BY BOB and C. O. S.

Kerensky recently left our shores leaving pleasant predictions of a new order in Russia for American minds to wonder on. Normal democratic conditions will return. They will be based on the sanctity of private property and will be accompanied by a political organization much like that of the United States, whom Kerensky praises for her firm stand against recognition of the Soviet government until it recognizes former Russian debts.

He believes that the present "tyrannical dictatorship of the proletariat" is losing its grip upon Russia. He predicts its fall beneath—but he does not say beneath what.

It is to be noticed that he is editing a Russian newspaper in Paris which is the organ of thousands of families who, like himself, are waiting for the pendulum to swing back in their direction. And he has made a visit to the capitalist nation of the world and has spoken honeyed words about its government policy in regard to loans.

And revolutions must be financed. Be careful, Uncle Samuel! They have been backed before by flattered American capital. And if such a thing should happen... Shadess of Diaz in Nicaragua! We'll have to send Marines to Russia to see that the right side wins—er, that is, we mean, to see that American property is protected.

Bandit's Flowers

Flowers costing $30,000 decorated the casket of a Chicago gangster who was slain by a policeman the night before Bill Thompson was elected mayor of Chicago.

The same day, fifteen masked and armed men held up a factory office at Elgin, Ill., not far from Chicago, escaping with gold valued at $15,000.

Even casual criminologists like ourselves can perceive in these two happenings, a cause and effect that are directly related to crime violence in Chicago. We'll allow you to figure them out for yourselves.

Steiner to Speak at Convo; Churches Announce Services

Special Music Features Last All-University Affair Of School Year

The last all-university religious convocation with Prof. Edward E. Steiner of Grinnell college as the speaker will take place as one of the principal Easter Sunday services at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Music hall. Special Easter music will make up a part of the services with Paul Jones '27 playing the organ prelude and postlude and with Alice Cress '27 acting as musical director.

Well-Known Author

Dr. Steiner is well known throughout Europe and the United States both as a speaker and author. Since 1903 he has been teaching applied religion at Grinnell college where his popularity with the students is such that only the best and select few can get into his classes.

He came to the United States while still a boy and through hard work, and study he has raised himself up to what he is today. One of his many interesting studies has been that of immigration problems. Degrees from universities and colleges from all over the world have been conferred on him. Those who have heard him speak claim him to be one of the most interesting and fascinating ever to talk before a student body.

Plan Other Services

Other Easter services will begin at 6 o'clock in the morning. The St. Francis Episcopal chapel will have holy communion at that hour and the Lutheran Memorial church will have sun-rise services. The Wesley Foundation student body with those of the Presbyterian association will have a joint sun-rise service on Lincoln Terrace with the Rev. A. H. Krussell of the Wesley Foundation conducting the services and with music furnished by the students from the Presbyterian church.

At 10 o'clock the student choir of the Wesley Foundation will give an Easter cantata by the title of "Death and Life" by Harry Roe Shelley. The three soloists will be Orris Young, Marie Irish, and John Warren. The Sunday school will be in charge of the music for the 11 o'clock service.

Haresfoot Octy Features Cover by Reid Winsey '30

Reid Winsey '30 was announced yesterday as the winner of The Octopus cover contest. The cover will appear on the Haresfoot number of Octy, which will be on sale Wednesday.

This issue of the Octopus includes more book reviews by Prof. Paul Fulcher as well as an article on Haresfoot by Prof. F. A. Pyre, who was active in the first Haresfoot production.

Winsey's cover depicts a hairy Haresfoot man looking into a full-length mirror trying to discover himself as a pretty, dainty chorus girl. The cover has a very striking poster effect.

Another feature of the Haresfoot Octy will be a satirical play by John Powell, graduate of the Octopus, entitled "The Elephant Never Forgets."

Co-eds, kindly take the back seat men only are wanted by the First National Pictures company which is now conducting a nationwide search through universities and colleges to obtain ten future stars.

The University of Wisconsin has been selected as one of the 34 educational institutions where the men are to be sought. Directors, camera men, and makeup men will be here Thursday, April 28, to select and photograph ten men for the movies.

One hundred and fifty to 200 men are wanted for the tests, so if you have any latent histrionic ability, prepare yourself. Information about where to apply as one of the blossoming young movie stars will be published in a later issue of the Daily Cardinal.

