winning the greatest number of points in the five groups of events, solo, girl's glee club, mixed chorus, orchestra and band.

The School of Music has provided prizes for all of the solo and group events. Winners in the group events will receive a loving cup for first place and a smaller one for second place. For the solo events, a gold pin will be awarded for first place and a silver pin for second place.

Beware of "Lovers' Bench;" Dictaphone Hears Secrets

A complete dictaphone has been discovered hidden away in the bushes at the foot of Park street, and conversations intended for one person, only, may be made public to the world, according to a certain professor in the physics department, whose name may not be revealed.

"A group of practical jokers have asked the university radio station for the loan of a loud speaker, which they desire to attach to the dictaphone.

"Officials have agreed to comply with this request provided that all conversations may be made public to the university," our informant said.

PORTRAIT OF ELY TO BE UNVEILED AFTER BANQUET

Commons, Ross, Scott, Kieckhofer Will Speak at Services

Tonight marks the occasion for the unveiling of the portrait of Dr. Richard T. Ely, professor of economics, to whom the 1925 Badger is dedicated, to be held in the Agricultural auditorium at 8:15 o'clock following a 6 o'clock banquet at the Woman's building at which 200 guests are expected.

Prof. John R. Commons will preside at the banquet, and Prof. E. A. Ross, Prof. W. A. Scott and Prof. W. H. Kieckhofer will speak. Frank A. Fetter of Princeton university will talk on "The Influence of the Economist in Business and Government" at the unveiling ceremonies.

Coming from John Hopkins university Dr. Ely had great influence in shaping the thought of such men as Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, ex-president Woodrow Wilson, and Prof. E. A. Ross and Prof. John R. Commons and Albert Show of the Review of Reviews.

Dr. Ely took charge of the economics department here and made it the success hoped for by the regents when they called him to take charge of the new department. He is also head of the department of land economics and public utilities in connection with the university.

Started New Idea

The bronze tablet on the portal of Bascom hall is the result of Dr. Ely's trial and acquittal on the charge of disseminating radical views on socialism, and is the declaration made by the board of regents after his acquittal that "the great State of Wisconsin should ever encourage that continual and fearless sifting and winnowing by which alone the truth can be found."

Dr. Ely started the political new thought of the day and his life epitomizes the story of the economic thought of America, it is said. Many of his students hold important places in political circles, and much of the progressive legislation in Wisconsin is directly traceable to Dr. Ely's influence.

Dr. Ely has completed 32 years at the university, and recently celebrated his seventieth birthday, while last year at commencement he was awarded the honorary LL D degree.

CONTINUE HAREFOOT SHOW SCORE SALES

Scores of "Twinkle Twinkle," this year's Haresfoot show, can still be bought at the University Music shop and at Hook Brother's Music store, according to Sidney Thorson '24, manager of the club. The score contains all the music and the lyrics of the show. There are fourteen pieces, many of which have come to be popular at campus dances since the show. The scores sell for $1.

TEGTMAYER WINS K. S. DAY AWARD

Dr. Chas. W. Gilkey Speaks on Leadership at Convocation Last Night

Gamber F. Tegtmeyer '24 was announced the 1924 winner of the Kenneth Sterling Day memorial award by President Birge at the all-university convocation held last night in Music hall. Dr. Charles W. Gilkey of the Hyde Park Baptist church, Chicago, spoke on "Leadership in College and After."

Tegtmeyer was editor-in-chief of the 1924 Badger, during his junior year, and was president of the university Y. M. C. A. during his senior year. He Tegtmeyer '24 was selected as the Rhodes scholar of Wisconsin at Oxford early this year. He is a member of the Alpha Chi Rho fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi and Iron Cross, honorary activities fraternities.

"The shortest and easiest path to leadership in college is through athletics. Personality with wit, charm, winsomeness form a way not quite so broad but well trodden. A path still narrower is academic achievement," Dr. Gilkey said.

"Two of the great qualities of leadership after college are the quality of creative vision and the power to lay hold of the powers and energies in other men's souls. The thing that made Lincoln preeminent among American leaders was the possession of these two qualities.

"The award will point the eyes and hearts of Wisconsin men towards creative vision and spiritual imagination which will furnish a training ground for real leadership in later life."

H. E. Carswell of the chemistry department outlined the life of Day who had been his roommate in college. Mrs. Sterling P. Day donor of the memorial was unable to attend because of illness.

"OLD TIMERS" AID IN NEXT OCTOPUS ISSUE

Hubert Townsend '23, Robert Herz '22, Louis Pradt, '20, Jack Williams '22, Webb White '16, Penel Crosbie '22, Peter Platton '23, and Wallace Meyer '20 are a few of the "old timers" who have contributed.

This number will be put out by the new staff under the direction of Gordon Lewis, editor-elect for next year.

The Student Self Government association is co-operating with the election committee of the Student senate at the election booths.

This is the first time that there has been an S. G. A. representative on the student senate elections committee. "The new regulations for the conduct of elections require the help of many more students than have ever been needed in the past, and the cooperations of the S. G. SENIORS TO PLAY 'ROLLO'S WILD OAT'

Comedy By Claire Krumme Selected For Commencement Exercises

"Rollo's Wild Oat," a comedy by Clare Kummer, has been selected as the senior class play to be presented in connection with the commencement exercises Thursday and Friday nights, June 19 and 20, according to Laurens Hastings '24, chairman of the senior class play committee. As usual, the performance will be given in the open air theater if the weather permits.

The tryouts for the play will be held in Lathrop hall from 10 to 12 o'clock tomorrow morning and during Monday afternoon. For the benefit of those who wish to try out, nine copies of the play have been placed at the university desk of the library, and will be there all today and tomorrow afternoon.

"The aim of the committee," Hastings declared yesterday, "is to have the cast consist entirely of seniors, and consequently only seniors are eligible to try out."

"The play was selected because it seems particularly well adapted. The humor in the work falls thick and fast throughout," he said.

"Rollo's Wild Oat" has had long runs both in New York and Chicago.

Smith to Speak on America's Housing Problems Tonight

Prof. Leonard S. Smith of the city planning course in the College of Engineering will give a illustrated lecture on "America's Housing Problem" at 7:30 o'clock in 165 Bascom hall tonight.

This lecture should be of special interest to all econ and political science students as it deals with labor problems as well as the economic side of the housing question it was said.

