FINANCE GROUP HEARS ARGUMENT FOR FIELD HOUSE

Senator Sauthoff Recommends
Passage of Bill; No State Aid Asked

A field house for the university was recommended by Senator Harry Sauthoff, Madison, in a bill which was presented to the joint finance committee at an open hearing in the capitol yesterday afternoon. The proposed building will cost $250,000 and will have a seating capacity of either 12,000 or 16,000 people.

Theodore Kronshage, president of the board of regents; Thomas E. Jones, track coach; Paul F. Hunter, director of ticket sales, and William F. Hannan of Milwaukee, alumnus, spoke at the hearing and expressed approval of the bill which will make a field house possible. There were no opposing speakers.

No State Funds Needed

In explaining the scope of his measure Senator Sauthoff said, "This bill does not ask for one dollar in appropriation from the state. I merely ask that power be given to the regents to authorize the construction of the field house. The gate receipts of the athletic games at the university will pay for the project."

A review of the situation in other universities of the Big Ten, said the senator, showed that none of them have facilities for less than 10,000 spectators at indoor games and that the universities of Michigan and Ohio have planned for constructions to exceed this capacity. The university gymnasium seats 2,250 or about one-third of the enrolled students.

Kronshage Outlines Plan

Mr. Kronshage, in defending the action of the senator, said, "Athletics at the university are earning money. A plan whereby the funds are earned by the boys should encounter no objection from the legislature, subject to the consent of the governor and regents, when it is asked that they be allowed to erect a building in which to play their games."

"A recent audit showed that the athletic department has a balance of $89,000," he continued. "By using this amount and by floating a bond issue of approximately $150,000, the financial requirements can be met without funds from the state. It is planned to pay back $50,000 a year at the current rate of interest."

Urge Non-profit Corporation

The alumni of other universities by forming a non-profit corporation have handled successfully like projects, according to Mr. Kronshage. The bill offered by Senator Sauthoff intends that Wisconsin alumni shall form some such organization.

The bill will next have hearings in the senate and assembly when it comes up on the calendar.

FOSDICK TO GIVE FOUR ADDRESSES

Religious Liberalist Will Be Principal University Conference Speaker

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, writer of religious articles and former New York pastor, will be the most important speaker at the all-university religious conference to be held in Madison, March 27 to 29.

The program will consist of four addresses; the university convocation Friday night in Lathrop gymnasium, a meeting Saturday night and others Sunday afternoon and evening. Dr. Fosdick will speak at a luncheon for the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. cabinets and other campus religious groups Saturday noon.

The religious conference is later this year than usual in order to meet Dr. Fosdick's convenience. This will be his first western appearance after resigning from his New York city pastorate.

Settlement Work Course Given Here First in Big Ten

The first course in group settlement work to be given by any university in the Big Ten is being given by the department of Sociology under the instructorship of Miss Helen I. Clark.

Twelve students are enrolled in the class and they spend approximately 200 hours during the semester doing settlement work at the Neighborhood house at 768 W. Washington avenue.

"The purpose of the new course, which is offered for the first time this year," says Miss Clark, "is to give students practical experience in handling the problems of Americanization and education of the foreigners in the slums of American cities."

The women spend several hours each week, at the Neighborhood house, leading singing, teaching classes, acting as advisors for people who come there, and helping to some extent to solve the problems in the homes."

At present the big need is to get some more physical education students, according to Miss Clark. The need for play directors is so pressing that it is hard to keep the demand satisfied, she says.

AG-HOME ECS HOLD BOX SOCIAL TONIGHT

The Agricultural-Home Economics box social will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the fourth floor gymnasium of the Wisconsin High school. The affair is being given jointly by the Euthenics and Agricultural Men's clubs. Samuel J. Strauss '27 is in charge of arrangements.

Besides dancing, there will be games and stunts. Victor Chapman '28 will present a music act and Carter Harrison '25 will do a song and dance number.

DELAYED CARNIVAL ASSURED AT LAST

Cold Wave Aids Committee to Hold Ice Carnival This Saturday

Definite announcement was made yesterday by Arthur E. Timm '25, chairman, that Wisconsin's twice-postponed ice carnival will get underway at 2 o'clock Saturday on Lake Mendota rink.

The Mendota rink will be in excellent shape. The entrants include some fast amateur skaters of high rating. Timm has announced the interfraternity relay race as the windup to an exceptionally good program.

Among the dozen fraternities that have entered teams in the relay event, the Theta Chi and Delta Upsilon teams loom up as the strongest contenders for first place. The Alfred Johnson company has offered a silver loving cup to the winner of this event. Theta Chi numbers among its entrants such stars as John Dahlman and George "Huntz" Hahnbach, who shared first and second honors in the Milwaukee silver skates' derby last year, and George Bacon, who was runner-up in the amateur open championship at Chicago a year ago.

Considerable enthusiasm has been shown by the co-eds this year, Timm declared. An interfraternity race and Chadbourne-Barnard event have been scheduled. Medals and cups, presented by sporting goods manufacturers, will be awarded to the winners in the men's 220-yard sprint, the 880-yard dash and the mile race, and the women's 220, 440 and 880-yard dashes.

John Montieth and Grace Gleerup will appear in fancy skating exhibitions, as will Emil Iverson and Lillian Goswitz, professional skaters from Minneapolis. Kay Iverson, hockey coach, and George Martin, director of winter sports, will present an acrobatic skating stunt.

