'IDo'--Kohler, State Acquires New Governor

National Guard Escorts Executive from Train; Frank in Inaugural Party

"Do you swear to support the constitution of the United States and the state of Wisconsin and to faithfully discharge the duties of the office to the best of your ability?"

"I do," answered Walter J. Kohler, and with these few words, the state of Wisconsin had acquired a new governor.

The inaugural ceremonies which were witnessed by a crowd of approximately 5,000, were conducted in the state capitol at noon on January 7. At this time five newly elected state officials, including the governor, were given their oath of office by Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry, of the supreme court.

Ecorted by National Guard Governor Kohler and his family, along with the other state officers, arrived in their special train at the Chicago and Northwestern depot at 11:00 a. m. From there, the party was escorted to the capitol by Company G, 128th Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard.

At 11:45 the inaugural party proceeded to the platform where they were to be administered their oaths.

Promptly at noon, Governor Kohler was sworn in, and he was followed by Lieutenant Governor Henry A. Huber, Secretary of State Theodore Damann, State Treasurer Solomon Levitan, and Attorney General John W. Reynolds in quick succession.

Glenn Frank in Party

President Glenn Frank, although he did not take a part in the actual inauguration ceremonies, was one of the members of the inaugural party and was escorted in by Justice Rosenberry.

Prof. E. B. Gordon, of the music department, led the assemblage in the singing of "America" at the close of the ceremonies. He was assisted by the Kohler band.

Receptions for new officials were held on the first floor of the capitol building from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Rushing Report Given Tonight

Committees Will Present Findings Tonight at Council Meeting

Reports of the rushing committee, and of the social and co-operative buying committee, a vote on a proposed amendment, and the discussion of plans for the council's first dinner-meeting early in February will be considered at the meeting of the interfraternity council to be held in the Union tonight at 7:30 p. m.

Control of pledge-breaking is seen as an expected result of the amendment to be considered. The amendment provides that any pledge who severs a fraternal affiliation shall be withheld from pledging another group, or from being rushed, until three months from the date of severance.

Whether or not fraternities will undertake co-operative buying will probably be determined at this meeting when the committee appointed at the last meeting reports. The practice of buying supplies for all fraternities by co-operative methods has been used at other universities and may be adopted by the Wisconsin groups.

Gordon Released Following Auto Accident; Not Located

Although released by police officials after his arrest in connection with running over two persons in Elgin, Ill., David Gordon, '32, has not returned to his classes in the Experimental college. The authorities there have had no word from him, and do not know when he will return.

Fruit growers shift so in the varieties of fruits planted that in the course of 50 years the list of important varieties changes almost entirely.

Queen Knows Who She Is --But Rest Must Guess

The Prom queen is, but who is she? John Catlin, chairman, broke the news to her sometime before 10:30 p. m. last Sunday, but the campus may speculate and ponder as to her identity till the evening of Feb. 8, Prom night.

Possibilities are many judging from the comment on the Hill and the vicinity including fraternity and sorority houses and dormitories. Catlin increased the confusion when he took Betty Baldwin to the Union dance last Friday evening, staged it to a dance held at the same place the following night, and dated Mercedes Jelima at the Gamma Phi Beta house on Sunday afternoon.

His whereabouts on Sunday evening, when the deadline for his selection of the queen passed, are unknown.

Chemistry Student, Cause of Explosion in Class, Pardoned

No action will be taken against John Consigni '32, who severely injured himself and slightly injured Ben Axel '32, when a gunpowder compound the former was mixing in direct violation of rules, rocking his chemistry class, exploded Dec. 7.

Harold Allen '30, who assisted Mr. Consigni in the experiment, was dropped from the course and given a failure.

The little finger of Consigni's right hand was severed by the explosion, and his left hand and thumb was badly mangled. He was released from the Wisconsin General hospital Dec. 21, but as yet has not returned to class, according to J. H. Matthews, chemistry professor.

Snyder, Fronck, Named Convocation Chairmen

Housing Survey Brings Criticism

Fraternities Suffer in Comparison to Sororities; Advice Well Given

Emphasizing the difference in the relative ratings of sorority and organized houses over that obtained by fraternities in the annual inspections carried on by the office of the dean of men, that office has again suggested that Wisconsin fraternities "give a fair trial to the plan of putting experienced housekeepers in charge of their houses."

Results of the inspection carried on by Mrs. Wilson, the inspectress of the Dean of men's office, and Inspector Langley of the city fire department show that all 26 of the sorority houses and all 12 of the organized houses inspected attained a grade of A or A--while only 65% of the men's houses were graded A or A--.

Credit for the increase in well-kept houses and the corresponding decrease in badly kept houses is said to be due partly to the large number of newly built fraternity and sorority houses that have been erected recently, but even more so to the toning up of the quality of housekeeping.

The welcome accorded the inspectors and the pride and satisfaction the managers showed in guiding them about the house was what impressed Mrs. Taylor. She noticed that the advice which they gave was usually put into practice.

Fraternity, sorority and special interest houses, including Chadbourne and Barnard halls, now house 27% of the student body with indications of housing 30% the next semester.

Poetry and Music First of Professor Sisson's Lectures

The first of two lectures will be given today, Jan. 8, at 4:30 p. m. by Professor Charles Sisson, formerly of the English department of the University of Wisconsin, and at present Lord Northcliffe professor of English, University of London.

The subject of his first lecture, which will be delivered in the Great hall of the Union, is "Poetry and Music."

His first lecture, "Poetry and Music," lies in the field of his special interests. Professor Sisson was at one time on the concert stage and a professor in the Royal Academy of Music, London, as well as a student of letters. This lecture was first delivered before the Royal Academy.