H. C. Alberts '24, president of Philomathia states that the large turnover of American labor in the present day industry shows that America as a nation heretofore has given little attention to this important problem.

The lecture will be open to the public.

DAILY REPORTS OF ALL BADGER TEAMS

BALLMEN LEAVE FOR HARD GAME AT MINNEAPOLIS

Base Running Being Stressed; Gophers and Wisconsin Have Same Percentage

The varsity baseball team will leave this afternoon for Minneapolis where they play the Minnesota nine Saturday. It will be no easy matter to win the game, according to Coach Lowman. The Gophers have a good team this year, and they have an especially good pitching staff.

Yesterdays practice for the varsity consisted in hitting and fielding. There was also a short scrimmage with the Frosh, which the regular nine won handily. The coach has been stressing base running. The men have shown up very poorly in this department of the game, especially in the Purdue and Beloit contests.

Team Hits Better

Hitting has shown a decided improvement, and it will take a good pitcher to stop the team. In the game against Beloit, Tangen, the third baseman, poled out a long homer. The other members of the team also hit to all corners of the lot.

The infield, with Steen, Goss, Ellingson, and Tangen, is now playing real ball and is tightening up. Few errors should be chalked up against these men if they keep on playing the way they have been in night practices.

Teams Are Tied

The Gophers this year have beaten Indiana and Iowa and have lost to Michigan. This gives them the same standing in the conference as has Wisconsin. The Badgers have defeated Purdue and Chicago and have lost to Illinois. This should make tomorrow's game doubly interesting.

Coach Lowman will carry a squad of 15 men and the manager. The men who are making the trip are Captain Aschenbrenner, Johnson, Christianson, Luther, Steen, Goss, Ellingson, Tangen, Skaife, Servatius, Emmanuel, Dugan, and two others who will be picked today. One of these extra men will probably be one of the surplus catchers.

The man who will draw the pitching assignment has not as yet been picked. The coach thinks, however, that either Johnson and Christianson will start the game. He will use two men saving one of them for the Michigan game here Monday.

GREEK SWIM RELAY POSTPONED TO TUESDAY

The interfraternity relay swim meet has been postponed until next Tuesday night. Seven entries have already been received, and with the lowering of the entry fee to $3 is expected to bring in more applications.

Faculty Getting Prepared to Toss the Old Ringers

Barnyard golf for the faculty members is the latest development in the intramural department. Six courts will be laid out between the gym and Y. M. C. A. and will be ready for competition next week.

It is hoped that every faculty department, will enter a team in the league. A special trophy will go to the winning squad, so the pros will not be working in vain.

"Entries should be in by May 10," said Georg Berg, director of intramurals, yesterday. "Letters have been sent out with all the necessary data concerning the forming and entering of teams."

The "ancient and honorable game," as Berg terms it, will also be offered to the fraternities in the near future. The Phi Psi's are expected to place a formidable squad in the field when the fraternities begin action. Every day sees them practicing, along side of the special awning which has been provided for spectators.

CARDINAL SPORTS

ATHLETICS IN THE COLLEGIATE WORLD

Poughkeepsie

RALPH SCHUETZ

Schuetz, Badger crew captain, is working hard with his men to get ready for the big Poughkeepsie regatta to be held on the Hudson. It will be a big trip for the oarsmen and they are out on the lake nearly every day getting in shape to make a good showing when they enter America's rowing classic.

FOOTBALL SQUAD PRACTICES PUNTS

First Scrimmage Held Wednesday; Slippery Field Retards Tackling Work

The spring football practice yesterday consisted chiefly in running down punts. The turnout was not as large as it should have been about 30 men reporting for practice the last two nights. Wednesday night the first scrimmage was held. It was a driving cold, drizzle and a slippery field. Fast turns were impossible and the backs lost their footing time and again when they tried to side-step or circle a tackler. The plays were mainly smashes through the line, or backs off tackle. The line-men ploughed through heavy mud all the time, and the whole squad was soon plastered with mud. The field was so heavy that Coach Ryan sent the men to the dressing room after a short, hard scrimmage.

Last night after getting warmed up by catching forward passes, a long practice in running down punts took up the afternoon. The field was very slippery from the Wednesday rain and sudden spills were frequent. The tackling was erratic due to lack of practice, and the men have a great deal of room for improvement in that. The majority of the men on the squad are in good condition.

Graduate women of the university are forming a swimming team to compete with other women's teams in the spring races, according to Sylva Meyer, grad. The women meet every Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the Lathrop pool, and will soon pick a final team to represent them.

Frosh Baseball Squad Rapidly Becoming Well-oiled Machine

Since Coach "Doc" Combacker has cut down the frosh baseball squad, the men are fast rounding into a formidable bunch of pastimers. The yearlings are able to give the Varsity nine a real battle in the nightly practice sessions.

Among the men working under Coach Combacker are several lads who have had considerable previous experience on prep school diamonds. "Joe" Wrend, diminutive second baseman is the only local talent on the frosh nine. He gained his previous knowledge of the great American game playing amateur ball on the Madison sandlots in his kid days. "Jim" Hawley, playing in the frosh outfield picked up his tricks of the trade playing on the Wayland academy team of Beaver Dam.

"Bob" Pabst rangy first sack-man, hails from Oconomowoc and in his younger days played a fast brand of ball for the Middlesex prep school of Massachusetts. Garrett, teammate of Hawley in the outer gardens was an important cog in the La Crosse high nines. Barnum and Foucek, both playing behind the log, starred for Evansville and Hyde Park schools respectively.

Timlin, frosh pitching ace, hails from Bieberstein's home town while Edwards and Franta, other star frosh twirlers come from Platteville and Newulm, Minnesota. Martell, of Two Rivers, Ruf of Green Bay, Tyle of Chicago, Bachuber of Bayville, Williams of Cleveland, Ohio, Teich of Milwaukee, Donagan of Janesville, Jensen of Green Bay and Novotny of Oshkosh are all dependable men on Combacker's crew.

Venetian Night Workers Out After State Tennis Entries

Varsity Court Men Consent to Referee Matches; Expect Many Entries

Over 400 high schools have been sent letters by Orin S. Wernecke '26 and his committee, who are in charge of the tennis tournament to be held in connection with the thirteenth interscholastic track meet and Venetian night to be held May 31.

