WESTERN TRIP TO COMPLETE DEBATE WORK

Plan Contests in Arizona and Oregon; Announce
Team Friday

Wisconsin debaters will get their reward for meritorious work this season in the form of a Western coast trip to debate the University of Arizona, at Tucson, and Reed College, at Portland, Oregon.

Arrangements for the debaters have been made by the Forensic board and the tentative dates set for the contests are May 27 at Tucson, and May 30, at Portland. All that is now necessary for the completion of negotiations is the sanction of the Students' Life and Interests committee.

A Western trip of this nature was decided upon early in the debate season this year, the team to be chosen from among the regular intercollegiate debate squad, according to the showing made by the men in the regular debates.

The list of eligibles, by reason of their participation in intercollegiate debates this year, is as follows: B. W. Allin '21, C. D. Asovsky '21, Ralph Axley '23, Melbourne Berman '22, Lawrence W. Hall '20, Arthur C. Inman '23, Halsey F. Kraege '22, I. Arnold Perstein '21, Martin R. Kriewaldt '22, Thomas Amlie '21, Sterling H. Tracy '22, Wayne Morse '23.

Eight Day Trip

The trip as planned will take eight days. The team will leave Madison on the morning of May 25, arriving in Tucson Friday morning, May 27, in time for a debate that night. The contest with Reed College is scheduled for Memorial day and according to information from

MENORAH MEETS IN LATHROP HALL

The last and most important Menorah meeting of the year will take place at 7:30 tonight in Lathrop parlors. Following an interesting program of readings and musical selections officers for next year will be elected.

The annual Menorah banquet will occur this year at the Woman's building on May 21. It is planned to have Col. Abel Davis, veteran Illinois war hero, as the speaker of the evening. The banquet will also bring to Madison a large contingent of Menorah alumni and two or three officers of the national organization.

TAU BETA PI

Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, announces the election of the following juniors: E. G. Guillemin, L. E. Chase, C. A. Andree, T. B. Maxwell, H. C. Hubbard, W. D. Trueblood, J. S. Baker, M. K. Drewry, F. A. Buese, G. M. Wegner, Bjorn B. Bjornson, and R. L. Paulus.

THE WHIMSICAL TRAGEDY OF NAN IS PRESENTED IN ADMIRABLE MANNER

By WILLIAM M. SALE

The stage is darkened; the wild surge of the harvest tide of the Severn breaks on the shore; the voice of an old blind fiddler rings out answering the call heard only to his half-demented senses; and Nan, whose tragedy we have witnessed in her struggle to rise above the sordidness of her own little world pauses in a sudden flash of clear light, and then goes forth to find her death in the rising waters. Caught and held by this powerful sweep of events, one left the Curtin club play last evening feeling that an excellent piece of John Masefield's work had been presented most admirably. One felt that it was almost a rude interruption when the lights flashed up over the theater and the audience started to leave.

Not a pretty story, this tale of greed and selfishness and futility, but a tale of life in the Severn district of England in the early part of the nineteenth century, entirely human and plausible, and in its interplay of circumstances and character truly tragic. Nan, the role played by Mavis Chubb, is the most vital figure in the play. Miss Chubb gives an admirable and sympathetic study of the psychological development of a young girl attempting to rise above her environment. She is finely feminine in her filial devotion, her maternal longings and her depth of passion in the love scene. In her final emotional climax before she stabs her false lover, one feels that perhaps here she fails to work up sufficient genuine feeling to prompt such a deed, but any lack is forgotten in the splendid manner of her going forth to her death.

Poetic imagination this play has of a rare order often carried in vividly natural dialogue, but the work of Davis Edwards in the role of Gaffer Pearce, the blind, half-demented fiddler, introduces the highest note of poetry and pathos into a drama which, for some, presents a too frequent recourse to what is merely sordid, common, and actual. In the opening of the third act, Pearce appears at his best in telling Nan in his poignant way of the death and burial of his early love. The skill with which he handles these lines makes the old

Nine

Aware of the fact that the Badger baseball team will receive the crucial test of the season when they meet Illinois next Saturday, Coach Guy Lowman is working his men long and hard each day this week. The coming Illini game, the second home conference game of the season, will place the Wisconsin nine directly in line for the Big Ten title should Lowman's aggregation outdo the invaders. On the other hand, Illinois has as yet not met with defeat and seems the great favorite for the 1921 championship.