His second lecture, "New Light on Some London Theatres in Shakespeare's Day," will be delivered in 165 Bascom hall on Jan. 9 at 4:30 p. m. In this lecture that concerns the stage in Shakespeare's day, he presents the results of recent research. Both lectures are open to the public.

ADVERTISING SOLICITORS

A meeting of all local advertising staff members will be held in the business office of the Cardinal tonight at 7:15. Absences will be checked against commission checks.

Jewish, Catholic, Protestant Speakers Planned; Set Dates Mar. 1, 5, 15

Edward J. Fronck '30 and Lorna Snyder '29 have been appointed chairmen of the twelfth annual all-university religious conference which will take place during the early part of March in the initial step of setting the scene for the big event of the secular year on the campus.

Both of the newly-selected leaders have been associated with the event in previous years. Miss Snyder was connected with the work a year ago while Fronck was on the committee in 1927.

Dates for the conference have been announced as March 1, 5, and 15, with Jewish, Catholic and Protestant leaders, respectively, filling the schedule. All of the meetings will be held in the university gymnasium on 4:30 p. m. of the days selected. The gymnasium has been chosen because of the fact that a year ago it was found necessary to turn away many who came to Music hall because of its limited capacity.

When the opening gun is fired on the afternoon of March 1, it will be by Rabbi Stephen Wise of New York city. Dr. Wise has been hailed by Christians and Jews alike as the leader in modern Jewish spiritual and social life. He will be followed on the later dates by prominent representatives of the other faiths, who will likewise come from New York city.

Ben Begal, '32, Alleged

Father, Released on Bond

Ben Begal, '32, brought to Milwaukee Saturday to face charges of being father of an illegitimate child, was released Monday after signing his own bond of $1,000. The case in which charges were brought by Miss Sadonna Gribbes, was postponed to the afternoon of Feb. 5.

Youth Changes Creeds--Hurrey

Speaker at Convocation Talks on Religious Rebels

Charles V. Hurrey gave an address on the subject of "Student Rebels in Religion" at the university religious convocation held in Music hall Sunday evening. Music for the program was furnished by the combined choirs of the Wesley and Hillel foundations, Paul Jones, instructor in the School of Music at the organ, and a harp solo by Sylvia Meyer '29.

Mr. Hurrey is secretary of the Friendly Relations committee of the Y. M. C. A. and last fall addressed the freshmen men here at the university. He is well versed on student problems in South America, where he spent ten years, and in Asia and Europe where he has traveled extensively.

"The rebel student of today is slowly but surely revolutionizing the religions of the entire world," said Mr. Hurrey.

"So many of the old religious customs still practiced today seem absurd to us, but nevertheless there is a deeper feeling than mere love or ritual, whether the worshiper be a Hindu kneeling on his prayer rug or a Japanese burning incense before his Buddha," he continued. "It is more commonly the older people who adhere strongly to their forefather's religion."

"The younger people, however, are the skeptics. They still respect the old religion, but do not necessarily believe in it. In the Moslem world the student class is not following the old faith. In Japan, the Buddha faith is slowly losing its power. Greek students are finding something repulsive in their ship, cooperation, and advancement forefather's religion and want fellowship instead of mystery, coldness and solitude. It is a great turning point and a tremendous undertaking. The gap is being bridged and the student world is doing it."

Seniors Will Hold Business Meeting Wednesday Night

Details of senior class dues, whether to present a class memorial, and the question of alumni association membership are the three major points of business to be considered Wednesday night at the first meeting of the class of 1929. Wallace Jensen, president, has called the meeting of all seniors in the Memorial Union for 7:15 p. m.

It is expected that the amount of senior dues will be set at the meeting. Herman Egstad '17, president of the alumni association, will discuss the advantages of its membership to the class of 1929.

The personnel of all senior class committees is now under consideration, according to Jensen, and will be announced sometime during the coming week.

The program to be presented tonight by the three faculty members holds much of interest to Madison and university music lovers, in addition to being the first appearance this year of the faculty musicians.

Prof. Cecil Burleigh played a violin recital recently in the first of the group sponsored by the School of Music.

The opening number on the program, which will be presented by Profs. Morphy and Coon, is the Sonata, opus 67, by Heinrich Hoffmann, a German composer who is practically unknown. The Sonata demonstrates that the little known composer, however, has achieved a highly developed melodic art, according to Professor Coon, and he characterizes the work as "extremely easy to listen to."

Professor Swinney will sing "How Willing My Paternal Love" and "Arm, Arm, Ye Brave," from "Samson" and "Judas Maccabeus," both

Wolverines Tight Defense Too Much for Weary Badgers

A slow moving Michigan team, that played for the breaks and got them, successfully repulsed a desperate last period effort of a weary Wisconsin basketball five last night at the armory, and led by a husky forward, Truskowski, who scored almost half of his team's total pointage, defeated the Badgers 31-23.

Wolves Never Headed

From the first minute of play when Orwig and Truskowski tallied, the Wolverines were never headed, and so tight was their defense, that the Cardinals could only score one field goal in the first 20 minutes of play, which found the invaders leading 19-9.

The Badgers made a fine comeback in the final minutes of play, after showing an inability to either hit the net or prevent the Veenker men from scoring in the first half, but the Michigan five kept pace with them, scoring 12 points to the 14 that Meanwell's players could muster.

Wisconsin Defense Erratic

The much vaunted Wisconsin defense failed to function at crucial moments, and the visitors continually sneaked down the side lines and under the basket for easy pot shots. The Cardinals, evidently unaccustomed to the slow-breaking attack that the Wolverines used throughout the game, seemed lost upon the floor, and rarely had the ball in their possession.

