All-University Convocation Has Famous Speaker

Rheinhold Niebuhr to Speak on "Authority and Experience in Religion"

"Authority and Experience in Religion" will be the subject of the address of Rheinhold Niebuhr, preacher philosopher of the Bethel Evangelical church of Detroit, who speaks at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in Music hall at the monthly all-university religious convocation.

Dr. Niebuhr is the first of a number of prominent outside authorities on religion to be brought to Madison by the uni-service committee to address the student body during the year.

Sixty Voice Choir

A choir of 60 students, composed of members of the Wesley and Hill foundations, will sing at the meeting Sunday. This addition to the program has been made to improve the regular musical service.

The speaker at this convocation is a tall, youthful theologian, of keen and piercing countenance, who has become widely known as an interpreter of the doctrines of man's religion, personality, and philosophy.

Has Talked Here Before

Dr. Niebuhr is making his second appearance in this address before a Madison and university audience. He last spoke in the city at the annual all-university convocation in February of 1926.

In one of his talks at the convocation, made before a capacity audience in the men's gymnasium, Dr. Niebuhr reminded his listeners not to let their religion become sophisticated, because then it is not rational. He advised that they put themselves on the side of personality against nature, and that by so doing they would find their way into the kingdom of God.

NOMINATE THREE AT GREEN BUTTON MEET

Ethel C. Buelow, Jane L. Cannon, and Virginia M. Snyder have been named candidates for presidency of Green Button, the organization of all freshmen women.

At the meeting of freshman women at the regular W. S. G. A. party in Lathrop last evening, Virginia Snyder of Janesville was named by the nominating committee of which Eleanor Pennington '29 was chairman. Ethel Buelow and Jane Cannon, both of Milwaukee, were nominated from the floor and won the primary over eight other nominees.

An orchestra furnished music for the dance which was held immediately before and after the nominations. Sally Ringe '28 was chairman of the Green Button W. S. G. A. party.

Lathrop Hall Is Scene of Mart

Music, Dancing, and Vodvil Add to Features of Kirmisse

Jewelry valued at $500 will be sold at the Dutch Mart at Lathrop hall today, and Christmas shoppers will be given an opportunity to find a variety of things on sale. More than 40 Madison merchants interested in the work of the Y. W. C. A. have donated gifts.

Oriental articles, colorful masses of cut flowers and corsages, imported Christmas cards, stuffed dolls and animals will be on sale.

In one corner the gypsies have come to read the ways of fate in outstretched palms, and downstairs a boat on the swimming tank is suggestive of Dutch dikes.

There is music and dancing from 2 until 5 o'clock in the afternoon and again at night, and the Wooden Shoe Tea room, with its Dutch waitresses, is waiting.

Vodvil shows will be given in the afternoon and evening, and a swimming meet is to be held.

There are quantities of home made candy and pastry ready to be sold in the afternoon and at night.

A novel feature at the "Kirmisse" will be the raffling off of a permanent wave. A large box of candy is also being raffled off.

Zona Gale Lauds Players' "He"

Zona Gale, poetess and regent, with 500 others at Bascom theatre, sat spellbound by the second production of "He Who Gets Slapped" presented by the Wisconsin University Players last night.

Miss Gale, who has always been interested in Wisconsin dramatics, said that she considered the play the most magnificent college production she had ever seen.

Miss Gale was exceptionally pleased with the work of Herman Wirka in the title role, and commended the cast and Prof. Troutman for the professional atmosphere of the drama.

The well executed scenery and settings were also a source of pleasure to Miss Gale, who expressed a desire to witness all the coming productions of Players.

Due to a week's rest from fatiguing rehearsals the complete cast surpassed its work of last Saturday night. Herman Wirka, in the difficult part of He turned in one of the best performances of his career. Helen Ann Hughes, as Zinida, displayed an excellent knowledge of the part.

Her presentation was rivaled only by that of Ramona Dahlenburg, who played the naive and innocent Consuelo. Jack Cavanaugh as the gruff baron, and Helmut Summ as Mancini also gave good interpretations of their roles.

The handling of the "extras," who by any false move might ruin the play, was excellent.

Phi Kappa Phi Selections to be Published Tomorrow

Birge First Speaker in Lecture Series Given by Fraternity

Fall elections to Phi Kappa Phi, honorary senior fraternity, have been made and will be announced through the newspapers tomorrow morning, according to Prof. W. A. Sumner, secretary of the local chapter.

Cards informing new members of their election were in the mails yesterday, but due to a technicality, public announcement is being withheld until tomorrow.

Elect Yearly

Each year Phi Kappa Phi selects from members of the senior class those students who have met stringent scholastic standards, who have achieved prominence in activities, and who have displayed general all-around ability. Prof. Grant Showerman of the classics department explained yesterday.

Phi Kappa Phi has also arranged for its annual series of lectures by prominent Wisconsin faculty members. Former President E. A. Birge will open the series on Dec. 5 with a talk on "Life in Inland Waters."

Miss Marlatt to Speak

On Jan. 10, Miss Abby L. Marlatt, director of the home economics course, will review the past quarter century's progress of women in education. Prof. E. E. Bennett will tell about the most recently devised ways of utilizing cheap energy and power on Feb. 7.

Dr. W. S. Middleton, member of the medical staff, will give a review of the past 25 years in medicine Mar. 6. The last lecture will be Apr. 17 when Prof. Paul Knaplund will talk on "The British Commonwealth of Nations."

A Look at Other Departments

It is the opinion of Dean S. H. Goodnight, president of the society, who is in charge of the year's program, that the organization should enable students and specialists of the various courses to catch a glimpse of work being done in departments other than their own.