Urans are being made to accommodate a crowd even larger than turned out to open the season last Saturday. Officials of the athletic department estimated the attend-

EDWIN BOOTH INITIATES EIGHT

Eight men were initiated into Edwin Booth dramatic society at a banquet held last evening at the city Y. M. C. A. Five of them were pledged at the time of the troopers last fall, and three were elected in recognition of work done on the Varsity Movie.

The men elected from tryouts were Henry Rubel '23, Kenneth Fagg '23, Hickman Powell '23, Harold Benson '24, and Horace Wetmore '24; those chosen from the movie staff were Herbert Boning '23, production manager, John Bigler '21, assistant production manager, and Howard Stark '21, property man.

Paton McGilvary Is Found Dead

Captain Paton McGilvary '16, former university student and war hero, and the son of Prof. and Mrs. E. B. McGilvary, was found dead, with a bullet hole through his brain, in the rear of a garage in Boston, Mass., Tuesday morning.

No further information in regard to the death has been obtained by his parents, who have not yet received any official notice. Professor McGilvary left immediately for Boston to take charge of his son's body and bring it here for burial.

Paton McGilvary was born in Berkely, Cal., June 28, 1896, and came to Madison with his parents while yet a boy. He was educated in the Madison schools, entering the university in 1912 as a student in the college of electrical engineering.

Was Active Student

He participated in a variety of student activities throughout his university career. He was a member of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering society, and was vice president of Eta Nu, honorary society of the electrical engineering branch. In his sophomore year he was class treasurer and served on the Prom committee, as assistant chairman, in his junior year. He was a member of the student conference and later of the student senate. He also was a member of Delta Tau Delta, social fraternity. He graduated from the University in June, 1916, and left soon after to enter the service.

He became a member of the United States Flying service on the Italian front and when his body was found he was wearing the Golden Crown and Wing, an Italian decoration conferred upon him by King Emmanuel. He took part in many big raids during the war.

His father, Prof. E. B. McGilvary, is head of the philosophy department at the university, and his mother is at present an instructor in Romance languages. He was known intimately by a host of Madison people.

FIRST SHOW OF VARSITY MOVIE TODAY

Fuller Opera House Has
Student Production for Three-day Run

Today the Varsity movie makes its first showing to students and Madison people. With the first appearance in Madison at the Fuller theater the production begins a tour which will continue throughout the summer, not only in Wisconsin, but in all parts of the country.

Members of the production staff are relaxing after several days of concentrated work going over the film to make slight changes deemed advisable in the several trial showings of the film before staff members and motion picture authorities.

Six Reel Comedy

The production is a six reel comedy drama centering about the adventures of a young man who comes to Wisconsin to earn his way through school because his wealthy father refuses to tolerate his engagement with an Eastern society girl with vamping inclinations. How he comes to agree with his father regarding his first love affair and how he makes good at Wisconsin in several ways is all

LEGISLATURE ASKS TRACY TO DELIVER SPEECH AT SESSION

A joint resolution was introduced in the Assembly yesterday morning by Assemblyman F. H. Fowler requesting Sterling Tracy '22 to deliver his winning N. O. L. oration before a joint session of the legislature next Tuesday evening. The resolution was passed unanimously by the lower house and now goes to the Senate for concurrence. A copy of the resolution follows:

Whereas, Mr. Sterling H. Tracy, a junior in the University of Wisconsin, has won the Northern Oratorical League contest, recently held at Iowa City, Iowa, in competition with representatives from five other leading midwest universities; and

Whereas, The Northern Oratorical League contest ranks as the greatest intercollegiate forensic event in the United States; and