The first 20 minutes of play decided the game, as the rangy invaders, when unable to break past the five man defense, took to long range, and proved equally successful. In vain did Meanwell try various combinations upon the hardwood for the advantage the visitors piled up in the early moments of play proved to great to be overcome.

Chief offender against Wisconsin was Truskowski, a football man with

Faculty Recital Given Tonight

Professors Morphy, Coon, Swinney Arrange Joint Program

The first faculty recital to be sponsored by the university School of Music, under the direction of Dr. Charles H. Mills, will be the joint recital of Profs. L. A. Coon, pianist, E. W. Morphy, violinist, and E. E. Swinney, baritone, tonight at 8:15, in Music hall. This recital is the second of the 1928-29 series of the School of Music, and is open to the public.

The program to be presented tonight by the three faculty members holds much of interest to Madison and university music lovers, in addition to being the first appearance this year of the faculty musicians. ## Green to Play For Pre-Prom

Popular Chicago Orchestra Is Engaged for Friday Night
Dance at the Union

Jimmie Green and his orchestra will make music for pre-Prom dance, next Friday night, the final 1 o'clock party before exams. The scene will be the Great hall of the Union, and the admission $2, according to John Dixon '30, dance chairman.

Tickets are on sale at Pete Burn's, Gelvin's, University pharmacy, Co-op, the Memorial Union desk, and the gate houses at the men's dorms. The Rathskeller will be open and special service to the tables available. The party will be informal.

Chaperons are Prof. and Mrs. Ray S. Owen and Maj. and Mrs. Tom Fox. Green's orchestra of the Garden of Allah, as they are known due to their many engagements at that Chicago resort, have also been popular at Brown's lake, where they played the entire summer last year, and in the Balaban and Katz theaters in Chicago last fall. The band originated at Blossom Heath Inn, one of Long Island's smartest supper clubs.

Green has been featured on the saxophone in the "Good News" orchestra at the Selwyn in Chicago.

St. Olaf's Choir Wins Praises of Critic for Concert

By Montague Cantor

The St. Olaf Lutheran choir, under the direction of F. Melius Christiansen, offered Madison a sober program of hymns and the like in the Lutheran Memorial church last night. Since the Yuletide spirit cannot yet have disappeared completely, the recital was not at all out of place.

This group of some sixty mixed voices sang all their numbers with a fine appreciation of the genre of the compositions. The parts blended beautifully, although, if one had wished to follow any particular part, I imagine it would have been quite easy, so well-defined was each part.

The program opened most appropriately with something by J. S. Bach, the fugal intricacies of whose music the choir was very well able to cope with. The second number, "Misericordias Domini," by Rurante, was, for me, one of the finest selections offered. In the Elgar number, the way in which the choir suddenly came out with the sforzandos on the words "go, song of mine" was a treat in itself.

In "Mary's Cradle-Song on the Twelfth Day" and in the Crusader's Hymn, "Beautiful Savior," occurred the only solo work of the evening. Both soloists, a soprano in the first and a contralto in the second, were fine, but the latter was by far the better. Her voice was unusually sweet and rich, and stood out to good advantage against the humming accompaniment of the rest of the singers.

Larus & Brother Co.,
Richmond, Va.

Gentlemen:

In answer to the challenge of J. J. Roberts of Columbia, S. D., as printed in the Minneapolis Journal dated Sunday, September 2nd, I have smoked Edgeworth for twenty-three (23) years and for two years previous to that time I smoked Qboid, which, I believe, is manufactured by your firm.

During this time I have smoked at least one can each day, and to verify this statement you may address the C & C Cafe of this city, where I make my tobacco purchases.

It may be interesting to know that my purchases of Edgeworth during this period have totaled more than 8395 (eight thousand three hundred ninety-five) cans, representing a total expenditure of more than $1259 (twelve hundred fifty-nine dollars).

I have never smoked any other brand of tobacco but Edgeworth during the twenty-three years.

Yours very truly,

Refuse Full Time Police Position to Irene Zealley '29

Efforts to place Irene Zealley, L and S 4 and Madison part time police-woman, on a full time position were refused last Thursday night by the board of police and fire commissioners, which deferred action on the matter. Police Chief F. L. Trostle recommended that Miss Zealley be placed on full time basis and be given a salary of $150 per month when she returns from leave of absence Feb. 15. In opposing the appointment Secretary Joseph H. Brown claimed that she, while being examined under oath at hearings in the Hamilton-Bodenstein controversy, had stated that she "is not, never has been and never will be interested in a full time position with the Madison police department."

an educated toe, and equally provided with an accurate eye, for he sank seven baskets and one gift shot for a total of 15 points during the game, while Foster, with seven points, led the Badger offensive.

The inability of the Cardinals to guard their goal at crucial moments proved fatal, as Truskowski and Orwig time and again evaded the guards or seemingly draped themselves in some invisible cloak that allowed them to stand under Wisconsin's basket and wait for the ball, which their teammates were not slow in throwing to them.

Two Out on Fouls

During the last minutes of play, the game became a veritable rough house and Capt. Tenhopen for Wisconsin, and Orwig of Michigan were ejected on personal fouls. A total of 25 fouls was registered against the two teams, with the visitors committing 14 of the misdemeanors.

It was a tough game for the Badgers to lose, but the Wolverines outplayed them practically all of the way and deserved to win. The ability of Chapman, the visiting center, to get the tip off and that of his mates to retain possession of the ball, counted greatly in their favor.