O'Shea Finds Alumni In East Bitter Over Stolen Charges

Reprints Circulated on Harvard Campus May Have Influenced Pound

Reprints of the Stolen charges when they appeared in the Boston papers were made and circulated on the Harvard campus, according to an alumnus of this university who was at Cambridge at the time. "They were distributed on the campus for the purpose, apparently of influencing the decision of Dean Pound," the alumnus said.

Professor M. V. O'Shea brought this news back from Ohio State university where the alumnus is at present located. Professor O'Shea, of the Department of Education, has been delivering addresses in the states of Indiana, Illinois and Ohio and one of his lectures was to Wisconsin alumni at Ohio.

Several of the alumni seemed quite embittered about the reputation which the university was getting, Professor O'Shea said.

It was Professor O'Shea's opinion from observations that he made on the trip that it will require the best efforts of everybody connected with the university to get rid of the present black eye that it has. He said of his observations, "Certainly anyone who will go around and hear how people outside interpret the scandals that are spread around about us will realize that he cannot do as he wants to on his own account, paying no attention to what effect it has upon the university. The tales that have been circulated so widely about us in the past few weeks are the very worst that could be told about a university. Many people are morbid about such matters and easily believe the scandals that are circulated."

Check Canes and Wrenches Outside to Insure Against Riot

Tonight is the night for the bartenders and plumbers. These arch enemies will tempt fate in mingling on the boards. Each will be away from his native haunt and will match wits and women in the first lawyer-engineer dance in the university's history.

Lawyers' canes and engineers' wrenches will be checked at the door to avoid a possible riot; a four-block armistice zone has been agreed upon by the respective managers of the dance. No fighting taking place after the dance and while the men are in the company of their partners will be considered legal.

Violations of the terms of the armistice will be tried by members of the Law school. The engineers have agreed to accept decisions of the court without protest with the proviso that in case more than 40 engineers are found guilty they may challenge the lawyers to a pitched battle before the end of the semester.

The dance has been arranged by a committee of students from each department. The proceeds from the affair will go to loan and scholarship funds in the Law school and the College of Engineering.

Entertainment during the intermission period has been promised by the committee. A quartet from the Law school will sing several lawyer, will sing. "Poetry and Prose" will be the offering of C. F. Cooper L3, and Ray Goodlad '26 and Burney Solbraa '27 will give a character comedy sketch.

Dean and Mrs. H. S. Richards and Dean F. E. Turneaure will chaperon the party.

ACACIA HOLDS SMOKER FOR MASON TONIGHT

The Acacia fraternity, 108 Langdon street, has invited all university Masons to attend a smoker at their new home from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Advertising Club Hears Rendall on "Retail Problems"

A discussion of retail problems in Madison stores was the feature of the talk given by William Rendall '22, advertising manager of The Capital Times, before the members of the Advertising club last night.

Mr. Rendall presented clippings of various advertisements for Madison stores to serve as illustrations of the differences in retail advertising.

"The relation of retail copy to the type of store is very marked," Mr. Rendall explained. "The appearance of the ads typify the store except in cases of sale or bargain columns, which are usually blacker and more price appealing. The stores with higher class merchandise run the more conservative ads or the institutional type which 'sell' the integrity or some similar characteristic of the store to the public."

FRIENDSHIP FUND PURPOSE OUTLINED

Money Donated Enables For- eign Students to Help Themselves

"The Student Friendship fund has five major purposes and five lines of activities," declared Elizabeth Bretin, field secretary, who spoke yesterday to women who are working in the drive here.

"The money which the American students give is not helping the European student directly, but it is helping them to help themselves," Miss Bretin explained. "Most of these students would be able to provide themselves with but one scant meal a day if it were not for our help. Other self-help institutions which your money has made possible, are shoe repair shops, loan funds, cooperative houses, stores, and clinics, barbershops, needle workshops and clubs.

"Other functions which the organization carries on is the promotion of international peace, aid to foreign students in America and the students over there are provided with literature and text books, which they would be unable to get if it were not for American money."

Flying squadrons are being sent out today in order to present the drive to the student body as a whole. The campaign will close Sunday and by that time it is expected that at least $3,000 will have been raised.

VARIED PROGRAM GIVEN BY CLEF CLUB TONIGHT

The program of the concert which will be given by the Clef club at 8 o'clock tonight in the concert room of Music hall, presents many entertaining selections. Among those who will take part in the program are university men and women who have attained prominence in music on the campus.

The program will be composed of some works of Chopin, Macdowell, Beatrix MacGowan Scott, Lierance, Tschaikowski, Schumann and Aver, Cecil Burleigh, Homer, Kjorulf and Mendelsohn.

The following selections have been made from the works of these composers: "Polonaise," Chopin; "Hexentanz," Macdowell; "Joy," Beatrix MacGowan Scott; "She Never Told Her Love," Haydn; "By the Waters of Minnetonka," Lierance; "Barcarolle," Tschaikowski; "Vogel In Prophet," Schumann, and "Indian Snake Dance," Professor Burleigh.

WEINHOFF TO ADDRESS EDUCATION CLUB TODAY

John E. Weinhoff '25 will speak on "Moral and Civic Habit Formation in Education" before the regular meeting of the Educational Journal club in the author's room of the Y. M. C. A. today at 12:30 o'clock.

WOMEN DISCUSS PROPOSED CHANGE OF CONSTITUTION

Alice Corl Suggests Women
Bring Condition of University Before Legislature

Proposed amendments to the W. S. G. A. constitution were presented and discussed, and financial condition of the university was brought to the attention of the university women at the massmeeting for women held at 7:15 o'clock last night in Music hall.