Whereas, Mr. Tracy is the fifth Wisconsin man who has won this honor in 42 years of competition, the first being Robert M. La Follette in 1879 (who spoke from the same platform as did Mr. Tracy); the others being Max Loeb in 1905, Charles Pearce in 1919, and Alvin

A Clever Comedy-drama in Six Reels

HERE we are, just sitting down to write a col of trash, and a gang of careless ones blow in to study the Art of Bunk, and of course, they insist that it must be studied out loud. All our insisting that it must be studied outside came to naught; four, husky voices were too much for ours. *

MUCH alarm and excitement was caused last evening by a Freshman who appeared to be in convulsions on the corner of State and Lake streets. However, an efficient investigation by the Student Senate and the fire department showed that he was only a novice at first semester Spanish, and had been so imprudent as to practice speaking it aloud where he could be seen. He will be tendered a severe reprimand by the faculty disciplinary committee. *

INTERESTING THINGS
Did you know that the daily menu of a two weeks old potato bug is one short look at a drop of dew, two and a half deep breaths, and a fairly long smell of a rotten potato (or two short smells of a good one)?

Also, that anything that takes place in the capitol is perfectly all right? Yes, it is on the square. Main hall is higher than Science hall, but Science hall is taller than Main hall. Let's hear you refute that.

IT has been observed, through the columns of a New York paper, that a magistrate, in pajamas, performed the marriage ceremony for two of the young people of that village. Thus it would appear as though they of the East are adopting the idea that has long prevailed in the West, the belief in early marriages. *

THE following joke, we heartily wish to assure you, is not taken from the Wisconsin Engineer. But we bet that they will wish we had given it to them for their book, don't you?

Prof: "What is steel wool?"
Stewed: "The fleece of a hydraulic ram."

"Why did you leave the show so soon?"

INTERSCHOLASTIC VISITORS TO SEE CANOE TOURNEY

All Students May Enter Competition to be Held Morning of May 28

Canoe tilting contests and canoe races for men and women which promise unique entertainment for interscholastic track meet visitors are being planned for the morning of the track meet Saturday, May 28, by the committee in charge, under the direction of Arthur Kinnan '22, chairman.

The canoe events will begin at 10 o'clock, and will be followed by the varsity crew races at 11. All high school men taking part in the track meet will watch the contests from boats along the race course. It will be Wisconsin's first canoe tournament since 1914.

The events of the tourney include men's singles, women's singles, men's doubles, women's doubles, and mixed doubles races of from 100 to 200 yards in length, and tilting contests and other special events for men.

The events are open to all university students, and those desiring to enter are asked to make arrangements with Gordon Wanzer '24, at 150 Iota court. Prizes will be awarded the winners.

Venetian Entries

All students wishing to enter floats, canoes, or power boats in the Venetian night parade are urged to send their requisitions in to Arthur Kinnan, 625 Mendota court, before Wednesday, May 18. On

VAIL CHOOSES CREW TO ROW IN DUAL MEET

Fast Eight to Compete With Lincoln Park Club

What will probably be the regular varsity crew lineup for the remainder of the season has been selected by Coach Harry Vail to row in the first dual meet with the Lincoln Park Boat club on Saturday, May 28. The eight men who have been chosen to represent Wisconsin in the meet with the Chicago squad are working out in the same shell every night and are fast gaining the co-ordination and form of a winning crew.

Although there has been no change in the personnel of the senior eight, a shift in positions has been made, placing Captain Arthur Samp '23 at the third oar and changing F. C. Prehn '23 from number three position to stroke. The lineup and positions of the men follow: G. O. Toepfer '21, bow; C. B. Puestow '23, 2; Capt. A. Samp '22, 3; P. J. Okerstrom '23, 4; A. J. Platten '23, 5; R. O. Klussendorf '23, 6; K. H. Fauerbach '23, 7; F. C. Prehn '23, stroke; E. V. Hanley '22, coxswain.