The Meanwell five seemed dead upon their feet. The usual prowess of the Badgers to gain possession of the oval both under their own basket and on follow-in shots, was sadly lacking, and the result was inevitable. It was only by sinking seven gift shots in the initial half, that the Badgers were at all able to stay in the running.

The Summary

A brief summary of the game follows: Orwig and Truskowski tallied soon after the game began, and Kowalczyk gave the Badgers a start when he sank a free throw. Chapman added a point for Michigan. McCoy sank a long one, and Kowalczyk got another gift shot, and shortly afterwards another, both of which he sank.

McCoy made another long one, and Kanitz made two gift shots. Chmielewski scored twice from the free throw line. Truskowski tipped one in under the basket. Foster made Wisconsin's first field goal after ten minutes of play. He added a free throw.

Chapman took a set up and Orwig

Indiana to Meet Illinois Quintet in First Big Ten Tilt

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 7—Strengthened by the experience gained in a hectic pre-season non-conference schedule, Indiana university's co-championship netters left today to open their 1929 Big Ten basketball schedule Tuesday night at Champaign, meeting Craig Ruby's strong Illinois quintet.

Coach Dean and his Crimson players have more than a passing remembrance of the last meeting with the fighting Illini. In the final Conference game of the 1928 season, in which victory assured the Hoosiers of at least a tie for first place, the Rubymen set the pace throughout the game, the Crimson pulling into a 22-22 tie just as the game ended. In the over-time period the Hoosiers flashed back into form, and bombarded the nets for a 27 to 23 victory.

Indiana's pre-conference schedule, in which the Hoosiers won three and lost two, proved the most difficult of the Big Ten. Playing very mediocre ball, the Hoosiers dropped their opener to Washington. Pennsylvania and Notre Dame were disposed of in rapid order, but a revenge-hungry Pittsburgh team completely swamped the Crimson on their eastern invasion. Indiana came back at Missouri

"Dad" Vail Eulogized by New York Times

Editor's Note: The following article, written by Robert F. Kelley and taken from the New York Times, is a tribute to both Mike Murphy, the new Wisconsin crew coach who arrived yesterday, and the late "Dad" Vail, former coach.

This is, undoubtedly, the worst season in which to discuss the art of swinging a twelve-foot sweep in a college crew. It is the one time in the entire college year when those undergraduates who find pleasure in this sort of thing are granted any time off.

Rowing is not simply a thing of light blue days in June. Back of those last regatta days are seven or eight months of work on rivers and, hardest of all, on machines, rowing for miles and finishing up exactly where you have started.

But Mike Murphy, whose real name of George is as useless to him as the real name of a Talkie star, is leaving the freshman crews of Yale to take over the work of old Dad Vail at Wisconsin, and there is reason enough in that for a few words.

The New for the Old

Vail died recently, leaving behind him a perfectly done portrait hanging high in the gallery of the old masters of this sport. With him, said rowing men, disconsolately shaking their heads, would go Wisconsin rowing.

There is something of the heritage of the Indian in rowing. It is the most costly and the most difficult of college sports to maintain. There are only twelve colleges rowing now in the entire country. Any breaks in the ranks are closed up grimly by the survivors, but always there is the threat that the sport may join the Indian in the dubious distinction of having the word vanishing connected with it.

So it is that Wisconsin's transition from the old to the new is interesting and important. In time, perhaps,

Ed Leader and Washington rowing will be thanked for more than a freshened style of racing. Certainly the Washington school of rowing has furnished a complete group of young coaches to pick up the burden of the passing old-timers. Murphy's appointment to Wisconsin makes the sixth head coach in the country who has learned his rowing in a Washington school.

"Mike" Murphy

NEW BADGER CREW COACH
—Courtesy the Wis. State Journal

A Perfect Title

The death of Vail left only Pop Eck at Syracuse and Old Dick Glendon at Navy of the old order of American rowing coaches. There was never a more appropriate title than that of Dad fashioned by generations of Wisconsin oarsmen for the man who taught them rowing.

Vail's last visit to the East came in 1926, when he brought his crew to Poughkeepsie. Sturdy and ruddy faced, Dad would stand at the foot of the stairs every night in the old Nelson house during training, sending his boys up to bed, for all the world like the father of an unusually large family.

Wisconsin always sent an interesting group to the races at Poughkeepsie. They have been missed on the long observation train during the past two Springs. They brought their own band with them and tucked it into their car on the train.

In 1926 Wisconsin was one of the last crews to paddle up past the waiting train to the starting line, followed by Dad Vail in the coaching launch.

Dad Says Good-bye

As the launch came abreast of the car the band started that greatest of football songs, "On Wisconsin," and the old man stood up in the launch. He turned toward the singing car, uncovered his silver thatch of hair and smiled. Instantly the song changed into a short, staccato chant of "Dad Vail! Dad Vail!" He waved his hat once, and the launch carried him on beyond the start.

That was, in reality, the farewell of the veteran to the game he had been in for most of his years. Wisconsin did not come East again under him, and he was sending his last crew to the starting line in the greatest of the college races.

Wisconsin changes more than a coach with the installation of Murphy, for the black-headed Mike is the direct opposite to the style of the old coach. He is still in his twenties and is not above climbing into a shell himself now and again to show how it is done.

A Light-weight Stroke

Washington crews, when they come East, are always referred to as giants these days. And not without reason, for they seem to come big. One

Fraternities Run Off Second Meet

Kappa Sigma, 19; Leads First
Meet; Alpha Deltas, 14,
Follow

The second group of events in the interfraternity indoor track meet, postponed from Dec. 15 by the closing of the university will be run off Saturday, Jan. 12, at 2:30 p. m.