It is expected that over 80 high schools from all over the state will place entries in the biggest tennis tournament that has ever been held.

For the first time since the tennis tournaments have been held in connection with the interscholastic meet, the tennis courts will be reserved for practice for the high school men. This will enable them to get acquainted with the courts here and put the final touch on their practicing.

Starting this week, the courts of the university will be given special care until the time of the tournament to insure the contestants the best facilities possible when they contest for honors.

All the Varsity tennis men have consented to act as referees for the matches this year. As the Western Conference tournament will be held a week previous at Chicago, the varsity men will be able to handle the refereeing of the matches and will aid in the perfection of smooth running conditions so that the matches can be played off according to schedule and on time.

"We hope to make this the biggest state high school tennis tournament ever held, and expect a large entry number from all over the state," Wernecke said last night.

The men who are working with Wernecke on the tournament and arrangements are James Vallee '26, Proctor Wright '27, Robert Guy '28, Charles Van Arnam '27, Frederick Foster '26, Eugene Hotchkiss '27 and John Robbins '26.

Paddock May Be Out of Olympiad With Injured Leg

A test race between Charles Paddock, the "world's fastest human" and Vic Hurley, a feature of the fifth annual University of Washington relay carnival at the stadium Saturday, was perhaps Paddock's last race, according to a statement issued by him last night on his arrival from Portland, Ore.

A strained muscle in Paddock's thigh sustained in last week's Drake relay meet may hinder him from representing America in the Olympiad and bar him from further competition.

"My leg is not coming along so well," Paddock stated, "I'm afraid, very much afraid, that my athletic career is doomed. It was an old injury and what doctors say about paralytic strokes often applies to leg injuries."

"I will give everything I have to beat my best mark for the 100-yard dash. If my leg holds I have a chance. If I have to go through the rest of my days nursing an injured leg, I quit first."

TRACKMEN REACH MINNESOTA CAMP PRIMED FOR MEET

Gophers Are Strong in Field Events; Cold Weather Has Hampered Badgers

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 9—In a dual meet at Northrup field here this afternoon, Wisconsin and Minnesota will compete in the annual track games of the two schools. Coaches Thomas E. Jones and Mead Burke and 27 tracksters arrived in Minneapolis early this morning over the Northwestern road.

The meet will be first dual meet of the outdoor season for Wisconsin, while Minnesota won easily from Ames by the large score of 80 to 46 last Saturday.

Minnesota has an exceptionally strong team this year, and several stars can be counted upon as sure point winners. Schjoll, who won both the javelin and discuss throw at the Drake relay games, at Des Moines, Iowa, on April 26, will participate in these events, while Gross, who won second place in the conference shot put, will enter the weight events.

Close Met Expected

While the Gophers appear to be well balanced in the field events, Martineau, Towler, and Mattice have made good marks in the hurdle races, and Campbell ranks as one of the best high jumpers in the Big Ten.

In the distance runs, Brown and McLaughlin will run for Minnesota, and Morrison, who finished the quarter-mile race against Ames in 51.9-10 seconds, will enter the 440-yard dash and the 880-yard dash.

"It will be a close met," declared Coach Thomas E. Jones, and Minnesota has some advantage in the field events and in the hurdle races. I cannot predict anything about the outcome of the meet today because the cold weather has hampered our outdoor training."

Hilberts In 440

Kenneth R. Kennedy '26, Herbert A. Flueck '25, Bert M. Hilberts '25, and Gilbert J. Smith '26, will run in the 440-yard dash, while Russell L. Perry '25; George A. Piper '25, and John C. Read will compete in the two-mile run.

Wisconsin will have a trio of good pole vaulters in Captain William Hamman '24, Elmer C. Krieger '25, and Norman D. Scott '24. Harry S. McAndrews '25, Herbert A. Flueck '25, and Gordon D. Lewis '25 will enter in the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes.

Minnesota has defeated Wisconsin only twice in a dual meet in the past 14 years, and while the Cardinal cinder path men appear weak in the hurdles and weight events, it is possible that they will pile up enough points in the track races to give them a margin over the Gophers.

TRACK MEET PROGRAM COMMITTEE NAMED

A committee headed by Albert Tucker '25, to handle the programs for the thirtieth interscholastic track meet to be held in connection with Venetian night, May 31, has been announced. The committee headed by Tucker is Earl Wheeler '25, Carleto Kelley '26, Wells Sherman '25, and Kenneth Eichfeld '26.

Beatrice Marks Elected as Head of Dolphin Club

Beatrice Marks '26, was elected president of the Dolphin Club for next year at the regular meeting in the tank room at Lathrop last night. The other officers elected were Elna Mygdal '26, vice president, Harriet Graham '26, secretary, and Beatrice Richardson '26, treasurer.

Entrance requirements for the club were voted less strict. The speed test was eliminated and instead it is necessary to gain a minor emblem upon two months membership in the club.

It was also decided to abolish the fall exhibition of the club, and to retain only the one in May.

NO FLOWERS

What has become of the Council of 40? If you are a freshman, you have probably never heard of it; if you are a sophomore, there may be some hazy recollection about it lurking in the dark recesses of your mind; if you are a junior, you know definitely that there has been such a thing on the campus but for the life of you you are unable to tell just what its functions were and of just whom it was composed; if you are a senior, you may or may not know all about it, but when you think of it you laugh quietly to yourself and shrug your shoulders.

Yes, there existed on this campus once upon a time an organization called the Council of 40. It was composed of the leaders in the various campus activities, (40 of them, there were supposed to be, although there were seldom that many). These leaders met every so often, discussed campus affairs and determined policies for running the institution.

Now at last the Council of 40 has frittered away—it is dead, defunct and almost forgotten. And good riddance. Since its decease the university has managed to wag along in pretty good fashion without its services.

No great uprising freed the campus of the Council of 40. It died a very natural death, just passed away slowly into oblivion, and not a flower decked its grave.

There are a number of other non-essential organizations on the campus similar to the Council of 40 which would do well to follow its excellent example.

ACADEMIC RELATIONSHIPS

The admonition to use one's head is one of the tritest and commonest of expressions, and also, one of the least heeded. Particularly is this the case with students in regard to their studies. As was recently pointed out by a member of the educational staff, no effort is made on the part of many students to grasp the relationships of their studies to actualities as they themselves know them. Students are prone to look upon books as just mere books whose contents are to be memorized only in case an Ex in the course is desired. They look upon lectures as so many hours spent in preparation for such and such an exam, and never stop to consider that the background of ideas they derive from the course and the application of those ideas to their own individual lives is the essential thing about the lecture course.