Row Fast Mile

In the mile time trial, this combination went the distance in 4 minutes 40 seconds, a time which compares well with marks hung up by former Wisconsin crews over the same course on Lake Mendota. The senior eight which is the lightest that has represented Wisconsin, averages 166 2-3 pounds per man. The junior crew, while heavier than the regulars, does not possess the endurance or speed of the first eight. Ineligibilities of second crew men have forced Coach Vail to change the personnel of the squad, and no definite choice of a senior squad to meet St. John's Military academy has been made.

The decision of the Athletic board to award "Ws" to varsity crew men has had a strong influence on the spirit of the candidates for varsity crew. Workouts of last week resulted in so much improvement of the men that Coach Vail declared their performance was better than the work of any of his previous crews.

Captain Hayes of the Lincoln Park Boat club has picked the following members of the club to row against the Wisconsin varsity crew: Louis Scherer, bow; M. Klinger, 2; N. C. Olsen, 3; Judd Calver, 4; M. C. Averbach, 5; A. Rehberger, 6; Larry Lineau, 7; E. T. Crozier, stroke; George Koehler, coxswain.

This lineup is practically the same as that of the Lincoln Park Boat club crew which won the western championships last year at the central states regatta.

RURAL PASTOR TO LECTURE ON WORK

Rev. C. M. McConnell of Lakeville, Ohio, will give an illustrated lecture tonight in the social room of Wesley hall. The subject of the lecture will be Mr. McConnell's experience as a rural pastor and especially his work at Lakeville. The meeting will include a conference of the faculty, graduates, city and country pastors, and state leaders in church work.

First to Propose Varsity Movie in 1914

LAWRENCE W. MURPHY '21

In the annals of the Varsity movie should be included the story of the original effort to put across a university movie. In 1914-15 Lawrence W. Murphy '21 conceived the idea of putting across such a production as has been filmed this year. Murphy was appointed to investigate matters for Edwin Booth and plans went so far that a special trip was made to Chicago to negotiate with professional companies. However, the rates charged were so high that the project had to be abandoned. Last spring Murphy again brought the matter up before Edwin Booth and was made chairman of the Edwin Booth movie to draw up plans and appoint a staff. He appointed Willlett Kempton as director with complete power over the production.

"Kempton deserves the credit for the movie," declared Murphy. "He took hold of it when there was nothing but a few scattered plans and has created a film that would have cost a professional company fully $50,000. If Kempton had not taken charge of the picture I am satisfied that it would not have been completed."

OPEN AIR CONCERT TO BE HELD MAY 12

The first open air concert by the University band will be given Thursday evening, May 12, from 6:30 till 7:15, on the campus adjoining Music hall. The Union board, which is sponsoring the concert, plans to have one each week, weather permitting, till the close of school.

"Walking a car track lugging a heavy instrument and dividing your energy between the road and the music, is not the best way to give a band concert," said Prof. E. W. Murphy, director of the band. "These twilight concerts will give every one a chance to hear the band at its best, and the whole university may take advantage of the concerts."

THE VARSITY MOVIE

After months of planning and hard work the varsity movie is ready to be shown. It is the first movie to be produced by the students of any university. This fact alone makes the production stand out as an achievement of importance.

University students play football, basketball, and baseball. They run, row, jump, and swim. They orate and debate. They edit newspapers and magazines. They present tragedies and musical comedies. Why should they not attempt flights into the regions of the silent drama?

Wisconsin has been aggressive enough to make the attempt. The collegiate stars have gone about their work with unbounded enthusiasm. They have been confident that their efforts will open a new field in university activity that will make for usefulness.

The work has not been without many difficulties. The whole venture was new to most of the participants. It was practically a case of learning the game as it went along. All the more are the players and the managers to be congratulated on their efforts to see it through.

There should be no question about the support due this initial enterprise. Every student should see the picture during its three-day appearance in Madison.

The motion picture is a power to be reckoned with in American life. It is still in the formative period. The standards are not all that many people think should prevail. Here the universities have an opportunity for timely service. It is altogether possible for the colleges to set a high standard of merit and decency which could elevate the tone of the entire motion picture industry.

