FOREWORD

If the 1924 Badger has succeeded in portraying a faithful delineation of the life of a great University—if it has expressed the strength of the Spirit of that life—if through the simplicity of its plan it has created for itself the right to live as a thing of beauty not for a generation but for the future, then it has fulfilled its mission.

THE FUTURE of the University of Wisconsin may be read in outline by all who know her past. Throughout the life of Wisconsin as a State the University has been in every sense of the word a "city set upon a hill" that can not he hid. Since the close of the pioneer period of state life the people of Wisconsin have steadily increased their demands upon the University and have as steadily enlarged her revenues to meet those demands. The coming years will bring with them a constantly growing load of duty and of responsibility, a load which her future strength will bear as easily as the labors of the present are performed. The reality of today is great beyond the limits of the faith which we possessed only a few years ago. So we look to the future, not indeed with an adequate faith but with a quiet assurance that the spirit which has risen to meet greater duties with full strength will continue to make the University a constantly richer source of guidance and inspiration to an ever Greater Wisconsin.

The Deans

IN SEPTEMBER, 1922, more than 2,700 Women enrolled at the University of Wisconsin. What do these throngs seek?

Doubtless each autumn will see a few arrive who earnestly seek nothing. They have drifted to college because others were going, and because fiction painted college as a rosy lotus-land, peopled with gay young companions. For these drifters, any college can only pray that they may have a swift repentance or a swift departure, before they have somewhat subdued the college to their own likeness.

But most of the Wisconsin women saw definite advantages in the pattern of student life here, and these advantages they endeavor to leave unspoiled as a heritage to their successors. They want to establish the tradition of out-of-door play time for every woman every day. They prize the rich opportunities which nature has provided for varied out-of-door pleasure, and what the University is adding to nature's gifts. They prize the buoyant comradeship of swinging along together around the lakes, or picnicking before the fire in the Field House after a radiant hour at hockey or tennis.

They prize also the democracy which in physical sports, or the finer mental contests, gives to each woman a chance to establish her own worth, unaided and unhampered by others. They prize an education which holds its ceremony of welcome and dedication for all new-comers at the feet of the greatest of democrats, friend of the dreams of man, Lincoln.

F. Louise Nardin

THE IDEALS of knighthood were valor, loyalty, courtesy and magnamity. These constituted chivalry, "the unbought grace of life—the nurse of manly sentiment and heroic enterprise." Cynics and pessimists are ever bewailing the decadence of chivalry in our youth. Coeducation is vociferously decried as contributing to the further downfall of knightly virtues.

Such critics simply fail to grasp the significance of changed conditions. The qualities may be called by different names, but courage and loyalty, good breeding, kindliness and consideration are as highly prized, while cowardice, treachery, boorishness and selfishness are as much despised, as when knighthood was in flower.

This Badger is dedicated to Dean Nardin and in her the Women whom she represents are honored. The act is chivalrous. The Class of 24 has shown its high regard for the rightminded womanhood of the University, a courtesy worthily bestowed and justly appreciated. And this fine relationship between the best men and women of Wisconsin is continually apparent. Chivalry lives no less really, no less nobly, and far less crudely, on the campus today than it did amid the clank of armor in feudal halls or on the field of medieval honor.

The Library School

MARY EMOGENE HAZELTINE
Preceptor

THE LIBRARY SCHOOL looks forward to a building of its own where enlarged quarters, not only for the actually needed floor space, but for the consequent laboratory, library, and other equipment provisions necessary for administration on a larger scale, will permit the instruction of larger classes. Larger quarters, closer contact with the other schools and departments of the University and their activities will bring the increased number of students that should be in training annually to meet the country wide demand for graduates of the Wisconsin Library School.

The Library School is a professional school offering a one year course of training in library work to both men and women. It was opened in 1906 to meet the demand for more trained librarians to administer the libraries of Wisconsin. Its graduates number 447; they have matriculated not only from Wisconsin but from almost every state in the union and from five foreign countries.

Education is a life-long process. The University is contributing to many parts of this process, but especially in the training for librarianship through the Library School is it providing for service to the people in after-school years. Upon such continuing opportunity for advancing education is built the future of the good citizenship of the State.

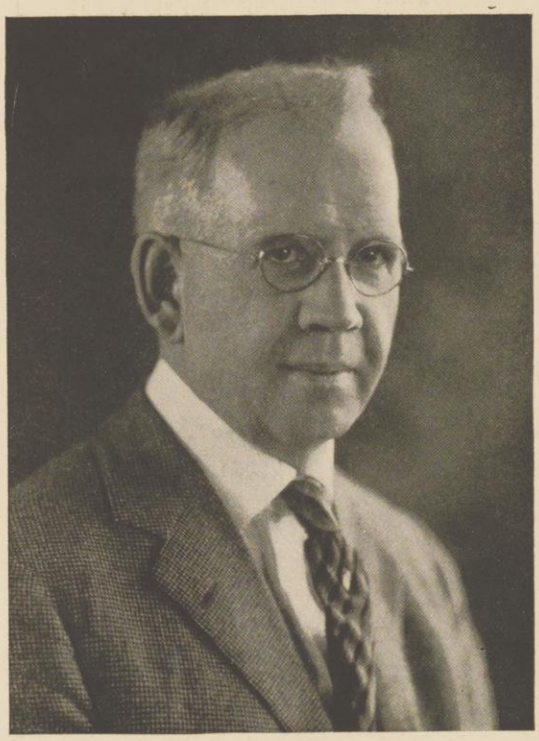
College of Letters and Science



GEORGE CLARKE SELLERY
Dean

THE COLLEGE of Letters and Science, the oldest college on the campus, was founded almost seventy-five years ago to give a liberal education to the youth of the State.

Now we have in our College of Liberal Arts two types of education, the liberal and the liberal-vocational. In the former type the students postpone their vocational training until they finish their Letters and Science course; in the latter, the liberal and the vocational are mingled.

Which type will win? Modern business and professional life requires an increasing amount and intensity of vocational training; society's need for men and women familiar with the noblest and the best requires the stressing of liberal training. My forecast is this: the liberal and vocational elements in the special courses will both have to be strengthened; as a result, a lengthening of this liberal-vocational type tending to produce the same result as a full liberal course followed by the full vocational course.

This prophecy will take, say, fifty years for verification. The graduates of the Class of 1923 ought to see it out.

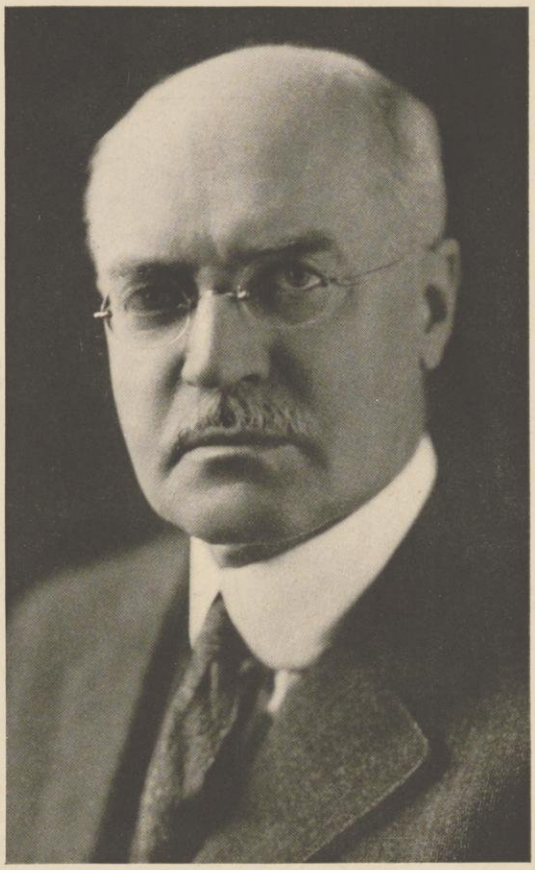
The Course in Commerce



WILLIAM AMASA SCOTT
Dean

LEADERSHIP in any field is the result of native ability and special fitness, because of tastes and other personal qualities, combined with rigorous, exacting and specialized training. The Commerce Course should, therefore, be chosen by men and women of ability who have a real taste for business and personalities which fit them to do the work and enjoy the life of business executives and who are willing to undergo a course of rigorous, exacting and specialized training. We have deliberately prepared that type of a course and we expect to maintain a high standard of efficiency in it.

The training facilities of the Commerce Course are not confined to the course of study. Since leaders in business must know how to work with, influence and direct other people, indeed all sorts, and conditions of men and women, Commerce students are encouraged to take part in every branch of University and community activity.

They should utilize to the fullest extent possible the great opportunities for this kind of training afforded by the life of the campus, the city of Madison, the state and the nation during their four years residence here.

Course in Journalism

GRANT MILNOR HYDE
Acting Director
Editor of University Press Bureau

IN 1905, a little group of students gathered in a classroom in Main hall to undertake a new course listed for the first time by the English department, called "newspaper writing." That was the beginning of the Wisconsin Course in Journalism.

In 1922, a department, now familiarly known as "C.J." celebrated its seventeenth birthday with 540 students in its classes, and 300 students majoring in a four-year course leading to the degree, Bachelor of Arts (Course in Journalism).

Perhaps the growth of the school of journalism indicates that the newspaper profession is reaching the standardization and responsibility requiring professional college training. It would seem to reflect a growing belief that a college education is needed by the men who are to inform the public of the economic, political, scientific, and social developments of the age.

No school is greater than its students. The rapid growth of the Wisconsin Course in Journalism may be credited to the hundreds of earnest, energetic students who have passed through its classes and gone out determined to make their mark in the journalistic world.

The Law School

HARRY SANGER RICHARDS
Dean

THE OUTLOOK for law schools of high standards is distinctly encouraging. The insistance by a few schools on higher standards of pre-legal as well as legal work has been powerfully aided through the recent action of the American Bar Association in its declaration that no one shall be admitted to the bar, who has not had at least two years of college training in addition to a four year high school course, and three years in a resident law school, requiring the above pre-legal standards for its law degree.

The University of Wisconsin Law School has been a pioneer in this movement for higher standards, having adopted the pre-legal requirements now regarded as an irreducible minimum in 1908.

While this action of the American Bar Association is a recommendation merely, yet as an expression of the judgment of the organized American Bar, it will undoubtedly increase the attendance at the better schools.

The University of Wisconsin Law School with its reputation for high standards, its fine library, and experienced faculty can confidently expect to reap the rewards of an increasing number of well-trained students, as a result of its pioneer efforts in behalf of a better trained bar.

Medical School

CHARLES RUSSELL BARDEEN
Dean

A GENERATION ago the aim of most medical schools was to encourage as many students as possible to enter. Over-crowding resulted in insufficient training in a field in which above all the training should be of the best.

Reform in medical education set in.

The higher standards were instituted first in the schools with the best facilities. Owing to the more severe requirements in these schools there was no over-crowding.

Wisconsin began the two years of the medical course which we give with high standards. The number of students in a class were few. There was no difficulty in placing these students in other good schools to complete the course. The number seeking admission at Wisconsin has increased so much that it has been necessary to raise the standards of scholarship required for admission. The difficulty of placing our students in good schools for completing the medical course has become very great.

There is every indication that each year the number of students that can be received to advanced standing in such schools will decrease. The only solution is a complete medical course at Wisconsin.

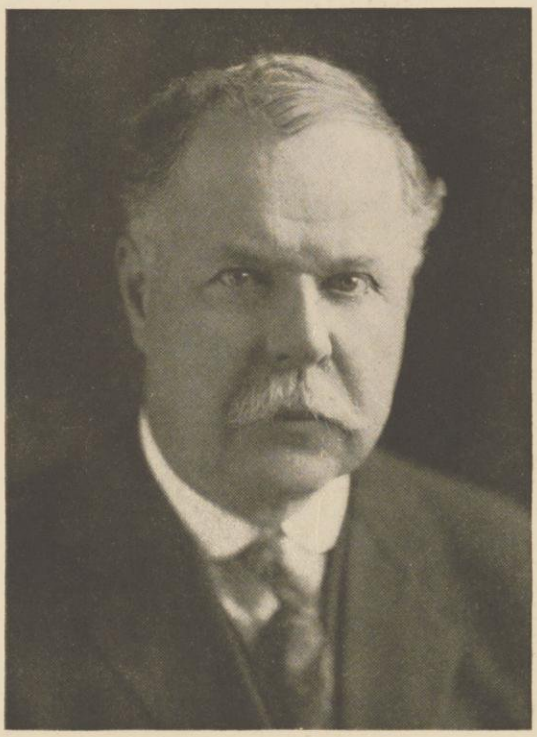
College of Agriculture



HARRY LUMAN RUSSELL
Dean

THE PROMOTION of better methods in agriculture and higher standards of rural life are among the primary purposes of the College of Agriculture.

How well this work has succeeded can best be understood when it is realized that many of the findings of Wisconsin's agricultural scientists are today in world wide practical application, and that men have come from every land and state to learn Wisconsin's methods and to profit by these results.

To make the discoveries of science available to every farmer is one of the problems of the agricultural college, and here again the pioneer work was done by Wisconsin.

More and more do we come to realize that other industries as well as the nation are ultimately dependent for their prosperity upon the welfare of that most basic of industries—agriculture; and because the farm folks and the rest of society are becoming increasingly interdependent as time goes on, there is a growing appreciation of that constructive leadership which is so essential in the maintenance of our agricultural progress.

Wisconsin's agricultural graduates are, in the main, imbued with the ideals of service, and through their training they have qualified themselves for that kind of leadership which, in the recent past, has made the historic progress of agriculture possible.

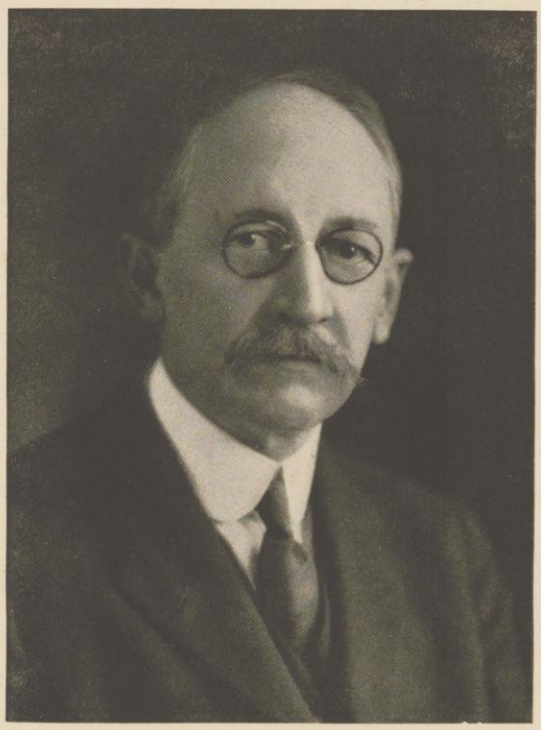
College of Engineering



FREDERICK EUGENE TURNEAURE
Dean

THE EFFECT of the war on technical education was greatly to emphasize its value, and, as a result of this and other causes, the attendance in engineering schools in all parts of the country has greatly increased during the past four years.

In this College, the normal attendance appears now to be about 1,200, a 70% increase over pre-war figures.

The field of employment of engineering graduates is constantly widening, and there appears to be no limit to the gradual growth in the use of technically trained men in our modern industrial life. As a consequence, more and more is expected of the engineer, and the engineering schools are being called upon not only to furnish instruction to increased numbers, but also to so improve their courses that they may best fit their students for the increased demand of the profession. To this work the faculty of this college is giving its best efforts.

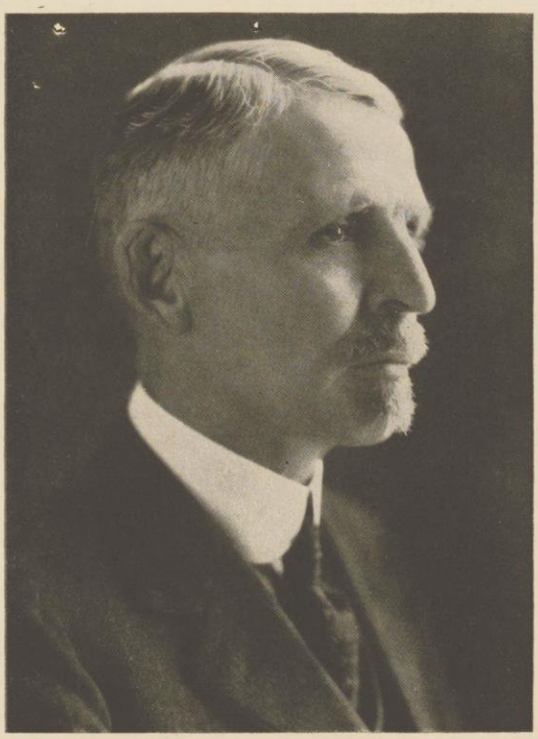
University Extension Division



LOUIS EHRHART REBER
Dean

UNIVERSITY Extension has three main objectives. First, extension of the campus to the boundaries of the state; second, expansion of the service to embrace educational opportunities beyond those included in the academic curricula; and third, lengthening of the possible period of education for the individual.

In University Extension work Miss Lelia Bascom, Miss Martha Edwards, Miss Harriette Holt, and Miss Annie Pitman have been successful in instruction, even to include influences far beyond the scope of the lesson itself. Miss Adolphine Ernst and Miss Evelyn Jensen also illustrate in their work the value of woman's special powers in Extension teaching.

Miss Almere Scott has given a comprehensive and valuable service in building up the Department of Debating and Public Discussion with its great adjunct of package library service.

Mrs. E. E. Hoyt is a force for the betterment of women and children wherever she is known.

These are but a few of the women serving the state through the University Extension. It is but just to acknowledge that as a whole they exert an inestimable influence by infusing into their teaching that motive which strengthens and upbuilds through taking thought of the things of the spirit.

School of Music

CHARLES HENRY MILLS
Director

IT IS a difficult and somewhat dangerous thing to foreshadow events.

One may, however, note those things which are taking place at the present time and endeavor to draw some conclusions from them.

From this standpoint, it would seem that the outlook for music is very encouraging. There has probably been no subject in late years that has had such an enormous expansion as music in the educational field, not only in this country, but practically in the whole of the civilized world.

The demand for all kinds of music in the school system of the State of Wisconsin would lead one to believe that the efforts of the School of Music in the past are bringing results. There will be a similar and perhaps greater demand for music, both in the University and the State in the near future.

Home Economics

JEAN KRUEGER
Acting Director

THE NEXT few years will probably prove the most significant period in the growth and development of home economics.

The present period of economic and industrial readjustment following the war is offering us a more serious challenge than ever before.

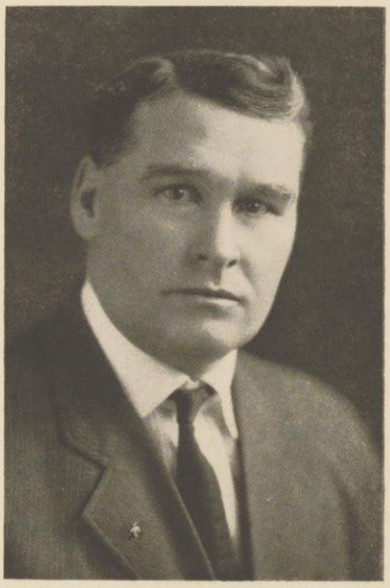
The prosperity of a nation must be measured by its important asset—the welfare of its children.

The student in home economics is shouldering her share of the responsibility which is everyone's portion.

By encouraging a respect for the beautiful and the appropriate in home surroundings; by furthering adequate nutrition, immunity to disease and safe sanitary surroundings; by adding to our present knowledge through research, Wisconsin graduates are helping to safeguard the children of the future.

Jean Krueger

Department of Physical Education



THOMAS EDWARD JONES
Director of Physical Education

THE Women's Division of the Department of Physical Education aims to provide wholesome recreation for the women during the college period, to develop and standardize their health-keeping habits.

We want to show them the value of exercise and relaxation to keep themselves in condition to meet with power, life.

The women students at the University of Wisconsin are to be congratulated on the splendid equipment which the State has given them for their physical education activities.

Lathrop Hall, with its gymnasium, bowling alleys, and swimming pool; Camp Randall, with its athletic fields and attractive field house, offer unusual and inviting facilities for the practice of athletic events, and with the completion of the new track in the spring of 1922, and the establishment of the All Year Championship Trophy, a new interest and enthusiasm has been stimulated.

We realize that we must no longer accept the athletics of the men as the ultimate goal which we strive to attain for the women. But as we go forward, we must evolve for women a group of activities suited to their own needs, not beyond their strength or skill.

BLANCHE M. TRILLING
Director of the Women's Gymnasium

We are particularly fortunate in having our University situated in a city which offers such magnificent natural resources for out-of-door sports, both summer and winter, and the Women's Athletic Association and Outing Club have rendered splendid assistance in fostering an appreciation of these among the students.

As the class of 1923 leaves the portals of our Alma Mater we feel that during our four years at Wisconsin we have set a standard that will serve as a criterion for future classes to follow. The class has been a well balanced one, and has furnished its share of leaders, athletes, and scholars to the honor rolls of this University.

Through our four years, one of the brightest features of the class has been its spirit of co-operation. Personal feelings and private opinions have been cast aside for the common good of the class and university. It is this spirit that has carried us through our inter-class battles and it is this same spirit that will bring us back to our first re-union five years hence with that feeling of fellowship which is so uncommon in so many classes.

The Junior Class feels justly proud of the high ideals and the spirit of democracy which has marked our three years of work at Wisconsin.

This spirit manifests itself in the fact that not a few but many leaders in the various fields of activity come from our members.

The Class of 1924 shall be unceasingly active in carrying forward its aim, the embodiment of Wisconsin Spirit.

The Sophomore Class, having emerged from the embryonic stage, has attained a degree of success that is unusual. The class is fortunate in having as members people who have distinguished themselves as leaders in all forms of activity.

This year has been just one of the steps in our collegiate life, but it has probably played the greatest part in shaping our future ideals. The class is united with a common bond of fellowship that will not be destroyed as we pass on into the years that lie before us.

If numerical strength has any bearing upon its future, the class of 1926 has a bright prospect just ahead. Entering the University 2,500 strong, the largest class in the history of the school, its members were quick to catch the spirit of Alma Mater and voluntarily revived observance of her traditions.

Spirit such as has been reflected throughout the year in all of the many interests and activities of the University, cannot but augur well for an important and continued program of service.