First National Pictures and the College Humor magazine are the joint backers of the plan which, they say, is destined to bring to

Nine Parts Will Be Filled For "Outward Bound" Many Applicants

Selection of players for the nine parts in "Outward Bound," to be produced by Wisconsin Players, has not yet been made, and tryouts will continue on Monday, according to an announcement made yesterday by Prof. William C. Troutman, dramatic coach in charge of the production. The trials will be held at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and at 7 o'clock in the evening in 2 Law building.

"Any large man or heavily set woman has an especially good chance to place, and I urge anyone with those physical qualifications to come and try out for the parts of Mrs. Clivenden-Banks and the Examiner," said Prof. Troutman.

The woman is a snobbish and talkative dame, with dominating personality and appearance. The man is a genial and jovial old bishop, immediately liked by all who come in contact with him.

Some difficulty also has been encountered in finding a man who looks the part of the hard and unpleasant self-made business man, Mr. Lingley. So far, applicants wishing to play these parts have been lacking in the physical requirements.

"I have been deliberate in choosing this cast so that all who want to try out can have the chance," explained the coach. "I want to be sure I get the best talent available, and when the nine parts are cast, they will be taken by the nine students best able to fill them—by nine persons who can act."

GLEE CLUB TO SING MONDAY; BROADCASTS

The Men's Glee club will sing a concert program at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening to be broadcast from the university station WHA.

The National Oratorical league which includes Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, Illinois, Illinois, and Iowa universities, hold inter-collegiate contests annually. Last year's contest was held at Wisconsin.

STUDENT TOTAL DOWN TO $31,480 OF PLEDGES NOW

Services in Collecting are Volunteered; Hope to Raise Needed Funds

Three days and then—the zero hour. Thus runs the story of the Memorial Union between now and April 20 according to Harold A. Konnak, member of Union board who is directing the efforts to cut down the student indebtedness. Wednesday tells the story of whether or not the Union pays for its present construction and starts buying furniture.

"Union subscribers must meet their note for $70,000 at a Madison bank within three days," Butts and Konnak say and add that students who have overdue or ~~due~~ pledges hold the fate of the opening of the building in their pocket books.

Money Needed Badly

Yesterday, the black line on the sign board in front of the Union building, "the line which measures the overdue student debt to the Union," crept down to the $31,480 mark. The small amount of $4,000 turned in since the close of the spring recess, and the three days left in which to hear from the remaining $31,480, made the future of the Union highly uncertain.

"If the students ever had the money, or if they have ever believed in the Union, now is the time to act," Konnak asserted yesterday.

Services Volunteered

Students, answering the call issued earlier in the week by Lowell Frautschi, president of Union board, have been volunteering their services in the work of cutting down the student debt. Union board and W. S. G. A. have been endeavoring to organize these volunteers.

Upon the clearing up of the $70,000 note and the purchase of furniture hinges the opening of the Union building by the first of next year according to Butts.

Inter-Frat Sing May 27; Entries May Be Made Now

Hope that the largest number of fraternities ever to enter the inter-fraternity sing would take part in the event this year, was expressed yesterday by Rufus Dimmick '27, of the committee of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national honorary music fraternity, which is sponsoring the sing. At least ten groups are expected to enter.

The event this year will be held May 27, in conjunction with Mother's Weekend and with the dance drama, which will be held the same evening. An innovation in this year's sing will be the presentation of cups to the first two winners instead of only to the first as has formerly been the custom.

Acacia and Beta Theta Pi, winners of the past two years, are again expected to enter strong teams in the competition, according to the committee chairmen. Three judges will probably be picked from the Music school to decide the winner, as was done last year.

Hollywood Looks for Campus Talent Here Soon

Co-eds, kindly take the back seat men only are wanted by the First National Pictures company which is now conducting a nationwide search through universities and colleges to obtain ten future stars.

The University of Wisconsin has been selected as one of the 34 educational institutions where the men are to be sought. Directors, camera men, and makeup men will be here Thursday, April 28, to select and photograph ten men for the movies.

One hundred and fifty to 200 men are wanted for the tests, so if you have any latent histrionic ability, prepare yourself. Information about where to apply as one of the blossoming young movie stars will be published in a later issue of the Daily Cardinal.

First National Pictures and the College Humor magazine are the joint backers of the plan which, they say, is destined to bring to the studios a number of collegians, who are to be given every opportunity to develop their talents and cash in on their photographic qualities.

Expenses are guaranteed to and from the First National studio at Burbank California, so no handsome Wisconsin man may fear that he will have to trod the rails back home. While at Hollywood the ten lucky men will be feted as their victories deserve.

The ten men at Wisconsin to survive the screening test will be compared with delegations from other colleges, and the final group of men selected will be named about June 1.

