The things that people do in college are the same things that people have done since the beginning of mankind. Man plans, dreams, hopes, works, wonders, doubts, fights, loves and searches to find out who he is.

Truly, college life does encompass all the things that mankind does.

Poetry on pages 2-32 is written by a poet of the people, Carl Sandburg.

*"The people is Everyman, everybody.
Everybody is you and me and all others."*

Man criticizes his institutions, his society and himself

Learning is what happens when bright and informed minds meet. Therefore we need the brightest faculty and students. We need to encourage their minds to meet with as few impediments as possible.

In these last few years of expansion, the problem — and the opportunity — has been great, but I am afraid that extraneous prejudices have blinded us to the opportunities. We have not had the imagination to create what was possible but concentrated instead on the old rules and artificial forms of academic bookkeeping. Old rigidities are creating new rigidities and education may remain frightfully often a deadening bore instead of an exciting discovery, another crime in the holy name of education.

— Dr. E. N. Peterson

"It is easy to come here a stranger and show the whole works, write a book, fix it all up — it is easy to come and go away a muddle-headed pig, a bum and a bag of wind."

... Our University can wrap itself in mottoes and earnest statements about good communication and cooperation on campus, but it often stops at that point and allows sincere words to substitute for the reality of action. Sometimes it seems as if we are "moral men in an immobile society" — liking it here.

As in other state universities in the Midwest, we draw a circle around the "acceptable" persons and activities in the campus community, and subtly exclude the assistant professor who "just doesn't fit in anyway," and the student who might openly object to war or the Top 40 as a daily diet. We gather around the man who can outdrink and outhandshake the others in his fraternity or dormitory, and walk away from the man who can outwrite, outsymbolize, outphilosophize,

It almost seems like the students at River Falls exist in a gestapo-like atmosphere where student opinion is stifled through fear of retaliation. The administrators are free to search through personal belongings of the student at any time of day or night; and students who refuse to give up the basic right of privacy are few and far between. Yet the student sits on his dead posterior and lets this happen.

Amos Granville, Student Voice

and outreason us.

We are told that our years in a university will shake our complacencies and shape our future. But many of us hold the diploma, "a lifetime work permit," as our goal, and each letter-grade as a signpost. We are products in a society tacking premiums on production, and we resist opening our lives or our University to different values that might radically alter our goals and our conception of valid signposts.

When we so quickly say, "We like it here", we are often too prone to shut off our dreams — and dreams are the stuff of our future, and our University's future. At such time, we hope, we may "like it here" more, and with greater reason for doing so.

Harv Stower

A university is a place where man can defy popularly held concepts in his search for truth, because the institution does not exist to make a profit, propagate a set of constant values or bend before public pressures . . . It is a place of turmoil and intellectual ferment because man in the university is not content with what is but seeks what ought to be.

Somewhat Unique

Wisconsin State University—RIVER FALLS

Mulford Q. Sibley discusses academic freedom.

A place to meet people and new ideas

"The University is a somewhat unique institution," said a three-judge Federal Court in a recent decision.

This, of course, has been true from the time of the first university, for the university has a special task and a special mission. Its task is education and its special mission is the "search for truth."

Both of these require that the student be given the chance to grapple with new ideas, to seek new paths and to meet persons from different backgrounds and different cultures.

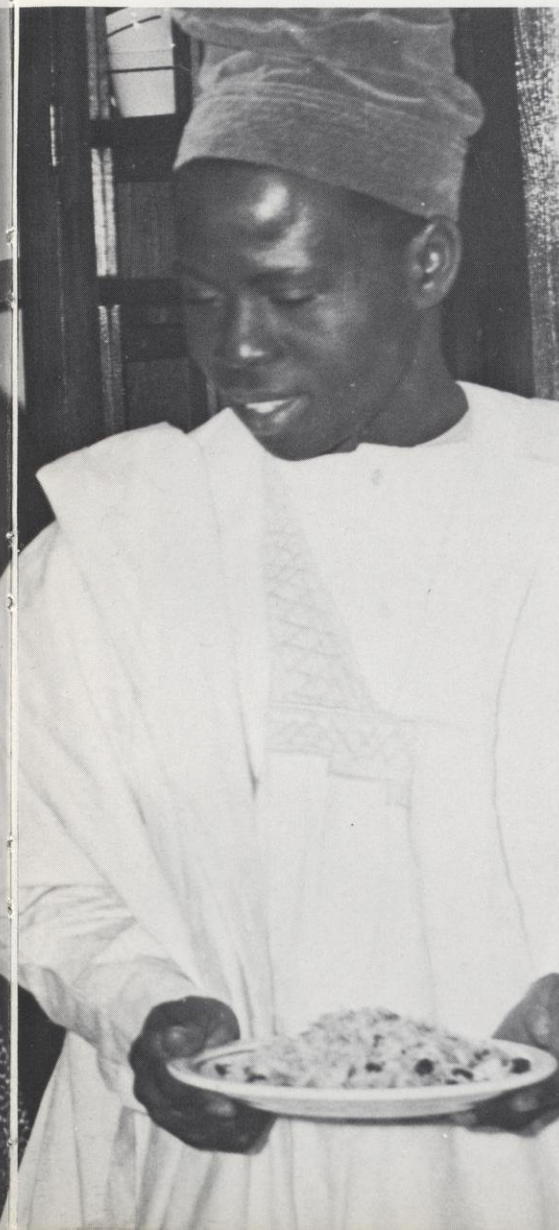

The University at River Falls is dedicated to this task and this mission. Its graduates have accepted the challenges it has offered and, today, are living, working and making a contribution to their society in every state in the nation and in 28 foreign countries on five continents.

William T. Evjue, editor of the CAPITAL TIMES, labelled the campus as the place "Where the free spirit prevails." A forum for opinion is the STUDENT VOICE, the campus newspaper.

Meeting people is a two-way affair. Betty Furness, CBS radio personality, chats with a group after speaking at the Associated Women Student's Banquet.

A tradition of informal relations between faculty and students prevails.

Students from abroad bring new viewpoints to the campus.

WSU-RF is known for teacher education

A student helps an elementary pupil at the Ames Laboratory School. Nearly half of those enrolled at the University are in teacher education curricula. Of these, a third are in elementary education and the remainder plan to teach in junior and senior high schools.

and a vital program in the liberal arts

The first task of the University at River Falls when it was founded in 1874 was to educate teachers for the state's elementary and secondary schools.

With more than 90 years of experience, it has continued to give strong emphasis to its teacher education program. Nearly half of those attending the University are planning to enter the teaching profession.

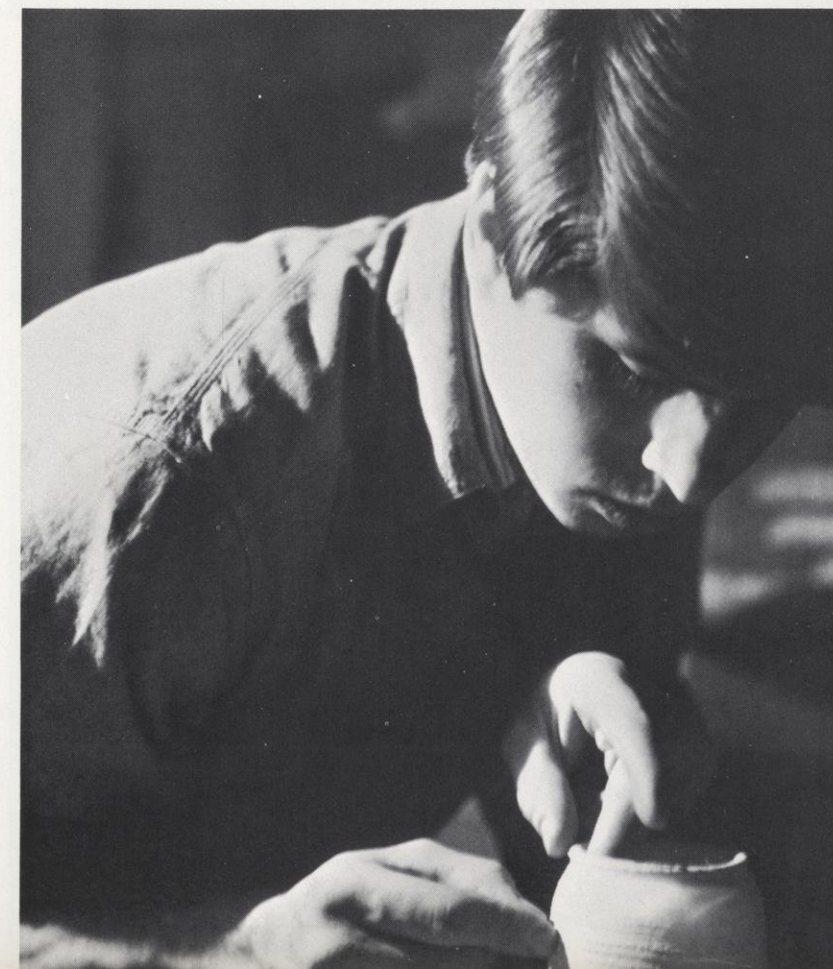

Since 1951, River Falls has expanded its offering in the liberal arts. Courses ranging from anthropology and art, through literature and mathematics to zoology, and dealing with all of man's activities, form the basis for more than 30 different majors and minors available to the student.

Offerings in the agricultural sciences are varied

Since 1912, the University has offered courses in agriculture and has played a major role in agricultural education. Currently, 54 percent of those teaching vocational agriculture in Wisconsin's public schools and 40 percent of all county agents are graduates of River Falls.

With increasing demands on the world's food supply, there is even greater emphasis on the 14 non-teaching areas of agriculture and today's graduates are finding eager acceptance in business, industry and governmental agencies dealing with food production and marketing.

Students learn the practical aspects of agriculture on the 392-acre laboratory farms.

Working with closed circuit television is an interesting job.

A student assistant helps with registration.

There's financial aid for the student, help in finding jobs for the graduate

Money, or lack of it, is often a problem. Many River Falls students help pay part of their educational costs by working during the summers or getting part-time employment on campus.

Others are assisted by scholarships or loans.

When the senior year rolls around, students register with the University's Placement Bureau which arranges job interviews on campus, publicizes information on employment opportunities and sends credentials to prospective employers.