Kappa Sigma, with a total of 19 points, captured first place in the events of Dec. 13, followed by Alpha Delta Phi with 14, Theta Chi, 8, Phi Kappa Psi, 5, Delta Upsilon, 3, Pi Kappa Alpha, 3, and Zeta Beta Tau, Phi Kappa Tau and Theta with one point each. Herbert Lee, '32, the outstanding star of the meet, garnered 12 of Alpha Delta Phi's 14 points.

Events scheduled for next Saturday are the 40 yard dash, mile and half-mile, two-mile, shot-put, and high jump. The half-mile relay will be the wind-up for the afternoon's events. This will consist of six laps around the indoor track, one man to a lap.

The large list of entries in the meet this year has resulted in some real competition. In the first meet some thrilling finishes featured the running events and the field events attracted considerable attention because of the remarkably good records made for so early in the season. Last year the meet was won by Phi Kappa Tau.

Men who have won "W's", minor letters, or "aWa's" in cross-country or track are not eligible for entry in this meet.

CALLS CREW MEN

Crew Coach Mike Murphy asks all frosh and varsity crew men to attend a meeting Thursday night in the Trophy room of the gymnasium, at 7 o'clock. He will discuss the program for the coming semester at that time.

HERE'S the DOPE

By HAROLD DUBINSKY

Try and be nonchalant in this weather. Just try.

Murphy Here.

"Mike" Murphy, the new Badger crew coach, is here already busy with his duties.

He is a fine looking man, dapper in appearance. He has black hair streaked with grey, and seems small for a former crew star.

Light?

When he was stroke of the Washington crew in 1921 and 1922 he weighed only 158 pounds.

He looks like a worker, and we wish him great success.

Joke.

Fraternity hockey is about to begin. The Chi Phi's are entered. We wonder if Bob Godley, who says he can play hockey, will be in a wing position on that team?

Football Letters.

The football men are in possession of their new "W" sweaters.

That accounts for the popularity of sweaters in these crisp days.

Farquhar.

Johnny Farquhar, the Badger hockey coach, had the misfortune to bump into Art Thomsen on the ice and was laid up for a day or so with an injured leg.

Jones.

Coach Tom Jones is silently going about the task of rebuilding a track team.

Rumors are that the team will go to California this spring for a dual meet.

Wrestlers Test Power Saturday

Meet Lawrence at Appleton in Last Non-Conference Tilt

Coach Hitchcock's varsity wrestlers will get their first taste of competition Saturday, Jan. 12, when they meet Lawrence college at Appleton.

Little is known of the strength of the upstate team, only that they placed second in the Little Four conference last year. This match is to be a warm up melee for the Badger wrestlers before they meet Illinois, Big Ten champions of last year, at the "little red armory" on Jan. 19.

Because of lack of material, Coach Hitchcock will have to use five new men on his team. There are three lettermen from last year's team, Dave Holt, 125 pounds, Capt. George Stettin, 125 pounds, and Walt Mathias, 175 pounds, who are expected to give Lawrence plenty of trouble in their respective weights.

Wisconsin is hit hard by injuries. McKaskle and Hammer are out with cracked ribs, and are not expected to be in condition before the conference season opens. Les Schuck, another promising recruit, is out with an ankle injury, and Giannanzio and Boelk, who showed up well in the first few weeks of practice, are out with the flu.

"Buck" Harris, a fast youth from Superior, and Max Levin of Milwaukee are both expected to get a chance to show their wares against Lawrence.

The Badgers will leave Madison at 2:30 Friday afternoon. They will weigh in at 9 p. m. Saturday, and the matches will start at 2:30 p. m. The team will return Sunday and will immediately prepare for the Illinois invasion.

It may be interesting to know that Illinois boasts of an Olympic champ on their team by the name of Morrison, who wrestles in the 135 pound class. They also have a conference

Coach Teaches Freshmen New Western Stroke

Varsity and Jayvee Crew Start
Practice Next Semester

Starting immediately to instruct Wisconsin freshmen in the ritual of the new stroke used at Washington, George W. Murphy, Wisconsin's new crew coach showed himself ready Monday for the long struggle of developing a winning Badger crew. As the varsity and Jayvee oarsmen are not working at present, the new coach will content himself for the present with the first-year men.

A meeting of all crew men has been called for Thursday night, however, and there are prospects of many interesting plans for the next semester of being disclosed. "Mik" evidently expects to spend a good deal of time on his men for he asked them to re-serve the greater part of the afternoon for work-outs next semester, instead of the customary half-hour devoted at present.

Not A Large Man

Coach Murphy is not a large man as one might expect from reports of his ability as a crew stroke. He is less than six feet tall and weighs only about 160 pounds. When he stroked the great Washington boat to a second place in 1922, he barely exceeded 150 pounds.

Since his arrival in the city, Mr. Murphy has been occupied with discussing administrative details with Mr. Little, and showing Wisconsin the "Leader" stroke. Lawrence Kingsbury, who is to remain here as assistant to Murphy will also learn the new details before he can adequately instruct his squads in the changes.

Another Gloomy Glen?

Mike Murphy seems to be a business-like, solemn student. He is thirty years old . . . the youngest head crew coach in the country. He preserves a gloomy countenance, even when students all about him are laughing at the humorous method in which he berates some luckless candidate. There seem to be prospects of his turning out to be Gloomy Mike, but reports (Continued on Page 5)

Fraternity Hockey Teams Inaugurate Season Wednesday

Interfraternity hockey will get underway Wednesday, January 9, at 3:30 p. m. When the Alpha Tau Omega's and Delta Sigma Pi's meet on lower campus in the initial fray of the season.