Wisconsin Women

Introduction

IT IS MANY YEARS now since our university was founded, and thousands of women have come here and gone again. Many of them came with little purpose or aim, played a while, left, and were soon forgotten. Others came with earnest intent perhaps, but—individuals with ordinary minds—they too left "simply dissipated and relaxed by the multiplicity of subjects which they had never really mastered" and we heard of them no more. A few came with a great vision, a high purpose, and a realization "that knowledge is something more than a sort of passive reception of scraps and details"—they reaped a golden harvest and went forth to give of it to the world. These few we will remember always and to them we dedicate this section. Their stay here instilled in them a great desire—the spirit of which Jean Starr Untermeyer reveals to us in his poem—

"It is easy to mould the yielding clay.
And many shapes grow into beauty
Under the facile hand.
But forms of clay are lightly broken;
They lie shattered and forgotten in a dingy corner.

But underneath the slipping clay
Is rock . . .
I would rather work in stubborn rock
All the years of my life,
And make one strong thing
And set it in a high, clean place,
To recall the granite strength of my desire."

Poet, Playwright, Actress

LAURA SHERRY is known as poet, playwright, actress, and founder of one of the most significant organizations in the non-commercial theatre movement in America.

In all her stage experience she treasures, as most profitable and interesting a year spent in the company of Richard Mansfield, to whom she owes much of her technical knowledge of the stage. Her training under him gave Laura Sherry an unusual foundation.

Believing in the possibilities of her native state, Mrs. Sherry came back to Wisconsin more than ten years ago, organized in Milwaukee the Wisconsin Players, and began producing plays. About that time Professor Dickinson was experimenting with his modern drama class at the University. They combined and exchanged companies and performances. When Professor Dickinson left, Mrs. Sherry continued the work alone. She established a theatre-workshop, feeling that the time had come when an experimental theatre in a community would call together all the latent artists living in it, and from this material might develop playwrights, actors, painters.

In the beginning the Wisconsin Players were vagabonds. They had a portable stage and they set it up in halls, ballrooms, schools. Eight years ago Mrs. Sherry took a four-story old English house in the center of Milwaukee and remodeled it into a theatre-workshop, a ballroom, a bookshop, and a tea room. The best plays of the season were presented before the public in the large theatres of the city. Many short tours, and tours not so short, were made to different cities in the Middle West, and in 1917 the company occupied the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York for a month's stay. Three separate engagements were played in Chicago. The vision, the industry, and the genius of Laura Sherry made it possible to sustain the work until today the Wisconsin Players are looking forward to the time when they shall take possession of a theatre which will be their very own, and which shall be one of the foremost centers of art theatre enterprise in America.

MARJORIE DAW JOHNSON
Social Worker and Lecturer on Constructive Democracy

MARJORIE DAW JOHNSON occupies a unique position among the women who have won fame through constructive achievement. She was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1906 after which she devoted three years to study and research abroad. As a result of a long period of thorough, first-hand investigation and years of personal experience, she understands the educational and social problems that have grown out of the conflict between American ideals and the presence of an unassimilated population in the United States. Among the positions held by Miss Johnson are director of Acland Center, the largest social center in London, England; assistant Dean of Women, Washington State College; Food Inspector and Market Master, Tacoma, Washington; investigator and lecturer for the Consumers' League. Miss Johnson also worked for three years as a shop girl and factory hand in department stores and factories in New York, Baltimore, and Philadelphia.

As a lecturer she speaks with the authority of accurate scholarship and actual experience. She has given lectures on constructive democracy for State Educational Associations, Teachers' Institutes, Conventions of Business Men, and Chambers of Commerce, and was endorsed by leading educators, business men, economists and community workers. Dr. M. V. O'Shea, professor of Education in the University of Wisconsin, says: "Miss Johnson has the gift of ready, incisive, and graceful speech. Her thought is clear and logical, and she has the facility of illuminating general principles by a wealth of concrete illustrations."

During the war she was actively engaged with the Friend's Service Committee for a period of three years. She organized the first play and recreation center in Italy and thus introduced what has since become a part of the educational policy of the Italian government.

This year Miss Johnson has returned to the University and is taking graduate work in economics and is also lecturing on immigration and industrial subjects.

LOUISE PHELPS KELLOGG, PH.D.
Senior Research Associate
State Historical Society of
Wisconsin

IMMEDIATELY upon taking her Ph.D. degree in June, 1901, Louise Phelps Kellogg's connection with the State Historical Society of Wisconsin began. She entered the library in October, 1901, as research assistant, and has been with the institution continuously since that time. During that interval of more than twenty-one years, she has written, edited, and published extensively, partly in her own name and partly as editorial assistant for Dr. Reuben Thwaites in his "Early Western Travels," his "Original Journals of the Lewis and Clark Expedition," the "Wisconsin Historical Collections," and other ventures with which Dr. Thwaites was connected. Independently Dr. Kellogg has edited a "Series of Original Narratives of American History." She has just completed for the Caxton Club of Chicago a beautiful edition of Charlevoix's "Journal of the Voyage to North America." As a writer of history Dr. Kellogg has contributed to the Wisconsin Magazine of History a considerable number of articles, one series covering the history of Wisconsin from the earliest times down to the period of statehood. She has written many reviews of historical books, is a member of the American Historical Association, Mississippi Valley Historical Association, Wisconsin Archeological Society, and an honorary member of the Missouri Historical Society.

Dr. Kellogg is recognized by historians generally as an authority on everything relating to the history of the Great Lakes region during the French era, and the history of early Wisconsin. But her interests are broad and inclusive, enabling her to turn her hand to almost any critical inquiry in the domain of American history. A considerable proportion of her time, as senior research associate, is given to the making of researches of all sorts for the public who are interested in one or another phase of American or Wisconsin history. Her major work as an historical writer, however, has been on the history of early Wisconsin—a thoroughgoing and definitive treatment of the French phase of that history, including a treatment of the French in the Great Lakes region, which will be published in one volume probably during this year.

Miss Nina Simmonds

Associate in Chemical Hygiene in the School of Hygiene and Public Health, Johns Hopkins University

MISS NINA SIMMONDS after graduating from the Home Economics Department in 1915 began to work with Dr. E. V. McCollum in connection with his rat colony maintained for the study of problems in nutrition. Miss Simmonds took the responsibility for preparing the experimental diets, feeding the animals, and for keeping the records of the experiments. Each of these duties had to be done with great care as there could be no mistakes. In this work she had the opportunity of learning the theory on which each diet was planned, and it enabled her to understand what the field of research in nutrition really was. The Department of Chemical Hygiene in Baltimore is excellently equipped for experimental work and they have made many new discoveries in their laboratory and have contributed, through their research work, valuable principles in the dietary properties of foods, and the relation of the vitamines to the deficiency diseases.

During the past two years in conjunction with Dr. E. A. Park and Dr. P. G. Shipley of the Department of Pediatrics of the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Dr. McCollum and Miss Simmonds have been making a study on the Etiology of rickets.

In collaboration with Dr. McCollum she has written the book "The American Home Diet." She has also published with him scientific articles in the following scientific journals—Journal of Biological Chemistry, American Journal of Psychology, American Journal of Hygiene, Journal of The American Medical Association. In the Johns Hopkins Hospital Bulletin they have also had a great many articles.

Miss Simmonds is doing a great work in helping to expand the science of nutrition. Dr. McCollum says that the scientific discoveries in this field are destined to be recognized as the most fundamental of the sciences that contribute to the health of man.

ZONA GALE
Poetess
Playwright and Novelist

ZONA GALE, poetess, playwright, and novelist, of whom we are justly proud, received her B.L. from the University of Wisconsin in 1895, and her M.L. in 1900. She is the author of "Miss Lulu Bett," of almost a hundred "Friendship Village" stories, and of "The Loves of Pelleas and Ettare" which have given her a very unusual place among American authors. After graduating from the University of Wisconsin she entered newspaper work in Milwaukee. Later she was on the New York World. Then her stories began to attract attention and she devoted herself entirely to fiction and playwriting. Her dramatization of "Miss Lulu Bett" was one of the conspicuous successes of the theatrical season in New York for 1921.

Miss Gale has also become interested in various organizations and has given freely of her time and energy to these organizations. She is a member of the Board of Directors American Civics Association; chairman of the Wisconsin Civics Association; a member of the Federation of Women's clubs; vice-president of the Wisconsin Peace Society; president of the Portage Study club; vice-president of the Wisconsin Suffrage Association; and chairman of the Columbia So-Suffrage Society; also a member of the American Association for Labor Legislation and of the Women's Trade Union league. This year she was appointed to the Board of Regents of the University.

Zona Gale began writing before she was seven years old and kept on writing for twenty-five years before she achieved success except as a newspaper reporter. It was the everlasting persistence of this western girl that brought her success. From childhood she knew exactly what she wanted to be and what she was going to be.

She understands people—sympathizes with them—sees their point of view and understands their motives and purposes. She realizes that people want human nature in the stories they read and in the plays they see.

FLORENCE GRISWOLD BUCKSTAFF
War Worker and Leader in Health and Charity Organizations

MRS. FLORENCE GRISWOLD BUCKSTAFF took her B.A. '86 and M.A. '92 from the University of Wisconsin and has since been engaged in many and varied activities.

In Oshkosh, Wis., where she has resided for the past thirty-five years, she has been an active worker in the charities and health organizations, having served on the Board of Associated Charities and on the Visiting Nurse Committee for twelve years. She has been on the Board of University Regents for sixteen years, having been appointed by Governor Davidson, and reappointed by Governor McGovern and by Governor Phillip. She has also served twelve years as a chairman of the Regent Committee in the College of Letters and Sciences.

Before the United States entered the war Mrs. Buckstaff organized a Surgical Dressings and Refugee Relief Committee which sent 7,000 dressings to France. During the war she served on the executive committee of the Winnebago County Council of Defense, and on the nursing, food, and Belgian committees. At this time, too, Mrs. Buckstaff made numerous Red Cross speeches which caused her to become well known throughout the state.

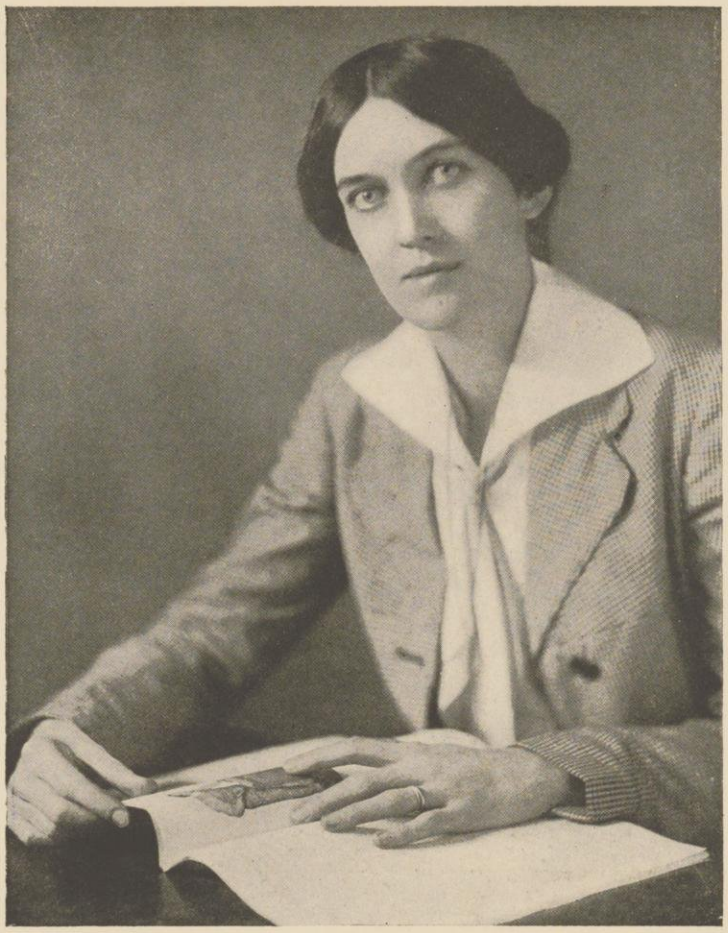
Mrs. Buckstaff has given a good deal of her time to social work. She has been on the executive board of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work since 1918, when she served as president. Besides this she has been chairman of the Mental Hygiene Committee of the State conference and has given addresses on the work in many cities of the state.

ELIZABETH A. WATERS
Educational Leader

ELIZABETH A. WATERS graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1881 with the degree of B.S. While here in college, Miss Waters was well known for her extraordinary ability as a debator and orator. She was a member of the winning team in the Castalia-Laurea joint debate and winner of the Lewis Prize at Commencement for the best oration as judged by Bishop Samuel Fallows of Chicago, Judge Robert G. Siebecker of Madison, and Judge George Noyes of Milwaukee. Miss Waters followed up her degree here with post graduate work at the University of Minnesota, the University of Chicago, and at the University of Wisconsin.

Miss Waters has followed the profession of teaching in administrative work and as an instructor in English, mathematics, history, and German. She has been located in the Neenah High School, 1885–1886, in Fond du Lac German-English Academy, 1886–1887, in Minneapolis Jefferson School as a special teacher of English, 1887–1892. Since that time she has been in the Fond du Lac High School where from 1898–1907 she was principal and from 1907–1923 assistant principal. Miss Waters was offered a position as head of the German department of Whitewater Normal; and also elected head of the English department of the Milwaukee Normal School in 1898.

Miss Waters has always been interested in educational questions and policies and has given a good deal of time to participation in educational movements. From 1921–1923 she was president of the Fond du Lac Council of Education and before that, from 1916–1917, acted as president of the Modern Language Association of Wisconsin. Governor McGovern appointed Miss Waters as a member of the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents, 1911–1915, and in October, 1921, Miss Waters was reappointed by Governor Blaine as a member of the Board for a term of six years.



HONORE WILLSIE
Editor and Novelist

HONORE WILLSIE, a descendant of the old New Englanders who "went west," was born at Ottumwa, Iowa, and took her A.B. degree at the University of Wisconsin in 1902. Soon after graduation she married a consulting engineer and with him she spent two years in the deserts of Arizona. They then came to New York where Mrs. Willsie devoted herself to the task of winning recognition as a writer. For five years Mrs. Willsie was editor-in-chief of The Delineator. But the demands of this position left too little time for fiction writing, so finally in 1919 she decided to devote her entire time to her writing. Her first novel published, "The Heart of The Desert" (1913), won her immediate recognition as a novelist of promise. "Still Jim" (1915), came next and showed growth in that ability to portray strong characters and the bigness of the out-of-doors. In the fall of 1922 came "Judith of the Godless Valley," one of Mrs. Willsie's strongest novels.

Hildegarde Hawthorne says of her, "Mrs. Willsie is, first and foremost, a real American coming of old New England stock; she is moved by a deep love that reveals itself in whatever she writes. She herself is young, fearless, talented, and hard working. Her books will be one of the inspirations toward a larger view and a greater ideal of service, all the more helpful because they are such good stories, written of real people who live and stir us to love and admiration and pity and comprehension."

The spirit of womanhood at Wisconsin which Zona Gale, Louise Kellogg, Marjorie Daw Johnson, and the others in our Hall of Fame typify so splendidly is still a vivid living thing—in the pages which follow we see this same spirit embodied in the activities and interests of the women of our university today. They, too, are aspiring high and instead of building clay hills during all their college stay, are striving to dig deep and to find the Rock from which to build "one strong thing" which will mark them always as true Wisconsin Women.

Girl Reserve work is really a branch of the city Y. W. C. A., but the corps advisors are for the most part university women who enjoy working with younger girls.

Industrial Banquets

A true spirit of fellowship and of common understanding is engendered at these banquets held in the city Y. W. C. A. at which the industrial girls are served by university women.

Neighborhood House Work

Neighborhood House Work is conducted in the city's Italian district. Here University women find an opportunity for work in whatever line they may be best adapted.

Bradley Memorial Hospital

Bradley Memorial Hospital is for crippled children whose families cannot afford medical care. Some of the Y. W. C. A. girls go to the hospital every afternoon and try to make life more interesting for the inmates.

The Physical Education Department of the University of Wisconsin fosters and guides the vital interest of Wisconsin Women in Athletics. From a crude beginning it has grown to a high position in the University curriculum. It offers a great variety of sports and technical training courses for teachers of Physical Education which accomplish the two-fold purpose of the department—that is to develop the physique and character of women participants, and to train play leaders and teachers of physical education. It is constantly the aim of the department to better the conditions of play and physical education administration.

The Women's Athletic Association seeks to stimulate interest in athletics for women and to encourage good sportsmanship. It is a member of the National Association known as the conference of American College Women. The administrative work of the organization is carried on by a board composed of the heads of various sports and of officers elected by the members.

The awards, based on a point system, are membership in the Association, W. A. A. pin, small "w," big "W" and Final Emblem, which is the highest award. The wearer of this must not only have high scholarship, but must be a leader in athletics and campus activities.

Dolphin Club

Dolphin Club is an organization of women interested in swimming. The club gives one exhibition each semester in swimming, life-saving, fancy strokes, stunts, fancy diving, and water polo. The purpose is to encourage swimming as a sport, to develop it scientifically, and to present the results to the public.

Since the formation of the club in 1919, the interest in swimming has been greatly increased, and the standard of requirements has been raised in order to limit the membership.

A Branch of the National Women's Life Saving Corps has been established at the University under the auspices of Dolphin Club.

Two emblems are awarded. The major emblem is awarded to girls who have attained certain high standards of swimming and diving. The minor emblem is awarded to those who have passed one-half of the requirements for the major emblem.

Outing Club is an organization which seeks to promote interest in all sports among the women of the University, but especially in those sports not included in W. A. A. activities.

Membership may be obtained by doing ten hours' work in any two or more such sports, attending two consecutive meetings, and paying semester dues. After membership, honors consisting of a pin and a felt insignia may be won.

The spirit of Outing Club is always that of friendship and good times. Each year, early in the fall, all University women are invited to a Hobo Hike and Picnic given by Outing Club where the spirit is doubly manifest.

HELEN KASBEER is a typical all-round athlete. She has earned her "W" in too many ways to enumerate.

"PHYL" TATMAN has easily won fame for herself and wrought fear in her opponents as a forward in basketball since early in her career.

"MARJ" SEVERANCE, this year's president of W. A. A. has earned her "W" in hockey, basketball, and track.

BELLE KNIGHTS is a well-known figure on the hockey field. Her influence has greatly increased the enthusiasm for the sport.

"BOBS" CARL proves what "White Sox means in baseball" whenever she steps up to bat.

IRENE CLAYTON. Besides being a strong point on the outdoor baseball team each year, Irene has given a helping hand to many aspirants in the sport.

HELEN ZUEHLKE is a bowling enthusiast and promoter. She is the holder of the high score record on the Lathrop alleys.

"BETTY" SCHAFER might well be called the light-weight champion since she has done most of her work in tennis an dancing.

"SLIM" MAINLAND has been '23's idol in track for four years. This has not been her only field of conquest, however, as she is also proficient in both hockey and basketball.

FLORENCE HUPPRICH. "Huppy" has held a flying position in the wing of the hockey team for four years. Her ability in basketball is also well known.

ALMA FENN has won her "W" in almost as many activities as is possible.

ISABEL CAPPS. "Cappy" has held a firm and important position on a four year championship basketball team.

HELEN PRATT who entered Wisconsin in her Junior year hit the girl's athletic circle like a whirlwind.

OLGA ANDERSON. Swimming is Olga's field of honor and she has greatly advanced its standing in athletics.

"ROMY" BERRYMAN is active both in indoor and outdoor baseball and makes the batter feel as if she were standing in front of a machine gun.

Indoor Baseball

The indoor baseball season of 1923 was marked by the excellent coaching of Miss Gaul and by the girls' enthusiasm and keeness in entering the class tournament which was held at the end of the season. The Class of 1924 with its abundance of spirit and excellent team work carried off the championship, much to the chagrin of the seniors who had a fine team.

1922 Varsity Hockey

Last fall we were exceptionally fortunate in having Miss Engels, one of the English hockey players, with us for a week. Her instruction, added to Miss Wesson's strenuous coaching, rounded all the players into fine playing form. By tournament time, the teams were primed for hard, fast games. The play throughout the tournament was very commendable. The Juniors may be justly proud of their hard-earned championship.

Horseback Riding

One of the newest additions to the list of sports is horseback riding. Although this does not have teams and class competition like the rest of athletics, the number taking advantage of this opportunity increases with every season.

Basketball

Under the direction of Miss Wesson, the 1922 basketball season came to an exciting close when it terminated in the annual tournament. Competition ran high and there was much speculation as to the winner of the tournament. The Juniors, however, had the edge on the other teams and by their accurate basket shooting and expert team work won. Because of the heat of the contest all games were attended by large crowds of rooters.

1923 Varsity

Bowling

Under the able instruction of Miss Mosscrop and the fine management of Helen Zuehlke, the 1923 bowling season started in good shape. The first games were played March 19, and after a series of three matches, 1925 was declared the championship team.

Among the highest scorers in the matches were Pearl Hirsig, '23, Rosamond Nolte, '24, Ruth Staudenmeyer, '24, Dorothy Haskins, '25, Helen Lowe, '25, and Evelyn Spencer, '26.

A great deal of interest was shown in the games and a great part of the success of the season is due to the efforts of the class managers.

Conference Medal

George C. Bunge, center on the 1921 Varsity football team, was awarded the Intercollegiate Conference Medal last spring.

The medal is given each year in each of the Big Ten institutions to the students with the highest rating in scholarship and athletic activity. Bunge was selected for the medal by the faculty and Athletic Council out of eight athletes recommended by the Athletic Board.

Bunge's scholastic average was 88.53. The average includes marks acquired in Letters and Science and Law courses.

While attending the University, Bunge won three "W's' in football, playing on the Varsity during 1919, 1920, and 1921. He was a mainstay in the Wisconsin line during these years and was selected All-Conference center on many honorary elevens at the end of the 1921 season.

The awarding of the Intercollegiate Conference Medal was innovated in 1915 and since that time has served as a means of inspiring athletes to better scholastic work. Only students with averages above 80, have ever been recommended for the medal. Most of the athletes recommended by the Athletic Board last year had averages between 85 and 88.

The awarding of the medal indicates that athletes can be scholars. Although Wisconsin has high standards in regard to scholastic elegibility, few of the best athletes are kept out of competition because of low grades. Wisconsin is one of the leaders in demanding excellent scholarship from her athletes.

Badger Big Ten Coaches

WISCONSIN has the reputation for developing coaches. During the last few years, seven Wisconsin graduates have coached athletics in the Big Ten, two of whom, John Richards and Mead Burke, at Wisconsin.

Robert Zuppke and Dr. Wilce are without doubt the most prominent Badger coaches in the Conference. Both are known the country over for the strong teams they have consistently developed.