The average student taking a course in chemistry and another in physics treats them as two different courses, puts the ideas to be obtained from them in separate compartments of his brain, and never once realizes how intimately bound together the two sciences are, much less treats them as a single part of a great whole. The English major, taking a course in psychology, never dreams that the extensive study of any language is nothing more or less than the study of psychology itself. To the English major, English is English, and psychology is psychology, and hence, they can never be the same. But they are the same nevertheless.

The brilliant student is he who sees the relationships between the various ideas with which he comes in contact, and further, actually makes use of the ideas he gains. Brilliance does not consist in an ability to memorize other men's ideas but the development of the habit of looking into ideas and their inter-relationship and forming judgments therefrom. In other words, the brilliant student is he who uses his head as an active and useful instrument and not as a dumping ground for anything presented to it.

The fact that President W. W. Campbell recently refused Alexander Meiklejohn permission to speak at the University of California on the grounds that "it is too near examination time and the students would be too busy to hear Dr. Meiklejohn" argues well for education. Meiklejohn spoke at Stanford and Mills when it was just as near examination time. And it has always been supposed that the University of California had long been the center of goose-step education in the state.

If all students were as ingenious as the two who saved themselves from being drowned in Mendota Tuesday morning there would be fewer catastrophes on the lake.

When a university student is killed or drowned the whole state, and indeed the whole country, throws up its hands in holy horror and doesn't cease to talk about it for months. But thousands can be killed every day in automobile accidents and not a single person except those directly involved flick an eyelash.

The young progressives very nearly weren't as out-and-out progressive as their titles would imply they are when they struck a deadlock in trying to decide to whom they should give their backing in the presidential race.

Truth, in spite of idealistic dissertations to the contrary, is a dangerous thing, unless it is treated with that care and respect which should be accorded to so powerful a force. It has infinite possibilities for good, but also for harm, and merely because a fact is true should not be taken as a proof of its eligibility for the press. Other considerations, such as journalistic ethics, the ultimate good of the public, and above all, common humanity, should also have due influence.

Truth, in the philosophic sense, should seldom be suppressed, for real truth is a beacon which all too rarely glimmers forth in our murky modern world. But truth, merely in the sense of fact, is as often at the root of the noxious yellow journalism which pollutes the press as it is at that of the worth-while news article. Partial truth pierced with a barbed insinuation, has ruined many a man, and not even the whole truth is warranted if it in no way concerns the public and can give it nothing of value. Public interest should be public property, and the guilty, and even the innocent, should, if necessary, be forced to suffer for the public good, but private affairs should be respected and suppressed if they in any way injure the persons connected with them. An editor should have as his standard something higher than a mere catering to the morbid human desire for sensation and scandal.

Partisanship as a basis for the suppression of political facts, unless they deal with corruption or graft, is quite a different problem. In theory the adherence of a paper to one political party is reprehensible as a limiting factor in its possibilities for public service, but in fact the American people are so inclined to decided party prejudices that a non-partisan paper is almost foredoomed to failure. The average person likes to be told what he already thinks, and because a paper adheres to one side of the political fence instead of poising precariously on the top is no proof that it cannot be of real service in moulding public opinion correctly.

Like any other policy, partisanship can be carried, and often is carried, to extremes in which indefensible juggling of facts results, but this is rather a product of the present downward trend of journalistic ethics than the fault of the system itself. While newspapers continue to be the recognized instruments of political parties, the best that can be expected of them is an honest exposure of any wrong which is of vital concern to the American public.—The Daily Californian

THINGS TO THINK ABOUT

Now there are two Social Science clubs and only one government.

We understand that two S. Nus were tried by Bosco (hall-tree) and that they put in a riot-call.

So the Stud. Senate must furnish permission for keys to be awarded?

What it really means is that Lew Cole is trying to get into Kappa Beta.

Six-year old kid brother Sam With plum jam filled his little tum. Now, is the boy plum full of jam, Or would you say jam full of plum.

She: I have the prettiest little niece.

He: Tut, tut.

COMMUNICATION

To The Editors of the Skyrockets:

Several comments have appeared in your column on "the plumbbers and knickers." I should like to take this opportunity to express by opinion of others. (Yes, I wear them) As I was walking up the hill yesterday, I received the usual blow of "fore." My one and greatest desire was then to raise the right hand to a near salute, extend the five fingers, and give them the "I'll raise you five."

"Teddy's"

(Eds. note. Police are working to determine the author of the above letter, as it is plainly an incitement to socialism and subversion of the divine principle that the scummy lawyers and the slip-sticklers are the sartorial dictators on this campus)

OOLONG

He is now managing editor of the Federated Press, an association for the dissemination of news among labor papers.

You will agree after hearing him, that Mr. Haessler has developed a tremendous passion against economic conquest—euphemistically called self-defense—a great passion to be able to bear what he has born. But you will perhaps not agree that a sufficient number of people can even be persuaded to refuse to kill; you may not even agree that war is undesirable. But Mr. Haessler represents a growing, vital opinion in every nation of the world which must be heard to be appreciated.

PRICE OF CANDY STILL SAME FOR ROMEO'S

Sad news for the campus Romeos. The rumored fall in the price of candy has been proven to be like all other rumors without foundation.

"There has been no cut in the price of quality goods in candy" says the manager of the Chocolate Shop. "Our trade and prices remain the same. We expect to sell a good deal of candy on Mother's day, and have the goods on display now."

At the Candy shop, the price of candy has not been lowered, and conforms to a carefully worked out standard.

VERHAEGE TO ACT IN FRENCH PLAY

Cast is Picked For "Le Malade Imaginaire" to Be Given Wednesday

Eugene Verhaege, grad, a native of Belgium, will play the lead of Argan in "Le Malade Imaginaire," the French play which is to be given by the French club next Wednesday in the Lathrop concert room. The cast is rehearsing daily under the direction of Professor E. M. Libert.