The committee in charge of the arrangements includes Profs. Andrew W. Hopkins, F. L. Paxson, and M. V. Guyer.

The elections committee of the fraternity is headed by Miss Margaret Scallan, vice president of the society, and includes Miss White, and Profs. A. T. Weaver, J. R. Roebuck, E. B. Gordon, O. L. Wodwale, B. H. Hibbard, and H. C. Bradley.

The initiation banquet for those elected will be held Dec. 6, and arrangements for this are being directed by Prof. W. A. Sumner, secretary of Phi Kappa Phi, with the aid of Prof. R. S. Phillips and Walter Ebling. Prof. Thomas Lloyd Jones has been appointed chairman of a committee to select a speaker for the initiation banquet. The members of his group are Profs. R. H. Whitbeck and F. W. Roe.

NOTICE

Dean Scott H. Goodnight, dean of men, announces that the informal dance advertised in the Daily Cardinal yesterday morning as taking place at the Hotel Lorraine, was not given his approval. Only dances which are strictly student affairs are approved by the dean of men.

Ellenor Cook Scores In Program of Folk Songs at High School

Winning her audience with the sheer charm of her personality, Ellenor Cooks, lyric soprano, pianist, and folk dancer, received an enthusiastic response in her presentation of folk songs and dances of eastern Europe at the Central High school auditorium last night. Miss Cook was brought to Madison by the Physical Education club.

Colorful peasant costumes which Miss Cook collected herself in Russia, Czechoslovakia, and Hungary, added to the vivid portrayal of peasant life in these picturesque countries. One costume in particular interested the audience, as Miss Cook explained that she had worn it when she danced before Queen Marie of Rumania last summer. She explained that the peasant women who sold the costume to her had not only made the dress herself, but had woven the thread in it.

The folk songs Miss Cook sang were both amusing and pathetic. She herself had translated them into English. "The Russian Easter Song" and an amusing Russian betrothal scene delighted the audience. The Jugo Slavic "The Little Hare" also pleased greatly.

Miss Eugenie Folliard, assisting Miss Cook, made a dashing peasant boy. Her Polish mountain dance was especially enjoyed. Like Miss Cook, her performance had a verve and charm which made it refreshing.

Mendota Will Freeze If Coaxed a Trifle

Lake Mendota is apt to be found stiff and quiet any one of these mornings. When a lake is stiff and quiet, it does not mean that the thing is dead. In fact that is just when it takes on a new lease of life. Skating, hockey, and ice boating all spring into existence as a result of this stiffness.

The entire shore of the lake is white with frozen spray now. Overhanging trees and shrubs are covered with white icicles, and one of the wooden bridges along the lake side of the hydraulics laboratory is covered with ice. In spots near the shore the water is thick and filled with chunks of ice.

PHI EP ATTIC IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

The attic of the Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity, 512 Wisconsin avenue, was considerably damaged by fire early Friday morning. The fire was discovered shortly after midnight and alarms were sent to Central and No. 2 fire stations.

Crossed electric wires are believed to have been responsible for the fire.

Fish Finds U. S. Men Self-Made

Wisconsin Historian Writes Distinguished Work, "Rise of the Common Man"

"Ours is a country where men start from an humble origin . . . and where they can attain the most elevated positions, or acquire a large amount of wealth, according to the pursuits which they elect for themselves.

"No exclusive privileges of birth, no entailment of estates, no civil or political disqualifications stand in their paths; but one has as good a chance as the other, according to his talents, prudence, and personal exertions. This is a country of self-made men, than which nothing better could be said of any state of society."

With this pithy quotation, Prof. Carl Russell Fish of the history department of the University of Wisconsin now in England on leave of absence from the university, begins his latest book, entitled "The Rise of the Common Man."

For the first time in history, man is faced with the problem of whether the finer fruits of civilization can be obtained from democracy without being vulgarized.

Prof. Fish's whole volume is an answer to this question, an answer given with fine discrimination, keen insight, and an engaging sense of humor.

Prof. Fish confines his study to the period of 1830-1850, at which time important national figures held the stage. It was a motley company, contrasted with the earlier days of our country, crowded with interesting characters: Longfellow, P. T. Barnum, Andrew Jackson, Horace Mann, Cyrus H. McCormick, Thoreau, Agassiz, Stephen C. Foster, William Lloyd Garrison, and others. They represent a great variety of achievement; most of them a lyric belief in the perfectability of man; and many of them new visions and new adventures in the human spirit.

These figures form a distinctive figure in the American gallery and Prof. Fish makes it clear that they cannot be understood without reference to the great economic, humanitarian, and intellectual currents which were sweeping through Europe during the same period and registering their victories without regard to international boundaries.

This volume is the fourth of a series of tomes on "A History of America" edited by Arthur M. Schlesinger and Dixon Ryan Fox. "This Rise of the Common Man" was written by Prof. Fish two years ago, according to information received from the publishers, and has been delayed until the remaining volumes were completed. McMillan company, the publishers, have four of the 12 volumes off the press and the remaining eight are to be released as quickly as possible.

Officers Fail to Receive Transfer; Rumors Suggest Reinstatement

By WILLIAM STEVENS

An unverified rumor that the Field Artillery unit of the R. O. T. C. would be re-established at the university soon, despite the abolition of the unit this fall by the War department, was revealed to the Daily Cardinal yesterday.

"There is a vague possibility that the government is considering such a course," said Captain Paul H. Weiland, one of the officers who was to have been transferred following the dropping of the freshmen and junior artillery courses this fall, but who, as yet has not received his detail to another post.

Citizens Support Unit

"I understand that a group of citizens is attempting to secure the reinstatement of the course here," he declared. "What success they may have had I do not know."

