FOR SWEET CHARITY

ATTIC ANGEL'S ANNUAL BALL A GREAT SUCCESS.

Magnificent Decorations Transform Gymnasium Into a Scene of Beauty—Some of Those Present.

The Attic Angel's held their annual society event at the gymnasium last evening "for sweet charity's sake." The function was most brilliant and enjoyable and its fair promoters are again to be congratulated on the successful outcome of another commendable venture. Although the attendance was not so large as last year by almost a fourth, this but added to the enjoyment by lessening the crowding of dancers upon the floor. Last year the hall was crowded to such an extent that dancing was almost an impossibility. The student attendance, in particular, was small compared to last year, and it seems that the collegians are saving themselves for the junior prom. Quite a number of spectators enjoyed the ball from the balcony, where the dancing below and the lights above, with their color reflections from the surrounding yellow, could be seen to the greatest advantage. From the boxes on the west and north sides many also found pleasure in watching the happy gathering.

The gymnasium was beautifully decorated for the event. The main floor, where the dancing took place, was converted into a great tent-shaped room, walled by folds of soft white cloth, which had been gracefully draped from high up in the center to the floor on either side. At the ends a somewhat similar arrangement was presented. Directly at the center, and a few feet below the canopy of white, a suspended wheel of flowers and leaves formed the nucleus for innumerable chains of yellow pumpkin flowers, closely copied after the real blossom. These intertwined with others starting from like points, and the whole formed an endless profusion which swept the room from end to end. The orchestra was stationed on a raised platform at the east side of the room. Above the yellow and orange with which the stand was buried rose a row of palms and white chrysanthemums. Opposite the orchestra, and also on the north side, were the boxes, decorated in a similar manner. Down in the armory, where supper was served, the same color scheme was adopted, except that bands of red chrysanthemums took the place of the pumpkin flowers. These were used to drape back the white covering against the walls. Numerous little tables seating four persons were scattered about the room, and on these the supper was served.

The reception committee was composed of Mrs. Burr W. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Proudfoot and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hanks. They stood at the right of the entrance to receive the guests, and Prof. Julius E. Olson had charge of the introductions. A short concert preceded the dancing which immediately followed, the usual grand march being omitted. Nitschke's orchestra of twenty-four pieces furnished the music, one of the pieces, No. 9, being written by Prof. Nitschke last year and dedicated to the Attic Angels, entitled Love and Charity.

Altogether the ball was one of the most beautiful functions Madison has ever witnessed.

The gowns were unusually hand some and elaborate and the decorations were the best ever seen in the gymnasium. The Attic Angels' colors, white and yellow, made a contrast which was both pleasing and vivid, and the hundreds of artificial pumpkin flowers stood out against the white background with a brilliancy that could hardly be surpassed. Financially the affair was also a success and the receipts were $800 as against $1,100 of a year ago. The Attic Angels will clear nearly half of this amount with which to further their gracious work.

Supper was served in the gun room below, and was found not to be the least of the many enjoyable features. Beginning at 11 o'clock the dancers began to flock down by twos and fours until the tables were filled. The decorations in this room were second only to those in the big room above, and came in for much favorable comment. Among those present were:

A UNIVERSITY SONG

BADGER BOARD OFFERS A TEN DOLLAR PRIZE FOR ONE.

Competition Open to All—Students, Alumni and Members of the Faculty.

The Badger Board has decided to offer a prize of ten dollars for the best Wisconsin song submitted to the Board before January first. It is a deplorable fact that Wisconsin has no distinctive University song like the majority of the colleges. The only song that Wisconsin has which is different from other colleges is the Wisconsin toast, "Varsity." It is the intention of the 1902 Badger Board to publish if possible a Wisconsin song which will be suitable to be sung on all occasions.

It was first intended that both the words and music should be original but the Board decided later that if the words were suitable to some tune which is not too common to-day and which is suitable for a college song that they would be considered in the contest. The song should be such as will be suitable for all occasions, something similar to, "Fair Harvard" or "Old Nassau."

The contest is open to every one, alumni, professors and under-graduates alike, so that the best songs may be submitted. It is hoped that those who have any ability in this line will enter the contest so that the Board may have several songs from which to select.

The merits of the different songs will be decided upon by three competent judges to be appointed later. The Badger Board reserves the right to reject any of the songs if they are not considered good enough for University songs.

The songs may be sent to the chairman of the Literary Committee, Badger Board, at 630 Langdon street. No songs handed in after January 1 will be considered in the contest.

Houser-Jackman Engagement.

Last evening at the charity ball the engagement of Ralph W. Jackman to Miss Ethel Houser was announced by the interested parties. The announcement was the occasion of congratulations by the numerous friends of the popular young couple and formed a pleasant feature of the evening's enjoyment. Mr. Jackman is a Janesville boy, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, class of '97, and a graduate of Harvard Law School, class of 1900. Since completing his education he has located in Madison for the practice of law. Mr. Jackman is a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Walter L. Houser of Mondovi, Wis. She is a senior in the University and a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority. The young couple have a host of friends in the University who will wish them abundant success and happiness.

Irrigation and Increased Production was the subject of an address by Professor F. H. King of the Wisconsin agricultural experiment station before the national irrigation congress in Chicago yesterday.

Eight Minnesota men have been awarded the track "M" for their work on the track.