The cast follows: Argan, Eugene Verhaege, grad; Beline, Catherine Munn '25; Angelique, Adrienne Mecht '26; Louison, Elizabeth Cool; Berard, Valcav Strela '25; Cleante, Elton Hocking '25; Monsieur Purgon, Louis Malory '25; Diafoirus, fils, George Darby '24; Monsieur Diafoirus, Lawrence Ramsay '27; Monsieur Fleurant, Joseph Taussig '27; Monsieur de Bonnefoi, Herbert Morse '26; Toinette, Beatrice Wadleigh '25.

The story is that of a sick man who is mislead as to his condition by the quack doctors of the day. He wants to marry his daughter to a good-for-nothing whose father is a doctor, in order to get a doctor in the family. His plans are foiled by the skillful work of Toinette, his maid. The whole play is full of satire towards the medical profession of the seventeenth century.

LODGE IN NEW MOVE TO GET WORLD COURT

WASHINGTON — Establishment of a world court at The Hague, to which the U. S. would adhere, was proposed today in a resolution introduced by Sen. Lodge, chairman of the foreign relations committee.

For the purpose of creating the new tribunal President Coolidge would be "respectfully requested to propose the calling of the third Hague conference."

The resolution embodied a complete plan for the proposed court. It would be composed of 16 judges — four of them deputies — who would be selected by an electoral commission.

CLASSES WILL VISIT WAUPUN ON SATURDAY

Four classes in criminology and penology under the direction of J. L. Gillin, professor of sociology in the university, are going to Waupun prison Saturday to study conditions of the prisoners and to learn something of their way of living.

They will study the Waupun system of prison which employs the prisoners in workshops as contrasted to the Pennsylvania system which believes in solitary confinement for prisoners.

About 60 men and women are enrolled to go and they will leave the Library at 7 o'clock in order to get to the prison in time to go through before it closes work at noon.

Mother's Day Was Celebrated First in 1908 in Philadelphia

Mother's day was first celebrated May 10, 1908 in Philadelphia upon the suggestion of Anna Jarvis, a Philadelphia club woman, to set aside the second Sunday in May to the wearing of the carnation, the mother's symbol, in commemoration of the home influence. The red carnation is worn in remembrance of the living mother and the white one to honor the dead mother.

Public schools adopted the custom of paying tribute to the mother upon the inspiration of Martin D. Brumbaugh of Philadelphia who combined Mother's day with Peace day, May 18, 1918. The National Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Philadelphia had previously observed a similar custom by setting aside January 3, the birthday of Mary Thompson Hill Willard, mother of Frances E. Willard, founder of the Prohibition movement in America.

A recent editorial written by Miss Jarvis revealed the fact that she had had no intention of nationalizing the custom when she instituted Mother's Day in Philadelphia but had intended it only for Philadelphia. Time however, has set it down with the rest of our national holidays as an established custom.

You wear collar-attached shirts, of course. There is a lot of comfort in them and a lot of individuality, too. "What," you have said, "if they are a little messy? The other good qualities make up for the wrinkles."

But here is a shirt that is trim and smart and never mussed. Because it has the Van Heusen Collar attached. Just as comfortable as the old sort of collar-attached shirt — more so, some say — but with that trim, unbeatable Van Heusen look. It solves the college man's problem.

No bands or seams in the collar, no starch to irritate the neck. Cannot wilt. Faultless fit without a wrinkle — plus the Van Heusen — more comfortable than a soft collar, better looking than a stiff collar.

Only Foreign Phi Beta Initiate Has Adventurous Life

The only foreign student taken into Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society, at the annual initiation here last week was Miss Anna Stoffregen, of Riga, Latvia, a senior in the course in journalism who came to this country only four years ago, in February, 1920, entirely on her own resources perfected the English language and earned her own way through a university course which she will complete in June.

A life full of adventure has been hers. She was born in Riga, Latvia, 24 years ago. She attended school there, learning French and English, and speaking Russian and German at home. The outbreak of the war ended her regular school attendance, and she went to stay with relatives in Germany for two years.

In 1918, she went to Holland, to work as a translator for a periodical published in three languages.

Desire to travel led Miss Stoffregen to come to the United States and in February, 1920, she arrived in New York, knowing no one, but with a few introductions from friends in Holland. She obtained a position as translator for a Dutch importing firm.

Enthusiasm for travel led her later to accept an offer to go to Havana, Cuba, as translator, for three months. To see what American elections are like, she returned to the United States in the fall of 1920, enrolled in George Washington university and supported herself through one college year. Again she wanted to see more of the United States, and decided to enter a middle western university, choosing the University of Wisconsin.

FRENCH CAST WORKS ON COMEDY BY MOLIER

"Le Malade Imaginaire," the French play which is to be given May 14 at the Lathrop concert room under the auspices of the French department, is being rehearsed daily. Professor E. M. Lebert is coaching the play. Miss Helen Langer of the French department has charge of business arrangements.

There is considerable sentiment connected with Molier's writing of "Le Malade Imaginaire". He himself was a sick man and suffered at the hands of the ignorant doctors of the seventeenth century. In the play he directs most biting sarcasm at them.

Eugene Verhaege, grad, plays the part of Argan, the man sick in his imagination. Catherine Munn '25 is Beline, his unsympathetic wife. The lovely daughter is Adrienne Mecht '26. Comedy is supplied by Beatrice Wadleigh '25 as Toinette, the maid.

RACQUETMEN PLAY THREE MATCHES

Leave Today to Meet Chicago; Play Iowa Saturday, and Gophers Monday

The Varsity tennis team headed by Captain Art. Moulding left this morning at 7:35 to engage in a series of three conference matches. They will meet the Chicago netmen this afternoon at Chicago. Immediately after the games they will leave for Iowa where they will meet the Hawks Saturday. The team will have a short rest on Sunday before they tackle the strong Gopher team on Monday.

The men who will make the trip are Captain Moulding, Peter Sah, Frank Crane, and Lawrence Stebbins. There will be two doubles matches at each meet and each of the men will play in the singles. The pairings for the doubles are Capt. Moulding and Sah; Crane and Stebbins.

Little is known of the strength of the Maroons, Hawks, or Gophers but the men are optimistic and they are ready to beat them all. The rain and cold has hindered practice a bit, but the men are in good condition and they should give their opponents a good hard fight.

Bar on Japanese Delayed Until 1925

Republicans Decide

WASHINGTON, D. C. — An unexpected last minute change in the immigration bill which would postpone Japanese exclusion from July 1, 1924, until March 1, 1925, was agreed upon by senate and house conferees on Wednesday at the request of President Coolidge. The change was accomplished with swiftness after a short controversy among the conferees, which will be carried to the floors of house and senate just as soon as the report on the measure is brought up for consideration.