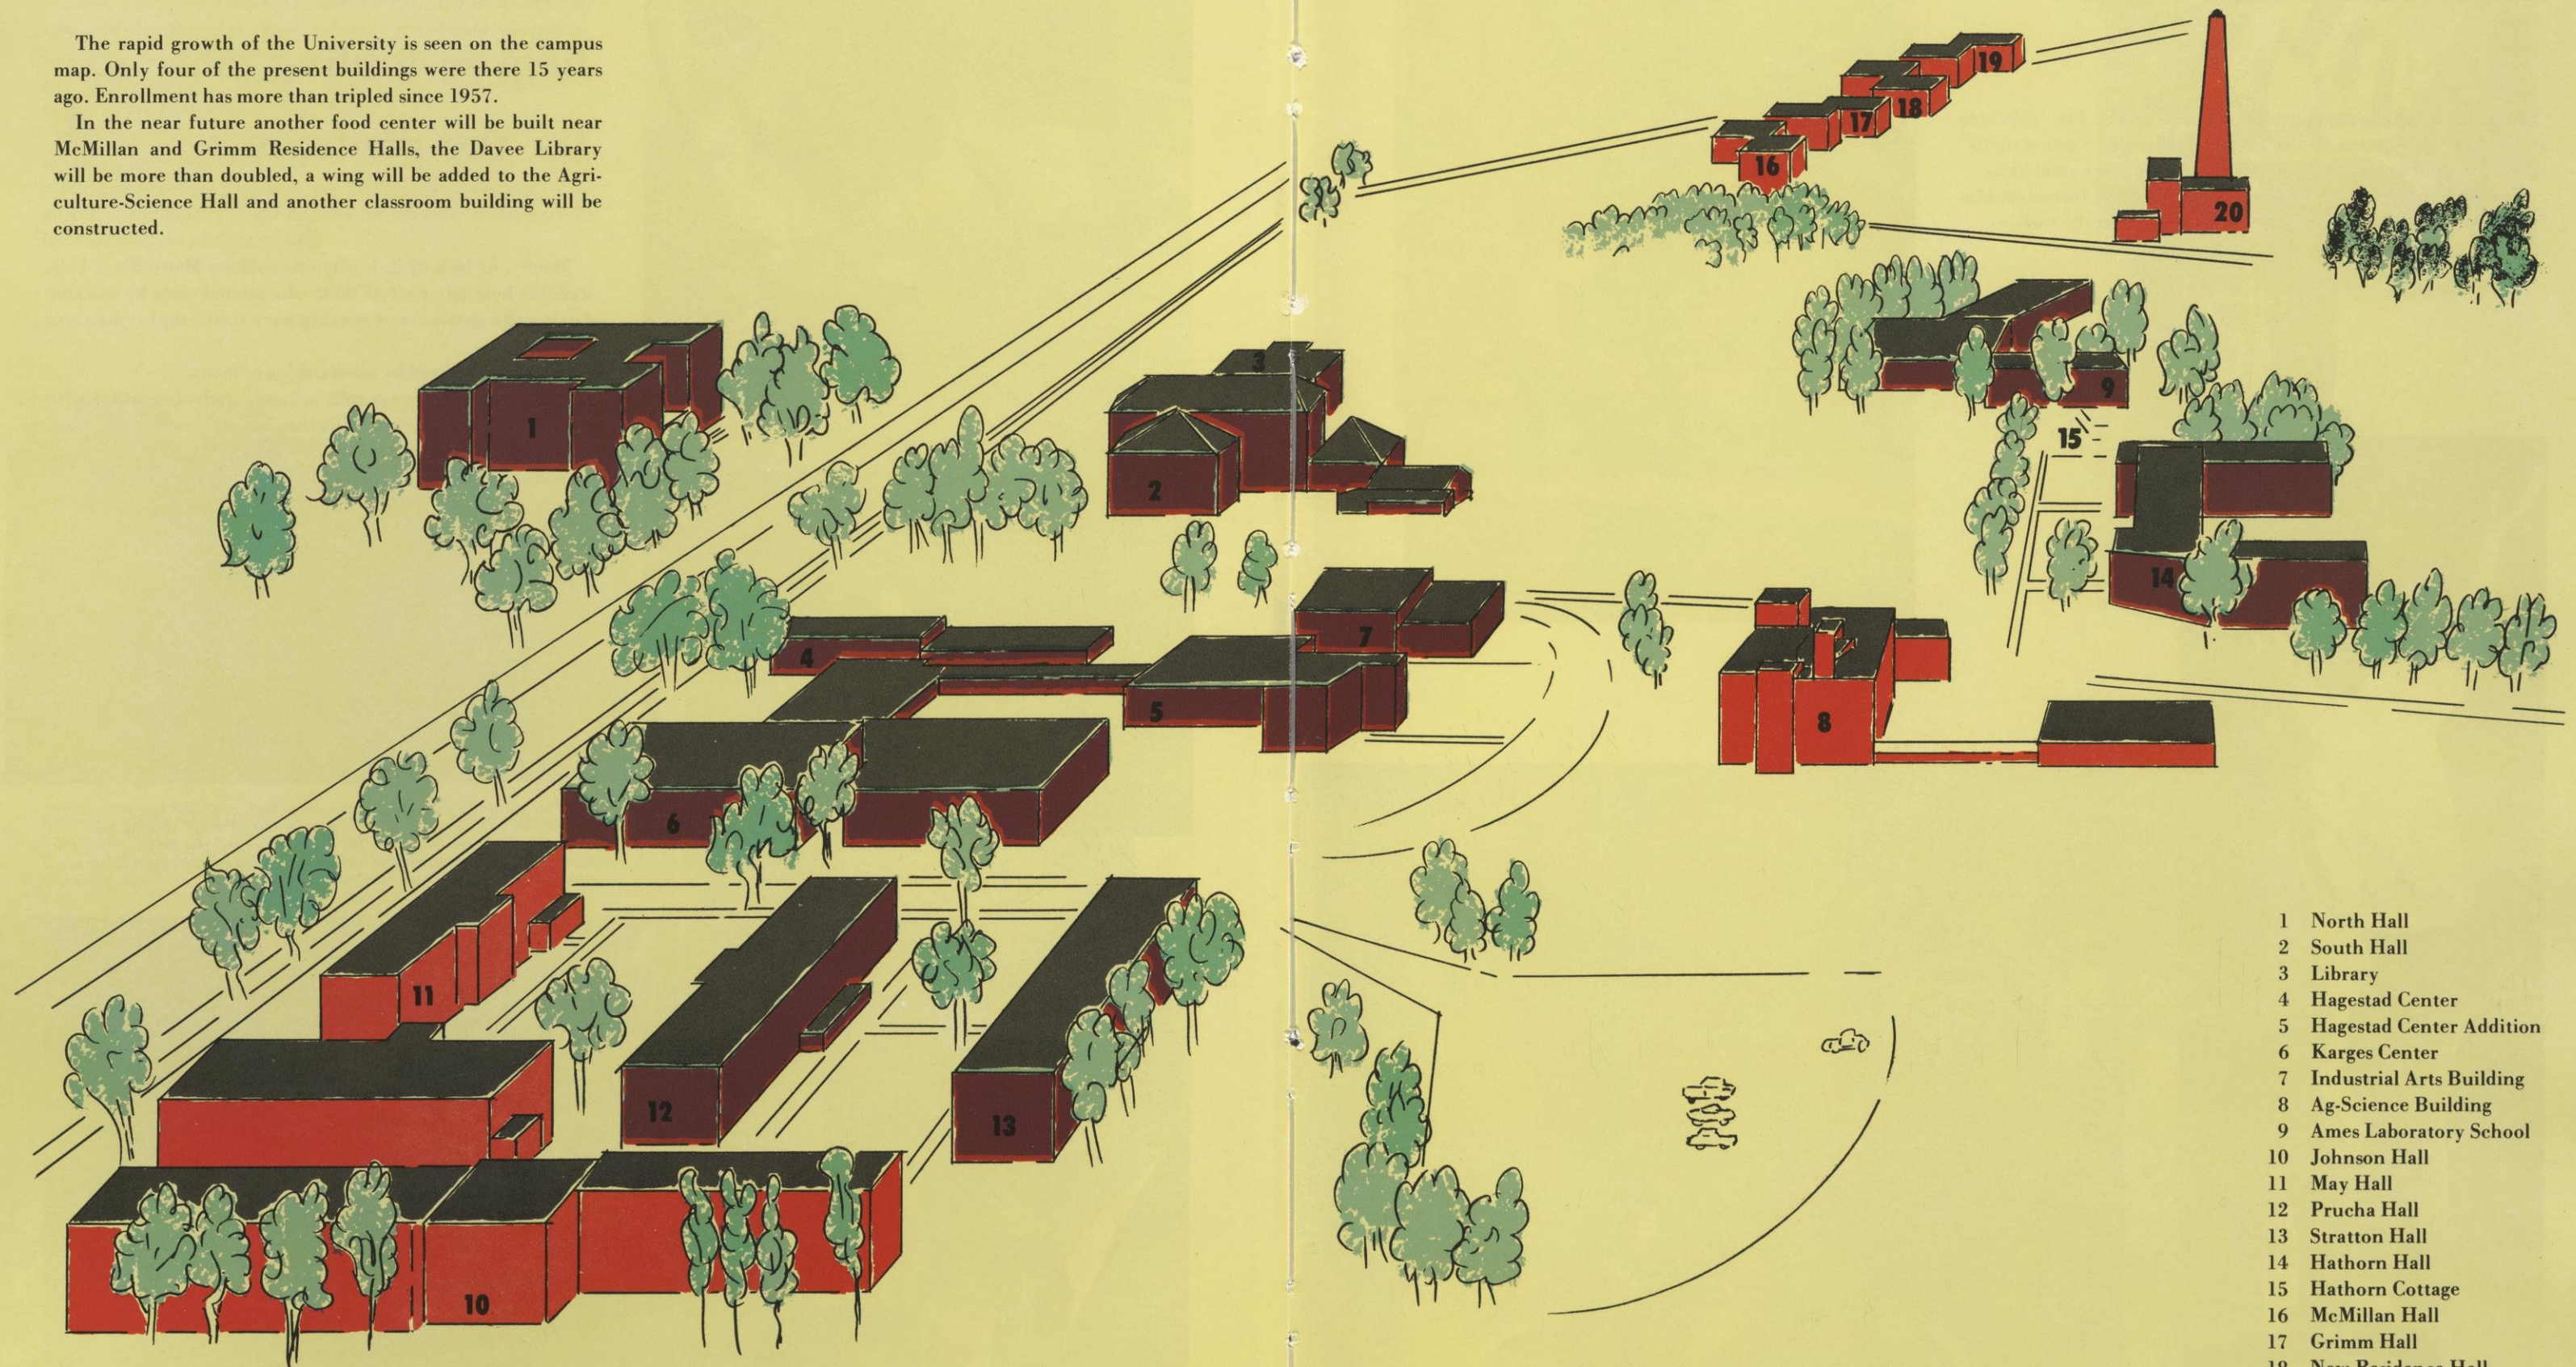

The Placement Bureau Director helps River Falls graduates find jobs in every state in the union and many overseas countries. Average starting salary for 1966 liberal arts graduates was $6017. Nine months' pay for secondary education graduates averaged $5345 while elementary education graduates averaged $5257. Agriculture teachers averaged $6381.

WSU-RIVER FALLS—an expanding campus

The rapid growth of the University is seen on the campus map. Only four of the present buildings were there 15 years ago. Enrollment has more than tripled since 1957.

In the near future another food center will be built near McMillan and Grimm Residence Halls, the Davee Library will be more than doubled, a wing will be added to the Agriculture-Science Hall and another classroom building will be constructed.

There's more to education than classes and work

Education takes place outside the classroom, too. Life-long friendships are formed in the dorms. Traditional "gab sessions" wherever students gather afford an exchange of views and ideas. Fun and learning are combined in many of the formal and informal, planned and unplanned social activities on the campus.

Sometimes the things we appreciate most are good friends, some songs, jokes and a good time.

Skiing is a part of Winter Carnival.

The spring prom is a colorful and gala affair.

A time to apply what you've learned

Whether in a large or small music group, on the playing field, in drama, on the student newspaper, in a speech contest, in an art exhibit or in one of the many interest groups on campus, there's a place for the student to "try his wings."

River Falls provides many experiences outside the classroom to develop talents and skills that continue to be useful in a chosen vocation or for personal enjoyment. There's a feeling of accomplishment when the experiments turn out well.

Yet all this is but a beginning

Preparation for a profession, a time to explore ideas, a chance to examine new ways, an opportunity to try skills and develop talent . . . all these are among the goals of education.

But the distinguishing mark of the educated person is the desire and the ability to continue learning. From the campus, the student goes to make his contribution to his world, ready to learn anew as times and conditions change.