At least it is worth trying.

Wisconsin greets her pioneers and wishes them well.

A MAGAZINE WITH A MISSION

The May issue of the Country Mag promises to be a record breaker. The features announced are of the highest order and portray one side of Wisconsin life that has been too much neglected.

This month the Country Mag promises to set forth the glories of Wisconsin Beautiful. It is strange that we who are on the spot often fail to appreciate the wonders of nature which surround us. The first thing that attracts the eye of a visitor to the campus is the marvelous scenic beauty here. Tourists come here from all corners of the earth to study our splendid endowments of nature.

It is a poor university training which does not equip students to appreciate the beautiful. We have but to look around us to learn and to appreciate.

The Country Mag is rendering a genuine service by keeping this aspect of our life before us. It should be a privilege to secure a copy of this issue and send it to some one who is unacquainted with Wisconsin Beautiful.

Last year a similar edition found its way all around the world and it excited universal admiration. This year there is a chance to multiply the benefits of such a publication.

Get a copy and pass it along. Meanwhile, get acquainted with some of the beauties all about us.

Y. W. CONFERENCE HELD IN AUGUST

Madison to Send 16 Women to Lake Geneva Meet

Approximately 700 girls from central colleges and universities will be represented at the annual central student conference which is to be held August 23 to Sept. 2 at Lake Geneva, under the auspices of the national board of Y. W. C. A. association. Madison's quota will include 16 students, with a possibility of an additional 4.

An alternate list will be kept in case any student is not able to go at the last moment. Applications may be left at the university Y. W. C. A. or given to Margaret Thomas '22, who is in charge of the delegation.

Everything that interests a college girl will take place; our entire schedule is planned," said Margaret Thomas. "Last year we had a wonderful time and met many interesting people. As many should register as possibly can."

The days of the conference will be devoted into class and recreational periods. Four morning hours will be given over to an open forum which will be planned entirely by the students. A series of addresses on "World Fellowship," "The God We Trust," as well as other important topics, will be delivered by prominent speakers.

Competitive games will hold a prominent part in the activities, as in former years. Wisconsin won first place in tennis and took secondary honors in swimming at the meeting last year. Hikes, songs, and stunts will occupy some of the time.

COMERFORD TO GIVE LABOR LECTURE

Frank Comerford of the American Constitutional League, speaking in the interests of organized labor, will lecture on "The Dangerous Days Ahead," at the university gymnasium on Thursday evening, May 12, at 8 o'clock. No admission is to be charged.

The lecture will deal with the activities of the I. W. W., syndicalism, and the tactics of leaders who share the view of William Z. Foster, steel strike leader who spoke in Madison recently.

Mr. Comerford has gained national repute as the legal representative of the country's largest labor organizations, and is conversant with both American and European labor affairs. He was special state's attorney in the trial of William Bross Lloyd and other communists.

The Social Science club is sponsoring the lecture.

Socialists

NEW YORK — The complete report of the joint legislative committee investigating seditious activities was made public Monday. A preliminary report was made to the legislature on April 20, 1920, and other findings of the committee were revealed during the hearings that led to the ousting of five Socialist assemblymen by the assembly last summer. New matter developed since that time is incorporated in the four volumes of one thousand pages each, now published.

The authors, popularly known as the "Lusk Committee," for the reason that the chairman was State Senator Clayton R. Lusk, conclude that revolutionary radicals have sought to further their aims through personal propaganda, directing their efforts chiefly toward college students, negroes, and union labor.

American colleges, it is charged, are honeycombed with avowed Socialist professors whose teachings are Bolshevik and subversive of democratic ideals and institutions.

TRAGEDY OF NAN IS PRESENTED IN ADMIRABLE MANNER

man's wanderings prophetic of Nan's own fate. He weaves this story with excellent technique into the fabric of the piece.