The conferees already had announced Wednesday night completion of the bill and had provided among other things for acceptance of the house provisions on exclusion, which would become effective next July 1.

Wednesday morning Senators Lodge and Reed of Pennsylvania and Rep. Albert Johnson of Washington, chairman of the house committee on immigration and naturalization, were called to the White House and after a conference with the president returned to the capitol, where Sen. Reed sent a hurried call for the other conferees. He informed them the president was disappointed with the provision as it was left in the bill and desired a change to allow time for the difficulty to be ironed out through the channels of diplomacy.

U. S. MURDER RATE CLIMBING—REPORT

NEW YORK — The American murder record continues in an upward direction and at least 10,000 murder cases a year are being recorded by the police, according to Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, noted statistician.

Among cities where the murder rate increased in 1923, he says were Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Columbus, Denver, Detroit, Erie, Indianapolis, Jacksonville, Los Angeles, Louisville, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Nashville, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Providence, Reading, Spokane, St. Louis, and Washington, D. C.

The one bright spot, Dr. Hoffman finds, is a steady decrease in the annual number of lynchings. He points to the fact that there were 255 lynchings in 1892 and but 33 in 1923 and notes that but 573 persons had been lynched in the past decade as compared with 736 in the previous decade.

At 6 she was an accomplished pickpocket. At 30 she was known throughout the world as a daring and successful criminal. She was implicated in the robbery of the Manhattan bank, New York.

After forsaking crime Mrs. Burke did welfare work among boys and girls accused of crime.

BAND PLAYS LAST INDOOR CONCERT

Enthusiastic Audience Calls
For Many Encores in Varied Program

The University concert band played its last indoor concert of the season to a crowded house in Music Hall last night. Prof. E. W. Morphy conducted the program.

Many encores were given in response to the enthusiastic reception of all numbers. Tchaikowsky's symphony "Andante Cantabile in E Minor," and a transcription from the "Sextette" from "Lucia" received long applause.

After the playing of "Marche Pontificale," by Lemmens, which was arranged from the organ score by Professor Morphy, two more encores had to be played before the audience would leave.

Other numbers were "Richelieu," Boisvert, "Chicago Tribune March" Chambers, "Sweet and Low," Barnby, and "Serenade" from "Les Milles d'Arlequin," Drigo.

Evening concerts on the campus will be given as soon as the weather is favorable for outdoor playing.

All-weather Road
From Madison to
La Crosse Promised

Construction of an all-weather road between Madison and La Crosse which carries the heavy traffic between Minneapolis and Madison will be finished next year, according to W. O. Hotchkiss, chairman of the Wisconsin highway commission, at a meeting in La Crosse Tuesday night.

"The difficulty in getting this highway has been one of financing," said Mr. Hotchkiss. "The poorer counties east of La Crosse would have a hard time paying for it alone, but the last legislature provided that money might be diverted from richer counties in order that trunk lines built with federal aid could be completed."

The cheapest plan for the highway, according to road men, would be to construct fourteen miles of hard surfaced road over stretches in the vicinity of Hustler on Highway No. 29. This would complete an all-weather road between the two cities, but on a longer route than Highway No. 33, which has 50 miles of hard surfaced road. This road also takes the driver through territory that has much beautiful scenery in the western part of the state.

Members of the state highway commission and the legislative highway committee who were present at the meeting included A. R. Hirst, state chief highway engineer; J. T. Donaghey, maintenance engineer; W. O. Hotchkiss, chairman of the highway commission; Sen. George Staudenmayer, of the legislative committee; Prof. F. E. Turneaure, dean of the engineering college at the university, and Thomas Reynolds, division engineer of the state highway commission.

R. R. OFFICIALS FOR PRESENT LAW

Esch-Cummins Law is Favored
By Local Operators in Charge

That railroad officials in the city of Madison are busy getting civic organizations in cities along the Madison division of the Northwestern road to adopt resolutions opposing any change in the Esch-Cummins law is the charge contained in a letter from Congressman Joseph D. Beck to The Capital Times today. Mr. Beck's letter follows.

"During February, I received from a friend of mine in Madison, a circular letter sent out by a Northwestern Railroad officer by the name of A. W. Bower, to all the depot agents along the Northwestern Railroad of the Madison Division, asking the agents to see to it that various Six O'Clock, Kiwanis, and other business men's clubs send resolutions to their congressman opposing any amendment to the Esch-Cummins law.

"With this letter was a mimeographed circular setting forth stereotyped reasons for such an appeal, together with a resolution to be adopted. Mr. Bower, of course, desired to save the business men's clubs the trouble of casting about for reasons and also the trouble of framing the resolution after the reasons had been found. So he furnished both.

"A few days later I received a resolution from the Kiwanis Club of Sparta, Wis. (preceded by several 'whereas', taken from the circular sent out by Mr. Bower) copied word for word from Mr. Bower's resolution, all of which opposed any amendments to the Esch-Cummins law. I could have guessed that most of the members of the Kiwanis Club of Sparta were opposed to amending this law, though I doubt very much if any of them can give any valid reason for it. Otherwise, why rely upon Mr. Bower to furnish reasons behind the resolution I received?

"I am fully aware that the members of the Kiwanis Club of Sparta are not the only people in Wisconsin opposed to amending the Esch-

TEAPOT SCANDAL COOLS, SPECTATORS SCARCE

WASHINGTON—In a committee room, destitute of spectators, the practical details of oil production on Teapot Dome and Elk Hill were described today for the Senate oil committee by H. Foster Bain, director of the bureau of mines.

Today for the first time the committee began its public session with no one present except members, witnesses and newspapermen.

Seven or eight oil wells have been drilled under the Doheny lease on the Elk Hill reserve, the director said, and have produced about 1,500,000 barrels. Most of them were offset wells. The actual average royalty paid by Doheny was 28 percent in December, he testified, and is now 26 percent. He said there had been no new drilling under the Doheny lease since the investigation began.

HAIR TONIC COMPANY UP FOR BOOZE FRAUD

NEW YORK—A federal grand jury before Judge Goddard today handed up an indictment charging 31 individuals and a corporation with conspiracy to violate the prohibition act and defraud the government out of liquor taxes in transactions in the west and middle west said to have aggregated more than $500,000.