Falcons finish with 6-1-1 conference mark

by Pat Swerkstrom

It was a great season for a great River Falls football team as they earned themselves a near first-place finish and the respect of all who saw them play. In the WSU-Conference, they were second only to Whitewater, ranked second nationally amongst the nation's small schools; and had it not been for early injuries and an off day in the Whitewater game, River Falls could easily have emerged in first place. But as it was, we can be justly proud of the great team of 1966.

Even though football is a team sport and each team member is necessary to a team's success, a few players deserve special recognition. These include sophomore quarterback Bob Dorn, who threw for five touchdowns, and junior quarterback Rich Elrod; offensive linemen Dick Sievert, Dave Outcalt, Bob Schultz and Dennis Erno; defensive linemen Dave Wirtala, Ed Pohl, Paul Juckem, Gary Ludvigson, and Doug Dube; and fine senior end Dick Hodgkins and halfbacks Reg Haag and Art Coulter. Kicking specialists Ulf Johansen and Tom Jilek also deserve mention.

Finally, due credit should be given to the captains — Joe Jilek, Dave Imrie and Ted Ragatz — who provided the team's necessary leadership. Ted Ragatz returned nine kick-offs for 349 yards, an average of 38.8 yards a carry, for two touchdowns; he also intercepted seven passes, returned nine punts for 50 yards and punted 39 times for a 34.4 yard average. Joe Jilek was outstanding in the defensive line, making 88 tackles — nearly twice as many as any of his teammates. And Dave Imrie showed exceptional line play, despite being injured part of the season.

Perhaps something should also be said about Jim Baier. For one thing, he was number one in small college rushing with 1,587 yards, 176.3 per game, and 6.6 per carry. He holds the WSUC and NAIA single game record high of 370 yards, was three times voted WSU-player-of-the-week, is the league leader in punt returns, and is the conference record holder of four touchdowns in one game. He is also holder of the conference career rushing record, 3,154 yards, and the conference scoring record, 17 touchdowns for 102 points. Jim Baier was named the Falcon's most valuable player in both 1965 and 1966, and he is number two in all time small college rushing with 1,587 yards in one season. Finally, although "finally" is a totally inappropriate word, he was named to the NAIA first team All-American squad — the greatest honor that can be bestowed on a small college football player. That was the kind of year Jim Baier had.

Congratulations are in order to coach Gwynn Christensen and the whole team on a fine season.

A huge number of Falcon-backers saw RF defeat defending champ Stout 28-7. Jim Baier picked up 244 yards and two TD's.

Ulf Johansen, Oslo, Norway, used soccer-style kicking.

One of Jim Baier's strong points was his ability to get a quick start from the backfield.

Cagers have poor season

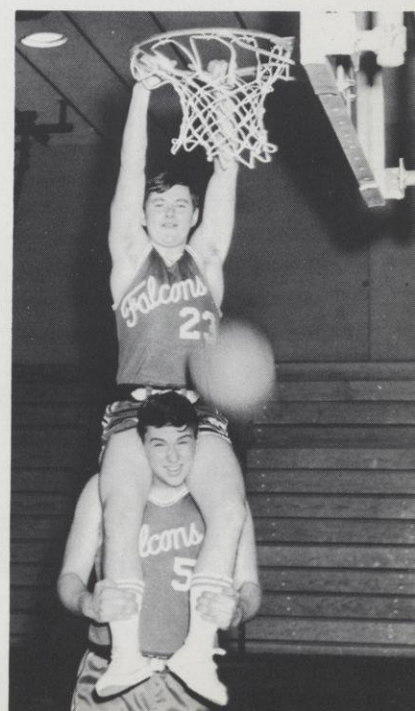

The Falcon basketball squad experienced its worst season since 1960 when the team also had a 4-17 overall record. The Falcons, coached by Bob Swander picked up victories over Superior and Stevens Point in conference play. Bright spots in the year were the outstanding performances of younger squad members George Voss, (13.9 points per game), John Wolf, (14.8 points per game) and Steve Gustafson (9.6 points per game.)

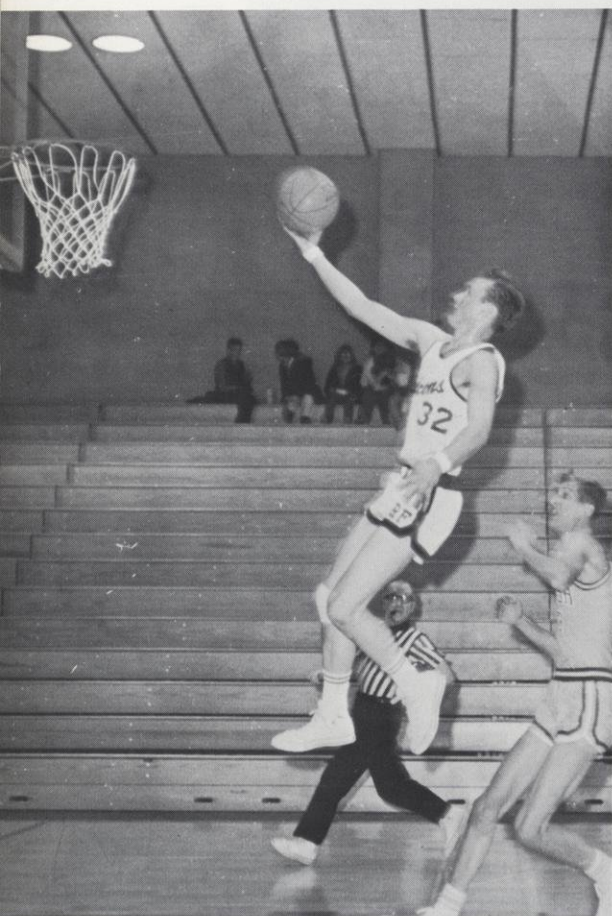

The Falcons were outscored during the season 1841 to 1635 and were out-shot .444 to .408 percent. Defensive rebounding was good as RF held a 634 to 611 edge, but offensive rebounding was poor as opponents had nearly 100 more rebounds than did RF.

Gymnasts set groundwork

The gymnastics squad coached by newcomer Larry Vold experienced a 2-8 conference season.

"We've set the groundwork for next year's season," said Vold. He added that there were some good individual performances this year but that there was plenty of room for improvement.

In the season's meets Bill Driscoll placed 16th among WSU gymnasts in the trampoline, 18th in the horizontal bar, 16th in the parallel bars and 21st in the still rings to place eighth all-around gymnast.

Bruce Hendricks placed 18th in floor exercise and seventh in tumbling. Wayne Schrubbe placed 14th in the side horse and Larry Cipov placed 14th in the long horse. Cipov made the finals of the state meet but was unable to compete because of a broken wrist.

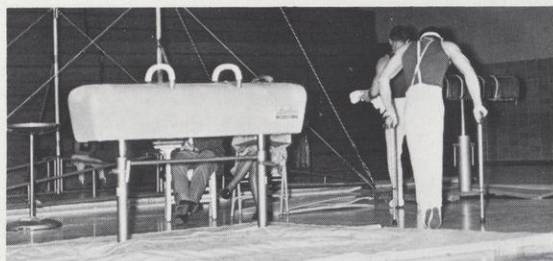

Other gymnasts performing well were Jim Newman, Steve Ortman, Jeff Stefanski and Bill Hastings.

Swim team finishes fifth— breaks nine records

Coach Mike Davis explains a point to two of the Falcon swimmers. This was Davis' first year as head coach.

Mike White now holds the 200 yd. breaststroke record for River Falls.

The River Falls swimming team had a fair season, placing fifth in the conference meet, but injuries prevented them from living up to pre-season expectations. Nevertheless, they did succeed in setting new school records in a number of events. The 400 Medley Relay mark was set by Michael White, Brian Petersburg, and captains Gary Synnott and Doug Caldwell with a time of 4:22.5. Synnott also established new times in the 200 Freestyle and 200 Butterfly with 2:05.2 and 2:23.0 respectively. And White did the 200 Breaststroke in 2:38.2 for a new record. Other pacesetters were Dennis Amrhien, in the 50 Freestyle at 23.3 and 100 Freestyle at 52.2, and Jim Daniels: the 1000 Freestyle, 12:33.0; the 200 Individual Medley, 2:21.8; and the 200 Backstroke, 2:28.8. From the standpoint of improvement over past years, this season's swimming team did quite well.

Wrestlers win conference title

by Jerry Neve

The Falcon wrestling team coached by Byron James fought their way to the WSU-Conference championship at La Crosse Friday and Saturday, Mar. 10, 11.

The championship was James' fourth in his seven years at River Falls, the last one coming in 1963. His wrestlers also walked away with the laurels in 1961 and 1962.

Three Falcons won individual championships and two more placed in the runner up spot. Ken Flouro, Horicon freshman, went through the 115 lb. class, taking Kinatader of Oshkosh in his first match, Whitewater's Mombow in the second and pinned a good Superior man, Leonardo for the title. Flouro's record is now 17-4-1 for the season.

Dave Wirtala, Owen-Withee senior, who is now 8-0 at 191 lb. beat the defending NAIA champion, Al Poser of LaCrosse, for the Falcon's second individual title.

Steve Schmidt, St. Paul freshman heavyweight, made the scorer's job a lot easier as he pinned every man he faced to take the title. The 240 pounder started off by pinning La Crosse's Duba, then put Poncher of Oshkosh on his back before taking Platteville's Bergun on a fall for the championship. Schmidt finished the season as conference champ, Minnesota AAUP champ and placed third in the national competition at Lock Haven, Pennsylvania. Schmidt finished with a 17-2 conference mark and 14 pins to his credit.

At the conference meet the Falcons were tied with the Superior Yellowjackets after the 160 lb. division, but they still had three men in the running while the Yellowjackets were through. River Falls finished with 84 points, Superior with 77, Platteville 48, Whitewater 47, La Crosse 44, Stout 43, Oshkosh 25, Stevens Point 6 and Eau Claire 0.

Taking second place for the victorious Falcons were Jim Hammes, Chetek sophomore at 137 lbs. who lost to four-time champion Garsides; Ron Knutson, Rice Lake junior at 167 lbs. (Knutson had been out of action since early January with rib injuries). Placing third were Bob Olson, Baldwin senior at 130 lbs. and Tom Alex, Bettendorf, Iowa, freshman at 123 lbs. Tom Madison, West Chicago junior at 152 lbs. and Ed Houghdahl, Clear Lake sophomore at 145 lbs., came in fourth.

The youth of the team is found in the fact that 14 out of the 20 wrestlers on the team are either freshmen or sophomores. The freshman matmen posted a record of 73-17-2 for the year.

Ron Knutson, 167 lb. junior, placed second in the conference meet.

The Falcon wrestling squad poses in the La Crosse gymnasium shortly after copping the conference championship trophy.