Mildred John '26, chairman of the constitutional amendment committee, read and explained the proposed amendments. The final balloting, which will be held on March 20 in Lathrop hall, will be done by the Australian system.

Alice Corl Reads Article

Following a discussion of the proposed constitutional revisions, Alice Corl '25, president of the W. S. G. A., read President Birge's article in the March, 1925, Alumni magazine, which set forth the urgent need for funds by the university. She suggested to each girl that she write to her representative in the legislature about the condition of the university, and ended by saying: "As future taxpayers we have a right to express our confidence in the legislature, and to ask them to save our university for us."

George Dawson '24 presented a series of charts which have been worked out to show the financial status of the university. They included charts showing the relation between area of classrooms and the number of students between the years 1901 to 1923-24. He showed that although the addition of classrooms and enrollment were practically parallel up to 1917, from that time, the enrollment has increased 200 per cent without additional classrooms, and that, consequently the university is housing 8,000 students, when it has provisions for 5,000 only.

Compare Other Universities

The charts compare the appropriations for educational buildings and lands at Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Iowa and Minnesota; pictured how the university dollar is spent, showing that 46 per cent of the money appropriated by the legislature is earned by the university itself as an operating plant; demonstrated how the university dollar is distributed, and finally, luxuries versus university education, showing how much money people spend for luxuries as compared with what the state spends for the university.

INCREASE BADGER ATHLETIC SECTION

Distinctive Makeup Will Feature Sports Department, Says Wernecke

Athletics will occupy an unprecedented prominence in the 1926 Badger, according to Otis Wiese '26, editor of the yearbook. The section is planned to be twice as large as that of the 1925 book and will be marked by a distinct make-up.

"Throughout the section there will run an effort to typify the new Wisconsin athletic era," Orin Wernecke '25, editor of athletics, says.

The section will open with a statement from George Little, new athletic director, in which he strikes the keynote for Badger athletics. Crew will be the feature of the section. It will be written in the form of a log of a ship. Illustrations will be selected from more than 40 views taken at Poughkeepsie last spring. J. F. A. Pyre, chairman of the athletic council, who was with the crew at Poughkeepsie, will aid in the writing of this section.

Following the crew section 17 pages will be devoted to a Varsity section of which football will be the subject. Full size pictures of the players will be presented. The past plan of summarizing each contest will be relinquished.

NO RELAY TEAMS AT ILLINOIS, ONLY SPECIAL EVENTS

Jones to Save Middle Distance
Men For Irish and Conference Meets

After revising the list of records at Iowa university the Badger wearers of the spiked shoes are putting in a week of intensive practice for the Illinois relay carnival.

However, only the special event men will be entered as Coach Jones wants to give his middle distance men a rest before the hard dual meet with Notre Dame next Saturday. If all the men take part at the Illinois carnival it would mean that Valley, Bergstresser, Flueck, Carter, Hilberts and the rest of the relay men would have to run hard races five consecutive Saturdays as they have already had two hard meets in the quadrangular and Iowa contests and they yet have the dual meet with the Irish and the indoor conference meet. These combined with the competition at the Illinois carnival would be too strenuous for the men running the longer distances.

Another factor that will prevent the men from competing in the relays is the difficulty of the trip to Champaign. Last year the Badgers ran at Illinois the week before their meet with the Catholics and as a result they were so worn out from the trip that they were in no shape to test their speed with Notre Dame. Coach Jones is anxious to avenge the defeat at the hands of Notre Dame last year and intends to give the majority of his squad a week of rest.

Enter Special Events

Wisconsin will be well represented in the special events at the carnival. McAndrews will run in the 75 yard dash; McGiveran will compete in the dash and both hurdle events; McGinnis will high jump and run the hurdles; Krieger will do the pole vaulting for Wisconsin; Cassidy is entered in the special 1,500 meter race; Hill will enter the 300 yard dash and Schwarze will toss the shot.

After his unexpected defeat at Iowa, Coach Jones has been working long and hard with Schwarge so as to get him back in shape to win the event at Illinois. Last night the big fellow was putting it out around his old distance and gives every evidence of being able

Badger Trackmen Invited to Compete in 8 Relay Meets

If Coach Jones' tracksters took part in all the relays to which they have been invited they would be on the go all the time and in some cases would even have to divide their forces.

The first event is the Illinois relay carnival February 28. March 27 is the date that the University of Texas has invited the Badgers to compete in the first annual relay carnival, while March 28 they are invited to take part in the Southwestern Relay Carnival at Houston, Texas.

April is the most popular month for relay carnivals. On the 18th of this month both Kansas and Ohio hold their relays while April 25 the Wisconsin team has been invited to compete at both the Penn and Drake relays. May 2 is the date of our own Mid-west carnival at Camp Randall.

Needless to say the Badgers cannot compete in all these meets especially if they make the trip to California. Coach Jones has not decided yet just where he will enter his team.

to offer the best of them all the competition they want.

May Break Records

There are several records at the carnival that should go by the boards if some of the Badger stars perform up to standard. Schwarze should break the present shot put record of 44 feet $\frac{1}{4}$ inches and McGinnis has a chance to smash Osborne's high jump record of 6 feet $\frac{1}{4}$ inches if he repeats his performance at the quadrangular meet.