Robert Zuppke has won a reputation for himself at Illinois which is hard to beat. Before Zuppke's days, Illinois dreamed of a team that could defeat Chicago, but today Illinois and the Maroons are sharing honors for the number of games won.

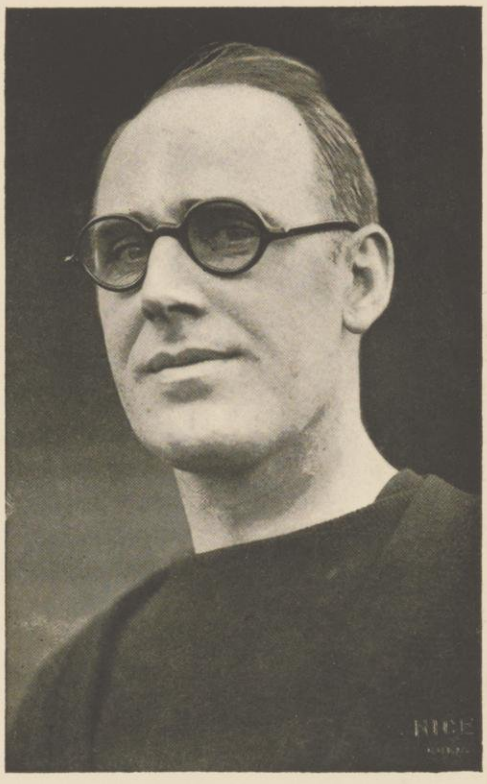
Michigan is the only other team which is now sharing honors with Zuppke, for Illinois has the edge on every other eleven in the Conference.

While at Wisconsin, Zuppke won his letter on the basketball teams of 1904 and 1905. The 1905 team was a championship one.

Dr. Wilce began his coaching career at Ohio in 1913. The teams he has coached have always been strong contenders for the Big Ten championship. Probably his ability for producing stars has to do with Wilce's reputation as a coach. Chick Harley, Stinchcomb, and Huffman are three Ohio men who have made Walter Camps' All American team.

Last fall, Ohio's team did not come up to Wilce's standard; nevertheless, one can soon expect Wilce's team copping another championship.

Dr. Wilce's coaching experience started at La Crosse H. S. in 1910. Both years he was there, La Crosse held the state championship. During the year 1912, Dr. Wilce served as an assistant coach at Wisconsin.



Dr. J. W. Wilce

Harold G. Olsen

Harold G. Olsen, another of Wisconsin's prominent athletes, is now coaching basketball at Ohio State. Ohio basketeers have not won any championships in the last few years, but have always given other teams a hard fight and often have turned out to be the dark horse of the Conference.

Coach Olsen played on Wisconsin's basketball team for three years. He was captain of his team and an All Western man. On the Varsity Football team, he held the position as half back for one year.

Another Badger Alumnus with an enviable record is E. O. Stiehm, athletic director at Indiana University. During his college days at Wisconsin he participated in many sports, including Football, Basketball, Water Polo, Tennis, and Track. Stiehm was awarded letters in Football, Basketball, and Track.

Ever since his graduation, Stiehm has served as Athletic Director, one year at Fort Atkinson High School, one year at Ripon College, five years at University of Nebraska, and the last five years at Indiana University.

Outside of the Conference, Wisconsin has several alumni coaching athletics, some of whom are Geo. Cramer at Joliet High School, Ralph Scott and Guy Sundt at Ripon College, Bill Juneau at the University of Tennessee, Van Gent at Stanford.

WALTER E. MEANWELL, M. D.
Professor of Physical Education
Coach
Basketball Season—1922–1923

WITH the pre-season dope omitting the Badgers from titular consideration, and with the odds heavily against them at every point on the schedule, Coach Walter E. Meanwell and his crew of Cardinal basketeers, by virtue of eleven victories and but one defeat, brought to Wisconsin the 1923 Big Ten Conference Basketball Championship.

The championship of the Big Ten was not decided until Indiana had been defeated by 35 to 17 in the last game of the Badgers' schedule. The race was one of the most hotly contested in the history of the midwestern association, with the weakest teams in the circuit continually upsetting the dope, and putting contenders like Purdue and Michigan out of the running. An example of this was Iowa's two-point defeat, in the last game of the Hawk schedule, by Indiana, whose crushing downfall at the hands of Wisconsin came just a week later.

The fact that Iowa completed the season at the same station in the percentage column as did Wisconsin gave rise to talk of a game between the teams in order to definitely decide the supremacy, but the Big Ten conference rules did not permit the additional clash. Wisconsin backers based their claims on the crushing defeat which the Cardinal gave to Indiana when the Hoosiers were at the same strength as when they defeated Iowa. In addition, Wisconsin twice defeated Michigan by decisive scores, while Iowa was able to squeeze out wins by only one or two points. To make the claim clear, the Cardinal players are conceded to have had a harder schedule than did any other member of the conference.

At the beginning of the season, critics at best could not see less than five defeats ahead of the Badgers. The material was the weakest and poorest that it had been in years. Running true to the form of the Meanwell play, however, the squad improved until at the end of the season Coach Meanwell stated that "the team was the greatest ever representing Wisconsin."

In the last four games of the home season, fans saw a number of perfect exhibitions of the class of basketball which has made Coach Meanwell the leading mentor connected with the cage game. The scoring machine was led by Leslie Gage, who was himself the greatest exponent of the hookpass and hookshot style of play ever produced here at Wisconsin. The passing was so fast that the spectators often could not follow the ball, while opposing defenses never were able to solve the Badger offense.

After a two months' training period, which was discouraging for both players and coach, Doc Meanwell decided to give the public a chance to view his proteges. Accordingly, Pat Page and his Butler outfit were invited up for an hour of entertainment on the evening of December 16. They accepted, they came, and they conquered. The final news read 20 to 13, with Page's men being awarded the edge in a great offensive battle. They have done it twice in succession, now, and the Badgers are due for a comeback next season.

Coach Schissler and his Lombard collegians journeyed up here on December 19 for the second tilt of the season. The game proved to be nothing more than a workout for Meanwell's men, the final count being 37–9.

The classic event of the prelim season came on Jan. 3, when Marquette was booked to do battle with the Badgers at the Langdon street court. In spite of the fact that students were still out of town, the tickets were all disposed of long before the day of the game. Not a game on the home floor surpassed the Catholics tilt in fierce playing and excitement. Coach Meanwell's men relied on individual team play for their points, and while the Badgers put up a pretty exhibition of teamwork, Wisconsin's poor shooting allowed the Hilltoppers to carry a 9–8 victory back to Milwaukee.

It was conceded that the Badger quintet would do well to get an even break in the first road trip, which included a game with Northwestern, on Jan. 8. But superior teamwork once again triumphed, and the Purple were downed by a 21 to 10 count. More opposition was encountered at Bloomington but a brilliant finish netted a 17 to 10 win.

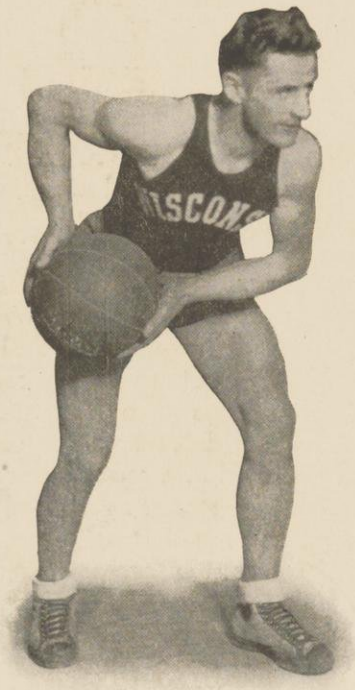
The Maroons came up here a week later and were sent back to the Midway smarting under a 24 to 11 defeat. At this stage of the season critics began to prick up their ears at the work of the Badger defense. Norgren's men, for instance, scored but two field goals toward their total of 11 points.

Minnesota was easily disposed of Jan. 20 by a 24 to 12 score. The following game was the one time that the Badgers tripped during the whole season. The Cardinal were caught fouling frequently, and Holwerda sank 11 out of 12 free throws, or enough points to easily cinch a victory. The final score read 17 to 13. The defeat caused Wisconsin's championship stock to take a decided slump, as a number of weaker conference aggregations had taken the Boilermakers into camp.

Following the unusual, however, Meanwell's outfit came back and played a brand of ball which startled the entire conference. Michigan was licked, 18 to 15, at Ann Arbor on Feb. 15, and four days later the Badgers repeated before the home crowd by a 16 to 11 count.

The season's climax was reached on Feb. 24 when Coach Ward Lambert and his aggregation came here to make it two straight. And it looked as though they were going to do it, for the score stood 16 to

Gibson



Williams

Gage

19 in favor of Purdue when only a minute was left to play. At this point Captain Tebell performed the deed which was responsible for his being heralded as one of Wisconsin's greatest basketball players. He won the conference championship for the Badgers in that 60 seconds of play by sending two long throws through the basket for a one point victory. The game was a marvelous exhibition of basketball, both teams playing a brand of ball which has never been surpassed.

The rest of the schedule was "soft pickings" for the Badgers. Minnesota was downed, 36 to 10, while the same treatment was administered Northwestern, 29 to 11. Chicago proved unable to cope with the Badger offense, the victory reading 33 to 11. The curtain fell when Indiana was sent to the showers, 35 to 17.

A number of achievements were attained by the present team which make them stand above any other quintet which ever represented the Cardinal. The defense hung up a new record, 19 points being the highest score made against it. During the season, 161 points were scored against the Badgers, while Michigan, the closest rival, allowed 196 points to be scored against her. Tebell and Williams were termed by Fred Young, Big Ten conference referee and famous basketball authority, as the "greatest pair of guards in the world." They felt the brunt of the season's work, and to them should go plenty of credit for the success attained by the team.

Gibson was an important factor in the championship, as he set the pace for conference pivot men in the final games of the schedule. He was a big asset defensively, and a sure scorer in every clash.

"No man ever gave more to a Wisconsin team than did Leslie Gage" was the way Coach Meanwell spoke of the famous forward's work after the last game had been played. Les stood sixth among the conference scorers, with a total of 110 points. Even the high position is not thoroughly representative of Gage's scoring ability, since his superiors gained many points via the free throw route, while the Wisconsin star did not swell his total much in the latter manner.

Spooner, "the youngster of the team," came through at a time when the team was in dire need of a player of his calibre. His coolness and versatility placed him on a par with the leading forwards in the circuit, and the fact that he is only a sophomore insures him a spectacular career during the next two years.

Elsom, Diebold, and Barwig were worthy substitutes who came through in the pinches, and aided the regulars at critical times. They are all men of ability and they will materially help in solving the question of filling the vacancies left by the graduation of Williams and Tebell.

Coach Guy S. Lowman

LOSING three Conference games during the 1922 season put the Badger baseball team in a tie with Michigan for second place among the Big Ten teams.

Illinois captured the championship crown for the second consecutive year. Wisconsin gave the Illini their one defeat of the year by riding over the Illinois team for a 4 to 1 victory.

Captain "Paddy" Paddock, the mainstay of the Wisconsin nine, hurled his team to a majority of the victories. One of the strongest baseball teams put out at Wisconsin in many years supported Paddock. A slump near the end of the season which resulted in the loss of one game to Iowa, a much weaker team, robbed the Badgers of an opportunity to tie Illinois for the top position.

Alvan "Rowdy" Elliott turned out to be the "Babe" Ruth of the Big Ten by virtue of his large number of home runs. Elliott held down the shortstop position and was one of Lowman's most consistent men throughout the season.

Paddock and Elliott were graduated last spring and consequently are lost to this year's nine. Barry, Ceaser and Hoffman, all important cogs in the Lowman machine, are also lost to Wisconsin.

Barry was one of Coach Lowman's steadiest men throughout the baseball year and held down the backstop position in nearly every game.

Ceaser at center field was a tower of strength to the Badgers. His fielding was of the highest calibre and his hitting was far above par.

Although Coach Lowman has lost five of his nine first string men, prospects for this year's team are as good as the average.

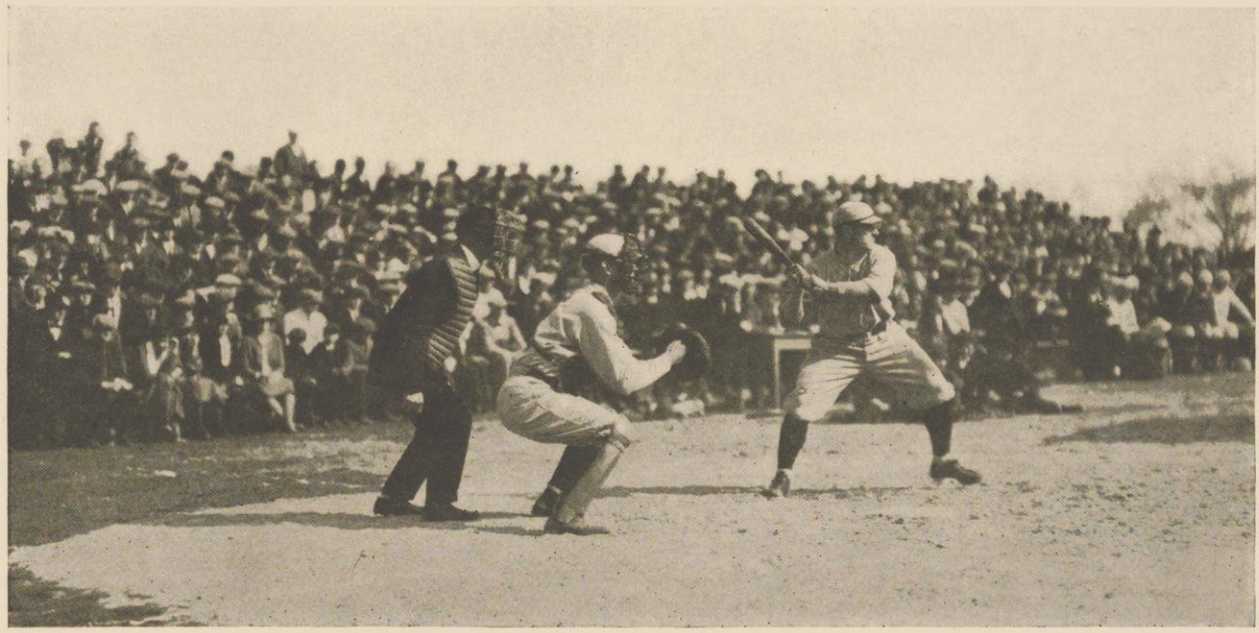
Last year's frosh which will be graduated into Varsity material this spring will be a great help in building up this year's team. Johnson, Millman, Becker, Radke, Feuchtwanger, and Crane, who received their numerals with the frosh squad last year, should offer prospective material for this year's Varsity.

The spring training trip taken by the Wisconsin nine last year was a most successful one. It was the first time a Badger team has ventured south of the Ohio River to engage other teams in baseball.

On the spring trip, the team defeated Union College, Notre Dame, University of Mississippi, lost one game to the Mississippi Aggies and tied them once.

Paddock

Elliott



Another southern trip was taken again this year. Coach Lowman put his pitchers and catchers to work in the annex at the beginning of the second semester and consequently they were in good condition at the opening of the season.

The men awarded "W"s by the athletic board for baseball last season were: F. G. Paddock, G. Barry, P. A. Hoffman, J. Williams, H. R. Combacker, H. Piggott, A. C. Elliott, George Ruediger, R. W. Williams, Carl Ceaser, H. O. Christianson and Ross Dugan.

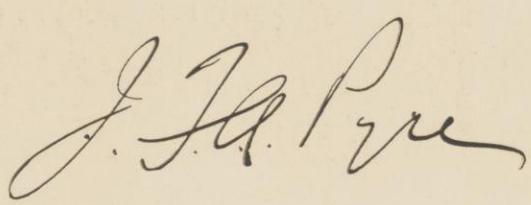
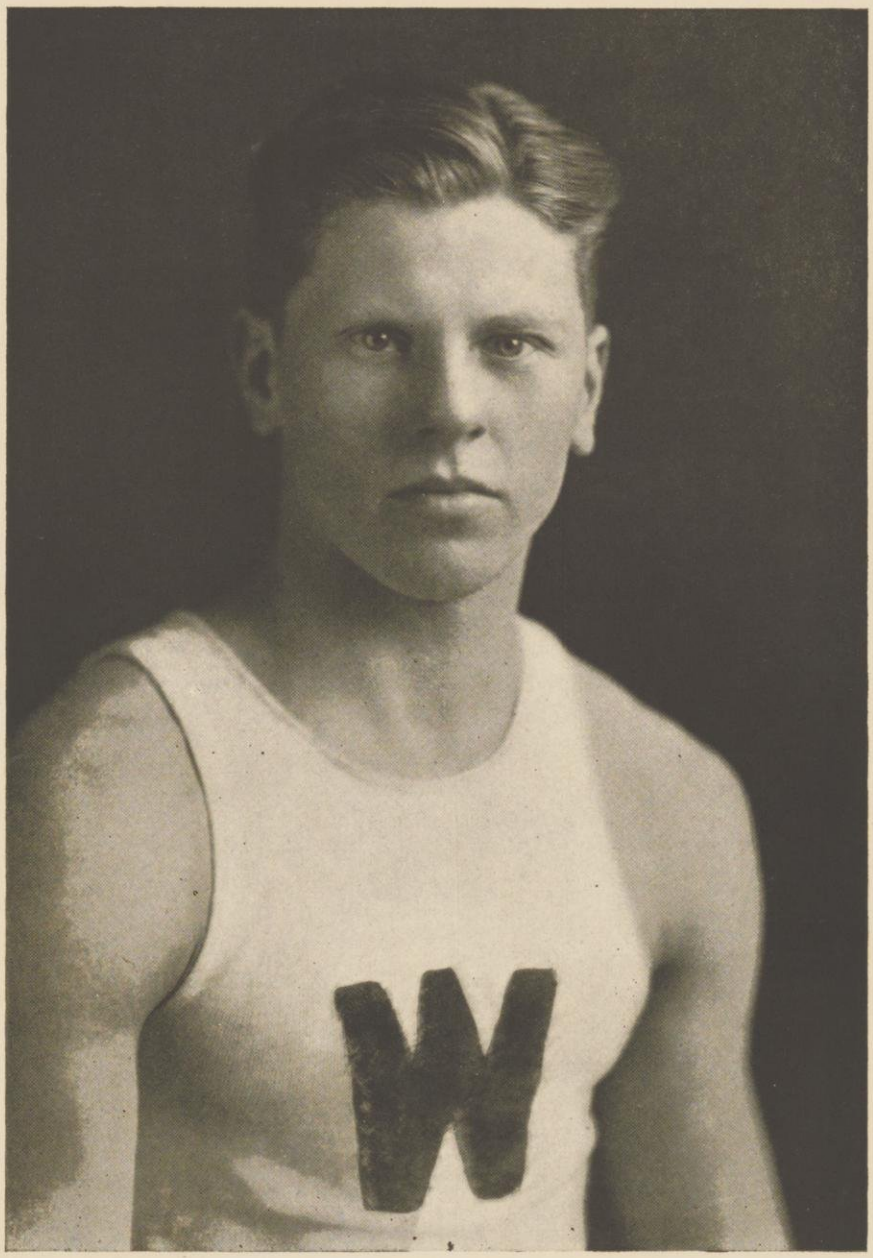
In Memorium

ALBERT JASON KNOLLIN, JR.

The memory of Al Knollin will always be associated in a peculiar sense with his character and career as a member of this University. Taken from life before life could bring to him any of the changes that come with later years, he remains for us, changelessly, the youthful athlete, the rounded student, the young man fully ready for the world and world's work, but not yet absorbed into them. This is a kind of immortality of youth. There is a sadness in a death so untimely and there is a beauty. His death was untimely and it was sudden; and yet death could not, even so, find a man like Al Knollin unready. It was one of the admirable qualities of Knollin, both as an athlete and as a man, that he was so easily himself, so equal to occasions, master of himself and of his powers. What he had to do, he took as he took his hurdles, in his stride. He kept his athletic training in a fine balance with his other activities so that neither suffered, but each profited by the other. When he ran for the school he inspired the confidence and affection which attend a certainty that a man will run true to form. In the deliberations of his seniors, where most I saw him, his modesty, sincerity, and courage gave him the weight of a much older man.

Far more than is usually the case, what Al Knollin was and what he did are a possession of his University, and let us hope it is one that never will be lost. Because his college years formed so large a share of years that were all too few, remembrance of him belongs to those and will be treasured by those who know and are proud of his record as a Wisconsin man.





CAPTAIN ALBERT W. KNOLLIN

Track Team

Track Season, 1922

DAME misfortune seemed to follow the Wisconsin track team of 1922 throughout the season. The peak of the misfortune was reached in the meet with the University of Minnesota, when, with the Badgers leading by 3 points and only one more event to be run, the Gophers took first and third places, and captured the meet by a score of 68 to 67.

Practically the same team that represented Wisconsin during the indoor season reported to Coaches Mead Burke and Tom Jones for the frays at Camp Randall.

Led by Captain "Al" Knollin, the team as a whole was an exceptionally good one. It was composed chiefly of veterans, as was the indoor team.

The Drake and Penn Relays were the opening meets of the spring cinder season of 1922. Only two men were sent to the Penn Relays to represent Wisconsin. Knollin was entered in the 120 high hurdles and Merrick entered the pole vault.

In the Drake Relays Stolley placed first in the quarter mile and Sundt placed second in the shot put and third in the broad jump. The Wisconsin team captured fourth place in the two mile relay.

Illinois came to Madison on May 8, for the second meet of the season and carried home the bacon with a score of 88 to 47. The Illini were pressed to the limit in every event but seemed to nose out the majority of first places.

Knollin and Sundt were the individual higher scorers of the meet. In the high jump Platten broke the Conference record by 3/8 of an inch.

Coach Jones

The University of Chicago sent its track team to Madison on May 15, and lost to the Badgers on the Camp Randall field 86⅔ to 48⅓. Sundt was high point scorer of the meet.

Misfortune then overtook the Badger team when the Gophers defeated Jones' men 68 to 67. Sundt was easily the star of the meet by taking two first places, one second place, and one third place.

Minnesota appeared powerful in the distance events and won the mile, two mile and half mile runs.

The season closed with the National Intercollegiate Meet held at Stagg Field on June 16 and 17.

Indoor Track 1923

THE INDOOR track season of 1923 was one of the most unfortunate that Wisconsin has experienced in several years.

The greater part of the indoor squad was composed of sophomores who were excellent Varsity material, but who lacked experience. The squad this season is a coming one and in a year or two should be at the top of the Conference.

Misfortune overtook the Badger camp early in the season when eight Varsity men were lost because of scholastic difficulties at the end of the first semester.