Hockey team wins season series

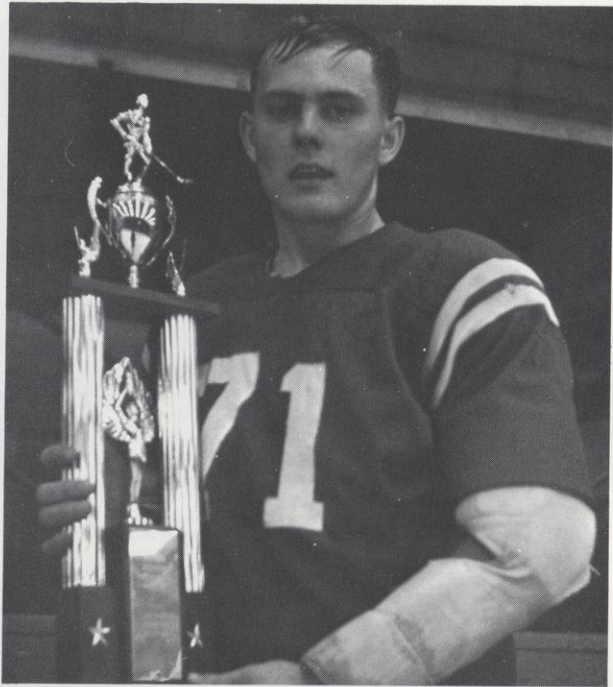

The River Falls hockey team, playing as an independent, had a very respectable season, posting a mark of eight wins and six losses while losing only two games by more than one goal and only one by as much as two goals. It is also interesting to note that of the three games that went into sudden death overtime, River Falls lost none. The team showed much composure.

Captains for the year were Gene Hoff and Jack Norqual. Pete Boelter, who had a great year as goalie, received the team's Most Valuable Player award, and he and Jack Norqual were elected as next year's captains.

Prospects for next year's team are very promising. Craig Williams, who started on defense, is the only regular not returning.

Falcon netmen capture fourth place in WSU

The Falcon tennis team won three dual meets and lost three this year, but placed fourth in the WSU-conference tournament. Craig Adelman, Milwaukee freshman, was undefeated in dual meet singles competition and placed second in the state meet.

Coaches Mike Davis and Byron James coached a young team consisting of seven freshmen, one sophomore and one junior.

Baseball squad finishes in upper division

The River Falls baseball squad, with only four upperclassmen and sometimes as many as seven freshmen in the starting lineup, finished fourth in the conference this year. Coach Don Page and assistant Bob Swander guided the young squad to a 5-5 conference mark and a 10-6 mark over all.

Keys to the successful season were pitchers Scott Gaalaas and freshman Perry Arndt. Gaalaas, a junior from River Falls, was 5-4 on the year with a sparkling 1.83 earned run average. In seven of his nine games he allowed one or less earned runs. He walked only 25 men in 64 innings while whiffing 71 batters.

Arndt won four games and lost one and compiled a 3.27 earned run average. Arndt threw a two-hitter at Bethel and a three-hitter at La Crosse for his best games. The Medford, Wis., hurler struck out 26 batters while walking 13 in 41 1/3 innings.

Stevens Points won the conference with an 8-2 record but later lost to Milton College in the NAIA playoffs.

Out of my mind from 209

WE DONE DOOD' IT --- Despite the rain and cold weather that prevailed Saturday afternoon the Falcons came through and showed what spirit and team play can accomplish ... The margin was a wide one, 47-13, and it was quite a first victory for our new "athletic" field ... I can offer nothing but praise to the fearless eleven who were outsized in many positions but completely outplayed the non-Superior team ... One thing was very obvious Saturday — the facts were not en masse. I've never heard such frenzied yelling in my life as that coming from Phi Nu Chi. Really some great enthusiasm there and by the way, what time did Johnny's open up that morning or perhaps I should say what time did you open it up?

Kappa Theta and their cannon commanded one end zone and I'm surprised the old puffer held up under the strain...

With the writing of this column, two significant things have come to a close. That is one school year (finals not included ... sweat ... puff ... groan) and my one quarter as sports editor of the Student Voice.

It is doubtful whether I shall continue my efforts in this capacity for I have submitted my resignation to Michael Brecke effective at the close of this quarter.

Neither madness nor blackmail drove me to this decision but merely a desire for a more peaceful way of life and the hope that a person much more eminently qualified as sports editor will replace me. One finds it difficult to be a one man or two man as the case may be (Jerry Neve, my right arm man) and try to collect all the sports into which originates from the athletic dept.

For some reason unknown to both Jerry and myself, people or reporters, as the case may be have an aversion to writing for the sports department. I have searched the many cracks and crannies on this campus but I have yet to find a man dedicated enough to turn in a story every week and accept the responsibility which goes with a sports beat.

It's exciting work and intriguing if one is willing to dig into the heartbeats of an athlete or the guts of a game. Unfortunately, too many irons in the fire have I put and my time for digging and probing are limited.

Where else in this crazy world of computers and organized genocide can a person find the human element and raw emotion which are the ingredients of every sport. Athletics are sweat, tears and sometimes, but not often, laughter and gaiety.

To watch and hear the sound of man against man in a football game or to watch the cinders fly from a track when winged feet come flying down the last stretch in the 880 yd. dash. These are the elements that take place up the last frontier. Man against man and man against time. No computers or traffic jams but merely man in the raw trying to overcome something of his own element, his own brother.

Where are the people who will tell this element to the world? Who will be the Ring Lardner's and Red Smith's of tomorrow? Come out of the small crannies which seem to abound at RF and start telling these things to the world.

SEEN ON A WASHROOM WALL ... J. Edgar Hoover sleeps with a night light on.

The wild west never looked so good. Another rodeo club member, Sally Cannon (not pictured here), was named all-around cowgirl at a rodeo at South Dakota State in May. The WSU-RF girl's rodeo team defeated Kansas State 201-135, their closest competitor.

Look alikes All-American Jim Baier and the Twins' Rich Rollins pose in the Student Center.

Sports Commentary by Chris Becker

"Thirty-three, thirty-three, thirty-three" chanted the River Falls fans throughout Saturday's 32-26 victory over Stevens Point. "Thirty-three is the number belonging to Jim Baier, the greatest rusher in the history of the Wisconsin State University Conference and the current leader in rushing yardage in the entire NAIA.

It was a field day for "the Baier" who scored four of the five Falcon touchdowns and gained 370 yards rushing in 34 attempts for a 10.9 average. Yet had the Falcon fans known the intimacies of the game they would have been shouting the number "24".

"We used the same play all day" Baier commented after the game. "It is a 24 trap in which Dick Sievert takes out a linebacker, the guard (either Dave Imrie or Bob Schultz) pulls to the outside blocking their tackle and Dave Outcalt (the center) double teams in the middle."

In spite of the statistics Baier insists that the Falcon offensive game was by no means a one man show.

"The blocking today was by far the best this season and I think it has been good all year. Not once was I touched at the line of scrimmage. No runner could ask for more," he concluded.

Coach Gwynn Christensen concurred with Baier's appraisal saying, "We worked double time on offensive this week and it sure paid off. They were really up for this one."

The Falcon mentor praised highly the work of junior quarterback Rich Elrod, who played the entire game for the injured Bob Dorn. "Rich took a lot of lumps out there," Christensen said, "but he kept his composure and called a good game."

The only one to remain stonefaced throughout it all was Stevens Point Coach Bill Burns. It was reportedly he, or a source close to him, who started that embarrassing rumor about White-water losing. Oh well, every party has a pooper. Perhaps someone should have told him to "Grin and Baier it."

Sports Commentary by Chris Becker

There are times in the career of any sports writer when he feels he must throw his objectivity and himself out the window. The football season has ended and my time has come. And so, let the following serve as my farewell to football. For four years I have been chasing the Falcon football team up and down the sidelines. I would like to say that I know them well. But I don't. All I know is that football players are motivated by many things.

Ted Ragatz was a fantastically stubborn player for an enormous amount of pride. He liked to gamble, and if his gamble didn't pay off he would try all the harder the next time.

Then there was Joe Jilek. As co-captain Joe did something none of his recent predecessors have ever done — he took charge. He assumed the entire responsibility for making sure the team was "up" for each game.

Ed Pohl. In the four years I have known Ed Pohl I have never heard him say an unkind word to or about anyone. If there ever was a player in the history of the game who could knock an opponent flat on his back and do it in a kind way, it was Ed Pohl.

Dick Sievert. Along with Steve Rhiel, Dick is the most softspoken man on the team. His enjoyment of the game came from blocking for Jim Baier. Dick set up at least half of "Chubby's" touchdowns this year. I'm sure Baier would be the first one to agree with me.

And finally, Jim Baier. What can I say about "Chubby" that hasn't already been said. He loves to win, but if the team loses, he doesn't let it eat at him the way some of the other players do. He knows how to laugh, even if the joke's on him.

What was most important about this season was not the Falcons' second place finish. It goes much deeper than that. It was the fact that the team as a whole made a commitment and lived by it. They made up their minds to truly love the game and play it for all it was worth. In the past individual players have made this commitment but never the team as a whole.

In years past many players who made their commitments felt betrayed when after one loss the team fell apart. These players then began blaming each other or blaming the coaches, which further aggravated the situation. The rest of the season the team just went through the motions.

If any of these players are reading this column, I would say to you that you need not hold your bitterness any longer. Your sacrifices have been justified. You have helped the team over the hump. They have conquered their greatest opponent — themselves, and their own vulnerability. From now on they can be beaten, but never broken.

No sir! My best friend isn't dead. He is smiling and laughing because he never felt better in his life.

Sports Commentary by Mark Nelson

Fifteen wrestlers and Coach Byron James shared an experience over Christmas vacation I'm sure none of them will forget. On the morning of January 2, after a terrific pancake breakfast made by Mrs. James, the wrestlers got into three cars and left for a wrestling tour in Pennsylvania and New York.

Stopping about 20 miles from the Penn. border, we decided to rest for the evening after driving 16 hours.

Rising at seven the next morning, we continued our journey to State College Penn., the home of Penn State. We had the honor and tremendous experience of wrestling with the Penn State squad. The first practice with them was quite rough on us probably more psychologically than anything, then of course 20 hours of riding in the cars might have had a little to do with it also. The second practice at nine the next morning saw a much different team, some of the men gained a little confidence and were able to defend themselves quite a little more than the first session.

We drove into Lockhaven the next day, looked their campus over deciding RF was a small bit better, weighed in and went to eat. The school fed us and Lockhaven's team a training table meal of T-bone steak at 3:30 that afternoon. We then went back to the hotel to rest before the match.

That evening at the match we were surprised to find about 3,000 people at the match and also that the match was covered by an area radio station I wonder if you can imagine the feeling of wrestling in front of 3,000 people and only 14 of them cheering for you.

After being defeated by the NAIA champs we drove back to the hotel for the night. Arriving at Bloomsburg the next morning we received the familiar hospitality and a training table meal of hamburger steak served to us by the school food service.

The crowd was very similar only this time about a 1,000 more people and a big base drum. During my match I wasn't sure who my opponent was several times, whether it was the official or one of the many spectators packed around the edge of the mat. We again suffered a defeat. Several of the matches were close but it didn't show up too well on the final score.

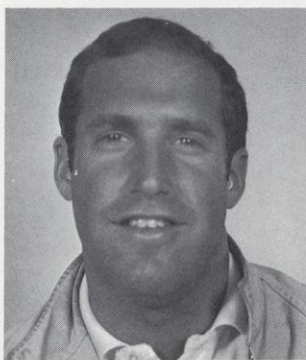

We left after the match and headed for West Point, New York.

After a cadet checked us over at the gate he decided we could enter when we arrived at 1:30 that morning. We stayed above the military police in the visiting teams barracks that night in army beds. It gave a few of us "draft-dogers" a chill at first but found we slept well after lying in bed for a few hours.

Coach didn't tell us what time breakfast was the next morning so we slept until ten, then went to a fantastic dinner with the cadets. Even our heavy-weight Steve Schmidt got enough to eat.

At last we won a dual meet that afternoon. This time the crowd was somewhat smaller but just about as enthusiastic. Probably because there was a basketball game, a swimming meet, a hockey game, several squash games, several handball games and of course there had to be another wrestling meet. And some people complain about all the sports we have on this campus. They only have about 40 intramural coaches not counting the varsity coaches for the 3400 cadets.