All of the fraternities have entered strong teams this year and a close race is expected throughout the season. It was not until the final game last year that the Phi Kappa Psi's won the championship from the Theta Chi's when the game ended in a tie, and a toss of the coin decided the championship.

The following schedule takes in all the games to be played from January 9, to January 19:

Round 1

Alpha Tau Omega vs Delta Sigma Pi, Jan. 9, 3:30 No. 1; Phi Kappa Psi vs Sigma Chi, Jan. 9, 7:30 Varsity; Delta Pi Epsilon vs Phi Kappa Tau, Jan. 10, 3:30 No. 2.

Round 2

Delta Sigma Pi vs Phi Kappa Psi, Jan. 11, 3:30 No. 1; Sigma Chi vs Delta Pi Epsilon, Jan. 12, 1:00 No. 1; Alpha Tau Omega vs Phi Kappa Tau, Jan. 12, 1:00 No. 2.

Round 3

Alpha Tau Omega vs. Phi Kappa Psi, Jan. 13, 9:00 No. 1; Delta Sigma Pi vs. Delta Pi Epsilon, Jan. 13, 10:00 No. 2; Sigma Chi vs. Phi Kappa Tau, Jan. 14, 4:30 No. 1.

Round 4

Alpha Tau Omega vs. Sigma Chi, Jan. 15, 3:30 No. 2; Phi Kappa Psi vs. Delta Pi Epsilon, Jan. 15, 7:30 Varsity; Delta Sigma Pi vs. Phi Kappa Tau, Jan. 16, 7:30 Varsity.

Round 5

Alpha Tau Omega vs. Delta Pi Epsilon, Jan. 17, 3:30 No. 2; Delta Sigma Pi vs. Sigma Chi, Jan. 19, 1:00 No. 1; Phi Kappa Psi vs. Phi Kappa Tau, Jan. 19, 1:00 No. 2.

For All Wisconsin

1928-29

1. Raise fraternity initiation standards and requirements relating to probation.
2. Establish a point system regulating participation in student activities.
3. Place Madison traffic ordinances on a metropolitan basis.
4. Remedy the profiteering evil of football ticket scalping.

The Council—Rushing

Maybe Tonight Will See Some Action on This "Deferred Business"

THE Interfraternity council, that guiding spirit of harmony among Greek letter organizations, which seemed suddenly to fall asleep last fall after the gesture to defer rushing proved futile, will come to life for a few hours tonight. The committee on deferred rushing is scheduled to make its report to the council concerning the results of the experiment of last year. Other business concerns the proposed amendments concerning pledging, the co-operative buying report, and social discussion.

Just what the council is going to do about this problem of deferred rushing will be awaited with interest. The problem was imminent late in October and the organization then had a fine opportunity to get together, weigh the good and bad effects of the rushing jumble, and start rejuvenating its plans for next year. But somehow nothing was done. The council failed to grab the bull by the horns. Nothing has emanated from headquarters concerning rushing for over two months.

Of course, the separate council committee may have been organized itself for a new rushing project, and may have something for release soon. But the time between now and the inauguration of any new system is rapidly getting short. And unless the council reports something definite tonight or in the very near future, it is going to find itself in the same tight place that it was in last spring, when the first deferred regulations barely passed in time for fall operation.

That some type of deferred rushing program, which cannot be violated and which will work for the benefit of fraternities and freshmen, must be found is a certainty. To The Daily Cardinal, the best policy would be deferral of rushing for six weeks and mandatory withholding of pledging for one full year. The council probably may have another idea and then again it may not. But two things are definite: that it must act soon, and that it must alter the farcial situation of September and October, 1928.

To all appearances the Interfraternity council has slumbered now some nine weeks. We hope that tonight will show some signs of return to life.

Our Cultured Collegians

The Christmas Recess Probably Resembled Sailors' Shore Leave

PERHAPS the most valuable questionnaire that could be distributed among college students would be one entitled, "How I Spent My Christmas Recess." College students are presumably the most educated class in the country—with the possible exception of college graduates; and it would be highly enlightening to discover how many students paled to go into the Oriental theater, Chicago, as against the number who walked into free exhibitions in the art institute. Certainly while the university is in session students cannot be expected to bother with art—what with basketball games, dances, studying, and a variety of other distractions. But the way they spend time which is completely their own is a revealing as the tests for halitosis or B. O. (body odor—sh!).

Of course simply entering a museum does not constitute a baptismal process in which the visitor becomes a person of culture. But the words "museum," "art," and "music-lover" are gradually taking on the same stigma as the words "radical" and "socialist." The poor, misguided fools who cannot realize that their earning capacities will not be increased by everlasting gazing at pictures are further subdivided: those who stick to classic painting and sculpture are widely regarded as queer; but those who attempt to appreciate modern art and music are, even, we venture, in the college students mind, completely crazy.

The inhabitant of institutions of higher learning has a faint suspicion that there may be something in a battered old torso of Praxiteles; and, after all, if Andrew Mellon pays one million dollars for Raphael, it must be great stuff.

Yes Sir! These long-haired intellectuals will never do anything useful. We need men of vigor and executive ability to make the world go round. Absolutely! Plenty of time to visit the art institute in the 45 minutes between trains—you can't see a show in that time.

58 Degrees

Class Meets, Stalls, Shivers, and Changes Room; Why? No Heat?

MONDAY at 11 a. m. in Sterling hall Political Science 122 convenes. The instructor is J. P. Harris.

Yesterday the class assembled in a normal manner. Many of the women in the class, as usual, still kept their fur coats wrapped about them.