The Seventeenth Annual Relay Carnival was held in the gym annex on February 18th, and an opportunity was given Coaches Mead Burke and Tom Jones to get a good lineup of the men.

One record was broken, and two were tied in this meet. Schwarze, St. Johns' man, heaved the shot to a new annex record with a mark of 47 feet 4½ inches. Newell tied "Al" Knollin's annex record when he danced over the hurdles in 5 and 2-5 seconds.

Eagleburger came within 1-10 of a second of a ten year old record by stepping the 40-yard dash in 4 and 5-10 seconds.

The first conference meet of the season was held at Iowa City. The Hawkeyes, in a dual meet with the Badgers, emerged on the long end of a 51 to 35 score. The meet was filled with surprises, many upsets taking place. The Hawkeye relay team clipped four seconds off the record established by the University of Illinois team last year.

Wisconsin showed up well in the Illinois Relay Carnival held at Urbana on March 3rd. This meet was one of the largest held in the Middle-West this year. Forty-seven institutions were represented by 511 athletes and nine records were broken.

Norton of the University of Kansas was declared the champion all-around athlete by virtue of his 5,253 points which he piled up during the day.

Hamman of Wisconsin took second place with 4,885½ points. The Badger athlete took first place in the broad jump, second place in the pole vault, shot put, and half-mile run and third in the 75-yard dash. He also took fourth place in the high jump.

Ayers of Illinois equalled the world's indoor record for the 75-yard dash.

On March 10th, the Badgers defeated Coach Knute Rockne's Notre Dame university squad in the gym annex 50 to 36, taking most all the places in each event.

The Conference meet was held at Evanston on March 17th and the Badgers were forced to be contented with one point and sixth place. Vallely, a sophomore, took fourth place in the 880-yard dash. The Conference mark in this event was lowered to 1 minute and 58 seconds by Reinke of Michigan.

The meet was won by the Wolverines with 43½ points. Illinois placed second with 21½ points and Iowa took third with 16½ points.

Men who made the squad are: Capt. Spetz, Hilberts, Hamman, Vallely, Eagleburger, Tuhtar, Platten, Newell, Rossmeissel, Tschudy, Perry, Graham, Johnson, and Carter.

1922 Cross Country

THE CROSS COUNTRY season of 1922 was a surprising one as well as a successful one. Stock on the Wisconsin cross country market dropped considerably when captain-elect, George Finkle, broke his leg at the indoor track meet against Notre Dame last winter.

Many considered the team ruined with the loss of this man. Captain Finkle resigned and was succeeded by Wayne Ramsay. With the opening of school in September, about 18 men reported to Coach Burke for the squad.

Time trials were held each Saturday among the men working out for the team, until the opening event of the year with the Michigan Varsity.

The meet with Michigan held at Madison on October 21, was lost by the close score of 27 to 28. The Wolverines succeeded in getting first, fourth and fifth places. Isbell of Michigan, who took Finkle's place as the conference champion cross country runner, grabbed first place over a 3.9 mile course in the fast time of 21:21 1/10.

Tschudy and Vallely of Wisconsin placed second and third respectively in the run with Michigan. Vallely, a sophomore, showed up exceptionally well in this meet.

On November 4th Coach Burke took his harriers to Minneapolis where they swamped the University of Minnesota squad by a score of 16 to 39. Wisconsin men finished in the first four places. Tschudy took first, covering the five miles in the record time of 27:33 3/5. The track was muddy and exceptionally hard to run on.

Wade, Vallely and Moorhead finished in the order named after Tschudy.

Homecoming Day, November 11, was featured by a meeting of Coach Burke's men and a team representing the University of Chicago. The Maroons were defeated by a score of 15 to 40. Wisconsin took the first five places, Wade finishing first.

The crowning success of the season for the Wisconsin team was at the ninth annual Conference Cross Country held at Lafayette, Indiana, November 25.

Michigan took the championship while the Badgers stepped into second place. Wisconsin's first man in was Wade who placed fourth. Tschudy crossed the tape in sixth place.

Illinois and Ames tied for third place and Ohio State grabbed off fourth.

Wisconsin can well be proud of its cross country men. Development of the candidates was almost phenomenal. Members of the Varsity squad were Tschudy, Vallely, Schneider, Perry, Wade, Rossmeissel, Bergstresser, Ramsay, Moorhead and Link.

Crew Season, 1922

WISCONSIN is slowly but surely regaining its position among the leading colleges of the country, which are holding the rowing championship.

Early last Spring, the Varsity crew began a season of strenuous training on Lake Mendota. The squad was again led by George Toepfer, who as a man of past experience and ability, helped whip the team into condition within a short period of time.

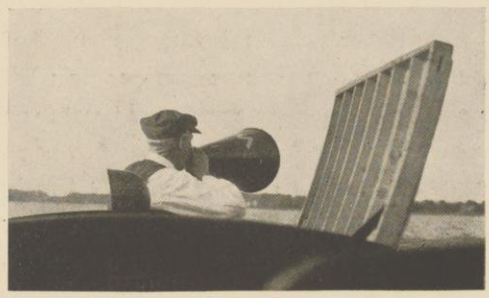
Only two other veterans, Puestow and Turner, reported with the men in response to Coach Vail's call for candidates. Rowers from the previous year's Junior and Frosh crews filled the other vacancies in the shell.

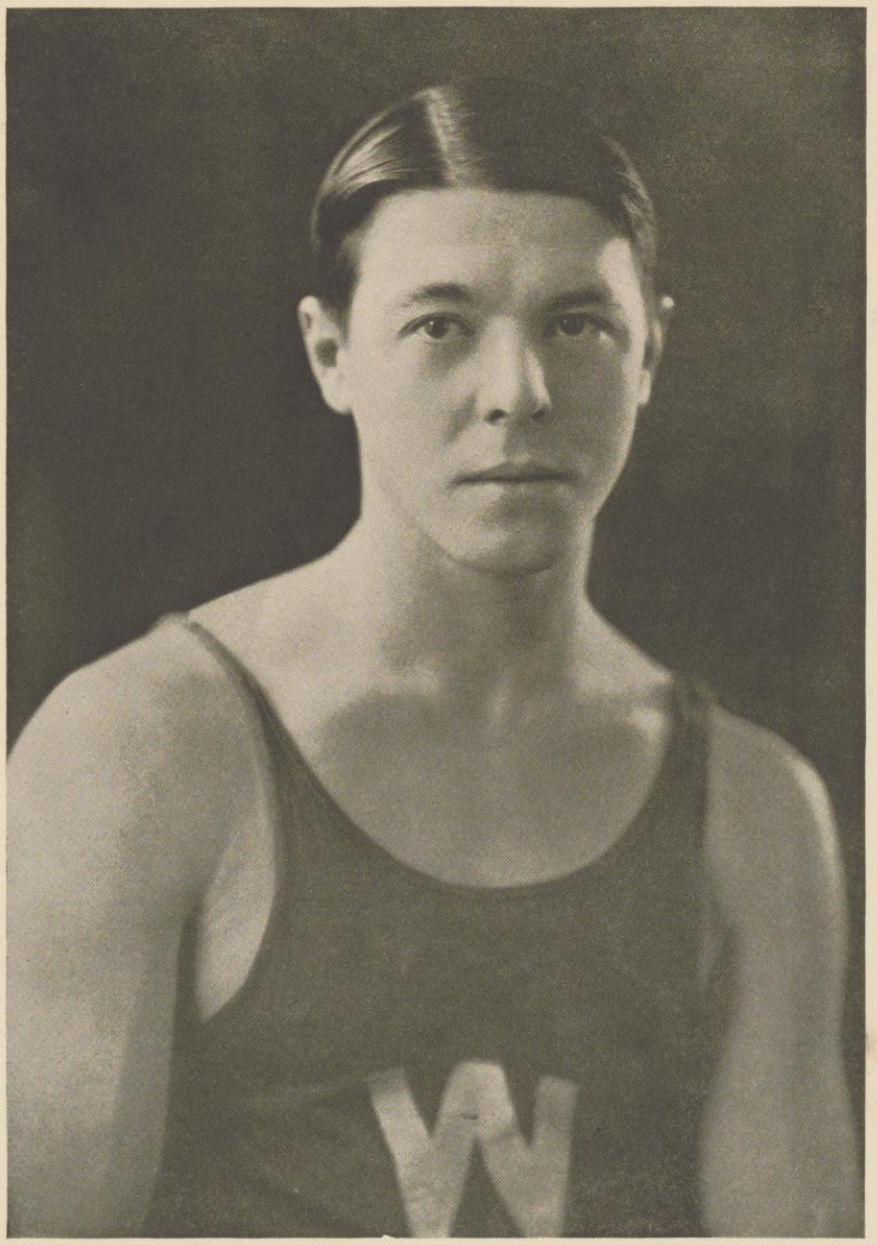
Not until more than a month after the crew had taken to the lake did Varsity meet any outside competition. On May 27, Manitoba came down to test their strength against Wisconsin's rowers. It was the first time Wisconsin raced against a foreign crew. The race was hard fought from the start to the very last stroke. Both shells were neck and neck until the half-mile lines was passed when the Badgers began to slowly creep ahead of the visitors. Although the Badgers were three-fourths of a boat's length in the lead at the mile line the Canadians came close to winning as a result of a spurt at the finish.

On the same day the Junior varsity team gave St. Johns' a decided defeat. The Junior eight took the lead soon after the start and held it throughout the race. This victory more than accounted for the defeat the crew received from Culver one week before.

Several days after the close of school, Varsity encountered the second strongest crew in the country, Washington State. The race was a decided victory for Washington who had won by ten boat lengths from California. Our crew proved true to form in that they kept abreast with the western champions during the first mile of the race. However, the three-mile course proved to be too much for the Badgers, who were trained only to row over a one-and-one-half-mile course, and the visitors finished several boat lengths in the lead.

If this progress keeps up, which it is sure to do with a coach like Dad Vail at the wheel, Wisconsin will soon be rowing on the Hudson.





CAPTAIN JOHNSON BENNETT
SWIMMING
Minor Sports Season

Swimming, 1922-1923

HANDICAPPED by lack of practice because the new tank was finished behind time and facing the possibility of having several men ineligible, the Wisconsin Swimming team had a gloomy outlook for the Indiana meet which opened the conference season, January 12.

With Bennett's remarkable work overcoming the loss of Ewald, who remained ineligible for the entire season, the Badger annexed this first meet 38–30 and began intensive training for what promised to be one of the hardest meets of the year with Minnesota.

Ineligibility played its usual part, and in spite of a strong showing the Badgers lost to Minnesota, 41–27. A period of several weeks was spent in trying to arrange a meet with the Milwaukee Athletic Club as a practice meet in place of Michigan which failed to get its team in shape, but due to conflicting schedules nothing was accomplished.

The meet with Northwestern was held March 2. They were an all around stronger aggregation and submerged the Badgers to the tune of 44–24. The conference relay record was broken, but since Northwestern did not make it in the annual Big Ten competition it was not counted as a new mark.

The last conference meet before the Big Ten meet was held on March 7, with Chicago. The Badgers were still counting on Johnnie Bennett as the main scorer and Coach Joe Steinauer used practically the same line-up as had been used all season namely:

Relay	Captain Bennett, Story, Porter, Ellicott, Gilbreath and Lyons
Dives	Koch and Maroney
40 Yard	Bennett, Gilbreath and Story
Breast Stroke	Czerwonky and Pope
220 Yard	Bennett and Gilbreath
Plunge	Dummer and Salzsteen
Back Stroke	Ellicott and Porter
100 Yard Free Style	Bennett, Taylor and Lyons

Five firsts, two won by Johnnie Bennett, cinched the meet for Wisconsin with a score of 40–28.

Coach Steinauer

The Big Ten Conference meet came March 15–16 with championship possibilities in three teams—Wisconsin, Minnesota and Northwestern. Barring breaks, Minnesota had the edge on the others. The meet turned out to be one of the most sensational ever held at Chicago. Contrary to the dope Northwestern won with 32 points, Minnesota next with 30 points, Wisconsin third with 16, and Illinois fourth with 10 points. Three Big Ten Conference records went scuttling to the bottom when Northwestern broke the 440 yard record, the relay record, and Wisconsin tied the 100 yard free style event and Michigan the 150 yard back stroke. Breyer, Northwestern, was high man with 15 points and Bennett, Wisconsin, was second with 7 points. The Badgers captured second in the relay, third in the 40 yard dash, second in the 200 yard breast stroke and first in the 100 yard free style.

With the end of this record-breaking meet Wisconsin returned home to make use of the new tank in producing better results for next year.

Boxing

FIVE champions were crowned in the All-University boxing tournament which was held under the direction of Coach Eddie Borgelt on Saturday, March 31.

The men offered slashing exhibitions and the claret flowed freely in some of the bouts. Wenzel Fabera and Landon Chapman, middleweights, used everything but the ring posts and the water bucket in their three-round set-to. Chapman had his opponent on the verge of a knockout in the second round, but he was unable to produce the finishing punch. He won the bout and title on a decision.

Harold Holmes, football player, and Ray Stipek traveled four rounds, one extra, before the judges could decide which was the winner. Stipek won the bout on points, and as a result, is heavyweight champion of the university.

Ferdinand Kojis dropped the welterweight title to Albert F. Martin after four rounds of boxing. The bout went into an extra stanza. Kojis had held the title in 1922 and Martin sat on the welterweight throne the previous year.

The little fellows got together in the featherweight match, Albert F. Martin defeating Millard by decision. John J. Klak took a firm hold on the lightweight title when he disposed of Lawrence H. Clark. Klak barely beat out his opponent for honors.

Coach Joseph Steinauer refereed the matches.

Wrestling, 1922-1923

INTEREST in wrestling has increased considerably the last two years. This is partly due to the hiring of a regular coach and partly to the increased space given to wrestling. The wrestlers are no longer confined to one mat in the little tower room, but have enough of the gym floor partitioned off for eight mats. George Hitchcock, obtained to coach wrestling at the University of Wisconsin, is a man of considerable experience. Coach Hitchcock is an amateur wrestler and was the holder of the light heavyweight amateur title before he became the wrestling coach.

The results the team turned in this season have been gratifying to the whole university. They remained in first place until stopped by the strong Iowa aggregation. Even against Iowa, the Cardinal men did so well that they surprised their own coach.

The first meet of the season was with Northwestern at Evanston, January 12. Wisconsin easily won 19 to 6, winning two falls and three decisions to two decisions gained by the Northwestern grapplers.

The first home meet of the season was won by Wisconsin 24 to 8, against Minnesota, February 10. Takitaro Suzuki, '23, George B. Schaekel, '24, and Ingvald Hembre, '24, made their debut on the mat. Suzuki in the 115-pound, Templin in the 175-pound class, and Heuer in the 158-pound class won their matches by falls. Hembre wrestling in the 145-pound class fought the Minnesota captain to a draw in the feature match of the evening. Benbow and Bieberstein won decisions from their men in the 125-pound and heavyweight classes.

The outcome of the Iowa meet held here February 23 was in doubt until the last match was over. The score was tied at 11 all, when Capt. Johnney Heldt finally won a fall over Bieberstein of Wisconsin in the heavyweight class.

Wishing to save Bieberstein and Suzuki for the Ames meet Coach Hitchcock took Gregor and Phelps in their places for the Chicago meet at Chicago, March 3. Wisconsin won three decisions and one fall to their opponents three falls but lost the meet 15 to 14.

The score, 20 to 5, does not show the fight the Badgers put up against the strong Ames aggregation, when they were defeated at Ames, March 9. Captain Templin was the only man to count against the Ames grapplers and won with a fall. Gregor, Holmes, and Suzuki made their men go overtime matches to win by decisions. Benbow and Bieberstein lost their matches by decisions. Schaekel put up a hard fight, but weight told on him and he lost by a fall.

Three Wisconsin men were picked to represent Wisconsin at the conference meet held at Columbus, Ohio, March 16 and 17. Captain Templin and Holmes made the trip as Heuer's shoulder had not healed sufficiently to permit him to go. After the men had left, the athletic council received a telegram notifying them to send Benbow. As Benbow had quit training it would have weakened him to make weight for the meet and he did not go. Holmes won fourth place in the meet. In his first bout Templin won a decision from Troutman, last year's 175-pound champion. In the second bout Templin lost to Held of Indiana by a decision. Held had previously beaten the Penn state man and the Navy man.

Gymnastics, 1922-1923

FOR THE FIRST TIME since 1916, Wisconsin boasts a Conference title in gymnastics. Against the stiffest gymnastic competition in the Big Ten, Minnesota and Chicago in dual meets, and against the same teams with six others in the Conference meet at Columbus, Ohio, the Wisconsin Gym squad managed to keep a clean slate. The 1,000% average, won not without difficulties, is a tribute to Wisconsin Spirit, and the result of hard work and keen determination on the part of the squad.

Coach Schlatter was absent on a year's leave, and no coach could be secured for the one year job. With most of the veterans from last year's team on the job, prospects were too bright to disregard, and so under the direction of Captain Kitchen and Leitz, Manager, practice was begun. A scheme was worked out, by which a senior on the squad assumed the direction of, and was responsible for the work on the apparatus with which he was most familiar. Kitchen took the tumblers in hand, Kubosch supervised the work on the horizontal bar, Porth had the parallel bars, Hansen the side horse and Leitz the Flying Rings.

Before the conference season opened, the gymnasts journeyed to Milwaukee and took the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. into camp by the narrow margin of thirteen points, 360 to 347. In this meet the fencers, Thompson and Reinhold, defeated the Milwaukee foil men in four bouts.

After two weeks of hard work on the weak spots, pointed out by the Milwaukee meet, the first conference dual meet was held at Chicago, with the strong Maroon Team as the opponents on February 23. Annexing four firsts, three seconds and three thirds, the Badgers humbled the last year's champs 1,194 to 1,166.

Reinhold and Thompson each won two foil bouts and lost one to the Chicago men, but the Fencing team was defeated by reason of Kubosch having to forfeit his matches, he being busy on the other apparatus at the time. Virtually it was a victory for the Badger fencers.

On April 3, the Gophers came down from Minnesota, for the second conference dual meet, and returned sad, but with hopes and determination of evening the score at the big meet. Score, 1,197 to 1,183.25.

With wins, by narrow margins over Chicago and Minnesota, and with these teams "out after" Wisconsin, the stage was set for a pretty battle at Columbus, Ohio, on March 17, the scene of the Western Intercollegiate Gymnastic Wrestling and Fencing Meet. Illinois, Ohio State, Iowa, Nebraska, Purdue and Ohio Wesleyan were entered in the meet, but the dope pointed to a three cornered battle between Chicago, Minnesota and Wisconsin, and the results bore out the predictions. The meet was not decided until the last event was run off, and the totals given out, Wisconsin 1,114, Chicago, 1,113, Minnesota 1,096.5. Conference Championship was never decided before by so narrow a margin. In this meet, Porth took a first on the Flying Rings, Schmidt took third. On the Side Horse Hansen took his usual first. On the horizontal bar Schmidt took a second and Kubosch third. Kitchen took a second in tumbling and Schmidt wound up by a third on the parallels.

Coach Leitz

Thompson was entered in the foil event, but was unable to get started until too late to overcome his early defeats. He lost three bouts by the score of 7–6. Reinhold entered the saber event and ended in third place against strong competition.

It was a case of a well balanced team, composed of all good men winning out over teams of a few stars and a group of fillers.

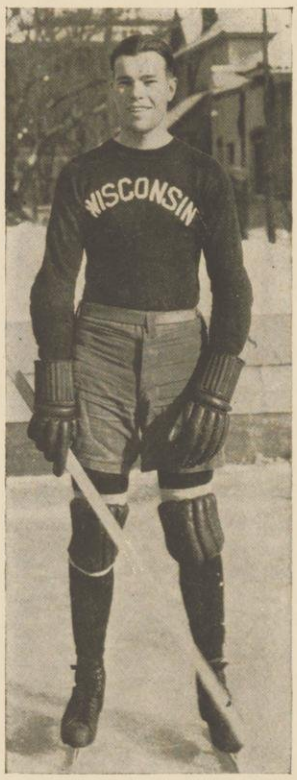
Hockey, 1923

THE SPEED, skill, team play and endurance required in ice hockey, combined with its competitive nature and simplicity of comprehension are attracting the enthusiasm and the audience it deserves. To so great an extent is home talent developing, particularly at the University of Wisconsin, that in the near future it will be ranked as a Major Sport. At Wisconsin there is one great drawback, the lack of an enclosed rink, which would evade the uncertainty of the surface, and combat the elements of nature particularly for the spectator. Were this corrected, Hockey could and would become a self supporting sport, but with a lighted rink and a little more material which will come in time, it should attract by its competitive nature, interclass and inter-Fraternity games. Then it could really be called a University sport.

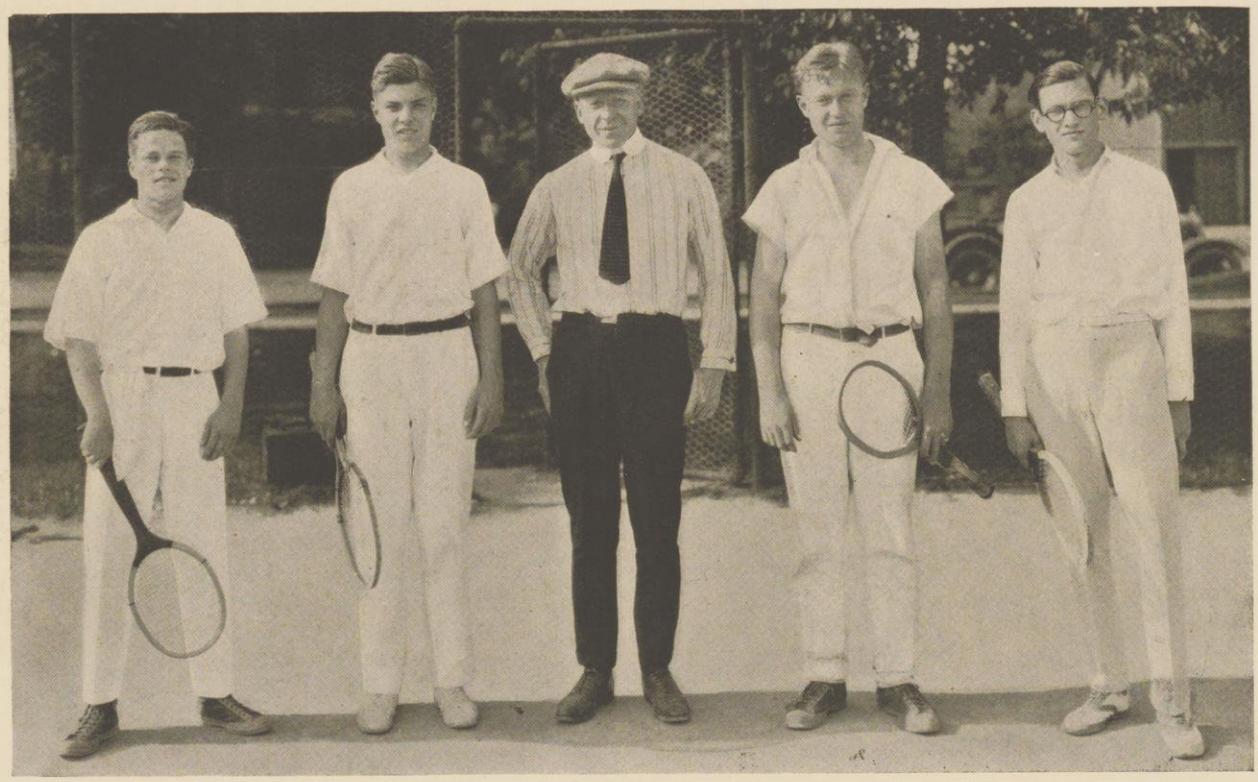


Captain Combacker

Minnesota-Wisconsin

Coach Viner

WISCONSIN in its second year is doing very well, although the schedule is as yet incomplete. In one year Wisconsin has developed from the underdog to almost the equal of its antagonists and with similar improvement next year, it should be supreme. The team was composed of four of last year's regulars, Combacker, Tredwell, Blodgett and Fiske, and six newcomers, Johnson, Mokreijs, Moran, Von Sceliski, Wood and Haugh. Of these it will lose four men by graduation. However, there is good material among the Freshman Squad and next year's team should be superior to this. Hockey has made its impression upon the student body, and it will shortly make its mark.