This, the eighth annual relay carnival staged by the University of Illinois, is to be the biggest and best in the history of the event. Over 700 athletes and 100 relay teams will take part. Not only are all the Big Ten teams entered but also all of the college and university teams from the middle west and Missouri Valley conference. In addition to this two of the best aggregations from the East are coming to take part in the form of entries from Pennsylvania and Georgetown universities.

PEORIA, III.—Theodore C. Burgess, for 18 years president of the Bradley Polytechnic institute, died suddenly this morning at his home. He had been at his office all day yesterday.

BADGERS TO TRY TO AVENGE DEFEAT IN MICHIGAN GAME

Meanwell Drills Men in Short Pass Game and Basket Shooting

In a vain effort to improve the conference standing of the crippled Badgers Coach Meanwell is instructing his men in long and hard practices in preparation for the tilt with Michigan on Saturday.

The shooting of the team and its failure to stick to the short passing game is being improved. The tight defense which weakened at the last of the Purdue contest is another part of the Cardinal play that is being stressed. Seldom have the Meanwell men resorted to long attempts at the basket, and it is certain that the little doctor will have his team passing to perfection before they face the strong Wolverine five.

Coach Mather's men did not see action last week because of the death of President Burton, and thus their present strength is not certain. They were able, however, to nose out a one goal lead over the Badgers in the first meeting of the teams.

Badger Pucksters To Face Michigan In Last Home Game of Season

Gross May Be Shifted to Defense; Michigan Sending Team

Coach Kay Iverson and his squad of Badger pucksters have adopted the motto of the basketball and wrestling teams, "Mob Michigan" for the week end. All three of these teams face Michigan outfits Friday and Saturday.

With the sudden onslaught of cold weather Coach Iverson has had his men out on the ice working overtime to get into form for the Wolverines. It will be no surprise to those who watched Iverson's proteges go through their paces last night if the little coach shifts his lineup around since last the Badgers took to the ice.

Gross to Defense

Although he is yet undecided the start of the game may see Captain Gross moved from his old position at center to one of the defensive positions so as to strengthen the Wisconsin second line. In this case Sarles, who has showed up well when substituting for Gross, may find a place in the offense or else McCarter will be missed in the Badger offense machine but if the team is to win they must play a strong defense game according to Coach Iverson.

Little is known of the strength of the Michigan sextette as every time the Wolverines have had a conference game scheduled this season warm weather prevented its being played. However they have put in long hours of practice and will give a good account of themselves. Michigan has five veterans back from last year and this alone assures a stiff game. They have a seasoned goal keeper who will make it difficult for the Cardinal forwards to shoot the puck across the goal.

This week is the last time that the Badger hockey team appears on the home rinks and every member of the team is anxious to make a creditable showing. After the Michigan tilt the Badgers go to the Gopher state for games with Carleton and Minnesota.

Little Sends Message

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock is the time for the first clash while again at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon the Badgers and Wolverines will lock horns. Coach Iverson received a message from George Little, new athletic director, urging the Badgers to "knock 'em off."

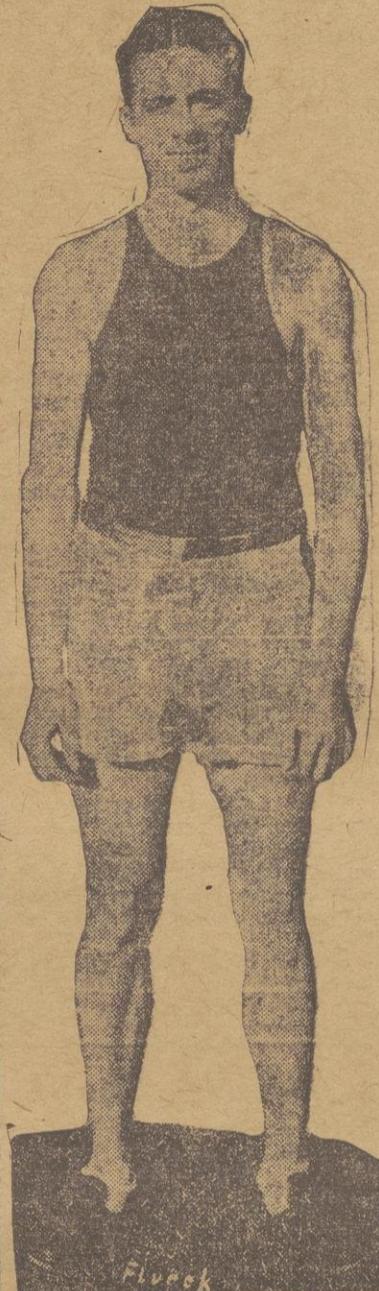

The probable lineup for tonight's game:

R. Wing—Jansky—3
L. Wing—Lidicker—2
Center—Gross—1 or Sarles—7
R. Defense—McCarter—4 or Gross—1
L. Defense—Gore—5
Goal Guard—Manniere—6
Spares—Englekey—12, John—
9, Mudk—8, Wildeman—10.

Three Prominent Positions

Three prominent positions open to U. W. Seniors or post-graduate students with well established organizations. Good pay, rapid promotion to right man. Must be free to travel. Appointments may be made Friday or Saturday of this week only between 10 A. M. and 1 P. M. by seeing Mr. Baumgartner at Hotel Loraine.