Some of the other characters seem to me a bit overdrawn as written by Masefield, but the work of the actors catches the spirit of the author admirably and their parts are presented most faithfully. Mrs. Pargetter, cared by Flora Filzer, is a woman of incredible meanness and selfishness, and Miss Filzer sustains this role with a penetrating interpretation of its possibilities. She is throughout a creature almost inhuman in her lack of sympathetic feeling. This is the third distinctively different role which Miss Filzer has taken within the last year. Margaret McCarthy, as Jennie Pargetter, her daughter, has few inspirational lines, but portrays faithfully her part as the weak echo of her scheming mother. She handles well the beguiling of Nan in the first act, where she betrays her into confidence. Here Miss McCarthy rises above her part, and makes Jennie an individual apart from her mother.

Jack Harding, in the role of the village Don Juan, Dick Gurvil, has one scene of distinction in which he makes known his love for Nan. He handles his part in the love affair of two people of the lower classes in a manner which prevents it from descending into the vulgar or commonplace, and uplifts it through a delicate strain of love which makes Nan feel as if her "heart was in flower." Somehow one catches a faint echo of Swinnerton's "Nocturne." Eugene Byrne, as William Pargetter, gives his part in an excellent spirit, and one feels that he time and again is reaching out to Nan with his love, yet is held in restraint by his wife's dominance.

O. J. Campbell and B. Q. Morgan made their parts vivid bits of characterization; and the remainder of the cast supplied the requisite color and action to the stage groupings. In the manner of stage setting and lighting effects, credit must be given to Frank Riley and W. H. Varnum, especially for the true English cottage interior, and the tremendous climactic effect produced as the curtain fell.

The direction of J. F. A. Pyre showed a complete appreciation of the poetic value of the play, as well as a feeling for its dramatic power. The play has set a high standard for a finished and well-rounded performance.

W. A. A. ANNOUNCES FIELD DAY PLANS

Field day, the annual pinnacle of women's athletics at the university, will take place on June 4, it was announced at the meeting of W. A. A. last night. The annual senior swingout will take place June 3 and will be followed that evening by the dance drama, which will be presented by Miss Margaret H'Doubler's classes. The Woman's Athletic association is directly instrumental in forwarding field day and the senior swingout.

Two small emblems were awarded last evening to Louise Fritsche '22 and Florence Huprich '23; pins were awarded to Alice Quale '21, worked up to a climax in an exciting iceboat race.

According to several heads of film concerns who went over the production, the picture is on par with professional work. S. S. Silverbberg of the American film company said, "I have given your film my personal attention and have found its photography, directing, locations, and acting to be in no way different from professional work."

Professional Work

J. C. Brady, president of the Metro films corporation, said in a recent letter to Edwin Booth club, "I am highly in favor of your production and believe it will be successful. You are developing talent in the motion picture business for which there is always room."

The picture has with one exception been entirely produced by students. The camera man, Gustavus Marquardt, is the only person on the staff who has had professional experience. By beginning immediately after the idea of an Edwin Booth movie was evolved a year ago to accumulate knowledge on motion picture production by writing to various motion picture companies and through other sources, the directors got together a store of knowledge which made it possible for them to go ahead in a professional manner.

The picture will be at the Fuller three days and students are asked to see the production as early as possible, so that attendance will be concentrated on Friday, the last day of showing. There are no reserved seats for the performance and the showing will be continuous.

EXHIBIT MOVIES OF GAS PROCESS

Three films showing research and manufacturing activities in the field of making poisonous gas and filling gas shells with the poisonous gas, at the 7dewood arsenal, just outside of Baltimore, will be shown in the Engineering auditorium Wednesday evening at 8 p. m., under the auspices of the department of chemistry.

In addition to the films showing the manufacture of poisonous gases, several films will be given showing the Du Pont Dye Works, which covers 16 square miles, the largest factory of its kind in the world. Prof. Joseph H. Mathews, director of the course in chemistry, pointed out that the reason for showing these films at this time is that the process of making dyes is so closely connected with the process of making poisonous gases that within a short time a dye factory can be turned into a factory for the manufacture of poisonous gases. Germany, during the recent war, did this, and turned her huge dye factories into poisonous gas factories. Most of the processes in the two fields are exactly the same.