Federal Atty. Lemon said the Benthei Manufacturing Corp. mentioned in the indictment and engaged in making hair tonic had sold more than $500,000 worth of alcohol to bootleggers in Chicago, Minneapolis and other western and middle western cities since October, 1921.

Democratic Convention To Have Soothing Music; Jazz Will Be Barred

With a smile you stole my heart from me — in Ar-e-a-dy. —

Joe Basile Will Keep

Humor With Brass

"Arcady"

New York City.—The Democratic National Chairman and his imposing colleagues may decide who our next President will be, but Joe Basile, musical director of the convention, will have what he asserts is a still more difficult job—that of keeping the delegates in good humor, so that when Mr. Right is proposed his name will go through.

One way he's not going to do it is with jazz.

"You can bet your life I am not going to give them jazz at that convention," Mr. Basile declared. "They will have the most soothing music that can be found, and it will all be played by a good old-fashioned brass band.

"No pulse raising saxophones or feet tickling banjos will be used. Tunes like 'Arcady,' a ballad written by Al Jolson, will put them in a thoughtful, judicial frame of mind.

"Those delegates will need their nerves slowed down, and the music will do that better than anything else."

PRINCETON, Wis.—On Friday the oratorical contest for the northeastern district of Wisconsin was held at West De Pere. The Princeton High School was represented by Philip Lehner, Jr., who was awarded first place. He spoke on "A Nation's Struggle for Life."

The Princeton school made a strong showing in public speaking this year, having two winners in oratory in the league contest and its two representatives in the girls' declamatory contest having tied for first. In the subdistrict contest at Wrightstown, Philip Lehner, Jr. won first in oratory.

Philip Lehner, Jr., has represented the Princeton High School in oratorical contests during his four year career participating in 17 contests, winning first place in 12 and second in one.

The Princeton winner now goes to Madison to represent the northeastern district in the state contest to be held at the University on May 29th. He has also been invited by Lawrence College to participate in the Lawrence College scholarship contest on May 21st.

Philip Lehner, Jr., is 17 years of age and is a Senior in the Princeton High School.

Professor Speaks For New Method at Extension Association Meeting

Radio is certain to take a leading role in extension work of universities in the future, Prof. W. H. Lighty of the Extension Division declared yesterday in speaking before the ninth annual convention of the National University Extension association at the Extension building.

Professor Lighty expressed opposition to licenses for the operation of radio sets and also to the proposed taxes upon radio apparatus.

Dean L. E. Reber of the Extension division outlined the growth of extension work, declaring this branch has now become an important part of the work of the leading universities of the nation. Dean Reber took issue with a few universities which question the advisability of giving university credit courses by correspondence.

"The White Sister" at Parkway Used to Gain Funds For Cottage

In order to raise appropriate funds to insure the erection of the W. A. A. cottage on Lake Mendota by homecoming time, a benefit theater party is planned by members of the association to be held next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Parkway theater. "The White Sister" will be presented.

Approximately 2,000 tickets will be disposed of by a general committee in charge, headed by Alberta Johnson '25, Marian Strong '24, Marian Bigelow '26, Margaret Hoover '26, Lillian Piehl '26, Beatrice Marks '26, Frances Tipple '26. Tickets may be procured from members of W. A. A. for 40 cents each. They will be placed on open sale in Lathrop hall and on the hill Monday.

Complete plans for the cottage have been finished, and construction will commence as soon as $2700 of the necessary $3600 have been raised. Two-thirds of the quota has been solicited up to date, and every effort will be made to begin work on the cottage directly after the benefit, provided the funds are available, according to Esther G. WHAT HAPPENS AFTER DEATH IS THEME OF PLAY

BY N. M. J.

What comes after death? That is the theme of the only mystery play in New York at present, and it is said to be the strangest and most absorbing play of the whole mystery school. It is in its final week on Broadway and reports state that it will probably be in Chicago soon.

"Outward Bound," with neither light, nor charts, nor captain, nor crew, seven world-worn souls find themselves sailing an unknown sea to an unknown destination.

Whither bound? Why are they there? No one seems to know. On board are a youth who has drunk himself to death, a young rector who has treated his fellow men with the cold calculation of an adding machine, a haughty woman, proud of her social position, and an old embittered charwoman, a business sharper, and two inseparable lovers, called "Half-ways" because they have committed suicide.

Gradually they begin to suspect what they are and where they are going. Grubby, the steward, the only person who might possibly be in command tells them that he is a "half-way," too, a suicide, on his five-thousandth voyage. He will never be allowed to land; he will sail on forever like the unclaimed souls on the banks of the Styx.

They are all dead.

The dyspeptic becomes wildly excited, the young clergyman fearful, the lovers unhappy for fear they will be torn apart. The haughty woman is indifferent. The business crook wants to organize against the coming examiner.

But when the examiner comes, each looks out for himself. All are sent to various destinations—some for punishment—some for reward, except the two "half-ways" who may have to sail into the darkness forever. They pray for another chance on earth, and some hope is given them as the ship slips on and on into the unknown.

A strange play, a sad play, a wistful, hopeful play, it has been welcomed as a departure from the "Bat" type of mystery.

"CYTHEREA" IS ONLY AN ORDINARY PICTURE

BY CHATTY

After having enjoyed Joseph Hergesheimer's "Wild Oranges" which played at the Strand last week we were tremendously disappointed in his "Cyttherea" which was given a special show last night at the same theater. The book by the same name is supposed to have an unsavory reputation and the picture was expected to cause a deal of excitement among the censors. But if the book is no different from the picture. It's certainly nothing to get excited over. It may play here sometime in the future.

The picture's extremely ordinary. You've seen the same thing 20 or 30 times before and you'll probably see it 20 or 30 times more if you keep on going to the movies. It is bereft of all of Hergesheimer's natural sparkle and becomes nothing more than a silly triangle affair (with a slight tendency toward being a quadrangle affair).

We have a natural failing for Lewis Stone, but it's built on his work in "The Prisoner of Zenda" and he's not up to snuff here. Alma Rubens, it must be said, does well.

All in all the Goldwyn people haven't done anything extraordinary.