The remark by a member of the class that "it seems cold in here" coincided with the entrance of the instructor who was greeted by a group that sat obviously shivering, stamping their feet, holding hands to ears and in general displaying the symptoms of extreme discomfort.

Mr. Harris looked annoyed, embarrassed, and stooped behind the desk to remove his artics . . . also, perhaps, to think it over. Finally he arose and asked if the class thought the room uncomfortably cold. Vigorous assent. Perhaps it would be better to find another and warmer room? Groans. Business of instructor going to find janitor and incidentally to find room.

Instructor returns with report that room 401 is vacant. Scout is sent to report on room's vacancy and on room's temperature. Impatient instructor in meantime attempts to start lecture. No success. General feeling prevails that scout had "better come back with the right report." Instructor takes roll. Scout returns with report that room 401 has a class but that room 405 is warm and unoccupied. Class heaves sigh of relief, forgets about cold, and begins erodus to room 405, a climb of three flights of stairs.

Time elapsed from convening of class to actual beginning of lecture: 11 a. m. to 11:20 a. m.

Statistics:

Students actually cold: 15%
Students feigning cold: 40%
Students non-committal: 20%
Students comfortable: 25%

Temperature of room: 58 degrees.

Journalism Up North

"Mr. John Gerou was seized with a sudden attack of gallstones Sunday afternoon. Dr. Mitchell of Gladstone was called but was delayed enroute because of tire trouble. In the meantime, many home remedies were used to relieve the sufferer. He is sufficiently recovered to return to work." The rolling stones seem to gather no muss.

With summer a few short months off some notes on figure skating are in order. Figure skating is a sport dating back as far as Euclid. This old sport used to work out many of his now historically famous sums while figure skating. His little boys used to accompany him on the isocles triangle.

The interesting diversion was pursued in all the northern countries with great success. Many of them were bagged and sent to the taxidermist who prepared them for the figure skating museums.

Noble attempts in the Sahara desert were frustrated by mother nature who insisted upon melting ice before the enthusiastic participants could fasten on their skates. Nevertheless, this part of Africa has succeeded in producing some wonderful figures as well as some disreputable old skates.

In America figure skating has been connected with one Harold Dubinsky, sometime editor of Cardinal sports. As a small child he learned to make eights in the ice with his trusty blade. He also made eights in the church pew with his trusty blade but he got licked for that. It was but a short time until he took up sixteens and thirty-twos. After a week's rest he plunged into the serious business of turning out sixty-fours. Later he was acclaimed by the Menash Figure Skating Committee for successfully cutting a figure one hundred twenty-eight. He was given a banquet and an Arithmetic Primer.

As a youth of twenty he conquered the hazards of making two hundred and fifty-sixes and five hundred and twelves. At present he is working everyday on his first one thousand twenty-four, a task which will occupy the rest of his life, we hope.

Where will it all end? The Pi Phis are redecorating their lodge, I suppose, and find one wash bowl for twenty-three girls. We have a lot to be thankful for this Christmas.

THIS COLUMN IS ENGINEERED BY THE HALF WIT'S HALF BROTHER—IMAGINE!!!!

A lot of local stuff today. Whiskery, but it's all timely so here goes. The Alpha Chi Omegas didn't have any dates the first few days after vacation because their phone was taken out. Explanations range from poor postal service to the wildest conjectures of guys who really wanted dates.

Oh Joy, here is a subject that I am full of. Boys, gather around and just sit on the pillows father will be through with his treatment in a minute and we'll talk about our Christmas neckties.

Well what are we gonna do with them? If we had a business manager we could pool all our dainties for the neck and piece them together into a striking futuristic awning. Or we might trade them for the Indian reservations.

These things constitute an evil that shouldn't be joked about. Christmas neckties can get on a man's nerves until he runs out in the street and hollers, "I'm nuts—just plain nuts—take them away." I think the same man who handles all the Delerium Tremens animals must have charge of the Christmas neckties.

Yes and when the warm unseasonable weather comes at the year's end of the next late year And the south-west wind that smells of rain and summer Strips the huge branches of their dying leaves

And you at dusk along the Friedrichstrasse Or you in Paris on the windy quai Shuffle the shallow fallen leaves before you Thinking the thoughts that like the gray clouds change

You will not understand why suddenly sweet ness Fills in your heart nor the tears come to your eyes You will stand in the June-warm wind and the leaves falling Where was it so before you will say with whom

You will not remember this at all you will stand there Feeling the wind on your throat the wind in your sleeves You will smell the dead leaves in the grass of a garden You will close your eyes with whom you will say Ah where.

The Professor's Wage

ONE of the unfortunate results of low professional salaries is that they force many faculty members to work at extra-academic jobs in order to gain a livelihood. Sometimes this work is "unusually poorly paid," and frequently of a "tedious and otherwise unpleasant" character. It often interferes with scholastic work in which every professor ought to be engaged in order to keep from growing intellectually stale. These are the conclusions of the committee on the academic standard of living appointed by the Yale University chapter of the American Association of University Professors.

"There is reason to believe," the chapter announced, at the outset of the investigation, "that the economic conditions of the professors are such as effectively to discourage many young men of high quality of intellect and force of character from adopting this profession." The conclusions reached after a thorough study of conditions at Yale corroborated this fear. It was found that "the present scale of salaries affords good conditions for a scholarly life for an unmarried man; but a distinctly meager existence in all grades for a man and wife with no children. For a family including three or four children between fifteen and twenty-four years of age, that is, the family of a full professor fifty years of age with twenty-five years of service behind him, the salaries afford a wage which falls considerably short of supporting a scale of living comparable to that of fairly successful men in other professions." If a professor receives the minimum pay of his rank, his salary is about one-third of such an imaginary scale. And the Yale wages are said to be no lower than elsewhere.