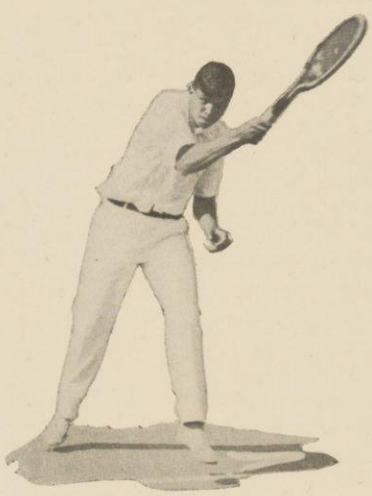
Tennis

WISCONSIN'S Varsity tennis squad opened its 1922 season with a decisive victory over the strong Milton college team. The tournament was taken by a 6 to 0 win, the Milton representatives being unable to capture any of the matches.

Although the team was handicapped last year by a long rainy spell which delayed practice, it was in fair condition at the opening of the schedule with Milton on April 28.

For this first engagement Coach Linden picked for his team Capt. Thomas Tredwell, Bub Gotfredson, Art Moulding and Larry Hastings. Gotfredson was a veteran of two years and Tredwell had experienced two years of Big Ten competition also.

Moulding, a sophomore, showed up extremely well and took third position on the squad. Art was freshman champion the year before.



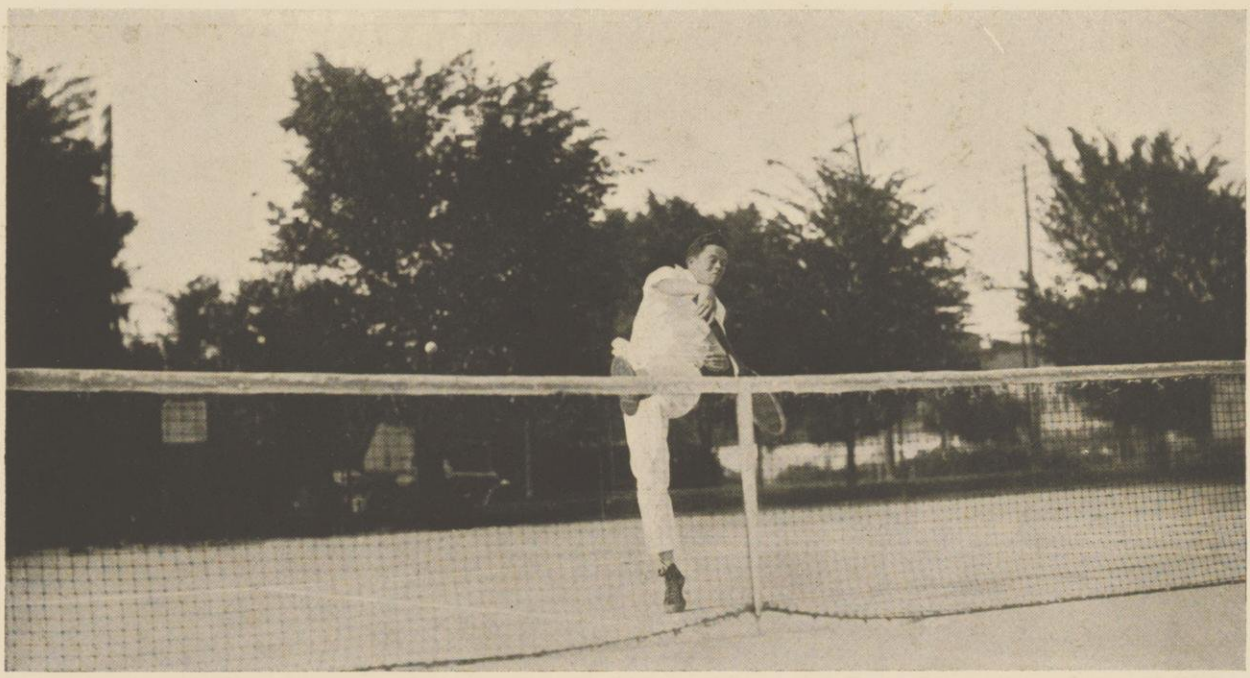
Tredwell

Hastings beat out George Parker, a senior, for fourth place and played creditably throughout the season, showing himself erratic at times and exceptionally consistent at others.

Tredwell and Gotfredson were, of course, mainstays of the team. As a double combination they presented a speedy, slashing, driving pair, to be feared by any opponents. In the singles Gotfredson was sure to sweep his man off the courts in the first set with a whirlwind brand of tennis, but always dropped into more of a defensive game in the second and third sets which usually gave him great difficulty.

Capt. Tredwell is noted for his consistency. It is almost uncanny. He plays the same type of tennis at all times and is always a puzzle to the man across the net.

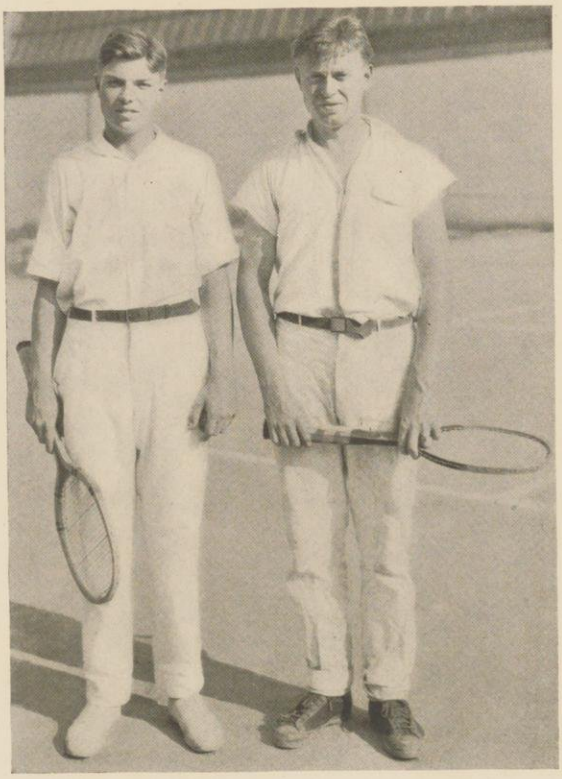
Hastings



The Conference season opened a week later when the Northwestern aggregation came to Madison and lost five matches out of the six. Coach Linden had his men in the best of condition by this time and real tennis was displayed. Hastings had hard luck by losing the second and third sets after making a pretty win in the first set by 7–5.

On May 3, Badger tennis fans witnessed an intersectional tournament when the University of Southern California's country winning racqueteers swooped down on Madison and the Varsity. It was a whirlwind of a contest, Gotfredson taking the first set that the Trojans had lost on their trip to date. However, he lost his match as did Tredwell, and the double combination.

Coach Linden then took his men to Minneapolis for their second Big Ten tilt with the Gophers. With the score at 2 all, rain began falling so fast that the meet was postponed. It was played off in Madison and resulted in a tie, 3 to 3, Wisconsin taking both doubles and Tredwell defeating Bros in the singles 7–5, and 6–2.



The Conference meet at Chicago, the latter part of May was disastrous to the Badger outfit. The champions were pulled for the first round and Coach Linden's men consequently eliminated.

The prospects for the Varsity squad this spring are good, but were darkened, somewhat by the loss of Campbell, freshman champion of last year, through ineligibility. "Nick" Aagesen has returned to school, and after a semester of bucking, is eligible again. Aagesen has had a year of Conference competition and will be ably fitted to fill the vacancy created by the graduation of Bub Gotfredson.

Around Hastings, Tredwell, and Moulding, Coach Linden will build his team. Henika and Bennett are men who have proved themselves in the Varsity class and will give these men some keen competition for their former place on the squad.

With these men on hand, chances for a Big Ten championship are better than ever.

The schedule for this season follows:

April 28 Iowa at Madison
May 5 Minnesota at Madison
May 12 Chicago at Madison
May 19 Northwestern at Evanston
May 21 Michigan at Ann Arbor
May 25–27 at Chicago

Golf

WISCONSIN'S Golf Team, composed of Morton Frost, Capt., L. H. Bauer, Adolph Bock and Henry Cappen, started the Badger's first season on May 6th in a meet with Beloit, winning by a score of 20–0 in 36 holes. The stars of the meet for Wisconsin were Cappen and Frost of Wisconsin, each of whom scored 6 points.

The meet held with Chicago on the Maple Bluff grounds on May 13th was lost 19–9 in 18 holes. This was offset, however, by a win over Minnesota on May 20th of 18–6.

The 1922 golf season at Wisconsin was terminated on June 20th and 21st at Chicago where the Conference Meet was held. In this, the Badgers placed third, being outclassed by Chicago and Michigan. The aggregate was 668 for 36 holes.

Interscholastic Track

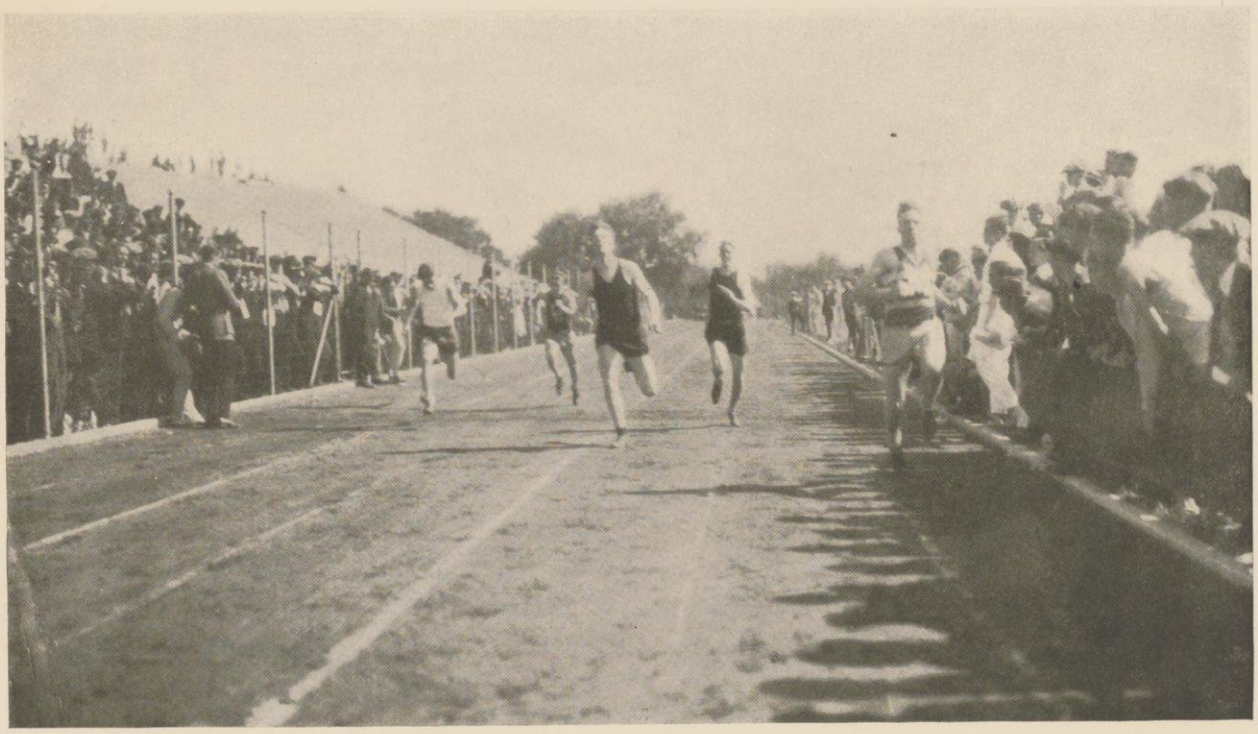
MILWAUKEE high schools again showed their supremacy in the Class A events at the twenty-eighth annual track and field meet. From the very beginning of the meet the Cream City athletes promised to win by a wide margin; it was consequently a battle between the several schools of that city.

Riverside and West Side divided honors all through the first period of the meet, each running up a high number of points. Both schools had well balanced teams, Graf of Riverside and Shotolo of Westside sharing individual honors for the day by scores of ten points each.

Riverside's team, supported by over two hundred cheering fans, succeeded in taking six firsts, a second, a third, and a fourth for a total of thirty-nine points.

Several surprises characterized the day's events. Kub of Milwaukee North broke Landowski's record when he cleared the bar at eleven feet sixteen inches, and Riverside's relay team clipped off one and three-fifths seconds from its previous record. Schwartz of Washington High completed the surprises by defeating Graf in the shot put.

Much keener competition was shown in Class B. Monticello finished first with only a margin of three points ahead of Spooner and LaFarge who were tied for second. Every event was close and hard fought, for each place was a large factor in deciding the victors.



Annual Normal Meet

THREE old records were broken and a fourth one tied in the Annual Normal School Meet held last June. The meet was the fastest one of its kind ever held on Camp Randall.

Milwaukee Normal gained a big lead early in the afternoon by taking several first and second places. With a powerful aggregation of athletes like Thiesenhussen, Donovan, Zilisch, and Stone, the Cream City normal had little trouble in overcoming all competition offered by the other state schools.

The record for the 120 yard high hurdles was smashed when Armstrong of La Crosse dashed over the course in 16 seconds, lowering the former mark by 3-5 of a second. Thiesenhussen set a mark for the mile event which, no doubt, will stand for many years. He easily lowered the record when he won the event in 4 minutes, 33 and 4-5 seconds, the old record being 4 minutes, 41 and 2-5 seconds. Donovan, another Milwaukee man, broke the record for the quarter mile.

Several of the stars in this meet are now at Wisconsin and are out for track honors.

Wisconsin-Iowa Radio Meet

ON FEBRUARY 23, the Badger yearlings again took their annual telegraph track meet from the Iowa State freshmen by a lopsided score, their total of 63 points swamping the total of 26 garnered by the Hawkeye frosh. Seven firsts were chalked up by our men, and clean sweeps were made in the 40 yard dash, the 40 yard high hurdles, the 440 yard run, the 880 yard run, the broad jump, and the high jump. A very presentable showing for the future Varsity aspirants. Iowa's sole dependence lay in the pole vault and shot put, where they took the three first positions. A first place in the 2 mile run and a third in the mile completed the scoring achievements of the Corn Staters.

Zilisch, captain of the Badgers, was individual high man, winning first in the broad jump by a leap of 20 feet 6.5 inches, and first in the 40 yard high hurdles, in which he made the time of 5.7 seconds.

Inter-Class Outdoor Track Meet

THE INTER-CLASS Outdoor Track Meet, held at Camp Randall, was an event of unusual interest. Over two hundred and fifty entries were handed in at the Gym before the afternoon of the meet.

Any aspirant for track honors who was not a "W" man or a member of the Varsity squad was eligible to compete in the events of the day. Places won in this meet counted toward numerals.

The freshmen were picked to win because of their numbers and also because of the fact that their best men were not drawn for Varsity. However, the Sophomores upset the dope and took the meet by obtaining 67½ points. The Freshmen took second with 44½ points; Juniors third with 17; and Seniors trailed with 5 points.

Inter-Class Indoor Track Meet

ALL FOUR classes were well represented when their teams met in the gym annex on January 30. This meet really took the place of the first Varsity tryout, for the showing the men made counted much when final decisions were made of the men who were to be on the Varsity squad. All "W" men were barred from the meet.

Since the Freshmen were not considered as strong as in former years the Sophomores were all set to take the meet. They were surprised however by the Seniors, who won the meet by a small margin of 4½ points. The Sophomores lost the meet by such a meager margin because two men from other classes slipped in for first places which the second year men should have taken.

Donahue '24, was high point winner with 8 markers, taking first in the high jump and second in the shot put. No records were broken.

Annual Badger Relay Meet

THREE records were broken and two tied in the seventeenth annual Relay Carnival which was held in the gym annex, February seventeenth.

Schwarze, of St. Johns' pulled the biggest surprise, breaking the shot put record by a five-foot margin.

Newell, Wisconsin hurdler, tied the record made last year by Al Knollin in the high hurdles.

Pi Kappa Alpha relay team came within 1-5 second of tying the old record.

The Inter-Sorority relay was won by the Kappa Deltas, the tie between Alpha Chi Omega and Kappa Delta being decided by the flip of a coin.

Soccer

INTEREST has been growing in Soccer during the last few years. Gymnasium classes were playing daily on the lower campus all through the fall season. This fall teams were picked from the different gym classes and were allowed to compete for a championship.

Stiff rivalry and fighting were shown all through the processes of elimination. Eight teams were competing for honors. Many of the games were played on muddy and slippery grounds and consequently were not mere fun nor play.

The Period Team finally won the championship by defeating the Tigers in a fast and hard-fought game. Although the playing was largely of amateur style some flashes of brilliancy were shown.

Soccer is the favorite sport in England, comparing with football in the United States. Interest for Soccer, however, seems to be growing rapidly at many colleges and schools in this country, and soon ought to become a popular intercollegiate sport.

It is one of the sports to which many foreign students at Wisconsin take a liking. The Chinese students have a team which is a hard one to beat. Immediately following the final game, the Periods were challenged by the Chinese team.

The teams were coached by Frank Leitz, assistant to Coach Linden.

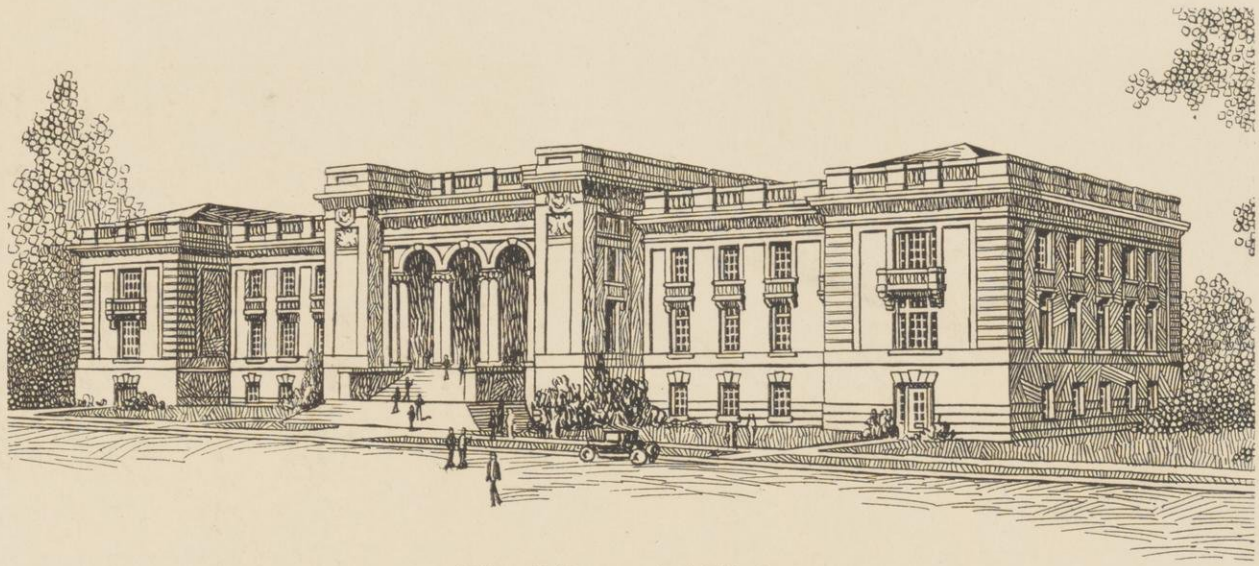
Activities

In "Outside Activities" the student finds a subject that leads him closer to the world at large than by any other means within the college sphere.

Activities touch upon almost every phase of economic life; where the student is both the buyer and the seller of ideas. His knowledge is broadened by the contact with other students. His powers of leadership are tested to the utmost.



The Memorial Union

"A Home for Wisconsin Spirit"

A UNIVERSITY is made great, and kept great, by the force of a great tradition.

Such a tradition we have at Wisconsin, and it is with a pardonable glow of pride that we think of her as "the leading state University." We have an athletic tradition in which the names of O'Dea, Richards, Van Gent, Weston, Tebell are flashing symbols; a scholastic tradition which we owe to a line of able presidents and devoted scholars; a human tradition which stamps Wisconsin as a great service institution and which has brought forward such men as Professors Babcock, Max Mason and McCaffery to add their bit to the advancement of a needy generation.

And the greatest of these traditions is the last, in the spirit of which the University is asking for an additional means to be of service. We are going to have a new type of building on our campus; a building which will be erected out of the sacrifice and devotion of thousands of Wisconsin men and women, which will literally be built of their spirit and love for alma mater, and which will be designed to perpetuate those qualities in Wisconsin generations yet to come. The Union: "A Home for Wisconsin Spirit," and builded of the very essence of it.

The Union! A place where a man can find his own crowd, and make those life-long friendships which grow out of acquaintance over a dinner table; a place to play in and work in, and where the life of the University from the pool table to the theatre will find free expression; a place where a man can get a thorough grounding in that which brings success in life, a knowledge of the other fellow.