The Military office knew nothing of the rumored change but reported that the shipping out of artillery equipment was practically completed. The material of the department has been used to supplement other corps throughout the country, officers of the department here stated.

New Details "Delayed"

The rumor that the artillery section was to be reestablished was founded on the fact that Lieut. J. H. Hamilton and Capt. P. H. Weiland, have not received their detail to other posts. When the unit was abolished in the first week in October the officers applied to the War department for their new details. They were informed, the Cardinal was told, that they would receive the new detail within two weeks.

Yesterday Captain Weiland declared that the details had been "unusually delayed."

The corps here is still under the orders received the first of October, and the rumor can neither be definitely declared true or false until further War department orders arrive.

One officer of the corps declared that the maintenance of a unit in just one branch of the service would be far more efficient than the former policy of splitting the corps into several branches. At present the corps has an infantry unit, a signal corps unit, and classes in sophomore and senior field artillery.

One of the reasons that the artillery unit was abolished was because of insufficient equipment and failure of the university to provide for more adequate training equipment. The University provides land and building space for the military unit. A full battery of field artillery would need 150 horses, a 50-acre drill ground, and a target range, this officer said. At present the university provides stable space for 21 horses.

Holiday Dance Set For Friday

Campus Organizations Back Last 1 O'clock Party Before Christmas

An innovation, in the form of a holiday dance being sponsored by Tummas, Union board, R. O. T. C., and W. S. G. A., is to be held next Friday evening at the Crystal ballroom at the Hotel Lorraine. This dance is called the Holiday dance because it is the last big university function being given before the Christmas holidays. It will be a 1 o'clock party, with Joe Shoer and his orchestra furnishing the music.

Committee appointments were made public yesterday by Don Knott '28, general chairman. Gordon Dawson '28, who with the assistance of Robert Pike '28, will have charge of the arrangements; Henry Stevens '28 is chairman of the committee on tickets and publicity. Stevens has under him Harry Thoma '28, Richard Ela '28, Herman Zermuehlen '28, Gordon Beach '28, and Robert Pratt '29. Capt. R. K. Learnard is acting as an advisor to the group of workers.

Tickets for the dance may be obtained at either Gelvin's or at the University pharmacy, or at the door,

Lauds Lindsey's Marriage Plan

John Davies, Author, Says Companionate Scheme Common Sense

"When America has men like Judge Ben Lindsey, England is willing to forgive her for having Mayor Thompson," according to John Langdon Davies, author of "A Short History of Women."

"Judge Lindsey and his companionate marriage have been greatly misrepresented," declared Mr. Davies. "He does not say companionate marriage is something new, but merely admits that such a state of affairs does exist."

"Since it does exist, let us legalize it. That is obvious common sense, but hypocrites will not see the truth. However, I am a simple historian. I do not say that a thing is good or bad, but merely that it is so. I must admit that bolshevism has not destroyed the home any more than capitalism or industrialism have."

"The American woman is much more alive and imaginative than the American man. Man is becoming a moneymaking machine and has to marry to have someone to spend his money."

"At no distant date instead of the phrase 'a woman's place is her home,' we shall hear repeated idiotically the words 'a man's place is his office.' Long before the tendencies of our times work to their logical conclusions, men and women, as we know them, will have ceased to exist."

"According to our personal feelings we may regret that we shall not live to see that time, or congratulate ourselves on living at a time which antedates it."

ZONA GALE LAUDS "HE" AS STAGED AT BASCOM

The unseen heroes of the event are the members of the production staff who contributed so much toward the success of the play by their timely work with the scenery, lights and properties.

The play will be presented this afternoon at 3 o'clock and again tonight. Tickets for this evening's performance are reported to be all sold.

INVENT "ONE-WAY WINDOWS"

By adding to glass extremely thin films of gold, an English inventor, S. Cowper Cowles, has recently found a means of making "one-way windows." They are said to be transparent and of a pleasing greenish color to a person looking out, but one trying to look in sees only an opaque burnished gold panel.

AG STUDENTS WATCH REHEARSAL, "CLOUDS"

"How can I fleece anyone with these fleeces all on me?" Boom, boom (sssss, ahhhh, crash. Thundering milk cans and derisive jeers from ag students hanging perilously over the upper tiers of the balcony of the Stock pavilion.

The occasion is the rehearsal of the "Clouds," an Experimental college production, interrupted, of course, by derisive aggie students. Amid all of this clatter and banging, the trampling of the university's prize fatted stock and champion stallions break in a jargon upon the ears.

In spite of all these interruptions the rehearsals are rapidly being formed into a finished production which will be presented to an audience which it is hoped will be composed of the Experimental college, the faculty, President Frank, Prof. Troutman, and other university notables.

R. O. T. C. BALLOT OF INTEREST TO HERTZEL

Interest in the recent R. O. T. C. referendum was evinced by President R. D. Hetzel of Pennsylvania State college, who was editor of the Daily Cardinal from 1905 to 1908. A letter received from Mr. Hetzel states that the distorted account of the referendum which he received in the press was insufficient for him to understand the situation. He intimated that "the issue is one of importance to this institution."

Tripp D Takes Football Title

Beat H 6-0 For Hall Championship; To Play Adams A Today

Summary of a football game between Section H and D of Tripp hall last night for the championship of said hall which H won in the last two minutes of play by the score of 6 to 0.

Weather too cold; ground too hard. Neither of the teams showed much animation or anything else, at the start of the game until near the end of the first half H, who had had a little the best of the playing thus far, completed a lucky pass which bounced off the tip of a defensive backs' numbed fingers into those of an H back, who was downed on the 13 yard line. Before the H eleven could push the ball across the goal, one of the timers, (it is rumored that he lives in Section D) had the brilliant idea of calling the end of the half. He did, and as there was no one to prove otherwise—so it was, in spite of the protest of H.