Book Notes

A survey of Madison bookstalls discloses the fact that the best fiction sellers this past month or so have been:

Point Counter Point
Orlando
The Strange Case of Miss Annie Spragg
The Children
Pennigan Place
World Anthology of Poetry
Old Pybus

The amiable Mr. Emory of Brown's fairly groans every time he mentions Thornton Wilder or Richard Haliburton. These friends of forlorn book-sellers certainly have not been up to snuff this year, especially the latter. Presumably lectures pay more than publishing.

Orlando rightly deserves a place in the list of best-sellers for it is about time that Mrs. Woolf were breaking into the big money. She has written excellently for so long and with such restricted popularity that she breaks into the front ranks with the same enthusiasm as does a first novelist.

Miss Monroe of the Koop reports a smart business in the verse line: something which is not to be sneered at, by the way. The World Anthology (Van Doran Ed.) has gone surprisingly well in spite of the $5.00 price. 'Tis excellent. Also Pennigan Place.

Point Counter Point we refuse to mention. Enough has already been said concerning the year's best novel.

—PROSPERO

When you have decided that a thing ought to be done and are doing it, never avoid being seen doing it, though the many shall form an unfavorable opinion about it. For, if it is not right to do it, avoid doing the thing; but if it is right, why are you afraid of those who shall find fault wrongly?—Epictetus.

followed with another. Truskowski made the prettiest shot of the game with a long one-handed sweep from the side lines. Ellerman added a point for Wisconsin as the half ended.

Truskowski Again

Chapman started the last half with a free throw, and Ellerman retaliated with a short shot under the basket. Truskowski made another. Foster was at the end of a pretty piece of passing for an easy two points. Truskowski slipped past Ellerman for a set up and shortly afterwards repeated.

Ellerman made a gift shot and Matthiesen sank a long one. Truskowski added another one from under the basket, and Foster duplicated his feat. The score was 28-18 with four minutes to go. Truskowski made a gift shot, and Chmielewski did likewise. Miller put one in from the side to end the Badger's scoring. The game ended soon after Chapman broke through to tally.

crew, a couple of years ago, had no member under six two in height, and they weighed accordingly. But Murphy was the rare exception.

When he was stroking Washington, in 1921 and 1922, there was not so much stress laid on 150-pound crews. Otherwise, a good stroke might have been lost to the varsity, for he weighed 158 pounds when he stroked at Poughkeepsie in 1922. Behind him at No. 7 was Fred Spuhn, now coaching at Penn; at No. 4 was Sam Shaw, now class coach at Yale, and facing him from the coxswain seat was Don Grant, Yale's present 150-pound coach.

Navy beat that Washington crew, because Navy was a great crew and because Mike obeyed orders. Ed

Leader sent them out to row, it proved, too low a stroke, and Murphy obeyed orders. They finished less than a length behind with enough left to row easily back to quarters. But Mike had obeyed orders, and the next season Leader took him with him to Yale. His crews there have won 13 of 18 races and fed some good men to Leader's varsity. His going marks the first break in the coaching scheme built so successfully at New Haven by the great Leader.

New Octy Gives Dope of Prom

Recent Staff Appointments Are Revealed; Poetry Page Latest Feature

Octopus will greet the eyes of class-goers Wednesday with a futuristic cover depicting a Prom girl and her consort. Molnar Gyula is the artist.

A DeHaven interview with John Catlin, Prom chairman, is entitled "I Shall Go To Prom." According to the correspondent, the material was obtained at great risk of life and limb. "There's Something About Prom" contrasts the event of today with that of the time when hansom cabs were the mode of transportation to Prom.

Prof. Fulcher, who will be absent on his honeymoon next semester, reviews "Recent Books" for the last time this year. "From Bad To Verse," a new poetry page, contains a contribution of John Bryan '32, grandson of William Jennings Bryan, and Zona Gale scholar. "Galahad Tells a Lie" is the title of a short story by "Guinivere," a newcomer to the ranks of Octy contributors.

Announcement of the editor and business manager appointments for the ensuing year will be made on the editorial page. Other promotions will be published in the Daily Cardinal, Thursday morning.

Sigma Delta Chi

The editor of the Prom Cardinal and the chairman of the Gridiron banquet will be elected at the meeting of Sigma Delta Chi to be held at 7 p. m. Tuesday in the Memorial Union. All active members and pledges are requested to be present.

Gymnasts, Fencers

Compete Saturday

Wisconsin's gymnasts and fencers will open their 1929 season next Saturday evening when they clash with the Milwaukee Y. M. C. A. at Milwaukee. Each year Coach Art Masley schedules home and home meets with the Milwaukee team prior to his first conference engagement. Masley won second place last winter in the Big Ten gymnastic meet, and was undefeated in dual matches.

American Chemical Society Will Hear Professor Williams

Dr. John Warren Williams of the chemistry department will address the 170th regular meeting of the Wisconsin section of the American Chemical society on Wednesday, Jan. 9, at 8 p. m., in room 251 of the Chemistry building. Dr. Williams, who is assistant professor of physical chemistry, will speak on "The Structure of Molecules as Revealed by Dielectric Constant Studies."

The discussion will include investigations in a comparatively new field of physical chemistry, being a general survey of dielectric constant and dipole theory studies. These topics have been gleaned from more than a dozen papers published by the Universities of Wisconsin and Leipzig, with which Dr. Williams was formerly connected.

The Chemical society announces this lecture as being of timely interest, especially to physicists and chemists. Edwin O. Wiig is secretary of the society.