Beat Brookins' Mark

Herbert Flueck

One of the prettiest races of the Iowa-Wisconsin dual meet was the quarter mile. Herb Flueck took the lead at the start and held it all the way to the finish defeating Coulter, Iowa captain, who performed in the Olympics. Flueck not only won the race, but broke the record of Brookins, famous Iowa trackster of last year, when he stepped the distance in a little over 51 seconds.

Schmidt, Gym Captain, Master Performer in Five Hand Events

Rhythm, that's the reason for Capt. Herbert Schmidt's many victories on the Wisconsin gymnastic squad.

"One movement flows into the other as Schmidt performs," said Coach Schlatter yesterday. "Other men carry out the same exhibitions as he, but do not attain his perfectness of bodily synchronism."

Many persons who have watched "Huck" Schmidt perform marvel at his extra stunts on the horizontal and parallel bars, and with the flying rings. Of these, Coach Schlatter said:

"The extra work that Schmidt does, requires a lot of practice and a lot of courage to carry it out. Some gymnasts give up when they fail to master a special exhibition, but not 'Huck.' He works until he can carry out the stunt even though many bumps are the result of the training."

"He competes in five events in each meet, all five requiring two exhibitions apiece. That alone is a tremendous test of endurance, which is only acquired through long and arduous drill. Any man who desires to work on the parallel bars, horizontal bars, rings, side-horse, and then finally tumble and swing clubs, as Schmidt will do in the conference meet, must have grit and determination."

In the triangular meet with Pennsylvania and Minnesota here Saturday night, Captain Schmidt came back, and won first in tumbling although the Minnesota man was rated high in that event, and "Huck" had already competed in four events, winning first in three of them.

If the gymnastic team captain continues to be victorious as before, Coach Slatteer believes he will win the conference championship this year as last. The conference meet will be held at Minneapolis, March 21, and will mark the final contest for Wisconsin's versatile gymnastic performer. For the past three years he has been the mainstay of the Wisconsin gymnastic team and has always rated high in the all-around conference competition. If he should win the all-around conference championship this year, which is very likely, it would be a fitting close to his excellent collegiate gymnastic career.

FIRST ROUND OF GREEK TOURNEY VERY CLOSE

Only two of the six games played in the semi-finals of the interfraternity basketball league last night were won by more than two points. The following scores show that all of the games were hotly contested.

Results are: Phi Kappa Sigma 11, Delta Upsilon 12; T. K. E. 19, Alpha Chi Rho 8; Theta Xi 12, Delta Sigma Phi 10; Zeta Psi 8, Sigma Phi Sigma 18; Sigma Nu 12, Beta Theta Pi 10; Kappa Sigma 18, and Theta Delta Chi 10.

GOPHER MERMAN LIKELY WINNERS OVER WISCONSIN

Minnesota Concedes Three Events to Badgers; Relay, 100 and 40 Yard Swim

The Gopher swimmers are reputed to be the best in the conference, and with the meet tonight in the splashing ground of these mermen, things look indeed doubtful for the Badgers.

It is more than likely that Minnesota will walk off with a big margin of points, for it can be clearly seen that the Gophers have by far the more potent team.

To concede three events to Wisconsin will be perfectly above board. There is little question but that the relay team will come through again, and that Herschberger will pick firsts in the 40 and 100 yard swims. In Bird, Minnesota has the best diver in the conference. Likewise, Faricy is the best breast stroke man in the middle west, and Hill is sure to win the back stroke.

There are but two events left, the plunge and the 220. If it is possible, Herschberger will be kept out of the relay, and thus will be able to swim the 220. His possible entrance in that event is keeping up Wisconsin hopes. Minnesota has a fast plunger, and since Cook has never duplicated his practice time in a meet, it is but barely possible that he will spring a coup and give competition for first place.

THANK YOU

The state legislature has given permission to the students to use the capitol for the military ball, and the students are duly grateful for such permission.

Undoubtedly there is no other building in the country for such a party which compares in a degree with the capitol, and the people of the state, through their representatives, are acting in a splendid manner in offering to be hosts to the students of the university on this occasion.

Perhaps, after the "Move Prom to the Gym" editorial in this column some weeks ago, it may seem strange to some that this paper should take such an attitude on the military ball. It stands by that editorial to the last. But, although some students do not see it that way, the Daily Cardinal fully realizes that the invitation to use the building is an extremely hospitable act on the part of the state.

Thank you, citizens.

SAD NEWS FOR PICNICKERS

Picnic Point, "the favorite site," to quote the Daily Cardinal, "for picnic suppers and the goal of a great many hikers" and, it might be added, lovers, has been sold, and now it can be a tradition no longer.

Sad news! Yes. But it might have been sadder news. For the Point might have been bought by a real estate man, divided into small lots and resold. Which would have been nice for the second buyers—although rather breezy in such weather as this—but still harder on picnickers.

Of course, it would have been ideal if the university or city had bought the Point and kept it as a sort of park as it has been since the red-skins left it. But that was not to be.

Now it has come into the ownership of an individual. Perhaps that individual, who is generally looked upon as a generous man, may still permit a certain license to picnickers providing the latter do not take advantage of such license. And anyway, there is still a possibility of the land's being turned over eventually to use as a park.

It would be unfortunate indeed if the Picnic Point tradition should die altogether.

"TWO BITS"

The term "two bits" and multiples thereof, such as "four bits," and "six bits," has always excited a good deal of comment as to its origin. Here, in the North, we look upon it as a popular slang expression, but in the West and Southwest it is common, if not provincial. The price "a quarter" one seldom hears, and "six bits" has displaced our colorless "seventy-five cents."