Evidently this lack of confidence on the part of H in the said timer aroused the ire of D for with a brief rest in which to smoke a cigaret, they came back and walked down the field to the 30 yard line, whereupon Hans, full-back, made a brilliant tackle and threw the oncoming H quarterback for a ten yard loss. This almost proved disastrous, however, for the brilliant tackler, not used to this heavy exertion, was layed out temporarily. As no substitute was available he continued to play.

It looked as if the game was going to end scoreless after this escapade, but in the last two minutes, when it was so dark that a spectator was seemingly playing end for one, or maybe both teams, in order to see anything, one Peters for H dissolved in the gathering, or surroundings, or what have you, anyway—darkness and was last seen behind the H goal line, with the ball.

And because of this, Section D of Tripp will play Section A of Adams for the dormitory championship this afternoon at 2 o'clock for the dormitory football championship.

Theta Xi Meets A.K.K. Today For Title In Varsity Football

Battle for Championship in Camp Randall Stadium At 2:30

Greek meets Greek today at 2:30, when the Theta Xi's and the Alpha Kappa Kappa tangle at Camp Randall to determine the interfraternity varsity football championship for this year.

To enter the finals, both teams succeeded in defeating three competitors, and are now ready to battle for the title left unclaimed by Farm House, last year's champions.

Individual Stars

An analysis of both teams seems to indicate that individual stars will decide the game tomorrow. Theta Xi rated as only a fair team at the start of the tournament and has come to the front mainly through the running ability of Bert Moldenhauer.

Bachhuber Stars

For the A. K. K.'s, Francis Bachhuber has proved to be an outstanding star. He is a smashing line plunger and throws an accurate pass. The backfield and line, while not as large as Theta Xi, have shown plenty of fight in all of their current games.

Both teams sue as their chief means of offense a smashing line attack, but the A. K. K.'s have also developed a good aerial game, and here have the advantage over their opponents.

Lines to Battle

When the two teams line up tomorrow afternoon, it will be a battle of line against line, and Moldenhauer against Bachhuber. As the customary forecast to this football game, which will be the last varsity football played here this year, the dopster offers this evidence:

The Theta Xi line and backfield, outweighing the A. K. K.'s by a small margin, has proven its ability to open holes when needed. When no holes are there, Moldenhauer has a provoking habit of making them.

Johnson Good Fullback

Besides Moldenhauer, the Theta Xi's have a good fullback in Johnson. While Bachhuber seems to be the main and only marvel in the A. K. K. backfield. Scores made this season show the Theta Xi's have run up large scores of victory in the majority of their games, while the A. K. K.'s have won by narrow margins.

While these two teams battle for the championship, Psi Upsilon and Sigma Alpha Epsilon will contest in an adjacent gridiron for third place honors. Between these two games, an enjoyable afternoon of football is offered to the public, with the added privilege of seeing the true fraternity spirit in action.

Women's Cage Tourney Advances; 8 Contests Held Since Wednesday

Eight games have been played and two defaulted in the women's intramural basketball tournament the past three days. Good spirit and sportsmanship have been displayed by the contestants in all of the games.

In Wednesday's games, Gamma Phi trounced A. O. Pi, 34 to 6, in the church gym while the Grads were pulling the unusual by shutting out A. E. Phi, 28 to 0, at Lathrop. The closest game of the day was between Coronto and the Theta, which the former won, 14 to 7.

Half of the game between the 929 University avenue team and Chadbourne had been played before it was discovered that two major award winners were playing with the former team. Only one such player is allowed and as the 929's had no substitutes they forfeited the game to the Chads.

Kappa Delta had the honor of piling up the biggest score when they trounced Anderson house, 60 to 4. Poor guarding on the part of Anderson house was the main reason for the large score.

The best game to date was played Tabardines on Thursday. The score between the Delta Gammas and the changed hands several times during the game, but ended with the Delta Gammas winning, 14 to 13. Phi O. Pi defeated Delta Zeta, 13 to 7, and the Alpha Gams had little trouble winning from the Hillel team, 36 to 1. Charter house won from 104 Langdon by default.

None of the teams are apparently interested in winning the prize awarded for the best outfitted quint, for there has been no attempt to secure outstanding and different uniforms to date.

As captain and high scoring forward on the Wisconsin basketball team, the hopes of the Cardinal in the coming Big Ten games largely depend on Lou Behr. This is his third and last year as a member of the Badger quint.

No Intercollegiate Athletics For Co-ed, States Michigan Head

"Intercollegiate athletics for women is a Utopian ideal," declared Dr. Margaret Bell, head of the women's physical education department, "but in the existing situation they can have no place at the University of Michigan."

"Extramural competition for girls," she stated, "is not indicated at the present time, because: First, even though the leadership of the instructor is good, there are few schools where the training of the inferior poorly trained student would not be neglected for the one of superior abilities and training, which would necessarily be the case with limited staff, limited play space and equipment."

"Secondly," said Dr. Bell, continuing her reasons against extramural contests, "the skill of average players is not so developed that it is necessary to go outside for competition, if the intramural program is all inclusive."

From observing hockey games this season, it did not seem to Dr. Bell that the skill of those now active in sports was sufficient to warrant giving them the opportunities of intensive training called for in intercollegiate athletics, although the average participants played good hockey and each season showed increased efficiency.

Presenting her third objection, Dr. Bell said, "It is a serious mistake for women to emulate men. Women, as a result perhaps of tradition alone, are not prepared yet to stand publicity and exploitation well. The exposure is too much and many good qualities becoming to womanhood are apt to be sacrificed."