TO-DAY'S GAME.

Both Teams in Fine Shape—Capt. Hall's Statement.

The Illinois team arrived in town last evening and are stopping at the Park hotel. The party consisted of eighteen players, with trainers and coaches. The men are in fine condition, and confident of winning. Unless the snow puts the field in bad shape they expect to be able to circle our ends for good gains. The team is light but fast, and should the ground be slippery, the superior weight of the badgers will tell on their opponents. Wisconsin, on the other hand is equally confident of winning and hopes to make a larger score against them than the gophers did a few weeks earlier in the season. The game will be called promptly at 2 o'clock.

What Captain Hall Thinks.

Our men are all in fair condition and get into the plays well. We will go into the game hard and do our best to win. If there is much snow so as to make the ground slippery our men will be considerably handicapped, as they average much lighter than the badgers. No, I do not care to prophesy as to the result.

CREW AFFAIRS.

Fall Work Has Stopped—Freshman Race Off.

The crew men have stopped fall training and the race between the two freshman eights has had to be declared off on account of the bad weather. Coach O'Dea is well satisfied with the fall work as the crews have accomplished more than usual in the fall. The men have responded well to the work and this is the first year that a 'varsity crew has rowed to any extent during the fall. The men will not be given any regular indoor work this winter until January. The rowing machine will probably not be used this year as Coach O'Dea thinks that more can be accomplished by tank work.

The launch "John Day" has been drawn up on the shore near the boat-house and has been covered for the winter.

Leave for Janesville.

Over fifty enthusiastic Y. M. C. A. men left last evening to attend the state Y. M. C. A. convention at Janesville. All colleges in Wisconsin will be represented, Wisconsin having the largest number. Among those representatives besides the University are Beloit, Ripon, and Lawrence.

The meetings started Thursday and will continue until Sunday evening. On Saturday evening a college men's supper will be held which will be a most enjoyable affair as it brings men of different colleges in touch with each other.

On Saturday afternoon a conference of college men will be held and led by G. S. Phelps, the secretary of the local branch.

A union young people's meeting on Sunday evening will also be led by Secretary Phelps. Active efforts will be made to push the work for the men's Y. M. C. A. building in this city.

Our Growth.

From year to year the enrollment of the University continues to steadily increase. This year we have an increase of one hundred and forty, as many as numberless small colleges throughout the country have in their entire enrollment. It is safe to say that the growth of the University can be checked by only one factor and that is means and accommodations. This cramping is felt to its greatest extent in the agricultural school where more have to be turned away every year than there is actual room to admit. Perhaps no other department of the University has a greater influence in the maintenance of its general prestige than this one of agriculture and dairying. It is one that strikes directly home to the people in a way that the more academic departments do not and cannot. It is a living witness of the fact that the benefits of a state University are sure and direct. This increase in general attendance is perhaps, partially due to the general prosperity of the country, which always redounds to the benefit of the higher institutions of learning, but it is in general an indication of the steady growth which this University is undergoing.

Attention is called to the offer by the 1902 Badger Board of a prize for a University song. It should meet with liberal responses.

MOSAIC FLOOR DESIGNS.

Explanation of Marks in New Library Building.

It may be of interest to those who pass through the lower hall of the new library, to learn the explanation of the mosaic designs on the floor. The designs are early printers marks. On entering at the State street entrance, the first design is that of the Aldine family of Venice in the years 1494-1598. The design is that of a dragon encircling an anchor with the word Aldus. The next design is that of Melchior Lotter of Leipzig, 1491-1536. The word "Lotter" is equivalent to our English "Vagabond," and the mark consists of the form of a mendicant in a half suppliant posture holding before him a shield with the monogram M. L.

The printer's mark of William Caxton occupies the central point of the hall-floor. The design is "s. W. 74 C. c." The date doubtless refers to some landmark in the life of the printer. The small letters s. c. outside the W. 74 C. are possibly an abbreviation of the words Sancta Colonia, which may indicate that it was at Cologne that the before mentioned notable event occurred.

The design in the hall at the west entrance is the mark of the Houghton, Mifflin Co. The design is a boy piping beneath a tree, beside a stream on which he has just launched a burning lamp. The motto is "Tout Bien on Rien." It was designed by Elihu Vedder to accompany his illustrations of Omar Khayyam.

The design to the north of Caxton's mark is that of Jehan Frellon of Lyons during the year 1540-1550. It consists of a crab and a butterfly with the word "Natura."

The mark at the north entrance is that of the Elzevir family of Amsterdam in the years 1583-1680. The Elzevirs used four distinct marks. This is the second, adopted by Isaac Elzevir in 1620. It was in constant use up to 1712, long after the Elzevirs had ceased to print. The design consists of an alm, around the trunk of which a vine bearing a bunch of grapes is twined. Beside the tree stands a sage. The motto is "Non Solus." The explanation may be summed up in the one word "Concord." The solitary individual is symbolical of the preference of the wise for solitude.

The registration at the University of Illinois this year is 2,500.

Pinckney street.

A great many students are finding that a typewriter is almost a necessity. When we remember that one can get through with from three to ten times as much work on a typewriter as with a pen it does not seem strange that they are coming into almost universal use.

The Madison Cycle Co. at 113 State street rents all makes at very reasonable rates and also carries a full line of typewriter supplies.