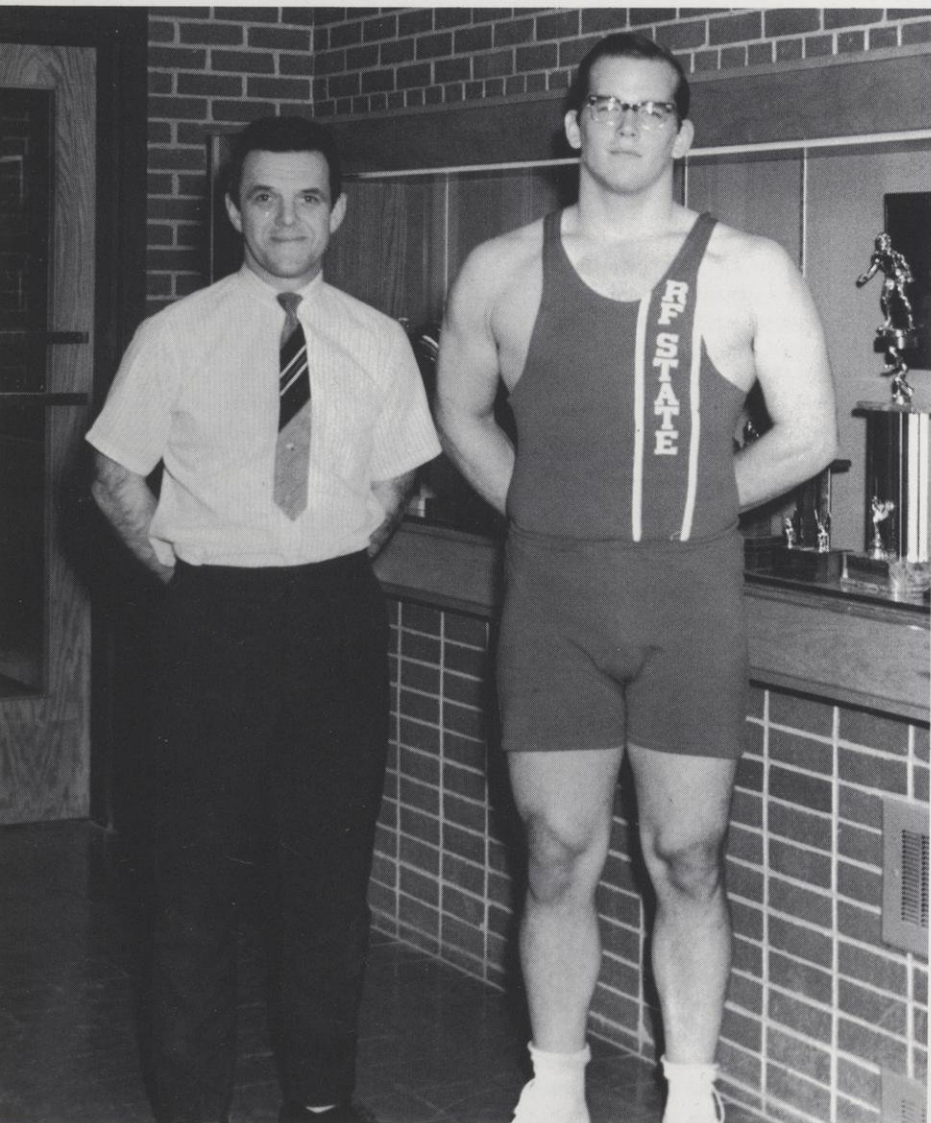

Craig Adelman, Milwaukee freshman, won all six points for River Falls' fourth-place in the conference tennis meet. Adelman went undefeated in regular season and lost only to top-seeded Vilis Cakans 7-5, 6-1 in the last match of tournament play.

Athletes achieve stature

Coach Byron James was voted "Coach of the Year" by the coaches in District 14 after his matmen captured the WSU championship. Steve Schmidt, freshman heavyweight, was WSU-Conference wrestling champion, Wis. Intercollegiate champion, AAU Outstanding Wrestler in Minn., and finished third in the NAIA tournament at Lockhaven, Conn.

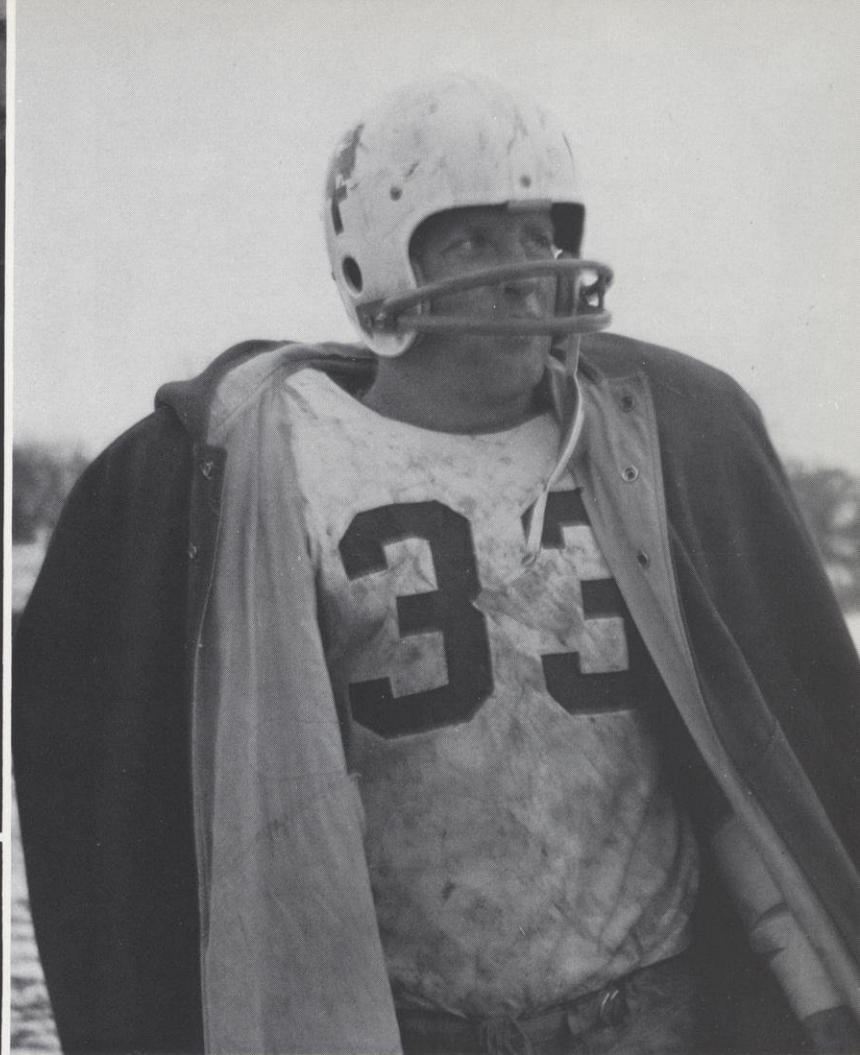

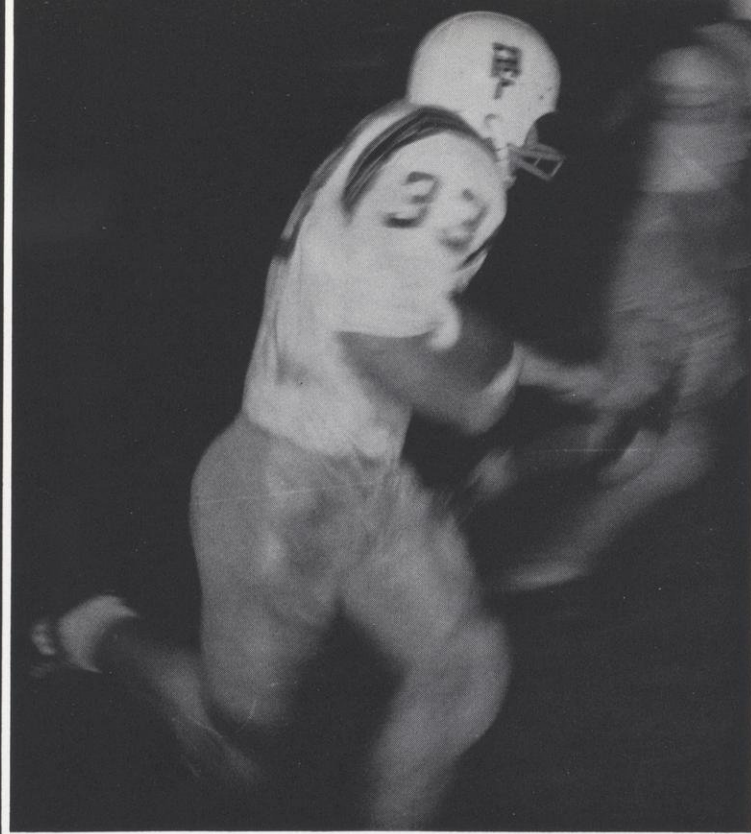

Coach Don Page stands with all-conference first baseman, Ron McIntyre. McIntyre batted .345 in conference play.

Marvin Thompson, faculty representative to the WSU-Conference, presents the University with the wrestling trophy won by the Falcons.

Coach Rial Smith said this Burlington freshman, Craig Middleton, put River Falls on the map. Middleton placed 156th out of 700 entries in the 26-mile Boston Marathon, April 19. Middleton's sweatshirt was froze from sweating in a 26-degree snowstorm as he crossed the finish line in downtown Boston.

Sigma Tau Epsilon invites students to take a chance and test their luck at their gambling casino set up on the Midway during Foundation Week. All proceeds went to the Foundation Committee. An unconfirmed report relayed to the Meletean office indicates that it was Sig Tau who took a chance— Net profit after the Midway closed: 25¢! Despite this mild setback, Sig Tau, through other money making projects contributed the most money to the Foundation Committee at the close of Foundation Week which enabled Sig Tau to win a trophy awarded by the committee to the organization contributing the most toward campus improvement.