Charlotte McEwan '21, and Leona Ruder '21. The seven new members initiated were: Pauline Newell '24, Irene Bradley '21, Edna Muehlberger '23, Elizabeth Schott '24, Thelma Roach '24, Maurine Hall '24, and Ruth Hoffman '22.

The next meeting of W. A. A. will be on May 24.

PICTORIAL SECTION OF BADGER SHOWS BEAUTY OF CAMPUS

Have you tried to describe the drive, picnic point, the view from the hill to the folks at home?—to those friends of yours who didn't come to Wisconsin? The Badger does it for you in its beautifully colored prints and half tones.

Looking through the picture section of the 1922 Badger is like going into a room full of windows each one of which frames a familiarly beautiful picture of campus loveliness.

By the use of the zinc plate in making the frame of the pictures and by the use of the soft half tone for the pictures themselves, the scenes have a depth and concentration that is unusually new in this section.

Another feature of the 1922 Badger is the new arrangement of senior pictures at the top and bottom of each page with the names and summaries in the middle. No longer will it be possible to ascribe the long list of activities after the names of the more prominent seniors to those who in this line have done little or nothing. Aside from the greater convenience of this arrangement, a more attractive appearance is also presented.

Harding Not Asking For Delay in Peace Move

WASHINGTON—President Harding is not asking for delay in the adoption by the house of a peace resolution, it was said Tuesday in high administration quarters, but because of the situation in Europe growing out of the reparations settlement he is not insisting that there should be any haste in putting the measure through.

BASEBALL SQUAD TO MEET ILLINOIS

ance for the Purdue games at 1,200 which plainly indicates that the mass of students are showing a decided interest in the national sport. The brand of ball offered the fans by the Badger team last week was sufficient to warrant excellent support in the future. Wisconsin, without a doubt, has one of the strongest and best balanced nines in the west. Walter Eckersall acknowledges this fact, and recently stated that the Badgers were the most dangerous with the bat in the Big Ten.

Illinois Unbeaten

The outcome of the recent conference games has given the locals more confidence concerning the coming tilt with the Illini. Before this past week-end Illinois has met with very little opposition, and critics were doping them to finish the season with 1,000 per cent. However, last Saturday they would have received a setback at the hands of Ohio State had it not been for a five run tally in the fifth inning. Ohio hurlers held the Illinois to seven hits, but five errors by the Buckeyes aided the scoring. "Lefty" Barnes, who it was expected would work against the Badgers here, was routed after three innings, during which time Ohio scored four runs.

The Illini, however, still remain at the top of the column with a 1,000 per cent average, and all western baseball enthusiasts are turning to Wisconsin to annex the first victory over them. Michigan also took another contest the past week, defeating the Maroons by the narrow margin of one run. The Wolverines are slightly in the lead of the Cardinal, but from the exhibition presented at Ann Arbor last Saturday, can scarcely be counted on to finish the season at the top. The Chicago-Michigan game was marked with ineffective pitching and poor fielding on the part of both teams. The Wolverines made nine errors.

Badgers Show Up Well

The Badgers' victory over Purdue was a surprise in that the Purple was not considered such an extremely weak contender. However, the game was one-sided from the start, Lowman's men outclassing their opponents in every department of the game. In Williams, Lyman, Farrington, and Ruediger, the Badgers have an inner-wall that seldom lets them slip through. The outfield is composed of heavy hitters, all of whom have come through with several hits in almost every game thus far.

Paddock, F. Williams, Hoffman, Christianson, and Pickford now compose the pitching staff, Miller having been forced to retire because of a poor arm. All five men may be used in conference competition, and be counted on to win games, with fair support at bat and in the field. Paddock and Williams are especially strong men, as has been shown by their work in early games and against Purdue last week. Hoffman has pitched some good ball, as has Christianson, who found little difficulty with the Northwestern team at Evanston.