"Hitchy Koo" is at the Parkway this week end in the famous play of Chicago and New York, "The Old Soak." Friends of Howy Kerr are trying to arrange an interview for him with the leading man—brother to brother as it were.

Changes His Role

Raymond Hitchcock

Instead of going into musical comedy from legitimate, as many actors do, this popular actor is going from musical comedy into legitimate. Many people found it hard to believe that Raymond Hitchcock is the one and only Raymond of Hitchy Koo fame, was really and truly playing the Old Soak in the piece of that name. But he is, strange as it may seem.

The play's by Don Marquis, famous himself for many reasons, for years the work can be nicely coordinated with the theater activities in the union.

"Rollo's Wild Oat" is being considered for the senior play, according to Larry Hastings. Sid Thorson thinks that the name will attract a lot of people and will draw a big crowd.

his poetry and prose and his column in one of New York's papers. The play's about just what you think it must be about judging from the title, an old soak—a ne'er-do-well drunkard. And it's an even bet that Raymond Hitchcock, with his rough voice and bearing, does well in the title role.

Well, what's this all about? Merely that Raymond Hitchcock is coming to the Parkway tonight in the "Old Soak". He'll play here tomorrow afternoon and night too.

Just because the evenings outside are so appealing and not one wants to sit in a stuffy theater, some of the best pictures of the season arrive in town such as "The White Sister" and "If Winter Comes."

Some little competition seems to developing on the Dorothy La Verne play contest. Several mem-

MELODRAMAS IS FEATURED THIS WEEK IN SHOWS

BY H. E. R.

The best list of features for the year will be presented at Madison theaters next week. The list is composed of melodramas and dramas that find few equals, and the casts are excellent.

The Strand will present "Why Men Leave Home," with Lewis Stone, Helen Chadwick, and Mary Carr the first half of the week. Censors notice that this picture shows wives and sweethearts how to find and keep love. The last half of the week brings an excellent Cosmopolitan production with a poor name, "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model." This picture features a cast containing Lew Cody, Claire Windsor, Mae Busch, and Hobart Bosworth.

The incomparable Lillian Gish will be presented at the Parkway all next week in "The White Sister." This picture taken in Italy is considered one of the years screen classics, and undoubtedly is.

Still more startling is the cast of "Rupert of Hentzau," sequel to "The Prisoner of Zenda," which will be shown at the Madison next week. Elaine Hammerstein, Marjorie Daw, Claire Windsor, Gertrude Astor, Lew Cody, Bert Lytell, Nigel de Brullier, Adolphe Menjou, Bryant Washburn, and Hobart Bosworth are a few of the notables appearing in this play.

"The Midnight Alarm," with Percy Marmont, Alice Calhoun, and Cullen Landis will make the trip through the Capitol profitable the first part of the week to the Majestic, and the latter half of the week, "Loyal Lives," a picture centered around our postal service will entertain us. Faire Binney, William Collier Jr., Mary Carr, and Brandon Tynan will be the cast in this feature.

To top this fine program of shows, the Dorothy Laverne Players will enact one of the greatest mystery plays ever shown, "The Cat and the Canary," at the Orpheum next week.

MADISON TURNVEREIN PRESENTS VAUDEVILLE

Madison Turnverein will present a vaudeville show at 8:15 tonight in Turner hall. The program includes acrobatic, music and dancing numbers. "Cutting a Woman in Half" will be a special act by Count Armbrasshing. Movies and a one act comedy will also be given.

New Union Bound to Boost Wisconsin Spirit in Athletics

1—Eddie Aschenbrenner, captain of the baseball team, reports that "See you at the Union" is a common phrase on the lips of Michigan men—and especially after baseball and football games. So, too, here at Wisconsin. After the Homecoming game fathers and sons, alumni and students, will gather in the lounge of the Memorial Union to talk it all over. That will put the finishing touch on a wonderful day—to have everyone meet again in the union for a song, a yarn or a speech.

2—Can we improve our accommodations and entertainment of visiting high school athletes with the union? Without a doubt, we can. In the Union we can give them a bed, meals at tables with hundreds of students, talks after dinner by our coaches and professors—and we can show them the center of activity and the home of Wisconsin tradition in the union. It is beyond dispute that Michigan's union has been a strong factor in bringing good athletes there, and keeping them there.

3—At one time at Wisconsin, there was a fine old custom of receiving other conference teams who came here to play, with a demonstration by the student body. With the growth of the student body that custom has been lost with many others, but it may come back, and the union will help in the job. At the union, the students can gather to receive the teams; there they can sleep and eat, and take back to their schools, the story of Wisconsin and its spirit.

4—Coach Jack Ryan made the startling statement at an alumni meeting in Beloit last fall that he had lost five or six promising freshmen athletes who went home because they were lonesome. A good many of the people we lose each fall simply don't fit, and it is possible that their failure to find friends and take up life in the ordinary way, is the cause of much scholastic difficulty. It's a matter of giving every man a fair chance at the game.

5—The spirit which surrounds athletes, and gives college football its unique interest, is bred in the union building. The successful cheering, singing and support of teams comes through common acquaintanceships and interests as developed in this way. The union will tone up the whole life of the institution and it will help Wisconsin keep her place among leaders of athletics in the West.

6—Successful athletics are inevitably tied up with a strong and vital support of teams by a unified student body, and this can come again to Wisconsin, only with the UNION. Seniors as alumni will want winning teams at Wisconsin—help to produce them through the union!

ESTHER BILSTAD '24—I'm going to teach Latin and ancient history in Sparta, as well as taking over the girl's athletics. The Union should help men's athletics, and it will certainly help the women by letting them use Lathrop.

Gibson Says

DOUG GIBSON '24—I expect to attend a medical school but I haven't decided which one yet. I think that the Memorial Union will do much for Wisconsin in an athletic way because visiting athletes are bound to be favorably impressed by such a fine building and by the school that builds it.

Echoes From the Presidential Suite

It's pretty hard to fool a successful business man such as Ned Jordan, so when he picked the class of '24, as a winner we can, with all due modesty, feel quite puffed up.

Jordan's letter has demonstrated that the alumni body are watching the class activities. A successful drive will mean much to the further knitting of alumni-undergrad relationships.

Of course, we would all like to see the dirt fly but what's the use of digging a hole if you haven't decided just what you want to put into it.

The class of 1924 must head the list of 100 per cent classes when the roll is inscribed on the membership log in Memorial hall.