The directors of First National Pictures have planned this campaign in order that they may make their college pictures approach campus life more closely. College pictures have hitherto been most lurid presentations of youths in wide pants and coon coats, with a passion for speeding speedsters and all-night parties, not to mention glorious dips in sunken pools and four-course breakfasts served in true hotel style.

Another phase which may be eliminated will be those pictures wherein the star halfback is rushed into the game the last minute, right after his ineligibility is cleared up, and scores 37 points in the last minute of play.

SLICHTER TO SPEAK ON ISAAC NEWTON

Exercises Will Mark 200th Anniversary of Famous Scientist's Death

As part of commemorative exercises to be held all over the world on the 200th anniversary of the death of Sir Isaac Newton, Dean C. S. Slichter will discuss the famous scientist's life and work at 8 o'clock Wednesday, April 20 in the auditorium of Sterling hall.

"Everyone who has had the most elementary course in physics has heard of Sir Isaac Newton," said Prof. C. E. Mendenhall of the physics department in an interview yesterday. "And if they have heard of Newton they know about his three laws of motion—laws just as important now as when they were discovered 150 years ago."

"One can very seldom say that about scientific work, but it is true about Newton's discoveries. His laws are the bases of our everyday mechanics. The airplane, the automobile—everything mechanical goes back to Newton's fundamental laws."

Newton was also the originator of that branch of mathematics called calculus. His was one of the greatest if not the greatest scientific minds the world has ever known. One of the big things that he did was to discover and state the universal law of gravitation and to describe the orbit of the planets about the sun."

Professor Mendenhall believes that the story of Newton and the falling apple is nothing but a fairy tale that has been palmed off on unsuspecting grade and high school students.

Newton's discoveries have been receiving considerable attention during the past few years because of the discussion of Einstein's relativity theory of mechanics sometimes said to displace Newton's theories. According to Prof. Mendenhall it does not do away with his theories at all, but as a matter of fact extends them.

Dean Slichter will not only discuss Newton's scientific work but will analyze Newton himself and endeavor to portray him as a man. Dean Slichter's speech is given un-

SWEET LITTLE KATHIE

All dressed up to "Meet the Prince!" is John Mackin, '27 who is laying aside his masculine make up again this weekend at the Parkway theater to vamp the hero in the current Haresfoot show.

A hint at John's nationality comes from the criticism in the Racine Times-Call—"few could believe that that the sweet little German girl, 'Kathie,' was none other than John Mackin, a 'son of Erin'."

Walter Whitworth, in the Indianapolis News, writes in part—"Well-knit, zealously presented, tuneful enough and more spontaneously humorous than most college shows."

Richard Spamer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat—"University of Wisconsin students, members of the Haresfoot club, sure worked the rabbit's pedals on a large and ap-

MORE THAN MONEY

Miss Anna Deigle, a student at the Tulane University, New Orleans, speaking of her position last summer with us, writes:

"Circle of Knowledge work is unique. In no other type of work do you obtain such a broad view of life. 'The world is not so big after all.' The same outlook on life, the same regard for education prevails in so many different homes and everybody likes Circle of Knowledge."

"Come on, join the Circle of Knowledge club and earn for yourself during the summer as much as you do in nine months of teaching. Let's make it a big summer. I want a Buick roadster, don't you?"

Campus Clothes Shop

Upon entering the store this morning prior to the last week of their Big Sale, which will close Saturday night, April 23, Mr. Mentz found the stock had been badly mixed up. Sales tickets torn off of a great many articles. In fact, a great deal of merchandise gone, due to the tremendous response the past week.

Before leaving the store Jare thought he would investigate further, so he went into the basement, which also showed signs of a terrific struggle—and there lying on his back, with arms outstretched, the Cardinal add tightly clutched in his hand, was Mr. High Price. It is the general belief that the low sales prices found on the entire stock

(Continued from page 1) the end of December, 1927, but what about furnishings?" is Konnak's query. "We must have this money in order to equip the building or it will stand idle—idle and useless. We're not asking for new pledges. We are merely asking Wisconsin students to whom the Union belong, to punctually meet the pledges they made and which the Union accepted in good faith."

"Promises to pay sometime won't buy furniture, and promises won't pay off our note," Konnak declared. "It's a case of cash now or the building — heaven knows when."