The Union! A place where we, the average fellow, can come to know intimately the life of this great University. Where we can take a dad or an alumnus and say, "This is the University. Here's where we get together to talk over the points of view we get in classes, and, where solid conceptions of life and duty are formed. Here's where radical points of view are tempered by conservative, and conservative enlivened by radical. Here's where we put out our student paper, our Badger, our student dramatics. Here's where we welcome our alumni when they come back, and put them up if they haven't a room. Here is the healthy life of the University all within the frame of one picture."

It is a proud thing to be a builder and part owner of such a building, and it will become still greater as the Union weaves itself solidly into the pattern of life in the University.

And if we may venture a prophecy, let us state as our own belief that the life membership button of the Wisconsin Union will become the distinguishing mark of a real Wisconsin man or woman.

In the last year much has been done.

At this writing over eight hundred and thirty thousand dollars has been pledged, of this about four hundred and eighty thousand dollars is available in cash for building purposes. The immediate goal of a million dollars seems likely to be realized by June.

The money that we have now is amply sufficient to begin and continue operations, and as the plans now stand, such operations will begin next fall. Actual construction of the building has been delayed by a variety of factors, prominent among which have been the exorbitant building costs, and the difficulty of so making plans as to serve the greatest convenience of all for the longest time.

Two of the best architects in the Northwest are working on the plans, and the general form of the building is decided upon. The details of arrangement and construction of a building of this size are always worked out as the work proceeds. The plans include now, a theatre of reasonable size, a Varsity commons capable of seating three thousand at a single meal, and a lounge and club room facilities. Then there will be offices and space provided for student activities, bowling and billiard rooms, special guest quarters for visiting alumni and life members who are not alumni.

The Union is to be made to suit the greatest convenience of the entire student body, and the greatest care is being exercised in laying the plans for that reason. We are building it only once, and that once must be right.

We will have our Union, and that at the earliest moment possible. The future has never looked brighter and the ultimate and immediate success of our project more certain.

And perhaps, not until the building is up, and in full operation, will we realize what a splendid big thing we have done for Wisconsin, and with what vision and wisdom we have laid the foundation for the certain future greatness of our University.

The Student Senate

The Student Senate is the sole representative and legislative body of the male students of the University. Its authority comes from a charter granted by the Faculty and Regents of the University in 1916.

The Student Senate is given power to ascertain and express student sentiment, to provide for the maintenance of good order in the student body, to co-operate with the Women's Self-Government Association in matters relating to the interests of both men and women, to supervise and regulate extra-curricular interests and activities within certain limits, to co-operate with the Faculty and Regents in matters pertaining to student welfare, and to enforce its ruling by means of a student court.

The President of the University is ex-officio President of the Student Senate. The student membership is selected as follows: five men elected from the senior class, three elected from the junior class, two elected from the sophomore class, one elected from the freshman class, and one elected by the graduate students; in addition one representative is elected from each of the following: The Athletic Board, the Cardinal Board of Control, the Forensic Board, the Wisconsin Union Board, and the Badger Board, represented by the Editor-in-Chief of the Badger.

Self-Government Association

THE SELF-GOVERNMENT Association is the governing body of the women students of the University. All women automatically become members as soon as they register.

The Association has diverse aims. The greatest of these is to further the spirit of unity among the women on the campus. The Association further aims to coördinate the work of the Women's organizations, and to co-operate with the Student Senate in matters relating to both men and women students.

Through the Legislative Board, which is composed of a representative from each rooming house, sorority, and each of the two dormitories, the Association aims to establish a feeling of unity among the women students.

Keystone Council, which consists of the presidents of each of the women's organizations, coördinates the policies and work of all women's organizations on the campus.

The Judicial Committee consists of the President of the Association, three Seniors, three Juniors, and one Sophomore, who are selected from the University at large.

Council of Forty

THE COUNCIL of Forty was originated four years ago to provide a means of contact between the heads of all the organizations of male students of the University.

Meetings are held only upon the request of a member, or some University group, to discuss and solve some University problem. In the adoption of a plan the Council provides the quickest means of placing it before the whole student body.

In the past years the Council has taken in hand the Memorial Union Drives, Freshman Welcome, and similar activities.

Union Board

THE UNION BOARD consists of members elected from the male students of the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore classes.

The primary function of the board is to provide for the social needs of the students. Accordingly, the board controls such student affairs as the weekly dances at Lathrop Parlors, University Mixers, Union Vaudeville, University Circus, and the University Exposition, which is held every fourth year.

Moreover, the Union Board has charge of artists' concerts, bringing many of the world's finest musicians before the student body. This year the Board also has taken over the management of convocations, a function formerly controlled by the Forensic Board.

All profits from Union Board events are turned over to the Memorial Union Fund. The board is the most active student organization working toward the completion of the new Union Building, and after its completion will have charge of its administration.

The 1922 Homecoming

The 1922 Homecoming was a real homecoming indeed. Thousands of old grads returned to their Alma Mater to clasp hands with college comrades, and to refresh the memories of their college days. Not even the defeat of the Badger team ruined the occasion; for the thousands of spectators who remained in the stands after the final whistle and sang the Varsity Toast gave evidence that the Wisconsin Spirit knows no defeat. It was that spirit of turning defeat into victory that made the 1922 Homecoming a success in all events.

The 1924 Junior Prom

State Capitol, February 2, 1923

GORDON WANZER, chairman
PAULINE AMBROSE, partner

THE "Prom for Every Badger," the twenty-eighth annual Junior Class Promenade, was just as successful, if not more so, than its predecessors. It was the seventh "greatest University social function" to be held in the State House.

Viewing the prom from the standpoint of numbers participating in the event and its organization, the 1924 Prom surpassed all others. Eight hundred couples purchased tickets with supper checks. Nearly a thousand spectators viewed the affair. Nearly one hundred and fifty persons worked on committees.

Five assistant general chairmen directed the work of the committees for the first time in prom history. The number of committee chairmen was increased to twenty-three, exceeding by four the number of the previous year.

Military Ball, 1923

THE ELEVENTH Annual Military Ball was held in the state capitol building Friday night, April 20th. Cadet Col. Robert L. Luening, Oconomowoc, and Miss Sylvia V. Marlewski, Milwaukee, led the procession of dancers around through the labyrinth of pillars and up the marble stairways. The long line of uniform-clad men and gaily dressed women finally came to a stop and Wisconsin's foremost military event of the year began.

After weeks of preparation, the committees finished their work and were ready to entertain the University in the biggest spring season party. Bright decorations in keeping with things military were used throughout the capitol. Flags and red, white, and blue bunting and streamers covered the railings and pillars in the rotunda. Nor were tributes to the dead forgotten in the merriment of the dancers. Appropriate decorations in commemoration of Wisconsin's soldier and sailor dead were evident.

Music for the evening was furnished by Thompson's fifteen piece orchestra. In keeping with the policy of reducing the cost of social functions, the committee arranged to secure the best local music rather than get more expensive players from out of the city.

Lighting effects for the affair were carefully carried out with exacting regard for the smallest detail. No reasonable expense was spared to make the ball attractive as well as enjoyable.

The ball was voted a distinctive success despite the fact that permission to dance until two o'clock could not be obtained. The dancers were agreed that the Eleventh Annual Ball was the best that they had ever attended. Similar functions in future years might eclipse the brilliancy of the present affair, but this one was to be enjoyed at the moment and treasured as the best.

The Varsity Welcome

THE VARSITY Welcome is the formal introduction of the freshman class to the fellowship of Wisconsin loyalty and spirit. At that time the men don their green caps, symbolizing acceptance of Wisconsin tradition.

The first out door Varsity Welcome was held in 1920, and the event is already firmly engrafted in University tradition. It is held on the first Friday of the school year on Lincoln Terrace.

This mighty Presence for our sons and daughters

The Daily Cardinal

Newell

Wisconsin's only student newspaper was founded in the spring of 1892. Since that time it has successfully brought to the majority of campus breakfast tables all the news of the university world. Two competitors have threatened the existence of the Cardinal, the Aegis, a weekly appearing at the time of the founding of the daily, and the Wisconsin Daily News which had a two year existence following its initial publication in 1912. The Cardinal today is student owned and student controlled and has a circulation of over 3,000.

The Wisconsin Literary Magazine

Sapper

Familiarly known as "The Lit," the Wisconsin Literary magazine appears each month on the campus with the poems, literary writings, and impressions of student literati, with now and then a particularly clever professor's latest effort thrown in. "The Lit" is successor to The Wisconsin Magazine which was preceded by The Aegis which way back in 1895 had the reputation of being the leading college literary magazine.

The Octopus has reached a throne of permanency as a Wisconsin humor magazine. Previous to the Octopus the Awk, the Blackbird, the Sphinx and other publications failed to obtain the necessary student publications. The Octopus was founded in 1921 and already has attained an enviable place in the college magazine zoo.

Wisconsin's technical magazine is one of the oldest of the campus publications, having been founded in 1896. Since its founding the magazine has expanded and is now of only a semi-technical nature with stress placed on articles of interest to students. With only one hundred and forty-three students in the College of Agriculture in 1906, The Country Magazine, then known as "The Student Farmer," was originated and proved a success. Except for a short period during the war, the magazine under its present name, has brought news and articles of an agricultural interest nine times a year to the farmers of the state, the Home Economics students, and the Agricultural students.

Gerhauser

The Wisconsin Athletic Review is the official publication of the University Athletic Department, but it is edited and managed entirely by the students. The Review seeks to promote a greater interest in athletics and to maintain the highest standards of sportsmanship in all kinds of athletic competition. It is the purpose of the book not only to acquaint university students and alumni with what's what in Wisconsin's athletic world, but to prove of interest and help to the high school athletes throughout the state.

LAW REVIEW

The Wisconsin Law Review, published quarterly by the faculty and students of the Law school, deals primarily with questions of Wisconsin law; and with questions of general law, which are of especial interest to Wisconsin. It is published in the hope that a discussion of legal problems with particular application to Wisconsin law, will be of service to the bench, the bar, and the people of Wisconsin; and that a survey of the present condition of Wisconsin law will contribute to its scientific development.

The Wisconsin Alumni Magazine

The Alumni Magazine is the official publication of the Alumni Association—the organization of former students that helps the University through co-operative efforts. As a means to such an end, this publication was started in 1899. By keeping former students in touch with the University and with each other, the Alumni Association adds co-operative endeavor to individual goodwill. As nearly eight thousand former students are members of the Alumni Association, its official publication, The Alumni Magazine, reaches a larger representative, diversified, cosmopolitan list of readers than does any other publication promoting University interests. These members are included in all the classes from 1860 to 1923 and are found in every state of the United States, the Canal Zone, Cuba, District of Columbia, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, eight Canadian provinces—Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Ontario, Quebec, and Saskatchewan, in Argentina, Australia, Belgium, China, Chile, Costa Rica, Colombia, Denmark, Dominican Republic, England, France, Germany, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, India, Italy, Jamaica, Japan, Java, Korea, Mexico, Persia, Peru, Roumania, Servia, Siam, Siberia, South Africa, Sweden, Turkey, and Uruguay. The Alumni Association through the publication renders unique and distinct service to Alma Mater in keeping members of her ever increasing family in touch with her and with each other, in increasing individual goodwill, and in adding to such goodwill co-operative loyalty. Its members recognize "the obligation of all former students to keep alive and growing in a healthful and vigorous manner the spirit of the University."

The Cadet Corps

The work of the Wisconsin Corps of Cadets as part of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps was brought to a successful close by the annual General Staff inspection held on May 20, 1922. As a result of this inspection, the University of Wisconsin was again rated as a "Distinguished College" by the War Department.

The high stand of the Military Department in the past several years has been due in great part to the general interest and willingness to co-operate of every man in the Corps of Cadets. It may be predicted with confidence that a continuation of this spirit will keep the University among the leaders in the important work of training men for the national defense.

THE PRESIDENT'S GUARD

The leaders of our people in peace or war come, to a large extent, from our college men. Until there is some definite assurance of the impossibility of future war, it would seem that a training which better prepares these men for such an emergency should be of extreme importance to the nation. The Reserve Officers' Training Corps is so considered by the War Department; and the University of Wisconsin, in this work as in other fields of endeavor, has long been foremost among the colleges of the country.

Philomathia Literary Society

Thirty-seven years old, the youngest society on the Hill, yet the richest in honors and accomplishments, such is the Philomathian Literary Society. Its aims are two-fold: the promotion of good fellowship, and the development of men by teaching them to think clearly and soundly, to express those thoughts simply and effectively, thus helping them to attain their ideals of leadership and personality.

Agricultural Literary Society

For eighteen years the Agricultural Literary Society has aimed to stimulate interest in agricultural and economic topics by presenting them in debates. The institution of an annual debate between Agricultural Literary society and the hill society not competing in the Joint has resulted in victories over Hesperia and Athenae in debates second only to the Joint.

Pythia

The Pythian Literary Society was organized in 1902, as a sequel to the Laurea Literary Society, which was founded in 1872 and dissolved in 1899. To care for its changed and increased demands the Society has revised its constitution this year—and the purpose of the Pythia members as stated in the revised preamble, is to obtain "the opportunity for self-expression in the capacities for which we are best fitted."

The University Bands

The University Bands consist normally of about one hundred and twenty-five men, divided between two organizations known as the First Regimental Concert band, mainly a concert organization, and the Second band, which forms a training school for the less experienced students. The concert band gives several winter indoor concerts, and a series of outdoor concerts on the Upper Campus in the spring. Both bands contribute music for university athletic contests and the annual review of the corps of cadets. The bands are conducted in the interests of musical education, giving students an opportunity to perfect themselves on their instruments, and to gain a knowledge of the outstanding compositions of band literature.

University Glee Club

The University Glee Club under the direction of Professor E. Earle Swinney has developed into an organization capable of presenting a grade of music which is above that of the majority of glee clubs. It has been the purpose of the club to help raise the standard of music in the colleges and universities and it welcomed the organization of the Intercollegiate Glee Club Association in Chicago last May. At the first contest of the association in Orchesta Hall, Chicago, February 9, 1923, Wisconsin won first place, competing with eleven of the best clubs in the middle west. On the evening of March 3rd the club sang in Carnegie Hall, New York City, as the guest of the Intercollegiate Glee Club Corporation of New York.

Girls' Glee Club

The University Girls' Glee Club is an organization composed of forty voices picked from the university women. Tryouts are held twice a year, and only the best voices are chosen. The club has weekly practices under Dr. C. H. Mills' direction, and owes a great part of its efficiency to his excellent leadership. The girls are trying to become better known in university and state life in order that they may some day take concert trips, and add to the fame of our campus life as our men have done.

There are eight soloists in the club, four first sopranos, two second sopranos, and two altos. With their aid the mid-winter concert was a great success. In the spring, the Glee Club usually gives another concert which is an invitational affair for friends of club members.

Clef Club

Clef club is an organization of about forty girls chosen from the student body for special musical ability, either instrumental or vocal. Tryouts for membership are held in the Spring and Fall, when the club hears applicants and chooses from among them a limited number for membership. Regular closed meetings are held twice a month during the school year. During the past year the club has been giving programs twice a month at the Mendota hospital for shell shocked soldiers. An annual concert is given in the spring.

"All our girls are men—"

ORIENTAL nights, a speeding ship controlled by pirates, beautiful girls, adventurous Americans and a cutthroat Sheik with a sumptuous harem—this is the setting for "Kikmi," the silver anniversary production of the Haresfoot club which was produced during the spring vacation in Oshkosh, Appleton, Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Rockford, and Chicago, and later in Madison.

A new venture in Haresfoot activity this year, was the building and painting of all the scenery used in the show. In this way the correct atmosphere for all the situations were obtained to the minutest detail and a new line of activity for university students was created.

The Haresfoot Club is the oldest dramatic organization on the campus having been founded in 1898 at which time light comedies and farces were presented. In 1909 the Haresfoot Club entered the field of producing an annual musical comedy and since that time with the motto "All our girls are men—yet everyone a lady," the club has annually offered a student opera which ranks with the best.

"—yet everyone a lady."

Wisconsin University Players

The Wisconsin University Players was formed in October, 1922, by the coalition of Red Domino and Twelfth Night, women's dramatic clubs, with Edwin Booth, men's dramatic club.

Purpose: to further the appreciation and understanding of that which is most serious and worthy in the dramatic art, and for increasing the interest of the students at the University of Wisconsin in the drama by study and production.

The Stronger

Pre-Prom Play

February 1st marked the first public appearance of the Wisconsin University Players when they produced Carlyle Moore's farce comedy, "Stop Thief," for the prom goers. The production, managed by Herbert Boning and Harold Bentson, was a decided success and showed the results of careful coaching by Ralph Scheinpflug. Members of the cast were Katherine O'Shea, Pauline Ambrose, Carol Goodyear, Olivia Orth, Alfred Luddin, Thomas MacLean, Laurens Hastings, Don Marvin, Lee McCandless, Roy French, Vincent Conlin, Carlyle Richards, Carroll Roach, and William Tannewitz.

The Blue Bandits

The Gun and Blade presented as this year's production a comic opera entitled "The Blue Bandits." The setting of the opera is the village of Broux, France, after the war. The plot evolves over an expected raid by "Blue Bandits" and their final capture after many contretemps; the fun evolving around a village "nut," the pompous pride of the village war hero and his five trusty Gendarmes, two American doughboys, and French girls whom they woed and won.

The Curtain Club

The Curtain Club, a dramatic organization made up, for the most part, of members of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin, was founded three years ago for the purpose of giving distinguished performances of superior plays, and of fostering playwriting by adequately presenting worthy original plays which have not yet been submitted to professional producers.

The Curtain Club was especially fortunate in securing for its last production, Red Bird, the work of one of its members. Red Bird is a play based on the most interesting and moving events in the early history of the State of Wisconsin. It was written by Professor William Ellery Leonard, of the department of English of the University, a nationally recognized poet and playwright.

The Association was founded in 1882. During these 41 years of activity its influence has been felt throughout the entire world. Its members have carried into all walks of life a high ideal of Christian service, and the contribution to Religious Leadership has been considerable. In Association work itself many have risen to most influential positions, not only in America, but in Japan, India, China, Hawaii, Mexico, Poland, Switzerland, and Greece.

The Association aims to serve every man in the University and in turn seeks to enlist him in voluntary Christian service on the Campus, in the city of Madison, and throughout the State. About 300 men are organized under the leadership of the President and the Cabinet, the Junior Council, the Sophomore Commission and the Freshman Committee. Some of the most influential members of the Faculty and citizens of Madison constitute the personnel of the Board of Directors and Board of Trustees.

Journalism House

430 North Frances Street

The Journalism House was founded in 1921 so that women in the University with a common interest in journalistic activities might live together. Women majoring in the Course in Journalism are those chosen for membership in the organization. The girls make an effort to have every member represented in some one of the many journalistic activities on the campus. The organization is the first of its kind established anywhere in the country.

Religious Groups

WHEN the sons and daughters of our people leave home to enter upon an entirely new phase of life at the University, they do so handicapped by the lack of those happy associations which the home offers for the building of strong character. Since students are necessarily denied these associations, it has been felt that they ought not also be denied the opportunity to develop the spiritual side of their lives. The University which, as a public institution, can teach nothing that is "partisan in politics or sectarian in religion," is unable to offer its students this opportunity in the fullest measure.

It is for this reason that the religious forces of the state have established centers of religious activity about the campus. A survey of the activities of these centers indicates that a very large majority of the students are interested in religious work in some form. The work in most of these centers is carried on by the students themselves, under the direction of their respective pastors; and the records show that the number of students thus actively engaged is considerably more than one thousand. As an opportunity for religious education these centers offer not less than forty formal courses in religion.

This department in the Badger has been established for two purposes: first, that those who are interested might know the nature and extent of this opportunity offered students for the development of their religious life; second, that those students who chose to temper their college life with this ennobling influence of religion might have a permanent record to which they might turn in the future to renew memories of associations and friendships made dear by a common effort toward this attainment of a high purpose in life.

Purpose and Work

The Campus Religious Council is the co-ordinating body of organizations doing religious work on the campus. The council conducts a series of all-university religious convocations throughout the school year, speakers for which are secured from among the representative men of the nation. Besides doing work among foreign students, taking an annual religious census of the university, holding lenten and summer religious services and encouraging religious education and activity among the students, the Council, through its business and social sessions, furthers efficiency and co-operation among its constituent organizations. The purpose and the justification of the Campus Religious Council is co-operation and co-ordination of campus religious work, educational, social and spiritual.

Agricultural Triangle Country Life Club

Founded at the University of Wisconsin, 1919

The slogan of the club is "To train leaders for rural community service." This is accomplished by sending the members out to rural community meetings to give agricultural talks and to render humerous selections and musical numbers. The members of the club served as play day leaders for twenty-five play days in Dane County rural schools last season. Each year the club presents on the campus its "Pumkin Holler Community Meeting," the net proceeds from this event serving to finance the trips into the rural districts when the local organizations can not meet these expenses.

French Club

The Undergraduate Club of the University of Wisconsin was organized primarily to enable its members to make progress in speaking and understanding the French language, and to become better acquainted with the art, literature, and customs of France. At the meetings of the organization, held every two weeks, French songs, dramatic performances, talks by students and members of the faculty especially intimate with French customs and literature, and general social intercourse constitute the program.

Joe Steinauer

Picture a good-looking young chap with quiet ways. Modest in demeanor, soft-spoken, observers would hardly judge him to be I'homme des affaires that he really is. Quietly he goes his solitary way, scarcely stopping his all-important work to chat with friendly passers-by. Smooth, verging on the handsome, quiet and inconspicuous; those are qualities which go to make up this perfect being. Again picture this super-man silently sitting in high councils, absorbing all that is said, but saying nary a word.

This man is NOT Joe Steinauer.

For the information of students who have been here only three or four years and who have not yet become acquainted with all of the "big boys," Joe Steinauer is the swimming coach at this here University of Wisconsin. He teaches men how to swim during the winter and coaxes the girls to swim in the summer.

Joe is the third partner in the firm of Bunque and Bumkem, but he is not the silent partner. He is more loquacious than a drunken bond salesman, and he would make silver-tongued Bill Bryan look like a stuttering clam. When Joe starts talking, the gang pulls up the chairs, opens the windows to let the hot air ooze out, and prepares to tell the wife that a sick friend caused the delay.

This guy puts out championship swimming teams. He drives his men like they were a ten-dog team competing in the annual race from Quebec to Nome, Alaska, but he gets them there. Every year he loses two teams through ineligibility, but takes the remnants and with the help of Joe Steinauer and God, develops an outfit that makes Northwestern, Chicago, and the rest of those cheap schools demote swimming to a minor sport and give big letters to chess players.