German Club sponsors Frühlingsfest

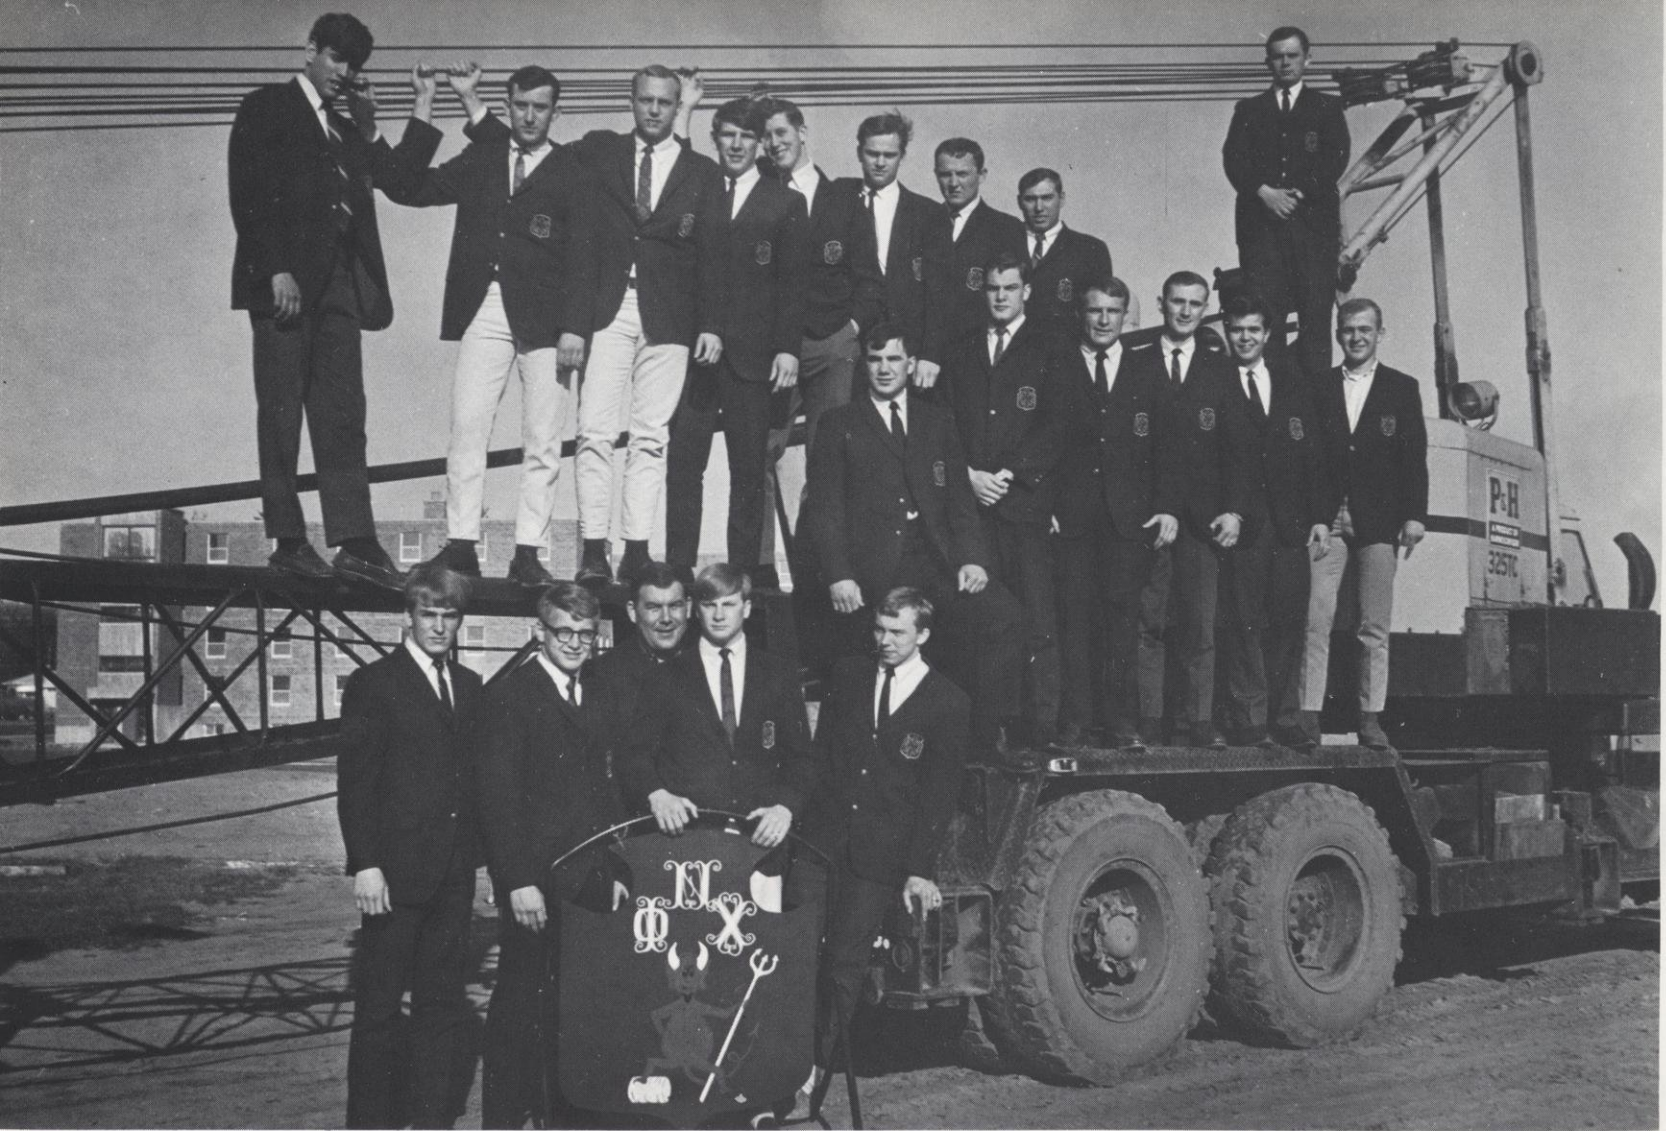

DIE DEUTSCHE GESELLSCHAFT is a professional organization for German majors and minors. In this group are discussed such things as news items of Germany, German literature, and German philosophy. During the month of May a Frühlingsfest (spring festival) is usually sponsored. Included in this activity are prose and poetry readings, a play, sponsorship of German films and the administering of a German achievement test for area high school students. In the Christmas tide, DIE DEUTSCHE GESELLSCHAFT goes caroling to the homes for the aged and hospitals in River Falls. If the spirit so moves, a play is given. In past years, this play has usually been a parody on the current world situation with "Santa Clausian" overtones. This play is written by one of the members. The German Club also sponsors the display case between South Hall and the Library. Officers for the year were President George Qually, Vice President Jan Weaver and sec.-treas. Annette Wendorf.

Delta Iota Chi

Delta Iota Chi, a social sorority, was organized to promote friendship and co-operation between its members and their fellow students. This sorority stands for good scholarship and high moral integrity. During the year, Delta Iota Chi participates in Homecoming, Go to College Day, Winter Carnival, Foundation Week, Greek Week and many other campus activities. As a service project Delta Iota Chi sponsors a foreign child, a twelve year-old girl in Hong Kong. Members feel these activities help achieve the purpose of the sorority.

SNEA

The Student National Education Association is the preprofessional association for University students preparing to teach. Its local units are a part of the state education association and of the National Education Association. Membership at each level is voluntary. The student education association provides opportunities for understanding education as a career, professional relations with educators, and participation in professional experiences at local, state, and national levels in chapter projects, conferences, workshops and conventions.

Y Dems

The purpose of the Y-Dems is one of education in politics. By making use of qualified speakers and noted public officials, the organization presents the student with the opportunity to acquaint himself with the leading issues of public life, and with the opportunity of coming to understand political processes through first-hand experience.

The over-riding goal of the organization is to help form an informed electorate. Highlighting this year's activities were addresses by Bronson LaFollette, attorney General of Wisconsin, and a state Y-Dem convention, held in Hudson in March.

Physics Colloquium

During the past year the Physics Colloquium continued its policy of providing an opportunity for interested students to present talks on interesting subjects in physics.

In January the colloquium sponsored its biannual trip to Argonne National Laboratory and Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry. The visit to Argonne included a guided tour during which the group viewed several nuclear reactors, a giant accelerator, and individual research labs. At the museum individual preference dictated the itinerary as the group separated to view many of the exhibits portraying aspects of science from the past, the present and the future.

The ambitions and goals of Grimm Hall were limited during the '66-'67 school year by this being its first appearance on campus. Fall saw the initial occupancy of Grimm by both dazed freshmen and "experienced" upperclassmen who tried to mold themselves into the dorm's governing body. Characterized, however, by an expensive Homecoming fiasco and a typical degree of first-year apathy, Grimm looks for more productivity next year.

Baptist Student Fellowship

The Baptist Student Fellowship unites students of the university community in close fellowship with each other. Activities have been established to emphasize the personal acceptance of Christ as our Savior; to encourage spiritual growth through Bible study, fervent prayer, Christian fellowship, and personal witnessing; to promote an enthusiastic Christian witness in all aspects of university and community life; and to develop Christian love and community life; and to develop Christian love and concern for others.

This has been achieved through the efforts of individual and group activities including weekly Bible studies in the dormitories and group meetings. Also each quarter a weekend was set aside as a Spiritual Emphasis Day where an entire day was devoted to study of one aspect of Christian concern. A canoe trip was one of the major activities, one of which was taken in the fall and the other in the spring.

All this has helped University students in their growth in the Christian life and in their spiritual relationship with God.

In this the last year that the Newman Club will be located at its present site on the corner of Cascade Ave. and third Street — across from North Hall, the club received national recognition for sponsoring the North Central Province Convention.

Added to this the club also renovated these five new activities; several hay rides, two polka dances, a roller skating party, a lawn display for homecoming, and an intramural basketball team that placed first in league competition and second in the tournament.

All these activities faded into nothing when the club decided to take the responsibility of putting on the Province Convention. After a busy month of preparation, the Convention was convened and held. It was a success that gave impetus to the activities and accomplishments of the club. It capped a successful year for those who put in long hours of preparation for this the highlight of the year.

Students are given an opportunity to eat at the Newman Center every Sunday evening at Newman's cost supper.

'Fantasticks' Opens Wednesday, Syse To Direct Musical Play

Robert Lowe as El Gallo and Ilona Hoover as Luisa sing a duet.

Opening Wednesday, June 28, "The Fantasticks" will run through Saturday, July 1, in the air-conditioned Little Theatre.

Sanford Syse of the University speech department directs the award-winning comedy musical that ran in New York, off Broadway, for more than five years.

A mixture of romance, broad comedy, morality play, tongue-in-cheek cynicism and tuneful songs, the production moves at a fast pace through the stages of boy finds girl, boy loses girl, boy gets girl.

Faculty, Students Picnic Tomorrow

Chicken and ice cream will be on the bill of fare for the annual all-school picnic tomorrow at 5 p.m.

Also on the menu will be baked beans, cole slaw and rolls, with punch for the children and coffee for adults.

Planned to take place on the Student Center Lawn, the picnic will move into the main dining room in case of rain.

All students and faculty members, as well as members of their families, are invited. Students on the meal plan will be issued special tickets. For all others, tickets at $1.00 each are on sale at the Student Center book store.

Recreation Program

Dr. Ben Bergerud, chairman of the physical education department, has announced new hours for swimming and recreation in Karges Center.

Swimming in the Karges pool will be available 6:30-8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 2-5 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday. Gym recreation has been scheduled for 2-5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 6-8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Summer Students Total 1412

Enrollment for the summer session at Wisconsin State University-River Falls totaled 1412 at the end of the first week.

The total includes 1141 registered for regular classes, 127 enrolled in two National Science Foundation Institutes, 81 who registered for the coaches clinic and 63 enrolled in the Horse Science school.

More students are expected to register for workshops that begin later in the session, according to Dr. Gordon Stone, director of the summer session.

The University offers four new workshops this summer: "Curriculum Trends for School Administrators," June 12-22; "Family Life and Sex Education," June 19-30; "Latin America," June 12-Aug. 4, and "Federal Aids for Elementary and Secondary Education," July 24-28.

A National Science Foundation Institute for junior high school science teachers is offered for the first time this summer, also.

NOTICES

Free tickets to the Falls Theatre movies listed on the calendar may be picked up at the Student Center bookstore.

Tickets for Showboat, Gullie Theatre and Twins games may be purchased at reduced rates in the bookstore and are available two weeks in advance of the scheduled events.

The summer edition of the Student Voice was edited by Mrs. Merlin Hansen.

Photographers have three different leaders

Three different students served as head photographer during the 1966-67 school year. Dave Kaempfer, Jay O'Meara and Dick Mielke led the staff fall quarter, winter quarter and spring quarter respectively.

Student photographers take pictures for The Student Voice, Meletean, Falcon Features, the Publicity Department and other private parties and organizations.