A fourth principle involved is that the question of strenuous competition for women at all times is an open question. "Women traditionally have lead, and the majority of women still do lead, individual lives," stated Dr. Bell. "Women are famously weak in cooperation and all the qualities best developed under good leadership in team play. All the best qualities of womanhood could be improved by the experience of play in games of high organization."

"The ground work for the development of skill in individual sport can easily be built upon the background laid in team games," she concluded. "An opportunity should be afforded everyone to acquire a technique that would be so stimulating and of such recreative value, that the sport or sports would be carried on through life."

Dormitory Meet Opens Indoor Track Season; Will be Held Dec. 6-9

Wisconsin's indoor track season will get under way next week with the Dormitory track meet, which will be run off on a new plan Dec. 6, 7, 8, and 9.

In view of the fact that the meet is not open to "W" men, men on the varsity squad of last year, varsity and freshmen cross country men, it is expected to draw a large number of contestants.

The plan of the meet as drawn up by George Berg, director of intramural athletics, calls for four consecutive days of competition beginning next Tuesday. On that day the one lap race and the half mile run will take place. The 45 yard low hurdles, the 40 yard high hurdles and the mile will be run off on Wednesday. The following day the quarter mile run, and the 40 yard dash will take place. Field events such as shot put, pole vault, and broad jump, are scheduled for Friday.

Candy Bar Boosts Prices of Corn

Increased Syrup Use Benefits Corn Grower; Also Stock Raiser

Chicago—Increasing appetite of the American public for the chocolate covered candy bar is, strange as it may seem, directly benefiting the corn grower by favorably affecting the price of his product.

While the bulk of the corn produced in this country is used for live stock feeding, corn so employed is usually a minor factor in determining market prices. Market trading in corn is based almost entirely upon the commercial supply and demand.

It does not take a large increase in the commercial use of corn, as counted in millions of bushels, to have a material effect on price per bushel. This is for the reason that such a comparatively small percentage of the total crop finds its way into commercial channels. But as that percentage increases, the price increases, which has its effect in turn on the price of live stock. Meat animals afford the big market for corn and it is easy to see how the whole agricultural structure may be affected favorably by commercial developments in the uses of corn.

One of the latest developments of this kind is the greatly increased use of corn syrup in the manufacture of candy bars, one Chicago concern alone producing 1,000,000,000 of these confections yearly. Recent large and frequent shipments of corn syrup from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, to the Baby Ruth Candy company of Chicago brought to light the fact that this company maintains a tank car service for the transport of the product between the refinery and its three factories in this city. This concern uses 20,000,000 pounds of corn syrup yearly, according to Otto Y. Schnering, president.

Varsity, Frosh in Final Practice Battle Tuesday

Football Men Bolster Frosh; Behr to Play Against "Kid" Brother

Students will have one more opportunity to see the Wisconsin varsity basketball team in action this semester for the small sum of "two bits." Next Tuesday night is the date, and the opposition will be the best team that can be picked from the large frosh squad of former high school stars.

Discount the fact that the varsity downed the frosh in what was supposed to be a game two weeks ago by such a large score that it will not be mentioned here for fear that critics will become too skeptical of the fact that the coming attraction will be nothing but a demonstration by the varsity on the correct way of shooting baskets.

Sundt Coaches Frosh

Guy Sundt, assisted by G. T. Holmes, has taken charge of the frosh squad, allowing Les Gage to go back to his publicity job. Under their new tutors the frosh have been putting in some strenuous workouts and hope to give the varsity more opposition than they did in the previous performance.

When the frosh start the game next Tuesday night, three new men will be in the starting lineup: Milton Gantenbein, La Crosse; Sammy Behr, Rockford; and Mark Schmitz, Madison. All of these men are familiar to Wisconsin basketball fans. Gantenbein is an all-state guard and has the size and ability to make good in conference basketball. Behr, brother of Capt. Lou, is a three-sport man and plays forward. Schmitz was a star with Madison Central last year, the team that went to the finals in the state tournament. He will probably start at the other guard. Besides these three men who have just checked in their moleskins at Camp Randall, the other two men who will probably start are "Fritz" Peters, who also hails from La Crosse, the place that seems to make basketball stars, and "Red" Davidson, center, who comes from places unknown, but is nevertheless a real basketball player.

There, one paper, is a team that should give the varsity something of a workout. At least the score will not be as lopsided as the previous contest, for the game will be a regulation contest, which means that the varsity will not have time enough to pile up 49 points unless the freshmen are unusually poor.

Meanwell has been working the varsity at top speed the last three weeks and the result was plainly shown in the game with the alumni last Tuesday night. The little giant didn't even take time out and give the men a day off when he went to Chicago. "Doc" left Thursday night and returned in time last night to give the varsity some strenuous exercise. After the game with the frosh Tuesday night it is expected that he will let up a little and put the men on edge for the Coe game a week from tonight.

"ON WISCONSIN"

1. Adoption of a system for Fraternity Rushing.
2. Betterment of student Self-Government.
3. Success to the Experimental College.
4. Athletics for all.

The Bascom Theatre

THE WISCONSIN university players will present to-night, for the last time, "He Who Gets Slapped." We wish to comment on this, for it is certainly one of the finest productions that the local amateur players have ever presented, and it shows definitely the value of the Bascom theatre, the Little Theatre of the University of Wisconsin.

The value of this theatre has been three-fold. First, it has provided a workshop for theatricals, a workshop that has been needed here for a number of years. The quality of the present production, and the efficient manner in which the scenery and lighting have been handled, show that the present theatre is satisfying the local need.