Steinauer knows every prize-fighter from Battling Siki to Eddie Borgelt. He trained most of them and those that didn't learn from him personally got all their dope from Steinauer's book, "How to Be a Successful Fighter Though Married."

He's the all-around, come-on, knock-'em-dead, he-man, Rattlesnake-Bill sort of a guy and he's got more friends than a mongrel dog has fleas.

Sam Becker

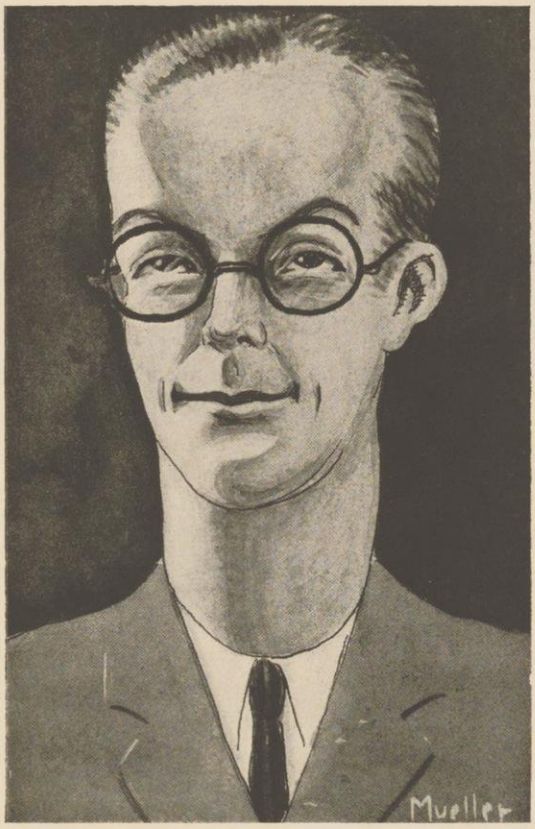
As I think back over the short years I passed at Wisconsin, and recall all the school did to me and how it tried to change me and how I refused to be changed, I realize that I was sent out into the cold hard world prepared to go through tag day fights and noon hour lunch rushes as few men have been. When I recall what a big man I was on the Campus and what an active chap I was in everything from the Menorah society to the Haresfoot chorus, it occurs to me that my departure must have created a great vacancy on the hill.

The more I think of my past greatness and things I accomplished in school, the more I am tempted to say to myself "Sam, if your future will be as great as your behind, you'll be a prominent man some Day." Although I made Phi Bete in the university, my best passes were made in Hinkson's basement with my pair of educated dice. I was so active at Wisconsin that I miss here the jolly association with youths of both sexes of my own age and temperament that I enjoyed there. Jolly old Harvard tries to discourage these frivolities but not to be denied my fun I joined both the Knights of Columbus and the Ku Klux Klan that I might glean every particle of social enjoyment.

Right here I must give Wisconsin credit. She brought me out. From a bashful blushing boy as a Freshman, the various Varsity functions that I allied myself with brought out all my good qualities until now, I am, as we say in the East, finished, at home among the best people, always at ease and all that sort of thing.

Little do you who are still in school know how we graduates would love once more to hear Joe Steinauer's mellow voice whispering in the twilight, or to choke down one more of Morgan's Sta-comb Malted Milks. To overturn once more a canoe on a warm Spring night, or to flunk another Accounting course. If you knew how much these little touches will mean to you after you have left the lovely old institution, you would co-operate with the Faculty, flunk more courses, and delay the pleasure of graduating as long as possible.

"SAMMY" BECKER



Reg Garstang

Having been an idol in the hearts of the undergraduates in the university last year, it has been very hard for me to settle down in the monontonous hum drum of the business world where one seems to get so little applause for his accomplishments. The trouble is that the university spoiled me. She lavished publicity and fame on me and held me up before the public eye as an example of what a young man should be, as much a part of the institution as Bascom Hall or Kehls. I miss the slap-on-the-back, and the familiar "Hello Reg" that used to make the Freshmen nudge each other and say "There goes Reg Garstang" when I went by.

I will never forget the numerous activities which at school were my very life, but I have been so busy with my chosen profession, Publicity Work, that I have had little time for outside diversions. Of course, I am still very enthusiastic about my Y. M. C. A. work, but I have neglected my theatricals to such an extent that I fear I couldn't even qualify for the Follies now.

The university taught me one thing which in all probability will shape my future career. That is Publicity is the thing that makes a man famous. In other words, it is not what a man does that makes him great, it is what the press says about him. I hold myself up as a living example of this. Through the agency I used to mould public opinion, namely, the Commerce Magazine, the students were given a chance to think over and settle by popular vote many important questions of the day. The result was that I was elected the honour of being called the most popular man in school. I suppose the vote was not actually necessary but was taken merely as a matter of form.

Wisconsin holds a warm spot in my heart, and I await with anticipation the day that I shall return to my Alma Mater which I am sure will be proud of me. Perhaps it shall be as an alumnus with a parcel of advice or perhaps as a prominent member of the Faculty to instruct one of my favorite subjects.

REG GARSTANG

Football

Mary is a grand old name, and football is a grand old game. Yeh, uh huh, you're right, like 'll you are. They get a couple of boilermakers together, put 'em in some leather harness and then chase them out on a grass field which is enclosed so they can't get out. In front of them, they got eleven guys who are sore because they ain't on the first team and behind them they has a coach, trainer, faculty adviser, and dean of the medical school, all of which is there because they got to have some excuse for going to the bursar's office every week and signing a pay voucher.

Well, they's a couple of guys on this here Wisconsin football team that nobody ain't going to forget. One of them is Rollie Williams, which isn't the bimbo who invented a shaving soap, and the other is Gus Tebell which plays a mighty mean game at end and thinks that all co-eds are nive. This guy Tebell learned to throw a football when he was two days old and he was a good tackler at the age of five when he used to tackle his old gent for some jack.

Tebell and Williams is a fine quartet of Siamese twins, which doesn't mean that they are black, even if they do have murder in their hearts when they get introduced to an Illinois guy. Williams is faster than a girl just escaped from a convent, and Tebell has to wear lead in his boots so he don't walk out of the state.

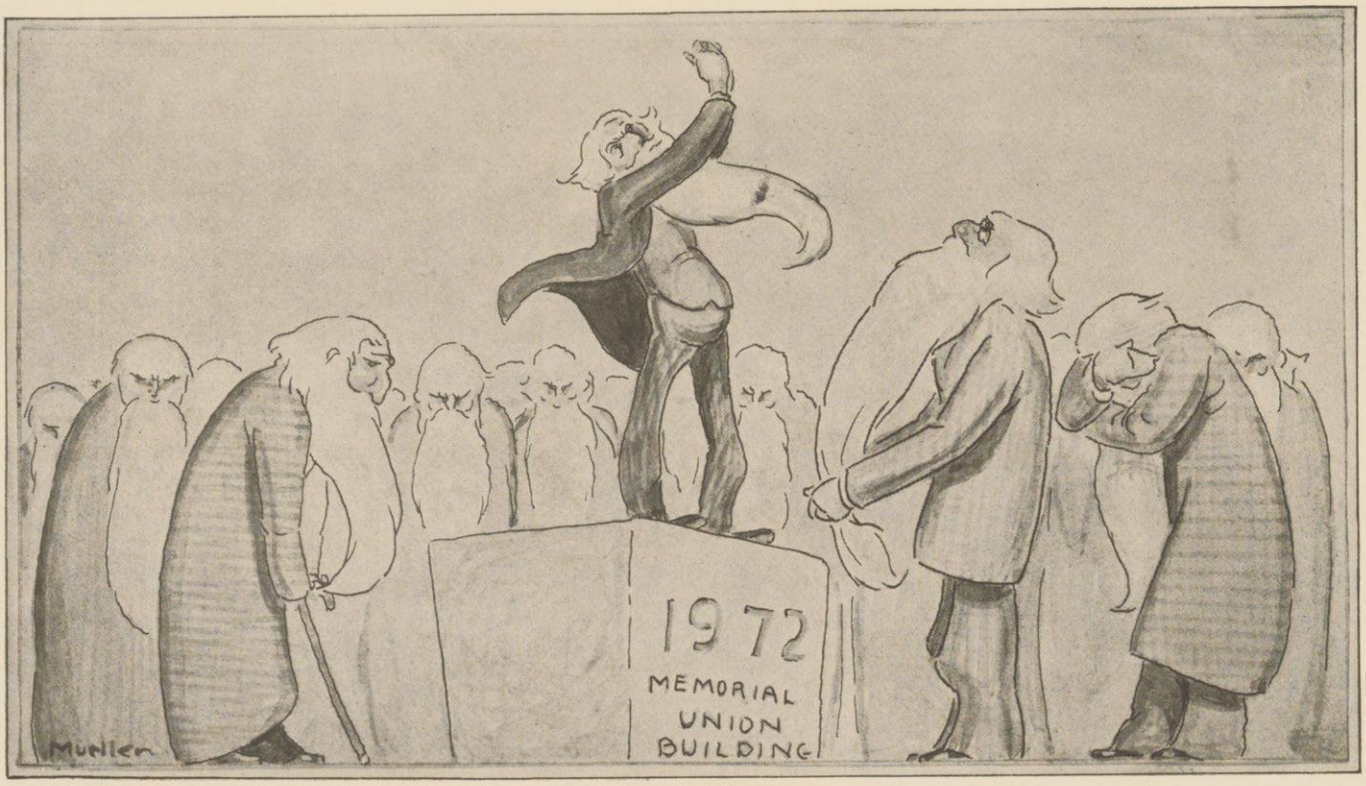
Yeh, they're a nice pair of guys, they are. When Williams and Tebell pack up the old kit bag and pull out, Tom Jones can hang up a sign over the gym door, "Closed for the season."

Basket Ball

If anybody says any more about Gus Tebell and Rollie Williams you'll think this book was a continued serial about them two boys. But it ain't. Gus never saw a basket ball before he was two years old, and still he plays a purty fair game. Williams knew that basket ball wasn't a substitute for highball.

Take this here guy, Les Gage, for instance, of a boid what can throw a mean leather around the bounded court. Leslie has a front name like the man in the Arrow collar ad, and his last cognomen is no gauge of his ability, but that boy sure knows that a basket is for more things than waste paper. His eye is more accurate than a Burroughs adding machine. He shoots more baskets than wives do their husbands, and all the passes he's had are not on the C. & N. W. Ry.

Les is a better player than he is a politician. He knows how to get around people, especially when same people are on an opposing basket ball team. He's steadier than a Chi Psi fussing a D. G., and he's more consistent than the guy what takes a bath every Saturday night. Yuh gotta admit it, the kid was good.



The Memorial Union

May 30, 1972

"With the laying of the corner stone of its million dollar Memorial Union building, Wisconsin again gives promise of ranking as one of the most progressive universities of the Middle West. Northwestern's ten million dollar skyscraper university is already inadequate to care for the increased enrollment.

"And Northwestern on Lake Michigan is cramped for space and therefore unable to expand further, while Wisconsin on Lake Mendota has many building sites available and with the laying of this corner stone IS building," Prof. E. H. Gardner, venerable promoter of the "home for Wisconsin spirit," pointed out in his corner stone address.

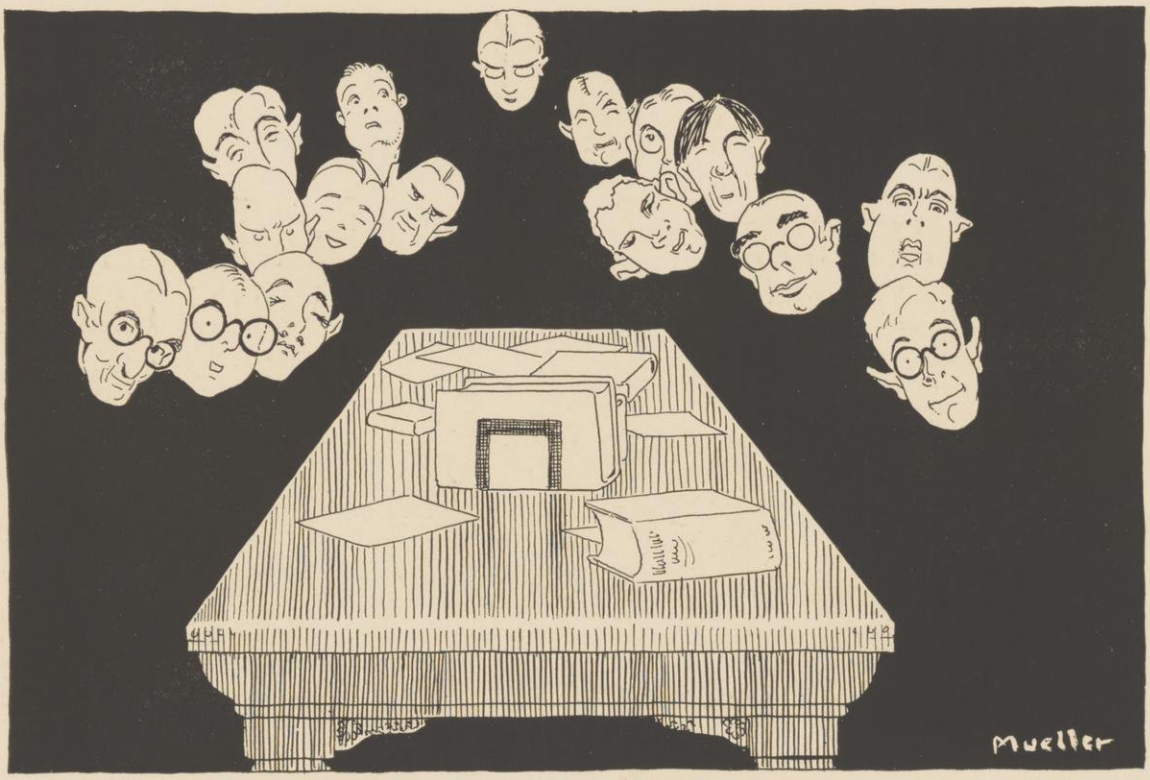
"Hap" Baker's son, Reginald Baker '72, lead the crowd of students in a cheer for the gray headed man and Hap, who was assisting Professor Gardner with a trowel, felt so proud and excited that he caught his chief's flowing beard in the mortar with which he was cementing the stone.

Kathryn Perry '23, who handled publicity for the first Memorial Union drive fifty years ago, screamed on seeing the aged man's plight and the entire crowd looked UP to her.

Ex-President Scott Holland Goodnight, who attended the ceremony in a wheel chair, wore a contented smile. In the benign realization of this Wisconsin Union he forgot to worry about the high cost of dances.

Carl Russell Fish wore his green vest much to the DEELIGHT of the frosh. Two moments of silence were dedicated to the memory of the Ex-Presidents Birge and Sellery.

A Quiet Week at College



The Student Senate

The Student Senate is composed of seventeen orators, elected because no one else runs for the job.

Its chief function is to lay down rules for the conduct of class-rushes, elections and other free-for-all fights. It passes resolutions condemning the methods used after each affair.

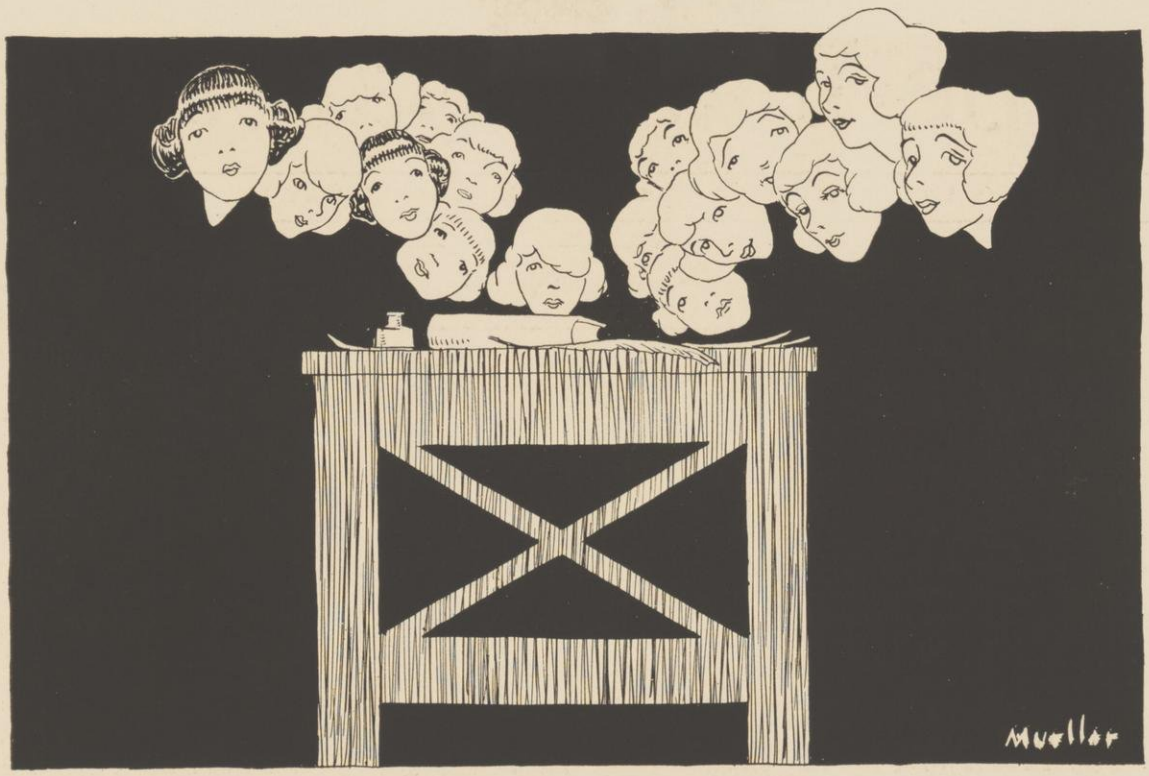
One of its other functions has been to revise the dictionary. It has abolished the obsolete definition of a tradition as "a custom so long continued that it has almost the force of a law" (Funk & Wagnalls) and substituted its own: "A tradition is anything we say." In the course of a year or two it is expected to do away with the word "tradition" as well as the thing itself.

The Senate invites visitors to listen to its members compliment each other with the title "Mr. Senator," and to hear debates on Parlimentary Law.

Its minutes are posted in the Libe for the same purpose.

The Student Senate performs a very important function in University life. Besides furnishing a constant ground for complaint (which no student would be happy without) it keeps most of the hot-air oratory within one group.

It co-operates with the S. G. A., the Forensic Board, T. N. E., the Board of Visitors and Farm House Fraternity in enforcing any regulations found on their statute books. It is rumored that it once enforced a regulation alone, but no one remembers when or what it was. Does it ever do anything worthwhile?



The S. G. A.

The origin of the name of "S. G. A." is lost in obscurity, although some persons demonstrate their ignorance by making the assumption that it means "Self-Government Association."

The Association, whatever it may be, is composed of an indefinite number of indefinable girls, who hold formal meetings and also teas at which they can be natural and swear occasionally.

It lays down regulations regarding the kind of clothing girls may wear, when they have to be home, and what sorts of dates they are allowed to have.

So the S. G. A. is a huge success and nobody complains about it.

The Legislative, Executive, and Judicial committees permit many girls to become acquainted who would never know each other otherwise. They are the only co-eds who find the S. G. A. a nuisance.

The Association has its uses. If a girl draws a dumb-bell on a blind date she can always say that S. G. A. rules force her to be in at 9:30. The Satire Section of the Badger would close down were it not for the S. G. A. The stock joke of "Sigma Gamma Alpha" and the young freshman would never have originated without the Association.

One can readily see that, except for the Scorpion, the S. G. A. is the most useful thing on the campus.

CO-EDS SLAUGHTER STUDENT FIANCE WITH SHOLGUNS

Edwards: Skee-Slide Man, Succombs to Feminine Revenge

EDWARD'S DEATH.

A pleasant surprise was experienced by the entire student body at twelve 32 this p. m. when six revengeful coeds and women who later were ascertained to be fiances, appeared from the six points of the compass simultaneously and shot Lee Edwards of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. One used a Cold automatic and the others used sawed off shot guns as mediums for showing that they disapproved of the Hymanial fluctuations of this more or less active young man.

Edwards passed from this terrestial sphere to a better land which lies beyond the grave while being conveyed to the St. Marys hospital, 123 West Side, in a wheel barrow which was passing at the time the slaughter occured.

Edwards is best known about the hill for his activities on the skee slide. Although not of Scandinavian parentage, this dating little welshman trained upon tea and Tom Collins until he became one of the skeeingist guys that ever broke a heart, and in spite of innumerable falls he was always back to climb the tower when the sun had gone to rest. He leaves to moutn his loss twelve Delt pins and their fair wearers.

OBITUARY

O'er his Post Toasties Cupid laughs aloud,
His competition lies beneath a shroud
The corner is richer thirty cents,
And phony tears are much in evidence.
Mendota Court is gay with flags and drape,
and not a single Delt is wearing crepe,
Since brother Lee has gone below to tell
How he could love unwisely and so well.
Fairchild 24 will never ring again,
Nor will the Brummel's trusty Baby Ben
Sound off at four pm. with lusty thrill
Arousing Lee to keep a date with Lil.
'Twas Lil at four and Mary Anne at five
Seven to eight 'twas Nellie on the drive.
Each hour he rushed another fiance
Because he had to see them all each day.
He's gone and all his wives are doing fine,
They do not seem to miss the rustic line,
In fact they grin and giggle o'er the pelt
That once was Valintino D.Tau Delt.
His corpse is welcome as the flowers in May
Although alive it never fot away.
Ho hum, is that a carnival, my dear?
No Jacob, that's the Edwards funeral bier.

POWELL RAZZES HUMOR SHEET

Claims Townsend is Putrid and Stores Need Wasqing Up

Critic Ways Some Words on Octopus

By

HICKMAN POWELL

I don't like the book, it has a cover on it, also it contaisn advertising, also I have not heard any of the jokes before. Here's a good one that I heard yesterday that was not in the so-called humor mag: He: Did you ever hear the story of the three eggs? She: No. He (answering her): Too bad. Now if that low, lewd, putrid, filthy, rotten, mess of blubbering will, called the Octopus could have some nice clean jokes like the above I would not mind criticising it.

I nodded 962 times reading the blaa entitled "Hot Times," and I think that Heinz Ruble wrote it so it is very poor, decadent, and a space waster. Let's have something in the next issue by Hickman Powell so that it will get a rise out of the flocks, look at my rocker col. Don't you think that it is good?

Yesterday a lady told me that she thought that the Octopus was going to be good and I told her that it was not and now I am so glad that I can provemy poiht. Even Hub Townsend is getting putrid. That's a good word "putrid"; Reynolds told me that one but I had just thought of it anyway.