Prologue publishes two issues

The Prologue, under the leadership of editor-in-chief Christian Becker was published twice during the year. The first issue created much controversy which centered around the poem "Nursery Mom." The second edition which came out shortly before school ended was censored in part.

"The four poems which were to be contained in this magazine exemplified . . . both the spirit and the conscience of the times. We would have much preferred to have this judgment made by the students . . . Instead we have what amounts to political censorship, publication under prior restraint."

—The Editors

Christian Becker, Libby Miller, Cynthia Olson, David Sharp and Ann Yoost were Prologue editors. The advisor was Eugene Nolen.

Meletean 1968 loses advisor Dr. Jim Harless

Dr. Jim Harless, Meletean advisor for several years, is leaving River Falls to do research at the University of Alabama. We thank him for his help and consideration. Standing are Craig Middleton, Mary Lepori, Dave Dvorak. Seated are Dennis Stern and Kay Peterson.

SENIORS

Those last days meant...

kicking off heels at the prom contemplating by the river

taking a last ride down main street

digging for marbles in the mud stopping at the Dairy Queen to cool off times to remember...

Dean Rozehnal presents awards to outstanding seniors on honors day.

President Kleinpell gives an award to a deserving student.

A representative of the class of 1917, Mr. Laatsch greets friends at the annual senior-alumni banquet.

Mentored Student Life

Dave Kaempfer and daughter Emily spend the evening studying together.

Married Student Life

Some of the married students occupy the trailer court located one and a half miles north of River Falls.

Dave and Abby Kaempfer join forces in doing school work.

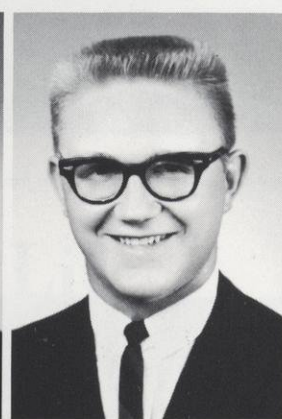

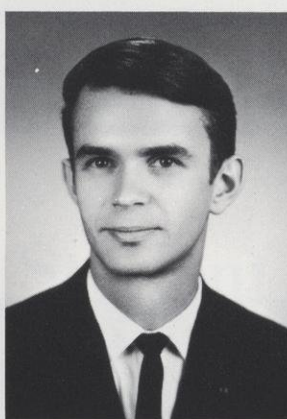

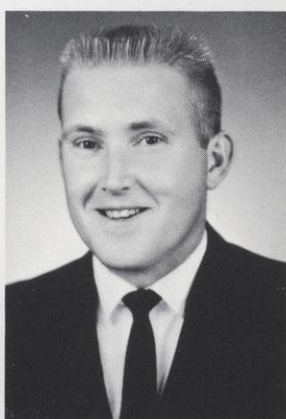

Many of the apartment buildings are located close to the University and provide adequate living space.

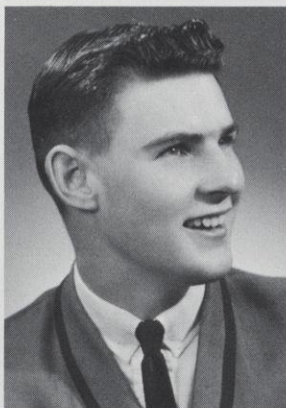

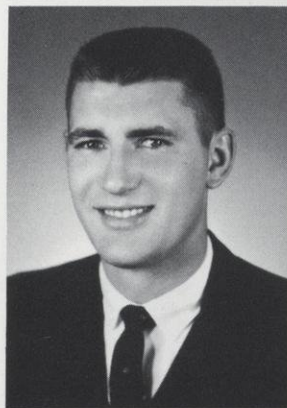

Senior officers are: Sylvia Wears, secretary; Carl Kozak, treasurer; Jim Bloomquist, vice president; Jack Brown, president.

WSU—River Falls offers more agriculture courses than any other college in the state

The agriculture curriculum at WSU-River Falls consists of 15 different majors in everything from Agriculture Engineering and Industrial Arts to Agriculture Education.

Agriculture also features an honors program, summer institutes, graduate work, the Agriculture Technology Contest in which approximately 50 schools participate, the River Falls Royal, the Cooperative Youth Congress, the Horse Science School and a wide program of scholarships including the John May and A. N. Johnson Scholarships.

This year 363 students were enrolled in agriculture in the liberal arts, and 178 students were enrolled in agriculture teaching.

Art has 98 student

The art department at WSU-RF offers to the student a comprehensive source of study designed to train the student in the techniques of the artist.

This year the department had 98 students majoring in art. Freshmen took design and drawing courses. Sophomores took art history, images and materials courses. Juniors and seniors take courses in a specific area, with the seniors presenting art shows in the Student Center Gallery.

Many of the art courses are techniques courses for teachers of art and for other public school teachers.

According to senior major, Laurel Funk, Art is closely related to whatever people do — art is life.

English Department offers 60 courses

The English Department is one of the largest departments in the University. It offers sixty courses, ranging from Freshman English to Graduate courses in composition, literature, language, linguistics and grammar, criticism, and humanities.

The English Department sponsors at least one well-known literary figure at an all-school convocation each year. This year the speaker was Walter Allen, British critic and author of The English Novel, Writers on Writing, and The Modern Novel in Britain and the United States.

The English Department now consists of 25 faculty with the addition of five members this year.

According to Dr. Walter Engler, head of the department, a study of English is basic to all English-speaking people. Literature helps people to understand themselves and others in the great human issues of life.

The Goble House was purchased by the University. Located behind the library, this private home has turned into a house of English offices complete with friendly atmosphere.

General Chemistry

The chemistry department used programmed learning for the first time for its general classes. Other significant developments in the department saw the Jr. High School Teachers of Science Institute receive $52,000 from the National Science Foundation and the department itself received $1200 from Minnesota Mining.

General enrollment in the fall for the 111 sequence was 18% over the previous year. The department contributed teachers to the Great Ideas and honors programs. Chemistry averages about 15-18 majors graduating per year. Last year eight went on to graduate school.

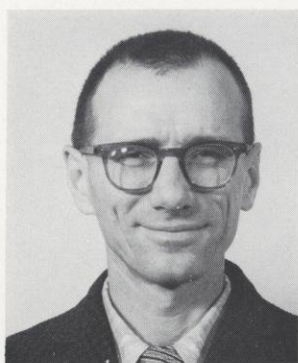

According to Associate Professor Emerson Garver, one of the purposes of the curriculum is to make River Falls students technologically literate in their field. He says biochemistry will force serious moral issues for the people of the future to resolve.

Music Department presents 33 programs

The Music Department this year presented 33 on-campus recitals and concerts and numerous off-campus appearances of faculty and student ensembles.

The department this year was authorized to offer as its main degree the Bachelor of Music Education. Two expansion positions were filled in vocal music and piano.

The Music Department at WSU-RF is unique in that it offers the only Elementary Music Major in the state. A staff of 13 faculty instruct 100 music majors and about 40 minors. The department offers a Liberal Arts Foundation course for the graduate school.

The Music Department prepares teachers of music, performers of music and intelligent consumers of the arts.

Philosophy School offers minor

The philosophy department has doubled in enrollment since last year and a minor is now being offered in this area.

Courses in philosophy range from the History of Philosophy to Ethics. A student will encounter the views of the greats from Plato and Aristotle to the more recent Locke, Hume and Sartre.

Eugene Maier and C. N. Stockton agree that the aim of philosophy is to help the student understand himself, his own ideas and his world by considering the ideas of others.

Sociology sponsors Quarter Abroad

The Sociology Department sponsors the Quarter Abroad Program of the University under the direction of Dr. Robert Bailey. Thirty-two students participated this summer. The Quarter Abroad Program is open to any student whether he is in sociology or not.

This year the department has eight faculty teaching courses in sociology, anthropology, social work and graduate work. The Field Work class in Social Work taught by Mr. Mockenhaupt places students two days a week in agencies in Ellsworth, Mpls. and St. Paul.

Students majoring in sociology are interested in people. They tend to become sociology teachers, researchers or social workers. Many go into the Peace Corps or Vista.

Louis Lomax spoke to students about the Negro in America. He said he agrees that the peace-in-Viet Nam cause should be allied with the civil rights cause.

Professor Raymond Mack, Chairman of the Sociology Department at Northwestern, spoke to students about trends in modern American social processes. He noted that in 1790, 80% of the population was self-employed and that 20% worked for others. Now the percentages are reversed, he said. He spoke of the middle-aged woman who wrote a letter complaining about the space program. "Why don't you NASA men stay home and watch TV like the good Lord intended?" she asked.

Class Mistaken In War Protest

Surrounded by police and television cameras, the River Falls criminology class was nearly apprehended as war protesters a week ago in Chicago.

The class, sociology 345, was on a field trip under the direction of Dr. Robert B. Bailey, chairman of the sociology department. The group had been visiting skid-row and other Chicago areas when they passed a site which was the scene of a recent mass draft card burning. They were stopped by police and proceeded only after showing that the literature they were carrying was the Cook County Jail newspaper rather than peace literature.

Dr. Bailey said, "Some students say they learn more on this weekend than they learn in any class. I never know whether to be complimented or insulted by this remark. Perhaps we need fewer classes and more direct contacts with society."

One-half hour after arriving in Chicago, the group was already at police headquarters for a two-hour tour. The facilities include ultra-modern electronic and computerized crime reporting and recording devices, an extensive crime laboratory and a computerized fingerprinting department. On Friday the group visited various courts in-session including boys' court, women's court, domestic court and rackets' court.

Local journalism emphasized

The first of the state universities to have a journalism major, River Falls is continuing its accent on community journalism. Courses such as beginning reporting, Public Opinion and Propaganda and Communications Theory help prepare graduates to be newspaper editors and reporters, radio newsmen, industrial magazine editors and college and high school journalism teachers.

The editor of the Royal Purple, Whitewater, receives her award for the best newspaper at the annual publications conferences, this year held in River Falls.

Library to add 10,000 new books

Mr. Richard Cooklock says that the Chalmer-Davee Library will soon add over 10,000 new books and over 400 new magazine titles. The library offers source material to supplement regular classroom instruction with microfilm, records and research aids.

Library science offers a full minor of 11 basic courses. Eighty students are library science minors at WSU-River Falls. On graduating they will be qualified candidates for certification as school librarians in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Cooklock says that one learns to use a library as a part of learning to learn. Self-instruction is an activity that one can pursue all his life.

Geography Department starts cartography

This year the geography department started a two-year program in cartography, the science of map-making. This is unique in the state University system. The department added new courses and the approximately 600 students in this curriculum represents a 1/3 increase over last year's enrollment.

Geography is a physical and social science which tries to explain in depth the interrelationship between man and his environment, and according to Assistant Professor John Mosher, this just about encompasses everything.

department in its own right

The history department this year sponsored the World Affairs Forum featuring speakers from France, Poland, Germany and Russia. The history department added specialists in medieval history, U.S. Colonial and European Intellectual History. New faculty members were also added in U.S. Intellectual History, Latin American and Far East History.

With the aid of a federal grant, a full-time archivist was hired. The Area Research Center, an extension of the State Historical Society, makes government documents, personal papers, and other records available to students and the general public for information and research. Graduate offerings reached a more sophisticated level. Many of the staff members wrote scholarly papers. The History Club and Phi Alpha Theta increased in membership.

The history department at WSU-RF was created with a world emphasis instead of the traditional American-European. The 11 faculty members give the department remarkable diversity in specialized areas.

Dr. E.N. Peterson, department head, said that the courses provide material for personal and social decision. "More importantly, no person is really living unless he has a knowledge of history," he added.