One explanation as to the origin of the term "bit" tells us that it originated with the monetary system which was inaugurated in 1792, when the Spanish milled dollar became the unit of money. This coin was minted by the Spanish for Mexican use and had the value of one-eighth of our present dollar. This "real," as it was called, was of the same value as our early American shilling, and was the accepted unit of money.

With the arrival of the adventurer in the southwestern United States, the discovery was made that the "dos reales" of the Mexican was equal to two shillings of American money. Although many French and German words have found their way into our language, very few Spanish words have been taken over. Evidently the American could not pronounce "dos reales" and used the much more convenient form, "two bits."

Judge Stolen's tirade setting forth the "debaucheries" of the students at Wisconsin has been fruitful. Prof. M. V. O'Shea, returning from a visit to the East, tells of circulars, citing the judge's charges against students, being spread on other campuses. Furthermore, fraternity and sorority houses and individual students have received clippings from papers in every corner of the country, in which headlines, none too small to escape notice, told the story. Won't some other judge say something reflecting the fine things of Wisconsin, or are there no judges with political ambitions?

Wisconsin Should Know

The Alchemist's Dream

What is likely to be a most important contribution to industrial chemistry in America, is the discovery by Professor Victor Lenher of the chemistry department of the solvent known as selenium oxychloride.

The unusual properties of this solvent, which is a compound of the rare element selenium, have prompted newspaper men throughout the country to compare it with the universal solvent sought by alchemists of old. It will dissolve easily many substances which have heretofore been considered indissoluble except by fire: redmanol, bakelite, and certain forms of hydrocarbons. It will remove paint, varnish or shellac from the body of a coach or automobile without injuring the wood or metal. It will prevent knocking in an automobile engine if added in small quantities to a heavy gasoline. It has so far attained a commercial use chiefly in the manufacture of certain kinds of glass, and is for that purpose being produced extensively.

The solvent is a heavy, colorless liquid, which can be transported by ordinary means. Its eventual importance cannot yet be estimated since its industrial uses have not been fully explored, but it is sure that Professor Lenher has made a valuable and distinctly Wisconsin contribution to his science of chemistry.

Professor Lenher has been asked to speak on his discovery before a number of scientific societies and universities, as evidence of the importance attached by others to his discovery.

Under All—The Land

Mention land economics, and the name of Dr. Richard T. Ely, University of Wisconsin, will come booming back as the echo.

It is probably no exaggeration to say that land economics as a separate field of economics had its beginning at the University of Wisconsin under Dr. Ely. In 1920 he organized the Institute for Research in Land Economics. In four years that institute has made amazing progress. Under Dr. Ely's direction it has developed a course of land economics instruction of 12 subjects given by a staff of nine instructors; conducted research in seven basic land fields; actively promoted land, public utility, and real estate education in extension schools and universities; projected a series of 50 books covering the field of land economics and public utilities (four of which have been published, the first of their kind); and issued the first number of a new and excellent "Journal of Land and Public Utility Economics." The university, through this institute, has had a most significant part in the transformation and improvement which the real estate business of the whole country is undergoing, as well as in the field of theoretical economics.

The importance of the work of Dr. Ely and his staff cannot be overestimated when it is remembered that our entire commercial and agricultural structures rest on land values. Or, as the institute's motto succinctly puts it, "Under All—The Land."

Reader's Say So

AGONISTES: QUESTION AND ANSWER

Editor the Daily Cardinal:

Who is this person who signs himself "Agonistes"? As far as I know he has written only two editorials in the Daily Cardinal. These two, nevertheless, are the most asinine things I have ever seen. I advise you to call the Mendota hospital to find out who has escaped recently.

Who in the world every heard of a fraternity that brands its initiates? Of course, your writer may have been writing figuratively, but from reading that particular article one would think that branding physically was one of the common customs of fraternities. There are plenty of fraternity men in the gym taking showers. I advise your friend to follow their example, and to try to count how many branded men he can find.

Then, the other article that I read was entitled "The Seven Deadly Sins". All I can say about that article is this:

If an outsider, one who did not know Wisconsin ever read that, he would surely believe that Madison is as bad as Judge Stolen tries to make us believe it is.

Yours very truly,

POPULAR PLAY NOW GREAT FILM DRAMA

Once more a well-beloved and successful stage play has increased its popularity in its translation to the screen. "The Man Who Came Back," produced by William Fox from the play by Jules Eckert Goodman and story by John Fleming Wilson, began a three days' run at the Parkway theater yesterday and was well liked by those who attended the opening performance. There is no question of its high entertaining value, thanks to Emmett Flynn, the director, and a capable cast, headed by smiling
George O'Brien and Dorothy Mac-kaill. The leading players are given excellent support by Ralph Lewis, Cyril Chadwick and other able screen favorites.

"The Man Who Came Back" relates a few crowded months in the life of young Potter, son of an indulgent millionaire father. O'Brien appears as the son and gives an interesting portrayal of a jazz-crazy ne'er-do-well early in the picture.

He quarrels with a companion during the height of a wild party and knocks him out. Bills pile upon bill until his father is well nigh distracted. He sends the boy to San Francisco to work in a shipyard but the youth, for spite, allows himself to sink lower and lower until he finally reaches the very bottom in a Shanghai dive.

Throughout his descent he drags with him a girl, played by Miss Mackail, who becomes addicted to drugs while he succumbs to liquor.