There is too much verse, prose, short stuff, long stuff, and illsaturated matter in the Octopus to make it a good humor mag. I told them so a long time ago and they would not believe me. Now they will believe me because my office hours are from 10 to 12 o'clock.

Here's another good one that I handed in to the Octopus which they did not print: Why is a dog? It's a good joke and there isn't no answer to it; that is what makes it good because no one can answer it.

Well, all in all, the Octopus is a worthless publication and I do not likeit and I hope that they won't sell any, but I have a refe copy anyhow and that is all I want.

Arthur Ardiel smiles like a cupie doll: also he is running for a office. If you vote for him you can't go wrong, girls.

NOT BAD, not bad.

I saw a girl on the hill today and she was bowlegged. That mus/be the reason why they got long skirts, huh?

EDITORIAL

By Porter F. Butts

I was walking down the street today and heard some noise which reminded me that Howard Lyman is running for something, and that these impossible persons of mediocre intellect, who play jazz music all of the time, could be voting for him instead of playing jazz music all of the time and could be thus doing a dervice to humanity instead of trying to torture the high tension souls of us of the intellectuality, by playing jazz all of the time.

Mr. Brunswick should never have built this music box of his with which the people of mediocre intellects play jazz music all of he time because it grates on the nerves of us of the intellectuality and makes us more appreciate the fact that about 99 and 44$190 per cent of our so-called fellow-creatures are far inferior to us morally, mentally, and should be physically if it were not for the fact that we have so much mental gymnastics to do, that we haven't got time to do any physical gymnastics. Which reminds me that these persons who have been besess-ed by an unthinking God with a strong back and a weak mind are not so many, —pardon me; I mean they are not doing any good to humanity and are therefore a detriment, and should therefore be chloroformed.

Which reminds me that Bob Reynolds is runningjfor the seanate and that you should all vote for him, because he is a Chi Phi even if he isn't so many because he will be all right when I have had time to correct his faults.

It is a nice day to-day; the sun rose over the A. T. O. house.

TO LATE TO BE CLASSIFIED

Eliot Sharp who used to work on the Daily Cardinal died today at 2 o'clock. His heart burst. Friends have been expecting it for some time.

IBITUARY

Now let the folks all chortle and be gay,
Another prune has shrivelled by the way.
The scribbling world has lost a spavined pen,
Which, praise the Pord, will never scrawl
Again.

His death was sudden, quite, and unre-
fined,
A passing not unworthy of his kind,
While scribbling meters of his palsied
verse,
He heard the porter call "Back up the hearse."
The poem which took his life to pay the lible,
Was planned to be a take off of the bible,
He had the book of Genesis revised,
When Exodus was promptly dranatized.

Death called a halt to Sharpie's drunken quill,
And cheering thousands paid the funera
bill,
He'll soon be showing Satan rhyming tricks,
If Charon doesn't drop him in the Styx.

We've one regret; unfortunately too late,
'Tis sad his body wasn't laid in state.
'Twould make no difference what the state might be,
Decadent,jcoma, or just infamy.

Well, well, he's gone, we're rid of all his stuff.
Death beat us to the pole and called bus bluff.
Call out the band; declare a holiday,
This is no time for mourning, let's be gay.

Rumor Has It—

that the Tekes had a li'l party in the Spring—"Jush a li'l 'sparty—Thassall—and the Satire Sleuth crept in during the change of scenery to partake of a few of the innocent toasts to the modern co-ed. Might have been cider, or grape juice or even the mince pie, but—anyway someone mixed the glasses and slipped in some old stock (by reputation) acquired before the dear dry days beyond recall. Suffering Bow Wows! What malevolent juice!

"Oi," cried he, "Again I am ruined! Oi! what a jagged feeling!" Like the man in Jericho who had been taken in.

"Why is it," he wondered, as he sank into a coma.

The dancing dervishes swirled on about him. His limp body flopped across the bar.

Forensics

This man is noted for the amount of blaa that he can hand out. If Bryan knew about——he would spend the rest of his days in solitude bewailing rising generation.

It is a curious fact that when—— was born, he started to talk as if he were a filibuster orator trying to get the endurance record in the senate.

He holds the record for continuous speaking. He talked steady for 54 hours killing off two hundred of the audience, maiming 48, giving the sleeping sickness to 24, and permanently disabling 35.

This man is noted for the number of silences that he dissipates in. It has been known for him to sit quietly for five minutes without saying a word. This man is a good rebuttaler.

(In a confidential letter to the satire editor he offered him $5 for putting him on this page. The S. Ed. took the cash.)

Haresfoot Club

There is no doubt that Haresfoot is the envy of David Belasco, and the choruses which fool the sophisticated campus hound have made Flo Ziegfield spend many a sleepless night worrying about something beside Billie Burke.

The club last season came back proudly after its road trip and flaunted a vegetable collection that the Ag school never could have raised.

And the reason.

A Haresfoot chorus makes a Follies' chorus look like a bunch of washwomen doing a Virginia Reel. The songs are so snappy that Irving Berlin's songs sound like "The Last Rose of Summer" sung by a church choir. And the singing. It is almost as good as a barber shop quartet singing "Sweet Adeline."

It is rumoured that Port Butts has something to do with the productions. Probably he drew all the farm products.

Prom

It was a good prom—best in the country.

Benson's Victor orchestra performed and the crowd which hung on the railing in the rotunda seemed to enjoy them. The rest of us tried to dance. We thought it was good music—for Chicago.

The storm scene was pretty good but neither good nor pretty. In fact it was such an insult to nature that she was mean about it all Spring.

Every other girl was a Theta. One of them wasted two dances talking to the governor in an effort to secure the capitol for their next dance.

We didn't see many Kappas. Somebody told us that Zeta Beta Tau had decided to make the Military Ball their big event of the season.

After the week end we weren't able to afford dessert with our dinners 'till Easter time. One thousand gowns were crushed—more pins lost—it was one eventful night.

Advertising Section

These firms have shown their appreciation of the student body at the University of Wisconsin by advertising in this, our 1924 year book. Let us now show them our appreciation by giving them our undivided patronage whenever the opportunity presents itself. The satire scattered thruout these advertisements is the best in the book.

What is the Co-Op?

That is one of the first questions that the new student will ask upon arriving at Madison. Feeling that a great many future students will read the Badger, we are going to tell in a brief way, what the Co-Op is. In 1892 a number of Alumni rented a small room and sold supplies to students at prices very much less than was being charged by the book stores. In 1894 the Co-Op was incorporated and has been doing business since, increasing the stock each year until now we have about everything that a student might need, in books, school supplies, furnishing goods, shoes, athletic goods, etc.

To become a member of the Co-Op, and we advise every student to join as soon as they arrive, you pay $2.50 for a Life Membership and receive free a $2.50 fountain pen. Each membership is numbered and on every purchase that you make you call your number. At the end of each year you get a rebate on all you have purchased during the year.

For the year 1922 the rebate was 15%. That gives you some idea of saving.

During the summer we enlarged our store and are now carrying a complete line of clothing. We are carrying some of the finest lines of young men's clothing in the country. Among them you will find Stratford, Rosenwald & Weil and Hickey Freeman. It will pay you to wait until you arrive in Madison to buy your clothing. Our prices are as low and probably lower than any other store in the country and you will also get a rebate at the end of the year—an additional saving, and you will get clothes that are built for college men. That does not mean that they will be freak clothes but it means that they will be finely tailored, of high quality and perfectly fitted. If you buy clothes at the Co-Op you will be well dressed.

The Co-Op is a students' store, no private capital, controlled by the Regents and Alumni, operated for the students. You will save money if, when you reach Madison, you will ask two questions—What is the Co-Op and where is it?

Holeproof Hosiery

HOLEPROOF is the hosiery of lustrous beauty and fine texture that wears so well. It is not surprising, therefore, that it is selected by college students and grads who can afford to pay far more for their hose, but who prefer the Holeproof combination of style and serviceability at such reasonable prices.

Obtainable in Pure Silk, Silk Faced, and Lusterized Lisle styles for men, women and children, in the season's popular colors.

The Phi Psi chapter is at present ordering Stacomb in barrel lots. That reminds us of what has become of that picture of their pledges as it was shown in the 1922 Badger!

The Lambda Chi Alpha chapter got in its carload of picks and shovels in preparation for next year's rushing season. They will need them.

"Sir, I do not know why you should have a personal grudge against me unless perhaps you resent my outspoken habit of disagreeing with some of your pet theories. Of course grades are of minor importance with me, but in view of the fact that honest endeavor is not to be rewarded with decent grades in your course, I feel that I must change to another. RELIEVING EXPANSION STRAINS IN PIPING

Crane pipe bends, produced to absorb expansion strains and insure permanently tight joints in piping systems for hot fluids or steam, are made from the highest quality steel pipe in a plant exclusively devoted to the accurate forming of pipe bends. Bends for special installations are treated as individual problems and great care is given to obtaining the correct radius of curvature and tangential delivery to insure the least possible resistance to flow. The ends are accurately fitted into malleable iron, cast iron, cast steel or forged flanges. Exacting factory tests prove their endurance before they leave the works. They can be supplied in any size or shape required.

KOHLER

Look for this name, unobtrusively fused into the enamel of every Kohler fixture. It is your guaranty of genuineness and of these distinctive Kohler qualities—(1) the beautiful snowy whiteness of the durable enamel; (2) the uniformity of that whiteness in every fixture.

When the hostess says simply, "And here is your bathroom," she is in fact saying, "The freedom of the house is yours. You need not shape your habits to ours, nor be fearful of incommoding us."

An additional bathroom often spells the difference between easy, gracious hospitality and embarrassed, apologetic hospitality. And when no guests are present it adds immeasurably to the comfort and convenience of every member of the family.

Let the capable plumbing dealer who sells Kohler Ware in your neighborhood show you how a model bathroom can be installed in a space as small as five feet by six, no larger than a good-sized closet. And let him demonstrate in figures the reasonableness of the investment that will insure your obtaining the unsurpassed quality that every piece of Kohler Enameled Plumbing Ware represents.

Let us send you our booklet of Kohler Ware for bathrooms, kitchens, and laundries.

He had often debated the same only too many times before and it has always been this indecision and here she was looking down at him with a mingled feeling of friendship and amusement. He would not give in to her this time. He would not yield to her impatience. He would think it out tonight or never, for with every time she came to him in this manner his resistance became weaker and weaker.

He knew by her every movement that she was becoming more and more vexed with his indecision. Her attitude was changing from friendship and amusement to boredom and indifference. She was nervously making a pattern on the floor with her delicate, slim little foot.

Why not give in to her rather than cause this attitude of hers? But no, he must not give in to her; tonight he must be firm.

She assumed an attitude of unconcern but suddenly with an uncontrollable air blurted out, "Well, what will you have?"

Meekly he replied, "Oh, I guess you can make it a hamburg without and a cup of coffee."

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Satire editor wishes to announce that Frank Crane, one of our distinguished literators, has recently won a magnificent prize of fifty German marks for submitting his last worthy novel, "Playthings," which is a study of Wisconsin women, to the Cyril Ballam Publishing Company.

Did you ever have a date with a co-ed for a quiet walk along the drive on a balmy spring evening, and begin to be assailed by doubts, "Does she fuss?"

The big night comes, and as you start your promenade she hangs onto your arm and with a quiver in her voice remarks that she always feels so sentimental on nights like this.

Your spirits soar and your heart beats faster, but as you walk and walk your steps lag, for it seems others have come before you, and there's not a darn place to "park"; so you end up at Lawrence's.

Each and every city of the world has its seven wonders, and Madison is no exception. My dear Adrian Scolten: I hear you are the editor of the Scorpion. I also hear you are a member of the social science. I also hear that you care nothing about school activities. I also hear that you care nothing for co-eds. I also hear that you go to the University.

Yours truly, UPTON SINCLAIR.

My dear Upton: Ya I am editro of the Scorpion. The Social Science club is the only good club on the campus. School activities are the bunk. Bah! Co-eds are all gold-diggers. I attend the University. Ya, 1811 spread your propaganda.

THE MILITARY DEPARTMENT

No, they are not the Boy Scouts. Can't you tell the difference? They are the R.O.T.C. cadet corps, the pride and joy of the entire University.

This outfit costs the state $13,000,000 every semester, but the state assemblymen consider it a great bargain for the military training that these stalwart youths receive.

The spirit of the corps is remarkable. Every frosh and soph to the last man signs up for drill, with the exception of those that are lame, have flat feet, and are blind.

Isn't that fine!

Although the unit is already the best in the country, Major Wood will suggest that the following resolutions be passed by the Faculty-Student Executive committee:

1. Cadets shall not under any circumstances attend drill in track suits.
2. At least one article of the regulation uniform must be worn at the classes.
3. The customary practice of non-coms applying thumbs to their noses and gleefully waving their extended fingers in the direction of any officer who addresses them, is to be strictly prohibited.

Modern Motive Might

MOUNTAINS, miles and minutes give way before electricity, the magic motive power. Properly applied, it drives giant locomotives across the continental divide, tows ocean liners through the Panama Canal, or propels huge ships.

Through good light, safe signals, and illuminated highways, it is making travel better and safer and also is increasing the usefulness of transportation methods on land, sea or in the air.

In short, electricity is revolutionizing transportation, making it quicker, safer, more economical and reliable in all sorts of weather.

And back of this development in electric transportation, in generating and transmitting apparatus as well as motive mechanisms, are the co-ordinated scientific, engineering and manufacturing resources of the General Electric Company, working to the end that electricity may better serve mankind.

BE IT HEREBY RESOLVED

That Madison be made the home of more moving picture houses. If you ever took a girl to a show upon an evening when you felt that all the world was yours and you had the courage to take it, you will agree with me.

Did you ever start to slide your hand around the back of your girl's seat and encounter someone's knee? and then find that the knee belonged to your roommate or a sorority sister of your girl's. If you did, vote Aye. Take your choice of saying No or telling the truth.

Or did you ever start to whisper sweet nothings into your girl's ear just as the man behind you sneezed? Do I hear a chorus of Ayes? Or did you ever try to find your girl's hand and as yours softly crept towards where hers was supposed to be, squeeze gently the toe of somebody's shoe? Then bear with me!

The Ayes have it. Now it is up to some live manager to get busy.

FROM A SWAYING TREE

It is spring and the breezes blow
And I've halted on the side of the road;
I feel like a king from my perch in this
Tree by the side of the road to failure.

I see others grinding their lives away
In the pursuit of success that they'll
Gain at a time when 1811 have the satisfaction
Of being dead.

Now what is worth more than the feeling I
Have in this tree by the side of the road;
The farmer that is sweating his brow in his field
That I enjoy from this beautiful swaying tree?

Yet I must come down for the primitive man call,
I must beg from the farmer for food.
My delight has been sweet but rather short
And now he who sweats may have his delight in Feeding a lazy and worthless tramp.

One Man in a Hundred

Out of 100 men who start at the age of 25 with good health and mental ability, only one has become wealthy at the age of 65. Four are able to live on their incomes, six are self-supporting but must still work, and 35 are dependent on relatives, friends or charity.

Barring unusual circumstances, it lies entirely with the individual as to which group he will be in when he reaches 65.

You can be the one wealthy man or one of the four who are independent—if you will start now to save a part of your income each month.

Remember that time when you were a pledge and had that keen date? I'll bet you do, as you're probably fussing her now unless she is married. Well! How about that time you went to Lathrop and felt so proud that the fellow at the door had to tell you twice to shell out with one-fifty. And, darn the luck, two of your brothers had blind dates and weren't so wild about their women, but, oh, they did like yours and the dance you had with her was a bear. Well, I had the same experience and now I only go to masquerades when I have a keen date.

I sway from my tree and survey my lands
I gather in the whole panorama of my view,

Of all that is beauty to me.

FROM "A FUSSER'S DIARY"

I belong to the Phi Psi chapter,
I've had an interesting past;
A co-ed loved me a month ago
But I felt that it wouldn't last.

I thought I would raise a mustache and so
I did, and she grew ill;
The doctor said she had swallowed varnish
And she sent me the bill.

So now I use only Crisco
My mustache to shine and curl,
It adds a domestic flavor
And won't hurt any girl.

Second Monkey: All I have to say is that they condemned us without a fair trial.

He: The Phi Psi's call their Ford "True Love."
She: Why?
He: It never runs smoothly.

Abey: See that pretty girl, Ikey?
Ikey: No, where?
Abey: On the other side.
Ikey: Other side of what?
Abey: Your nose, Ikey, your nose.

One: I wonder how old she is.
Roommate: Why don't you ask her.
One: My manners stop me.
Roommate: Never let trifles stand in your way.

She: How can I reduce?
He: Talk a lot. Sam Thompson says it keeps you in form.

The young lady who is the main topic of this literary masterpiece can easily be told by her beauty. Atlantic City would be incomplete without her and all beauty contests are considered null and void if the judges are so blind as not to award the prize to Miss Indianapolis. For further information on this subject address Mack Sennett.

In case the backward and mentally deficient have not recognized her yet we will further state that this young lady took Geology 4 as a fussing course and that road graders seem to be all to the good with her. For further information on this subject address Supt. of Construction, Devils Lake, Wisconsin.

At the time of going to press we have nothing else of note about this young lady to put in our memory book, but additional information is desired and anonymous communications addressed to the Editor will be given careful consideration. Not that we have a date with her BUT, we still have hopes.

ODE TO A ROOMMATE

A roommate is a wonderful thing,
She shares one's joys and clothes,

She hasn't a thing I can borrow
Except a friend who's an Alpha Delt—
I'm borrowing him for tomorrow
While she stays at home.

HOW CONVERSATIONS CHANGE

1923: You're the only girl I ever loved!
1931: A dollar? What did you do with that dime I gave you last week?

HAVE YOU SEEN THIS BEFORE?

Dear Dad: I would have written to you before, but I am so busy studying all the time that I never can manage to write. Tonight I shall have to study until about 1 o'clock and then study tomorrow too for my lessons Monday.

I have so much work to do that I do not know how I am going to do it.

Well, goodbye for this time.

RALPH.

P. S.—Please send me $50.

He: I hardly knew you last night; you looked so beautiful.
She: Don't get funny.

How much do you charge for a Ford?
Twenty dollars an evening.
Say, I don't want to buy it; I want to rent it for a little while.

Although our eastern writer has not reported officially on the subject we are inclined to consider it more than a coincidence that Flo Zeidgield is discontinuing his production of the Follies at the same time that this very worthy young man is far from the center of art (for art's sake) and is directing operations at the U. of W. As we are great lovers of opera and such we shudder at the thought that no more is the Long Island estate to see conferences between the two greatest artists the stage knows in this generation. No more are the combined productions of our hero and Flo to make the public (men) bring opera glasses with them when they have seats in the first row. Now we will have to rely on pictures the Herex for some outlet for our appreciation of beauty. Oh, Heinie, perish the thought and bring Flo once more within the fold.

THE WAIL OF IGNORANCE

I sure do hate to blow my horn,
But I'm the wise guy still;
I know the profs and all their stuff,
And what makes some studes ill.

I don't know where Heinz got his weight
Nor Rollie his marcel.
I don't know why those co-eds sweet
For my face never fell.

Where have our girlies' limbs all gone?
How comes back all their hair?
Why do so many darling men
Such galoshes wear?

Why does the Scorpion really want
To kick up such a row?
Can our Home Ecs bake decent bread?
Can Ag studes milk a cow?

What is the matter with Tom Jones?
Will he be coach next year?
Does drill breed warlike instincts rash,
Or inculcate deep fear?

Now all these things I do not know,
What's more, I do not care;
But, gosh! I sure would like to learn
How Rudolph slicks his hair.

Time weakens an individual but strengthens an institution. This is definitely and importantly true of insurance organizations.

In selecting an insurance policy remember that a policy protected by 131 years of company history is a double safeguard.

The Insurance Company of North America, "The Oldest American Fire and Marine Insurance Company," puts behind its very policy a record of 131 years of met obligations.

In Colonial Days this Company protected the commerce and the homes of Americans. Today it offers its long history as proof of its certain strength.

A North America policy is a wise protection.

Your agent can give you this protection today.

   (Especially good whenever the drive has been mentioned.)

OBLIGING (Continued)

Remember Jack, how our old friend had the longest summary in the Badger, how he was the prize of Kappa formals, the last thing in class for all the U. functions? Well, he sells ribbons down in Marshall Field's now!

He: Why do you let me kiss you?
She: Gee, you never take me any place. Got to have some fun out of life.

He: She is all booked up for next semester? Why, she is positively unattractive.
She: Come down—she is the librarian.

My father committed suicide last night.
What with?
With a razor.
Yes, he was trying to shave with safety.

Did you read that new book by Lewis?
Babbitt?
Yes.
No, I haven't.
Did you see the Murder of Rue Morgue?
I'd have just died to.

TRUE STORIES (Continued):

Jane Pierson, Alpha Xi Delta pledge, got into some difficulty in freshman elections last fall by breaking campaign rules. She was requested to get her friends to vote for a certain girl in the Y. W. C. A. elections. She went into the Y. W. C. A. office and told the powers that she was a campaign manager, asking for a list of rules. She was promptly and properly given such rules in abbreviated form. She wishes to announce her withdrawal from Y. W. C. A. political field.

(Y. W. C. A., of course, tolerates no campaigning.)

Mary saw a billy-goat;

The billy-goat it butted her
And Mary said, "Oh my!"

It was a beautiful evening. Soft music was playing. The youth and chivalry and beau—. No, not that! Anyway, the youth of Madison were tripping (yes) at the Gasfitters' ball. Out on the balcony was a couple. No, not a couple of anything. Just a couple. They were gazing into each other's eyes.

And she said coldly, oh, so coldly, "Did you say your name was John Smith?"

And he said, "No, Pocohontas, I did not."

The year's work on the 1924 Badger has been completed. It is not with regret that we find our task finished, but it is with a certain touch of sadness that we feel our year of pleasant association coming to its close. A Badger has been published, but more than a book has been created. Lasting friendships have been made through the united effort to produce a single result.

A Badger cannot be edited without effort. We thank those on the staff who have so willingly given of their time. To them is due the credit for whatever degree of success we attain. We are much indebted to both the Photoart House and the Badger Studio and others for the splendid assistance they have given us. Both Mr. R. R. Maplesden of the Stafford Engraving Company and Mr. F. Streber of the Cantwell Printing Company have been of inestimable service to us in planning and executing our book. To them we are deeply indebted. Our advertisers, too, have done much to make our Badger what it is.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. Woolley and those who worked with them, we are particularly grateful. They have made possible for us the entaglio inserts of which we are justly proud.

We have reached the end and gladly write