Second, productions that amateurs would not otherwise present, because of the financial difficulties that might occur, can be presented. The choice of plays by the coach, Prof. William Troutman, from advance advances, is exceptionally fine. But if such plays were shown in a downtown theatre, the play would lose money, and less pretentious and fewer productions would have to be shown. The theatre at Bascom is of a convenient size, and it is the university's,—it cannot lose money.

Third, the price of admission to the Bascom plays has and can be kept at a convenient minimum. Plays in other theatres would cost a great deal more in order to meet the expenses that would be incurred. And fewer students would consequently attend. But $1 is a reasonable price for a first-class play, and the large audiences that have attended all the performances of "He Who Gets Slapped" are conclusive evidence that a standard low price will bring appreciative audiences.

The cast itself and the work of the coach on the present individual play are to be highly commended, and we hope that the present standard of theatricals will be maintained. The program that has been laid out here is now adequate. Experiments may be made different types of plays may be presented; innovations in scenery and lighting;—all these are possible with the Bascom theatre.

Two Football Teams

FOLLOWING THE annual exodus of some four thousand members of the student body to Chicago, ostensibly for the purpose of seeing the Wisconsin eleven in action, comes the report that next year will see Wisconsin represented by two teams. The purpose of this is obviously multi-fold.

In the first place it will keep many of the students at the home games. In the second place it will afford more opportunity to see football games. There will be no Saturday without a home game. In the third place, it will give more players a chance to strut their wares before a crowd in an actual game. In the fourth place, it will speed interest in the "athletics for all" policy of the director of athletics.

While not definitely decided as yet the tentative plan calls for two squads of players, one of which will be the varsity and the other of which will be the "B" squad. They will have definitely separate schedules and will play each team independent of the other. The plan at present is to have one team play away from home and the other to play at home. This will give the members of the second squad several trips that they would not otherwise have had. It will eliminate the chance of repetitions of games such as the Cornell and Grinnell games this year. These teams will play against the second team, while the varsity is engaging real competition. This would eliminate the necessity of presenting to Dads and Grads teams which afford little or no opposition to even the subs.

It is not known what the reaction of the ruling bodies will be to this proposed plan, but Coach Thistlethwaite and George Little are definitely in favor of the proposed plan.

The Triad, Front and Center

IN THE CURRENT issue of the Triad, weekly publication of Adams and Tripp Halls, the charges are made (1) that the ballots of the R. O. T. C. referendum, recently taken, were stuffed. (2) that many people, including the press at large, have been misled by this supposed support of the local unit. (3) it charges that members of the R. O. T. C. were supplied with ballots by the officers, while the men were at drill and that they voted then and there. (4) that many men voted more than one. (5) that those who wished to vote were not even supplied with the information as to where the ballots were to be cast.

The Triad concludes with the remark that "The R. O. T. C. apparently knows the real attitude and in order to offset it had to bring in votes by resorting to these methods." It further summarizes that "it might be enlightening to some of the newspapers who published with glee this overwhelming victory for the R. O. T. C. to know that the great percentage of the votes cast were not from the student body but from the R. O. T. C." By this process of reasoning the Triad determines that the referendum was a failure in the sense that it did not determine a true attitude of the university as a whole, but merely the R. O. T. C. opinion.

The ballots which were received in the student referendum were varied in opinion and many were not turned in on the blank which was printed in the Daily Cardinal. Some were merely written on personal stationery and a great number were written on mimeographed sheets. These latter might be presumed to be those referred to by the Triad as given out to the R. O. T. C. who voted "not once but numerous times."

To date there has been no comment by the R. O. T. C. speakers on the matter and the information that is given by the Triad is stated to be "from members of the R. O. T. C. corps and from reliable sources."

"One cannot blame the men for voting as many times as possible, as they were fighting for the perpetuation of their organization, and it was made easy for them to do so." The Triad also states that the members of the organization saw to it that ballots were distributed. By "members," it is uncertain whether the Triad means the officers, student officers, or the men. It seems that some explanation of the mimeographed ballots is in order and a statement at this time from the R. O. T. C. would not be amiss.

When You Were a Freshman

December 3

THREE YEARS AGO

Reports were received at the Daily Cardinal office at an early hour this morning that Patrolman Gregor of the Madison police force had been fired on and seriously wounded somewhere on the West side. Little information regarding the shooting could be obtained.

The contract for the new pipe organ to be installed in Music hall was awarded to the Wangerin Organ company, Milwaukee, by the university regents, at their meeting yesterday, according to James D. Phillips, business manager.

Fewer would-be dramatic literary critics and more students of economics are needed in the newspaper world today, said Lee White of the Detroit News in an interview today.

TWO YEARS AGO

Wisconsin students favor the United States joining the World court, the referendum conducted by the Daily Cardinal shows. The vote cast was as follows: For the court—496; against—287.

Asking for a complete change in the present methods of instruction and advisory system for freshmen, B. E. McCormick, secretary of the board of visitors, presented the report of that body at the monthly meeting of the board of regents in the president's office this morning.

A university chapel, costing about $100,000 will be built for the Episcopal students of Madison, according to Rev. N. C. Kimball, of the St. Francis club house. A committee for its organization is now being formed.

ONE YEAR AGO

President Glenn Frank yesterday presented the university's budget amounting to nearly $11,000,000, to the state board of public affairs. He pointed out that this is less than the budget granted for the last two years.

The appreciation of the citizens of the state for the service of the university and the interest of all classes in its welfare, with special reference this time to the Memorial Union project, is emphasized again in a statement of thanks made by John Dollard, just retiring as secretary of the Memorial Union.