Traveling Men to Help Advertise City

A traveling mens' division of the Association of Commerce has been initiated. There are more than 550 traveling men from Madison and each member of the division will carry a division membership card. From time to time a bulletin will be mailed to each member of the division calling his attention to facts and figures about Madison and giving him talking points about his city. The Association appreciates the asset which the city has in such a large group of traveling men and realizes the value of keeping them in touch with the city's development programs while on the road.

CHIC AND CHERRY LITTLE CHARMERS WHO ADORN ORPHEUM'S NEW BILL

THE MISSES MILDRED AND DOHERTY BROWNE

Folks, meet two members of the Browne family now at the Orpheum theater. They are two of the reasons why there's such a clamor around the box office window of the theater. Sufficient reason, too, we'll chirrup. Impressionable youths need not loiter around the stage door, either. Pa Browne, who is a stalwart chap with red hair, and Ma Browne are with the girls and besides there is Uncle Bothwell, who is as husky as a bridge builder, even if he disguises himself as a be-yutiful Egyptian princess and does snaky monkeyshines with a formidable snickernee in his hands. And besides, the Misses Browne don't care for "Johnnies." "Not interested in them a bit," says Dad. The Brownes have been part and parcel of the stage for several decades. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Browne as Browne and Camille, cornetists, were bill-toppers in their day. Mr. Browne directs the orchestra and Bothwell Browne, his brother, is the stage director of their revue. The girls, Mildred and Doherty, have grown up on the stage. Both have done "singles" in vaudeville, in which Doherty was known as "Little Dot." They are certainly an enticing pair and when they turn loose their batteries of smiles and their accordion tunes the proverbially chilly Madison audiences simply can't help showing signs of spring.

At The Theaters

AT THE STRAND

The picture which opened a four day engagement at the Strand theater today, aside from telling an exciting story, contains artistic scenes that are a rare delight. It is "The Right to Love," produced by George Fitzmaurice and featuring Mae Murray and David Powell, the same talented players who were in "On With the Dance."

Miss Murray is seen as Lady Falkland, wife of the British representative at Constantinople. He is a dissolute man, who has hired a Prince Stanislaus to compromise Lady Falkland. In this way Lord Falkland hopes to secure a divorce and marry his mistress, Lady Edith. Colonel Loring, an American, played by David Powell, strikes up a friendship with Lady Falkland and in a clash with her husband, and Prince Stanislaus, Loring kills Lord Falkland. By a twist of fate, he is acquitted in the subsequent trial.

The added attractions will be a Comedy cartoon and a Paramount magazine.

"The Truth About Husbands," the seven part First National special now at the Grand will close its engagement tonight. This picture marks the introduction to Madison screen fans of Miss May McAvoy. If her work in this picture is any criterion then this talented young lady will before very long be rated as one of the screen's most popular stars. She is certainly mighty easy to look at.

A picture of an entirely different type from "Truth About Husbands" will be presented at the Grand tomorrow. Mahlon Hamilton (Daddy Long Legs) and Sidney Ainsworth will be seen in "Half a Chance," a special production that will be shown as a benefit for the Boy Scouts. "If you are interested in the idea of service, making the world better for the common people, you can see the wonderful field there is for starting newspapers which are not the pawn of several interests, but in the service of the many," said William E. Evjue, editor of the Capital Times, in speaking to the University Press club at their regular bimonthly meeting last night.

Mr. Evjue pointed out the way in which the powerful interests in this country control the newspapers through their patronage. These big companies withhold advertisements until the editorial policies of the various papers conform to their ideas. Pressure is continually brought to bear on independent newspapers who are informed that it is to their business advantage to adopt the same policies as the big business forces. Mr. Evjue quoted Roger Babson, diagnostician for the big business interests in America, who said "War taught the employing class the value of propaganda. The employing class now owns the press." He then explained the need for reform and the big opportunity for constructive work in the field of journalism.

David Lacey '21 announced that the Press club picnic would be held at Monona park, May 24. Tickets are 50 cents and may be obtained from Edith Worthington '23, and Margaret Daly '23. All journalism students will be welcome.