FRANCIS HYNE TALKS ABOUT CON EKLUND'S ETHICS AND IGNORANCE

Editor, the Daily Cardinal:

The last few days a lot of things have been bothering the community happiness. What are you going to do about it? Aside from portraying the rigors of thesis writing at The University of Wisconsin, County of Dane, Northern Hemisphere, The World, (the citadel of the Issue, Will o' The Wisp, The Wisconsin Literary Magazine, and The College of Agriculture) you have been lazy. This is bad.

Two or three days ago a lady who signed her letter "STUDENT OF ETHICS; FEMALE and respecter of my own sex, even the catty ones who mean well, poor dubs," wrote a confused but very brilliant essay, somewhat studded with unparalleled philological phenomena, on something or other. The essay was contrary to the community happiness. To prove it, we will show the evil trends in the essay, together with specimens. The specimens may not mean anything, but the whole essay was as bad. Trend (1) New and Treacherous Revelations in the Secret Pathology of Christianity; Specimens: "The heathen ideas we have inherited through the religion of the ancient Jews, an Oriental race, are still dominating the Western world and gallantly laying the burdens of the double standard of sex morality upon the delicate shoulders of woman—" Trend (2) The Bewildering Onset of Literary Aestheticism among Ethics Students; Specimens: "Funny like a burlesque with its homoerotic pre-occupations and hallucinations!" Trend (3) The Affectionate Nature of The Anthropological Metaphor; Specimen: "And so the world wags its funny tail." Trend (4) The Modern Development of Sentence Unity; Specimen: "They also were imposed upon by an older generation, which meant well, and occupied itself consequently in the manufacture of paving stones which reminds me now don't you editors run off and manufacture soap, while there are still a lot of us who like your editorials, will yuh?"

Do you see that the whole essay is just trying to poison the community happiness? You don't seem to care a bit.

In addition, the lady called us names. She thinks us opposed to The Present Editors of The Cardinal. Nothing could be more untrue; we highly respect the ability of those Editors. We only wish that someone else would write the editorials. Furthermore, we nominate the lady who takes Ethics for the job. Her ethics have a powerful personality, but they would be an improvement upon the present Cardinal six-gun journalism. We go on the assumption that there cannot be two codes of ethics as virile as Cautious Con Eklund's Improved Code of Journalistic Ethics.

The ebullient Mr. Eklund can continue to write Theatre Reviews, for the sole equipment of anyone who writes Theatre Reviews for The Daily Cardinal is a comprehensive lack of knowledge about everything connected with Theatre Reviewing. And what about the community happiness? Instead of having to hunt through the Sports Section, the Editorial columns, the Society columns, Skyrockets, and The Readers' Say So to find things resembling jokes, every University moron can turn at once to the Theatre columns.

We must be very careful of that Community happiness.

52 of 120 Alumni
In Class of '77
Past Age of 70

At least 52 of the 120 members of the class of 1877 have lived past the Biblical life-span of three score years and 10, and are in touch with the class committee which is planning the golden jubilee reunion which will be held at Commencement time this year.

While exact data on ages of members of the class are not available, it is assumed that each one was at least 20 years of age at the time of graduation.

Of the remaining members of the class, 53 are known to be dead, and 15 are missing. The class reunion committee, headed by Thomas H. Gill, Milwaukee attorney, working through the alumni recorder's office, enlisted the aid of newspapers to trace 12 members.

Information about the 15 members not yet accounted for is being sought by Mr. Gill and John L.

the ensemble suit. It is not only the two-piece suit that college girls are finding so indispensable to their wardrobe, but the three-piece ensemble suit also.

One of the very cleverest of these outfits may be found at Kruse's in a white kasha, suit coat, skirt, and covering ensemble coat. The suit and coat, too, are edged in a stunning black, which sets off the natural kasha ideally. The effect is one of tailored sophistication.

The practical advantages of such a combined costume are obvious.

Sprints

For the warm days ahead, the boyish "sprints" are a delightful thought. This latest creation for the smart young woman's lingerie is made of washable silk with a banded waist and a stitched cuff. The flashing stripes they come in, the track-men's running suit they are patterned after, their simplicity, their chic, make them superbly collegiate.

Giglo Scarfs

Silken bits of gay color! To offset the darkly rich suits and coats, the fly-away giglo scarfs are the most popular accessories of the day. Reds and yellows, greens, blues, and oranges, they are the very spirit of the dashing Co-ed on her hurried trips from class-room to tea-shop.

To Suit the Suit

In perfect harmony with the tailored suits so very smart these spring days are the silk and flannel waistcoats and vests at Kruse's. One of the outstanding features of these waistcoats is that they are made of tubable silk, so that they can be laundered with assurance.