As a last desperate effort to get publicity for their presidential booms, some of the candidates might try an Atlantic flight.

A wet plank in the platform wouldn't change things. Who expects a platform to change things, anyway?

We had a good Ford joke to tell the dear readers, but it's out already.

It was dark. Illumination was necessary. A match, a newspaper, and soon there was a flare. But it was just a few obstreperous college boys making light of the Times.

"Date Bureau" New Stunt at Dorms," says the daily blatt. Nothing new at all, for the girls of the Villa have been perfecting this system for the last two years.

Naive Nancy—"Say, maw, why do them collich giruls always button their coats so tight?"

The mater—"Well, m'daughter, it's just a matter of form, it's just a matter of form."

SIDELIGHTS ON THE PROM

Since the announcement was made that there will be no drinking at prom this year, several of the more important houses have made arrangements to have boxes at the Labor temple. Or what's a prom?

The chairman of the transportation committee is getting busy already. He was seen talking to the driver of the police patrol last night.

We haven't seen Momen with a potential prom queen yet. In fact, if we did see him, we wouldn't know that he was the guy.

NO SOAP?

Years of research by a great political scientist have led him to the phenomenal conclusion that they must use soap in Russia. This conclusion is based on the fact that most of the soap box orators have their origin in that country.

READERS' SAY SO

Editor The Daily Cardinal,
Dear Sir:

Somehow I'm up in the air as regards a certain phase of our ROTC question, and I would like to get some sort of an explanation. The phase is this:

Some weeks ago Bertrand Russell was here and rapped militarism and preparedness. Not one voice in the crowd spoke in protest. Yesterday Kirby Page pounced upon militarism and preparedness. Nobody in the audience said him nay. And yet, when it came to a vote, militarism and preparedness won, 10 to 1! How does one explain it? Wasn't there one of the seven hundred or more voters of the ten side of the count who would take it upon himself to answer the speakers who so decidedly and forcefully opposed his views? But perhaps the voters are bashful. I would like very much to suggest, to the Student Forum or some such organization, that they bring to Wisconsin some intelligent speaker who will voice the opinions of, be the champion for, those nine-tenths of the student body who so unanimously decline from challenging our pacifist lecturers. What are those good points of militarism and preparedness that brought forth such an overwhelmingly one-sided vote? I wish some one would tell me.

Notice to Reporters

Dear Sir:
You would certainly not want me to believe that the office force of the Cardinal is thoroughly inefficient and loosely organized. Despite persistent efforts to trace through your office one of your reporters who borrowed a

Dear Santa Claus:

I sleep in a cold dormitory. The only thing I need this Christmas is about six woolen blankets. Have you anything alone that line? Send as many as can come down the chimney. If you need them all at the North Pole, try to pick up a few old overcoats, rugs, or tarpaulins, and oblige.

Yours,

My dear Frigid Air:
Stop reading the Saturday evening Post, because there is no Santa Claus. If this is too great a shock for you, calm your bewildered mind by reading this eulogy, written a la Service, to those unfortunate souls who must sleep out where the air is a little colder, as another renowned poet once wrote.

And some will beat the snow and sleet

Men are there, who will brave the breeze

And the coils of arctic storm,

But they have no care that will compare

Did you ever try to find out something in a fraternity house? Yes, we did. We heard the word "Kenilworth" over the phone. What is Kenilworth? Here are the different answers—

It's an apartment in town.

It has something to do with dogs.

It's a Pullman on the Santa Fe.

A suburb in Chicago.

A street in Milwaukee.

A fishing tug out of Kenosha.

What a wealth of knowledge lies in a fraternity house!

library book from me over a month ago. I have failed in locating him. Nobody at the office of the Cardinal seems to be competent to get me his name.

The facts are these:
On Thursday, the 24th of October, two days after I had given the last of my two talks at the Experimental college, one of the students connected with the Daily Cardinal phoned me for an interview in regard to the two lectures. At 2:30 he came to see me. The lectures having been already given and the content not being "newsy," we two agreed that he would not write up the interview. But being interested in my talk on India, he asked me for some book that would give him a good idea of the subject were-upon I gave him "The Civilization of India" by R. C. Dutt, a University library book which I had borrowed, and asked him to return it directly to the library. I forgot the name of the reporter, have heard nothing from him and am informed by the librarian that the book is not yet returned. Can't you do anything to trace the forgetful delinquent and remind him to return the book to the library immediately?

If necessary you may print this communication in the Daily Cardinal.

The university also won first prize in class 160, champion sheep carcass. McGraw and Sons of Pewaukee, Wis., won third prize in the Oxford breeding sheep division, class 27.

Scientists Explode Myths About Mars; Impossible To See Features

Astronomers Have Pictured Red Planet Differently With New Lenses.

Features of the ruddy planet Mars far different from those long painted by popular guess and fancy have been announced in recent months by astronomers who, with new far-seeing spectacles of science, have gained the first truly authentic introduction to that most fascinating neighbor of ours.

No traces of weird giants wandering over strange desert lands have they found; no mighty race of supermen, digging mammoth canals and living in a realm of mechanical wonder undreamed of on earth. Instead they have discovered substantial facts supplanting century-old speculation—facts about the atmosphere of Mars, its climate, landscapes and probable life, from which they hope eventually to form a close acquaintance.

In short, they have revealed a new Mars—a world of frigid nights and warmer days, of high sailing clouds and parched soil where only the hardiest of plants may grow; a place strikingly similar to the earth, yet so different that earth men, transplanted there, would pant vainly for breath through thirsty throats. This new picture of the red planet, writes Donald H. Menzel, of the Lick Observatory, Calif., in Popular Science monthly for December, has come about largely through the development of great telescopes, the magic of color photography, the perfection of delicate measuring instruments and the application of human logic.