Then he attempts to rise from the mire and there is hope that he has rehabilitated himself in Hawaii, but one dramatic incident after another is buried into the plot

HEAVY FINE INFILCTED BY DISCIPLINARY BODY

Only one case came before the disciplinary committee when it met Wednesday night in South hall. The committee inflicted a fine of 10 credits and probation for the semester on a Letters and Science junior who attempted to crib in a philosophy examination. The penalty was heavy because this was the second time the man had appeared before the committee.

until the case looks hopeless. The snobbery of an aristocratic aunt complicates matters in a tragic manner. There is a splendid thrill as well as a surprise in the closing twist. "The Man Who Came Back"

Engineer-Law Dance
Tonight at Lathrop;
Six Other Parties

The biggest and most unusual party being planned for this evening is the engineer-law dance which is to be held at Lathrop. This social friendliness between the proverbial foes may lead to more peaceful relations on the Hill in the spring—a cessation of the uncomplimentary epithets which are hurled across the campus. There are six other parties scheduled for this evening, among them a dinner to be given by the International club and a mixer by the Agricultural Literary society and the Euthenics club. * * *

Varsity Ball Date
Changed to May 2,
Senate Announces

Plans for the Varsity ball which was to have been given March 25, have been changed to May 2 as the date for the party, it was announced today by the Student senate, which are sponsoring the ball. It will be given in Lathrop gym.

Special features for that night are being planned, and any organization which wishes to put on an act may apply to the committee which will be selected for trying out the contestants. Prizes will be awarded for the best ones given. The features must be reviewed before a committee to be selected by the Student senate, the Student Life and Interest committee announced. This is for the purpose of determining whether the act will be suitable for entertainment at the dance.

Contrary to the announcement in yesterday's Cardinal, it has been decided to make this a costume party without masks. The music for the dance has not been decided upon yet.

AT THE THEATERS

Foreign and Local NewsIrene Homer, New Leading Lady at Majestic, Arrives

By TED.

In a small town the arrival of a new girl always causes much excitement. Perhaps, then, the arrival of a new leading lady at the Majestic theater may cause more interest in the company than has already been shown. In fact, the interest seems to have been aroused even before her first official appearance on the Majestic stage, for when Irene Homer arrived earlier in the week to commence rehearsals for "Just Suppose," hardly had she alighted from the train when she was welcomed by almost the whole of the Wisconsin chapter of a certain fraternity. Miss Homer was pleased and accepted the chapter's invitation to dine with them on Friday evening.

Miss Homer comes to Madison from New York where she was engaged in a Broadway production until it closed recently. This is her first appearance in stock for some time.

"You may tell the Daily Cardinal," she said, "that I was educated at Barnard College in New York, that I have been offered work with the Famous Players-Lasky company, that I have a young brother who rowed against your Wisconsin men at Foughkeepsie last June, that I like college people, especially men, and that I hope to meet a lot of them while I am here."

Movie Snapshots

"The Man Who Came Back"
Presented at the Parkway
This picture version of the play follows closely the lines of the original. George O'Brien gives a good performance first in the role of waster and spendthrift, then as down-and-out, and lastly as the "Man who came back." Dorothy Mackaill plays the leading feminine part.

The Dark Swan
At the Strand
Featuring Marie Provost, Monte Blue, Helene Chadwick

An old fashioned theme of the eternal triangle becomes interesting indeed in the new fashioned twist given it in "The Dark Swan," a picture whose cast is enriched with Marie Provost, Helene Chadwick, and the lovable Monte Blue.

That gold always glitters is not the truism it is generally believed to be. Eve and Cornelia are sisters—and that is their only thing in common apparently. Marie Provost is the gilded member of the family—beautiful, appealing, alluring. Helene Chadwick, because of her simplicity, her plainness does not captivate the masculine following despite her intelligence.

By CHATTY

This page sort of got ahead of me the other day, but try as I did, it was impossible to find out until it was too late that there was going to be a theater page. Had the idea that Washington's birthday would mean a real holiday.

Oh well, variety is lice of life

The great E. Mortimer has started his slashing and now the Haresfoot book is at last well under way. The music has gone to the orchestrator and, with the lyrics, will soon be run off the press.

This business of taking 75 men on the trip is quite an undertaking. But then, Haresfoot is used to big undertakings.

I was looking through the Haresfoot scrapbook the other day and came across some interesting things. It contained one picture which would have been barred from the cover of the Police Gazette. Wow!

The scrapbook is open to the public for inspection.

The Wisconsin Players had an interesting meeting last night. Their laboratory plays have almost failed by the wayside, but they will probably be revived before long.

Chic Sale, the star at the Orph, is a product of this state, but not of this university. The Sigma Nus proudly claim him as their own, for he was a member of the Illinois chapter while attending school

By H. E. R.
Another very good selection of movie stars will be shown at Madison theaters next week, and the legitimate houses are to entertain with worth-while features also.

The Strand is going to offer Richard Barthelmess the first part of the week, and Constance Talmadge the latter half. "New Toys" is the name of Richard's latest, and the former Miss Mary Hay, now his wife, is the co-star. The picture is said to be a comedy in every sense of the word, and represents a new venture of Barthelmess. In the show for the latter part of the week, Ronald Colman assists Constance Talmadge, and helps the audience to snicker loud and long. It really is a fine comedy, for we saw it lately and put our stamp of approval upon it without hesitation.