The department reorganized the administrative set-up with a person heading each of the following divisions: 1. graduate physical education. 2. professional women's physical education. 3. men's professional physical education. 4. service physical education. All these are responsible to the Director of Physical Education.

The Psychology Department at WSU-River Falls has the highest percentage of professional psychologists on the staff in comparison with the other eight state universities. The department was the first to have a psychology minor and one of the first to offer a major.

Two full-time faculty were added this year. Also the entire department moved from North Hall into the building formerly occupied by the College of Agriculture. Dr. Sheldon Baker and Dr. Edward Selden prepared articles for publication.

This year 20 different courses were offered from Psychology 150 through Psychology 480 including several graduate courses.

Dr. Selden, department head, says that an understanding of the findings of psychology is beneficial to the individual in observing and understanding his own behavior and the behavior of others. The department aims to develop in students an objective attitude toward behavior and also to prepare students for further professional study.

Ames Lab trains elementary teachers

The main objective of the Ames Laboratory School is to prepare elementary teachers for their important job of guiding young children. As our society increases technologically, there is an increased need for teachers to be adequately trained in the problems and techniques of successful teaching. Ames Laboratory School strives to give its student teachers this training.

An important part of the past year's program was a major study of the effects that availability of Audio Visual materials have on teacher techniques and pupil learning.

The Ames Laboratory School is a significant part of the RF campus. Besides training teachers, it provides for teaching youngsters in innovative, experimental ways and in so doing, plays a dual educational role — both of them very important.

Asian Government studies added

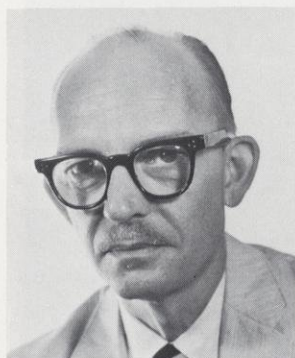

The Political Science department offers courses in U.S. and foreign governments and politics. This includes such areas as public administration, U.S. constitutional development, and U.S. foreign policy, among others. These courses strive to give students a better understanding of the political process, and in so doing, to prepare graduates to function more adequately in our society — where government has come to play such a significant role. This year saw the addition of a program of studies in Asian government and politics. This expansion of offerings was well in line with the growing impact of events in Asia on American policy making. The department itself includes a staff of five full-time people.

Perhaps the highpoint of the year for the Political Science Department was the sponsoring of the Annual Grassroots Politics Conference aimed at encouraging interest and participation in partisan politics by college graduates. It might also be noted that few schools can boast of presenting the realistic view of political life afforded by this particular kind of program.

Clark Mac Gregor, Congressman from Minnesota, spoke about morality and politics and Adam Clayton Powell at the Grassroots Conference.

George Rice, WCCO news analyst, makes a reply to a question after a Grassroots panel discussion.

In tribute to

President E. H. Kleinpell

President Kleinpell always had time for students.

Nineteen-sixty-seven will be known as the year that Dr. E.H. Kleinpell resigned as President at WSU-River Falls. After holding the position for 21 years, Kleinpell wrote a letter to Eugene R. McPhee, Director of State Colleges, "After 25 years as a college and university president, 21 in Wisconsin, I have reluctantly come to the conclusion that I have exhausted my storehouse of energy. The demands upon administrators of higher education institutions increases each passing month. I no longer feel that I can meet the challenge as I have in the past."

Enrollment at River Falls has increased five-fold since Kleinpell became president. The 1967 Meletean salutes the only Wisconsin president whose tenure spanned the growth of the state institutions from Teachers Colleges to State Universities.

He is a man who means much to us.

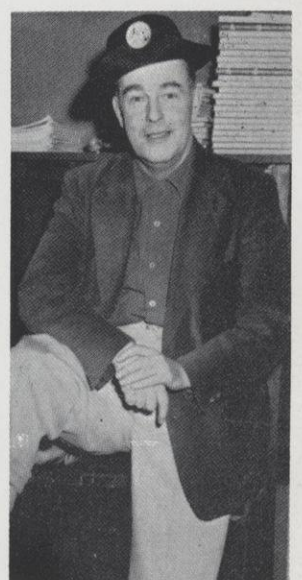

Miss Irma Hathorn and Dr. Kleinpell watch as the cornerstone of Hathorn Hall is set in 1950.

Dr. Kleinpell poses with Carl Rowan (third from right) after graduation exercises 1966.

President Kleinpell was known as a sincere and interesting speaker.

"Joe College." These pictures were taken shortly after Dr. Kleinpell became president in 1946.

Dr. Melvin L. Wall, chairman of the plant and earth science department in the College of Agriculture, was killed Friday, March 24, in a plane crash in Viet Nam. He and seven others were surveying institutions of higher learning in Viet Nam.

Raymond Wall, Agriculture Education Instructor and faculty member for ten years, died early in the year after an illness.

In tribute

The 1967 Meletean wishes to offer sympathy to the families of Dr. Melvin Wall and Mr. Raymond Wall, both who died this year. Four other faculty members retired and Dr. E.J. Rozehnal resigned as Dean of Students. To these people we can only offer thanks for years of work, love, and dedication.

The following tribute to Dr. Melvin Wall, honored as distinguished alumnus at the River Falls commencement exercises, was written by Eugene R. McPhee, Director of the Wisconsin State Universities:

"President Albertson and members of Dr. Wall's team were men of great courage who gave their lives for a cause in which they believed deeply.

They were front line soldiers in the long-range war of ideas. Their weapons were books instead of bullets. Their objective was to help develop universities in which young people of southeast Asia could seek truth to guide them in deciding their own destiny."

In a letter from Viet Nam dated Feb. 5, Dr. Wall gave an example of the concern for people that is evident in all the people on these two pages:

"The university at Can Tho is "brand new but has a great prospect for the future. This is the institution that was started in the Mekong Delta by people of the area. They want a university that will serve the needs of the people. The Minister of Education is behind the school, so it may be a breakthrough for higher education here."

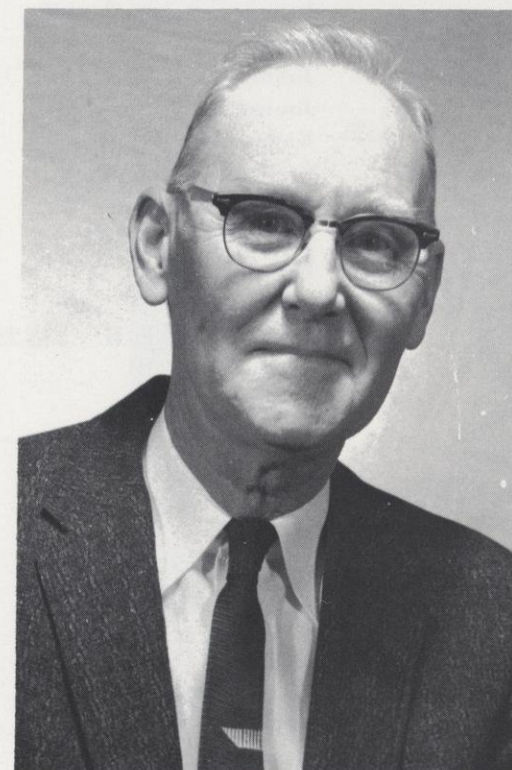

Melvin Wall was one of eight U.S. educators serving with the U.S. Agency for International Development in Viet Nam. He taught at River Falls for 27 years.

of work, love and dedication

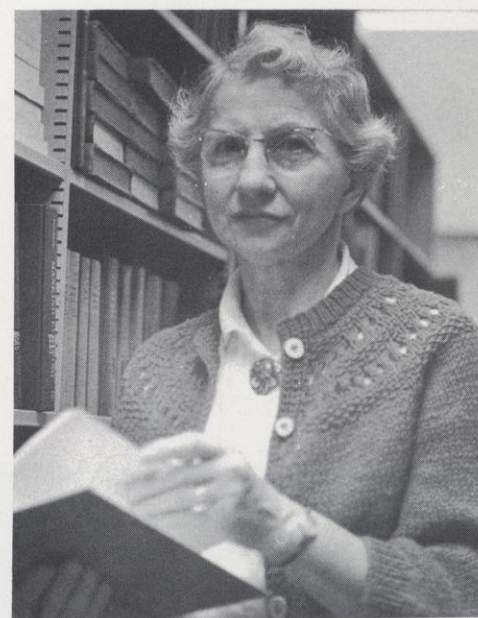

Dr. Catherine Lieneman announced her retirement this year after teaching biology at River Falls for over 30 years. She has been an active member of the Association of Wisconsin State University Faculties and has served as state treasurer and state vice president.

After 32 years of teaching at River Falls, Dr. B. H. Kettelkamp resigned this year. Kettelkamp, head of the Biology Department, is often asked to speak at alumni gatherings. In 1965 he shared the Professor of the Year Award on campus. One student remarked that "Bennie" always told every class he had that it was the worst class he ever had, "but I know he is only concerned with our education," the student added.

Dr. B. J. Rozehnal announced his resignation as Dean of Students this year. Rozehnal, who became Dean of Students in 1955, saw this institution's enrollment grow from 500 to 3500. Under his leadership, the personnel division now has 19 staff members.

Miss Gudrun Hoidahl, associate professor and librarian since 1962, announced her retirement this year.

Mrs. Leona Cooper, Ames Laboratory School, also announced her retirement this year. She joined the college staff in 1960. She formerly was principal of the Burlington, Iowa, school system.

Dr. Rozehnal first came to River Falls in 1932 as an instructor in music. In 1946 he became the acting chairman of the Music Department.

In Closing

The 1967 Meletean began with the philosophy of Glen Hanson, Illinois professor, who said, "Yearbooks are not passe." It has ended this way. But this year's experience has made me wonder just what a yearbook can do.

I have a feeling that there is something undiscovered, something which we didn't accomplish, something which is potentially satisfying about yearbooks that we didn't find.

What we did find was that working on a yearbook can be a story of life — frustration mixed with success, planning, working, learning and goofing around. As an editor of the Augsburgian yearbook once said, "You can learn about people from working on a yearbook. It's interesting to watch the changes in character of the people you work with as the year progresses."

A story of life, of people, is the same one as the story of a university. Glen Hanson hinted that college students seem to symbolically represent men everywhere because of their great diversity and things and feelings in common. The people is Everyman in that we experience so much of the same things others do, and yet we are diverse.

This yearbook started at the Coffeehouse, a place for people of different backgrounds to meet, talk, listen to readings and music, eat donuts, sing songs, and maybe get to know someone. As the Coffeehouse Committee said, "This is a place of ever growing possibilities." This oneness and yet diversity is something I hope can grow on this campus.

We tried to use layout and copy techniques as used in Look and Life magazines. The story of people and campus life is an exciting one, and the magazine approach of recording the unique, crystallizing the moment and offering constructive criticism for the future is one that I thought fit WSU-River Falls.

Next year I hope all yearbook staff members will receive a fair wage for their labor. I recommend charging organizations about 25 dollars per page and putting this money in a Senate fund to be used exclusively for payment of all Meletean workers.

I want to thank the staff, Dr. Harless, Mrs. Merlin Hansen, photographers Dick "Ace" Mielke, Mark "Hazard" Backes, Jay O'Meara and Dave Kaempfer, and all those who contributed artwork, pictures, information, time and effort to the 1967 Meletean. Thank you for trusting us to work on your publication, the yearbook.

Dennis Stern.

*Love, with little hands,
Comes and touches you
with a thousand memories, and asks you
Beautiful, unanswerable questions.