Since Mars never comes nearer to us than 33,000,000 miles, the wonder is that men have been able to read its features at all. It is as if some friend of yours, standing on a mountain top ten miles away, were to open a magazine and ask you to read it. Even through the world's largest telescopes the sentences would appear only as blurred lines, and the illustrations mere blotches.

Nevertheless, instrument perfection has brought great discoveries. In the wake of some of these, it now appears certain that the amount of oxygen available for breathing at the surface of Mars is about one-thirtieth that upon the earth at sea level. Thus, a man breathing normally at twenty times a minute here would have to do so 600 times on Mars to obtain the same amount of oxygen. For us, living on Mars would not be pleasant.

It appears, furthermore, that the canals are by no means as straight and geometrical as most observers psychologically draw them. In places the lines are crowded, intersecting, without apparent system, and since the width of the canals often exceed 100 miles, they can not be waterways. A Martian would hardly dig such a width for a canal, reply the astronomers of today in answering the theory that a race of supermen built the network of markings which has romantically taken hold of public fancy.

Students Helped by New Clock Located At 165 Bascom Hall

If President Glenn Frank should some day suddenly discover that he had left his Ingersoll at home, and his private secretary had smashed hers on her way to work, he would not be forced to appeal to the Madison police department or the Western Union telegraph to ascertain the time.

All that President Frank would have to do, would be to stick his head out of the door and he could see the time from the new time-piece located opposite 165 Bascom and near the President's office.

Some one has either purchased or resurrected a clock, and hung it in that locality, for one is now present where none was before. And it is a great benefit to the students who have eight o'clocks in Bascom, and especially in that region of Bascom, for no longer will it be necessary for them to look at wrist watches or to consult the neighbor or even have to go to the trouble of going to the new part and looking at the clock. Now, the students will be freed from that perplexing dilemma of whether to go to class and be late, or turn around and go back home.

PUBLIC LIBRARY ON WHEELS

Persons living in the country near Cincinnati, Ohio, may enjoy the advantages of a circulating library, for one of the branches of the main department is housed in a specially constructed motor truck, which tours the rural sections, distributing books and collecting those that have been read, says Popular Mechanics magazine. Counters on each side of the truck permit inspection of the volumes. An attendant keeps a record of the books that are taken out and returned.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE SEEKING 'MR. RIGHT'

Every time Constance Talmadge goes to luncheon or takes an automobile ride with a man now she finds amusement in warning him that they will be reported engaged. Nevertheless, she is still seeking the ideal man. "What woman," she remarked, "really ever gives up the hope of meeting Mr. Right Man, even if she has had an unsuccessful marriage? Isn't she constantly looking for the one and only? I am no different."

Sex Sins Pardonable Boston Pastor Tells St. Francis Students

"Sex sins are not the unpardonable sins, but sins of spiritual pride are the worst," the Rev. George Rodgers Wood, Boston, Mass., declared in his talk on "The Christian Ethics of Sex" Wednesday night at the St. Francis house.

"Sex ethics should be the joint effort of the biologist, the eugenic authority, and the fundamental principles of the New Testament, according to the sayings of Christ. The purpose of sex for the Christians is children who shall be mystically incorporated in the church. Marriage to the Christian is indissoluble.

"Petting and necking are not only bad taste, removing the beautiful and poetic from love-making, but also are too dangerous. You can't hope to get out of a fire without being singed. You will be either man-handled or woman-handled. If our fraternity houses, club houses, and private homes are to be turned into the social methodology of ill-fame, then civilization is bankrupt.

"Sex has been brought out of the sewer and into the library and drawing room; it is not vulgar, but it is a thing of beauty and of fundamental truth. The attitude of the Christian university student should be the development of free discussion and free social life."

When Xerxes wept

THE great Persian ruler gazed from a hilltop upon his vast army of a million men. It was the largest army that had ever existed. And he turned away with tears in his eyes because in a hundred years all trace of it would be gone. That army was a symbol of power, destructive and transient.

Today in one machine, now being built in the General Electric shops, there is combined the muscular energy of two million men. This great machine, a steam turbine, is also a symbol of power—a new power that is constructive and permanent.

Its unprecedented size, a record in construction of such machines, is a pledge to the people that the electrical industry is on the march, ever on the alert to supply plenty of electricity at a low cost to all.

This mammoth steam turbine with a total capacity of 208,000 kilowatts (280,000 horse power) will be installed in the new station of the State Line Generating Company near Chicago. What a striking contrast between this huge generating unit and the group of home devices it operates—MAZDA lamps, fans, vacuum cleaners, and many others. Yet General Electric makes both.

Post Office Requests
Early Attention to Christmas Mailing

As has become its annual custom in recent years, post office officials have adopted as their holiday slogan "Shop now and Mail Early for early delivery."

During the holiday time, it is estimated that the volume of mail increases approximately 200 per cent. Thus in order that presents and cards may reach their destination in ample time, an urgent request is being made that all gifts and greetings be mailed between a week and 10 days before the 25th.

Ann Arbor citizens who send large numbers of cards to their local friends are promised that if these are tied in a bundle and labeled Christmas cards and are mailed two or three weeks ahead of time that they will be segregated, stamped with the date on which to be delivered and delivery effected one or two days before Christmas.

Christmas cards and gifts addressed to points within one day's travel should be mailed in no event later than Dec. 20, within two days' travel not later than Dec. 18; within three days' travel not later than Dec. 16; and for more distant points not later than Dec. 14. Parcels and cards for local delivery should be mailed not later than Dec. 21.