D. W. Griffith's "Isn't Life Wonderful" will be shown at the Parkway all of next week. As usual Griffith has gone out of his way to produce the unusual and the unexpected. According to reports, he has succeeded in taking a very simple story, keeping it intact, and yet making a picture that will hold spectators spell-bound. It's just a simple, little love-play in which Griffith has made use of the far developed methods of photography and real-life acting. The scenes are post-war, and the tale concerns there. He's a real vaudeville star if there ever was one.

Some rather interesting buts on the double standard have come in since last Friday and will probably appear in this col next week.

Report is that the National Collegiate Players' magazine sold so well that the editors are extremely optimistic about its future.

the hardships of a German family. An Englishman, Major Geoffrey Moss, wrote the story.

A chance to win a thousand dollars is to be given to every patron of the Madison who attends that theater the first part of the week. The job is to find a suitable title for the picture that has been temporarily named "On the Stroke of Three." The picture stars Kenneth Harlan, Madge Bellamy, and Mary Carr. A total of 151 cash prizes totalling $3,000 are offered for titles for the picture. Sounds like a paying proposition, even though the contest is not restricted to Madison. After that picture leaves, we'll have Mary Philbin, Phyllis Haver, and David Butler on the screen in "The Temple of Venus." About a thousand bathing beauties were used in the making of this picture, and one of the scenes contains the biggest flocks of seals that we have ever seen.

A new leading lady is to make her debut at the Majestic next week. Her name is Irene Homer, and she hails from New York city.

direct. From what Mr. Delaney tells us we are prepared to welcome a sweet, young lady, single and unattached, who is the right person to carry the feminine lead in "Just Suppose," the comedy drama which is scheduled for next week. The story is all about the titled young man who falls in love with a tittle-minus young woman, but is forced to relinquish her, and return home to marry another.

The second augmented vaudeville that was shown at the Orpheum this fall is scheduled to repeat the first part of next week. Undoubtedly the best feature of the show is Jack Hanley. Anyone that can look at him and yet restrain a peal of laughter is a prize pessimist. The girls are well worth looking at also. The big event will come the last half of the week when Harry Snodgrass, the radio pianist, will perform for mail order houses. With him is the prize-winning radio announcer, Witten, who will assist in the act.

COMMERCE SCHOOL IS 25 YEARS OLD

Wisconsin One of Few Universities Offering a Degree For Business Study

This year, marking the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Course in Commerce of the university, shows the results of years of effort to give the university a course that really trains students for the business world. Wisconsin is one of the few universities that while giving students specialized knowledge in the field of business, allows this training towards a degree.

The academic year 1900-01 marked the founding of this course after a great deal of agitation from faculty, students, and people outside of the university, who felt the need of a course similar to this, and yet felt the difficulties that would have to be surmounted.

The School of Commerce, as it was known then, was devised to meet the demands of the high school students who wished only a technical business training and to fit men and women generally for the business world by giving them practical training as far as possible in school. It is to the development and improvement of this course that the greater portion of the energy and resources devoted to business training have been given ever since.

Another feature of the Course in Commerce is the extension division devised to provide training for people who are already in business but who need and wish additional vocational instruction.

The course in commerce at Wisconsin now occupies a prominent position in regard to faculty, courses, and opportunities it gives the student in the business world.

Cashman to Plead For More Liberal University Budget

A plea for more liberal appropriations for the maintenance of the university will be made by Sen. J. E. Cashman, Benmark, Wis., member of the board of regents, before the joint finance committee of the legislature.

Senator Cashman realizes that the present buildings of the university are inadequate and will make an earnest effort to get a large appropriation. He thinks that many of the buildings are beyond repair and that it would be a matter of economy to construct new ones.

He declares, "A student should not be compelled to waste the best years of his life studying in a university where lack of proper building facilities make it impossible for him to get the most benefit out of his work.

ENGINEERS PLAN EXHIBIT SECTION

Half of Annex to Be Devoted to Material Showing Work of Plumbers

Final details for the engineering exhibits of the university exposition to be held in the armory from April 16 to 18 will be completed within the next two weeks. At present plans are being held up due to the fact that the amount of space that will be assigned to the engineering exhibits in the gymnasium annex has not been definitely decided upon. The space, which will be approximately half of the annex, when decided upon will be allotted out to the various exhibits.

The engineering exhibits will almost entirely be made up of "live" exhibits; models of various processes which will be in operation continuously during the exposition. They are planned to be interesting as well as instructive to the visitors at the exposition.

Among the interesting models planned is that of an ice plant in actual operation. This will be in charge of the steam and gas department of the College of Engineering. The hydraulics lab is planning a model hydraulics plant in operation, showing all the most accepted and practical methods for such a plant.

The mining department will exhibit two mine models they have, one of which is that of the Anaconda Mining company, one of the largest copper mining companies in the country. The model itself is valued at more than $10,000. The other mine model will be that of an iron mine on the Mesabi range in Minnesota.

All material for these exhibits will be made by the students in the respective departments, though the regular details of construction of the booths and fixtures are in charge of a construction department of the exposition committee and all things have been standardized as far as possible, by the sending of blue prints and questionnaires to the supervisors of the exhibits. The blue prints and questionnaires have been returned to the committee and will be used as the basis for construction.

A general apparatus used for the testing of materials will be shown by the engineering department as a whole. The machine will show the accepted methods for testing materials of all sorts, showing how the material is broken, or its tensile strength tested, will be in operation continuously throughout the exposition and will enable the visitors to see the modern methods taught to engineering students at the university.