These vests come in a multitude of styles, some with tucks, others fashioned at the bottom like a man's vest, or with buttons down the front, round necks or high ones, they give a manish effect.

A great variety of colors and shades adapts these waistcoats to any suit.

Why Does Sally Lowell Shop Here

Well, in her freshman year when Madison was still strange and new to Sally, she learned that simply by walking a few blocks up State street she came to Kessenich's and found everything she could wish for in woman's wear. Now that Sally is a senior she still finds Kessenich's the most convenient place to shop; for it is close enough to the "hill" to run over after her last class and pick up the things she needs to replenish her wardrobe.

"You don't know what to get in a new spring coat, Ruth?" asked Sally of her sister in Beta Gamma Alpha, who was bewailing her indecision in this important costume problem.

"I'll tell you what to do. Just go over and tell Mrs. Wilder I sent you. She'll show you not only what the young girls are wearing, but will find what is particularly becoming to your type."

Ruth went. As usual Sally was right. Mrs. Wilder not only picked out a smart navy coat with fur collar for her but introduced her to Mrs. Enger, who found just the vestee she needed for her new suit and a pair of hose to match her light kid pumps. At the sweater counter she found Mrs. O'Neill, who showed her models that had been worn at fashionable resorts like Palm Beach and along the Riviera all winter. Ruth selected a sporty model of lavender and green, that delighted mother when she wore it at home over the week end.

There was more than a thrill in finding the thing you wanted at Kessenich's. Throughout the store was that atmosphere of refinement, the bright, artistically arranged departments that made every corner of the store fully as nice as the most exclusive Fifth avenue shop. No wonder Sally had patronized Kessenich's throughout her college career!

The Philippines

Despite President Coolidge's recent plebiscite veto message to the contrary, the question remains—Who shall decide if the Philippines are ready for their independence? At present the United States is depending upon the word of one man, Colonel Carmi Thompson, special investigator sent over by President Coolidge, and upon the word of General Wood.

A much fairer way, as advocated by the Philippine students at the university, would be to have a non-partisan committee made up say of a leading jurist, an educator, a political scientist, and a military man to decide. Thus far, opinions on the Filipino's readiness for independence have emanated from the minds of military men who obviously enough cannot have a broad viewpoint.

Among the reasons why the United States will not agree to give the islands their independence must be the rubber reason. Nicaragua has its bananas, Mexico its oil, and the Philippine Islands have potential automobile tires. Col. Thompson's report stated that the land laws enforced by the Filipino legislature are not liberal enough. These laws make it impossible for a corporation to hold large tracts of land. Otherwise, the rubber companies which are clamoring for a foothold in the islands could convert the Philippines into a land of rubber plantations.

Diamonds!

South Africa has its biggest gold rush of history. In the Lichtenburg district, 25,000 runners gathered to await the signal which would start them scurrying over the veldt to stake out claims. Some of the companies put it over their competitors by hiring professional runners to lead the field. Paavo Nurmi could have made a fortune that day.

The outcome of the diamond rush must inevitably be the lowering the price of diamonds and incidentally the cost of romance. With the balmy summer evenings coming on and inevitable romance, the young man who contemplates a June wedding will be cheered to know that he can buy the engagement ring on fewer installments.

Efforts of owners of the capitol annex, foot of King st., to raise the rent on the building to the state $500, from $1,100 to $1,600 a month were thwarted this week by Clinton Ballard, superintendent of public property. The $500 increase went into effect before Mr. Ballard took office, but when he discovered it recently he notified owners of the property that unless the rent was reduced to $1,100, the amount which the state has been paying for the past few years, that the property would be vacated by April 1.

"They not only reduced the rent to the original stipend of $1,100, but they refunded the difference between $1,100 and $1,600 which has been paid since January," Mr. Ballard said.

Mr. Ballard volunteered the information that he state paid out $48,000 to convert the building into an office structure, and that he did not see why the rent should be increased $500 monthly.

State Building Totals Hit High Peak In March

The total volume of construction contracts in Wisconsin during March amounted to $15,268,50, according to the F. W. Dodge corporation.

This is the second highest March contract total for this state. The highest March figure on record, $15,290,200, was reported in 1920. Last month's total was 86 per cent over February and 65 per cent over March of last year.

The more important items in the March building record were: $5,432,700, or 36 per cent of all construction, for residential buildings; $4,292,300, or 28 per cent, for public works and utilities; $2,061,700, or 14 per cent, for commercial buildings; and $1,660,000, or 11 per cent, for social and recreational projects.
